In the beginning God created the heauen and the earth. And the earth was without forme and void, and darkenesse was vpon the deepe, and the Spirit of God mooued vpon the waters. Then God said, Let there be light: And there was light. And God saw the light that it was good, and God separated the light from the darkenes. And God called the Light, Day, and the darkenes, he called Night. So the euening and the morning were the first day. Againe God said, Let there be a firmament in the mids of the waters: and let it separate the waters from the waters. Then God made the firmament, and separated the waters, which were vnder the firmament, from the waters which were aboue the firmament: and it was so. And God called the firmament Heauen. So the Euening and the morning were the second day. God said againe, Let the waters vnder the heauen be gathered into one place, and let the dry land appeare. and it was so. And God called the dry land, Earth, and he called the gathering together of the waters, Seas: and God saw that it was good. Then God said, Let the earth bud forth the bud of the herbe, that seedeth seed, the fruitfull tree, which beareth fruite according to his kinde, which hath his seede in it selfe vpon the earth: and it was so. And the earth brought foorth the bud of the herbe, that seedeth seede according to his kind, also the tree that beareth fruit, which hath his seed in it selfe according to his kinde: and God saw that it was good. So the euening and the morning were the third day. And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heauen, to separate the day from the night, and let them be for signes, and for seasons, and for dayes and yeeres. And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heauen to giue light vpon the earth: and it was so. God then made two great lights: the greater light to rule the day, and the lesse light to rule the night: he made also the starres. And God set them in the firmament of the heauen, to shine vpon the earth, And to rule in the day, and in the night, and to separate the light from the darkenesse: and God saw that it was good. So the euening and the morning were the fourth day. Afterward God said, Let the waters bring foorth in abundance euery creeping thing that hath life: and let the foule flie vpon the earth in the open firmament of the heauen. Then God created the great whales, and euery thing liuing and moueing, which the waters brought foorth in abundance according to their kinde, and euery fethered foule according to his kinde: and God sawe that it was good. Then God blessed them, saying, Bring foorth fruite and multiplie, and fill the waters in the seas, and let the foule multiplie in the earth. So the euening and the morning were the fifte day. Moreouer God said, Let the earth bring foorth the liuing thing according to his kinde, cattel, and that which creepeth, and the beast of the earth, according to his kinde. and it was so. And God made the beast of the earth according to his kinde, and the cattell according to his kinde, and euery creeping thing of the earth according to his kind: and God saw that it was good. Furthermore God said, Let vs make man in our image according to our likenes, and let them rule ouer the fish of the sea, and ouer the foule of the heauen, and ouer the beastes, and ouer all the earth, and ouer euery thing that creepeth and moueth on the earth. Thus God created the man in his image: in the image of God created he him: he created them male and female. And God blessed them, and God said to them, Bring forth fruite and multiplie, and fill the earth, and subdue it, and rule ouer the fish of the sea, and ouer the foule of the heauen, and ouer the beastes, and ouer all the earth, and ouer euery thing that creepeth and moueth on the earth. And God said, Beholde, I haue giuen vnto you euery herbe bearing seede, which is vpon al the earth, and euery tree, wherein is the fruite of a tree bearing seede: that shall be to you for meate. Likewise to euery beast of the earth, and to euery foule of the heauen, and to euery thing that moueth vpon the earth, which hath life in it selfe, euery greene herbe shall be for meate. and it was so. And God sawe all that he had made, and loe, it was very good. So the euening and the morning were the sixt day.

Thus the heauens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. For in the seuenth day GOD ended his worke which he had made, and the seuenth day he rested from al his worke, which he had made. So God blessed the seuenth day, and sanctified it, because that in it he had rested from all his worke, which God had created and made. These are the generations of the heauens and of the earth, when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heauens, And euery plant of the fielde, before it was in the earth, and euery herbe of the field, before it grewe: for the Lord God had not caused it to raine vpon the earth, neither was there a man to till the ground, But a myst went vp from the earth, and watered all the earth.
The Lord God also made the man of the dust of the grounde, and breathed in his face breath of life, and the man was a liuing soule. And the Lord God planted a garden Eastward in Eden, and there he put the man whom he had made. (For out of the ground made the Lord God to grow euery tree pleasant to the sight, and good for meate: the tree of life also in the mids of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and of euill. And out of Eden went a riuer to water the garden, and from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heads. The name of one is Pishon: the same compasseth the whole land of Hauilah, where is golde. And the golde of that land is good: there is Bdelium, and the Onix stone. And the name of the seconde riuer is Gihon: the same compasseth the whole lande of Cush. The name also of the third riuer is Hiddekel: this goeth toward the Eastside of Asshur: and the fourth riuer is Perath) Then the Lord God tooke the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, that he might dresse it and keepe it. And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Thou shalt eate freely of euery tree of the garden, But of the tree of knowledge of good and euill, thou shalt not eate of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt die the death. Also the Lord God saide, It is not good that the man should be himself alone: I wil make him an helpe meete for him. So the Lord God formed of the earth euery beast of the fielde, and euery foule of the heauen, and brought them vnto the man to see howe he would call them: for howsoever the man named the liuing creature, so was the name thereof. The man therefore gave names unto all cattell, and to the foule of the heauen, and to every beast of the fielde: but for Adam founde he not an helpe meete for him. Therefore the Lord God caused an heauie sleepe to fall vpon the man, and he slept: and he tooke one of his ribbes, and closed vp the flesh in steade thereof. And the ribbe which the Lord God had taken from the man, made he a woman, and brought her to the man.
Then the man said, This now is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh. She shalbe called woman, because she was taken out of man. Therefore shall man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleaue to his wife, and they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Now the serpent was more subtill then any beast of the fielde, which the Lord God had made: and he said to the woman, Yea, hath God in deede said, Ye shall not eate of euery tree of the garden? And the woman said vnto the serpent, We eate of the fruite of the trees of the garden, But of the fruite of the tree which is in the middes of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eate of it, neither shall ye touche it, lest ye die. Then the serpent said to the woman, Ye shall not die at all, But God doeth knowe, that when ye shall eate thereof, your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and euill. So the woman (seeing that the tree was good for meate, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to get knowledge) tooke of the fruite thereof, and did eate, and gaue also to her husband with her, and he did eate. Then the eyes of them both were opened, and they knewe that they were naked, and they sewed figge tree leaues together, and made them selues breeches.
Afterward they heard the voyce of the Lord God walking in the garden in the coole of the day, and the man and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God among the trees of the garden. But the Lord God called to the man, and said vnto him, Where art thou? Who saide, I heard thy voyce in the garden, and was afraide: because I was naked, therefore I hid my selfe. And he saide, Who tolde thee, that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eate? Then the man saide, The woman which thou gauest to be with me, she gaue me of the tree, and I did eate. And the Lord God saide to the woman, Why hast thou done this? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eate. Then the Lord God said to the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattell, and above every beast of the fielde: vpon thy belly shalt thou goe, and dust shalt thou eate all the dayes of thy life. I will also put enimitie betweene thee and the woman, and betweene thy seede and her seede. He shall breake thine head, and thou shalt bruise his heele. Vnto the woman he said, I will greatly increase thy sorowes, and thy conceptions. In sorowe shalt thou bring foorth children, and thy desire shalbe subjict to thine husband, and he shall rule ouer thee. Also to Adam he said, Because thou hast obeyed the voyce of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, (whereof I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eate of it) cursed is the earth for thy sake: in sorowe shalt thou eate of it all the dayes of thy life. Thornes also, and thistles shall it bring foorth to thee, and thou shalt eate the herbe of the fielde. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou eate bread, till thou returne to the earth: for out of it wast thou taken, because thou art dust, and to dust shalt thou returne. (And the man called his wiues name Heuah, because she was the mother of all liuing) Vnto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coates of skinnes, and clothed them. And the Lord God said, Beholde, the man is become as one of vs, to knowe good and euill. And nowe lest he put foorth his hand, and take also of ye tree of life and eate and liue for euer, Therefore the Lord God sent him foorth from the garden of Eden, to till ye earth, whence he was taken. Thus he cast out man, and at the East side of the garden of Eden he set the Cherubims, and the blade of a sworde shaken, to keepe the way of the tree of life.

Afterward the man knew Heuah his wife, which conceiued and bare Kain, and said, I haue obteined a man by the Lord. And againe she brought foorth his brother Habel, and Habel was a keeper of sheepe, and Kain was a tiller of the ground. And in processe of time it came to passe, that Kain brought an oblation vnto the Lord of the fruite of the ground. And Habel also him selfe brought of the first fruites of his sheepe, and of the fat of them, and the Lord had respect vnto Habel, and to his offering, But vnto Kain and to his offering he had no regarde: wherefore Kain was exceeding wroth, and his countenance fell downe. Then ye Lord said vnto Kain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance cast downe? If thou do well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sinne lieth at the doore: also vnto thee his desire shalbe subiect, and thou shalt rule ouer him. Then Kain spake to Habel his brother. And when they were in the fielde, Kain rose vp against Habel his brother, and slewe him. Then the Lord said vnto Kain, Where is Habel thy brother? Who answered, I cannot tell. Am I my brothers keeper? Againe he said, What hast thou done? the voyce of thy brothers blood cryeth vnto me from the earth. Now therefore thou art cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receiue thy brothers blood from thine hand. When thou shalt till the grounde, it shall not henceforth yeelde vnto thee her strength: a vagabond and a runnagate shalt thou be in the earth. Then Kain said to the Lord, My punishment is greater, then I can beare. Behold, thou hast cast me out this day from the earth, and from thy face shall I be hid, and shalbe a vagabond, and a runnagate in the earth, and whosoeuer findeth me, shall slay me. Then the Lord said vnto him, Doubtlesse whosoeuer slayeth Kain, he shalbe punished seue folde. And the Lord set a marke vpon Kain, lest any man finding him should kill him. Then Kain went out from the presence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land of Nod towarde the Eastside of Eden. Kain also knewe his wife, which conceiued and bare Henoch: and he built a citie, and called the name of the citie by ye name of his sonne, Henoch. And to Henoch was borne Irad, and Irad begate Mehuiael, and Mehuiael begate Methushael, and Methushael begate Lamech. And Lamech tooke him two wiues: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah. And Adah bare Iabal, who was the father of such as dwell in the tents, and of such as haue cattell. And his brothers name was Iubal, who was the father of all that play on the harpe and organes. And Zillah also bare Tubal-kain, who wrought cunningly euery craft of brasse and of yron: and the sister of Tubal-kain was Naamah. Then Lamech saide vnto his wiues Adah and Zillah, Heare my voyce, ye wiues of Lamech: hearken vnto my speach: for I would slay a man in my wound, and a yong man in mine hurt. If Kain shalbe auenged seuen folde, truely Lamech, seuentie times seuen folde. And Adam knewe his wife againe, and she bare a sonne, and she called his name Sheth: for God, saide she, hath appointed me another seede for Habel, because Kain slewe him. And to ye same Sheth also there was borne a sonne, and he called his name Enosh. Then beganne men to call vpon the name of the Lord.

This is the booke of the generations of Adam. In the day that God created Adam, in the likenes of God made he him, Male and female created he them, and blessed them, and called their name Adam in the day that they were created. Nowe Adam liued an hundred and thirtie yeeres, and begate a childe in his owne likenes after his image, and called his name Sheth. And the dayes of Adam, after he had begotten Sheth, were eight hundreth yeeres, and he begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes that Adam liued, were nine hundreth and thirtie yeeres: and he died. And Sheth liued an hundreth and fiue yeeres, and begate Enosh. And Sheth liued, after he begate Enosh, eight hundreth and seuen yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Sheth were nine hundreth and twelue yeeres: and he died. Also Enosh liued ninety yeeres, and begate Kenan. And Enosh liued, after he begate Kenan, eight hundreth and fifteene yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Enosh were nine hundreth and fiue yeeres: and he died Likewise Kenan liued seuentie yeeres, and begate Mahalaleel. And Kenan liued, after he begate Mahalaleel, eight hundreth and fourtie yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Kenan were nine hundreth and tenne yeeres: and he died. Mahalaleel also liued sixtie and fiue yeeres, and begate Iered. Also Mahalaleel liued, after he begate Iered, eight hundreth and thirtie yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Mahalaleel were eight hundreth ninetie and fiue yeeres: and he died. And Iered liued an hundreth sixtie and two yeeres, and begate Henoch. Then Iered liued, after he begate Henoch, eight hundreth yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Iered were nine hundreth sixtie and two yeeres: and he died. Also Henoch liued sixtie and fiue yeeres, and begate Methushelah. And Henoch walked with God, after he begate Methushelah, three hundreth yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Henoch were three hundreth sixtie and fiue yeeres. And Henoch walked with God, and he was no more seen: for God took him away. Methuselah also liued an hundred and eightie and seuen yeeres, and begate Lamech. And Methuselah liued, after he begate Lamech, seuen hundred and eightie and two yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixtie and nine yeeres: and he died. Then Lamech liued an hundred eightie and two yeeres, and begate a sonne, And called his name Noah, saying, This same shall comfort vs concerning our worke and sorowe of our hands, as touching the earth, which the Lord hath cursed. And Lamech liued, after he begate Noah, five hundred ninetie and fiue yeeres, and begate sonnes and daughters. So all the dayes of Lamech were seuen hundred seuentie and seuen yeeres: and he died. And Noah was five hundred yeere olde. And Noah begate Shem, Ham and Iapheth.

So when men began to be multiplied vpon the earth, and there were daughters borne vnto them, Then the sonnes of God sawe the daughters of men that they were faire, and they tooke them wiues of all that they liked. Therefore the Lord saide, My Spirit shall not alway striue with man, because he is but flesh, and his dayes shalbe an hundred and twentie yeeres. There were gyants in the earth in those dayes: yea, and after that the sonnes of God came vnto the daughters of men, and they had borne them children, these were mightie men, which in olde time were men of renoume. When the Lord sawe that the wickednesse of man was great in the earth, and all the imaginations of the thoughtes of his heart were onely euill continually, Then it repented ye Lord, that he had made man in the earth, and he was sorie in his heart. Therefore ye Lord said, I will destroy from the earth the man, whom I haue created, from man to beast, to the creeping thing, and to the foule of the heauen: for I repent that I haue made them. But Noah found grace in the eyes of the Lord. These are the generations of Noah. Noah was a iust and vpright man in his time: and Noah walked with God. And Noah begate three sonnes, Shem, Ham and Iapheth. The earth also was corrupt before God: for the earth was filled with crueltie. Then God looked vpon the earth, and beholde, it was corrupt: for all flesh had corrupt his way vpon the earth. And God said vnto Noah, An ende of all flesh is come before me: for the earth is filled with crueltie through them: and beholde, I wil destroy them with the earth. Make thee an Arke of pine trees: thou shalt make cabines in the Arke, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. And thus shalt thou make it: The length of the Arke shall be three hundred cubites, the breadth of it fifty cubites, and the height of it thirtie cubites. A windowe shalt thou make in the Arke, and in a cubite shalt thou finish it aboue, and the doore of the Arke shalt thou set in the side thereof: thou shalt make it with the lowe, seconde and third roume. And I, beholde, I will bring a flood of waters vpon the earth to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life vnder the heauen: all that is in the earth shall perish. But with thee will I establish my couenant, and thou shalt goe into the Arke, thou, and thy sonnes, and thy wife, and thy sonnes wiues with thee. And of every liuing thing, of all flesh two of every sort shalt thou cause to come into the Arke, to keepe them aliue with thee: they shalbe male and female. Of the foules, after their kinde, and of the cattell after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kinde, two of every sort shall come vnto thee, that thou mayest keepe them aliue. And take thou with thee of all meate that is eaten: and thou shalt gather it to thee, that it may be meate for thee and for them. Noah therefore did according vnto all, that God commanded him: euen so did he.

And the Lord said vnto Noah, Enter thou and all thine house into the Arke: for thee haue I seene righteous before me in this age. Of every cleane beast thou shalt take to thee by seuens, the male and his female: but of vnCLEANE beastes by couples, the male and his female. Of the foules also of the heauen by seuens, male and female, to keepe seede aliue vpon the whole earth. For seuen dayes hence I will cause it raine vpon the earth fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes, and all the substance that I haue made, will I destroy from off the earth. Noah therefore did according vnto all that the Lord commanded him. And Noah was sixe hundreth yeeres olde, when the flood of waters was vpon the earth. So Noah entred and his sonnes, and his wife, and his sonnes wiues with him into the Arke, because of the waters of the flood. Of the cleane beastes, and of the vnCLEANE beastes, and of the foules, and of all that creepeth vpon the earth, There came two and two vnto Noah into the Arke, male and female, as God had commanded Noah. And so after seuen dayes the waters of the flood were vpon the earth. In the sixe hundreth yeere of Noahs life in the second moneth, the seuetenth day of the moneth, in the same day were all the fountaines of the great deepe broken vp, and the windowes of heauen were opened, And the raine was vpon the earth fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes. In the selfe same day entred Noah with Shem, and Ham and Iapheth, the sonnes of Noah, and Noahs wife, and the three wiues of his sonnes with them into the Arke. They and every beast after his kinde, and all cattell after their kinde, and every thing that creepeth and moueth vpon the earth after his kinde, and every foule after his kinde, euue every bird of every fether. For they came to Noah into ye Arke, two and two, of all flesh wherein is ye breath of life. And they entring in, came male and female of all flesh, as God had commanded him: and the Lord shut him in. Then ye flood was fourtie dayes vpon the earth, and the waters were increased, and bare vp the Arke, which was lift vp aboue the earth. The waters also waxed strong, and were increased exceedingly vpon the earth, and the Arke went vpon the waters. The waters preuailed so exceedingly vpon the earth, that all the high mountaines, that are vnder the whole heauen, were couered. Fifteene cubites vpwarde did the waters preuaile, when the mountaines were couered. Then all flesh perished that moued vpon the earth, both foule and cattell and beast, and every thing that creepeth and moueth vpon the earth, and every man. Every thing in whose nostrels the spirit of life did breathe, whatsoeuer they were in the drie land, they died. So he destroyed every thing that was vpon the earth, from man to beast, to ye creeping thing, and to the foule of the heauen: they were euene destroyed from the earth. And Noah onely remained; and they that were with him in ye Arke. And the waters preuailed vpon the earth an hundreth and fiftie dayes.

Now God remembred Noah and every beast, and all the cattell that was with him in the Arke: therefore God made a winde to passe vpon the earth, and the waters ceased. The fountaines also of the deepe and the windowes of heauen were stopped and the raine from heauen was restrained. And the waters returned from aboue the earth, going and returning: and after the ende of the hundreth and fiftieth day the waters abated. And in the seventh moneth, in the seuenteenth day of the moneth, the Arke rested upon the mountaines of Ararat. And the waters were going and decreasing vntill the tenth moneth: in the tenth moneth, and in the first day of the moneth were the toppes of the mountaines scene. So after fourtie dayes, Noah opened the windowe of the Arke, which he had made, And sent forth a rauen, which went out going forth and returning, vntill the waters were dried vp vpon the earth. Againe he sent a doue from him, that he might see if the waters were diminished from off the earth. But the doue found no rest for the sole of her foote: therefore she returned vnto him into the Arke (for the waters were vpon the whole earth) and he put forth his hand, and receiued her, and tooke her to him into the Arke. And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and againe he sent forth the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to him in ye euening, and loe, in her mouth was an oliue leafe that she had pluckt: whereby Noah knewe that the waters were abated from off the earth. Notwithstanding he wayted yet other seuen dayes, and sent forth the doue, which returned not againe vnto him any more. And in the sixe hundreth and one yeere, in the first day of the first moneth the waters were dried vp from off the earth: and Noah remoued the couering of the Arke and looked, and beholde, the vpper part of the ground was drie. And in the second moneth, in the seuen and twentieth day of the moneth was the earth drie. Then God spake to Noah, saying, Goe forth of the Arke, thou and thy wife, and thy sonnes and thy sonnes wiues with thee. Bring forth with thee euery beast that is with thee, of all flesh, both foule and cattell, and euery thing that creepeth and moueth vpon the earth, that they may breede abundantly in ye earth, and bring forth fruite and increase vpon ye earth. So Noah came forth, and his sonnes, and his wife, and his sonnes wiues with him. Euery beast, euery creeping thing, and euery foule, all that moueth vpon the earth after their kindes went out of the Arke. Then Noah built an altar to the Lord and tooke of euery cleane beast, and of euery cleane foule, and offered burnt offerings vpon the altar. And the Lord smelled a sauour of rest, and the Lord said in his heart, I will hencefoorth curse the ground no more for mans cause: for the imagination of mans heart is euill, euen from his youth: neither will I smite any more all things liuing, as I haue done. Hereafter seede time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease, so long as ye earth remaineth.

9 And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said to them, 2 Bring forth fruit, and multiply, and replenish the earth. Also the fear of you, and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the heaven, upon all that moueth on the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea: into your hand are they delivered. Every thing that moueth and liueth, shall be meate for you: as the green herbe, haue I giuen you all things. But flesh with the life thereof, I meane, with the blood thereof, shall ye not eate. For surely I will require your blood, wherein your liues are: at the hand of every beast will I require it: and at the hand of man, even at the hand of a mans brother will I require the life of man. Who so sheadeth mans blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God hath he made man. But bring ye forth fruit and multiply: grow plentifully in the earth, and increase therein. God spake also to Noah and to his sons with him, saying, Behold, I, even I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you. And with every living creature that is with you, with the fowl, with the cattle, and with every beast of the earth with you, from all that goe out of the Arke, unto every beast of the earth. And my covenant will I establish with you, that from henceforth all flesh shall not be rooted out by ye waters of the flood, neither shall there be a flood to destroy the earth any more. Then God said, This is the token of the covenant which I make betwene me and you, and betwene every living thing, that is with you unto perpetuall generations. I haue set my bowe in the cloud, and it shalbe for a signe of the covenant betwene me and the earth. And when I shall cover the earth with a cloud, and the bowe shall be seene in the cloud, Then will I remember my covenant, which is betwene me and you, and betwene every living thing in all flesh, and there shalbe no more waters of a flood to destroy all flesh. Therefore the bowe shalbe in the cloud, that I may see it, and remember the eu everlasting covenant betwene God, and every living thing in all flesh that is vpon the earth. God said yet to Noah, This is the signe of the covenant, which I haue established betwene me and all flesh that is vpon the earth. Nowe the sons of Noah going foorth of the Arke, were Shem and Ham and Iapheth. And Ham is the father of Canaan. These are the three sons of Noah, and of them was the whole earth overspread. Noah also began to be an husband man and planted a vineyard. And he drunke of ye wine and was drunken, and was vncovered in the middes of his tent. And when Ham the father of Canaan sawe the nakednesse of his father, he tolde his two brethren without. Then tooke Shem and Iapheth a garment, and put it vpon both their shoulders, and went backwarde, and couered the nakednesse of their father with their faces backwarde: so they sawe not their fathers nakednesse. Then Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his yonger sonne had done vnto him, And said, Cursed be Canaan: a seruant of seruants shall he be vnto his brethren. He said moreouer, blessed be the Lord God of Shem, and let Canaan be his seruant. God perswade Iapheth, that he may dwell in the tentes of Shem, and let Canaan be his seruant. And Noah liued after the flood three hundreth and fiftie yeeres. So all the dayes of Noah were nine hundreth and fiftie yeeres: and he died.

Now these are the generations of the sons of Noah, Shem, Ham and Iapheth: vnto whom sons were borne after the flood. The sons of Iapheth were Gomer and Magog, and Madai, and Iauan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras. And the sons of Gomer, Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah. Also the sons of Iauan, Elishah and Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim. Of these were the yles of the Gentiles deuided in their landes, euery man after his tongue, and after their families in their nations. Moreouer, ye sons of Ham were Cush, and Mizraim, and Put, and Canaan. And the sons of Cush, Seba and Hauilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha: also the sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan. And Cush begate Nimrod, who began to be mightie in the earth. He was a mightie hunter before the Lord. wherefore it is saide, As Nimrod the mightie hunter before the Lord. And the beginning of his kingdom was Ba-bel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. Out of that land came Asshur, and builded Niniueh, and the citie Rehoboth, and Calah: Resen also betweene Niniueh and Calah: this is a great citie. And Mizraim begate Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim. Pathrusim also, and Casluhim (out of whom came the Philistims) and Caphtorims.
Also Canaan begat Zidon his first borne, and Heth, And Iebusi, and Emori, and Girgashi, And Hiui, and Arki, and Sini, And Aruadi, and Zemari, and Hamathi: and afterwarde were the families of the Canaanites spred abroade. Then the border of the Canaanites was from Zidon, as thou commest to Gerar vntil Azzah, and as thou goest vnto Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboijm, euen vnto Lasha. These are the sons of Ham according to their families, according to their tongues in their countries and in their nations. Vnto Shem also the father of all the sons of Eber, and elder brother of Iapheth were children borne. The sons of Shem were Elam and Asshur, and Arpachshad, and Lud, and Aram. And the sons of Aram, Vz and Hul, and Gether and Mash. Also Arpachshad begate Sheelah, and Shelah begate Eber. Vnto Eber also were borne two sons: the name of the one was Peleg: for in his dayes was the earth diuided: and his brothers name was Ioktan. Then Ioktan begate Almodad and Sheleph, and Hazarmaueth, and Ierah, And Hadoram, and Vzal, and Dicklah, And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba, And Ophir, and Hauilah, and Iobab: all these were the sons of Ioktan. And their dwelling was from Mesha, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mount of the East. These are the sons of Shem according to their families, according to their tongues, in their countreis and nations. These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations among their people: and out of these were the nations diuided in the earth after the flood.

Then the whole earth was of one language and one speache. And as they went from the East, they found a plaine in the land of Shinar, and there they abode. And they said one to another, Come, let vs make bricke, and burne it in the fire. So they had bricke for stone, and slime had they in stead of morter. Also they said, Goe to, let vs builde vs a citie and a towre, whose top may reache vnto the heauen, that we may get vs a name, lest we be scattered vpon the whole earth. But the Lord came downe, to see the citie and towre, which the sons of men builded. And the Lord said, Beholde, the people is one, and they all haue one language, and this they begin to doe, neither can they now be stopped from whatsoeuer they haue imagined to do. Come on, let vs goe downe, and there confound their language, that every one perceive not another's speech. So ye Lord scattered them from thence upon all the earth, and they left off to build the city. Therefore the name of it was called Babel, because the Lord did there confound the language of all the earth: from thence then did the Lord scatter them upon all the earth. These are the generations of Shem: Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arpachshad two years after the flood. And Shem liued, after he begat Arpachshad, five hundred years, and begate sons and daughters. Also Arpachshad liued five and thirty years, and begat Shelah. And Arpachshad liued, after he begat Shelah, four hundred and three years, and begat sonns and daughters. And Shelah liued thirty years, and begat Eber. So Shelah liued, after he begat Eber, four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters. Likewise Eber liued four and thirty years, and begat Peleg. So Eber liued, after he begat Peleg, four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters. And Peleg liued thirty years, and begat Reu. And Peleg liued, after he begat Reu, two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters. Also Reu liued two and thirty years, and begat Serug. So Reu liued, after he begat Serug, two hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters. Moreover Serug liued thirty years, and begat Nahor. And Serug liued, after he begat Nahor, two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.
And Nahor liued nine and twenty years, and begat Terah. So Nahor liued, after he begat Terah, an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters. So Terah liued seventy years, and begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Nowe these are the generations of Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran: and Haran begat Lot. Then Haran died before Terah his father in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees. So Abram and Nahor tooke them wifes. The name of Abram's wife was Sarai, and the name of Nahor's wife Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah. But Sarai was barren, and had no childe. Then Terah tooke Abram his sonne, and Lot the sonne of Haran, his sonnes sonne, and Sarai his daughter in lawe, his sonne Abram's wife: and they departed together from Ur of the Chaldees, to goe into the land of Canaan, and they came to Haran, and dwelt there. So the dayes of Terah were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

For the Lord had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house unto the land that I will shew thee. And I will make of thee a great nation, and will bless thee, and make thy name great, and thou shalt be a blessing. I will also bless them that bless thee, and curse them that curse thee, and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed. So Abram departed, even as the Lord spake unto him, and Lot went with him. (And Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran)

Then Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they possessed, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran, and they departed, to go to the land of Canaan: and to the land of Canaan they came. So Abram passed through the land unto the place of Shechem, and unto the plain of Moreh (and the Canaanite was then in the land) And the Lord appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land. And there built he an altar unto the Lord, which appeared unto him. Afterward removing thence unto a mountain Eastward from Beth-el, he pitched his tent having Beth-el on the Westside, and Haai on the East: and there he built an altar unto the Lord, and called on the Name of the Lord. Again Abram went forth going and journeying toward the South. Then there came a famine in the land: therefore Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there: for there was a great famine in the land. And when he drew near to enter into Egypt, he said to Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a faire woman to looke upon: Therefore it will come to passe, that when the Egyptians see thee, they will say, She is his wife: so will they kill me, but they will keepe thee alive. Say, I pray thee, that thou art my sister, that I may fare well for thy sake, and that my life may be preserved by thee. Nowe when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians behelde the woman: for she was very faire. And the Princes of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her unto Pharaoh: so the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house: Who intreated Abram well for her sake, and he had sheepe, and beeues, and hee asses, and men servants and maide servants, and shee asses, and camelles. But the Lord plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues, because of Sarai Abrams wife. Then Pharaoh called Abram, and said, Why hast thou done this unto me? Wherefore diddest thou not tell me, that she was thy wife? Why saidest thou, She is my sister, that I should take her to be my wife? Now therefore beholde thy wife, take her and goe thy way. And Pharaoh gaue men commandement concerning him: and they conueyed him forth, and his wife, and all that he had.

Then Abram went vp from Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him toward the South. And Abram was very rich in cattell, in siluer and in golde. And he went on his iourney from ye South toward Beth-el, to the place where his tent had bene at ye beginning, betweene Beth-el and Haai, Vnto the place of the altar, which he had made there at the first: and there Abram called on the Name of the Lord. And Lot also, who went with Abram, had sheepe, and cattell and tentes, So that the land coulde not beare them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they coulde not dwell together. Also there was debate betweene ye heardmen of Abrams cattell, and the heardmen of Lots cattell. (and the Canaanites and the Perizzites dwelled at that time in the land.) Then saide Abram vnto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, betweene thee and me, neither betweene mine heardmen and thine heardmen: for we be brethren. Is not the whole land before thee? depart I pray thee from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will goe to the right: or if thou goe to the right hand, then I will take the left. So when Lot lifted vp his eyes, he saw that all the plaine of Iorden was watered euery where: (for before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorah, it was as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou goest vnto Zoar) Then Lot chose vnto him all the plaine of Iorden, and tooke his iourney from the East: and they departed the one from the other. Abram dwelled in the lande of Canaan, and Lot abode in the cities of the plaine, and pitched his tent euuen to Sodom. Now the men of Sodom were wicked and exceeding sinners against the Lord. Then the Lord saide vnto Abram, (after that Lot was departed from him) Lift vp thine eyes nowe, and looke from the place where thou art, Northward, and Southward, and Eastwarde, and Westward: For all the land, which thou seest, will I giue vnto thee and to thy seede for euer. And I will make thy seede, as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy seede be numbred.
17 Arise, walke through the land, in ye length thereof, and breadth thereof: for I will giue it vnto thee. Then Abram remoued his tent, and came and dwelled in the plaine of Mamre, which is in Hebron, and builde there an altar vnto ye Lord.

And in the days of Amraphel King of Shinar, Arioch King of Ellasar, Chedor-laomer King of Elam, and Tidal king of the nations: These men made warre with Bera King of Sodom, and with Birsha King of Gomorah, Shinab King of Admah, and She-meber King of Zeboiim, and the King of Bela, which is Zoar. All these joyned together in the vale of Siddim, which is the salt Sea. Twelue yeere were they subject to Chedor-laomer, but in the thirteenth yeere they rebelled. And in the fourteenth yeere came Chedor-laomer, and the Kings that were with him, and smote the Rephaims in Ashteroth Karnaim, and the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in Shaueh Kiriathaim, And the Horites in their mount Seir, vnto the plaine of Paran, which is by the wildernesse. And they returned and came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and smote all the countrey of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites that dwelled in Hazezon-tamar. Then went out the King of Sodom, and the King of Gomorah, and the King of Admah, and the King of Zeboiim, and the King of Bela, which is Zoar: and they joyned battell with them in the vale of Siddim: To wit, with Chedor-laomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar: foure Kings against fiue. Now the vale of Siddim was full of slime pits, and the Kings of Sodom and Gomorah fled and fell there: and ye residue fled to the mountaine. Then they tooke all the substance of Sodom and Gomorah, and al their vitailes and went their way. They tooke Lot also Abrams brothers sonne and his substance (for he dwelt at Sodom) and departed. Then came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Ebrew, which dwelt in the plaine of Mamre ye Amorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner, which were confederat with Abram. When Abram heard that his brother was taken, he brought forth of them that were borne and brought vp in his house, three hundreth and eighteene, and pursued them vnto Dan. Then he, and his servants deuided them selues against them by night, and smote them and pursued them unto Hobah, which is on the left side of Damascus. And he recovered all the substance, and also brought againe his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women also and the people. After that he returned from the slaughter of Chedor-laomer, and of the Kings that were with him, came the King of Sodom forth to meete him in the valley of Shaueh, which is the Kings dale. And Melchi-zedek King of Shalem brought forth bread and wine: and he was a Priest of the most high God. Therefore he blessed him, saying, Blessed art thou, Abram, of God most high possessor of heauen and earth, And blessed be the most high God, which hath deliuered thine enemies into thine hand. And Abram gaue him tythe of all. Then the King of Sodom saide to Abram, Giue me the persons, and take the goodes to thy selfe. And Abram said to the King of Sodom, I haue lift vp mine hand vnto the Lord the most hie God possessor of heauen and earth, That I will not take of all that is thine, so much as a threde or shoolatchet, lest thou shouldest say, I haue made Abram riche, Saue onely that, which the yong men haue eaten, and the partes of the men which went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre: let them take their partes.

After these things, the worde of the Lord came vnto Abram in a vision, saying, Feare not, Abram, I am thy buckler, and thine exceeding great reward. And Abram said, O Lord God, what wilt thou giue me, seeing I goe childlesse, and the steward of mine house is this Eliezer of Damascus? Againe Abram saide, Beholde, to me thou hast giuen no seede: wherefore loe, a seruant of mine house shalbe mine heire. Then beholde, the worde of the Lord came vnto him, saying, This man shall not be thine heire, but one that shall come out of thine owne bowels, he shalbe thine heire. Moreover he brought him forth and said, Looke vp nowe vnto heauen, and tell ye starres, if thou be able to number them: and he said vnto him, So shall thy seede be. And Abram beleueued the Lord, and he counted that to him for righteousnesse. Againe he saide vnto him, I am the Lord, that brought thee out of Vr of the Caldees, to giue thee this land to inherit it. And he said, O Lord God, whereby shall I knowe that I shall inherit it? Then he said vnto him, Take me an heifer of three yeeres olde, and a shee goate of three yeeres olde, and a ramme of three yeeres olde, a turtle doue also and a pigeon. So he tooke all these vnnto him, and deuided them into the middes, and laid every piece one against an other: but the birdes deuided he not. Then foules fell on the carkases, and Abram droue them away. And when the sunne went downe, there fell an heauie sleepe vpon Abram: and loe, a very fearefull darkenes fell vpon him. Then he saide to Abram, Knowe for a suretie, that thy seede shalbe a stranger in a land, that is not theirs, foure hundreth yeeres, and shall serue them: and they shall intreate them euill. Notwithstanding the nation, whom they shall serue, will I iudge: and afterward shall they come out with great substance. But thou shalt goe vnnto thy fathers in peace, and shalt be buried in a good age. And in the fourth generation they shall come hither againe: for the wickednes of the Amorites is not yet full. Also when the sunne went downe, there was a darkenes: and behold, a smoking fornace, and a firebrand, which went betweene those pieces. In that same day the Lord made a couenant with Abram, saying, Vnnto thy seede haue I giuen this lande, from the riuer of Egypt vnnto the great riuer, the riuer Euphrates. The Kenites, and the Kenizites, and the Kadmonites, And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims, The Amorites also, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Iebusites.

Nowe Sarai Abrams wife bare him no children, and she had a maide an Egyptian, Hagar by name. And Sarai said vnnto Abram, Beholde now, the Lord hath restrained me from childe bearing. I pray thee goe in vnnto my maide: it may be that I shall receiue a childe by her. And Abram obeyed the voyce of Sarai. Then Sarai Abrams wife tooke Hagar her maide the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelled ten yeere in the land of Canaan, and gaue her to her husband Abram for his wife. And he went in vnnto Hagar, and she conceiued. and when she sawe that she had conceiued, her dame was despised in her eyes. Then Sarai saide to Abram, Thou doest me wrong. I haue giuen my maide into thy bosome, and she seeth that she hath conceiued, and I am despised in her eyes: the Lord iudge betweene me and thee. Then Abram saide to Sarai, Beholde, thy maide is in thine eyes. Doe with her as it pleaseth thee. Then Sarai dealt roughly with her: wherefore she fled from her. But the Angel of the Lord founde her beside a fountaine of water in the wildernesse by the fountaine in the way to Shur, And he saide, Hagar Sarais maide, whence commest thou? and whither wilt thou goe? And she said, I flie from my dame Sarai. Then the Angel of the Lord said to her, Returne to thy dame, and humble thy selfe vnder her hands. Againe the Angel of the Lord said vnto her, I will so greatly increase thy seede, that it shall not be numbred for multitude. Also the Angel of the Lord said vnto her, See, thou art with childe, and shalt beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Ishmael: for the Lord hath heard thy tribulation. And he shalbe a wilde man: his hande shall be against euery man, and euery mans hand against him. and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren. Then she called the name of the Lord, that spake vnto her, Thou God lookest on me: for she said, Haue I not also here looked after him that seeth me? Wherefore the well was called, Beerlahai-roi. lo, it is betweene Kadesh and Bered. And Hagar bare Abram a sonne, and Abram called his sonnes name, which Hagar bare, Ishmael. And Abram was foure score and sixe yeere olde, when Hagar bare him Ishmael.

When Abram was nineteen yeere olde and nine, the Lord appeared to Abram, and said vnto him, I am God all sufficient. walke before me, and be thou vpright, And I will make my couenant betweene me and thee, and I will multiplie thee exceedingely. Then Abram fell on his face, and God talked with him, saying, Beholde, I make my couenant with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many nations, Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shalbe Abraham: for a father of many nations haue I made thee. Also I will make thee exceeding fruitfull, and will make nations of thee: yea, Kings shall proceede of thee. Moreouer I wil establish my couenant betweene me and thee, and thy seede after thee in their generations, for an euerlasting couenant, to be God vnto thee and to thy seede after thee. And I will give thee and thy seede after thee the land, wherein thou art a stranger, euen all the land of Canaan, for an euerlasting possession, and I will be their God. Againe God said vnto Abraham, Thou also shalt keepe my couenant, thou, and thy seede after thee in their generations. This is my couenant which ye shall keepe betweene me and you, and thy seede after thee, Let euery man childe among you be circumcised: That is, ye shall circumcise the foreskin of your flesh, and it shalbe a signe of the couenant betweene me and you.
And every man childe of eight dayes olde among you, shalbe circumcised in your generations, aswell he that is borne in thine house, as he that is bought with money of any stranger, which is not of thy seede. He that is borne in thine house, and he that is bought with thy money, must needes be circumcised: so my couenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting couenant. But the uncircumcised man childe, in whose flesh the foreskin is not circumcised, euen that person shall be cut off from his people, because he hath broken my couenant. Afterward God said vnto Abraham, Sarai thy wife shalt thou not call Sarai, but Sarah shalbe her name. And I will blesse her, and will also giue thee a sonne of her, yea, I will blesse her, and she shall be the mother of nations: Kings also of people shall come of her. Then Abraham fell vpon his face, and laughed, and said in his heart, Shall a childe be borne vnto him, that is an hundreth yeere olde? and shall Sarah that is ninetie yeere olde beare? And Abraham saide vnto God, Oh, that Ishmael might liue in thy sight. Then God saide, Sarah thy wife shall beare thee a sonne in deede, and thou shalt call his name Izhak: and I will establish my couenant with him for an everlasting couenant, and with his seede after him. And as concerning Ishmael, I haue heard thee: loe, I haue blessed him, and will make him fruitfull, and will multiply him exceedingly: twelue princes shall he beget, and I will make a great nation of him. But my couenant will I establish with Izhak, which Sarah shall beare vnto thee, the next yeere at this season. And he left off talking with him, and God went vp from Abraham. Then Abraham tooke Ishmael his sonne and all that were borne in his house, and all that was bought with his money, that is, every man childe among the men of Abrahams house, and he circumcision the foreskinne of their flesh in that selfe same day, as God had commaunded him. Abraham also himselfe was ninetie yeere olde and nine, when the foreskinne of his flesh was circumcision. And Ishmael his sonne was thirteene yeere olde, when the foreskinne of his flesh was circumcision. The selfe same day was Abraham circumcision, and Ishmael his sonne: And all the men of his house, both borne in his house, and bought with money of the stranger, were circumcision with him.
lift vp his eyes, and looked: and lo, three men stooed by him, and when he sawe them, he ranne to meete them from the tent doore, and bowed himselfe to the grounde. And he said, Lord, if I haue now founde fauour in thy sight, goe not, I pray thee, from thy seruant. Let a little water, I pray you, be brought, and wash your feete, and rest your selues vnder the tree. And I will bring a morsell of bread, that you may comfort your hearts, afterward ye shall go your wayes: for therefore are ye come to your seruant. And they said, Do euuen as thou hast said. Then Abraham made haste into the tent vnsto Sarah, and said, Make ready at once three measures of fine meale: kneade it, and make cakes vpon the hearth. And Abraham ranne to the beastes, and tooke a tender and good calfe, and gaue it to the seruant, who hasted to make it ready. And he tooke butter and milke, and the calfe, which he had prepared, and set before them, and stoode himselfe by them vnder the tree, and they did eate. Then they saide to him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he answered, Beholde, she is in the tent. And he saide, I will certainly come againe vnto thee according to ye time of life: and loe, Sarah thy wife shall haue a sonne. and Sarah heard in the tent doore, which was behinde him. (Nowe Abraham and Sarah were old and striken in age, and it ceased to be with Sarah after the maner of women) Therefore Sarah laughed within her selfe, saying, After I am waxed olde, and my lord also, shall I haue lust? And ye Lord saide vnsto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah thus laugh, saying, Shall I certainly beare a childe, which am olde? (Shall any thing be hard to the Lord? at the time appointed will I returne vnsto thee, euuen according to the time of life, and Sarah shall haue a sonne.) But Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not: for she was afraine. And he said, It is not so: for thou laughedst. Afterwarde the men did rise vp from thence and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way. And the Lord said, Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I doe, Seeing that Abraham shalbe in deede a great and a mightie nation, and all the nations of the earth shalbe blessed in him? For I knowe him that he will commande his sonnes and his houshold after him, that they keepe the way of the Lord, to doe righteousnesse and judgement, that the Lord may bring vpon Abraham that he hath spoken vnsto him. Then the Lord saide, Because the crie of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sinne is exceeding grieuous, I will goe downe nowe, and see whether they haue done altogether according to that crie which is come vnto me: and if not, that I may knowe. And the men turned thence and went toward Sodom: but Abraham stoode yet before the Lord. Then Abraham drewe neere, and said, Wilt thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked? If there be fiftie righteous within the citie, wilt thou destroy and not spare the place for the fiftie righteous that are therein? Be it farre from thee from doing this thing, to slay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous should be euen as the wicked, be it farre from thee. shall not the Iudge of all the worlde doe right? And the Lord answered, If I shall finde in Sodom fiftie righteous within the citie, then will I spare all the place for their sakes. Then Abraham answered and said, Behold nowe, I haue begun to speake vnto my Lord, and I am but dust and ashes. If there shall lacke fiue of fiftie righteous, wilt thou destroy all the citie for fiue? And he saide, If I finde there fiue and fourtie, I will not destroy it. And he yet spake to him againe, and saide, What if there shalbe found fourtie there? Then he answered, I will not doe it for fourties sake. Againe he said, Let not my Lord nowe be angry, that I speake, What if thirtie be founde there? Then he answered, I will not doe it, if I finde thirtie there. Moreouer he said, Behold, now I haue begonne to speake vnto my Lord, What if twentie be found there? And he answered, I will not destroy it for twenties sake. Then he saide, Let not my Lord be nowe angrie, and I will speake but this once, What if tenne be found there? And he answered, I will not destroy it for tennes sake. And the Lord went his way when he had left communing with Abraham, and Abraham returned vnto his place.

And in the evening there came two Angels to Sodom: and Lot sate at the gate of Sodom, and Lot sawe them, and rose vp to meete them, and he bowed himselfe with his face to the ground. And he saide, See my Lords, I pray you turne in nowe into your servuants house, and tarie all night, and wash your feete, and ye shall rise vp early and goe your wayes. Who saide, Nay, but we will abide in the streete all night. Then he preassed vpon them earnestly, and they turned in to him, and came to his house, and he made them a feast, and did bake vnleauened bread, and they did eate. But before they went to bed, the men of the citie, 4 euen the men of Sodom compassed the house rounde about from 5 the yong euen to the olde, all the people from all quarters. Who 6 crying vnto Lot said to him, Where are the men, which came to 7 thee this night? bring them out vnto vs that we may knowe 8 them. Then Lot went out at the doore vnto them, and shut 9 the doore after him, And said, I pray you, my brethren, do 10 not so wickedly. Beholde nowe, I haue two daughters, which 11 haue not knownen man: them will I bring out now vnto you, 12 and doe to them as seemeth you good: onely vnto these men 13 doe nothing: for therefore are they come vnder the shadowe of 14 my roofe. Then they said, Away hence, and they said, He is 15 come alone as a stranger, and shall he iudge and rule? we will 16 nowe deale worse with thee then with them. So they preassed 17 sore vpon Lot himselfe, and came to breake the doore. But the 18 men put forth their hand and pulled Lot into the house to them 19 and shut to ye doore. Then they smote the men that were at 20 the doore of the house with blindnes both small and great, so 21 that they were wearie in seeking the doore. Then the men said 22 vnto Lot, Whom hast thou yet here? either sonne in lawe, or 23 thy sonnes, or thy daughters, or whatsoeuer thou hast in the 24 citie, bring it out of this place. For we will destroy this place, 25 because the crye of them is great before the Lord, and the Lord 26 hath sent vs to destroy it. Then Lot went out and spake vnto 27 his sonnes in lawe, which maried his daughters, and said, Arise, 28 get you out of this place: for the Lord will destroy the citie: but 29 he seemed to his sonnes in lawe as though he had mocked. And 30 when the morning arose, the Angels hasted Lot, saying, Arise, 31 take thy wife and thy two daughters which are here, lest thou be 32 destroyed in the punishment of the citie. And as he prolonged 33 the time, the men caught both him and his wife, and his two 34 daughters by the hands (the Lord being mercifull vnto him) and 35 they brought him foorth, and set him without the citie. And 36 when they had brought them out, the Angel said, Escape for thy 37 life: looke not behinde thee, neither tarie thou in all the plaine: 38 escape into ye mountaine, least thou be destroyed. And Lot 39 saide vnto them, Not so, I pray thee, my Lord. Behold now, thy 40 servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified 41 thy mercie, which thou hast shewed vnto me in sauing my life: and I cannot escape in the mountaine, least some euill take me, and I die. See nowe this citie hereby to flee vnto, which is a litle one: Oh let me escape thither: is it not a litle one, and my soule shall liue? Then he said vnto him, Beholde, I haue receiued thy request also concerning this thing, that I will not ouerthrow this citie, for the which thou hast spoken. Haste thee, saue thee there: for I can doe nothing till thou be come thither. Therefore the name of the citie was called Zoar. The sunne did rise vpon the earth, when Lot entred into Zoar. Then the Lord rained vpon Sodom and vpon Gomorrah brimstone, and fire from the Lord out of heauen, And ouerthrew those cities and all the plaine, and all the inhabitants of the cities; and that that grewe vpon the earth. Now his wife behind him looked backe, and she became a pillar of salt. And Abraham rising vp earely in ye morning went to the place, where he had stand before the Lord, And looking towarde Sodom and Gomorrah and toward all the land of the plaine, behold, he sawe the smoke of the lande mounting vp as the smoke of a fornace. But yet when God destroyed the cities of the plaine, God thought vpon Abraham, and sent Lot out from the middes of the destruction, when he ouerthrew the cities, wherein Lot dwelled. Then Lot went vp from Zoar, and dwelt in the mountaine with his two daughters: for he feared to tarie in Zoar, but dwelt in a caue, he, and his two daughters. And the elder saide vnto the yonger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth, to come in vnto vs after the maner of all ye earth. Come, wee will make our father drinke wine, and lie with him, that we may preserue seede of our father. So they made their father drinke wine that night, and the elder went and lay with her father: but he perceiued not, neither whe she lay downe, neither when she rose vp. And on the morowe the elder saide to the yonger, Behold, yester night lay I with my father: let vs make him drinke wine this night also, and goe thou and lie with him, that we may preserue seede of our father. So they made their father drinke wine that night also, and the yonger arose, and lay with him, but he perceiued not, when she lay downe, neither when she rose vp. Thus were both the daughters of Lot with childe by their father. And the elder bare a sonne, and she called his name Moab: the same is the father of the Moabites vnto this day. And the yonger bare a sonne also, and she called his name Ben-ammi: the same is the father of the Ammonites vnto this day.

Afterward Abraham departed thence toward the South countrey and dwelled betweene Cadesh and Shur, and soiourned in Gerar. And Abraham said of Sarah his wife, She is my sister. Then Abimelech King of Gerar sent and tooke Sarah. But God came to Abimelech in a dreame by night, and said to him, Beholde, thou art but dead, because of the woman, which thou hast taken: for she is a mans wife. (Notwithstanding Abimelech had not yet come neere her) And he said, Lord, wilt thou slay euen the righteous nation? Said not he vnto me, She is my sister? yea, and she her selfe said, He is my brother: with an vpright minde, and innocent handes haue I done this. And God saide vnsto him by a dreame, I knowe that thou diddest this euern with an vpright minde, and I kept thee also that thou shouldest not sinne against me: therefore suffered I thee not to touche her. Now then deliuer the man his wife againe: for he is a Prophet, and he shall pray for thee that thou mayest liue: but if thou deliuer her not againe, be sure that thou shalt die the death, thou, and all that thou hast. Then Abimelech rising vp early in ye morning, called all his seruants, and tolde all these things vnsto them, and the men were sore afraid. Afterward Abimelech called Abraham, and said vnsto him, What hast thou done vnsto vs? and what haue I offeded thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdome this great sinne? thou hast done things vnsto me that ought not to be done. So Abimelech said vnsto Abraham, What sawest thou that thou hast done this thing? Then Abraham answered, Because I thought thus, Surely the feare of God is not in this place, and they will slay me for my wiues sake. Yet in very deede she is my sister: for she is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother, and she is my wife. Nowe when God caused me to wander out of my fathers house, I said then to her, This is thy kindnes that thou shalt shewe vnsto me in all places where we come, Say thou of me, He is my brother. Then tooke Abimelech sheepe and beeues, and men seruants, and women seruants, and gaue them vnsto Abraham, and restored him Sarah his wife. And Abimelech saide, Beholde, my land is before thee: dwell where it pleaseth thee. Likewise to Sarah he said, Beholde, I haue giuen thy brother a thousand pieces of siluer: behold, he is the vaile of thine eyes to all that are with thee, and to all others: and she was thus reproved. Then Abraham prayed vnto God, and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his women servants: and they bare children. For the Lord had shut vp euery wombe of the house of Abimelech, because of Sarah Abrahams wife.

Nowe the Lord visited Sarah, as he had saide, and did vnto her according as he had promised. For Sarah conceiued, and bare Abraham a sonne in his olde age, at the same season that God tolde him. And Abraham called his sonnes name that was borne vnto him, which Sarah bare him, Izhak. Then Abraham circumcised Izhak his sonne, when he was eight dayes olde, as God had commanded him. So Abraham was an hundreth yeere olde, when his sonne Izhak was borne vnto him. Then Sarah said, God hath made me to reioyce: all that heare will reioyce with me. Againe she said, Who would haue saide to Abraham, that Sarah shoulde haue giuen children sucke? for I haue borne him a sonne in his olde age. Then the childe grewe and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feast the same day that Izhak was weaned. And Sarah sawe the sonne of Hagar the Egyptian (which she had borne vnto Abraham) mocking. Wherefore she saide vnto Abraham, Cast out this bond woman and her sonne: for ye sonne of this bonde woman shall not be heire with my sonne Izhak. And this thing was very grieuous in Abrahams sight, because of his sonne. But God said vnto Abraham, Let it not be grieuous in thy sight for the childe, and for thy bonde woman: in all that Sarah shall say vnto thee, heare her voyce: for in Izhak shall thy seede be called. As for the sonne of the bond woman, I will make him a nation also, because he is thy seede. So Abraham arose vp early in ye morning, and tooke bread, and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the childe also, and sent her away: who departing wandred in the wildernesse of Beer-sheba. And when the water of the bottell was spent, she cast the childe vnder a certaine tree. Then she went and sate her ouer against him a farre off about a bowe shoote: for she said, I will not see the death of the child. and she sate downe ouer against him, and lift vp her voyce and wept. Then God heard the voyce of ye childe, and the Angel of God called to Hagar from heauen, and said vnto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? feare not, for God hath heard the voyce of the childe where he is. Arise, take vp the childe, and holde him in thine hand: for I will make of him a great people. And God opened her eyes, and she sawe a well of water. so she went and filled the bottell with water, and gaue the boy drinke. So God was with the childe, and he grewe and dwelt in the wildernesse, and was an archer. And he dwelt in the wildernesse of Paran, and his mother tooke him a wife out of the land of Egypt. And at that same time Abimelech and Phichol his chief captaine spake vnto Abraham, saying, God is with thee in all that thou doest. Nowe therefore sweare vnto me here by God, that thou wilt not hurt me, nor my children, nor my childrens children: thou shalt deale with me, and with the countrey, where thou hast bene a stranger, according vnto the kindnesse that I haue shewed thee. Then Abraham said, I will sweare. And Abraham rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, which Abimelechs seruants had violently taken away. And Abimelech saide, I knowe not who hath done this thing: also thou toldest me not, neither heard I of it but this day. Then Abraham tooke sheepe and beeues, and gaue them vnto Abimelech: and they two made a couenant. And Abraham set seuen lambes of the flocke by themselues. Then Abimelech said vnto Abraham, What meane these seuen lambes, which thou hast set by themselues? And he answered, Because thou shalt receiue of mine hand these seuen lambes, that it may be a witnes vnto me, that I haue digged this well. Wherefore the place is called Beer-sheba, because there they both swiere. Thus made they a couenant at Beer-sheba: afterward Abimelech and Phichol his chiefe captaine rose vp, and turned againe vnto the land of the Philistims. And Abraham planted a groue in Beer-sheba, and called there on the Name of ye Lord, the euerlasting God. And Abraham was a stranger in the Philistims land a long season.

And after these things God did proue Abraham, and said vnto him, Abraham. Who answered, Here am I. And he said, Take nowe thine onely sonne Izhak whom thou louest, and get thee vnto the land of Moriah, and offer him there for a burnt offering vpon one of the mountaines, which I will shewe thee. Then Abraham rose vp early in the morning, and sadled his asse, and tooke two of his seruants with him, and Izhak his sonne, and cloue wood for the burnt offering, and rose vp and went to the place, which God had tolde him. Then the third day Abraham lift vp his eyes, and sawe the place afarre off. And said vnto his seruants, Abide you here with the asse: for I and the childe will go yonder and worship, and come againe vnto you. Then Abraham tooke the wood of the burnt offering, and layed it vpon Izhak his sonne, and he tooke the fire in his hand, and the knife: and they went both together. Then spake Izhak vnto Abraham his father, and said, My father. And he answered, Here am I, my sonne. And he said, Behold the fire and the wood, but where is the lambe for ye burnt offring? Then Abraham answered, My sonne, God will prouide him a lambe for a burnt offering: so they went both together. And when they came to the place which God had shewed him, Abraham buildefd an altar there, and couched ye wood, and bound Izhak his sonne and laid him on the altar vpon the wood. And Abraham stretching forth his hand, tooke the knife to kill his sonne. But the Angel of the Lord called vnto him from heauen, saying, Abraham, Abraham. And he answered, Here am I. Then he said, Lay not thine hand vpon the childe, neither doe any thing vnto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing for my sake thou hast not spared thine onely sonne. And Abraham lifting vp his eyes, looked: and behold, there was a ramme behind him caught by the horns in a bush. then Abraham went and tooke the ramme, and offered him vp for a burnt offering in the steade of his sonne. And Abraham called the name of that place, Iehouah-ijreh. as it is said this day, In the mount will the Lord be seene. And the Angel of the Lord cryed vnto Abraham from heauen the second time, And saide, By my selfe haue I sworne (saith ye Lord) because thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thine onely sonne, Therefore will I surely blesse thee, and will greatly multiplie thy seede, as the starres of the heauen, and as the sand which is vpon the sea shore, and thy seede shall possesse the gate of his enemies. And in thy seede shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, because thou hast obeyed my voyce. Then turned Abraham againe vnto his seruants, and they rose vp and went together to Beer-sheba: and Abraham dwelt at Beer-sheba. And after these things one tolde Abraham, saying, Beholde Milcah, she hath also borne children vnto thy brother Nahor: To wit, Vz his eldest sonne, and Buz his brother, and Kemuel the father of Aram, And Chesed and Hazo, and Pildash, and Iidlaph, and Bethuel. And Bethuel begate Rebekah: these eight did Milcah beare to Nahor Abrahams brother. And his concubine called Reumah, she bare also Tebah, and Gahan, and Thahash and Maachah.

When Sarah was an hundreth twentie and seuen yeere olde (so long liued she). Then Sarah dyed in Kiriath-arba: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan. and Abraham came to mourne for Sarah and to weepe for her. Then Abraham rose vp from the sight of his corps, and talked with the Hittites, saying, I am a stranger, and a forreiner among you, giue me a possession of buriall with you, that I may burie my dead out of my sight. Then the Hittites answered Abraham, saying vnto him, Heare vs, my lorde: thou art a prince of God among vs: in the chiefest of our sepulchres bury thy dead: none of vs shall forbid thee his sepulchre, but thou mayest bury thy dead therein. Then Abraham stoode vp, and bowed him selfe before the people of the land of the Hittites. And he communed with them, saying, If it be your minde, that I shall bury my dead out of my sight, heare me, and intreate for me to Ephron the sonne of Zohar, That he would giue me ye caue of Machpelah, which he hath in the ende of his field: that he would giue it me for as much money as it is worth, for a possession to bury in among you. (For Ephron dwelt among the Hittites) Then Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the audience of all the Hittites that went in at the gates of his citie, saying, No, my Lord, heare me: ye land is worth foure hundreth shekels of siluer: what is that betweene me and thee? bury therefore thy dead. So Abraham hearkened vnto Ephron, and Abraham weyed to Ephron the siluer, which he had named, in the audience of the Hittites, euen foure hundreth siluer shekels of currant money among marchants. So the fielde of Ephron which was in Machpelah, and ouer against Mamre, euen the field and the caue that was therein, and all the trees that were in the fielde, which were in all the borders round about, was made sure Vnto Abraham for a possession, in ye sight of the Hittites, euen of all that went in at the gates of his citie. And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the caue of the fielde of Machpelah ouer against Mamre: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan. Thus the fielde and the caue, that is therein, was made sure vnto Abraham for a possession of buriall by the Hittites.

Nowe Abraham was olde, and striken in yeeres, and the Lord had blessed Abraham in all things. Therefore Abraham saide vnsto his eldest seruant of his house, which had the rule ouer all that he had, Put nowe thine hand vnnder my thigh, And I will make thee sweare by ye Lord God of the heauen, and God of the earth, that thou shalt not take a wife vnto my sonne of the daughters of the Canaanites among who I dwel. But thou shalt go vnto my countrey, and to my kinred, and take a wife vnto my sone Izhak. And the seruant saide to him, What if the woman will not come with me to this land? shall I bring thy sonne againe vnto the lande from whence thou camest? To whom Abraham answered, Beware that thou bring not my sonne thither againe. The Lord God of heauen, who tooke me from my fathers house, and from the land where I was borne, and that spake vnto me, and that sware vnto me, saying, Vnto thy seede wil I giue this land, he shall send his Angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife vnto my sonne from thence. Neuertheles if the woman wil not follow thee, then shalt thou bee discharged of this mine othe: onely bring not my sonne thither againe. Then the seruant put his hand vnnder the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him for this matter. So the seruant tooke ten camels of the camels of his master, and departed: (for he had all his masters goods in his hand:) and so he arose, and went to Aram Naharaim, vnto the citie of Nahor. And he made his camels to lye downe without the citie by a well of water, at euentide about the time that the women come out to draw water. And he said, O Lord God of my master Abraham, I beseech thee, send me good speede this day, and shew mercy unto my master Abraham. Lo, I stand by the well of water, whiles the mens daughters of this citie come out to drawe water. Graunt therefore that ye maide, to whom I say, Bowe downe thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drinke: if she say, Drinke, and I will giue thy camels drinke also: may be she that thou hast ordeined for thy servuant Izhak: and thereby shall I know that thou hast shewed mercy on my master. And nowe yer he had left speaking, beholde, Rebekah came out, the daughter of Bethuel, sonne of Milcah the wife of Nahor Abrahams brother, and her pitcher vpon her shoulder. (And the maide was very faire to looke vpon, a virgine and vnknowen of man) and she went downe to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came vp. Then the servuant ranne to meete her, and said, Let me drinke, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher. And she said, Drinke sir: and she hasted, and let downe her pitcher vpon her hand and gaue him drinke. And when she had giuen him drinke, she said, I will drawe water for thy camels also vntill they haue drunken inough. And she powred out her pitcher into the trough speedily; and ranne againe vnto the well to drawe water, and she drewe for all his camels. So the man wondred at her, and helde his peace, to knowe whether the Lord had made his iourney prosperous or not. And when the camels had left drinking, the man tooke a golden abillement of halfe a shekell weight, and two bracelets for her hands, of ten shekels weight of golde: And he said, Whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee, Is there roume in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? Then she said to him, I am the daughter of Bethuel the sonne of Milcah whom she bare vnto Nahor. Moreouer she said vnto him, We haue litter also and prouender ynough, and roume to lodge in. And the man bowed himselfe and worshipped the Lord, And said, Blessed be the Lord God of my master Abraham, which hath not withdrawen his mercie and his trueth from my master: for when I was in the way, the Lord brought me to my masters brethrens house. And the maide ranne and tolde them of her mothers house according to these wordes. Now Rebekah had a brother called Laban, and Laban ranne vnto the man to the well. For when he had scene the earings and the bracelets in his sisters hands, and when he heard the wordes of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus said the man vnto me, then he went to the man, and loe, he stoode by the camels at the well. And he said, Come in thou blessed of the Lord: wherefore standest thou without, seeing I have prepared the house, and room for ye camels? Then the man came into the house, and he unsaddled the camels, and brought litter and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the mens feet that were with him. Afterward the meat was set before him: but he said, I will not eat, until I have said my message: And he said, Speake on. Then he said, I am Abrahams servant, And the Lord hath blessed my master wonderfully, that he is become great: for he hath giuen him sheepe, and beeues, and siluer, and golde, and men servants, and maide servants, and camels, and asses. And Sarah my masters wife hath borne a sonne to my master, when she was olde, and unto him hath he giuen all that he hath. Now my master made me sweare, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife to my sonne of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell: But thou shalt go unto my fathers house and to my kinred, and take a wife unto my sonne. Then I said unto my master, What if the woman will not follow me? Who answered me, The Lord, before who I walke, will send his Angel with thee, and prosper thy journey, and thou shalt take a wife for my sonne of my kinred and my fathers house. Then shalt thou be discharged of mine othe, when thou commest to my kinred: and if they give thee not one, thou shalt be free from mine othe. So I came this day to the well, and said, O Lord, the God of my master Abraham, if thou now prosper my journey which I goe, Behold, I stand by the well of water: when a virgine commeth forth to draw water, and I say to her, Giue me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drinke, And she say to me, Drinke thou, and I will also drawe for thy camels, let her be ye wife, which the Lord hath prepared for my masters sonne. And before I had made an end of speaking in mine heart, beholde, Rebekah came forth, and her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went downe vnto the well, and drewe water. Then I said vnto her, Giue me drinke, I pray thee. And she made haste, and tooke downe her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drinke, and I will giue thy camels drinke also. So I dranke, and she gave the camels drinke also. Then I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she answered, The daughter of Bethuel Nahors sonne, whom Milcah bare vnto him. Then I put the abillement vpon her face, and the bracelets vpon her hands: And I bowed downe and worshipped the Lord, and blessed the Lord God of my master Abraham, which had brought me the right way to take my masters brothers daughter vnto his sone. Now therefore, if ye will deale mercifullly and truely with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me that I may turne me to the right hand or to the left. Then answered Laban and Bethuel, and said, This thing is proceeded of the Lord: we cannot therefore say vnto thee, neither euill nor good. Beholde, Rebehak is before thee, take her and goe, that she may be thy masters sonnes wife, euen as the Lord hath said. And when Abrahams seruant heard their wordes, he bowed himselfe toward the earth vnto the Lord. Then the seruant tooke foorth iewels of siluer, and iewels of golde, and raiment, and gaue to Rebekah: also vnto her brother and to her mother he gaue gifts. Afterward they did eate and drinke, both he, and the men that were with him, and taried all night. and when they rose vp in the morning, he said, Let me depart vnto my master. Then her brother and her mother answered, Let the maide abide with vs, at the least ten dayes: then shall she goe. But he said vnto them, Hinder you me not, seeing the Lord hath prospered my iourney: send me away, that I may goe to my master. Then they said, We will call the maide, and aske her consent. And they called Rebekah, and saide vnto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she answered, I will go. So they let Rebekah their sister goe, and her nourse, with Abrahams servant and his men. And they blessed Rebekah, and sayde vnto her, Thou art our sister, growe into thousande thousands, and thy seede possesse the gate of his enemies. Then Rebekah arose, and her maydes, and rode vpon the camels, and followed the man. and the servant tooke Rebekah, and departed. Nowe Izhak came from the way of Beer-lahai-roi, (for he dwelt in the South countrey) And Izhak went out. to pray in the fielde toward the euening: who lift vp his eyes and looked, and behold, the camels came. Also Rebekah lift vp her eyes, and when she saw Izhak, she lighted downe from the camel. (For shee had sayde to the servant, Who is yonder man, that commeth in the fielde to meete vs? and the servant had said, It is my master) So she tooke a vaile, and couered her. And the servant tolde Izhak all things, that he had done. Afterward Izhak brought her into the tent of Sarah his mother, and he tooke Rebekah, and she was his wife, and he loued her: So Izhak was comforted after his mothers death.

Nowe Abraham had taken him another wife called Keturah, Which bare him Zimran, and Iokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah. And Iokshan begate Sheba, and Dedan: And the sonnes of Dedan were Asshurim, and Letushim, and Leummim. Also the sonnes of Midian were Ephah, and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abida, and Eldaah all these were the sonnes of Keturah. And Abraham gaue all his goods to Izhak, But vnnto the sonnes of the concubines, which Abraham had, Abraham gaue giftes, and sent them away from Izhak his sonne (while he yet liued) Eastward to the East countrey. And this is the age of Abrahams life, which he liued, an hundreth seuentie and fiue yeere. Then Abraham yeelded the spirit, and died in a good age, an olde man, and of great yeeres, and was gathered to his people. And his sonnes, Izhak and Ishmael buryed him in the caue of Machpelah, in the fielde of Ephron sonne of Zohar the Hittite, before Mamre. Which fielde Abraham bought of the Hittites, where Abraham was buryed with Sarah his wife. And after the death of Abraham God blessed Izhak his sonne, and Izhak dwelt by Beer-lahai-roi. Nowe these are the generations of Ishmael Abrahams sonne, whome Hagar the Egyptian Sarahs handmayde bare vnnto Abraham. And these are the names of the sonnes of Ishmael, name by name, according to their kinreds; the eldest sonne of Ishmael was Nebaioth, then Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam, And Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa, Hadar, and Tema, Ietur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These are the sonnes of Ishmael, and these are their names, by their townes and by their castles: to wit, twelue princes of their nations. (And these are the yeeres of the life of Ishmael, an hundreth thirtie and seuen yeere, and he yeelded the spirit, and dyed, and was gathered vnnto his people) And they dwelt from Hauilah vnnto Shur, that is towards Egypt, as thou goest to Asshur. Ishmael dwelt in the presence of all his brethren. Likewise these are the generations of Izhak Abrahams sonne Abraham begate Izhak, And Izhak was fourtie yeere olde, when he tooke Rebekah to wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Aramite of Padan Aram, and sister to Laban the Aramite. And Izhak prayed vuto the Lord for his wife, because she was barren: and the Lord was intreated of him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. But the children strue together within her: therefore shee sayde, Seeing it is so, why am I thus? wherefore she went to aske the Lord. And the Lord sayd to her, Two nations are in thy wombe, and two maner of people shalbe diuided out of thy bowels, and the one people shall be mightier then the other, and the elder shall serue the yonger. Therefore when her time of deliuerance was fulfilled, behold, twinne were in her wombe. So he that came out first was red, and he was all ouer as a rough garment, and they called his name Esau. And afterward came his brother out, and his hande helde Esau by the heele: therefore his name was called Iaakob. Nowe Izhak was threescore yeere olde when Rebekah bare them. And the boyes grew, and Esau was a cunning hunter, and liued in the fields: but Iaakob was a plaine man, and dwelt in tentes. And Izhak loued Esau, for venison was his meate, but Rebekah loued Iaakob. Nowe Iaakob sod pottage, and Esau came from the fielde and was wearie. Then Esau sayd to Iaakob, Let me eate, I pray thee, of that pottage so red, for I am wearie. Therefore was his name called Edom. And Iaakob sayd, Sell me euen nowe thy birthright. And Esau sayd, Lo, I am almost dead, what is then this birthright to me? Iaakob then said, Sweare to me euen now. And he sware to him, and solde his birthright vnto Iaakob. Then Iaakob gaue Esau bread and pottage of lentiles: and he did eate and drinke, and rose vp, and went his way: So Esau contemned his birthright.

And there was a famine in the lande besides the first famine that was in the dayes of Abraham. Wherefore Izhak went to Abimelech King of the Philistims vnto Gerar. For the Lord appeared vnto him, and sayde, Goe not downe into Egypt, but abide in the lande which I shall shewe vnto thee. Dwell in this lande, and I will be with thee, and will blesse thee: for to thee, and to thy seede I will giue all these countreys: and I will performe the othe which I sware vnto Abraham thy father. Also I wil cause thy seede to multiply as the starres of heauen, and will giue vnto thy seede all these countreys: and in thy seede shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, Because that Abraham obeyed my voyce and kept mine ordinance, my commandements, my statutes, and my Lawes. So Izhak dwelt in Gerar. And the men of the place asked him of his wife, and he sayd, She is my sister: for he feared to say, She is my wife, lest, sayde he, the men of the place shoulde kill me, because of Rebekah: for she was beautifull to the eye. So after hee had bene there long time, Abimelech King of the Philistims looked out at a windowe, and loe, he sawe Izhak sporting with Rebekah his wife. Then Abimelech called Izhak, and sayde, Loe, shee is of a suertie thy wife, and why saydest thou, She is my sister? To whom Izhak answered, Because I thought this, It may be that I shall dye for her. Then Abimelech said, Why hast thou done this vnto vs? one of the people had almost lien by thy wife, so shouldest thou haue brought sinne vpon vs. Then Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that toucheth this man, or his wife, shall die the death. Afterwarde Izhak sowed in that lande, and founde in the same yeere an hundreth folde by estimation: and so the Lord blessed him. And the man waxed mightie, and stil increased, till he was exceeding great, For he had flockes of sheepe, and heards of cattell, and a mightie housholde: therefore the Philistims had enuy at him. In so much that the Philistims stopped and filled vp with earth all the welles, which his fathers seruantes digged in his father Abrahams time. Then Abimelech sayde vnto Izhak, Get thee from vs, for thou art mightier then wee a great deale. Therefore Izhak departed thence and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Izhak returning, digged the welles of water, which they had digged in the dayes of Abraham his father: for the Philistims had stopped them after the death of Abraham, and hee gaue them the same names, which his father gaue them. Izhaks seruantes then digged in the valley, and found there a well of liuing water. But the herdmen of Gerar did striue with Izhaks herdmen, saying, The water is ours: therefore called he the name of the well Esek, because they were at strife with him. Afterwarde they digged another well, and stroue for that also, and he called the name of it Sitnah. Then he remoued thence, and digged an other well, for the which they stroue not: therefore called hee the name of it Rehoboth, and sayde, Because the Lord hath nowe made vs roome, we shall increase vpon the earth. So he went vp thence to Beer-sheba. And the Lord appeared vnto him the same night, and sayde, I am the God of Abraham thy father: feare not, for I am with thee, and wil blesse thee, and will multiplie thy seede for my seruant Abrahams sake. Then he builte an altar there, and called vpon the Name of the Lord, and there spred his tent: where also Izhaks seruanentes digged a well. Then came Abimelech to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friendes, and Phichol the captaine of his armie. To whom Izhak sayd, Wherefore come ye to me, seeing ye hate mee and haue put mee away from you? Who answered, Wee sawe certainly that the Lord was with thee, and wee thought thus, Let there be nowe an othe betweene vs, euen betweene vs and thee, and let vs make a couenant with thee. If thou shalt do vs no hurt, as we haue not touched thee, and as we haue done vnto thee nothing but good, and sent thee away in peace: thou nowe, the blessed of the Lord, doe this. Then hee made them a feast, and they dyd eate and drinke. And they rose vp betimes in the morning, and swere one to another: then Izhak let them go, and they departed from him in peace. And that same day Izhaks seruanentes came and tolde him of a well, which they had digged, and said vnto him, We haue found water.

So hee called it Shibah: therefore the name of the citie is called Beer-sheba vnto this day. Nowe when Esau was fourtie yeere olde, he tooke to wife Iudith, the daughter of Beeri an Hittite, and Bashemath the daughter of Elon an Hittite also. And they were a griefe of minde to Izhak and to Rebekah.

And when Izhak was olde, and his eyes were dimme (so that he coulde not see) he called Esau his eldest sonne, and sayde vnto him, My sonne. And he answered him, I am here. Then he sayd, Beholde, I am nowe olde, and knowe not the day of my defath: Wherefore nowe, I pray thee take thine instruments, thy quiuer and thy bowe, and get thee to the fielde, that thou mayest take mee some venison. Then make mee sauourie meate, such as I loue, and bring it me that I may eat, and that my soule may blesse thee, before I die. (Nowe Rebekah heard, when Izhak spake to Esau his sonne) and Esau went into the fielde to hunt for venison, and to bring it. Then Rebekah spake vnto Iaakob her sonne, saying, Beholde, I haue heard thy father talking with Esau thy brother, saying, Bring mee vension, and make mee sauourie meate, that I may eate and blesse thee before the Lord, afore my death. Nowe therefore, my sonne, heare my voyce in that which I command thee. Get thee nowe to the flocke, and bring me thence two good kids of the goates, that I may make pleasant meate of them for thy father, such as he loueth. Then shalt thou bring it to thy father, and he shall eate, to the intent that he may blesse thee before his death. But Iaakob sayde to Rebekah his mother, Beholde, Esau my brother is rough, and I am smoothe. My father may possibly feele me, and I shall seem to him to be a mocker: so shall I bring a curse vpon me, and not a blessing. But his mother sayd vnto him, vpon me be thy curse, my sonne: onely heare my voyce, and go and bring me them. So he went and set them, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made pleasant meat, such as his father loued. And Rebekah tooke faire clothes of her elder sonne Esau, which were in her house, and clothed Iaakob her yonger sonne: And she couered his hands and the smoothe of his necke with the skinnes of the kiddles of the goates. Afterward she put the pleasant meate and bread, which she had prepared, in the hand of her sonne Iaakob. And when he came to his father, he sayd, My father. Who answered, I am here: who art thou, my sonne? And Iaakob sayde to his father, I am Esau thy first borne, I haue done as thou badest me, arise, I pray thee: sit vp and eate of my venison, that thy soule may blesse me. Then Izhak said vnto his sonne, Howe hast thou founde it so quickly my sonne? Who sayde, Because the Lord thy God brought it to mine hande. Againe sayde Izhak vnto Iaakob, Come neere nowe, that I may feele thee, my sonne, whether thou be that my sonne Esau or not. Then Iaakob came neere to Izhak his father, and he felt him and sayd, The voyce is Iaakobs voyce, but the hands are the hands of Esau. (For he knewe him not, because his hands were rough as his brother Esau's hands: wherefore he blessed him) Againe he sayd, Art thou that my sonne Esau? Who answered, Yea. Then said he, Bring it me hither, and I will eate of my sonnes venison, that my soule may blesse thee. And he brought it to him, and he ate: also he brought him wine, and he dranke. Afterward his father Izhak sayd vnto him, Come neere nowe, and kisse me, my sonne. And hee came neere and kissed him. Then he smelled the sauour of his garmente, and blessed him, and sayde, Behold, the smell of my sonne is as the smell of a fielde, which the Lord hath blessed. God giue thee therefore of the dewe of heauen, and the fatnesse of the earth, and plentie of wheate and wine. Let people bee thy servantes, and nations bowe vnto thee: be Lord ouer thy brethren, and let thy mothers children honour thee. cursed be he that curseth thee, and blessed be he that blesseth thee. And when Izhak had made an ende of blessing Iaakob, and Iaakob was scarce gone out from the presence of Izhak his father, then came Esau his brother from his hunting. And hee also prepared sauourie meate and brought it to his father, and sayd vnto his father, Let my father arise, and eat of his sonnes venison, that thy soule may blesse me. But his father Izhak sayde vnto him, Who art thou? And he answered, I am thy sonne, euen thy first borne Esau. Then Izhak was stricken with a marueilous great feare, and sayde, Who and where is hee that hunted venison, and brought it mee, and I haue eate of all before thou camest? and I haue blessed him, therefore he shalbe blessed. When Esau heard the wordes of his father, he cryed out with a great crye and bitter, out of measure, and sayde vnto his father, Let my father arise, and eat of his sonnes venison, that thy soule may blesse me. Also he sayd, Hast thou not reserued a blessing for me? Then Izhak answered, and sayd vnto Esau, Beholde, I haue made him thy lorde, and all his brethre haue I made his servantes: also with wheate and wine haue I furnished him, and vnto thee now what shall I doe, my sonne? Then Esau sayde vnto his father, Hast thou but one blessing my father? blesse mee, euen me also, my father: and Esau lifted vp his voyce, and wept. Then Izhak his father answered, and sayde vnto him, Behold, the fatnesse of the earth shall be thy dwelling place, and thou shalt haue of the dewe of heauen from aboue. And by thy sword shalt thou liue, and shalt be thy brothers servuant. But it shall come to passe, when thou shalt get the masterie, that thou shalt breake his yoke from thy necke. Therefore Esau hated Iaakob, because of the blessing, wherewith his father blessed him. And Esau thought in his minde, The dayes of mourning for my father will come shortly, then I will slay may brother Iaakob. And it was told to Rebekah of the wordes of Esau her elder sonne, and shee sent and called Iaakob her yonger sonne, and sayd vnto him, Beholde, thy brother Esau is comforted against thee, meaning to kill thee: Now therefore my sonne, heare my voyce, arise, and flee thou to Haran to my brother Laban, And tarie with him a while vntill thy brothers fierceness be swaged, And till thy brothers wrath turne away from thee, and hee forget the thinges, which thou hast done to him: then will I sende and take thee from thence: why shoulde I bee deprivu of you both in one day? Also Rebekah said to Izhak, I am weary of my life, for the daughters of Heth. If Iaakob take a wife of the daughters of Heth like these of the daughters of the lande, what auaileth it me to liue?

Then Izhak called Iaakob and blessed him, and charged him, and sayde vnto him, Take not a wife of the daughters of Canaan. Arise, get thee to Padan Aram to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father, and thence take thee a wife of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother. And God all sufficient blesse thee, and make thee to encrease, and multiplie thee, that thou mayest be a multitude of people, And giue thee the blessing of Abraham, euen to thee and to thy seede with thee, that thou mayest inherite the lande (wherein thou art a stranger,) which God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Izhak sent forth Iaakob, and he went to Padan Aram vnto Laban sonne of Bethuel the Aramite, brother to Rebekah, Iaakobs and Esaus mother. When Esau sawe that Izhak had blessed Iaakob, and sent him to Padan Aram, to set him a wife thence, and giuen him a charge when he blessed him, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan, And that Iaakob had obeyed his father and his mother, and was gone to Padan Aram: Also Esau seeing that the daughters of Canaan displeased Izhak his father, Then went Esau to Ishmael, and tooke vnto the wiuws, which he had, Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael Abrahams sonne, the sister of Nabaioth, to be his wife. Now Iaakob departed from Beer-sheba, and went to Haran, And he came vnto a certaine place, and taried there al night, because the sunne was downe, and tooke of the stones of the place, and layde vnder his head and slept in the same place. Then he dreamed, and behold, there stoode a ladder vpon the earth, and the top of it reached vp to heauen: and loe, the Angels of God went vp and downe by it. And behold, the Lord stoode aboue it, and sayd, I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Izhak: the land, vpon the which thou sleepest, wil I giue thee and thy seede. And thy seede shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the West, and to the East, and to the North, and to the South, and in thee and in thy seede shall all the families of the earth be blessed. And lo, I am with thee, and wil keepe thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee againe into this lande: for I will not forsake thee vntill I haue performed that, that I haue promised thee. Then Iaakob awoke out of his sleepe, and sayde, Surely the Lord is in this place, and I was not aware. And he was afraid, and said, How fearefull is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heauen. Then Iaakob rose vp early in the morning, and tooke the stone that hee had layde vnder his head, and set it vp as a pillar, and powred oyle vpon the top of it. And he called ye name of that place Bethel: notwithstanding the name of the citie was at the first called Luz. Then Iaakob vowed a vowe, saying, If God will be with me, and will keepe me in this iourney which I go, and wil giue me bread to eate, and clothes to put on: So that I come againe vnto my fathers house in safetie, then shall the Lord be my God. And this stone, which I haue set vp as a pillar, shall be Gods house: and of all that thou shalt giue me, wil I giue the tenth vnto thee.

Then Iaakob lift vp his feete and came into the East countrie. And as he looked about, behold there was a well in the field, and lo, three flockes of sheepe lay thereby (for at that well were the flockes watered) and there was a great stone vpon the welles mouth. And thither were all the flockes gathered, and they rolled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the sheepe, and put the stone againe vpon the welles mouth in his place. And Iaakob sayde vnto them, My brethren, whence be ye? And they answered, We are of Haran. Then he sayd vnto them, Know ye Laban the sonne of Nahor? Who said, We know him. Againe he sayd vnto them, Is he in good health? And they answered, He is in good health, and beholde, his daughter Rahel commeth with the sheepe. Then he sayd, Lo, it is yet hie day, neither is it time that the cattell shoulde be gathered together: water ye the sheepe and go feede them. But they sayde, We may not vntill all the flockes be brought together, and till men rolle the stone from the welles mouth, that we may water the sheepe.
While he talked with them, Rahel also came with her fathers sheepe, for she kept them. And assoone as Iaakob saw Rahel ye daughter of Laban his mothers brother, and the sheepe of Laban his mothers brother, then came Iaakob neere, and rolled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered ye flocke of Laban his mothers brother. And Iaakob kissed Rahel, and lift vp his voyce and wept. (For Iaakob tolde Rahel, that he was her fathers brother, and that he was Rebekahs sonne) then she ranne and tolde her father. And when Laban heard tell of Iaakob his sisters sonne, he ranne to meete him, and embraced him and kissed him, and brought him to his house: and he tolde Laban all these things. To whome Laban sayd, Well, thou art my bone and my flesh. and he abode with him the space of a moneth. For Laban sayde vnsto Iaakob, Though thou be my brother, shouldest thou theryfore serue me for nought? tell me, what shalbe thy wages? Now Laban had two daughters, the elder called Leah, and the yonger called Rahel. And Leah was tender eyed, but Rahel was beautifull and faire. And Iaakob loued Rahel, and sayde, I will serue thee seuen yeeres for Rahel thy yonger daughter. Then Laban answered, It is better that I giue her thee, then that I should giue her to another man: abide with me. And Iaakob serued seuen yeres for Rahel, and they seemed vnto him but a few dayes, because he loued her. Then Iaakob sayde to Laban, Giue me my wife, that I may goe in to her: for my terme is ended. Wherefore Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feast. But whe the euening was come, he tooke Leah his daughter and brought her to him, and he went in vnsto her. And Laban gaue his mayde Zilpah to his daughter Leah, to be her seruant. But when the morning was come, behold, it was Leah. Then sayde he to Laban, Wherefore hast thou done thus to mee? did not I serue thee for Rahel? wherfore then hast thou beguiled me? And Laban answered, It is not the maner of this place, to giue the yonger before the elder. Fulfill seuen yeeres for her, and we wil also giue thee this for the seruice, which thou shalt serue me yet seuen yeeres more. Then Iaakob did so, and fulfilled her seuen yeeres, so he gaue him Rahel his daughter to be his wife. Laban also gaue to Rahel his daughter Bilhah his mayde to be her seruant. So entred he in to Rahel also, and loued also Rahel more then Leah, and serued him yet seuen yeeres more. When the Lord saw that Leah was despised, he made her fruitful: but Rahel was barren. And Leah conceiued and bare a sonne, and she called his name Reuben: for she said, Because the Lord hath looked vpon my tribulation, now therefore mine husband will loue me. And she conceiued againe and bare a sonne, and sayde, Because the Lord heard that I was hated, he hath therefore giuen me this sonne also, and she called his name Simeon. And she conceiued againe and bare a sonne, and said, Now at this time wil my husband keepe mee company, because I haue borne him three sonnes: therefore was his name called Leui. Moreouer shee conceiued againe and bare a sonne, saying, Nowe will I prayse the Lord: therefore shee called his name Iudah, and left bearing.

And when Rahel saw that she bare Iaakob no children, Rahel enuied her sister, and said vnto Iaakob, Giue me children, or els I dye. Then Iaakobs anger was kindled against Rahel, and he sayde, Am I in Gods steade, which hath withholden from thee the fruite of the wombe? And she said, Behold my maide Bilhah, goe in to her, and she shall beare vpon my knees, and I shall haue children also by her. Then shee gaue him Bilhah her mayde to wife, and Iaakob went in to her. So Bilhah conceiued and bare Iaakob a sonne. Then said Rahel, God hath giuen sentence on my side, and hath also heard my voyce, and hath giuen mee a sonne: therefore called shee his name, Dan. And Bilhah Rahels maide coceiued againe, and bare Iaakob the second sonne. Then Rahel said, with excellent wrestlings haue I wrestled with my sister, and haue gotten the vpper hande: and shee called his name, Naphtali. And when Leah saw that she had left bearing, shee tooke Zilpah her mayde, and gaue her Iaakob to wife. And Zilpah Leahs mayde bare Iaakob a sonne. Then sayd Leah, A companie commeth: and she called his name, Gad. Againe Zilpah Leahs mayde bare Iaakob another sonne. Then sayde Leah, Ah, blessed am I, for the daughters will blesse me. and she called his name, Asher. Nowe Reuben went in the dayes of the wheateharvest, and founde mandrakes in the fielde and brought them vnto his mother Leah. Then sayde Rahel to Leah, Giue me, I pray thee, of thy sonnes mandrakes. But shee answered her, Is it a small matter for thee to take mine husband, except thou take my sonnes mandrakes also? Then sayde Rahel, Therefore he shall sleepe with thee this night for thy sonnes mandrakes. And Iaakob came from the fielde in the euening, and Leah went out to meete him, and sayde, Come in to mee, for I haue bought and payed for thee with my sonnes mandrakes: and he slept with her that night. And God heard Leah and shee conceiued, and bare vnsto Iaakob the fift sonne. Then said Leah, God hath giuen me my reward, because I gaue my mayde to my husband, and she called his name Issachar. After, Leah conceiued againe, and bare Iaakob the sixt sonne. Then Leah said, God hath endued me with a good dowrie: nowe will mine husband dwell with me, because I haue borne him sixe sonnes: and she called his name Zebulun. After that, shee bare a daughter, and shee called her name Dinah. And God remembred Rahel, and God heard her, and opened her wombe. So she conceiued and bare a sonne, and said, God hath taken away my rebuke. And shee called his name Ioseph, saying, The Lord wil giue me yet another sonne.

And assoone as Rahel had borne Ioseph, Iaakob said to Laban, Sende me away that I may go vnto my place and to my countrey.
Give me my wiues and my children, for whom I haue serued thee, and let me go: for thou knowest what servuice I haue done thee. To whom Laban answerd, If I haue nowe found fauour in thy sight tarie: I haue perceiued that the Lord hath blessed me for thy sake. Also he said, Appoynt vnto me thy wages, and I will giue it thee. But he sayd vnto him, Thou knowest, what servuice I haue done thee, and in what taking thy cattell hath bene vnder me. For the litle, that thou haddest before I came, is increased into a multitude: and the Lord hath blessed thee by my comming: but nowe when shall I trauell for mine owne house also? Then he saide, What shall I giue thee? And Iaakob answerd, Thou shalt giue mee nothing at all: if thou wilt doe this thing for mee, I will returne, feede, and keepe thy sheepe. I wil passe through all thy flockes this day, and separate from them all the sheepe with litle spots and great spots, and al blacke lambes among the sheepe, and the great spotted, and litle spotted among the goates: and it shalbe my wages. So shall my righteousnesse answere for me hereafter, when it shall come for my rewarde before thy face, and every one that hath not litle or great spots among the goates, and blacke among the sheepe, the same shalbe theft with me. Then Laban sayde, Goe to, woulde God it might be according to thy saying. Therefore he took out the same day the hee goates that were partie coloured and with great spots, and all the shee goates with little and great spots, and all that had white in them, and all the blacke among the sheepe, and put them in the keeping of his sonnes. And hee set three dayes iourney betweene himselfe and Iaakob. And Iaakob kept the rest of Labans sheepe. Then Iaakob tooke rods of greene popular, and of hasell, and of the chesnut tree, and pilled white strakes in them, and made the white appeare in the rods. Then he put the rods, which he had pilled, in the gutters and watering troughes, when the sheepe came to drink, before the sheepe. (for they were in heate, when they came to drinke) And the sheepe were in heate before the rods, and afterward brought forth yong of partie colour, and with small and great spots. And Iaakob parted these lambes, and turned the faces of the flocke towards these lambes partie coloured and all maner of blacke, among the sheepe of Laban: so hee put his owne flockes by themselues, and put them not with Labans flocke. And in every ramming time of the stronger sheepe, Iaakob layde the rods before the eyes of the sheepe in the gutters, that they might conceiue before the rods. But when the sheepe were feeble, hee put them not in: and so the feeble were Labans, and the stronger Iaakobs. So the man increased exceedingly, and had many flockes, and maide seruantes, and men seruants, and camels and asses.

Now he heard the words of Labans sonnes, saying, Iaakob hath taken away all that was our fathers, and of our fathers goods hath he gotten all this honour. Also Iaakob beheld the countenance of Laban, that it was not towards him as in times past: And the Lord had said vnpto Iaakob, Turne againe into the lande of thy fathers, and to thy kinred, and I wilbe with thee. Therefore Iaakob sent and called Rahel and Leah to the fielde vnpto his flocke. Then sayde hee vnpto them, I see your fathers countenance, that it is not towards me as it was wont, and the God of my father hath bene with me. And yee knowe that I haue serued your father with all my might. But your father hath deceiued me, and changed my wages tenne times: but God suffred him not to hurt me. If he thus sayd, The spotted shall be thy wages, then all the sheepe bare spotted: and if he sayd thus, the party coloured shalbe thy rewarde, then bare all the sheepe particoloured. Thus hath God taken away your fathers substance, and giuen it me. For in ramming time I lifted vp mine eyes and saw in a dreame, and beholde, ye hee goates leaped vpon the shee goates, that were partie coloured with litle and great spots spotted. And the Angel of God sayde to mee in a dreame, Iaakob. And I answered, Lo, I am here. And he sayde, Lift vp nowe thine eyes, and see all the hee goates leaping vpon ye shee goates that are partie coloured, spotted with litle and great spots: for I haue seene all that Laban doeth vnto thee. I am the God of Beth-el, where thou anoyntedst the pillar, where thou vowedst a vowe vnto me. Nowe arise, get thee out of this countrie and returne vnto ye land where thou wast borne. Then answered Rahel and Leah, and sayde vnto him, Haue wee any more porcion and inheritance in our fathers house? Doeth not he count vs as strangers? for he hath solde vs, and hath eaten vp and consumed our money. Therefore all the riches, which God hath taken from our father, is ours and our childrens: nowe then whatsoeuer God hath saide vnto thee, doe it. Then Iaakob rose vp, and set his sonnes and his wiues vpon camels. And he caried away all his flockes, and al his substance which he had gotten, to wit, his riches, which he had gotten in Padan Aram, to goe to Izhak his father vnto the land of Canaan. Whe Laban was gone to shere his sheepe, Then Rahel stole her fathers idoles. Thus Iaakob stole away ye heart of Laban the Aramite: for he told him not that he fled. So fled he with all that he had, and he rose vp, and passed the riuer, and set his face towarde mount Gilead. And the third day after was it told Laban, that Iaakob fled. Then he tooke his brethren with him, and followed after him seuen dayes iourney, and ouertooke him at mount Gilead. And God came to Laban the Aramite in a dreame by night, and sayde vnto him, Take heede that thou speake not to Iaakob ought saue good. Then Laban ouertooke Iaakob, and Iaakob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban also with his brethren pitched vpon mount Gilead. Then Laban sayde to Iaakob, What hast thou done? thou hast euen stolen away mine heart and caried away my daughters as though they had bene taken captiues with the sworde. Wherfore diddest thou flie so secretly and steale away from me, and diddest not tel me, that I might haue sent thee foorth with mirth and with songs, with timbrel and with harpe? But thou hast not suffered me to kisse my sonnes and my daughters: nowe thou hast done foolishly in doing so. I am able to do you euill: but the God of your father spake vnto me yesternight, saying, Take heed that thou speake not to Iaakob ought saue good. Nowe though thou wentest thy way, because thou greatly longedst after thy fathers house, yet wherefore hast thou stolen my gods? Then Iaakob answered, and said to Laban, Because I was afraid, and thought that thou wouldest haue taken thy daughters from me. But with whome thou findest thy gods, let him not liue. Search thou before our brethre what I haue of thine, and take it to thee, (but Iaakob wist not that Rahel had stolen them) Then came Laban into Iaakobs tent, and into Leahs tent, and into the two maides tentes, but founde them not. So hee went out of Leahs tent, and entred into Rahels tent. (Nowe Rahel had taken the idoles, and put them in the camels litter and sate downe vpon them) and Laban searched al the tent, but found them not. Then said she to her father, My Lord, be not angrie that I cannot rise vp before thee: for the custome of women is vpon me: so he searched, but found not the idoles. The Iaakob was wroth, and chode with Laban: Iaakob also answered and sayd to Laban, What haue I trespassed? what haue I offended, that thou hast pursued after me? Seeing thou hast searched all my stuffe, what hast thou foud of all thine houshould stuffe? put it here before my brethren and thy brethren, that they may iudge betweene vs both. This twenty yere I haue bin with thee: thine ewes and thy goates haue not cast their yong, and the rammes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. Whatsoeuer was torne of beasts, I brought it not vnto thee, but made it good my selfe: of mine hand diddest thou require it, were it stolen by day or stolen by night. I was in the day consumed with heate, and with frost in the night, and my sleepe departed from mine eyes. Thus haue I bene twentie yeere I haue bin with thee: thine ewes and thy goates haue not cast their yong, and the rammes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. Whatsoeuer was torne of beasts, I brought it not vnto thee, but made it good my selfe: of mine hand diddest thou require it, were it stolen by day or stolen by night. I was in the day consumed with heate, and with frost in the night, and my sleepe departed from mine eyes. Thus haue I bene twentie yeere in thine house, and serued thee fourteene yeeres for thy two daughters, and sixe yeeres for thy sheepe, and thou hast changed my wages tenne times. Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the feare of Izhak had bene with me, surely thou haddest sent me away nowe emptie: but God behelde my tribulation, and the labour of mine hads, and rebuked thee yester night. Then Laban answered, and saide vnto Iaakob, These daughters are my daughters, and these sons are my sons, and these sheepe are my sheepe, and all that thou seest, is mine, and what can I doe this day vnto these my daughters, or to their sons which they haue borne? Nowe therefore come and let vs make a couenant, I and thou, which may be a witnes betweene me and thee. Then tooke Iaakob a stone, and set it vp as a pillar: And Iaakob sayde vnto his brethren, Gather stones: who brought stones, and made an heape, and they did eate there vpon the heape. And Laban called it Iegar-sahadutha, and Iaakob called it Galeed. For Laban sayd, This heape is witnesse betweene me and thee this day: therefore he called the name of it Galeed. Also he called it Mizpah, because he said, The Lord looke betweene me and thee, when we shalbe departed one from another, If thou shalt vexe my daughters, or shalt take wiues beside my daughters: there is no man with vs, beholde, God is witnesse betweene me and thee. Moreouer Laban sayd to Iaakob, Beholde this heape, and behold the pillar, which I haue set betweene me and thee, This heape shall be witnesse, and the pillar shall be witnesse, that I will not come ouer this heape to thee, and that thou shalt not passe ouer this heape and this pillar vntoo me for euill. The God of Abraham, and the God of Nabor, and the God of their father be iudge betweene vs: But Iaakob sware by the feare of his father Izhak. Then Iaakob did offer a sacrifice vpon the mount, and called his brethren to eate bread, and they did eate bread, and taried all night in the mount. And earely in the morning Laban rose vp and kissed his sonnes and his daughters, and blessed them, and Laban departing, went vnto his place againe.

and he also commeth against thee and foure hundreth men with him. Then Iaakob was greatly afraid, and was sore troubled, and deuided the people that was with him, and the sheepe, and the beeues, and the camels into two companies. For he said, If Esau come to ye one company and smite it, the other companie shall escape. Moreover Iaakob said, O God of my father Abra-ham, and God of my father Izhak: Lord, which saydest vnto me, Returne vnto thy coutrey and to thy kinred, and I will do thee good, I am not worthy of the least of all the mercies, and al the trueth, which thou hast shewed vnto thy servant: for with my staffe came I ouer this Iorden, and now haue I gotte two bads. I pray thee, Deliuer me from the hande of my brother, from the hande of Esau: for I feare him, least he will come and smite me, and the mother vpon the children. For thou saydest; I will surely doe thee good, and make thy seede as the sande of the sea, which can not be nombred for multitude. And he taryed there the same night, and tooke of that which came to had, a present for Esau his brother: Two hundreth shee goates and twenty hee goates, two hundreth ewes and twentie rammes: Thirtie mylche camels with their coltes, fourtie kine, and ten bullockes, twentie she asses and ten foles. So he deliuered them into the hande of his seruants, euery droue by themselues, and saide vnto his seruants, Passe before me, and put a space betweene droue and droue. And he commanded the formost, saying, If Esau my brother meete thee, and aske thee, saying, Whose seruant art thou? And whither goest thou? And whose are these before thee? Then thou shalt say, They be thy servant Iaakobs: it is a present sent vnto my lord Esau: and beholde, he him selfe also is behinde vs. So likewise commanded he the seconde and the thirde, and all that followed the droues, saying, After this maner, ye shall speake vnto Esau, when ye finde him. And ye shall say moreouer, Beholde, thy servant Iaakob commeth after vs (for he thought, I will appease his wrath with the present that goeth before me, and afterwarde I will see his face: it may be that he will accept me.) So went the present before him: but he taried that night with the companie. And he rose vp the same night, and tooke his two wiues, and his two maides, and his eleuen children, and went ouer the forde Iabbok. And he tooke them, and sent them ouer the riuer, and sent ouer that he had. Now when Iaakob was left him selfe alone, there wrestled a man with him vnto the breaking of the day. And he sawe that he could not preuaile against him: therefore he touched the holowe of his thigh, and the holowe of Iaakobs thigg was loosed, as he wrestled with him. And he saide, Let me goe, for the morning appeareth. Who answered, I will not let thee go except thou blesse me. Then said he vnto him, What is thy name? And he said, Iaakob. Then said he, Thy name shalbe called Iaakob no more, but Israel: because thou hast had power with God, thou shalt also preuaile with men. Then Iaakob demaded, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, Wherefore now doest thou aske my name? and he blessed him there. And Iaakob called the name of the place, Peniel: for, saide he, I haue seene God face to face, and my life is preserued. And the sunne rose vp to him as he passed Peniel, and he halted vpon his thigg. Therefore the children of Israel eate not of the sinewe that shranke in the hollowe of the thigg, vnto this day: because he touched the sinew that shranke in the holow of Iaakobs thigg.

And as Iaakob lift vp his eyes, and looked, behold, Esau came, and with him foure hundreth men: and he deuided the children to Leah, and to Rahel, and to the two maides. And he put the maides, and their children formost, and Leah, and her children after, and Rahel, and Ioseph hindermost. So he went before them and bowed him selfe to the ground seuen times, vntill he came neere to his brother. Then Esau ranne to meete him, and embraced him, and fell on his necke, and kissed him, and they wept. And he lift vp his eyes, and sawe the women, and the children, and saide, Who are these with thee? And he answered, They are ye childre whome God of his grace hath giuen thy servuant. Then came the maides neere, they, and their children, and bowed themselues. Leah also with her children came neere and made obeysance: and after Ioseph and Rahel drew neere, and did reuerence. Then he said, What meanest thou by all this droue, which I met? Who answered, I haue sent it, that I may finde fauour in the sight of my lorde: And Esau said, I haue ynough, my brother: keepe that thou hast to thy selfe. But Iaakob answered, Nay, I pray thee: if I haue found grace nowe in thy sight, then receiue my present at mine hande: for I haue seene thy face, as though I had seene the face of God, because thou hast accepted me. I pray thee take my blessing, that is brought thee: for God hath had mercie on me, and therefore I haue all things: so he compelled him, and he tooke it. And he saide, Let vs take our iourney and go, and I will goe before thee.
Then he answered him, My lord knoweth, that the children are tender, and the ewes and kine with yong vnder mine hande: and if they should ouerdriue them one day, all the flocke would die.
Let now my lord go before his seruant, and I will driue softly, according to ye pase of ye cattel, which is before me, and as the children be able to endure, vntill I come to my lord vnto Seir.
Then Esau said, I will leaue then some of my folke with thee.
And he answered, what needeth this? let me finde grace in the sight of my lorde. So Esau returned, and went his way that same day vnto Seir. And Iaakob went forwarde towarde Succoth, and built him an house, and made boothes for his cattell: therefore he called the name of the place Succoth. Afterward, Iaakob came safe to Sheche a citie, which is in the lande of Canaan, when he came from Padan Aram, and pitched before the citie.
And there he bought a parcell of ground, where hee pitched his tent, at the hande of the sonnes of Hamor Shechems father, for an hundreth pieces of money. And he set vp there an altar, and called it, The mightie God of Israel.

Then Dinah the daughter of Leah, which she bare vnto Iaakob, went out to see the daughters of that countrey. Whome when Shechem the sonne of Hamor the Hiuite lorde of that countrey sawe, hee tooke her, and lay with her, and defiled her. So his heart claue vnto Dinah the daughter of Iaakob: and he loued the maide, and spake kindely vnto the maide. Then said Shechem to his father Hamor, saying, Get me this maide to wife. (Nowe Iaakob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, and his sonnes were with his cattell in the fielde: therefore Iaakob helde his peace, vntill they were come.) Then Hamor the father of Shechem went out vnto Iaakob to commune with him. And whe the sonnes of Iaakob were come out of the fielde and heard it, it grieued the men, and they were very angry, because he had wrought villenie in Israel, in that he had lyen with Iaakobs daughter: which thing ought not to be done. And Hamor communed with them, saying, the soule of my sonne Shechem longeth for your daughter: giue her him to wife, I pray you. make affinitie with vs: giue your daughters vnto vs, and take our daughters vnto you, And ye shall dwell with vs, and the lande shalbe before you: dwell, and doe your businesse in it, and haue your possessions therein. Shechem also said vnto her father and vnto her brethren, Let me finde fauour in your eyes, and I will giue whatsoeuer ye shall appoint me. Aske of me abundantly both dowrie and giftes, and I will giue as ye appoint me, so that ye giue me the maide to wife. Then the sonnes of Iaakob answered Shechem and Hamor his father, talking deceitfully, because he had defiled Dinah their sister, And they said vnto them, We can not do this thing, to giue our sister to an uncircumcised man: for that were a reproofe vnto vs. But in this will we consent vnto you, if ye will be as we are, that every man childe among you be circumcised: Then will we giue our dughters to you, and we will take your daughters to vs, and will dwell with you, and be one people. But if ye will not hearken vnto vs to be circumcised, then will we take our daughter and depart. Nowe their wordes pleased Hamor, and Shechem Hamors sonne. And the yong man defernd not to doe the thing because he loued Iaakobs daughter: he was also the most set by of all his fathers house. Then Hamor and Shechem his Sonne went vnto the gate of their citie, and communed with the men of their citie, saying, These men are peaceable with vs: and that they may dwell in the land, and doe their affaires therin (for behold, the land hath roume ynough for them) let vs take their daughters to winces, and giue them our daughters. Onely herein will the men consent vnto vs for to dwell with vs, and to be one people, if all the men children among vs be circumcised as they are circumcised. Shall not their flockes and their substance and all their cattell be ours? onely let vs consent herein vnto them, and they will dwell with vs. And vnto Hamor, and Shechem his sonne hearkened all that went out of the gate of his citie: and all the men children were circumcised, even all that went out of the gate of his citie. And on the thirde day (when they were sore) two of the sonnes of Iaakob, Simeon and Leui, Dinahs brethren tooke either of them his sworde and went into the citie boldly, and slue euery male. They slewe also Hamor and Shechem his sonne with the edge of the sword, and tooke Dinah out of Shechems house, and went their way. Againe the other sons of Jacob came upon the dead, and spoiled the city, because they had defiled their sister. They took their sheep and their beeves, and their asses, and whatsoever was in the city, and in the fields. Also they carried away captive and spoiled all their goods, and all their children and their wives, and all that was in the houses. Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, You have troubled me, and made me stinke among the inhabitants of the land, as well the Canaanites, as the Perizzites, and I being few in number, they shall gather themselves together against me, and slay me, and so shall I, and my house be destroyed. And they answered, Should he abuse our sister as a whore?

Then God said to Jacob, Arise, go up to Beth-el and dwell there, and make there an altar unto God, that appeared unto thee, when thou fleddest from Esau thy brother. Then said Jacob to his household and to all that were with him, Put away the strange gods that are among you, and cleanse your selves, and change your garments: For we will rise and go up to Beth-el, and I will make an altar there unto God, which heard me in the day of my tribulation, and was with me in the way which I went. And they gave unto Jacob all the strange gods, which were in their hands, and all their earings which were in their ears, and Jacob hid them under an oak, which was by Shechem. Then they went on their journey, and the fear of God was upon the cities that were round about them: so that they did not follow after the sons of Jacob. So came Jacob to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan: (the same is Beth-el) he and all the people that was with him. And he built there an altar, and had called the place, The God of Beth-el, because that God appeared unto him there, when he fled from his brother. Then Deborah Rebekah's nurse dyed, and was buried beneath Beth-el under an oak: and he called the name of it Allon Bachuth. Again God appeared unto Jacob, after he came out of Padan Aram, and blessed him. Moreover God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name shall be no more called Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name: and he called his name Israel. Again God said unto him, I am God all sufficient. growe, and multiply. a nation and a multitude of nations shall spring of thee, and Kings shall come out of thy loynes. Also I will give the lande, which I gave to Abraham and Izhak, vnto thee: and vnto thy seede after thee will I giue that land. So God ascended from him in the place where he had talked with him. And Iaakob set vp a pillar in the place where he talked with him, a pillar of stone, and powred drinke offering thereon: also hee powred oyle thereon. And Iaakob called the name of the place, where God spake with him, Beth-el. Then they departed from Beth-el, and when there was about halfe a daies iourney of ground to come to Ephrath, Rahel travailed, and in travailing she was in perill. And whe she was in paines of her labour, the midwife saide vnto her, Feare not: for thou shalt haue this sonne also. Then as she was about to yeelde vp the Ghost (for she died) she called his name Benoni, but his father called him Beniamin. Thus died Rahel, and was buried in the way to Ephrath, which is Beth-lehem. And Iaakob set a pillar vpon her graue: This is the pillar of Rahels graue vnto this day. Then Israel went forwarde, and pitched his tent beyond Migdal-eder. Now, when Israel dwelt in that land, Reuben went, and lay with Bilhah his fathers concubine, and it came to Israels eare. And Iaakob had twelue sonnes. The sonnes of Leah: Reuben Iaakobs eldest sonne, and Simeon, and Leui, and Judah, and Issachar, and Zebulun. The sonnes of Rahel: Ioseph and Beniamin. And the sonnes of Bilhah Rahels maide: Dan and Naphtali. And the sonnes of Zilpah Leahs maide: Gad and Asher. These are the sonnes of Iaakob, which were borne him in Padan Aram. Then Iaakob came vnto Izhak his father to Mamre a citie of Arbah: this is Hebron, where Abraham and Izhak were strangers. And the daies of Izhak were an hundreth and fourescore yeeres. And Izhak gaue vp the ghost and died, and was gathered vnto his people, being olde and full of daies: and his sonnes Esau and Iaakob buried him.

Nowe these are the generations of Esau, which is Edom. Esau tooke his wiues of the daughters of Canaan: Adah the daughter of Elon an Hittite, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon an Hiuite, And tooke Basemath Ishmaels daughter, sister of Nebaioth. And Adah bare vnto Esau, Eliphaz: and Basemath bare Reuel. Also Aholibamah bare Ieush, and Iaalam, and Korah: these are the sonnes of Esau which were borne to him in the land of Canaan. So Esau tooke his wiues and his sonnes, and his daughters, and all the soules of his house, and his flocks, and all his cattell, and all his substance, which he had gotten in the land of Canaan, and went into an other countrey from his brother Iaakob. For their riches were so great, that they could not dwell together, and the lande, wherein they were strangers, coulde not receiue them because of their flockes. Therefore dwelt Esau in mount Seir: this Esau is Edom. So these are the generations of Esau father of Edom in mount Seir. These are the names of Esau’s sonnes: Eliphaz, the sonne of Adah, the wife of Esau, and Reuel the sonne of Bashemath, the wife of Esau. And the sonnes of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Esau’s sonne, and bare vnto Eliphaz, Amalek: these be the sonnes of Adah Esau’s wife. And these are the sonnes of Reuel: Nahath, and Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah: these were the sonnes of Bashemath Esau’s wife. And these were the sonnes of Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon Esau’s wife: for she bare vnto Esau, Ieush, and Iaalam, and Korah. These were Dukes of the sonnes of Esau: the sonnes of Eliphaz, the first borne of Esau: Duke Teman, Duke Omar, Duke Zepho, Duke Kenaz, Duke Korah, Duke Gatam, Duke Amalek: these are the Dukes that came of Eliphaz in the land of Edom: these were the sonnes of Adah. And these are the sonnes of Reuel Esau’s sonne: Duke Nahath, Duke Zerah, Duke Shammah, Duke Mizzah: these are the Dukes that came of Reuel in the land of Edom: these are the sonnes of Bashemath Esau’s wife. Likewise these were the sonnes of Aholibamah Esau’s wife: Duke Ieush, Duke Iaalam, Duke Korah: these Dukes came of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah Esau’s wife. These are the children of Esau, and these are the Dukes of them: This Esau is Edom. These are the sonnes of Seir the Horite, which inhabited the lande before, Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah. And Dishon, and Ezer, and Dishan: these are the Dukes of the Horites, the sonnes of Seir in the land of Edom. And the sonnes of Lotan were, Hori and Hemam, and Lotans sister was Timna. And the sonnes of Shobal were these: Aluan, and Manahath, and Ebal, Shepho, and Onam. And these are the sonnes of Zibeon: Both Aiah, and Anah: this was Anah that founde mules in the wildernesse, as he fedde his father Zibeons asses. And the children of Anah were these: Dishon and Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah. Also these are the sons of Dishan: Hemdan, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran. The sons of Ezer are these: Bilhan, and Zaauan, and Akan. The sons of Dishan are these: Vz, and Aran. These are the Dukes of the Horites: Duke Lotan, Duke Shobal, Duke Zibeon, Duke Anah, Duke Dishon, Duke Ezer, Duke Dishan: these bee the Dukes of the Horites, after their Dukedomes in the land of Seir. And these are the Kings that reigned in the lande of Edom, before there reigned any King ouer the children of Israel. Then Bela the sonne of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of his citie was Dinhabah. And when Bela dyed, Iobab the sonne of Zerah of Bozra reigned in his steade. When Iobab also was dead, Husham of the land of Temani reigned in his steade. And after the death of Husham, Hadad the sonne of Bedad, which slewe Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his steade, and the name of his citie was Auith. When Hadad was dead, then Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his steade. When Samlah was dead, Shaul of Rehoboth by the river, reigned in his steade. When Shaul dyed, Baal-hanan the sonne of Achbor reigned in his steade.
And after the death of Baal-hanan the sonne of Achbor, Hadad reigned in his stead, and the name of his citie was Pau: and his wives name Mehetabel the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab. Then these are the names of the Dukes of Esau according to their families, their places and by their names: Duke Elah, Duke Pinon, Duke Kenaz, Duke Teman, Duke Mibzar, Duke Magdiel, Duke Iram: these bee the Dukes of Edom, according to their habitations, in the lande of their inheritance.
This Esau is the father of Edom.

37 Iaakob nowe dwelt in the lande, wherein his father was a stranger, in the lande of Canaan. These are the generations of Iaakob, when Ioseph was seenteene yeere olde: he kept sheepe with his brethren, and the childe was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sonses of Zilpah, his fathers wiuies. And Ioseph brought vnto their father their euill saying. Nowe Israel loued Ioseph more then all his sonses, because he begate him in his old age, and he made him a coat of many colours. So when his brethren sawe that their father loued him more then all his brethren, then they hated him, and could not speake peaceably unto him. And Joseph dreamed a dream, and told his brethren, who hated him so much the more. For he said unto them, Heare, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed. Beholde nowe, wee were binding sheues in the middes of the field: and loe, my shefe arose and also stoode vpright, and behold, your sheues compassed rounde about, and did reuerence to my shefe. Then his brethren said to him, What, shalt thou reigne ouer vs, and rule vs? or shalt thou haue altogether dominion ouer vs? And they hated him so much the more, for his dreams, and for his wordes. Againe he dreamed an other dreame, and tolde it his brethren, and saide, Behold, I haue had one dreame more, and beholde, the Sunne and the Moone and eleuen starres did reuerence to me. Then he tolde it vnto his father and to his brethren, and his father rebuked him, and saide vnto him, What is this dreame, which thou hast dreamed? shall I, and thy mother, and thy brethren come in deede and fall on the ground before thee? And his brethren enuied him, but his father noted the saying. Then his brethren went to keepe their fathers sheepe in Shechem. And Israel said vnto Joseph, Doe not thy brethren keepe in Shechem? come and I will send thee to them. And he answered him, I am here. Then he said vnto him, Goe now, see whether it bee well with thy brethren, and how the flocks prosper, and bring me word againe. so he sent him from the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem. Then a man found him: for lo, he was wandring in the fielde, and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou? And he answered, I seeke my brethren: tell me, I pray thee, where they keepe sheepe. And the man said, they are departed hece: for I heard them say, Let vs goe vnto Dothan. Then went Joseph after his brethren, and found them in Dothan. And when they sawe him a farre off, euen before he came at them, they conspired against him for to slay him. For they sayd one to another, Behold, this dreamer commeth. Come now therefore, and let vs slay him, and cast him into some pitte, and wee will say, A wicked beast hath deuoured him: then wee shall see, what will come of his dreams. But when Reuben heard that, he delivered him out of their handes, and said, Let vs not kill him. Also Reuben said vnto them, Shed not blood, but cast him into this pitte that is in the wildernes, and lay no hande vpon him. Thus he said, that he might deliver him out of their hand, and restore him to his father again. Now when Joseph was come unto his brethren, they stript Joseph out of his coat, his particoloured coat that was upon him. And they took him, and cast him into a pit, and the pit was empty, without water in it. Then they sat them down to eat bread: and they lift up their eyes and looked, and behold, there came a company of Ishmeelites from Gilead, and their camels laden with spicerie, and balme, and myrrhe, and were going to carry it down into Egypt. Then Judah said unto his brethren, What availleth it, if we slay our brother, though we keep his blood secret? Come and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and let not our hands be upon him: for he is our brother and our flesh: and his brethren obeyed. Then the Midianites merchant men passed by, and they drew forth, and lifted Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph unto the Ishmeelites for twenty pieces of silver: who brought Joseph into Egypt. Afterward Reuben returned to the pit, and beholde, Joseph was not in the pit: then he rent his clothes, and returned to his brethren, and said, The child is not yonder, and I, whither shall I goe? And they took Joseph’s coat, and killed a kidde of the goates, and dipped the coat in the blood. So they sent that particoloured coat, and they brought it unto their father, and saide, This haue we founde: see nowe, whether it be thy sonnes coat, or no. Then he knewe it and said, It is my sonnes coat: a wicked beast hath devoured him: Joseph is surely torne in pieces. And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackecloth about his loynes, and sorrowed for his sonne a long season. Then all his sonnes and all his daughters rose vp to comfort him, but he would not be comforted, but said, Surely I will goe downe into the grave unto my sonne mourning: so his father wept for him. And the Midianites sold him into Egypt vnto Potiphar an Eunuche of Pharaohs, and his chiefe stewarde.

And at that time Judah went downe from his brethren, and turned in to a man called Hirah an Adullamite. And Judah sawe there the daughter of a man called Suah a Canaanite: and he tooke her to wife, and went in vnto her. So she conceived and bare a sonne, and he called his name Er. And she conceived againe, and bare a sonne, and she called his name Onan. Moreover she bare yet a sonne, whom she called Shelah: and Iudah was at Chezib when she bare him. Then Iudah tooke a 6 wife to Er his first borne sonne whose name was Tamar. Now 7 Er the first borne of Iudah was wicked in the sight of the Lord: therefore the Lord slewe him. Then Iudah said to Onan, Goe 8 in vnto thy brothers wife, and do the office of a kinsman vnto her, and raise vp seede vnto thy brother. And Onan knewe that 9 the seede should not be his: therefore when he went in vnto his brothers wife, he spilled it on the grounde, least he should giue seede vnto his brother. And it was wicked in the eyes of the 10 Lord, which he did: wherefore he slewe him also. Then said Iudah to Tamar his daughter in lawe, Remaine a widowe in thy fathers house, till Shelah my sonne growe vp (for he thought thus, Least he die as well as his brethren.) So Tamar went and dwelt in her fathers house. And in processe of time also the 12 daughter of Shuah Iudahs wife dyed. Then Iudah, when he had left mourning, went vp to his sheepe sherers to Timnah, he, and his neighbour Hirah the Adullamite. And it was tolde Tamar, saying, beholde, thy father in lawe goeth vp to Timnah, to shere his sheepe. Then she put her widowes garments off from her, and couered her with a vaile, and wrapped her selfe, and sate downe in Pethah-enaim, which is by the way to Timnah, because she sawe that Shelah was growen, and she was not giuen vnto him to wife. When Iudah sawe her, he iudged her an whore: for she had couered her face. And he turned to the way towardes her, and saide, Come, I pray thee, let me lie with thee. (for he knewe not that she was his daughter in lawe) And she answered, What wilt thou giue me for to lie with me? Then said he, I will sende thee a kid of the goates from the flocke. and she said, Well, if thou wilt giue me a pledge, till thou sende it. Then he saide, What is the pledge that I shall giue thee? And she answered, Thy signet, and thy cloke, and thy staffe that is in thine hande. So he gaue it her, and lay by her, and she was with childe by him. Then she rose, and went and put her vaile from her and put on her widowes raiment. Afterwarde Iudah sent a kid of the goates by the hande of his neighbour the Adullamite, for to receiue his pledge from the womans hand: but he found her not. Then asked he the men of that place, saying, Where is ye whore, that sate in Enaim by the way side? And they answered, There was no whore here. He came therefore to Iudah againe, and said, I can not finde her, and also the men of the place said, There was no whore there. Then Iudah said, Let her take it to her, lest we be shamed: beholde, I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her. Now after three moneths, one tolde Iudah, saying, Tamar thy daughter in law hath played the whore, and lo, with playing the whore, she is great with childe. Then Iudah saide, Bring ye her foorth and let her be burnt. When she was brought foorth, she sent to her father in law, saying, By the man, vnto whom these things pertaine, am I with childe: and saide also, Looke, I pray thee, whose these are, the seale, and the cloke, and the staffe. Then Iudah knewe them, and said, She is more righteous then I: for she hath done it because I gaue her not to Shelah my sonne. So he lay with her no more. Now, when the time was come that she should be deliuered, beholde, there were twinnes in her wombe. And when she was in trauell, the one put out his hand: and the midwife tooke and bound a red threde about his hand, saying, This is come out first. But when he plucked his hand backe againe, loe, his brother came out, and the midwife said, How hast thou broken the breach vpon thee? and his name was called Pharez. And afterward came out his brother that had the red threde about his hande, and his name was called Zarah.

Now Ioseph was brought downe into Egypt: and Potiphar an Eunuche of Pharaohs (and his chiefe stewarde an Egyptian) bought him at the hande of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him thither. And the Lord was with Ioseph, and he was a man that prospered and was in the house of his master the Egyptian. And his master sawe that the Lord was with him, and that the Lord made all that hee did to prosper in his hande. So Ioseph founde fauour in his sight, and serued him: and he made him ruler of his house, and put all that he had in his hand. And from that time that he had made him ruler ouer his house and ouer all that he had, the Lord blessed the Egyptians house for Iosephs sake: and the blessing of the Lord was vpon all that he had in the house, and in the fielde. Therefore he left all that he had in Iosephs hand, and tooke accompt of nothing, that was with him, save onely of the bread, which he did eate. And Ioseph was a faire person, and well fauoured. Nowe therefore after these thinges, his masters wife cast her eyes vpon Ioseph, and saide, Lye with me. But he refused and said to his masters wife, Beholde, my master knoweth not what he hath in the house with me, but hath committed all that he hath to mine hande. There is no man greater in this house then I: neither hath he kept any thing from me, but only thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do this great wickednes and so sinne against God? And albeit she spake to Ioseph day by day, yet he hearkened not vnto her, to lye with her, or to be in her company. Then on a certaine day Ioseph entred into the house, to doe his businesse: and there was no man of the houshold in the house: Therefore she caught him by his garment, saying, Sleepe with me: but he left his garment in her hand and fled, and got him out. Nowe when she sawe that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled out, She called vnto the men of her house, and tolde them, saying, Beholde, he hath brought in an Ebrewe vnto vs to mocke vs: who came in to me for to haue slept with me: but I cryed with a loude voyce. And when he heard that I lift vp my voice and cried, he left his garment with me, and fled away, and got him out. So she layde vp his garment by her, vntill her lord came home. Then she tolde him according to these words, saying, The Ebrew seruat, which thou hast brought vnto vs, came in to me, to mocke me. But assoone as I lift vp my voyce and cried, he left his garment with me, and fled out. Then when his master heard the wordes of his wife, which she tolde him, saying, After this maner did thy seruant to me, his anger was kindled. And Iosephs master tooke him and put him in prison, in the place, where the kings prisoners lay bounde: and there he was in prison. But the Lord was with Ioseph, and shewed him mercie, and got him fauour in the sight of the master of the prison. And the keeper of the prison committed to Iosephs hande all the prisoners that were in the prison, and whatsoeuer they did there, that did he. And the keeper of the prison looked vnto nothing that was vnder his hande, seeing that the Lord was with him: for whatsoeuer he did, the Lord made it to prosper.

And after these things, the butler of the King of Egypt and his baker offended their lorde the King of Egypt. And Pharaoh was angrie against his two officers, against the chiefe butler, and against the chiefe baker. Therefore he put them in ward in his chiefe stewardes house, in the prison and place where Ioseph was bound. And the chiefe steward gaue Ioseph charge ouer them, and he serued them: and they continued a season in warde. And they both dreamed a dreame, eyther of them his dreame in one night, eche one according to the interpretation of his dreame, both the butler and the baker of the King of Egypt, which were bounde in the prison. And when Ioseph came in vnto them in the morning, and looked vpon them, beholde, they were sad.

And he asked Pharaohs officers, that were with him in his masters warde, saying, Wherefore looke ye so sadly to day? Who answered him, We haue dreamed, eche one a dreame, and there is none to interprete the same. Then Ioseph saide vnto them, Are not interpretations of God? tell them me nowe. So the chiefe butler tolde his dreame to Ioseph, and said vnto him, In my dreame, behold, a vine was before me. And in the vine were three branches, and as it budded, her flowre came foorth: and the clusters of grapes waxed ripe. And I had Pharaohs cup in mine hande, and I tooke the grapes, and wrung the into Pharaohs cup, and I gaue the cup into Pharaohs hand. Then Ioseph sayde vnto him, This is the interpretation of it: The three braunches are three dayes. Within three dayes shall Pharaoh lift vp thine head, and restore thee vnto thine office, and thou shalt giue Pharaohs cup into his hand after the olde maner, when thou wast his butler. But haue me in remembrance with thee, when thou art in good case, and shew mercie, I pray thee, vnto me, and make mention of me to Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring me out of this house. For I was stollen away by theft out of the land of the Ebrewes, and here also haue I done nothing, wherefore they should put mee in the dungeon. And when the chiefe baker sawe that the interpretation was good, hee saide vnto Ioseph, Also mee thought in my dreame that I had three white baskets on mine head. And in the vppermost basket there was of all maner baken meates for Pharaoh: and the birdes did eate them out of the basket vpon mine head. Then Ioseph answered, and saide, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baskets are three dayes: Within three dayes shall Pharaoh take thine head from thee, and shall hang thee on a tree, and the birdes shall eate thy flesh from off thee. And so the third day, which was Pharaohs birthday, hee made a feast vnto all his seruand he lifted up the head of the chief butler, and the head of the chief baker among his servants. And he restored the chief butler unto his butlership, who gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand, But he hanged the chief baker, as Joseph had interpreted unto them. Yet the chief butler did not remember Joseph, but forgave him.

And two years after, Pharaoh also dreamed, and behold, he stood by a river, And loe, there came out of the river seven goodly kine and fatfleshed, and they fedde in a medowe: And loe, seven other kine came vp after the out of the river, euill fauoured and leane fleshed, and stoode by the other kine vpon the brinke of the river. And the euilfauoured and leane fleshed kine did eate vp the seuen welfauoured and fatte kine: so Pharaoh awoke. Againe he slept, and dreamed the second time: and behold, seuen eares of corne grewe vpon one stalk, ranke and goodly. And loe, seuen thinne eares, and blasted with the east winde, sprang vp after them: And the thinne eares devoured the seuen ranke and full eares. then Pharaoh awaked, and loe, it was a dreame. Nowe when the morning came, his spirit was troubled: therefore he sent and called all the soothsayers of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof, and Pharaoh tolde them his dreames: but none coulde interprete them to Pharaoh. Then spake the chief butler vnto Pharaoh, saying, I call to minde my faultes this day. Pharaoh being angrie with his seruantes, put me in ward in the chief stewards house, both me and the chief baker. Then we dreamed a dreame in one night, both I, and he: we dreamed eche man according to the interpretation of his dreame. And there was with vs a yong man, an Ebrew, seruant vnto the chiefe steward, whome when we told, he declared our dreames to vs, to euery one he declared according to his dreame. And as he declared vnto vs, so it came to passe: for he restored me to mine office, and hanged him. Then sent Pharaoh, and called Ioseph, and they brought him hastily out of prison, and he shaued him, and chaunged his rayment, and came to Pharaoh. Then Pharaoh sayde to Ioseph, I haue dreamed a dreame, and no man can interprete it, and I haue hearde say of thee, that when thou hearest a dreame, thou canst interprete it. And Ioseph answered Pharaoh, saying, Without me God shall answere for the wealth of Pharaoh. And Pharaoh sayde unto Ioseph, In my dreame, beholde, I stoode by the banke of the riuer: And lo, there came vp out of the riuer seuen fat fleshed, and welfauoured kine, and they fedde in the medowe. Also loe, seuen other kine came vp after them, poore and very euilfauoured, and leanefleshed: I neuer sawe the like in all the lande of Egypt, for euilfauoured. And the leane and euilfauoured kine did eate vp the first seuen fat kine. And when they had eaten them vp, it could not be knowen that they had eaten them, but they were still as euilfauoured, as they were at the beginning: so did I awake. Moreouer I sawe in my dreame, and beholde, seuen eares sprang out of one stalke, full and faire. And lo, seuen eares, withered, thinne, and blasted with the East winde, sprang vp after them. And the thinne eares deuoured the seuen good eares. Nowe I haue tolde the soothsayers, and none can declare it vnto me. Then Ioseph answered Pharaoh, Both Pharaohs dreames are one. God hath shewed Pharaoh, what he is about to doe. The seuen good kine are seuen yeres, and the seuen good eares are seuen yeeres: this is one dreame. Likewise the seuen thinne and euilfauoured kine, that came out after them, are seuen yeeres: and the seuen emptie eares blasted with the East winde, are seuen yeeres of famine. This is the thing which I haue saide vnto Pharaoh, that God hath shewed vnto Pharaoh, what he is about to doe. Beholde, there come seuen yeeres of great plentie in all the land of Egypt. Againe, there shall arise after them seuen yeeres of famine, so that all the plentie shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt, and the famine shall consume the land: Neither shall the plentie bee known in the land, by reason of this famine that shall come after: for it shalbe exceeding great. And therefore the dreame was doubled vnto Pharaoh the second time, because the thing is established by God, and God hasteth to performe it. Nowe therefore let Pharaoh prouide for a man of vnderstanding and wisedome, and set him ouer the land of Egypt. Let Pharaoh make and appoynt officers ouer the lande, and take vp the fift part of the land of Egypt in the seuen plenteous yeeres. Also let them gather all the foode of these good yeeres that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hand of Pharaoh for foode, in the cities, and let them keepe it. So the foode shall be for the prouision of the lande, against the seuen yeeres of famine, which shalbe in the lande of Egypt, that the land perish not by famine. And the saying pleased Pharaoh and all his servants. Then saide Pharaoh vnto his seruants, Can we finde such a man as this, in whom is the Spirit of God? The Pharaoh said to Ioseph, For as much as God hath shewed thee all this, there is no man of vnderstanding, or of wisedome like vnto thee. Thou shalt be ouer mine house, and at thy word shall all my people be armed, onely in the kings throne will I be aboue thee. Moreover Pharaoh said to Ioseph, Behold, I haue set thee ouer all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh tooke off his ring from his hand, and put it vpon Iosephs hand, and arayed him in garments of fine linnen, and put a golden cheyne about his necke. So he set him vpon the best charet that hee had, saue one: and they cryed before him, Abrech, and placed him ouer all the land of Egypt. Againe Pharaoh saide vnto Ioseph, I am Pharaoh, and without thee shall no man lift vp his hand or his foote in all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh called Iosephs name Zaphnath-paaneah: and he gaue him to wife Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prince of On. then went Ioseph abrode in the land of Egypt. And Ioseph was thirtie yeere old when he stood before Pharaoh king of Egypt: and Ioseph departing from the presence of Pharaoh, went throughout all the land of Egypt. And in the seuen plenteous yeres the earth brought foorth store. And hee gathered vp all the foode of the seuen plenteous yeres, which were in the lande of Egypt, and layde vp foode in the cities: the foode of the fielde, that was round about every citie, layde he vp in the same. So Ioseph gathered wheate, like vnto the sand of the sea in multitude out of measure, vntill he left numbring: for it was without number. Now vnto Ioseph were borne two sonnes (before the yeeres of famine came) which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prince of On bare vnto him. And Ioseph called the name of the first borne Manasseh: for God, said he, hath made me forget all my labour and al my fathers houshold. Also hee called the name of the second, Ephraim: For God, sayde he hath made me fruitfull in the land of mine affliction. So the seuen yeeres of the plentie that was in the land of Egypt were ended. Then began the seuen yeeres of famine to come, according as Ioseph had saide: and the famine was in all landes, but in all the land of Egypt was bread. At the length all the lande of Egypt was affamished, and the people cried to Pharaoh for bread. And Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Goe to Ioseph: what he sayth to you, doe ye. When the famine was vpon all the land, Ioseph opened all places, wherein the store was, and solde vnto the Egyptians: for the famine waxed sore in the land of Egypt. And all countries came to Egypt to bye corne of Ioseph, because the famine was sore in all landes.

Then Iaakob saw that there was foode in Egypt, and Iaakob said vnto his sonnes, Why gaze ye one vpon an other? And he said, Behold, I haue heard that there is foode in Egypt, Get you downe thither, and bie vs foode thence, that we may liue and not die. So went Iosephs ten brethren downe to bye corne of the Egyptians. But Beniamin Iosephs brother woulde not Iaakob send with his brethren: for he saide, Least death should befall him. And the sonnes of Israel came to bye foode among them that came: for there was famine in the land of Canaan. Now Ioseph was gouner of the land, who solde to all the people of the lande: then Iosephs brethren came, and bowed their face to the groud before him. And when Ioseph sawe his brethren, hee knewe them, and made himselfe straunge toward them, and spake to them roughly, and saide vnto them, Whence come yee?
Who answered, Out of the land of Canaan, to bye vitaile. (Now Ioseph knewe his brethren, but they knew not him. And Ioseph remembred the dreames, which he dreamed of them) and he sayde vnto them, Ye are spies, and are come to see the weaknesse of the land. But they sayde vnto him, Nay, my lorde, but to bye vitayle thy seruants are come. Wee are all one mans sonnes: wee meane truely, and thy seruants are no spies. But he saide vnto them, Nay, but yee are come to see the weakenes of the land. And they said, We thy seruants are twelue brethren, the sonnes of one man in the lande of Canaan: and beholde, the yongest is this day with our father, and one is not. Againe Ioseph sayde vnto them, This is it that I spake vnto you, saying, Ye are spies. Hereby ye shall be proued: by the life of Pharaoh, ye shall not goe hence, except your yongest brother come hither.
Send one of you which may fet your brother, and ye shall be kept in prison, that your words may be proued, whether there bee trueth in you: or els by the life of Pharaoh ye are but spies.
So he put them in warde three dayes. Then Ioseph said vnto them the third day, This do, and liue: for I feare God. If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bounde in your prison house, and goe ye, carie foode for the famine of your houses: But bring your yonger brother vnto me, that your wordes may be tried, and that ye dye not: and they did so. And they said one to another, We haue verily sinned against our brother, in that we sawe the anguish of his soule, when he besought vs, and we would not heare him: therefore is this trouble come vpon vs. And Reuben answered them, saying, Warned I not you, saying, Sinne not against the childe, and ye would not heare? and lo, his blood is now required. (And they were not aware that Ioseph vnderstoode them: for he spake vnto them by an interpreter.) Then he turned from them, and wept, and turned to them againe, and communed with them, and tooke Simeon from among them, and bounde him before their eyes. So Ioseph commanded that they should fill their sackes with wheate, and put euery mans money againe in his sacke, and giue them vitaile for the iourney: and thus did he vnto them. And they layed their vitaile vpon their asses, and departed thence. And as one of them opened his sacke for to giue his asse prouender in the ynne, he espyed his money: for lo, it was in his sackes mouth. Then he sayde vnto his brethren, My money is restored: for loe, it is euen in my sacke. And their heart fayled them, and they were astonished, and sayde one to another, What is this, that God hath done vnto vs? And they came vnto Iaakob their father vnto the lande of Canaan, and tolde him all that had befallen them, saying, The man, who is Lord of the lande, spake roughly to vs, and put vs in prison as spyes of the countrey. And we sayd vnto him, We are true men, and are no spies. We be twelve brethren, sonnes of our father: one is not, and the yongest is this day with our father in the land of Canaan. Then the Lord of the countrey sayde vnto vs, Hereby shall I knowe if ye be true men: Leave one of your brethren with me, and take foode for the famine of your houses and depart, And bring your yongest brother vnto me, that I may knowe that ye are no spies, but true men: so will I deliuer you your brother, and yee shall occupie in the land. And as they emptied their sacks, behold, euery mans bundel of money was in his sacke: and when they and their father sawe the bundels of their money, they were afrazyde. Then Iaakob their father said to them, Ye haue robbed me of my children: Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will take Benjamin: all these things are against me. Then Reuben answered his father, saying, Slay my two sons, if I bring him not to thee againe: deliver him to mine hand, and I will bring him to thee againe. But he said, My son shall not go downe with you: for his brother is dead, and he is left alone: if death come vnto him by the way which ye goe, then ye shall bring my gray head with sorrow vnto the grave.

Now great famine was in the land. And when they had eaten up the victual, which they had brought from Egypt, their father said vnto them, Turne againe, and bye vs a little foode. And Judah answered him, saying, The man charged vs by an othe, saying, Neuer see my face, except your brother be with you. If thou wilt sende our brother with vs, we will goe downe, and bye thee foode: But if thou wilt not send him, we wil not go downe: for the man said vnto vs, Looke me not in the face, except your brother be with you. And Israel sayd, Wherefore delt ye so euill with me, as to tell the man, whether ye had yet a brother or no? And they answered, The man asked straitly of our selues and of our kinred, saying, Is your father yet aliue? haue ye any brother? And wee tolde him according to these wordes: could we knowe certainly that he would say, Bring your brother downe? Then sayde Judah to Israel his father, Send the boy with mee, that we may rise and goe, and that we may live and not dye, both we, and thou, and our children. I wil be suertie for him: of mine hand shalt thou require him. If I bring him not to thee, and set him before thee, then let me beare the blame for euer. For except we had made this tarying, dountlesse by this we had returned the second time. Then their father Israel sayd vnto them, If it must needs be so now, do thus: take of the best fruites of the lande in your vessels, and bring the man a present, a little rosen, and a little hony, spices and myrre, nuttes, and almondes: And take double money in your hande, and the money, that was brought againe in your sackes mouthes: cary it againe in your hand, lest it were some oversight. Take also your brother and arise, and go againe to the man. And God almightie giue you mercy in the sight of the man, that hee may deliuer you your other brother, and Benjamin: but I shall be robbed of my childe, as I haue bene.
Thus the men tooke this present, and tooke twise so much money in their hande with Beniamin, and rose vp, and went downe to Egypt and stoode before Ioseph. And whe Ioseph saw Beniamin with them, he sayde to his stewarde, Bring these men home and kill meate, and make ready: for the men shall eate with me at noone. And the man did as Ioseph bad, and brought the men vnto Iosephs house. Nowe when the men were brought into Iosephs house, they were afryd, and sayd, Because of the money, that came in our sackes mouthes at the first time, are we brought, that hee may picke a quarrell against vs, and lay some thing to our charge, and bring vs in bondage and our asses. Therefore came they to Iosephs stewarde, and communed with him at the doore of ye house. And said, Oh syr, we came in deede down hither at the first time to bye foode, And as wee came to an ynne and opened our sackes, behold, euery mans money was in his sackes mouth, euen our money in full weight, but we haue brought it againe in our handes. Also other money haue we brought in our handes to bye foode, but we cannot tell, who put our money in our sackes. And he said, Peace be vnto you, feare not: your God and the God of your father hath giuen you that treasure in your sackes, I had your money: and he brought forth Simeon to them. So the man led them into Iosephs house, and gaue them water to wash their feete, and gaue their asses prouender. And they made ready their present against Ioseph came at noone, (for they heard say, that they should eate bread there) When Ioseph came home, they brought the present into the house to him, which was in their handes, and bowed downe to the grounde before him. And he asked them of their prosperitie, and sayd, Is your father the olde man, of whome ye tolde me, in good health? is he yet aliue? Who answered, Thy seruant our father is in good health, he is yet aliue: and they bowed downe, and made obeysance. And he lifting vp his eyes, beheld his brother Beniamin his mothers sonne, and sayde, Is this your yonger brother, of whome ye tolde me? And he said, God be merciful vnto thee, my sone. And Ioseph made haste (for his affection was inflamed towards his brother, and sought where to weepe) and entred into his chamber, and wept there. Afterward he washed his face, and came out, and refrained himselfe, and sayd, Set on meate. And they prepared for him by himselfe, and for them by themselves, and for the Egyptians, which did eate with him, by themselves, because the Egyptians might not eate bread with the Ebrewes: for that was an abomination vnto the Egyptians. So they sate before him: the eldest according vnto his age, and the yongest according vnto his youth. and the men marueiled among themselves. And they tooke meases from before him, and sent to them: but Beniamins mease was fiue times so much as any of theirs: and they drunke, and had of the best drinke with him.

Afterward he commanded his steward, saying, Fill the mens sackes with foode, as much as they can carry, and put every mans money in his sackes mouth. And put my cup, I meane the siluer cup, in the sackes mouth of the yongest, and his corne money. And he did according to the commandement that Ioseph gave him. And in the morning the men were sent away, they, and their asses. And when they went out of the citie not farre off, Ioseph sayd to his stewarde, Vp, follow after the men: and when thou doest ouertake them, say vnto them, Wherefore haue ye rewarded euill for good? Is that not the cuppe, wherein my Lord drinketh? and in the which he doeth deuine and prophecie? ye haue done euill in so doing. And when he ouertooke them, he sayde those wordes vnto them. And they answered him, Wherefore sayeth my lorde such wordes? God forbid that thy servants should do such a thing. Behold, the money which we found in our sackes mouthes, wee brought againe to thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steale out of thy lordes house siluer or golde? With whomesoever of thy servants it bee found, let him dye, and we also will be my lordes bondmen. And he said, Now then let it be according vnto your wordes: he with whome it is found, shall be my servant, and ye shalbe blamelesse.
Then at once every man tooke downe his sacke to the grounde, and every one opened his sacke. And he searched, and began at the eldest and left at the yongest: and the cuppe was found in Beniamins sacke. Then they rent their clothes, and laded every man his asse, and went againe into the citie. So Judah and his brethren came to Iosephs house (for he was yet there) and they fel before him on the ground. Then Ioseph sayd vnto them, What acte is this, which ye haue done? know ye not that such a man as I, can deuine and prophecie? Then sayd Judah, What shall we say vnto my lord? what shall we speake? and howe can we justifie our selues? God hath found out the wickednesse of thy seruants: beholde, we are seruants to my Lord, both wee, and he, with whome the cuppe is founde. But he answered, God forbid, that I should doe so, but the man, with whome the cuppe is founde, he shalbe my seruant, and go ye in peace vnto your father. Then Iudah drewe neere vnto him, and sayde, O my Lord, let thy seruant nowe speake a worde in my lorde eares, and let not thy wrath be kindled against thy seruant: for thou art euen as Pharaoh. My Lord asked his seruants, saying, Haue ye a father, or a brother? And we answered my Lord, We haue a father that is olde, and a young childe, which he begate in his age: and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loueth him. Now thou saidest vnto thy seruants, Bring him vnto me, that I may set mine eye vpon him. And we answered my lord, The childe can not depart from his father: for if he leaue his father, his father would die. Then saydest thou vnto thy seruants, Except your yonger brother come downe with you, looke in my face no more. So when we came vnto thy seruant our father, and shewd him what my lord had sayd, And our father sayde vnto vs, Goe againe, bye vs a litle foode, Then we answered, We can not go downe: but if our yongest brother go with vs, then will we go downe: for we may not see the mans face, except our yonger brother be with vs. Then thy seruant my father sayde vnto vs, Ye knowe that my wife bare me two sonnes, And the one went out from me, and I said, Of a suretie he is torne in pieces, and I sawe him not since. Nowe yee take this also away from me: if death take him, then yee shall bring my graye head in sorowe to the graue. Nowe therefore, when I come to thy seruant my father, and the childe be not with vs (seeing that his life dependeth on the childes life) Then when hee shall see that the childe is not come, he will die: so shall thy seruants bring the graye head of thy seruant our father with sorowe to the graue. Doubtlesse thy seruant became suertie for the childe to my father, and said, If I bring him not vnto thee againe, then I will beare the blame vnto my father for euer. Nowe therefore, I pray thee, let me thy seruant bide for the childe, as a seruant to my Lord, and let the childe go vp with his brethren. For how can I go vp to my father, if the Then Joseph could not refrain him selfe before all that stood by him, but hee cried, Haue forth every man from me. And there taryed not one with him, while Joseph uttered himselfe vnto his brethren. And hee wept and cried, so that the Egyptians heard: the house of Pharaoh heard also. Then Joseph sayde to his brethren, I am Joseph: doeth my father yet liue? But his brethren could not answere him, for they were astonished at his presence. Againe, Joseph sayde to his brethren, Come neere, I pray you, to mee. And they came neere. And he sayde, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt. Nowe therefore be not sad, neither grieued with your selues, that ye sold me hither: for God did send me before you for your preseruation. For nowe two yeeres of famine haue bene through ye land, and fiue yeeres are behind, wherein neither shalbe earing nor haruest. Wherefore God sent me before you to preserue your posteritie in this land, and to saue you aliue by a great deliuerance. Now the you sent not me hither, but God, who hath made mee a father vnto Pharaoh, and lorde of all his house, and ruler throughout all the land of Egypt. Haste you and go vp to my father, and tel him, Thus saieth thy sonne Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come downe to me, tary not. And thou shalt dwel in ye land of Goshen, and shalt be neere me, thou and thy children, and thy childrens children, and thy sheepe, and thy beastes, and all that thou hast. Also I will nourish thee there (for yet remaine fiue yeeres of famine) lest thou perish through pouertie, thou and thy houshould, and all that thou hast. And behold, your eyes doe see, and the eyes of my brother Beniamin, that my mouth speaketh to you. Therefore tel my father of al mine honour in Egypt, and of all that ye haue seene, and make haste, and bring my father hither. Then hee fell on his brother Beniamins necke, and wept, and Beniamin wept on his necke. Moreover, he kissed all his brethren, and wept vpon them: and afterwarde his brethren talked with him. And the tidinges came vnto Pharaohs house, so that they said, Iosephs brethre are come: and it pleased Pharaoh well, and his seruants. Then Pharaoh said vnto Ioseph, Say to thy brethren, This doe ye, lade your beastes and depart, go to the land of Canaan, And take your father, and your housethoulds, and come to me, and I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and ye shall eate of the fat of the land. And I command thee, Thus doe ye, take you chariots out of the land of Egypt for your children, and for your wives, and bring your father and come. Also regard not your stuffe: for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours. And the children of Israel did so: and Joseph gave them chariots according to the commandement of Pharaoh: he gave them victual also for the iourney. He gave them all, none except, change of raiment: but unto Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five suetes of raiment. And unto his father likewise he sent ten hee asses laden with the best things of Egypt, and ten shee asses laden with wheate, and bread and meate for his father by the way. So sent he his brethren away, and they departed: and he sayde vnto them, fall not out by the way. Then they went vp from Egypt, and came vnto the land of Canaan vnto Iaakob their father, And tolde him, saying, Ioseph is yet aliue, and he also is gouernour ouer all the lande of Egypt, and Iakobs heart failed: for he beleeved them not. And they told him al the words of Ioseph, which he had said vnto the: but when he saw the chariets, which Ioseph had sent to cary him, then the spirit of Iaakob their father revuied. And Israel said, I haue inough: Ioseph my sonne is yet aliue: I will go and see him yer I die. Then Israel tooke his iourney with all that he had, and came to Beer-sheba, and offered sacrifice vnto the God of his father Izhak. And God spake vnto Israel in a vision by night, saying, Iaakob, Iaakob. Who answered, I am here. Then hee sayde, I am God, the God of thy father, feare not to goe downe into Egypt: for I will there make of thee a great nation. I wil go downe with thee into Egypt, and I will also bring thee vp againe, and Ioseph shall put his hand vpon thine eyes. Then Iaakob rose vp from Beer-sheba: and the sonses of Israel caried Iaakob their father, and their children, and their wives in the chariets, which Pharaoh had sent to cary him. And they tooke their cattell and their goods, which they had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and came into Egypt, both Iaakob and all his seede with him, His sonses and his sonses sonses with him, his daughters and his sonses daughters, and al his seede brought he with him into Egypt. And these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into Egypt, even Jacob and his sons: Reuben, Jacob's first born. And the sons of Reuben: Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi. And the sons of Simeon: Iemuel, and Iamin, and Ohad, and Iachin, and Zohar; and Shaul the son of a Canaanitish woman. Also the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. Also the sons of Judah: Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Pharez, and Zerah: (but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan) And the sons of Pharez were Hezron and Hamul. Also the sons of Issachar: Tola, and Phuuah, and Iob, and Shimron. Also the sons of Zebulun: Sered, and Elon, and Iahleel. These are the sons of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob in Padan Aram, with his daughter Dinah. All the souls of his sons and his daughters were thirty and three. Also the sons of Gad: Ziphion, and Haggi, Shuni, and Ezbon, Eri, and Arodi, and Areli. Also the sons of Asher: Imnah, and Ishuah, and Isui, and Beriah, and Serah their sister. And the sons of Beriah: Heber, and Malchiel. These are the children of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter: and these she bare unto Jacob, even sixtene soules. The sons of Rachel Jacob's wife were Joseph and Benjamin. And unto Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh, and Ephraim, which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prince of On bare unto him. Also the sons of Benjamin: Belah, and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera, and Naaman, Ehi, and Rosh, Muppim, and Huppim, and Ard. These are the sons of Rachel, which were borne unto Jacob, fourteene soules in all. Also the sons of Dan: Hushim. Also the sons of Naphtali: Iahzeel, and Guni, and Iezer, and Shillem. These are the sons of Bilhah, which Laban gave unto Rachel his daughter, and shee bare these to Jacob, in all, seuen soules. All the soules, that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his loynes (beside Jacob's sons' wives) were in the whole, three score and sixe soules. Also the sons of Joseph, which were borne him in Egypt, were two soules: so that all the soules of the house of Jacob, which came into Egypt, are seuentie. The he sent Judah before him unto Joseph, to direct his way unto Goshen, and they came into the land of Goshen. Then Joseph made ready his charret and went vp to Goshen to meete Israel his father, and presented himselfe unto him and fel on his necke, and wept vpon his necke a good while. And Israel sayde unto Ioseph, Now let me die, since I haue seene thy face, and that thou art yet aliue. Then Ioseph said to his brethren, and to his fathers house, I wil go vp and shew Pharaoh, and tell him, My brethren and my fathers house, which were in the land of Canaan, are come vnto me, And the men are shepheardes, and because they are shepheardes, they haue brought their sheepe and their cattell, and all that they haue. And if Pharaoh call you, and aske you, What is your trade? Then ye shall say, Thy seruants are men occupied about cattell, from our childehood euen vnto this time, both we and our fathers: that yee may dwell in the lande of Goshen: for every sheepe keeper is an abomination vnto the Egyptians.

Then came Ioseph and tolde Pharaoh, and sayde, My father, and my brethren, and their sheepe, and their cattell, and all that they haue, are come out of the land of Canaan, and behold, they are in the land of Goshen. And Ioseph tooke part of his brethren, euen fiue men, and presented them vnto Pharaoh. Then Pharaoh said vnto his brethren, What is your trade? And they answered Pharaoh, Thy seruants are shepheardes, both we and our fathers. They sayde moreouer vnto Pharaoh, For to soiourne in ye lande are we come: for thy seruants haue no pastur for their sheepe, so sore is ye famine in the lande of Canaan. Nowe therefore, we pray thee, let thy seruants dwel in the land of Goshen. Then spake Pharaoh to Ioseph, saying, Thy father and thy brethren are come vnto thee. The lande of Egypt is before thee: in the best place of the land make thy father and thy brethren dwel: let the dwel in the land of Goshen: and if thou knowest that there be men of actiuitie among them, make them rulers ouer my cattell. Ioseph also brought Iaakob his father, and set him before Pharaoh. And Iaakob saluted Pharaoh. Then Pharaoh sayde vnto Iaakob, Howe olde art thou? And Iaakob sayd vnto Pharaoh, The whole time of my pilgrimage is an hundreth and thirty yeeres: fewe and euill haue the dayes of my life bene, and I haue not attayned vnto the yeeres of the life of my fathers, in the dayes of their pilgrimages. And Iaakob tooke leaue of Pharaoh, and departed from the presence of Pharaoh. And Ioseph placed his father, and his brethren, and gaue them possession in the lande of Egypt, in the best of the land, euen in the lande of Rameses, as Pharaoh had commanded. And Ioseph nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his fathers household with bread, even to the young children. Now there was no bread in all the land: for the famine was exceeding sore: so that the land of Egypt, and the land of Canaan were famished by reason of the famine. And Ioseph gathered all the money, that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought, and Ioseph laid up the money in Pharaoh's house. So when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, then all the Egyptians came unto Ioseph, and said, Give us bread: for why should we die before thee? for our money is spent. Then said Ioseph, Bring your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle, if your money be spent. So they brought their cattle unto Ioseph, and Ioseph gave them bread for the horses, and for the flocks of sheep, and for the herds of cattle, and for the asses: so he fed them with bread for all their cattle that year. But when the year was ended, they came unto him the next year, and said unto him, We will not hide from our lord, that since our money is spent, and my lord hath the herds of cattle, there is nothing left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies and our land.
Why shall we perish in thy sight, both we, and our land? bye us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be bonds to Pharaoh: therefore give us seed, that we may live and not dye, and that the land go not to waste. So Ioseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh: for the Egyptians sold every man his ground because the famine was sore upon the: so the land became Pharaoh's. And he removed the people unto the cities, from one side of Egypt even to the other. Only the land of the Priests bought he not: for the Priests had an ordinance of Pharaoh, and they did eat their ordinance, which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they sold not their ground.
Then Ioseph said unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day, and your land for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you: sow therefore the ground. And of the increase ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be yours for the seed of the field, and for your meat, and for them of your households, and for your children to eat. Then they answered, Thou hast saved our lives: let us find grace in the sight of my Lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants. Then Ioseph made it a lawe ouer the land of Egypt vnto this day, that Pharaoh should haue the fift part, except the land of the priests only, which was not Pharaohs. And Israel dwelt in the lande of Egypt, in the countrey of Goshen: and they had their possessions therein, and grewe and multiplied exceedingly. Moreover, Iaakob liued in the lande of Egypt seuenteene yeeres, so that the whole age of Iaakob was an hundreth fourtie and seuen yeere. Now when the time drewe neere that Israel must dye, he called his sonne Ioseph, and sayde vnto him, If I haue nowe founde grace in thy sight, put thine hand nowe vnder my thigh, and deale mercifully and truely with me: burie me not, I pray thee, in Egypt. But when I shall sleepe with my fathers, thou shalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury mee in their buryall. And he answered, I will doe as thou hast sayde. The he said, Sweare vnto me. And he sware vnto him. And Israel worshipped towards the beds head.

Againe after this, one sayd to Ioseph, Loe, thy father is sicke: then hee tooke with him his two sonnes, Manasseh and Ephraim. Also one told Iaakob, and said, Behold, thy sonne Ioseph is come to thee, and Israel tooke his strength vnto him and sate vpon the bed. Then Iaakob sayde vnto Ioseph, God almightie appeared vnto me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me. And he sayde vnto me, Behold, I wil make thee fruitefull, and will multiplie thee, and will make a great number of people of thee, and will giue this lande vnto thy seede after thee for an everlasting possession. And now thy two sonnes, Manasseh and Ephraim, which are borne vnto thee in the lande of Egypt, before I came to thee into Egypt, shall be mine, as Reuben and Simeon are mine. But the linage, which thou hast begotten after them, shalbe thine: they shall be called after the names of their brethren in their inheritance. Nowe when I came from Padan, Rahel died vpon mine hande in the lande of Canaan, by the way when there was but halfe a dayes iourney of grounde to come to Ephrath: and I buryed her there in the way to Ephrath: the same is Beth-lehem. Then Israel beheld Iosephs sonnes and sayd, Whose are these? And Ioseph sayd vnto his father, They are my sonnes, which God hath giuen mee here. Then he sayd, I pray thee, bring them to me, that I may blesse them: (For the eyes of Israel were dimme for age, so that hee coulde not well see) Then he caused them to come to him, and he kissed them and embraced them. And Israel said unto Joseph, I had not thought to have seen thy face: yet lo, God hath shewed me also thy seed. And Joseph took them away from his knees, and did reverence down to the ground. Then took Joseph them both, Ephraim in his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand toward Israel's right hand, so he brought them unto him. But Israel stretched out his right hand, and layde it on Ephraims head, which was the younger, and his left hande vpon Manassehs head (directing his handes of purpose) for Manasseh was the elder. Also he blessed Joseph and said, The God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Izhak did walke, the God, which hath fed me al my life long vnto this day, blesse thee. The Angel, which hath deliuered me from all euill, blesse the children, and let my name be named vpon them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Izhak, that they may growe as fish into a multitude in the middes of the earth. But when Joseph saw that his father layde his right hande vpon the head of Ephraim, it displeased him: and he stayed his fathers hand to remoue it from Ephraims head to Manassehs head. And Joseph sayde vnto his father, Not so, my father, for this is the eldest: put thy right hand vpon his head. But his father refused, and sayd, I know well, my sonne, I know well: he shalbe also a people, and he shalbe great likewise: but his yonger brother shalbe greater then he, and his seede shall be full of nations. So he blessed them that day, and sayde, In thee Israel shall blesse, and say, God make thee as Ephraim and as Manasseh. and he set Ephraim before Manasseh. Then Israel said vnto Joseph, Behold, I die, and God shall be with you, and bring you againe vnto the land of your fathers. Moreouer, I haue giuen vnto thee one portion aboue thy brethren, which I gate out of the hand of the Amorite by my sworde and by my bowe.

Then Jaakob called his sonnes, and sayde, Gather your selues together, that I may tell you what shall come to you in the last dayes. Gather your selues together, and heare, ye sonnes of Jaakob, and hearken vnto Israel your father. Reuben mine eldest sonne, thou art my might, and the beginning of my strength, the excellencie of dignitie, and the excellencie of power: Thou wast light as water: thou shalt not be excellent, because thou wentest vp to thy fathers bed: then diddest thou defile my bed, thy dignitie is gone. Simeon and Leui, brethren in euill, the instruments of crueltie are in their habitations. Into their secret let not my soule come: my glory, be not thou ioyned with their assembly: for in their wrath they slew a man, and in their selfe will they digged downe a wall. Cursed be their wrath, for it was fierce, and their rage, for it was cruell: I will deuide them in Iaakob, and scatter them in Israel. Thou Iudah, thy brethere shall praise thee: thine hande shalbe in the necke of thine enemies: thy fathers sonnes shall bowe downe vnto thee. Iudah, as a Lions whelpe shalt thou come vp from the spoyle, my sonne. He shall lye downe and couche as a Lion, and as a Lionesse: Who shall stirre him vp? The scepter shall not depart from Iudah, nor a Lawegiuer from betweene his feete, vntill Shiloh come, and the people shall be gathered vnto him. He shall binde his Asse foale vnto ye vine, and his Asses colte vnto the best vine. hee shall wash his garment in wine, and his cloke in the blood of grapes. His eyes shalbe red with wine, and his teeth white with milke. Zebulun shall dwell by the sea side, and he shalbe an hauen for shippes: and his border shalbe vnto Zidon. Issachar shalbe a strong asse, couching downe betweene two burdens: And he shall see that rest is good, and that the land is pleasant, and he shall bow his shoulder to beare, and shalbe subiect vnto tribute. Dan shall iudge his people as one of the tribes of Israel. Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder by the path, byting the horse heeles, so that his rider shall fall backward. O Lord, I haue waited for thy saluation. Gad, an hoste of men shall ouercome him, but he shall ouer-come at the last. Concerning Asher, his bread shalbe fat, and he shall giue pleasures for a king. Naphtali shalbe a hinde let goe, giuing goodly wordes. Ioseph shalbe a fruitefull bough, euen a fruitful bough by the well side: the small boughs shall runne vpon the wall. And the archers grieued him, and shotte against him and hated him. But his bowe abode strong, and the hands of his armes were strengthened, by the handes of the mighty God of Iaakob, of whom was the feeder appointed, by the stone of Israel, Euen by the God of thy father, who shall helpe thee, and by the almighty, who shall blesse thee with heauenly blessinges from aboue, with blessings of the deepe, that lyeth beneath, with blessings of the brestes, and of the wombe. The blessings of thy father shalbe stronger then the blessings of mine elders: vnto the ende of the hilles of the worlde they shall be on the head of Ioseph, and on the top of the head of him that was separate from his brethren. Beniamin shall rauine as a wolfe: in the morning he shall deuoure the pray, and at night he shall deuide the spoyle. All these are the twelue tribes of Israel, and thus their father spake vnto them, and blessed them: every one of them blessed hee with a seuerall blessing. And he charged them and sayd vnto them, I am ready to be gathered vnto my people: burie mee with my fathers in the caue, that is in the fielde of Ephron the Hittite, In the caue that is in the field of Machpelah besides Mamre in the land of Canaan: which caue Abraham bought with the fielde of Ephron the Hittite for a possession to burie in. There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife: there they buryed Izhak and Rebekah his wife: and there I buried Leah. The purchase of the fielde and the caue that is therein, was bought of the children of Heth. Thus Iaakob made an end of giuing charge to his sonnes, and plucked vp his feete into the bed and gaue vp the ghost, and was gathered to his people.

Then Ioseph fell vpon his fathers face and wept vpon him, and kissed him. And Ioseph commanded his seruantes the physicians, to enbaume his father, and the physicians enbaumed Israel. So fourtie dayes were accomplished (for so long did the dayes of them that were enbaumed last) and the Egyptians bewayled him seuentie dayes. And when the dayes of his mourning were past, Ioseph spake to the house of Pharaoh, saying, If I haue nowe found fauour in your eyes, speake, I pray you, in the eares of Pharaoh, and say, My father made me sweare, saying, Loe, I die, bury me in my graue, which I haue made me in the land of Canaan: now therefore let me go, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I wil come againe. Then Pharaoh said, Goe vp and bury thy father, as he made thee to sweare. So Ioseph went vp to bury his father, and with him went all the seruants of Pharaoh, both the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt. Likewise all the house of Ioseph, and his brethren, and his fathers house: onely their children, and their sheepe, and their cattell left they in the land of Goshen. And there went vp with him both charets and horsemen: and they were an exceeding great company. And they came to Goren Atad, which is beyond Iorden, and there they made a great and exceeding sore lamentation: and he mourned for his father seuen dayes. And when the Canaanites the inhabitants of the lande sawe the mourning in Goren Atad, they sayde, This is a great mourning vnto the Egyptians: wherefore the name thereof was called Abel Mizraim, which is beyond Iorden. So his sonnes did vnto him, according as he had commanded them: For his sonnes caried him into the lande of Canaan, and buried him in the caue of the fielde of Machpelah, which caue Abraham bought with the fielde, to be a place to bury in, of Ephron the Hittite besides Mamre. Then Ioseph returned into Egypt, he and his brethren, and al that went vp with him to bury his father, after that he had buried his father. And when Iosephs brethren saw that their father was dead, they sayde, It may be that Ioseph will hate vs, and will pay vs againe all the euill, which we did vnto him. Therefore they sent vnto Ioseph, saying, Thy father commanded before his death, saying, Thus shall ye say vnto Ioseph, Forgiue now, I pray thee, the trespasse of thy brethren, and their sinne: for they rewarded thee euil. And nowe, we pray thee, forgiue the trespasse of the seruants of thy fathers God. And Ioseph wept, when they spake vnto him. Also his brethren came vnto him, and fell downe before his face, and sayde, Beholde, we be thy seruants. To whome Ioseph sayde, Feare not: for am not I vnder God? When ye thought euill against mee, God disposed it to good, that he might bring to passe, as it is this day, and saue much people aliue. Feare not nowe therefore, I will nourish you, and your children: and hee comforted them, and spake kindly vnto them. So Ioseph dwelt in Egypt, he, and his fathers house: and Ioseph liued an hundreth and tenne yeere. And Ioseph saw Ephraims children, euen vnto the third generation: also the sonsne of Machir the sonne of Manasseh were brought vp on Iosephs knees. And Ioseph sayd vnto his brethren, I am ready to dye, and God will surely visite you, and bring you out of this land, vnto ye land which hee sware vnto Abraham, vnto Izhak, and vnto Iaakob. And Ioseph tooke an othe of the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visite you, and ye shall cary my bones hence. So Ioseph died, when he was an hundreth and ten yere olde: and they enbaumed him and put him in a chest in Egypt.
Now these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into Egypt (every man and his household came thither with Jacob) Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin, Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. So all the souls, that came out of the loines of Jacob, were seuentie souls: Joseph was in Egypt already. Now Joseph died and all his brethren, and that whole generation. And the children of Israel brought forth fruite and encreased in abundance, and were multiplied, and were exceeding mightie, so that the land was full of them. Then there rose vp a newe King in Egypt, who knewe not Joseph. And he sayde vnto his people, Beholde, the people of the children of Israel are greater and mightier then we. Come, let vs worke wisely with them, least they multiplie, and it come to passe, that if there be warre, they ioyne them selues also vnto our enemies, and fight against vs, and get them out of the land. Therefore did they set taskemasters ouer them, to keepe the vnder with burdens: and they built the cities Pithom and Raamses for the treasures of Pharaoh. But the more they vexed them, the more they multiplied and grewe: therefore they were more grieued against the children of Israel. Wherefore the Egyptians by crueltie caused the children of Israel to serue. Thus they made them weary of their liues by sore labour in clay and in bricke, and in al worke in the fielde, with all maner of bondage, which they layde vpon them most cruelly. Moreover the King of Egypt commanded ye midwiues of the Ebrewe women, (of which the ones name was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah) And sayde, When ye doe the office of a midwife to the women of the Ebrewes, and see them on their stooles, if it be a sonne, then yee shall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then let her liue. Notwithstanding ye midwiues feared God, and did not as the King of Egypt commanded them, but preserved aliue the men children. Then the King of Egypt called for the midwiues, and sayde vnto them, Why haue yee done thus, and haue preserued aliue the men children? And the midwiues answered Pharaoh, Because the Ebrewe women are not as the women of Egypt: for they are liuely, and are deliuered yer the midwife come at them. God therefore prospered the midwiues, and the people multiplied and were very mightie. And because ye midwiues feared God, therefore he made them houses. Then Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, Every man childe that is borne, cast yee into the riuer, but reserue every maide childe aliue.

Then there went a man of the house of Leui, and tooke to wife a daughter of Leui. And the woman coceiued and bare a sonne: and when she saw that he was faire, she hid him three moneths. But when she could no longer hide him, she tooke for him an arke made of reede, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and laide the childe therein, and put it among the bulrushes by the riuers brinke. Now his sister stood a farre off, to wit what would come of him. Then ye daughter of Pharaoh came downe to wash her in the riuer, and her maidens walked by the riuers side: and when shee sawe the arke among the bulrushes, she sent her maide to fet it. Then she opened it, and sawe it was a childe: and beholde, the babe wept: so she had compassion on it, and sayde, This is one of the Ebrewes children. Then said his sister vnto Pharaohs daughter, Shall I go and cal vnto thee a nurce of the Ebrew women to nurce thee the childe? And Pharaohs daughter sayde to her, Goe. So the maide went and called the childes mother, To whome Pharaohs daughter sayde, Take this childe away, and nurce it for me, and I wil reward thee. Then the woman tooke the childe and nurced him. Nowe the childe grewe, and she brought him vnto Pharaohs daughter, and he was as her sonne, and she called his name Moses, because, said she, I drewe him out of the water. And in those dayes, when Moses was grown, he went forth vnto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: also he sawe an Egyptian smiting an Ebrewe one of his brethren. And he looked rounde about, and when he sawe no man, hee slewe the Egyptian, and hid him in the sande. Againe he came forth the second day, and behold, 13 two Ebrewes stroue: and he said vnsto him that did the wrong, Wherefore smitest thou thy fellowe? And hee answered, Who made thee a man of authoritie, and a judge ouer vs? Thinkest thou to kill mee, as thou killedst the Egyptian? Then Moses feared and sayde, Certainly this thing is known. Now Pharaoh heard this matter, and sought to slay Moses: therefore Moses fled from Pharaoh, and dwelt in the lande of Midian, and hee sate downe by a well. And the Priest of Midian had seue daughters, which came and drewe water, and filled the troghes, for to water their fathers sheepe. Then the shepherds came and droue them away: but Moses rose vp and defended them, and watered their sheepe. And whe they came to Reuel their father, he said, Howe are ye come so soone to day? And they saide, A man of Egypt deliuered vs from the hand of the shepherdes, and also drew vs water ynough, and watered the sheepe. Then he saide vnsto his daughters, And where is he? why haue ye so left the man? call him that he may eate bread. And Moses agreed to dwell with the man: who gaue vnsto Moses Zipporah his daughter: And she bare a sonne, whose name he called Gershom: for he said, I haue bene a stranger in a strange lande. Then in processe of time, the King of Egypt dyed, and the children of Israel sighed for the bondage and cryed: and their crie for the bondage came vp vnsto God. Then God heard their mone, and God remembred his couenant with Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob. So God looked upon the children of Israel, and God had respect vnsto them.

When Moses kept the sheepe of Iethro his father in lawe, 3 Priest of Midian, and droue the flocke to the backe side of the desert, and came to the Mountaine of God, Horeb, Then the Angel of the Lord appeared vnsto him in a flame of fire, out of the middes of a bush: and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed. Therefore Moses saide, I will turne aside nowe, and see this great sight, why the bush burneth not. And when the Lord sawe that he turned aside to see, God called vnsto him out of the middes of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he answered, I am here. Then he saide, Come not hither, put thy shooes off thy feete: for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. Moreouer he saide, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Izhak, and the God of Jaakob. Then Moses hid his face: for he was afraid to looke vpon God. Then the Lord said, I haue surely seene the trouble of my people, which are in Egypt, and haue heard their crie, because of their taskemasters: for I knowe their sorowes. Therefore I am come downe to deliver them out of the hande of the Egyptians, and to bring them out of that lande into a good lande and a large, into a lande that floweth with milke and honie, even into the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hiuites, and the Iebusites. And now lo, the crie of the children of Israel is come vnto me, and I haue also seene ye oppression, wherewith the Egyptians oppressse them. Come now therefore, and I will send thee vnto Pharaoh, that thou maiest bring my people the children of Israel out of Egypt. But Moses said vnto God, Who am I, that I should go vnto Pharaoh, and that I should bring the children of Israel out of Egypt? And he answered, Certainly I will be with thee: and this shall be a token vnto thee, that I haue sent thee, After that thou hast brought the people out of Egypt, ye shall serue God vpon this Mountaine. Then Moses said vnto God, Behold, when I shall come vnto the children of Israel, and shall say vnto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me vnto you: if they say vnto me, What is his Name? what shall I say vnto them? And God answered Moses, I Am That I Am. Also he said, Thus shalt thou say vnto the children of Israel, I Am hath sent me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moses, Thus shalt thou say vnto the children of Israel, The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Izhak, and the God of Jaakob hath sent me vnto you: this is my Name for euer, and this is my memoriall vnto all ages. Go and gather the Elders of Israel together, and thou shalt say vnto the, The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Izhak, and Jaakob appeared vnto me, and said, I haue surely remembred you, and that which is done to you in Egypt. Therefore I did say, I wil bring you out of the affliction of Egypt vnto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, vnto a lande that floweth with milke and honie. Then shall they obey thy voyce, and thou and the Elders of Israel shall go vnto the King of Egypt, and say vnto him, The Lord God of the Ebrewes hath met with vs: we pray thee nowe therefore, let vs goe three dayes iourney in the wildernesse, that we may sacrifice vnto the Lord our God. But I know, that the King of Egypt wil not let you goe, but by strong hande. Therefore will I stretch out mine hande and smite Egypt with all my wonders, which I will doe in the middes thereof: and after that shall he let you goe. And I will make this people to be fauoured of the Egyptians: so that when ye go, ye shall not goe emptie. For every woman shall aske of her neighbour, and of her that soiourneth in her house, ieweles of siluer and ieweles of gold and raiment, and ye shall put them on your sonnes, and on your daughters, and shall spoile the Egyptians.

Then Moses answered, and said, But lo, they will not beleue me, nor hearken vnto my voyce: for they will say, The Lord hath not appeared vnto thee. And the Lord said vnto him, What is that in thine hande? And he answered, A rod. Then said he, Cast it on the ground. So he cast it on the grounde, and it was turned into a serpent: and Moses fled from it. Againe the Lord saide vnto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tayle. Then he put foorth his hande and caught it, and it was turned into a rod in his hand. Do this that they may beleue, that the Lord God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Izhak, and the God of Iaakob hath appeared vnto thee. And the Lord saide furthermore vnto him, Thrust nowe thine hand into thy bosome. And he thrust his hand into his bosome, and when he tooke it out againe, behold, his hand was leprous as snowe. Moreouer he said, Put thine hand into thy bosome againe. So he put his hande into his bosome againe, and pluckt it out of his bosome, and behold, it was turned againe as his other flesh. So shall it be, if they wil not beleue thee, neither obey the voyce of ye first signe, yet shall they beleue for the voyce of the seconde signe. But if they will not yet beleue these two signes, neither obey vnto thy voyce, then shalt thou take of the water of the riuuer, and powre it vpon the drie lande: so the water which thou shalt take out of the riuuer, shalbe turned to blood vpon the drie land. But Moses said vnto the Lord, Oh my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither at any time haue bene, nor yet since thou hast spoken vnto thy seruant: but I am slowe of speach and slowe of tongue. Then the Lord said vnto him, Who hath giuen the mouth to man? or who hath made the domme, or the deafe, or him that seeth, or the blinde? haue not I the Lord? Therefore goe nowe, and I will be with thy mouth, and will teach thee what thou shalt say. But he saide, Oh my Lord, sende, I pray thee, by the hande of him, whome thou shouldst sende. Then the Lord was verie angrie with Moses, and said, Doe not I know Aaron thy brother the Leuite, that he himselfe shall speake? for loe, he commeth also forth to meete thee, and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart. Therefore thou shalt speake vnto him, and put the wordes in his mouth, and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye ought to doe. And he shall be thy spokesman vnto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be as thy mouth, and thou shalt be to him as God. Moreover thou shalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou shalt do miracles. Therefore Moses went and returned to Iethro his father in lawe, and said vnto him, I pray thee, let me goe, and returne to my brethren, which are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet aliue. Then Iethro said to Moses, Go in peace. (For the Lord had said vnto Moses in Midian, Goe, returne to Egypt: for they are all dead which went about to kill thee) Then Moses tooke his wife, and his sonnes, and put them on an asse, and returned toward the lande of Egypt, and Moses tooke the rod of God in his hand. And the Lord saide vnto Moses, When thou art entred and come into Egypt againe, see that thou doe all the wonders before Pharaoh, which I haue put in thine hand: but I will harden his heart, and he shall not let the people goe. Then thou shalt say to Pharaoh, Thus saith the Lord, Israel is my sonne, euen my first borne. Wherefore I say to thee, Let my sonne go, that he may serue me: if thou refuse to let him goe, beholde, I will slay thy sonne, euen thy first borne. And as he was by the waye in the ynne, the Lord met him, and would haue killed him. Then Zipporah tooke a sharpe knife, and cut away the foreskinne of her sonne, and cast it at his feete, and said, Thou art indeede a bloody husband vnto me. So he departed from him. Then she saide, O bloodie husband (because of the circumcision) Then the Lord saide vnto Aaron, Goe meete Moses in the wildernesse. And he went and mette him in the Mount of God, and kissed him. Then Moses tolde Aaron all the wordes of the Lord, who had sent him, and all the signes wherewith he had charged him. So went Moses and Aaron, and gathered all the Elders of the children of Israel. And Aaron told all the wordes, which the Lord had spoken vnto Moses, and he did the miracles in the sight of the people. And the people beleueued, and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and had looked vpon their tribulation, they bowed downe, and worshipped.

Then afterwarde Moses and Aaron went and said to Pharaoh, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may celebrate a feast vnto me in the wildernesse. And Pharaoh saide, Who is the Lord, that I should heare his voyce, and let Israel go? I knowe not the Lord, neither will I let Israel goe. And they saide, We worship the God of the Ebrewes: we pray thee, let vs goe three daies iourney in the desert, and sacrifice vnto the Lord our God, least he bring vpon vs the pestilence or sword. Then saide the King of Egypt vnto them, Moses and Aaron, why cause ye the people to cease from their workes? get you to your burdens. Pharaoh saide furthermore, Behold, much people is nowe in the lande, and ye make them leaue their burdens. Therefore Pharaoh gaue commandement the same day vnto the taskemasters of the people, and to their officers, saying, Ye shall giue the people no more strawe, to make bricke ( as in time past) but let them goe and gather them strawe them selues: Notwithstanding lay vpon them the nober of bricke, which they made in time past, diminish nothing thereof: for they be idle, therefore they crie, saying, Let vs go to offer sacrifice vnto our God. Lay more worke vpon the men, and cause them to do it, and let the not regard vaine words. Then went the taskemasters of the people and their officers out, and tolde the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will giue you no more strawe. Goe your selues, get you strawe where yee can finde it, yet shall nothing of your labour bee diminished. Then were the people scattered abroade throughout all the land of Egypt, for to gather stubble in steade of strawe. And the taskemasters hasted them, saying, Finish your dayes worke euery dayes taske, as ye did when ye had strawe. And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaohs taskemasters had set ouer them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore haue ye not fulfilled your taske in making bricke yesterday and to daye, as in times past? Then the officers of the children of Israel came, and cryed vnsto Pharaoh, saying, Wherfore dealest thou thus with thy seruants? There is no strawe giuen to thy seruantes, and they say vnsto vs, Make bricke: and loe, thy seruants are beaten, and thy people is blamed. But he said, Ye are to much idle: therfore ye say, Let vs goe to offer sacrifice to the Lord. Goe therefore nowe and worke: for there shall no strawe be giuen you, yet shall yee deliuer the whole tale of bricke. Then the officers of the children of Israel sawe them selues in an euill case, because it was saide, Ye shall diminish nothing of your bricke, nor of every dayes taske. And they met Moses and Aaron, which stood in their way as they came out from Pharaoh, To whom they said, The Lord looke vpon you and iudge: for yee haue made our sauour to stinke before Pharaoh and before his seruants, in that ye haue put a sword in their hand to slay vs. Wherefore Moses returned to the Lord, and saide, Lord, why hast thou afflicted this people? wherefore hast thou thus sent me? For since I came to Pharaoh to speake in thy Name, he hath vexed this people, and yet thou hast not deliuered thy people.

Then the Lord sayd vnsto Moses, Nowe shalt thou see, what I will doe vnsto Pharaoh: for by a strong hand shall he let them goe, and euen be constrained to druiue them out of his land.
Moreouer God spake vnsto Moses, and sayd vnsto him, I am the Lord, And I appeared vnsto Abraham, to Izhak, and to Iaakob by the Name of Almightie God: but by my Name Iehouah was I not knowen vnsto the. Furthermore as I made my couenant with them to giue them ye land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers: So I haue also hearde the groning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keepe in bondage, and haue remembred my couenant. Wherefore say thou vnsto the children of Israel, I am the Lord, and I will bring you out from the burdens of the Egyptians, and will deliuer you out of their bondage, and will redeeme you in a stretched out arme, and in great iudgements. Also I will take you for my people, and will be your God: then ye shall knowe that I the Lord your God bring you out from the burdens of the Egyptians. And I will bring you into the land which I sware that I woulde giue to Abraham, to Izhak, and to Iaakob, and I will giue it vnsto you for a possession: I am the Lord. So Moses told the children of Israel thus: but they hearkened not unto Moses, for anguish of spirit and for cruel bondage. Then the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Go speak to Pharaoh King of Egypt, that he let the children of Israel goe out of his land. But Moses spake before the Lord, saying, Beholde, the children of Israel hearken not unto me, howe then shall Pharaoh heare mee, which am of vncircumcised lippes? Then the Lord spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, and charged them to goe to the children of Israel and to Pharaoh King of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the lande of Egypt. These bee the heades of their fathers houses: the sonnes of Reuben the first borne of Israel are Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi: these are ye families of Reuben. Also the sonnes of Simeon: Iemuel and Iamin, and Ohad, and Iachin, and Zoar, and Shaul the sonne of a Canaanitish woman: these are the families of Simeon. These also are the names of the sonnes of Leui in their generations: Gershon and Kohath and Merari (and the yeres of the life of Leui were an hundreth thirtie and seuen yere) The sonnes of Gershon were Libni and Shimi by their families. And the sonnes of Kohath, Amram and Izhar, and Hebron, and Vzziel. (and Kohath liued an hundreth thirtie and three yeere) Also the sonnes of Merari were Mahali and Mushi: these are ye families of Leui by their kinreds. And Amram tooke Iochebed his fathers sister to his wife, and shee bare him Aaron and Moses (and Amram liued an hundreth thirtie and seuen yeere) Also the sonnes of Izhar: Ko rah, and Nepheg, and Zichri. And the sonnes of Vzziel: Mishael, and Elzaphan, and Sithri. And Aaron tooke Elisheba daughter of Amminadab, sister of Nahashon to his wife, which bare him Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. Also the sonnes of Korah: Assir, and Elkanah, and Abiasaph: these are the families of the Korhites. And Eleazar Aarons sonne tooke him one of the daughters of Putiel to his wife, which bare him Phinehas: these are the principall fathers of the Leuites throughout their families. These are Aaron and Moses to whom the Lord said, Bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, according to their armies. These are that Moses and Aaron, which spake to Pharaoh King of Egypt, that they might bring the children of Israel out of Egypt. And at that time when the Lord spake vnto Moses in the land of Egypt, When the Lord, I say, spake unto Moses, saying, I am the Lord, speake thou vnto Pharaoh the King of Egypt all that I say vnto thee, Then Moses said before the Lord, Behold, I am of vncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh heare me?

Then the Lord saide to Moses, Behold, I haue made thee Pharaohs God, and Aaron thy brother shall be thy Prophet.
Thou shalt speake all that I commanded thee: and Aaron thy brother shall speake vnto Pharaoh, that he suffer the children of Israel to go out of his land. But I will harden Pharaohs heart, and multiplie my miracles and my wonders in the lande of Egypt. And Pharaoh shall not heare vnto you, that I may lay mine hand vpon Egypt, and bring out myne armies, euen my people, the children of Israel out of the lande of Egypt, by great judgements. Then the Egyptians shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I stretch forth mine hand vpon Egypt, and bring out the children of Israel from among them. So Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded them, euen so did they. (Nowe Moses was foure score yeere olde, and Aaron foure score and three, when they spake vnto Pharaoh) And the Lord had spoken vnto Moses and Aaron, saying, If Pharaoh speake vnto you, saying, Shewe a miracle for you, then thou shalt say vnto Aaron, Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh, and it shalbe turned into a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron vnto Pharaoh, and did euen as the Lord had commanded: and Aaron cast forth his rod before Pharaoh and before his servaunts, and it was turned into a serpent. Then Pharaoh called also for the wise men and sorcerers: and those charmers also of Egypt did in like maner with their enchantmens, For they cast downe euery man his rod, and they were turned into serpents: but Aarons rodde deuoured their rods. So Pharaohs heart was hardened, and hee hearkened not to them, as the Lord had saide. The Lord then saide vnto Moses, Pharaohs heart is obstinate, hee refuseth to let the people go. Goe vnto Pharaoh in the morning, (loe, he will come forth vnto the water) and thou shalt stand and meete him by the riuers brinke, and the rod, which was turned into a serpent, shalbe thou take in thine hand. And thou shalt say vnto him, The Lord God of the Ebrewes hath sent me vnto thee, saying, Let my people go, that they may serue mee in the wildernesse: and beholde, hitherto thou wouldest not heare. Thus saith the Lord, In this

shalt thou know that I am the Lord: behold, I will smite with the rodde that is in mine hand upon the water that is in the river, and it shall be turned to blood. And the fish that is in the river shall die, and the river shall stinke, and it shall grieve the Egyptians to drink of the water of the river. The Lord then spake to Moses, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, and over their ponds, and over all pooles of their waters, and they shall be blood, and there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and of stone. So Moses and Aaron did even as the Lord commanded: and he lifted up the rodde, and smote the water that was in the river in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants: and all the water that was in the river, was turned into blood. And the fish that was in the river dyed, and the river stank: so that the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river: and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt. And the enchanters of Egypt did likewise with their sorceries: and the heart of Pharaoh was hardened: so that he did not hearken unto them, as the Lord had said. Then Pharaoh returned, and went again into his house, neither did this yet enter into his heart. All the Egyptians then digged round about the river for waters to drink: for they could not drink of the water of the river. And this continued fully seven days after the Lord had smitten the river.

Afterward the Lord said unto Moses, Go to Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord, Let my people go, that they may serve me: And if thou wilt not let them go, behold, I will smite all thy country with frogs: And the river shall be full of frogs, which shall go up and come into thine house, and into thy chamber, where thou sleepest, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy kneading troughes. Yea, the frogs shall climb up upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants. Also the Lord said unto Moses, Say thou unto Aaron, Stretch out thine hand with thy rod upon the streams, upon the rivers, and upon the ponds, and cause frogs to come upon the land of Egypt. Then Aaron stretched out his hand upon the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up, and covered the land. of Egypt. And the sorcerers did likewise with their sorceries, and brought frogges vp vpon the land of Egypt. Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, Pray ye vnto the Lord, that hee may take away the frogges from mee, and from my people, and I will let the people goe, that they may doe sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses said vnto Pharaoh, Concerning me, euen command when I shall pray for thee, and for thy seruants, and for thy people, to destroy the frogges from thee and from thine houses, that they may remaite in the riuer only. Then he said, To morowe. And he answered, Be it as thou hast said, that thou maiest know, that there is none like vnto the Lord our God. So the frogges shall depart from thee, and from thine houses, and from thy seruantes, and from thy people: onely they shall remaite in the riuer. Then Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh: and Moses cryed vnto the Lord concerning the frogges, which hee had sent vnto Pharaoh. And the Lord did according to the saying of Moses: so the frogges died in the houses, in the townes, and in the fieldes. And they gathered the together by heaps, and the land stanke of them. But when Pharaoh sawe that hee had rest giuen him, he hardened his heart, and hearkened not vnto them, as the Lord had said. Againe the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Say vnto Aaron, Stretche out the rod, and smite the dust of the earth, that it may bee turned to lyce throughout all the land of Egypt. And they did so: for Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the earth: and lyce came vpon man and vpon beast: all the dust of the earth was lyce throughout all the land of Egypt. Nowe the enchanters assaied likewise with their enchantments to bring forth lyce, but they could not. So the lyce were vpon man and vpon beast. Then saide the enchanters vnto Pharaoh, This is the finger of God. But Pharaohs heart remained obstinate, and hee hearkened not vnto them, as the Lord had said. Moreouer the Lord sayd to Moses, Rise vp earely in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh (lo, hee will come forth vnto the water) and say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord, Let my people goe, that they may serue me. Els, if thou wilt not let my people goe, behold, I will send swarmes of flies both vpon thee, and vpon thy seruants, and vpon thy people, and into thine houses: and the houses of the Egyptians shalbe full of swarmes of flies, and the ground also whereon they are. But ye land of Goshe, where my people are, 22 wil I cause to be wonderfull in that day, so that no swarmes of flies shalbe there, that thou maiest know that I am the Lord in the middes of the earth. And I will make a deliuerance of my people from thy people: to morowe shall this miracle be. And the Lord did so: for there came great swarmes of flies into the house of Pharaoh, and into his seruants houses, so that through all the lande of Egypt, the earth was corrupt by the swarmes of flies. Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and saide, Goe, doe sacrifice vtnto your God in this lande. But Moses answered, It is not meete to do so: for then we shoulde offer vtnto the Lord our God that, which is an abomination vtnto the Egyptians. Loe, can we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and they not stone vs? Let vs go three dayes iourney in the desert, and sacrifice vtnto the Lord our God, as he hath commanded vs. And Pharaoh said, I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice vtnto the Lord your God in the wildernesse: but goe not farre away, pray for me. And Moses said, Behold, I will go out from thee, and pray vtnto the Lord, that the swarmes of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his seruants, and from his people to morowe: but let Pharaoh from hencefoorth deceiue no more, in not suffering the people to sacrifice vtnto the Lord. So Moses went out from Pharaoh and prayed vtnto the Lord. And the Lord did according to the saying of Moses, and the swarmes of flies departed from Pharaoh, from his seruants, and from his people, and there remained not one. Yet Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also, and did not let the people goe.

Then the Lord said vtnto Moses, Go to Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord God of the Ebrewes, Let my people go, that they may serue me. But if thou refuse to let them goe, 2 and wilt yet holde them still, Beholde, the hande of the Lord is vpon thy flocke which is in the fielde: for vpon the horses, vpon the asses, vpon the camels, vpon the cattell, and vpon the sheepe shalbe a mightie great moraine. And the Lord shall doe wonderfully betweene the beastes of Israel, and the beastes of Egypt: so that there shall nothing dye of all, that pertaineth to the children of Israel. And the Lord appointed a time, saying, To morowe the Lord shall finish this thing in this lande. So the Lord did this thing on the morow, and all the cattel of Egypt dyed: but of the cattell of the children of Israel dyed not one. Then Pharaoh sent, and beholde, there was not one of the cattell of the Israelites dead: and the heart of Pharaoh was obstinate, and hee did not let the people goe. And the Lord said to Moses and to Aaron, Take your handfull of ashes of the fornace, and Moses shall sprinkle them towards the heauen in the sight of Pharaoh, and they shall be turned to dust in all the land of Egypt: and it shalbe as a scab breaking out into blisters vpon man, and vpon beast, thorow out all the land of Egypt. Then they tooke ashes of the fornace, and stoode before Pharaoh: and Moses sprinkled them towards the heauen, and there came a scab breaking out into blisters vpon man, and vpon beast. And the sorcerers could not stande before Moses, because of the scab: for the scab was vpon the enchanters, and vpon all the Egyptians. And the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not vnto them, as the Lord had said vnto Moses. Also the Lord said vnto Moses, Rise vp early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord God of the Ebrewes, Let my people goe, that they may serue me. For I will at this time send all my plagues vpon thine heart, and vpon thy seruants, and vpon thy people, that thou mayest knowe that there is none like me in all the earth. For nowe I will stretch out mine hande, that I may smite thee and thy people with the pestilence: and thou shalt perish from the earth. And in deede, for this cause haue I appointed thee, to shewe my power in thee, and to declare my Name throughout all the world. Yet thou exalttest thy selfe against my people, and lettest them not goe. Beholde, to morowe this time I will cause to raine a mightie great haile, such as was not in Egypt since the foundation thereof was laid vnto this time. Send therefore nowe, and gather the cattell, and all that thou hast in the field: for vpon all the men, and the beastes, which are found in the field, and not brought home, the haile shall fall vpon them, and they shall die. Such then as feared the word of the Lord among the seruants of Pharaoh, made his seruants and his cattell flee into the houses: But such as regarded not the worde of the Lord, left his seruants, and his cattell in the field. And the Lord saide to Moses, Stretche forth thine hande towards heauen, that there may be haile in all the land of Egypt, vpon man, and vpon beast, and vpon all the herbes of the field in the lande of Egypt. Then Moses stretched out his rod towarde heauen, and the Lord sent thunder and haile, and lightening vpon the ground: and the Lord caused haile to raine vpon the lande of Egypt. So there was haile, and fire mingled with the haile, so grievous, as there was none throughout all the lande of Egypt, since it was a nation. And the haile smote throughout al ye lande of Egypt all that was in the fielde, both man and beast: also ye haile smote all the herbes of ye field, and brake to pieces all the trees of the fielde. Onely in the lande of Goshen (where the children of Israel were) was no haile. Then Pharaoh sent and called for Moses and Aaron, and said vnto them, I haue now sinned: the Lord is righteous, but I and my people are wicked. Pray ye vnto the Lord (for it is ynough) that there be no more mightie thunders and haile, and I will let you goe, and yee shall tarie no longer. Then Moses saide vnto him, Assoone as I am out of the citie, I will spreade mine hands vnto the Lord, and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more haile, that thou mayest knowe that the earth is the Lordes. As for thee and thy seruants, I knowe afore I pray ye will feare before the face of the Lord God. (And the flaxe, and the barley were smitten: for the barley was eared, and the flaxe was bolled. But the wheat and the rye were not smitten, for they were hid in the grounde) Then Moses went out of the citie from Pharaoh, and spred his hands to the Lord, and the thunder and the haile ceased, neither rained it vpon the earth. And when Pharaoh sawe that the raine and the haile and the thunder were ceased, hee sinned againe, and hardened his heart, both he, and his seruants. So the heart of Pharaoh was hardened: neither would he let the children of Israel goe, as the Lord had said by Moses.

Againe the Lord saide vnto Moses, Goe to Pharaoh: for I haue hardened his heart, and the heart of his seruants, that I might worke these my miracles in the middes of his realme, And that thou maist declare in the eares of thy sonne, and of thy sonnes sonne, what things I haue done in Egypt, and my miracles, which I haue done among them: that ye may knowe that I am the Lord. Then came Moses and Aaron vnto Pharaoh, and they said vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God of the Ebrewes, Howe long wilt thou refuse to humble thy selfe before me? Let my people goe, that they may serve me. But if thou refuse to let my people go, behold, to morowe will I bring grashoppers into thy coastes.

And they shall cover the face of the earth, that a man can not see the earth: and they shall eate the residue which remaineth vnto you, and hath escaped from the haile: and they shall eate all your trees that bud in the fielde. And they shall fil thine houses, and all thy servants houses, and the houses of all the Egyptians, as neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers haue seene, since the time they were vpon the earth vnto this day.

So he returned, and went out from Pharaoh. Then Pharaohs servants saide vnto him, How long shall he be an offence vnto vs? let the men go, that they may serve the Lord their God: wilt thou first knowe that Egypt is destroyed? So Moses and Aaron were brought againe vnto Pharaoh, and he saide vnto them, Goe, serve the Lord your God, but who are they that shall goe? And Moses answered, We will go with our yong and with our olde, with our sonnes and with our daughters, with our sheepe and with our cattell will we goe: for we must celebrate a feast vnto the Lord. And he said vnto them, Let the Lord so be with you, as I will let you goe and your children: beholde, for euill is before your face. It shall not be so: nowe goe ye that are men, and serve the Lord: for that was your desire. Then they were thrust out from Pharaohs presence. After, the Lord said vnto Moses, Stretch out thine hande vpon the lande of Egypt for the grashoppers, that they may come vpon the lande of Egypt, and eate all the herbes of the land, euen all that the haile had left. Then Moses stretched foorth his rod vpon the lande of Egypt: and the Lord brought an East winde vpon the land all that day, and al that night: and in the morning the East wind brought the grashoppers. So the grashoppers went vp vpon all the land of Egypt, and remained in all quarters of Egypt: so grievous Grashoppers, like to these were neuer before, neither after them shalbe such. For they covered all the face of the earth, so that the lande was darke: and they did eate all the herbes of the lande, and all the fruites of the trees, which the haile had left, so that there was no greene thing left vpon the trees, nor among the herbes of the fielde throughout all the lande of Egypt. Therefore Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron in haste, and sayde, I haue sinned against the Lord your God, and against you. And nowe forgiue mee my sinne onely this once, and pray vnto the Lord your God, that hee may take away from me this death onely. Moses then went out from Pharaoh, and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord turned a mightie strong West winde, and tooke away the grashoppers, and violently cast them into the red Sea, so that there remained not one grashopper in all the coast of Egypt. But the Lord hardened Pharaohs heart, and hee did not let the children of Israel goe. Againe ye Lord said vnto Moses, Stretch out thine hand toward heauen, that there may be vpon the lande of Egypt darkenesse, euen darkenesse that may be felt. Then Moses stretched forth his hande towards heauen, and there was a blacke darkenesse in all the land of Egypt three daies. No man saw an other, neither rose vp from ye place where he was for three dayes: but all the children of Israel had light where they dwelt. The Pharaoh called for Moses and said, Go, serue the Lord: onely your sheepe and your cattel shall abide, and your children shall go with you. And Moses sayd, Thou must giue vs also sacrifices, and burnt offerings that wee may doe sacrifice vnto the Lord our God. Therefore our cattell also shall go with vs: there shall not an hoofe bee left, for thereof must we take to serue the Lord our God: neither doe wee knowe howe we shall serue the Lord, vntill we come thither. (But the Lord hardened Pharaohs heart, and he would not let them goe) And Pharaoh sayde vnto him, Get thee from mee: looke thou see my face no more: for whensoever thou commest in my sight, thou shalt dye. Then Moses said, Thou hast said well: from henceforth will I see thy face no more.

Now the Lord had saide vnto Moses, yet will I bring one plague more vpon Pharaoh, and vpon Egypt: after that, he will let you go hence: when he letteth you goe, he shall at once chase you hence. Speake thou nowe to the people, that euery man require of his neighbour, and euery woman of her neighbour iiewels of siluer and iiewels of gold. And the Lord gaue the people fauour in the sight of the Egyptians: also Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaohs seruantes, and in the sight of the people.) Also Moses sayde, Thus sayth the Lord, About midnight will I goe out into the middes of Egypt. And all the first borne in the lande of Egypt shall die, from the first borne of Pharaoh that sitteth on his throne, vnto the first borne of the maide servuant, that is at the mille, and all the first borne of beastes. Then there shalbe a great crie throughout all the land of Egypt, such as was neuer none like, nor shalbe.
But against none of ye children of Israel shall a dogge moue his tongue, neyther against man nor beast, that ye may knowe that the Lord putteth a difference betweene the Egyptians and Israel. And all these thy servuants shall come downe vnto me, and fal before me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people that are at thy feete, and after this will I depart. So he went out from Pharaoh very angry. And the Lord saide vnto Moses, Pharaoh shall not heare you, that my wonders may bee multiplied in the land of Egypt. So Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh: but the Lord hardeneth Pharaohs heart, and he suffred not the children of Israel to goe out of his lande.

Then the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, This moneth shalbe vnto you the beginning of moneths: it shalbe to you the first moneth of the yere. Speake ye vnto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth of this moneth let every man take vnto him a lambe, according to the house of the fathers, a lambe for an house. And if the houesholde be too litle for the lambe, he shall take his neighbour, which is next vnto his house, according to the number of the persons: euery one of you, according to his eating shall make your count for the lambes, Your lambe shalbe without blemish, a male of a yeere olde: ye shall take it of the lambes, or of the kiddes. And yee shall keepe it vntill the fourteenth day of this moneth: then al the multitude of the Congregation of Israel shall kill it at euen. After, they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two postes, and on the upper doore post of the houses where they shall eate it. And they shall eate the flesh the same night, roste with fire, and vnleauened bread: with sowre herbes they shall eate it. Eate not thereof rawe, boyled nor sodden in water, but rost with fire, both his head, his feete, and his purtenance. And ye shall reserue nothing of it vnto the morning: but that, which remaineth of it vnto the morowe, shall ye burne with fire. And thus shall yee eate it, Your loynes girded, your shoes on your feete, and your staues in your handes, and yee shall eate it in haste: for it is the Lords Passeouer. For I will passe through the lande of Egypt the same night, and will smite all the first born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast, and I will execute judgment upon all the gods of Egypt. I am the Lord. And the blood shall be a token for you upon the houses where you are: so when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destruction, when I smite the land of Egypt. And this day shall be unto you a remembrance: and you shall keep it an holy feast unto the Lord, throughout your generations: you shall keep it holy by an ordinance for ever. Seven days shall you eat unleavened bread, and in any case you shall put away leaven the first day out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that person shall be cut off from Israel. And in the first day shall be an holy assembly: also in the seventh day shall be an holy assembly unto you: no work shall be done in them, save about that which every man must eat: that only may you do. You shall keep also the feast of unleavened bread: for that same day I will bring your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore you shall observe this day, throughout your posterity, by an ordinance for ever. In the first month and the fourteenth day of the month at even, you shall eat unleavened bread until the twenty-first day of the month at even. Seven days shall no leaven be found in your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread, that person shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel: whether he be a stranger, or born in the land. You shall eat no leavened bread: but in all your habitations shall you eat unleavened bread. Then Moses called all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Choose out and take you for every house a lamb, and kill the Passover. And take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel, and the door joint with the blood that is in the basin, and let none of you go out at the door of his house, until the morning. For the Lord will pass by to smite the Egyptians: and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel and on the two door joint, the Lord will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come into your houses to plague you. Therefore shall you observe this thing as an ordinance both for thee and thy sons for ever. And when you shall come into the land, which the Lord will give you as he hath promised, then you shall keep this service. And when 27 your children aske you, What seruice is this ye keepe? Then ye shall saye, It is the sacrifice of the Lordes Passeouer, which passed ouer the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and preserued our houses. Then the people bowed them selues, and worshipped. So the children of Israel went, and did as the Lord had commanded Moses and Aaron: so did they. Nowe at midnight, the Lord smote all the first borne in the lande of Egypt, from the first borne of Pharaoh that sate on his throne, vnto the first borne of the captiue that was in prison, and all the first borne of beastes. And Pharaoh rose vp in the night, he, and all his seruants and all the Egyptians: and there was a great crye in Egypt: for there was no house where there was not one dead. And hee called to Moses and to Aaron by night, and saide, Rise vp, get you out from among my people, both yee, and the children of Israel, and goe serue the Lord as ye haue sayde. Take also your sheepe and your cattell as yee haue sayde, and depart, and blesse me also. And the Egyptians did force the people, because they would send them out of the land in haste: for they said, We die all. Therfore the people tooke their dough before it was leauened, euen their dough bound in clothes vpon their shoulders. And the children of Israel did according to the sayning of Moses, and they asked of ye Egyptians iewels of siluer and iewels of gold, and raiment. And the Lord gaue the people fauour in the sight of the Egyptians: and they graunted their request: so they spoyled the Egyptians. Then the children of Israel tooke their iourney from Rameses to Succoth about sixe hundreth thousand men of foote, beside children. And a great multitude of sundrie sortes of people went out with them, and sheepe, and beeues, and cattel in great abundance. And they baked the dough which they brought out of Egypt, and made vnleauened cakes: for it was not leauened, because they were thrust out of Egypt, neither coulde they tarie, nor yet prepare themselues vitaille. So the dwelling of the children of Israel, while they dwelled in Egypt, was foure hundreth and thirtie yeres. And when the foure hundreth and thirtie yeeres were expired, euen the selfe same day departed all the hostes of the Lord out of the land of Egypt. It is a night to be kept holie to the Lord, because he brought them out of the lande of Egypt: this is that night of the Lord, which all the children of Israel must keep throughout their generations. Also the Lord said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the Law of the Passover: no stranger shall eat thereof. But every servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof. A stranger or an hired servant shall not eat thereof. In one house shall it be eaten: thou shalt carry none of ye flesh out of the house, neither shall ye break a bone thereof. All the Congregation of Israel shall observe it. But if a stranger dwell with thee, and will observe the Passover of the Lord, let him circumcise all the males, that belong unto him, and then let him come and observe it, and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for none uncircumcised person shall eat thereof. One law shall be to him that is born in the land, and to the stranger that dwelleth among you. Then all the children of Israel did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron: so did they. And the selfe same day did the Lord bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Sanctifie unto me all the first borne: that is, every one that first openeth the womb among the children of Israel, as well of man as of beast: for it is mine. Then Moses sayd unto the people, Remember this day in the which ye came out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage: for by a mighty hand the Lord brought you out from thence: therefore no leavened bread shall be eaten. This day come yee out in the moneth of Abib. Now when the Lord hath brought thee into the land of the Canaanites, and Hittites, and Amorites, and Hiuites, and Iebusites (which he sware unto thy fathers, that he woulde giue thee, a land flowing with milke and honie) then thou shalt keepe this service in this moneth. Seuen dayes shalt thou eate vnleauened bread, and the seuenth day shall be the feast of the Lord. Unleauened bread shall be eaten seuen dayes, and there shall no leauened bread be seene with thee, nor yet leaue be seene with thee in all thy quarters. And thou shalt shew thy sonne in that day, saying, This is done, because of that which the Lord did vnto me, when I came out of Egypt. And it shalbe a signe vnto thee vpon thine hande, and for a remembrance betwenee thine eyes, that the Lawe of the Lord may be in thy mouth: for by a strong hand the Lord brought thee out of Egypt. Keepe therefore this ordinance in his season appoynted from yeere to yeere. And when the Lord shall bring thee into the lande of the Canaanites, as hee sware vnto thee and to thy fathers, and shall giue it thee, Then thou shalt set apart vnto the Lord all that first openeth the wombe: also euery thing that first doeth open the wombe, and commeth forth of thy beast: the malesshalbe the Lordes. But every first foale of an asse, thou shalt redeeme with a lambe: and if thou redeeme him not, then thou shalt breake his necke: likewise all the first borne of man among thy sonnes shalt thou bye out. And when thy sonne shall aske thee to morowe, saying, What is this? thou shalt then say vnto him, With a mightie hande the Lord brought vs out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. For when Pharaoh was harde hearted against our departing, the Lord then slewe all the first borne in the lande of Egypt: from the first borne of man euen to the first borne of beast: therefore I sacrifice vnto the Lord all the males that first open the wombe, but all the first borne of my sonnes I redeeme. And it shalbe as a token vpon thine hand, and as frontlets betweene thine eyes, that the Lord brought vs out of Egypt by a mightie hande. Nowe when Pharaoh had let the people go, God caried them not by the way of the Philistims countrey, though it were neerer: (for God sayd, Lest the people repent whe they see warre, and turne againe to Egypt) But God made the people to go about by the way of the wildernes of the red sea: and the children of Israel went vp armed out of the land of Egypt. (And Moses tooke the bones of Ioseph with him: for he had made the children of Israel sweare, saying, God will surely visite you, and ye shall take my bones away hence with you) So they tooke their iourney from Succoth, and camped in Etham in the edge of the wildernesse. And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloude to leade them the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to giue them light, that they might go both by day and by night. He tooke not away the pillar of ye cloude by day, nor the pillar of fire by night from before the people.

14 Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake to the children of Israel, that they returne and campe before Pi-hahiroth, betweene Migdol and the Sea, ouer against Baal-zephon: about it shall ye campe by the Sea. For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, They are tanglede in the land: the wildernesse hath shut them in. And I will harden Pharaohs heart that hee shall follow after you: so I will get mee honour vpon Pharaoh, and vpon all his hoste: the Egyptians also shall knowe that I am the Lord: and they did so. Then it was told the King of Egypt, that the people fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his seruants was turned against the people, and they sayde, Why haue we this done, and haue let Israel go out of our servise? And he made ready his charets, and tooke his people with him, And tooke sique hundreth chosen charets, and all the charets of Egypt, and captaines ouer every one of them. (For the Lord had hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he followed after the children of Israel: but the children of Israel went out with an hie hand) And the Egyptians pursued after them, and all the horses and charrets of Pharaoh, and his horsemen and his hoste ouertooke them camping by the Sea, beside Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon. And when Pharaoh drew nie, the children of Israel lift vp their eyes, and beholde, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were sore afrayde: wherefore the children of Israel cried vnto the Lord. And they sayde vnto Moses, Hast thou brought vs to die in the wildernes, because there were no graues in Egypt? wherefore hast thou serued vs thus, to carie vs out of Egypt? Did not wee tell thee this thing in Egypt, saying, Let vs be in rest, that we may serue the Egyptians? for it had bene better for vs to serue the Egyptians, then that wee shoulde dye in the wildernes. Then Moses sayde to the people, Feare ye not, stand still, and beholde the saluation of the Lord which he will shew to you this day. For the Egyptians, whome ye haue seene this day, ye shall neuer see them againe. The Lord shall fight for you: therefore hold you your peace. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Wherefore cryest thou vnto me? speake vnto the children of Israel that they go forward: And lift thou vp thy rod, and stretche out thine hand vpon the Sea and deuide it, and let the children of Israel goe on drie ground thorow the middes of the Sea. And I, beholde, I will harden the heart of the Egyptians, that they may follow them, and I wil get me honour vpon Pharaoh, and vpon all his host, vpon his charets, and vpon his horsemen. Then the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, when I haue gotten me honour vpon Pharaoh, vpon his charets, and vpon his horsemen. (And the Angel of God, which went before the hoste of Israel, remoued and went behinde them: also the pillar of the cloude went from before them, and stoode behinde them, And came betwene the campe of the Egyptians and the campe of Israel: it was both a cloude and darkenes, yet gaue it light by night, so that all the night long the one came not at the other. And Moses stretched forth his hande vpon the Sea, and the Lord caused the sea to runne backe by a strong East winde all the night, and made the Sea dry land: for the waters were deuided. Then the children of Israel went through the middes of the Sea vpon the drie ground, and the waters were a wall vnto them on their right hand, and on their left hand. And the Egyptians pursued and went after them to the middes of the Sea, euon all Pharaohs horses, his charets, and his horsemen. Nowe in the morning watche, when the Lord looked vnto the hoste of the Egyptians, out of the firie and cloudie pillar, he strooke the host of the Egyptians with feare. For he tooke off their charet wheeles, and they draue them with much a doe: so that the Egyptians euery one sayd, I wil flee from the face of Israel: for the Lord fighteth for them against the Egyptians. Then the Lord sayde to Moses, Stretche thine hand vpon the Sea, that the waters may returne vpon the Egyptians, vpon their charets and vpon their horsemen. Then Moses stretched forth his hand vpon the Sea, and the Sea returned to his force early in the morning, and the Egyptians fled against it: but the Lord ouerthrew the Egyptians in the mids of the Sea. So the water returned and couered the charets and the horsemen, euon all the hoste of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them: there remained not one of them. But the children of Israel walked vpon dry land thorowe the middes of the Sea, and the waters were a wall vnto them on their right hande, and on their left. Thus the Lord saued Israel the same day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel sawe the Egyptians dead vpon the Sea banke. And Israel saw the mightie power, which the Lord shewed vpon the Egyptians: so the people feared the Lord, and beleewed the Lord, and his servaunt Moses.

Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song vnto the Lord, and sayd in this maner, I will sing vnto the Lord: for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and him that rode vpon him hath he ouerthrown in the Sea. The Lord is my strength and praise, and he is become my salvation. He is my God, and I will prepare him a tabernacle. He is my fathers God, and I will exalt him. The Lord is a man of warre, his Name is Iehouah. Pharaohs chariots and his host hath he cast into the Sea: his chosen captains also were drowned in the red Sea. The depths haue couered them, they sanke to the bottome as a stone. Thy right hande, O Lord, is glorious in power: thy right hand, O Lord, hath brused the enemie. And in thy great glorie thou hast ouerthrown them that rose against thee: thou sentest forth thy wrath, which consumed them as the stubble. And by the blast of thy nostrels the waters were gathered, the floods stoode still as an heape, the depthes congealed together in the heart of the Sea. The enemie sayd, I wil pursue, I wil ouertake them, I will deuide the spoyle, my lust shall bee satisfied vpon them, I will drawe my sworde, mine hand shall destroy them. Thou blewest with thy winde, the Sea couered them, they sanke as leade in the mightie waters. Who is like vnto thee, O Lord, among the Gods! who is like thee so glorious in holinesse, fearefull in prayses, doing wonders! Thou stretchedst out thy right hande, the earth swallowed them. Thou wilt by thy mercie cary this people, which thou deliueredst: thou wilt bring them in thy strength vnto thine holy habitation. The people shall heare and be afraide: sorow shall come vpon the inhabitants of Palestina. Then the dukes of Edom shalbe amased, and trembling shall come vpon the great men of Moab: all the inhabitantes of Canaan shall waxe faint hearted. Feare and dread shall fall vpon them: because of the greatnesse of thine arme, they shalbe stil as a stone, till thy people passe, O Lord: till this people passe, which thou hast purchased. Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountaine of thine inheritance, which is the place that thou hast prepared, O Lord, for to dwell in, euue the sanctuarie, O Lord, which thine hands shall establish. The Lord shall reigne for euer and euer. For Pharaohs horses went with his chariets and horsemen into the Sea, and the Lord brought the waters of the Sea vpon them: but the children of Israel went on drie land in the middes of the Sea. And Miriam the prophetesse, sister of Aaron tooke a timbrell in her hande, and all the women came out after her with timbrels and daunces. And Miriam answered the men, Sing yee vnto the Lord: for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath hee overthrown in the Sea. Then Moses brought Israel from the redd Sea, and they went out into the wildernes of Shur: and they went three dayes in the wildernes, and found no waters. And whe they came to Marah, they could not drinke of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of the place was called Marah. Then the people murmured against Moses, saying, What shall we drinke? And he cried vnto the Lord, and the Lord shewed him a tree, which when he had cast into the waters, the waters were sweete: there he made them an ordinance and a law, and there he proued them, And sayd, if thou wilt diligently hearken, O Israel, vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, and wilt do that, which is right in his sight, and wilt giue eare vnto his commandements, and keepe all his ordinances, then will I put none of these diseases vpon thee, which I brought vpon the Egyptians: for I am the Lord that healeth thee. And they came to Elim, where were twelue fountaines of water, and seuentie palme trees, and they camped thereby the waters.

Afterward all the Congregation of the children of Israel departed from Elim, and came to the wildernes of Sin, (which is betweene Elim and Sinai) the fiftenth day of the second moneth after their departing out of ye land of Egypt. And the whole Congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron in the wildernesse. For the children of Israel sayde to them, Oh that we had dyed by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when wee sate by the flesh pots, when wee ate bread our bellies full: for yee haue brought vs out into this wildernesse, to kill this whole company with famine. Then sayd the Lord vnto Moses, Behold, I wil cause bread to rayne from heauen to you, and the people shall goe out, and gather that that is sufficient for euery day, that I may proue them, whether they wil walke in my Law or no. But the sixt daye they shall prepare that, which they shall bring home, and it shalbe twise as much as they gather dayly. Then Moses and Aaron sayde vnto all the children of Israel, At euen ye shall know, that the Lord brought you out of the land of Egypt: And in the morning ye shall see the glorie of the Lord: for he hath heard your grudg-ings against the Lord: and what are we that ye haue murmured against vs? Againe Moses sayd, At euen shall the Lord give you flesh to eate, and in the morning your fil of bread: for the Lord hath heard your murmureings, which ye murmur against him: for what are we? your murmureings are not against vs, but against the Lord. And Moses sayd to Aaron, Say vnto all the Congregation of the children of Israel, Draw neere before the Lord: for he hath heard your murmureings. Now as Aaron spake vnto the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, they looked toward the wildernesse, and beholde, the glory of the Lord appeared in a cloude. (For the Lord had spoken vnto Moses, saying, I haue heard the murmureings of the children of Israel: tell them therefore, and say, At euen ye shall eate flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord your God) And so at euen the quailes came and couered the campe: and in the morning the dewe lay round about the hoste. And when the dewe that was fallen was ascended, beholde, a small round thing was vpon the face of the wildernes, small as the hoare frost on the earth. And when the children of Israel sawe it, they sayde one to another, It is MAN, for they wist not what it was. And Moses sayd vnto them, This is the breade which the Lord hath giuen you to eate. This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded: gather of it euery man according to his eating an Omer for a man according to the number of your persons: euery man shall take for them which are in his tent. And the children of Israel did so, and gathered, some more, some lesse. And when they did measure it with an Omer, hee that had gathered much, had nothing ouer, and he that had gathered litle, had no lacke: so euery man gathered according to his eating. Moses then said vnto them, Let no man reserue thereof till morning. Notwithstanding they obeyed not Moses: but some of them reserued of it till morning, and it was full of wormes, and stanke: therefore Moses was angrie with them. And they gathered it euery morning, euery man according to his eating: for when the heate of the sunne came, it was melted. And the sixt day they gathered twice so much bread, two Omers for one man: then all the rulers of the Congregation came and told Moses. And he answered them, This is that, which the Lord hath sayde, To morowe is the rest of the holy Sabbath vnto the Lord: bake that to day which ye wil bake, and seethe that which ye wil seethe, and all that remaineth, lay it vp to be kept till the morning for you. And they laied it vp till the morning, as Moses bade, and it stanke not, neyther was there any worme therein. Then Moses sayde, Eate that to day: for to day is the Sabbath vnto the Lord: to day ye shall not finde it in the fielde. Sixe dayes shall yee gather it, but in the seuenth day is the Sabbath: in it there shalbe none. Notwithstanding, there went out some of the people in ye seuenth day for to gather, and they found none. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses, Howe long refuse yee to keepe my commandements, and my lawes? Beholde, howe the Lord hath giuen you the Sabbath: therefore he giueth you the sixt day bread for two dayes: tary therefore every man in his place: let no man goe out of his place the seuenth day. So the people rested the seuenth day. And the house of Israel called the name of it, MAN. and it was like to coriander seede, but white: and the taste of it was like vnto wafers made with hony. And Moses said, This is that which the Lord hath commanded, Fill an Omer of it, to keepe it for your posteritie: that they may see the bread wherewith I haue fed you in wildernesse, when I brought you out of the land of Egypt. Moses also said to Aaron, Take a pot and put an Omer full of MAN therein, and set it before the Lord to be kept for your posteritie. As the Lord commanded Moses, so Aaron laied it vp before the Testimonie to be kept. And the children of Israel did eate MAN fourtie yeres, vntill they came vnto a land inhabited: they did eate MAN vntill they came to the borders of the land of Canaan. The Omer is the tenth part of the Ephah.

And all the Congregation of the children of Israel departed from the wildernesse of Sin, by their iourneyes at the commandement of the Lord, and camped in Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drinke. Wherefore the people contended with Moses, and sayde, Giue vs water that we may drinke. And Moses sayde vnto them, Why contende yee with me? wherefore do ye tempt the Lord? So the people thirsted there for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore hast thou thus brought vs out of Egypt to kill vs and our children and our cattel with thirst? And Moses cried to the Lord, saying, What shall I do to this people? for they be almost ready to stone me. And ye Lord answered to Moses, Goe before the people, and take with thee of the Elders of Israel: and thy rod, wherewith thou smostest the riuer, take in thine hand, and go: Behold, I will stand there before thee vpon the rocke in Horeb, and thou shalt smite on the rocke, and water shall come out of it, that the people may drinke. And Moses did so in the sight of the Elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place, Massah and Meribah, because of the contention of the children of Israel, and because they had tempted the Lord, saying, Is the Lord among vs, or no? Then came Amalek and fought with Israel in Rephidim. And Moses sayde to Ioshua, Chuse vs out men, and go fight with Amalek: to morowe I will stande on the toppe of the hill with the rod of God in mine hand. So Ioshua did as Moses bad him, and fought with Amalek: and Moses, Aaron, and Hur, went vp to the top of the hill. And when Moses helde vp his hande, Israel preuailed: but when he let his hande downe, Amalek preuailed. Nowe Moses handes were heauy: therefore they tooke a stone and put it vnder him, and hee sate vpon it: and Aaron and Hur stayed vp his hands, the one on the one side, and the other on the other side: so his hands were steady vntill the going downe of the sunne. And Ioshua discomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword. And the Lord sayde to Moses, Write this for a remembrance in the booke, and re-hearste it to Ioshua: for I will vtterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from vnder heauen. (And Moses builte an altar and called the name of it, Iehouah-nissi) Also he said, The Lord hath sworne, that he will haue warre with Amalek from generation to generation.

When Iethro the Priest of Midian Moses father in lawe heard all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and howe the Lord had brought Israel out of Egypt, Then Iethro the father in lawe of Moses, tooke Zipporah Moses wife, (after he had sent her away) And her two sonnes, (whereof the one was called Gershom: for he sayd, I haue bene an aliant in a strange land: And the name of the other was Eliezer: for the God of my father, said he, was mine helpe, and deliuered me from the sword of Pharaoh) And Iethro Moses father in law came with his two sonnes, and his wife vnto Moses into the wildernes, where he camped by ye mout of God. And he said to Moses, I thy father in law Iethro am come to thee, and thy wife and her two sonnes with her. And Moses went out to meeete his father in law, and did obeisance and kissed him, and eche asked other of his welfare: and they came into the tent. Then Moses told his father in law all that the Lord had done vnto Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians for Israels sake, and all the trauaile that had come vnto them by the way, and howe the Lord deliuered them. And Iethro reioyced at all the goodnesse, which the Lord had shewed to Israel, and because he had deliuered them out of the hande of the Egyptians. Therfore Iethro sayd, Blessed be the Lord who hath deliuered you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh: who hath also deliuered the people from vnder the hand of the Egyptians. Now I know that the Lord is greater then all the gods: for as they haue dealt proudly with them, so are they recompenseed. Then Iethro Moses father in lawe tooke burnt offerings and sacrifices to offer vnto God. And Aaron and all the Elders of Israel came to eat bread with Moses father in law before God. Now on the morow, when Moses sate to iudge the people, the people stoode about Moses from morning vnto euen. And when Moses father in law saw all that he did to the people, he sayde, What is this that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stande about thee from morning vnto euen? And Moses sayd vnto his father in law, Because the people come vnto me to seeke God. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, and I iudge betweene one and another, and declare the ordinances of God, and his lawes. But Moses father in law said vnto him, The thing which thou doest, is not well. Thou both weariest thy selfe greatly, and this people that is with thee: for the thing is too heauie for thee: thou art not able to doe it thy selfe alone. Heare nowe my voyce, (I will giue thee counsell, and God shalbe with thee) be thou for the people to Godwarde, and report thou the causes vnto God, And admonish them of the ordinances, and of the lawes, and shew them the way, wherein they must walke, and the worke that they must do. Moreouer, prouide thou among al the people men of courage, fearing God, men dealing truely, hating couetousnesse: and appoynt such ouer them to be rulers ouer thousandes, rulers ouer hundreths, rulers ouer fifties, and rulers ouer tennes. And let them iudge the people at all seasons: but evry great matter let them bring vnto thee, and let them iudge all small causes: so shall it be easier for thee, when they shall beare the burden with thee. If thou do this thing, (and God so command thee) both thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go quietly to their place. So Moses obeyed the voyce of his father in law, and did all that he had sayd: And Moses chose men of courage out of all Israel, and made them heads ouer the people, rulers ouer thousandes, rulers ouer hundreths, rulers ouer fifties, and rulers ouer tennes. And they judged the people at all seasons, but they brought the hard causes vnto Moses: for they judged all small matters themselves. Afterward Moses let his father in law depart, and he went into his countrey.

In the third moneth, after the children of Israel were gone out of the lande of Egypt, the same day came they into the wildernes of Sinai. For they departed from Rephidim, and came to the desart of Sinai, and camped in the wildernes: euen there Israel camped before the mount. But Moses went vp vpnto God, for ye Lord had called out of the mount vnto him, saying, Thus shalt thou say to the house of Iaakob, and tell the children of Israel, Ye haue seene what I did vnto the Egyptians, and how I caryed you vpon eagles wings, and haue brought you vnto me. Now therefore if ye wil heare my voyce in deede, and keepe my couenant, then ye shalbe my chiefe treasure aboue all people, though all the earth be mine. Yee shall be vnto mee also a kingdome of Priestes, and an holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speake vnto the children of Israel. Moses then came and called for the Elders of the people, and proposed vnto them all these things, which the Lord commanded him. And the people answered all together, and sayd, All that the Lord hath commanded, we will doe. And Moses reported the wordes of the people vnto the Lord. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Lo, I come vnto thee in a thicke cloude, that the people may heare, whiles I talke with thee, and that they may also beleue thee for euer. (for Moses had tolde the wordes of the people vnto the Lord) Moreouer, the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Goe to the people, and sanctifie them to day and to morow, and let them wash their clothes. And let them be ready on the third day: for the thirde day the Lord will come downe in the sight of all the people vpon mount Sinai: And thou shalt set markes vnto the people rounde about, saying, Take heede to your selues that ye goe not vp the mount, nor touche the border of it: whosoeuer toucheth the mount, shall surely die. No hand shall touche it, but he shalbe stoned to death, or striken through with darts: whether it be beast or man, he shall not liue: when the horne bloweth long, they shall come vp into the mountaine. Then Moses went downe from ye mount vnto the people, and sanctified the people, and they washed their clothes. And he said vnto the people, Be ready on the third day, and come not at your wiuues.
And the thirde day, when it was morning, there was thunders and lightnings, and a thicke cloude vpon the mount, and the sounde of the trumpet exceeding loude, so that all the people, that was in the campe, was afrayde. Then Moses brought the people out of the tents to meete with God, and they stoode in the nether part of the mount. And mount Sinai was all on smoke, because the Lord came downe vpon it in fire, and the smoke therof ascended, as the smoke of a fornace, and all the mount trembled exceedingly. And when the sound of the trumpet blew long, and waxed louder and louder, Moses spake, and God answered him by voyce. (For the Lord came downe vpon mount Sinai on the toppe of the mount) and when the Lord called Moses vp into the top of the mount, Moses went vp.
Then the Lord said vnto Moses, Go down, charge the people, that they breake not their boundes, to go vp to the Lord to gaze, least many of them perish. And let the Priestes also which come to the Lord be sanctified, least the Lord destroy them. And Moses sayde vnto the Lord, The people can not come vp into the mount Sinai: for thou hast charged vs, saying, Set markes on the mountaine, and sanctifie it. And the Lord sayd vnto him, Go, get thee downe, and come vp, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the Priestes and the people breake their boundes to come vp vnto the Lord, least he destroy them.
So Moses went downe vnto the people, and tolde them.

Then God spake all these wordes, saying, I am the Lord thy God, which haue brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other Gods before me.
Thou shalt make thee no grauen image, neither any similitude of things that are in heauen aboue, neither that are in the earth beneath, nor that are in the waters vnder the earth. Thou shalt not bowe downe to them, neither serue them: for I am the Lord thy God, a jealous God, visiting the iniquitie of the fathers vpon the children, vpon the third generation and vpon the fourth of them that hate me: And shewing mercie vnto thousandes to them that loue me, and keepe my commandements. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vaine: for the Lord will not hold him guiltles that taketh his Name in vayne. Remember the Sabbath day, to keepe it holy. Sixe dayes shalt thou labour, and doe all thy worke, But the seuenth day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any worke, thou, nor thy sonne, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy mayde, nor thy beast, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates. For in sixe dayes the Lord made the heauen and the earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seuenth day: therefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it. Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy dayes may be prolonged vpon the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adulterie. Thou shalt not steale.
Thou shalt not beare false witnes against thy neighbour. Thou shalt not couet thy neighbours house, neither shalt thou couet thy neighbours wife, nor his man servant, nor his mayde, nor his oxe, nor his asse, neyther any thing that is thy neighbours.
And all the people sawe the thunders, and the lightnings, and the sound of the trumpet, and the mountaine smoking and when the people saw it they fled and stoode afare off, And sayde vnto Moses, Talke thou with vs, and we will heare: but let not God talke with vs, lest we die. Then Moses sayde vnto the people, Feare not: for God is come to proue you, and that his feare may be before you, that ye sinne not. So the people stoode afarre off, but Moses drew neere vnto the darkenes where God was.
And the Lord sayde vnto Moses, Thus thou shalt say vnto the children of Israel, Ye haue seene that I haue talked with you from heauen. Ye shall not make therefore with me gods of siluer, nor gods of golde: you shall make you none. An altar of earth thou shalt make vnto me, and thereon shalt offer thy burnt offerings, and thy peace offerings, thy sheepe, and thine oxen: in all places, where I shall put the remembrance of my Name, I will come vnto thee, and blesse thee. But if thou wilt make mee an altar of stone, thou shalt not buylde it of hewen stones: for if thou lift vp thy toole vpon them, thou hast polluted them. Neither shalt thou goe vp by steppes vnto mine altar, that thy filthines be not discovered thereon.

[21] Now these are the lawes, which thou shalt set before them: 2 If thou bye an Ebrewe seruant, he shall serue sixe yeres, and in 3 the seuenth he shall go out free, for nothing. If he came him-selwe alone, he shall goe out himselwe alone: if hee were married, 4 then his wife shall go out with him. If his master haue giuen him a wife, and she hath borne him sonnes or daughters, he wife and her children shalbe her masters, but he shall goe out him-5 selwe alone. But if the seruant saye thus, I loue my master, my 6 wife and my children, I will not goe out free, Then his master shall bring him vnto the Iudges, and set him to the dore, or to the poste, and his master shall bore his eare through with 7 a nawle, and he shall serue him for euer.Likewise if a man sell his daughter to be a seruant, she shall not goe out as the 8 men seruantes doe. If shee please not her master, who hath betrothed her to him selfe, then shall hee cause to buy her: hee shall haue no power to sell her to a strange people, seeing he 9 despised her. But if he hath betrothed her vnto his sonne, he shall deale with her according to the custome of the daughters.
10 If he take him another wife, he shall not diminish her foode, her 11 rayment, and recompence of her virginitie. And if he do not these three vnto her, the shall she go out free, paying no money.
12, 13 He that smiteth a man, and he die, shall dye the death. And if a man hath not layed wayte, but God hath offered him into his hande, then I wil appoynt thee a place whither he shall flee.
14 But if a man come presumptuously vpon his neighbour to slay him with guile, thou shalt take him from mine altar, that he may die. Also hee that smiteth his father or his mother, shall die the death. And he that stealeth a man, and selleth him, if it be founde with him, shall die the death. And hee that curseth his father or his mother, shall die the death. When men also striue together, and one smite another with a stone, or with the fist, and he die not, but lieth in bed, If hee rise againe and walke without vpon his staffe, then shall he that smote him go quite, saue onely hee shall beare his charges for his resting, and shall pay for his healing. And if a man smite his servuant, or his maide with a rod, and he die vnder his hande, he shalbe surely punished. But if he continue a day, or two dayes, hee shall not be punished: for he is his money. Also if men strue and hurt a woman with childe, so that her childe depart from her, and death follow not, hee shall bee surely punished according as the womans husband shall appoynt him, or he shall pay as the Judges determine. But if death follow, then thou shalt paye life for life, Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hande for hand, foote for foote, Burning for burning, wound for wounde, stripe for stripe. And if a man smite his seruant in the eie, or his maide in the eye, and hath perished it, hee shall let him goe free for his eye. Also if he smite out his seruants tooth, or his maides tooth, he shall let him goe out free for his tooth. If an oxe gore a man or a woman, that he die, the oxe shalbe stoned to death, and his flesh shall not be eaten, but the owner of the oxe shall goe quite. If the oxe were wont to push in times past, and it hath bene tolde his master, and hee hath not kept him, and after he killeth a man or a woman, the oxe shall be stoned, and his owner shall die also. If there be set to him a summe of mony, then he shall pay the raunsome of his life, whatsoeuer shalbe laied vpon him. Whether he hath gored a sonne or gored a daughter, he shalbe iudged after the same maner. If the oxe gore a seruant or a mayde, hee shall giue vnto their master thirtie shekels of siluer, and the oxe shalbe stoned. And when a man shall open a well, or when he shall dig a pit and couer it not, and an oxe or an asse fall therein, The owner of the pit shall make it good, and giue money to the owners thereof, but the dead beast shalbe his. And if a mans oxe hurt his neighbours oxe that he die, then they shall sel the liue oxe, and deuide the money thereof, and the dead oxe also they shall deuide. Or if it bee knowen that the oxe hath vsed to push in times past, and his master hath not kept him, he shall pay oxe for oxe, but the dead shall be his owne.

If a man steale an oxe or a sheepe, and kill it or sell it, he shall restore fiue oxen for the oxe, and foure sheepe for the sheepe. If a thiefe bee founde breaking vp, and be smitten that he dye, no blood shall be shed for him. But if it be in the day light, blood shall be shed for him: for he should make full restitution: if he had not wherewith, then shoulde he bee solde for his theft. If the theft bee founde with him, alieue, (whether it be oxe, asse, or sheepe) he shall restore the double. If a man doe hurt fiele or vineyarde, and put in his beast to feed in an other mans field, he shall recompence of the best of his owne field, and of the best of his owne vineyard. If fire breake out, and catche in ye thornes, and the stackes of corne, or the standing corne, or the field be consumed, he that kindled the fire shall make full restitution. If a man deliuer his neighbour money or stuffe to keepe, and it be stollen out of his house, if the thiefe be found, he shall pay the double. If the thiefe be not founde, then the master of the house shalbe brought vnto the Judges to sweare, whether he hath put his hande vnto his neighbours good, or no. In all maner of trespasse, whether it bee for oxen, for asse, for sheepe, for raiment, or for any maner of lost thing, which an other chalengeth to be his, the cause of both parties shall come before the iudges, and whom the Judges condemne, he shall pay the double vnto his neighbour. If a man deliuer vnto his neighbour to keepe asse, or oxe, or sheepe, or any beast, and it die, or be hurt, or taken away by enemies, and no man see it, An othe of the Lord shalbe betweene the twaine, that hee hath not put his hande vnto his neighbours good, and the owner of it shall take the othe, and he shall not make it good: But if it be stollen from him, he shall make restitution vnto the owner thereof. If it be torne in pieces, he shall bring recorde, and shall not make that good, which is deuoured. And if a man borow ought of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or els die, the owner thereof not being by, he shall surely make it good: If the owner thereof bee by, hee shall not make it good: for if it be an hired thing, it came for his hire. And if a man entise a maide that is not betrothed, and lie with her, hee shall endowe her, and take her to his wife. If her father refuse to giue her to him, hee shall pay money, according to ye dowry of virgins. Thou shalt not suffer a witch to liue. Whosoeuer lieth with a beast, shall dye the death. Hee that offereth vnto any gods, saue vnto the Lord onely, shalbe slaine. Moreover, thou shalt not do inuiurie to a stranger, neither oppresse him: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt. Ye shall not trouble any widowe, nor fatherlesse childe. If thou vexe or trouble such, and so he call and cry vnto me, I will surely heare his cry. Then shall my wrath be kindled, and I will kill you with the sword, and your wiues shall be widowes, and your children fatherlesse. If thou lende money to my people, that is, to the poor with thee, thou shalt not be an usurer unto him: ye shall not oppress him with usurie. If thou take thy neighbours rayment to pledge, thou shalt restore it unto him before the sunne go downe: For that is his covering only, and this is his garment for his skin: wherin shall he sleepe? therefore when he crieth unto mee, I will heare him: for I am mercifull. Thou shalt not raile vpon the Judges, neither speake evil of the ruler of thy people. Thine abundance and thy licour shalt thou not keepe backe. The first borne of thy sons shall thou give me. Likewise shalt thou do with thine oxen and with thy sheepe: seuen dayes it shall bee with his damme, and the eight day thou shalt give it me. Ye shall be an holy people unto me, neither shall ye eate any flesh that is torne of beasts in the field: ye shall cast it to the dogge.

Thou shalt not receive a false tale, neyther shalt thou put thine hande with the wicked, to be a false witnes. Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do euil, neither agree in a controuersie to decline after many and overthrowe the trueth. Thou shalt not esteeme a poor man in his cause. If thou meete thine enemies oxe, or his asse going astray, thou shalt bring him to him againe. If thou see thine enemies asse lying vnder his burden, wilt thou cease to helpe him? thou shalt helpe him vp againe with it. Thou shalt not overthrowe the right of thy poore in his sute. Thou shalt keepe thee farre from a false matter, and shalt not slaye the innocent and the righteous: for I will not justifie a wicked man. Thou shalt take no gift: for the gift blindeth the wise, and peruersteth the wordes of the righteous. Thou shalt not oppresse a stranger: for ye knowe the heart of a stranger, seeing yee were strangers in the land of Egypt. Moreouer, sixe yeres thou shalt sowe thy land, and gather the fruits thereof. But the seventh yeere thou shalt let it rest and lie still, that the poore of thy people may eat, and what they leave, the beasts of the fielde shall eat. In like maner thou shalt doe with thy vineyard, and with thine olive trees. Sixe dayes thou shalt do thy worke, and in the seventh day thou shalt rest, that thine oxe, and thine asse may rest, and the sonne of thy maide and the stranger may be refreshed. And ye shall take heede to all things that I haue sayde vnto you: and ye shall make no mention of the name of other gods, neither shall it be heard out of thy mouth. Three times thou shalt keepe a feast vnto me in the yeere. Thou shalt keepe the feast of vnleauened bread: thou shalt eate vnleauened bread seue dayes, as I commanded thee, in the season of the moneth of Abib: for in it thou camest out of Egypt: and none shall appeare before me emptie: The feast also of the haruest of the first fruites of thy labours, which thou hast sowen in the fiele: and the feast of gathering fruites in the ende of the yere, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the fiele. These three times in the yeere shall all thy men children appeare before the Lord Iehouah. Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leauened bread: neyther shall the fatte of my sacrifice remayne vntill the morning. The first of the first fruites of thy lande thou shalt bring into the house of the Lord thy God: yet shalt thou not seeth a kid in his mothers milke. Behold, I send an Angel before thee, to keepe thee in the way, and to bring thee to the place which I haue prepared. Beware of him, and heare his voyce, and prouoke him not: for he will not spare your misdeedes, because my name is in him. But if thou hearken vnto his voyce, and do all that I speake, the I wil be an enemie vnto thine enemies, and will afflixt them that afflict thee. For mine Angel shall go before thee, and bring thee vnto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, and I will destroy them. Thou shalt not bow downe to their gods, neither serue them, nor doe after the workes of them: but vtterly ouerthrowe them, and breake in pieces their images. For ye shall serue the Lord your God, and he shall blesse thy bread and thy water, and I will take all sickenes away from the middes of thee. There shall none cast their fruuite nor be baren in thy lande: the number of thy dayes will I fulfill. I will send my feare before thee, and will destroy all the people among whome thou shalt go: and I will make all thine enemies turne their backes vnto thee: And I will sende hornets before thee, which shall drive out the Hiuites, the Canaanites, and the Hittites from thy face. I will not cast them out from thy face in one yeere, least the land grow to a wildernes: and the beasts of the field multiplie against thee. By litle and litle I will drive them out from thy face, vntill thou increase, and inherit the lande. And I will make thy coastes from the red sea vnto the sea of the Philistims, and from the desert vnto the Riuer: for I will deliuer the inhabitants of the lande into your hande, and thou shalt driue them out from thy face. Thou shalt make no couenant with them, nor with their gods: Neither shall they dwell in thy lande, least they make thee sinne against me: for if thou serue their gods, surely it shall be thy destruction.

Now hee had said vnto Moses, Come vp to the Lord, thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seuentie of the Elders of Israel, and yee shall worship a farre off. And Moses himselfe alone shall come neere to the Lord, but they shall not come neere, neither shall the people goe vp with him. Afterwarde Moses came and told the people all the wordes of the Lord, and all the lawes: and all the people answered with one voyce, and said, All the things which the Lord hath said, will we doe. And Moses wrote all the wordes of the Lord, and rose vp early, and set vp an altar vnder the mountaine, and twelue pillars according to the twelue tribes of Israel. And he sent young men of the children of Israel, which offered burnt offrings of bieues, and sacrificed peace offrings vnto the Lord. Then Moses tooke halfe of the blood, and put it in basens, and halfe of the blood he sprinckled on the altar. After he tooke the booke of the couenant, and read it in the audience of the people: who said, All that the Lord hath said, we will do, and be obedient. Then Moses tooke the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, Behold, the blood of the couenant, which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these things. Then went vp Moses and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seuentie of the Elders of Israel. And they saw the God of Israel, and vnder his feete was as it were a worke of a Saphir stone, and as the very heauen when it is cleare. And vpon the nobles of the children of Israel he laide not his hande: also they sawe God, and did eate and drinke. And the Lord said vnto Moses, Come vp to me into the mountaine, and be there, and I will giue thee tables of stone, and the law and the commandement, which I haue written, for to teach them. Then Moses rose vp, and his minister Ioshua, and Moses went vp into the mountaine of God, And said vnto the Elders, Tary vs here, vntill we come againe vnto you: and beholde, Aaron, and Hur are with you: whosoeuer hath any matters, let him come to them. Then Moses went vp to the mount, and the cloude covered the mountaine, And the glorie of the Lord abode vpon mount Sinai, and the cloude covered it sixe dayes: and the seuenth day he called vnto Moses out of the middes of the cloude. And the sight of the glorie of the Lord was like consuming fire on the top of the moutaine, in the eyes of the children of Israel. And Moses entred into the middes of the cloude, and went vp to the mountaine: and Moses was in the mount fourtie dayes and fourty nightes.

Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, that they receiue an offring for me: of every man, whose heart giueth it freely, ye shall take the offring for me. And this is the offring which ye shall take of them, golde, and siluer, and brasse, And blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine linnen, and goates heare, And rammes skinnes coloured red, and the skinnes of badgers, and the wood Shittim, Oyle for the light, spices for anoynting oyle, and for the perfume of sweete savour, Onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brest plate. Also they shall make me a Sanctuarie, that I may dwell among them. According to all that I shewe thee, euen so shall ye make the forme of the Tabernacle, and the facion of all the instruments thereof. They shall make also an Arke of Shittim wood, two cubites and an halfe long, and a cubite and an halfe broade, and a cubite and an halfe hie. And thou shalt ouerlay it with pure golde: within and without shalt thou ouerlay it, and shalt make vpon it a crowne of golde rounde about. And thou shalt cast foure rings of golde for it, and put them in the foure corners thereof: that is, two rings shalbe on the one side of it, and two rings on the other side thereof. And thou shalt make barres of Shittim wood, and couer them with golde. Then thou shalt put the barres in the rings by the sides of the Arke, to beare the Arke with them. The barres shalbe in the rings of the Arke: they shall not be taken away from it. So thou shalt put in the Arke the Testimonie which I shall giue thee. Also thou shalt make a Mercie seate of pure golde, two cubites and an halfe long, and a cubite and an halfe broade. And thou shalt make two Cherubims of golde: of worke beaten out with the hammer shalt thou make the at ye two endes of the Mercieseate.
And the one Cherub shalt thou make at the one ende, and the other Cherub at the other ende: of the matter of the Mercieseate shall ye make the Cherubims, on the two endes thereof. And the Cherubims shall stretche their winges on hie, couering the Mercieseate with their winges, and their faces one to another: to the Mercieseate warde shall the faces of the Cherubims be.
And thou shalt put the Mercieseate aboue vpon the Arke, and in the Arke thou shalt put the Testimonie, which I will giue thee, And there I will declare my selfe vnto thee, and from aboue ye Mercieseate betweene ye two Cherubims, which are vpon ye Arke of ye Testimonie, I wil tel thee al things which I wil giue thee in comandement vnto ye children of Israel. Thou shalt also make a Table of Shittim wood, of two cubites long, and one cubite broade, and a cubite and an halfe hie: And thou shalt couer it with pure gold, and make thereto a crowne of golde round about.
Thou shalt also make vnto it a border of foure fingers roud about and thou shalt make a golden crowne round about the border thereof. After, thou shalt make for it foure ringes of golde, and shall put the rings in the foure corners that are in the foure feete thereof: Ouer against the border shall the rings be for places for barres, to beare the Table. And thou shalt make the barres of Shittim wood, and shalt ouerlay them with golde, that the Table may be borne with them. Thou shalt make also dishes for it, and incense cuppes for it, and couerings for it, and goblets, wherewith it shall be couered, euon of fine golde shalt thou make them. And thou shalt set vpon the Table shewe bread before me continually. Also thou shalt make a Candlesticke of pure golde: of worke beaten out with the hammer shall the Candlesticke be made, his shaft, and his branches, his boules, his knops: and his flooures shalbe of the same. Six braunches also shall come out of the sides of it: three branches of the Candlesticke out of the one side of it, and three branches of the Candlesticke out of the other side of it. Three boules like vnto almondes, one knop and one flooure in one braunch: and three boules like almondes in the other branch, one knop and one flooure: so throughout the sixe branches that come out of the Candlesticke. And in the shaft of the Candlesticke shalbe foure boules like vnto almondes, is his knops and his flooures. And there shalbe a knop vnder two branches made thereof: and a knop vnder two branches made thereof: and a knop vnder two branches made thereof, according to the sixe branches comming out of the Candlesticke. Their knops and their branches shall bee thereof. all this shalbe one beaten worke of pure golde. And thou shalt make the seuen lampes thereof: and the lampes thereof shalt thou put thereon, to giue light toward that that is before it. Also the snuffers and snuffedishes thereof shalbe of pure golde. Of a talent of fine gold shalt thou make it with all these instruments. Looke therefore that thou make them after their facion, that was shewed thee in the mountaine.

Afterwarde thou shalt make the Tabernacle with tenne curtaines of fine twined linen, and blewe silke, and purple, and scarlet: and in them thou shalt make Cherubims of broydered worke. The length of one curtaine shalbe eight and twentie cubites, and the bredth of one curtaine, foure cubites: every one of the curtaines shall haue one measure. Fiue curtaines shalbe coupled one to an other: and the other fiue curtaines shall be coupled one to another. And thou shalt make stringes of blew silke vpon the edge of the one curtaine, which is in the seluedge of the coupling: and likewise shalt thou make in the edge of the other curtaine in the seluedge, in the second coupling. Fiftie strings shalt thou make in one curtaine, and fiftie stringes shalt thou make in the edge of the curtaine, which is in the second coupling: ye stringes shalbe one right against another. Thou shalt make also fiftie taches of gold, and couple the curtaines one to another with the taches, and it shalbe one tabernacle. Also thou shalt make curtaines of goates heare, to be a couering vpon the Tabernacle: thou shalt make them to the number of eleuen curtaines. The length of a curtaine shall be thirtie cubites, and the breadth of a curtaine foure cubites: the eleuen curtaines shalbe of one measure. And thou shalt couple fiue curtaynes by themselues, and the sixe curtaines by themselues: but thou shalt double the sixt curtaine vpon the forefront of the couering. And thou shalt make fifty stringes in the edge of one curtayne, in the seluedge of the coupling, and fifty stringes in the edge of the other curtaine in the second coupling. Likewise thou shalt make fifty taches of brasse, and fasten them on the strings, and shalt couple the couering together, that it may be one. And the remnant that resteth in ye curtaines of the couering, euен the halfe curtaine that resteth, shalbe left at the backeside of the Tabernacle. That the cubite on the one side, and the cubite on the other side of that which is left in the legth of the curtaines of ye couering, may remaine on either side of the Tabernacle to cover it. Moreover, for that covering thou shalt make a covering of rammes skinnes died red, and a covering of badgers skinnes aboue. Also thou shalt make boards for the Tabernacle of Shittim wood to stand vp. Ten cubites shall be the length of a boarde, and a cubite and an halfe cubite the breadth of one boarde. Two tenons shall be in one boarde set in order as the feete of a ladder, one against an other: thus shalt thou make for all the boardes of the Tabernacle. And thou shalt make boardes for the Tabernacle, euen twenty boardes on the South side, euen full South. And thou shalt make fourty sockets of siluer vnder the twentie boardes, two sockets vnder one boarde for his two tenons, and two sockets vnder an other boarde for his two tenons. In like maner on the other side of the Tabernacle towarde the North side shalbe twentie boardes, And their fourtie sockets of siluer, two sockets vnder one boarde, and two sockets vnder another boarde. And on the side of the Tabernacle, toward the West shalt thou make sixe boards. Also two boardes shalt thou make in the corners of the Tabernacle in the two sides. Also they shalbe ioyned beneath, and likewise they shalbe ioyned aboue to a ring: thus shall it be for them two: they shalbe for ye two corners. So they shalbe eight boardes having sockets of siluer, euen sixeene sockets, that is, two sockets vnder one board, and two sockets vnder an other boarde. The thou shalt make fiue barres of Shittim wood for the boardes of one side of the Tabernacle, And fiue barres for the boardes of the other side of the Tabernacle: also fiue barres for the boardes of the side of the Tabernacle toward the Westside. And the middle barre shall goe through the middes of the boards, from ende to ende. And thou shalt cover the boards with golde, and make their rings of golde, for places for the barres, and thou shalt cover the barres with golde. So thou shalt reare vp the Tabernacle, according to the facion thereof, which was shewed thee in the mount. Moreover, thou shalt make a vaile of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen: thou shalt make it of broydred worke with Cherubims. And thou shalt hang it vpon foure pillars of Shittim wood couered with gold, (whose hookes shalbe of gold) stading vpon foure sockets of siluer. Afterward thou shalt hang the vaile on the hookes, that thou mayest bring in thither, that is (within the vaile) the arke of the Testimonie:
and the vaile shall make you a separation betwene the Holy place and the most holy place. Also thou shalt put ye Mercy seate vpon the Arke of the testimonie in the most Holy place. And thou shalt set the Table without the vaile, and the Candlesticke ouer against the Table on the Southside of the Tabernacle, and thou shalt set the Table on the Northside. Also thou shalt make an hanging for the dore of ye Tabernacle of blew silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen wrought with needle. And thou shalt make for the hanging fiue pillars of Shittim, and couer them with gold: their heads shalbe of golde, and thou shalt cast fiue sockets of brasse for them.

Moreouer thou shalt make the altar of Shittim wood, fiue cubites long and fiue cubites broade (the altar shall be foure square) and the height thereof three cubites. And thou shalt make it hornes in the foure corners thereof: the hornes shalbe of it selfe, and thou shalt couer it with brasse. Also thou shalt make his ashpannes for his ashes and his besoms, and his basens, and his flesh-hookes, and his censers: thou shalt make all the instruments thereof of brasse. And thou shalt make vnto it a grate like networke of brasse: also vpon that grate shalt thou make foure brasen rings vpon the foure corners thereof. And thou shalt put it vnder the compasse of the altar beneath, that the grate may be in the middes of the altar. Also thou shalt make barres for the altar, barres, I say, of Shittim wood, and shalt couer them with brasse. And the barres thereof shalbe put in the rings, the which barres shalbe vpon the two sides of the altar to beare it. Thou shalt make the altar holowe betwene the boardes: as God shewed thee in the mount, so shall they make it. Also thou shalt make the court of the Tabernacle in the Southside, even full South: the court shall haue curtaines of fine twined linnen, of an hundreth cubites long, for one side, And it shall haue twentie pillars, with their twentie sockets of brasse: the heads of the pillars, and their filets shalbe siluer. Likewise on the Northside in length there shalbe hangings of an hundreth cubites long, and the twentie pillars thereof with their twentie sockets of brasse: the heads of the pillars and the filets shalbe siluer. And the breadth of the court on the Westside shall haue curtaines of fiftie cubites, with their ten pillars and their ten sockets. And the breadth of the court, Eastwarde full East shall have fifty cubits. Also hangings of fifteene cubites shalbe on the one side with their three pillars and their three sockets. Likewise on the other side shalbe hangings of fifteene cubites, with their three pillars and their three sockets. And in the gate of the court shalbe a vaile of twentie cubites, of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen wrought with needle, with the four pillars thereof and their four sockets. All the pillars of the court shall haue filets of siluer round about, with their heads of siluer, and their sockets of brasse. The length of the court shalbe an hundreth cubites, and the breadth fiftie at either ende, and the height fiue cubites, and the hangings of fine twined linen, and their sockets of brasse. Al the vessels of the Tabernacle for al maner seruice thereof, and all the pinnes thereof, and all the pinnes of the court shalbe brasse. And thou shalt commande the children of Israel, that they bring vnto thee pure oyle oline beaten, for the light, that the lampes may alway burne. In the Tabernacle of the Congregation without the vaile, which is before the Testimony, shall Aaron and his sonnes dresse them from euening to morning before the Lord, for a statute for euer vnto their generations, to be obserued by the children of Israel.

And cause thou thy brother Aaron to come vnto thee and his sonnes with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may serue me in the Priestes office: I meane Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar Aarons sonnes. Also thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, glorious and beautifull. Therefore thou shalt speake vnto al cunning men, whome I haue filled with the spirite of wisedome, that they make Aarons garments to consecrate him, that he may serue me in the Priests office. Nowe these shall be the garments, which they shall make, a brest plate, and an Ephod, and a robe, and a broydred coate, a miter, and a girdle. so these holy garments shall they make for Aaron thy brother, and for his sonnes, that he may serue me in the Priests office. Therefore they shall take golde, and blew silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine linnen. And they shall make the Ephod of gold, blewe silke, and purple, skarlet, and fine twined linen of broydred worke. The two shoulders thereof shalbe ioyned together by their two edges: so shall it be closed. And the embroydred garde of the same Ephod, which shalbe vpon him, shall be of the selfe same worke and stuffe, euen of golde, blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen. And thou shalt take two onix stones, and graue vpon them the names of the children of Israel: Sixe names of them vpon the one stone, and the sixe names that remaine, vpon the seconde stone, according to their generations. Thou shalt cause to graue the two stones according to the names of the children of Israel by a grauer of signets, that worketh and graueth in stone, and shalt make them to be set and embossed in golde. And thou shalt put the two stones vpon the shoulders of the Ephod, as stones of remembrance of the children of Israel: for Aaron shall beare their names before the Lord vpon his two shoulders for a remembrance. So thou shalt make bosses of golde, And two cheynes of fine golde at the ende, of wreathed worke shalt thou make them, and shalt fasten the wreathed cheynes vpon the bosses. Also thou shalt make the brest plate of iudgement with broydred worke: like the worke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: of gold, blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen shalt thou make it. Foure square it shall be and double, an hand bredth long and an hand bredth broade. Then thou shalt set it full of places for stones, euen foure rowes of stones: the order shalbe this, a rubie, a topaze, and a carbuncle in the first rowe. And in the seconde rowe thou shalt set an emeraude, a saphir, and a diamonde. And in the third rowe a turkeis, an achate, and an hematite. And in the fourth rowe a chrysolite, an onix, and a iasper: and they shall be set in golde in their embrassements. And the stones shall be according to the names of the children of Israel, twelue, according to their names, grauen as signets, euerye one after his name, and they shall bee for the twelue tribes. Then thou shalt make vpon the breast plate two cheines at the endes of wrethen worke of pure golde. Thou shalt make also vpon the brest plate two rings of golde, and put the two rings on the two endes of the brest plate. And thou shalt put the two wrethen chaynes of golde in the two rings in the endes of the brest plate. And the other two endes of the two wrethen cheines, thou shalt fasten in ye two embossemens, and shalt put them vpon the shoulders of the Ephod on the foreside of it. Also thou shalt make two rings of gold, which thou shalt put in the two other ends of the brest plate, vpon the border thereof, towarde the inside of the Ephod. And two other rings of golde thou shalt make, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod, beneath in the forepart of it ouer against the coupling of it vpon the broydred garde of the Ephod. Thus they shall binde the brest plate by his rings vnto the rings of the Ephod, with a lace of bleue silke, that it may be fast vpon the broydred garde of the Ephod, and that the brest plate be not loosed from the Ephod. So Aaron shall beare the names of the children of Israel in the brest plate of judgement vpon his heart, when he goeth into the holy place, for a remembrance continually before the Lord. Also thou shalt put in the brest plate of judgement the Vrim and the Thummim, which shalbe vpon Aarons heart, when he goeth in before the Lord: and Aaron shall beare the judgement of the children of Israel vpon his heart before the Lord continually. And thou shalt make the robe of the Ephod altogether of blewe silke. And the hole for his head shalbe in the middes of it, hauing an edge of wouen worke rounde about the coller of it: so it shalbe as the coller of an habergeon that it rent not. And beneath vpon the skirtes thereof thou shalt make pomegranates of blew silke, and purple, and skarlet, round about the skirts thereof, and belles of gold betweene them round about: That is, a golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate rounde about vpon the skirtes of the robe. So it shalbe vpon Aaron, when he ministreth, and his sound shalbe heard, when he goeth into the holy place before the Lord, and when he commeth out, and he shall not dye. Also thou shalt make a plate of pure golde, and graue thereon, as signets are grauen, Holines To The Lord, And thou shalt put it on a blew silke lace, and it shalbe vpon the miter: euen vpon the fore front of the miter shall it be. So it shalbe vpon Aarons forehead, that Aaron may beare the iniquitie of the offrings, which the children of Israel shall offer in all their holy offrings: and it shall be alwayes vpon his forehead, to make them acceptable before the Lord. Likewise thou shalt embroyder the fine line coat, and thou shalt make a miter of fine line, but thou shalt make a girdell of needle worke. Also thou shalt make for Aarons sonnes coates, and thou shalt make the girdels, and bonets shalt thou make them for glorie and comelinesse. And thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother, and on his sonnes with him, and shall anoint them, and fill their handes, and sanctifie them, that they may minister vnto me in the Priestes office. Thou shalt also make them linen breeches to couer their priuities: from the loynes vnto the thighs shall they reache. And they shalbe for Aaron and his sonnes when they come into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, or whe they come vnto the altar to minister in the holy place, that they commit not iniquitie, and so die.
This shalbe a lawe for euer vnto him and to his seede after him.

This thing also shalt thou do vnto them whe thou consecratest them to be my Priestes, Take a yong calfe, and two rams without blemish, And vnleauened bread and cakes vnleauened tempered with oyle, and wafers vnleauened anoynted with oyle: (of fine wheate flowre shalt thou make them) Then thou shalt put them in one basket, and present them in the basket with the calfe and the two rammes, And shalt bring Aaron and his sonnes vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and wash them with water. Also thou shalt take the garments, and put vpon Aaron the tunicle, and the robe of the Ephod, and the Ephod, and the brest plate, and shalt close them to him with the broidred garde of the Ephod. Then thou shalt put the miter vpon his head, and shalt put the holy crowne vpon ye miter.
And thou shalt take the anoynting oyle, and shalt powre vpon his head, and anoynt him. And thou shalt bring his sonnes, and put coates vpon them, And shalt girde them with girdles, both Aaron and his sonnes: and shalt put the bonets on them, and the Priestes office shalbe theirs for a perpetuall lawe: thou shalt also fill the hands of Aaron, and the hands of his sonnes.
After, thou shalt present the calfe before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and Aaron and his sonnes shall put their handes vpon the head of the calfe. So thou shalt kill the calfe before the Lord, at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.
Then thou shalt take of the blood of the calfe, and put it vpon the hornes of the altar with thy finger, and shalt powre al the rest of the blood at the foote of the altar. Also thou shalt take all the fat that couereth the inwards, and the kall, that is on the liuer, and the two kidneis, and the fat that is vpon them, and shalt burne them vpon the altar. But the fleshe of the calfe, and his skin, and his doung shalt thou burne with fire without the hoste: it is a sinne offring. Thou shalt also take one ramme, and Aron and his sonnes shall put their hands vpon the head of the ramme. Then thou shalt kill the ramme, and take his blood, and sprinkle it round about vpon the altar. And thou shalt cut the ramme in pieces, and wash the inwards of him and his legges, and shalt put them vpon the pieces thereof, and vpon his head. So thou shalt burne the whole ram vpon the altar: for it is a burnt offering vnto the Lord for a sweete sauour: it is an offering made by fire vnto the Lord. And thou shalt take the other ramme, and Aaron and his sonnes shall put their handes vpon the head of the ramme. Then thou shalt kill the ramme, and take of his blood and put it vpon the lappe of Aarons eare, and vpon the lappe of the right eare of his sonnes, and vpon the thumbe of their right hand, and vpon the great toe of their right foote, and shalt sprinkle the blood vpon ye altar roud about. And thou shalt take of the blood that is vpon the altar, and of the anoynting oyle, and shalt sprinkle it vpon Aaron, and vpon his garments, and vpon his sonnes, and vpon the garments of his sonnes with him: so he shall be halowed, and his clothes, and his sonnes, and the garments of his sonnes with him. Also thou shalt take of the rammes ye fatte and the rumpe, euen the fat that couereth the inwards, and the kall of the liuer, and the two kidneis, and the fat that is vpon them, and the right shoulder, (for it is the ramme of consecration) And one loafe of bread, and one cake of bread tempered with oyle, and one wafer, out of the basket of the vnleauened bread that is before the Lord. And thou shalt put al this in the handes of Aaron, and in the handes of his sonnes, and shalt shake them to and from before the Lord. Againe, thou shalt receyue them of their handes, and burne them vpon the altar besides the burnt offring for a sweete sauour before ye Lord: for this is an offering made by fire vnto the Lord. Likewise thou shalt take the brest of the ram of the consecration, which is for Aaron, and shalt shake it to and from before the Lord and it shalbe thy part. And thou shalt sanctifie the brest of the shaken offering, and the shoulder of the heaue offering, which was shaken to and from, and which was heaued vp of the ramme of the consecration, which was for Aaron, and which was for his sonnes. And Aaron and his sonnes shall haue it by a statute for euer, of the children of Israel: for it is an heaue offering, and it shall be an heaue offering of the children of Israel, of their peace offerings, euen their heaue offering to the Lord. And the holy garmets, which appertaine to Aaron, shall bee his sonnes after him, to bee anoynted therein, and to bee consecrate therein. That sonne that shalbe Priest in his steade, shall put them on seuen dayes, when he communeth into the Tabernacle of the Congregation to minister in the holy place. So thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, and seeth his flesh in the holy place. And Aaron and his sonnes shall eate the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket, at the doore of ye Tabernacle of ye Congregation. So they shall eate these thinges, whereby their attonement was made, to consecrate them, and to sanctifie them: but a stranger shall not eate thereof, because they are holy things. Now if ought of the flesh of the consecration, or of the bread remaime vnto the morning, then thou shalt burne the rest with fire: it shall not be eaten, because it is an holie thing. Therefore shalt thou doe thus vnto Aaron and vnto his sonnes, according to all things, which I haue commanded thee: seuen dayes shalt thou consecrate them. And shalt offer every day a calfe for a sinne offering, for reconciliation: and thou shalt cleanse the altar, when thou hast offred vpon it for reconciliation, and shalt annoynit, to sanctifie it. Seuen dayes shalt thou cleanse the altar, and sanctifie it, so the altar shalbe most holy: and whatsoever toucheth the altar, shalbe holy. Nowe this is that which thou shalt present vpon the altar: euen two lambes of one yere olde, day by day continually. The one lambe thou shalt present in the morning, and the other lambe thou shalt present at euen. And with the one lambe, a tenth part of fine floure mingled with the fourth part of an Hin of beaten oyle, and the fourth part of an Hin of wine, for a drinke offring. And the other lambe thou shalt present at euen: thou shalt doe thereto according to the offring of the morning, and according to the drinke offring thereof, to be a burnt offring for a sweete savour vnto, the Lord. This shalbe a continuall burnt offring in your generations at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation before the Lord, where I wil make appoyntment with you, to speake there vnto thee. There I will appoynt with the children of Israel, and the place shall bee sanctified by my glorie. And I will sanctifie the Tabernacle of the Congregation and the altar:
I will sanctifie also Aaron and his sonnes to be my Priests, And I will dwell among the children of Israel, and will bee their God. Then shall they knowe that I am ye Lord their God, that brought them out of the lande of Egypt, that I might dwell among them: I am the Lord their God.

Fvrthermore thou shalt make an altar for sweete perfume, of Shittim wood thou shalt make it. The length therof a cubite and the breadth thereof a cubite (it shalbe foure square) and the height thereof two cubites: the hornes thereof shalbe of the same, And thou shalt ouerlay it with fine golde, both the toppe therof and the sides thereof round about, and his hornes: also thou shalt make vnto it a crowne of gold round about. Besides this thou shalt make vnder this crowne two golden rings on either side: euen on euery side shalt thou make them, that they may be as places for the barres to beare it withall. The which barres thou shalt make of Shittim wood, and shalt couer them with golde. After thou shalt set it before the vaile, that is neere the Arke of Testimonie, before the Merciseate that is vpon the Testimonie, where I will appoynt with thee. And Aaron shall burne thereon sweete incense every morning: when hee dresseth the lampes thereof, shall he burne it. Likewise at eue, when Aaron setteth vp the lampes thereof, he shall burne incense: this perfume shalbe perpetually before ye Lord, throughout your generations. Ye shall offer no strange incense thereon, nor burnt sacrifice, nor offring, neither powre any drinke offring thereon. And Aaron shall make reconciliation vpon the hornes of it once in a yere with the blood of the sinne offring in the day of reconciliation: once in the yeere shall hee make reconciliation vpon it throughout your generations: this is most holy vnto the Lord. Afterward the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, When thou takest the summe of the children of Israel after their nomber, then they shall giue every man a redemption of his life vnto the Lord, when thou tellest them, that there bee no plague among the when thou countest them. This shall every man giue, that goeth into the nomber, halfe a shekel, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie: (a shekel is twentie gerahs) the halfe shekel shalbe an offring to the Lord. All that are nombred from twentie yeere olde and aboue, shall giue an offring to the Lord. The rich shall not passe, and the poore shall not diminish from halfe a shekel, when ye shall gieue an offring vnto the Lord, for the redemption of your liues.

So thou shalt take the money of the redemption of the children of Israel, and shalt put it vnto the vse of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, that it may be a memoriall vnto the children of Israel before the Lord for the redemption of your liues. Also the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Thou shalt also make a lauer of brasse, and his foote of brasse to wash, and shalt put it betweene the Tabernacle of the Congregation and the Altar, and shalt put water therein. For Aaron and his sonnes shall wash their hands and their feete thereat. When they go into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, or when they goe vnto the Altar to minister and to make the perfume of ye burnt offring to the Lord, they shall wash themselves with water, lest they die. So they shall wash their handes and their feete that they die not: and this shall be to them an ordinance for euer, both vnto him and to his seede throughout their generations. Also the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take thou also vnto thee, principall spices of the most pure myrrhe fiue hundreth shekels, of sweete cinamon halfe so much, that is, two hundreth and fiftie, and of sweete calamus, two hundreth, and fiftie: Also of cassia fiue hundreth, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, and of oyle oliue an Hin. So thou shalt make of it the oyle of holie oyntment, euen a most precious oyntment after the arte of the Apothecarie: this shalbe the oyle of holy oyntment. And thou shalt anoynt the Tabernacle of the Congregation therewith, and the Arke of the Testimonie: Also the Table, and al the instruments thereof, and the Candlesticke, with all the instruments thereof, and the altar of incense: Also the Altar of burnt offring with al his instruments, and the lauer and his foote. So thou shalt sanctifie them, and they shalbe most holy: all that shall touch them, shalbe holy. Thou shalt also anoint Aaron and his sonnes, and shalt consecrate them, that they may minister vnto me in the Priests office. Moreover thou shalt speake vnto the children of Israel, saying, This shalbe an hولي oynting oyle vnto me, throughout your generations. None shall anoynt, mans flesh therewith, neither shall ye make any composition like vnto it: for it is holy, and shalbe holy vnto you. Whosoeuer shall make the like oyntment, or whosoeuer shall put any of it vpon a stranger, euen he shalbe cut off from his people. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Take unto thee these spices, pure myrrhe and cleare gumme and galbanum, these odours with pure frankincense, of eche like weight: Then thou shalt make of them perfume composed after the arte of the apothecarie, mingled together, pure and holy. And thou shalt beate it to pouder, and shalt put of it before the Arke of the Testimonie in the Tabernacle of ye Congregatio, where I wil make appointmet with thee: it shalbe vnto you most holy. And ye shall not make vnto you any composition like this perfume, which thou shalt make: it shalbe vnto thee holy for the Lord. Whosoeuer shall make like vnto that to smelll thereto, euen he shalbe cut off from his people.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Behold, I haue called by name, Bezaleel the sonne of Vri, the sonne of Hur of the tribe of Iudah, Whom I haue filled with the Spirit of God, in wisedome, and in vnderstanding and in knowledge and in all workmanship: To finde out curious workes to worke in golde, and in siluer, and in brasse, Also in the arte to set stones, and to carue in timber, and to worke in all maner of workmanship. And behold, I haue ioyned with him Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, and in the hearts of all that are wise hearted, haue I put wisdome to make all that I haue commanded thee: That is, the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the Arke of the Testimonie, and the Merciseate that shalbe therevpon, with all instruments of the Tabernacle: Also the Table and the instruments thereof, and the pure Candlesticke with all his instruments, and the Altar of perfume: Likewise the Altar of burnt offering with al his instruments, and the Lauer with his foote: Also the garments of the ministration, and ye holy garments for Aaron ye Priest, and the garmets of his sonnes, to minister in the Priestes office, And the anoynting oyle, and sweete perfume for the Sanctuarie: according to all that I haue commanded thee, shall they do. Afterwarde the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake thou also vnto the children of Israel, and say, Notwithstanding keepe yee my Sabbaths: for it is a signe betweene me and you in your generations, that ye may know that I the Lord do sanctifie you. Ye shall therefore keepe the Sabbath: for it is holy vnto you: he that defileth it, shall die the death: therefore whosoeuer worketh therin, the same person shalbe even cut off from among his people. Sixe dayes shall men worke, but in the seuenth day is the Sabbath of the holy rest to the Lord: whosoever doeth any worke in the Sabbath day, shall dye the death. Wherfore the children of Israel shall keepe the Sabbath, that they may observe the rest throughout their generations for an euverlasting covenante. It is a signe betweene me and the children of Israel for euere: for in sixe dayes the Lord made the heauen and the earth, and in the seuenth day he ceased, and rested. Thus (when the Lord had made an ende of communing with Moses vpon mount Sinai) he gaue him two Tables of the Testimonie, euen tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

Bvt when the people sawe, that Moses taryed long or he came downe from the mountaine, the people gathered themselves together against Aaron, and sayde vnto him, Vp, make vs gods to goe before vs: for of this Moses (the man that brought vs out of the land of Egypt) we knowe not what is become of him. And Aaron said vnto them, Plucke off the golden earings, which are in the eares of your wiues, of your sonnes, and of your daughters, and bring them vnto me. Then all ye people pluckt from them selues the golden earings, which were in their eares, and they brought them vnto Aaron. Who receiued them at their handes, and facioned it with the grauing toole, and made of it a molte calfe: then they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee out of ye lad of Egypt When Aaron sawe that, he made an Altar before it: and Aaron proclaimed, saying, To morow shalbe the holy day of the Lord. So they rose vp the next day in the morning, and offred burnt offerings, and brought peace offrings: also the people sate them downe to eate and drinke, and rose vp to play. Then the Lord said vnto Moses, Go, get thee downe: for thy people which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, hath corrupted their wayes. They are soone turned out of the way, which I commanded them: for they haue made them a molten calfe and haue worshipped it, and haue offered thereto, saying, These be thy gods, O Israel, which haue brought thee out of the lande of Egypt. Againe the Lord said vnto Moses, I haue seene this people, and beholde, it is a stiffe necked people. Nowe therefore let mee alone, that my wrath may waxe hote against them, for I wil consume the: but I wil make of thee a mighty people. But Moses praied vnto the Lord his God, and said, O Lord, why doeth thy wrath waxe hote against thy people, which thou hast brought out of the lande of Egypt, with great power and with a mightie hand? Wherefore shall the Egyptians speake, and say, He hath brought them out maliciously for to slay them in the mountaines, and to consume them from the earth? turne from thy fearce wrath, and change thy minde from this euill toward thy people. Remember Abraham, Izhak, and Israel thy seruants, to whom thou swarest by thine owne selfe, and saydest vnto them, I wil multiply your seede, as the starres of the heauen, and all this land, that I haue spoken of, wil I giue vnto your seede, and they shall inherit it for euer. Then the Lord changed his minde from the euil, which he threatned to do vnto his people. So Moses returned and went downe from the mountaine with the two Tables of the Testimonie in his hande: the Tables were written on both their sides, euen on the one side and on the other were they written. And these Tables were the worke of God, and this writing was the writing of God grauen in the Tables. And when Ioshua heard the noyse of the people, as they shouted, he said vnto Moses, There is a noyse of warre in the hoste. Who answered, It is not the noyse of them that haue the victorie, nor the noyse of them that are ouercome: but I do heare ye noyse of singing. Nowe, as soone as he came neere vnto the hoste, he sawe the calfe and the dancing: so Moses wrath waxed hote, and he cast the Tables out of his handes, and brake them in pieces beneath the mountaine. After, he tooke the calfe, which they had made, and burned it in the fire, and ground it vnto powder, and strowed it vpon the water, and made the children of Israel drinke of it. Also Moses said vnto Aaron, What did this people vnto thee, that thou hast brought so great a sinne vpon them? Then Aaron answered, Let not the wrath of my Lord waxe fearce: Thou knowest this people, that they are euen set on mischiefe. And they sayde vnto me, Make vs gods to go before vs: for we knowe not what is become of this Moses (the man that brought vs out of the land of Egypt.) Then I sayde to them, Ye that haue golde, plucke it off: and they brought it me, and I did cast it into the fire, and thereof came this calfe. Moses therefore sawe that the people were naked (for Aaron had made them naked vnto their shame among their enemies) And Moses stoode in ye gate of the campe, and sayde, Who pertaineth to the Lord? let him come to mee. And all the sonnes of Leui gathered themselues vnto him. Then he said vnto them, Thus sayth ye Lord God of Israel, Put euery man his sworde by his side: go to and from, from gate to gate, through the hoste, and slay euery man his brother, and euery man his companion, and euery man his neighbour. So the children of Leui did as Moses had commanded: and there fel of the people the same day about three thousand men. (For Moses had said, Cosecrate your hands vnto the Lord this day, eueny euery man vpon his sonne, and vpon his brother, that there may be giuen you a blessing this day) And when the morning came, Moses sayde vnto the people, Yee haue committed a grieuous crime: but now I wil goe vp to the Lord, if I may pacifie him for your sinne. Moses therefore went againe vnto ye Lord, and said, Oh, this people haue sinned a great sinne, and haue made them gods of golde. Therefore now if thou pardon their sinne, thy mercy shall appeare: but if thou wilt not, I pray thee, rase me out of thy booke, which thou hast written. Then the Lord sayd to Moses, Whosoeuer hath sinned against me, I will put out of my booke. Go nowe therefore, bring the people vnto the place which I commanded thee: behold, mine Angel shall goe before thee, but yet in the day of my visitation I wil visite their sinne vpon them. So the Lord plagued the people, because they caused Aaron to make ye calfe which he made.

33 Afterward the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Depart, goe vp from hence, thou, and the people (which thou hast brought vp out of lande of Egypt) vnto the lande which I sware vnto Abraham, to Izhak and to Iaakob, saying, Vnto thy seede will I giue it. And I will send an Angel before thee and will cast out the Canaanites, the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, the Hiuites, and the Iebusites: To a lande, I say, that floweth with milke and hony: for I will not goe vp with thee, because thou art a stiffe necked people, least I consume thee in the way. And when the people heard this euill tydings, they sorowed, and no man put on his best rayment. (For the Lord had said to Moses, Say vnto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiffe necked people, I wil come suddenly vpon thee, and consume thee: therefore now put thy costly rayment from thee, that I may know what to do vnto thee) So the children of Israel layed their good raiment from them, after Moses came downe from the mount Horeb.
Then Moses tooke his tabernacle, and pitched it without the hoste farre off from the hoste, and called it Ohel-moed. And whe any did seeke to the Lord, he went out vnto the Tabernacle of the Congregation, which was without the hoste. And when Moses went out vnto the Tabernacle, all the people rose vp, and stood euery man at his tent doore, and looked after Moses, vntil he was gone into the Tabernacle. And assouene as Moses was entred into the Tabernacle, the cloudie pillar descended and stood at the doore of the Tabernacle, and the Lord talked with Moses. Nowe when all the people saw the cloudie pillar stand at the Tabernacle doore, all the people rose vp, and worshipped euery man in his tent doore. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, face to face, as a man speaketh vnto his friende. After he turned againe into the hoste, but his seruant Ioshua the sonne of Nun a yong man, departed not out of the Tabernacle. Then Moses sayde vnto the Lord, See, thou sayest vnto me, Leade this people forth, and thou hast not shewed me whom thou wilt sende with mee: thou hast sayde moreouer, I knowe thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in my sight. Nowe therefore, I pray thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, shewe mee nowe thy way, that I may knowe thee, and that I may finde grace in thy sight: consider also that this nation is thy people. And he answered, My presence shall go with thee, and I will giue thee rest. Then he sayd vnto him, If thy presence go not with vs, cary vs not hence. And wherein nowe shall it be knowne, that I and thy people haue founde fauour in thy sight? shall it not be when thou goest with vs? so I, and thy people shall haue preeminence before all the people that are vpon the earth. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses, I will doe this also that thou hast saide: for thou hast founde grace in my sight, and I knowe thee by name. Againe he sayde, I beseech thee, shewe me thy glory. And he answered, I wil make all my good go before thee, and I wil proclaime the Name of the Lord before thee: for I will shewe mercy to whom I will shewe mercy, and will haue compassion on whom I will haue compassion. Furthermore he sayde, Thou canst not see my face, for there shall no man see me, and liue. Also the Lord sayd, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stand vpon the rocke: And while my glory passeth by, I will put thee in a cleft of the rocke, and will couer thee with mine hand whiles I
And the Lord said unto Moses, Hew thee two Tables of stone, like unto the first, and I will write upon the Tables the words that were in the first Tables, which thou brakest in pieces.

And be ready in the morning, that thou mayest come up early unto the mount of Sinai, and wait there for me in the top of the mount. But let no man come up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount, neither let the sheep nor cattle feed before this mount. Then Moses hewed two Tables of stone like unto the first, and rose up early in the morning, and went up unto the mount of Sinai, as the Lord had commanded him, and took in his hand two Tables of stone. And the Lord descended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the name of the Lord. So the Lord passed before his face, and cried, The Lord, the Lord, strong, merciful, and gracious, slow to anger, and abundant in goodness and truth, Reserving mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity, and transgression and sin, and not making the wicked innocent, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon ye children, and upon children's children, unto the third and fourth generation.

Then Moses made haste and bowed himself to the earth, and worshipped, And said, O Lord, I pray thee, If I have found grace in thy sight, that the Lord would go with us (for it is a stiffnecked people) and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us for thine inheritance. And he answered, Behold, I will make a covenant before all thy people, and will do marvels, such as haue not been done in all the world, neither in all nations: and all the people among whom thou art, shall see the worke of the Lord: for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee. Keep diligently that which I command thee this day: Behold, I will cast out before thee the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites. Take heed to thy selfe, that thou make no compact with ye inhabitants of the land whither thou goest, least they be the cause of ruine among you: But yee shall overthrowe their altars, and breake their images in pieces, and cut downe their groues, (For thou shalt bow downe to none other god, because the Lord, whose Name is Ielous, is a ielous Lest thou make a compact with the inhabitantes of the lande, and when they goe a whoring after their gods, and doe sacrifice vnto their gods, some man call thee, and thou eate of his sacrifice: And least thou take of their daughters vnto thy sonnes, and their daughters goe a whoring after their gods, and make thy sonnes goe a whoring after their gods. Thou shalt make thee no gods of metall. The feast of vnleauened bread shalt thou keepe: seuen dayes shalt thou eate vnleauened bread, as I commanded thee, in ye time of the moneth of Abib: for in the moneth of Abib thou camest out of Egypt. Every male, that first openeth the wombe, shal be mine: also all the first borne of thy flocke shalbe reckoned mine, both of beuues and sheepe. But ye first of ye asse thou shalt bie out with a lambe: and if thou redeeme him not, then thou shalt breake his necke: all the first borne of thy sonnes shalt thou redeeme, and none shall appeare before me emptie. Six dayes shalt thou worke, and in the seuenth day thou shalt rest: both in earing time, and in the harvest thou shalt rest. Thou shalt also observe the feast of weekes in the time of ye first fruits of wheate harvest, and the feast of gathering fruietes in the ende of the yere. Thrice in a yere shall all your men children appeare before the Lord Iehouah God of Israel. For I wil cast out the nations before thee, and enlarge thy coasts, so that no man shall desire thy land, whe thou shalt come vp to appeare before the Lord thy God thrice in the yeere. Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leauen, neither shall ought of the sacrifice of the feast of Passeouer be left vnto the morning. The first ripe fruietes of thy land thou shalt bring vnto the house of the Lord thy God: yet shalt thou not seethe a kid in his mothers milke. And the Lord said vnto Moses, Write thou these words: for after the tenour of these words I haue made a covenant with thee and with Israel. So hee was there with the Lord fourtie dayes and fourtie nights, and did neither eat bread nor drinke water: and hee wrote in the Tables the wordes of the covenant, euen the tenne commandements. So when Moses came downe from mount Sinai, the two Tables of the Testimonie were in Moses hande, as hee descended from the mount: (nowe Moses wist not that the skinne of his face shone bright, after that God had talked with him. And Aaron and all the children of Israel looked vpon Moses, and beholde, the skin of his face shone bright, and they were afraid to come neeere him) But Moses called them: and Aaron and all the chiefe of the congregation returned vnto him: and Moses talked with them. And afterwarde all the children of Israel came neere, and he charged them with al that the Lord had said vnto him in mount Sinai. So Moses made an end of comung with them, and had put a couering vpon his face. But, when Moses came before the Lord to speake with him, he tooke off the couering vntill he came out: then he came out, and spake vnto the children of Israel that which he was commanded. And the children of Israel sawe the face of Moses, howe the skin of Moses face shone bright: therefore Moses put the couering vpon his face, vntill he went to speake with God.

Then Moses assembled all the Congregation of the children of Israel, and sayd vnto them, These are the wordes which the Lord hath commanded, that ye should do them: Six dayes thou shalt work, but the seuenth day shall bee vnto you the holy Sabbath of rest vnto the Lord: whosoeuer doth any worke therein, shall die.
Ye shall kindle no fire throughout all your habitations vpon the Sabbath day. Againe, Moses spake vnto all the Congregation of the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the Lord commandeth, saying, Take from among you an offering vnto the Lord: whosoeuer is of a willing heart, let him bring this offring to the Lord, namely golde, and siluer, and brasse: Also blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine linen, and goates heare, And rams skins died red, and badgers skins with Shittim wood: Also oyle for light, and spices for the anointing oyle, and for the sweete incense, And onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brest plate. And all the wise hearted among you, shall come and make all that the Lord hath commanded: That is, the Tabernacle, that pauiilion thereof, and his couering, and his taches and his boards, his barres, his pillars and his sockets, The Arke, and the barres thereof ye Merci-seate, and the vaile that couereth it, The Table, and the barres of it, and all the instruments thereof, and the shewe bread: Also the Candlesticke of light and his instruments, and his lampes with the oyle for the light: Likewise the Altar of perfume and his barres, and the anoynting oyle, and the sweete incense, and the vaile of the doore at the entring in of the Tabernacle, The Altar of burnt offering with his brasen grate, his barres and all his instruments, the Lauer and his foote, The hangings of the court, his pillars and his sockets, and the vaile of the gate of the court, The pinnes of the Tabernacle, and the pinnes of the court with their cordes, The ministring garments to minister in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the Priest, and the garmentes of his sonnes, that they may minister in the Priests office. Then all the Congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. And euery one, whose heart encouraged him, and euery one, whose spirit made him willing, came and brought an offring to the Lord, for the worke of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and for all his vses, and for the holy garments. Both men and women, as many as were free hearted, came and brought taches and earings, and rings, and bracelets, all were iuwels of golde: and euery one that offered an offring of gold vnto the Lord: Every man also, which had blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine linen, and goates heare, and rammes skinnes died red, and badgers skins, brought them. All that offered an oblation of siluer and of brashe, brought the offring vnto the Lord: and euery one, that had Shittim wood for any maner worke of the ministration, brought it. And all the women that were wise hearted, did spin with their hands, and brought ye spun worke, euen the blewe silke, and the purple, the skarlet, and the fine linen. Likewise al the women, whose hearts were moued with knowledge, spun goates heare. And ye rulers brought onix stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brest plate: Also spice, and oyle for light, and for the anoynting oyle, and for the sweete perfume. Every man and woman of the children of Israel, whose hearts moued the willingly to bring for all the worke which the Lord had commanded the to make by the hand of Moses, brought a free offring to the Lord. Then Moses sayde vnto the children of Israel, Beholde, the Lord hath called by name Bezaleel the sonne of Vri, the sonne of Hur of the tribe of Iudah, And hath filled him with an excellent spirit of wisdome, of vnderstanding, and of knowledge, and in all maner worke, To finde out curious workes, to worke in golde, and in siluer, and in brasse, And in grauing stones to set them, and in karuing of wood, euen to make any maner of fine worke. And he hath put in his heart that hee may teach other: both hee, and Then wrought Bezaleel, and Aholiab, and all cunning men, to whom the Lord gave wisdom and understanding, to know how to work all manner work for the service of the Sanctuary, according to all that the Lord had commanded. For Moses had called Bezaleel, and Aholiab, and all the wise hearted men, in whose heartes the Lord had giuen wisdom, euens as many as their hearts encouraged to come vnto that worke to worke it. And they receiued of Moses all the offering which the children of Israel had brought for the worke of the service of the Sanctuary, to make it: also they brought still vnto him free giftes euery morning. So all the wise men, that wrought all the holy worke, came euery man from his worke which they wrought, And spake to Moses, saying, The people bring too much, and more then ynough for the vse of the worke, which the Lord hath commanded to be made. Then Moses gaue a commandement, and they causeth it to be proclaymed throughout the hoste, saying, Let neither man nor woman prepare any more worke for the oblation of the Sanctuarie. So the people were stayed from offring. For the stuffe they had, was sufficient for all the worke to make it, and too much. All the cunning men therefore among the workemen, made for the Tabernacle ten curtaines of fine twined linnen, and of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet: Cherubims of broydred worke made they vpon them. The length of one curtaine was twentie and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtaine foure cubites: and the curtailnes were all of one cise. And he coupled fiue curtaines together, and other fiue coupled he together. And he made strings of blewe silke by the edge of one curtaine, in the seluedge of the coupling: likewise he made on the side of the other curtaine in the seluedge in the second coupling. Fiftie strings made he in the one curtaine, and fiftie strings made he in the edge of the other curtaine, which was in the second coupling: the strings were set one against another. After, he made fiftie taches of golde, and coupled the curtailnes one to another with the taches: so was it one Tabernacle. Also he made curtailnes of goates heare for the couering vpon the Tabernacle: he made them to the number of eleuen curtaines. The length of one curtaine had thirtie cubites, and the breth of one curtaine foure cubites: the eleuen curtaines were of one cise. And hee coupled fiue curtaines by themselues, and sise curtaines by themselues: Also he made fiftie strings vpon the edge of one curtaine in the seluedge in the coupling, and fiftie strings made hee vpon the edge of the other curtaine in the second coupling. He made also fiftie taches of brasse to couple the couering that it might be one. And he made a couering vpon the pauilion of rams skinnnes dyed red, and a couering of badgers skinnnes aboue. Likewise he made the boards for the Tabernacle, of Shittim wood to stand vp. The length of a board was ten cubites, and the breth of one board was a cubite, and an halfe. One board had two tenons, set in order as the feete of a ladder, one against another: thus made he for all the boardes of the Tabernacle. So he made twentie boardes for the South side of the Tabernacle, euen full South. And fowrtie sockets of siluer made hee vnder the twentie boardes, two sockets vnder one board for his two tenons, and two sockets vnder another board for his two tenons. Also for the other side of the Tabernacle toward the North, he made twentie boards, And their fowrtie sockets of siluer, two sockets vnder one board, and two sockets vnder another boarde. Likewise toward the Westside of the Tabernacle he made sise boardes.
And two boardes made hee in the corners of the Tabernacle, for either side, And they were ioyned beneath, and likewise were made sure aboue with a ring: thus he did to both in both corners.
So there were eight boards and their sixteene sockets of siluer, vnder every board two sockets. After, he made barres of Shittim wood, fiue for the boards in ye one side of ye Tabernacle, And fiue barres for the boardes in the other side of the Tabernacle, and fiue barres for the boards of the Tabernacle on the side toward the West. And he made the middest barre to shoote through the boards, from the one end to ye other. He ouerlayd also the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold for places for the barres, and couered the barres with golde. Moreouer he made a vaile of blew silke, and purple, and of skarlet, and of fine twined linen: with Cherubims of broydred worke made he it: And made thereunto foure pillars of Shittim, and ouerlayd them with golde: whose hookes were also of golde, and hee cast for them foure sockets of siluer. And he made an hanging for the Tabernacle doore, of blew silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linnen, and needle worke, And the five pillars of it with their hookes, and ouerlayde their chapiters and their filets with golde, but their five sockets were of brasse.

After this, Bezaleel made the Arke of Shittim wood, two cu-bites and an halfe long and a cubite and an halfe broade, and a cubite and an halfe hie: And ouerlayde it with fine golde within and without, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde about, And cast for it foure rings of golde for the foure corners of it: that is, two rings for the one side of it, and two rings for the other side thereof. Also he made barres of Shittim wood, and couered them with golde, And put the barres in the rings by the sides of the Arke, to beare the Arke. And he made the Merciseate of pure golde: two cubites and an halfe was the length thereof, and one cubite and an halfe the breadth thereof.
And he made two Cherubims of gold, vpon the two endes of the Merciseate: euen of worke beaten with the hammer made he them. One Cherub on the one ende, and another Cherub on the other ende: of the Merciseate made he the Cherubims, at ye two endes thereof. And the Cherubims spread out their wings on hie, and couered the Merciseat with their wings, and their faces were one towards another: towarde the Merciseat were the faces of the Cherubims. Also he made ye Table of Shittim wood: two cubites was the length thereof, and a cubite the breadth thereof, and a cubite and an halfe the height of it. And hee ouerlayde it with fine golde, and made thereto a crowne of golde round about. Also he made thereto a border of an hand breadth round about, and made vpon the border a crowne of golde round about. And he cast for it foure rings of gold, and put the rings in the foure corners that were in the foure feete thereof. Against the border were the rings, as places for the barres to beare the Table. And he made the barres of Shittim wood, and couered them with golde to beare the Table. Also he made the instruments for the Table of pure golde: dishes for it, and incense cuppes for it, and goblets for it, and couerings for it, wherewith it should be couered. Likewise he made the Candlesticke of pure golde: of worke beaten out with the hammer made he the Candlestick: and his shaft, and his branche, his bolles, his knops, and his floures were of one piece. And sixe branches came out of the sides thereof: three branches of the Candlestick out of the one side of it, and three branches of the Candlestick out of the other side of it. In one branche three bolles made like almondes, a knop and a floure: and in another branch three bolles made like almondes, a knop and a floure: and so through-out the sixe branches that proceeded out of the Candlestick. And vpon the Candlestick were foure bolles after the facion of almondes, the knoppes thereof and the floures thereof: That is, vnder every two branches a knop made thereof, and a knop vnder the second branch thereof, and a knop vnder the thirde branche thereof, according to the sixe branches comming out of it. Their knops and their branches were of the same: it was all one beaten worke of pure gold. And he made for it seuen lam-pes with the snuffers, and snufdishes thereof of pure golde. Of a talent of pure golde made he it with all the instruments thereof. Furthermore he made the perfume altar of Shittim wood: the length of it was a cubite, and the breadth of it a cubite (it was square) and two cubites hie, and the hornes thereof were of ye same. And he couered it with pure gold, both the top and the sides thereof rounde about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde round about. And he made two rings of gold for it, vnder the crowne thereof in the two corners of the two sides thereof, to put barres in for to beare it therewith. Also he made the barres of Shittim wood, and ouerlayde them with golde. And he made the holy anointing oyle, and the sweete pure incense after ye apothecaries arte.

Also he made the altar of the burnt offering of Shittim wood: fiue cubites was the length therof, and fiue cubites the breadth thereof: it was square and three cubites hie. And hee made vnto it hornes in the foure corners thereof: the hornes thereof were of the same, and he ouerlayd it with brasse. Also he made al the instruments of the altar: the ashpans, and the besoms, and the basins, the fleshhookes, and the censers: all the instruments thereof made he of brasse. Moreouer he made a brasen grate wrought like a net to the Altar, vnder the compasse of it beneath in the middes of it, And cast foure rings of brasse for the foure endes of the grate to put barres in. And he made the barres of Shittim wood, and couered them with brasse. The which barres he put into the rings on the sides of the altar to beare it withall, and made it hollow within the boardes. Also he made the Lauer of brasse, and the foote of it of brasse of the glasses of the women that did assemble and came together at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Finally he made the court on the South side full South: the hangings of the court were of fine twined linnen, haung an hundreth cubites. Their pillars were twentie, and their brasen sockets twentie: the hookes of the pillars, and their filets were of siluer. And on the Northside the hanginges were an hundreth cubites: their pillars twentie, and their sockets of brasse twentie, the hookes of the pillars and their filets of siluer. On the Westside also were hangings of fiftie cubites, their ten pillars with their ten sockets: the hookes of the pillars and their filets of siluer. And toward ye Eastside, full East were hangings of fiftie cubites. The hangings of the one side were fifteene cubites, their three pillars, and their three sockets: And of the other side of the court gate on both sides were hangings of fifteene cubites, with their three pillars and their three sockets. All the hangings of the court round about were of fine twined linen: But the sockets of ye pillars were of brasse: the hookes of the pillars and their filets of siluer, and the couering of their chapiters of siluer: and all the pillars of the court were hooped about with siluer. He made also the hanging of the gate of the court of needle worke, blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen euyn twentie cubites long, and fiue cubites in height and bredth, like the hangings of the court. And their pillars were foure with their foure sockets of brasse: their hookes of siluer, and the couering of their chapiters, and their filets of siluer. But all the pins of the Tabernacle and of the court round about were of brasse. These are the parts of the Tabernacle, I meane, of the Tabernacle of the Testimonie, which was appovnted by the commandement of Moses for the office of the Leuites by the hande of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the Priest. So Bezaleel the sonne of Vri the sonne of Hur of the tribe of Iudah, made all that the Lord commanded Moses. And with him Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, a cunning workeman and an embroiderer and a worker of needle work in blew silke, and in purple, and in skarlet, and in fine linen. All ye gold that was occupied in all ye worke wrought for the holy place (which was the gold of the offering) was nine and twenty talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, according to the shekel of the Sanctuary. But the siluer of them that were numbred in the Congregation, was an hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred seven and five shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuary. A portion for a man, that is, half a shekel after ye shekel of the Sanctuary, for all them that were numbred from twenty yeere olde and aboue, among sixe hundred thousande, and three thousand, and five hundred and fiftie men. Moreover there were an hundred talentes of siluer, to cast ye sockets of ye Sanctuary, and the sockets of the vaile: an hundred sockets of an hundred talents, a talent for a socket. But he made the hookes for the pillars of a thousande seven hundred and seven and five shekels, and ouerlayde their chapiters, and made filets about them. Also the brasse of the offering was seven hundred talents, and two thousand, and foure hundred shekels. Whereof he made the sockets to the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the brasen altar, and the brasen grate which was for it, with all the instruments of the Altar. And the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets for the court gate, and al the pins of the Tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

Moreover they made garments of ministration to minister in the Sanctuarie of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet: they made also the holy garments for Aaron, as the Lord had comanded Moses. So he made the Ephod of gold, blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen. And they did beate the golde into thinne plates, and cut it into wiers, to worke it in ye blewe silke and in the purple, and in the skarlet, and in the fine linen, with broidred worke. For the which they made shoulders to couple together: for it was closed by the two edges thereof. And the broidred garde of his Ephod that was vpon him, was of the same stuffe, and of like worke: euen of golde, of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen, as the Lord had commanded Moses. And they wrought two Onix stones closed in ouches of golde, and grauen, as signets are grauen, with the names of the children of Israel. And put them on the shoulders of the Ephod, as stones for a remembrance of the children of Israel, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Also he made the brestplate of broydered worke like the worke of the Ephod: to wit, of gold, blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine twined linen. They made the brest plate double, and it was square, an hand breadth long, and an hand breadth broad: it was also double. And they filled it with foure rowes of stones. The order was thus, a Rubie, a Topaze, and a Carbuncle in the first rowe: And in the seconde rowe, an Emeraude, a Saphir, and a Diamond: Also in the thirde rowe, a Turkeis, an Achate, and an Hematite: Likewise in the fourth rowe, a Chrysolite, an Onix, and a Jasper: closed and set in ouches of golde. So the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, euen twelue after their names, grauen like signets euery one after his name according to the twelue tribes. After, they made vpon the brest plate cheines at the endes, of wrethen worke and pure golde. They made also two bosses of golde, and two golde rings, and put the two rings in the two corners of the brest plate. And they put ye two wrethe cheines of gold in the two rings, in the corners of the brest plate. Also the two other endes of the two wretne chaines they fastened in the two bosses, and put the on the shoulders of the Ephod vpon the forefront of it. Likewise they made two rings of gold, and put them in the two other corners of the brest plate vpon the edge of it, which was on the inside of the Ephod. They made also two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod, beneath on the foreside of it, and ouer against his coupling aboue the broydered garde of the Ephod. Then they fastened the brest plate by his rings vnto the rings of the Ephod, with a lace of blewe silke, that it might bee fast vpon the broydered garde of the Ephod, and that the brest plate should not be loosed from the Ephod, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Moreouer, he made the robe of the Ephod of wouen worke,altogether of blewe silke. And the hole of the robe was in the middes of it, as the coller of an habergeon, with an edge about the coller, that it shoulde not rent. And they made vpon the skirts of the robe pomegranates, of blewe silke, and purple, and skarlet, and fine linen twined. They made also belles of pure gold and put the belles betweene the pomegranates vpon the skirtes of the robe rounde about betweene the pomegranates. A bel and a pomegranate, a bel and a pomegranate round about the skirts of the robe to minister in, as the Lord had commanded Moses. After, they made coates of fine linen, of wouen worke for Aaron and for his sonnes. And the miter of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and linen breeches of fine twined linen, And the girdle of fine twined linen, and of blew silke, and purple, and skarlet, even of needle worke, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Finally they made the plate for the holy crowne of fine golde, and wrote vpon it a superscription like to the grauing of a signet, HOLINES TO THE LORD. And they tied vnto it a lace of blewe silke to fasten it on hie vpon the miter, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Thus was all the worke of the Tabernacle, euen of the Tabernacle of the Congregation finished: and the children of Israel did according to al that the Lord had commanded Moses: so dyd they. Afterwarde they brought the Tabernacle vnto Moses, the Tabernacle and al his instruments, his taches, his boards, his barres, and his pillars, and his sockets, And the couering of rammes skinnes died red, and the couerings of badgers skinnes, and the couering vaile. The Arke of the Testimony, and the barres thereof, and the Merciseate, The Table, with all the instruments thereof, and the shewebread, The pure Candlesticke, the lampes thereof, euen the lampes set in order, and all the instruments thereof, and the oyle for light: Also the golden Altar and the anoynting oyle, and the sweete incense, and the hanging of the Tabernacle doore, The brasen Altar with his grate of brasse, his barres and all his instruments, the Lauer and his foote. The curtaines of the court with his pillars, and his sockets, and the hanging to the court gate, and his cordes, and his pinnes, and all the instruments of the seruice of the Tabernacle, called the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Finally, the ministring garmentes to serue in the Sanctuarie, and the holy garmentes for Aaron the Priest, and his sonnes garmentes to minister in the Priestes office. According to euery poynt that the Lord had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel made all the worke. And Moses beheld al the worke, and behold, they had done it as the Lord had commanded: so had they done: and Moses blessed them.

Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, In the first day of the first moneth in the very first of the same moneth shalt thou set vp the Tabernacle, called ye Tabernacle of the Congregation: And thou shalt put therein the Arke of the Testimonie, and couer the Arke with the vaile. Also thou shalt bring in the Table, and set it in order as it doth require: thou shalt also bring in the Candlesticke, and light his lampes. And thou shalt set ye incense Altar of gold before the Arke of the Testimonie, and put the hanging at the doore of the Tabernacle. Moreover, thou shalt set the burnt offering Altar before the doore of the Tabernacle, called the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And thou shalt set the Lauer betweene the Tabernacle of the Congregation and the Altar, and put water therein. Then thou shalt appoynt the courte round about, and hang vp the hanging at the courte gate. After, thou shalt take the anoynting oyle, and anoynt the Tabernacle, and all that is therein, and halowe it with all the instruments thereof, that it may be holy. And thou shalt anoynt the Altar of the burnt offring, and all his instruments, and shalt sanctifie the Altar, that it may bee an altar most holie. Also thou shalt anoynt the Lauer, and his foote, and shalt sanctifie it. Then thou shalt bring Aaron and his sonnes vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and wash them with water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron the holy garmente, and shalt anoynt him, and sanctifie him, that he may minister vnto me in the Priestes office. Thou shalt also bring his sonnes, and clothe them with garments, And shalt anoynt them as thou diddest anoynt their father, that they may minister vnto me in the Priestes office: for their anoynting shall be a signe, that the Priesthood shall be euerlasting vnto them throughout their generations. So Moses did according to all that ye Lord had commanded him: so did he. Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the first day of the first moneth in the seconde yeere. Then Moses reared vp the Tabernacle and fastened his sockets, and set vp the boardes thereof, and put in the barres of it, and reared vp his pillars. And he spred the couering ouer the Tabernacle, and put the couering of that couering on hie aboue it, as the Lord had commanded Moses. And he tooke and put the Testimonie in the Arke, and put the barres in the ringes of the Arke, and set the Merciseate on hie vpon the Arke. He brought also the Arke into the Tabernacle, and hanged vp the couering vaile, and couered the Arke of the Testimonie, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Furthermore he put the Table in the Tabernacle of the Congregation in the Northside of the Tabernacle, without the vaile, And set the bread in order before the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Also he put the Candlesticke in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, ouer against the Table toward ye Southside of the Tabernacle. And he lighted the lampes before the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Moreover he set the golden Altar in the Tabernacle of the Congregation before the vaile, And burnt sweete incense thereon, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Also he hanged vp the vaile at the doore of the Tabernacle. After, he set the burnt offring Altar without the doore of the Tabernacle, called the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and offered the burnt offering and the sacrifice thereon, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Likewise he set the Lauer betwenee the Tabernacle of the Congregation and the Altar, and powred water therein to wash with. So Moses and Aaron, and his sonnes washed their handes and their feete thereat. When they went into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and when they approched to the Altar, they washed, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Finally, he reared vp the court rounde about the Tabernacle and the Altar, and hanged vp the vaile at the court gate: so Moses finished the worke. Then the cloud couered the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the glorie of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. So Moses could not enter into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, because the cloude abode thereon, and the glorie of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. Nowe when the cloude ascended vp from the Tabernacle, the children of Israel went forward in all their iourneyes. But if the cloude ascended not, then they iourneyed not till the day that it ascended. For the cloude of the Lord was vpon the Tabernacle by day, and fire was in it by night in the sight of all the house of Israel, throughout all their iourneyes.

CALLED
LEVITICUS.

[1] Nowe the Lord called Moses, and spake vnto him out of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and thou shalt say vnto them, If any of you offer a sacrifice vnto the Lord, ye shall offer your sacrifice of cattell, as of beeues and of the sheepe.

[3] And he shall kill the bullocke before the Lord, and the Priestes Aarons sonnes shall offer the blood, and shall sprinckle it round about vpon the altar, that is by the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then shall he fley the burnt offering, and cut it in pieces. So the sonnes of Aaron the Priest shall put fire vpon the altar, and lay the wood in order vpon the fire. Then the Priestes Aarons sonnes shall lay the parts in order, the head and the kall vpon the wood that is in the fire which is vpon the altar. But the inwardes thereof and the legges thereof he shall wash in water, and the Priest shall burne all on the altar: for it is a burnt offering, an oblation made by fire, for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And if his sacrifice for the burnt offering be of the flocks (as of the sheepe, or of the goats) he shall offer a male without blemish, And he shall kill it on the Northside of the altar before the Lord, and the Priestes Aarons sonnes shall sprinckle the blood thereof rounde about vpon the altar. And he shall cut it in pieces, separating his head and his kall, and the Priest shall lay them in order vpon the wood that lyeth in the fire which is on the altar: But he shall wash the inwardes, and the legges with water, and the Priest shall offer the whole and burne it vpon the altar: for it is a burnt offering, an oblation made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And if his sacrifice be a burnt offering to the Lord of ye foules, then he shall offer his sacrifice of the turtle doues, or of the yong pigeons. And the Priest shall bring it vnto the altar, and wring the necke of it asunder, and burne it on the altar: and the blood thereof shall bee shed vpon the side of the altar. And he shall plucke out his maw with his fethers, and cast them beside the altar on the East part in the place of the ashes. And he shall cleaue it with his wings, but not deuide it asunder: and the Priest shall burne it vpon the altar vpon the wood that is in the fire: for it is a burnt offering, an oblation made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord.

And when any will offer a meate offering vnto the Lord, his offering shall be of fine floure, and he shall powre oyle vpon it, and put incense thereon, And shall bring it vnto Aarons sonnes the Priestes, and he shall take thence his handfull of the flowre, and of the oyle with al the incense, and the Priest shall burne it for a memoriall vpon the altar: for it is an offering made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. But the remnant of the meate offeringshalbe Aarons and his sonnes: for it is most holy of the Lordes offrings made by fire. If thou bring also a meate offering baken in the ouen, it shalbe an vnleauened cake of fine floure mingled with oyle, or an vnleauened wafer anointed with oyle. But if thy meate offering be an oblation of the frying pan, it shall be of fine flowre vnleauened, mingled with oyle. And thou shalt part it in pieces, and power oyle thereon: for it is a meate offering. And if thy meate offering be an oblation made in the caldron, itshalbe made of fine floure with oyle. After, thou shalt bring the meate offering (that is made of these things) vnto the Lord, and shalt present it vnto the Priest, and he shall bring it to the altar, And the Priest shall take from the meate offering a memoriall of it, and shall burne it vpon the altar: for it is an oblation made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. But that which is left of the meate offering, shalbe Aarons and his sonnes: for it is most holy of the offrings of the Lord made by fire. All the meate offerings which ye shall offer vnto the Lord, shalbe made without leauen: for ye shall neither burne leaven nor honey in any offering of the Lord made by fire. In the oblation of the first fruits ye shall offer them unto the Lord, but they shall not be burnt upon the altar for a sweet savour. (All the meat offerings also shalt thou season with salt, neither shalt thou suffer the salt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat offering, but upon all thine oblations thou shalt offer salt) If then thou offer a meat offering of thy first fruits unto the Lord, thou shalt offer for thy meat offering of thy first fruits ears of corn dryed by the fire, and wheate beaten out of the green eares. After, thou shalt put oil upon it, and lay incense thereon: for it is a meat offering. And the Priest shall burne the memorial of it, even of that that is beaten, and of the oil of it, with all the incense thereof: for it is an offering unto the Lord made by fire.

Also if his oblation be a peace offering, if he will offer of the drone (whether it be male or female) he shall offer such as is without blemish, before the Lord, And shall put his hande upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and Aarons sons the Priests shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about. So he shall offer part of the peace offerings as a sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord, even the fat that covereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is upon the inwardes. He shall also take away the two kidneis, and the fat that is on them, and upon the flankes, and the kall on the liuer with the kidneis. And Aarons sons shall burne it on the altar, with the burnt offering, which is upon the wood, that is on the fire: this is a sacrifice made by fire for a sweet savour unto the Lord. Also if his oblation be a peace offering unto the Lord out of ye flocke, whether it be male or female, he shall offer it without blemish. If he offer a lambe for his oblation, then he shall bring it before the Lord, And lay his hande upon the head of his offering, and shall kill it before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and Aarons sons shall sprinkle the blood thereof round about upon the altar.
After, of the peace offerings he shall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord: he shall take away the fat therof, and the rump altogether, hard by the backe bone, and the fat that covereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is upon the inwardes. Also hee shall take away the two kidneis, with the fat that is upon them, and upon the flankes, and the kall vpon the liuer with the kidneis. Then the Priest shall burne it vpon the altar, as the meat of an offring made by fire vnto the Lord. Also if his offring be a goate, then shall he offer it before the Lord, And shall put his hande vpon the head of it, and kill it before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the sonnes of Aaron shall sprinkle the blood thereof vpon the altar round about. Then he shall offer thereof his offring, euin an offring made by fire vnto the Lord, the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fatte that is vpon the inwardes. Also hee shall take away the two kidneis, and the fat that is vpon them, and vpon ye flankes, and the kall vpon the liuer with the kidneis. So the Priest shall burne them vpon the altar, as the meate of an offering made by fire for a sweete sauour: all the fatte is the Lordes. This shalbe a perpetual ordinance for your generations, throughout al your dwellings, so that ye shall eate neither fatte nor blood.

Moreover the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, saying, If any shall sinne through ignorance, in any of the commandementes of the Lord, (which ought not to be done) but shall doe contrary to any of them, If the Priest that is anointed doe sinne (according to the sinne of the people) then shall he offer, for his sinne which hee hath sinned, a yong bullocke without blemish vnto the Lord for a sinne offring, And hee shall bring the bullocke vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation before the Lord, and shall put his hande vpon the bullocks head, and kill the bullocke before the Lord. And the Priest that is anointed shall take of the bullocks blood, and bring it into the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then the Priest shall dippe his finger in the blood, and sprinkle of the blood seuen times before the Lord, before the vaile of the Sanctuarie. The Priest also shall put some of the blood before the Lord, vpon the hornes of the altar of sweeete incense, which is in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, then shall hee powre all the rest of the blood of the bullocke at the foote of the altar of burnt offring, which is at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And hee shall take away all the fat of the bullocke for the sinne offring: to wit, the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fatte that is about the inwardes. He shall take away also the two kidneis, and the fat that is vpon them, and upon the flanks, and the kall upon the liuer with the kidneis, As it was taken away from the bullock of the peace offrings, and the Priest shall burne them upon the altar of burnt offring. But the skinne of the bullocke, and all his flesh, with his heade, and his legs, and his inwards, and his dung shall he beare out. So he shall cary the whole bullocke out of the host unto a cleane place, where the ashes are powred, and shall burne him on ye wood in the fire: where ye ashes are cast out, shall he be burnt. And if the whole Congregation of Israel shall sinne through ignorance, and the thing be hid from the eyes of the multitude, and haue done against any of the commandements of the Lord which should not be done, and haue offended: When the sinne which they haue committed shalbe known, then the Congregation shall offer a yong bullocke for the sinne, and bring him before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, And the Elders of the Congregation shall put their handes vpon the head of the bullocke before the Lord, and he shall kill the bullocke before the Lord. Then the Priest that is anointed, shall bring of the bullockes blood into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, And the Priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle it seuen times before the Lord, euen before the vaile. Also he shall put some of ye blood vpon the hornes of the altar, which is before the Lord, that is in the Tabernacle of the Congregation: then shall he powre all the rest, of the blood at ye foote of the altar of burnt offring, which is at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, And he shall take all his fat from him, and burne it vpon the altar. And the Priest shall doe with this bullocke, as he did with the bullocke for his sinne: so shall he do with this:
so the Priest shall make an atonement for them, and it shalbe forgiuen them. For he shall carie the bullocke without the hoste, and burne him as he burned the first bullock: for it is an offring for the sinne of the Congregation. When a ruler shall sinne, and do through ignorance against any of the commandements of the Lord his God, which should not be done, and shall offend, If one shewe vnto him his sinne, which he hath committed, the shall he bring for his offring an hee goat without blemish, And shall lay his hand vpon the heade of the he goate, and kill it in the place where he should kill the burnt offring before the Lord: for it is a sinne offring. Then the Priest shall take of the blood of the sinne offring with his finger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnt offring altar, and shall powre the rest of his blood at the foote of the burnt offring altar, And shall burne all his fat vpon the altar, as the fat of the peace offring: so the Priest shall make an atonement for him, concerning his sinne, and it shalbe forgien him. Likewise if any of the people of ye lande shall sinne through ignoraunce in doing against any of the commandements of the Lord, which should not be done, and shall offend, If one shewe him his sinne which he hath committed, then he shall bring for his offring, a shee goate without blemish for his sinne which he hath committed, And he shall lay his hand vpon the head of the sinne offring, and slay the sinne offring in the place of burnt offring. Then the Priest shall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnt offring altar, and powre all the rest of the blood thereof at the foote of the altar, And shall take away all his fat, as the fat of the peace offringeres is taken away, and the Priest shall burne it vpon the altar for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord, and the Priest shall make an atonement for him, and it shalbe forgien him. And if he bring a lambe for his sinne offring, he shall bring a female without blemish, And shall lay his hand vpon the head of the sinne offring, and hee shall slay it for a sinne offring in the place where hee shoulde kill the burnt offring. Then the Priest shall take of the blood of the sinne offring with his finger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnt offring altar, and powre al the rest of the blood thereof at the foote of the altar, And he shall take away all the fat thereof, as the fatte of the lambe of the peace offrings is taken away: then the Priest shall burne it vpon the altar with the oblations of the Lord made by fire, and the Priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sinne that he hath committed, and it shalbe forgien him.

Also if any haue sinned, that is, If he haue heard the voyce of an othe, and hee can be a witnes, whether he hath seene or knowen of it, if hee doe not utter it, he shall beare his iniquitie: Either if one touche any vnclean thing, whether it be a carion of an vnclean beast, or a carion of vnclean cattel, or a carion of vnclean creeping things, and is not ware of it, yet he is vnclean, and hath offended: Eyther if hee touche any vncleannesse of man (whatsoeuer vncleannes it be, that hee is defiled with) and is not ware of it, and after commeth to the knowledge of it, he hath sinned: Either if any sweare and pronounce with his lippes to do euill, or to doe good (whatsoever it bee that a man shall pronounce with an othe) and it be hid from him, and after knoweth that he hath offended in one of these poyntes, Whe he hath sinned in any of these things, then he shall confesse that he hath sinned therein. Therefore shall he bring his trespasse offring vnto the Lord for his sinne which he hath committed, euen a female from ye flocke, be it a lambe or a she goat for a sinne offring, and the Priest shall make an atonement for him, concerning his sinne. But if he be not able to bring a shearpe, he shall bring for his trespas which he hath committed, two turtle doues, or two yong pigeons vnto the Lord, one for a sinne offring, and the other for a burnt offring. So he shall bring them vnto the Priest, who shall offer the sinne offring first, and wring the necke of it a sunder, but not plucke it cleane off. After he shall sprinkle of the blood of the sinne offring vpon the side of the altar, and the rest of the blood shall be shed at the foote of the altar: for it is a sinne offering. Also he shall offer the seconde for a burnt offring as the maner is: so shall the Priest make an atonement for him (for his sinne which hee hath committed) and it shalbe forgiuen him. But if he be not able to bring two turtle doues, or two yong pigeons, then he that hath sinned, shall bring for his offring, the tenth parte of an Ephah of fine floure for a sinne offring, he shall put none oyle thereto, neither put any incense thereon: for it is a sinne offering. Then shall hee bring it to the Priest, and the Priest shall take his handfull of it for the remembrance thereof, and burne it vpon the altar with the offrings of the Lord made by fire: for it is a sinne offring. So the Priest shall make an atonement for him, as touching his sinne that he hath committed in one of these poyntes, and it shall bee forgiuen him: and the remnant shalbe the Priests, as the meate offring. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, If any person transgresse and sinne through ignorance by taking away things consecrated vnto the Lord, hee shall then bring for his trespasse offring vnto the Lord a ramme without blemish out of the flocke, worth two shekels of siluer by thy estimation after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, for a trespasse offring. So hee shall restore that wherein hee hath offended, in taking away of the holy thing, and shall put the fift part more thereto, and give it unto the Priest: so the Priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of ye trespasse offring, and it shall be forgiven him. Also if any sinne and doe against any of the commandements of the Lord, which ought not to be done, and knowe not and sinne and beare his iniquitie, Then shall he bring a ramme without blemishe out of the flocke, in thy estimation worth two shekels for a trespasse offring vnto ye Priest: and the Priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his ignorance wherein he erred, and was not ware: so it shall be forgiven him. This is the trespasse offring for the trespasse committed against the Lord.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, If any sinne and commit a trespasse against the Lord, and denie vnto his neighbour that, which was take him to keepe, or that which was put to him of trust, or doth by robberie, or by violence oppresse his neighbour, Or hath found that which was lost, and denieth it, and sweareth falsely, for any of these things that a man doeth, wherein he sinneth: When, I say, he thus sinneth and trespasseth, he shall then restore the robbery that he robbed, or the thing taken by violence which hee tooke by force, or the thing which was deliuered him to keepe, or the lost thing which he founde, Or for whatsoever he hath sworne falsely, he shall both restore it in the whole summe, and shall adde the fift parte more thereto, and give it vnto him to whome pertaineth, the same day that he offereth for trespasse. Also he shall bring for his trespass vnto the Lord, a ramme without blemish out of the flocke in thy estimation worth two shekels for a trespasse offring vnto the Priest. And the Priest shall make an atonement for him before the Lord, and it shall be forgiven him, whatsoever thing he hath done, and trespassed therein. Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Command Aaron and his sonnes, saying, This is the lawe of the burnt offring, (it is the burnt offring because it burneth vpon the altar al the night vnto the morning, and the fire burneth on the altar) And the Priest shall put on his linen garment, and shall put on his linen breeches vpon his flesh, and take away the ashes when the fire hath consumed the burnt offring vpon the altar, and he shall put them beside the altar. After, he shall put off his garments, and put on other raiment, and cary the ashes foorth without the hoste vnto a cleane place. But the fire vpon the altar shall burne thereon and neuer be put out: wherefore the Priest shall burne wood on it euer morning, and lay the burnt offering in order vpon it, and he shall burne thereon the fat of the peace offerings. The fire shall euer burne vpon the altar, and neuer go out. Also this is the lawe of the meate offring, which Aarons sonnes shall offer in the presence of the Lord, before the altar. He shall euen take thence his handfull of fine flowre of the meate offring and of the oyle, and all the incense which is vpon the meat offring, and shall burne it vpon the altar for a sweete sauour, as a memoriall therefore vnto the Lord: But the rest thereof shall Aaron and his sonnes eate: it shalbe eaten without leauen in the holy place: in the court of the Tabernacle of the Congregation they shall eate it. It shall not be baken with leauen: I haue giuen it for their portion of mine offrings made by fire: for it is as the sinne offering and as the trespasse offring. All the males among the children of Aaron shall eate of it: It shalbe a statute for euer in your generations concerning the offrings of the Lord, made by fire: whatsoeuer toucheth them shall be holy. Agayne the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, This is the offering of Aaron and his sonnes, which they shall offer vnto the Lord in the day when he is anointed: the tenth part of an Ephah of fine floure, for a meate offering perpetuall: halfe of it in ye morning, and halfe thereof at night. In the frying panne it shalbe made with oyle: thou shalt bring it fryed, and shalt offer the baken pieces of the meate offering for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And the Priest that is anointed in his steade, among his sonnes shall offer it: It is the Lordes ordinance for euer, it shall be burnt altogether. For every meate offring of the Priest shall be burnt altogether, it shall not be eaten. Furthermore, the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and vnto his sonnes, and say, This is the Lawe of the sinne offering, In the place where the burnt offring is killed, shall the sinne offring be killed before the Lord, for it is most holy. The Priest that ofreth this sinne offring, shall eate it: in the holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of ye Tabernacle of the Congregation. Whatsoeuer shall touch the flesh thereof shalbe holy: and when there droppeth of the blood thereof vpon a garment, thou shalt wash that whereon it droppeth in the holy place. Also the earthen pot that it is sodden in, shalbe broken, but if it be sodden in a brasen pot, it shall both be scoured and washed with water. All the males among the Priestes shall eate thereof, for it is most holy. But no sinne offering, whose blood is brought into the Tabernacle of the Congregation to make reconciliation in the holy place, shalbe eaten, but shalbe burnt in the fire.

Likewise this is the lawe of the trespasse offering, it is most holy. In the place where they kill the burnt offering, shall they kill the trespasse offering, and the blood thereof shall he sprinkle rounde about vpon the altar. All the fat thereof also shall he offer, the rumpe, and the fat that couereth the inwarde. After he shall take away the two kidneis, with the fat that is on them and vpon the flankes, and the kall on the liuer with the kidneis. Then the Priest shall burne them vpon the altar, for an offeringe made by fire vnto the Lord: this is a trespasse offeringe. All the males among the Priestes shall eate thereof, it shalbe eaten in the holy place, for it is most holy. As the sinne offering is, so is the trespasse offeringe, one lawe serueth for both: that wherewith the Priest shall make atonement, shalbe his. Also the Priest that offereth any mans burnt offeringe, shall haue the skinne of the burnt offeringe which he hath offred. And all the meate offeringe that is baken in the ouen, and that is dressed in the pan, and in the frying pan, shall be the Priestes that offereth it. And euery meate offering mingled with oyle, and that is dry, shall pertaine vnto all the sonnes of Aaron, to all alike. Furthermore, this is the lawe of the peace offerings, which he shall offer vnto the Lord. If he offer it to giue thankes, then he shall offer for his thankes offering, vnleaunened cakes mingled with oyle, and vnleaunened wafers anointed with oyle, and fine floure fryed with the cakes mingled with oyle. He shall offer also his offeringe with cakes of leauened bread, for his peace offerings, to giue thankes. And of all the sacrifice he shall offer one cake for an heaue offering vnto the Lord, and it shalbe the Priestes that sprinckleth the blood of the peace offerings. Also the flesh of his peace offerings, for thanksgiving, shalbe eaten the same day that it is offered: he shall leaue nothing thereof vntill the morning. But if the sacrifice of his offeringe be a vow, or a free offeringe, it shalbe eaten the same day that he offreth his sacrifice: and so in the morning the residue thereof shalbe eaten. But as much of the offered flesh as remaineth unto the third day, shall be burnt with fire.
For if any of the flesh of his peace offrings be eaten in the third day, he shall not be accepted that offereth it, neither shall it be reckoned unto him, but shall be an abomination: therefore ye person that eateth of it shall beare his iniquitie. The flesh also that toucheth any vncleneane thing, shall not be eaten, but burnt with fire: but of this flesh all that be cleane shall eate thereof. But if any eate of the flesh of the peace offerings that pertaineth to the Lord, hauing his vnclennesse vpon him, euen the same person shalbe cut off from his people. Moreover, whe any toucheth any vncleneane thing, as the vnclennesse of man, or of an vnclene beast, or of any filthie abomination, and eate of the flesh of the peace offrings, which pertaineth vnto the Lord, euen that person shalbe cut off from his people. Againe ye Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, Ye shall eate no fat of beeues, nor of sheepe, nor of goates: Yet the fat of the dead beast, and the fat of that, which is torne with beastes, shalbe occupied to any vse, but ye shall not eate of it. For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of the which he shall offer an offering made by fire to the Lord, euen the person that eateth, shalbe cut off from his people. Neither shall ye eate any blood, either of foule, or of beast in all your dwellings. Every person that eateth any blood, euen the same person shall be cut off from his people. And the Lord talked with Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, Hee that offereth his peace offerings vnto the Lord, shall bring his gifte vnto the Lord of his peace offrings: His handes shall bring the offerings of the Lord made by fire: euen the fatte with the breast shall he bring, that the breast may be shaken to and from before the Lord. Then the Priest shall burne the fatte vpon the Altar, and the breast shall be Aarons and his sonnes. And the right shoulder shall ye giue vnto the Priest for an heaue offering, of your peace offrings. The same that offreth the blood of ye peace offrings, and the fatte, among the sonnes of Aaron, shall haue the right shoulder for his parte. For the breast shaken to and from, and the shoulder lifted vp, haue I taken of the children of Israel, euen of their peace offrings, and haue giuen them vnto Aaron the Priest and vnto his sonnes by a statute for euer from among the children of Israel. This is the anointing of Aaron, and the anointing of his sonnes, concerning the offerings of the Lord made by fire, in the day when he presented them to serve in the Priestes office vnto the Lord. The which portions the Lord commanded to give them in the day that he anointed them from among the children of Israel, by a statute for euer in their generations. This is also the lawe of the burnt offring of the meate offring, and of the sinne offring, and of the trespasse offring, and of the consecrations, and of the peace offrings. Which the Lord commanded Moses in the mount Sinai, when he commanded the children of Israel to offer their giftes vnto the Lord in the wildernesse of Sinai.

Afterwarde the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take Aaron and his sonnes with him, and the garments and the anointing oyle, and a bullocke for the sinne offring, and two rammes, and a basket of vnleauened bread, And assemble all the company at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. So Moses did as the Lord had commanded him, and the companie was assembled at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then Moses said vnto the company, This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded to doe. And Moses brought Aaron and his sonnes, and washed them with water, And put vpon him the coate, and girded him with a girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the Ephod on him, which he girded with the broydred garde of the Ephod, and bounde it vnto him therewith. After he put the brest plate thereon, and put in the breast plate the Vrim and the Thummim. Also he put the miter vpon his head, and put vpon the miter on the fore front the golden plate, and the holy crowne, as the Lord had commanded Moses. (Nowe Moses had taken the anointing oyle, and anoynted the Tabernacle, and al that was therein, and sanctified them, And sprinkled thereof vpon the altar seuen times, and anointed the altar and all his instruments, and the lauer, and his foote, to sanctifie them) And he powred of the anointing oyle vpon Aarons head, and anointed him, to sanctifie him. After, Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put coates vpon them, and girded them with girdles, and put bonets vpon their heads, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Then he brought the bullocke for the sinne offring, and Aaron and his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of the bullocke for the sinne offring. And Moses slew him, and tooke the blood, which he put upon the horns of the Altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and powred the rest of the blood at the foot of ye altar: so he sanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it. Then he tooke all the fette that was upon the inwardes, and the kall of the liuer and the two kidneis, with their fatt, which Moses burned upon the Altar. But the bullocke and his hide, and his flesh, and his doung, hee burnt with fire without the host as the Lord had commanded Moses. Also hee brought the ram for the burnt offerung, and Aaron and his sonnes put their hands vpon the head of the ramme. So Moses killed it, and sprinkled the blood vpon the Altar round about, And Moses cut the ram in pieces, and burnt the head with the pieces, and the fat, And washed the inwardes and the legges in water: so Moses burnt the ram euery whit vpon ye Altar: for it was a burnt offerung for a sweete sauour, which was made by fire vnto the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. After, he brought the other ram, the ram of consecrations, and Aaron and his sonnes layed their handes vpon the head of the ram, Which Moses slewe, and tooke of the blood of it, and put it vpon the lappe of Aarons right eare, and vpon the thumbe of his right hand, and vpon the great toe of his right foote. Then Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put of the blood on the lap of their right eares, and vpon the thumbes of their right handes, and vpon the great toes of their right feete, and Moses sprinckled the rest of the blood vpon the Altar round about. And he tooke the fat and the rumpe and all the fat that was vpon the inwards, and the kall of the liuer, and the two kidneis with their fat, and the right shoulder. Also he tooke of ye basket of ye vnleauened bread that was before the Lord, one vnleauened cake and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and vpon the right shoulder. So hee put all in Aarons handes, and in his sonnes handes, and shooke it to and from before the Lord. After, Moses tooke the out of their hands, and burnt them vpon the altar for a burnt offerung: for these were consecrations for a sweete sauour which were made by fire vnto the Lord. Likewise Moses tooke the breast of the ram of consecrations, and shooke it to and from before the Lord: for it was Moses portion, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Also Moses tooke of the anointing oyle, and of the blood which was vpon the Altar, and sprinkled it vpon Aaron, vpon his garments, and vpon his sonnes, and on his sonnes garments with him: so hee sanctified Aaron, his garments, and his sonnes, and his sonnes garments with him. Afterward Moses saide vnto Aaron and his sonnes, Seethe the flesh at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and there eate it with the bread that is in the basket of consecrations, as I commanded, saying, Aaron and his sonnes shall eate it, But that which remaineth of the flesh and of the bread, shall ye burne with fire. And ye shall not depart from the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation seuen dayes, vntill the dayes of your consecrations bee at an ende: for seuen dayes, saide the Lord, shall hee consecrate you, As hee hath done this day: so the Lord hath commanded to doe, to make an atonement for you. Therefore shall yee abide at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation day and night, seuen dayes, and shall keepe the watch of the Lord, that ye dye not: for so I am commanded. So Aaron and his sonnes did all thinges which the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses.

And in the eight day Moses called Aaron and his sonnes, and the Elders of Israel: Then hee sayde vnto Aaron, Take thee a yong calfe for a sinne offring, and a ram for a burnt offring, both without blemish, and bring them before the Lord. And vnto the children of Israel thou shalt speake, saying, Take yee an hee goate for a sinne offring, and a calfe, and a lambe, both of a yeere olde, without blemish for a burnt offring: Also a bullock, and a ramme for peace offringes, to offer before the Lord, and a meate offring mingled with oyle: for to day the Lord will appeare vnpto you. Then they brought that which Moses commanded before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and all the assembly drew neere and stood before the Lord. (For Moses had sayde, This is the thing, which the Lord commanded that ye should do, and the glory of the Lord shall appeare vnpto you) Then Moses sayd vnpto Aaron, Draw neere to the Altar, and offer thy sinne offering, and thy burnt offring, and make an attonement for thee and for the people: offer also the offring of the people, and make an attonement for them, as the Lord hath commanded.
Aaron therefore went vnpto the Altar, and killed the calfe of the sinne offring, which was for himselfe. And the sonnes of Aaron brought ye blood vnpto him, and he dipt his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the Altar, and powdered the rest of the blood at the foot of the Altar. But the fat and the kidney and the kall of the liver of the sinne offering, he burnt upon the Altar, as the Lord had commanded Moses. The flesh also and the hide hee burnt with fire without the hoste. After, he slew the burnt offering, and Aarons sons brought vnto him the blood, which he sprinkled round about vpon the Altar. Also they brought the burnt offering vnto him with the pieces thereof, and the head, and he burnt them vpon the Altar. Likewise he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them vpon the burnt offering on the Altar. Then he offered the peoples offering, and tooke a goate, which was the sinne offering for the people, and slew it: and offered it for sinne, as the first: So he offered the burnt offering, and prepared it, according to the manner. He presented also the meate offering, and filled his hand thereof, and beside the burnt sacrifice of the morning he burnt this vpon the Altar. He slew also the bullock, and the ram for the peace offerings, that was for the people, and Arons sons brought vnto him the blood, which he sprinkled vpon the Altar round about, With the fat of the bullocke, and of the ram, the rumpe, and that which couereth the inwards and the kidney, and the kall of the liver. So they layed the fat vpon the breasts, and he burnt the fat vpon the Altar. But the breastes and the right shoulder Aaron shooke to and from before the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. So Aaron lift vp his hand toward the people, and blessed them, and came downe from offering of the sinne offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings. After, Moses and Aaron went into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and came out, and blessed the people, and the glorie of the Lord appeared to all the people. And there came a fire out from the Lord and consumed vpon the Altar the burnt offering and the fatte: which when all the people sawe, they gaue thankes, and fell on their faces.

But Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, tooke either of them his censor, and put fire therein, and put incense thereupon, and offered strange fire before the Lord, which hee had not commanded them. Therefore a fire went out from the Lord, and devoured them: so they dyed before the Lord. Then Moses sayde vnto Aaron, This is it that the Lord spake, saying, I will bee sanctified in the that come neere me, and before all the people I will be glorified: but Aaron held his peace. And Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan the sonnes of Vzziel, the vncle of Aaron, and saide vnto them, Come neere, cary your brethre from before the Sanctuarie out of the hoste. Then they went, and caried them in their coates out of the host, as Moses had commanded. After, Moses saide vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes, Vncouer not your heads, neither rent your clothes, least ye dye, and least wrath come vpon all ye people: but let your brethren, all the house of Israel bewayle the burning which the Lord hath kindled. And go not yee out from the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, least ye dye: for the anointing oyle of the Lord is vpon you: and they did according to Moses commandement. And the Lord spake vnto Aaron, saying, Thou shalt not drinke wine nor strong drinke, thou, nor thy sonnes with thee, when yee come into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, lest ye die: this is an ordinance for euer throughout your generations, That ye may put difference betweene the holy and the vnholly, and betweene the cleane and the vnclean, And that ye may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the Lord hath commanded them by the hand of Moses. Then Moses saide vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and to Ithamar his sonnes that were left, Take the meate offring that remaineth of the offrings of the Lord, made by fire, and eate it without leauen beside ye altar: for it is most holy: And ye shall eate it in the holy place, because it is thy duetie and thy sonnes duety of the offringes of the Lord made by fire: for so I am commanded. Also the shaken breast and the heaue shoulder shall yee eate in a cleane place: thou, and thy sonnes, and thy daughters with thee: for they are giuen as thy duetie and thy sonnes duety, of the peace offringes of the children of Israel. The heaue shoulder, and the shaken breast shall they bring with the offringes made by fire of the fat, to shake it to and from before the Lord, and it shalbe thine and thy sonnes with thee by a lawe for euer, as the Lord hath commanded. And Moses sought the goate that was offred for sinne, and lo, it was burnt: therefore he was angrie with Eleazar and Ithamar the sonnes of Aaron, which were left aliue, saying, Wherfore haue ye not eaten the sinne offring in the holy place, seeing it is most Holie? and God. hath given it you, to bear the iniquity of the Congregation, 18 to make an atonement for them before the Lord. Behold, the blood of it was not brought within the holy place: ye should have eaten it in the holy place, as I commanded. And Aaron said unto Moses, Behold, this day have they offered their sinne offring, and their burnt offring before the Lord, and such things as thou knowest are come unto me: If I had eaten the sinne offring to day, should it have been accepted in the sight of the Lord? So when Moses heard it, he was content.

After, the Lord spake unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto 2 them, Speake unto the children of Israel, and say, These are the beastes which ye shall eate, among all the beasts that are on the earth. Whatsoever parteth the hoofe, and is cloven footed, and cheweth the cudde, among the beastes, that shall ye eate.
4 But of them that chew the cud, or deuid the hoofe only, of them yee shall not eate: as the camel, because he cheweth the cud, and deuideth not ye hoofe, he shall be vnkleane vnsto you.
5 Likewise the conie, because he cheweth the cud and deuideth not the hoofe, he shall bee vnkleane to you. Also the hare, because he cheweth the cud, and deuideth not the hoofe, he shalbe vn-6 cleane to you. And the swine, because he parteth ye hoofe and is cloven footed, but cheweth not the cud, he shalbe vnkleane to 7 you. Of their flesh shall yee not eate, and their carcise shall 8 yee not touch: for they shall bee vnkleane to you. These shall ye eate, of all that are in the waters: whatsoever hath finnes and skales in ye waters, in the seas, or in the riuers, them shall 9 ye eate. But all that haue not finnes nor skales in the seas, or in the riuers, of all that moueth in the waters, and of al liuing things that are in the waters, they shalbe an abomination vnsto 10 you. They, I say, shalbe an abomination to you: ye shall not eate of their flesh, but shall abhorre their carcises. Whatsoever hath not fins nor skales in the waters, that shalbe abomination 11 vnsto you. These shall ye haue also in abomination among the foules, they shall not be eaten: for they are an abomination, the eagle, and the goshauke, and the osprey: Also the vultur, and the kite after his kinde, And all rauens after their kinde: The ostrich also, and the night crowe, and the seameaw, and the hauke after his kinde: The litle owle also, and the conno-18 rant, and the great owle. Also the redshanke and the pelican, and the swanne: The storke also, the heron after his kinde, and the lapwing, and the backe: Also euery foule that creepeth and goeth vpon all foure, such shalbe an abomination vnto you. Yet these shall ye eate: of euery foule that creepeth, and goeth vpon all foure which haue their feete and legs all of one to leape withal vpon the earth, Of them ye shall eate these, the grashopper after his kinde, and the solean after his kinde, the hargol after his kinde, and the hagab after his kind. But al other foules that creepe and haue foure feete, they shalbe abomination vnto you. For by such ye shalbe polluted: whosoever toucheth their carkeis, shalbe vnkleane vnto the euening. Whosoever also beareth of their carkeis, shall wash his clothes, and be vnkleane vntil euuen. Every beast that hath clawes deuided, and is not clouen footed, nor cheweth the cud, such shalbe vnkleane vnto you: every one that toucheth them, shalbe vnkleane. And whatsoeuer goeth vpon his pawes among all maner beastes that goeth on all foure, such shalbe vnkleane vnto you: who so doth touch their carkeis shalbe vnkleane vntil the euuen. And he that beareth their carkeis, shall wash his clothes, and be vnkleane vntill the euuen: for such shalbe vnkleane vnto you. Also these shalbe vnkleane to you amog the things that creepe and moue vpon the earth, the weasell, and the mouse, and the frog, after his kinde: Also the rat, and the lizard, and the chameleon, and the stellio, and the molle. These shall be vnkleane to you among all that creepe: whosoever doeth touch them when they be dead, shalbe vnkleane vntil the euuen. Also whatsoeuer any of the dead carkeises of them doth fall vpon, shalbe vnkleane, whether it be vessel of wood, or rayment, or skinne, or sacke: whatsoeuer vessel it be that is occupied, it shalbe put in the water as vnkleane vntil the euuen, and so be purified. But euery earthen vessel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatsoeuer is within it shalbe vnkleane, and ye shall breake it. Al meate also that shalbe eaten, if any such water come vpon it, shalbe vnkleane: and all drinke that shalbe drunke in al such vessels shalbe vnkleane. And euery thing that their carkeis fall vpon, shalbe vnkleane: the fornais or the pot shalbe broken: for they are vnkleane, and shalbe vnkleane vnto you. Yet the fountaines and welles where there is plentie of water shalbe cleane: but that which toucheth their carkeises shalbe vnkleane. And if there fal of their dead carkeis vpon any seede, which vseth to be sowe, it shalbe cleane. But if any water be powred vpon ye seede, and there fal of their dead carkeis thereon, it shall be vnkleane vnto you. If also any beast, whereof ye may eate, die, he that toucheth the carkeis thereof shall be vnkleane vntil the euen. And he that eateth of the carkeis of it, shall wash his clothes and be vnkleane vntil the euen: he also that beareth the carkeis of it, shall wash his clothes, and be vnkleane vntil the euen. Eu-ery creeping thing therefore that creepeth vpon the earth shalbe an abomination, and not be eaten. Whatsoever goeth vpon the breast, and whatsoever goeth vpon al foure, or that hath many feete among all creeping thinges that creepe vpon the earth, ye shall not eate of them, for they shalbe abomination. Ye shall not pollute your selues with any thing that creepeth, neither make your selues vnkleane with them, neither defile your selues thereby: ye shall not, I say, be defiled by them, For I am the Lord your God: be sanctified therefore, and be holy, for I am holy, and defile not your selues with any creeping thing, that creepeth vpon the earth. For I am the Lord that brought you out of the lande of Egypt, to be your God, and that you should be holy, for I am holy. This is the law of beasts, and of foules, and of euery liuing thing that moueth in the waters, and of eu-ery thing that creepeth vpon the earth: That there may be a difference betweene the vnkleane and cleane, and betweene the beast that may be eaten, and the beast that ought not to be eaten.

12,2 And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, When a woman hath brought forth seede, and borne a manchilde, shee shalbe vnkleane seuen dayes, like as she is vnkleane when she is put apart for her disease. (And in the eight day, the foreskin of the childes flesh shalbe circumcised) And she shall continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirtie dayes: she shall touch no halowed thing, nor come into the Sanctuarie, vntil the time of her purifying be out. But if she beare a mayde childe, then shee shalbe vnkleane two weekes, as when shee hath her disease: and she shall continue in the blood of her purifying three score and sixe dayes. Nowe when the dayes of her purifying are out, (whether it be for a sonne or for a daughter) shee shall bring to the Priest a lambe of one yeere olde for a burnt offering, and a yong pigeon or a turtle doue for a sinne offering, vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, Who shall offer it before the Lord, and make an atonement for her: so she shalbe purged of the issue of her blood this is the law for her that hath borne a male or female. But if she bee not able to bring a lambe, she shall bring two turtles, or two yong pigeons: the one for a burnt offering, and the other for a sinne offerling: and the Priest shall make an atonement for her: so she shall be cleane.

Moreouer the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Aaron, saying,
The man that shall haue in the skin of his flesh a swelling or a skab, or a white spot, so that in the skinne of his flesh it be like the plague of leprosie, then he shalbe brought vnto Aaron the Priest, or vnto one of his sonnes the Priestes, And the Priest shall looke on the sore in the skinne of his flesh: if the heare in the sore be turned into white, and the sore seeme to be lower then the skinne of his flesh, it is a plague of leprosie. therefore the Priest shall looke on him, and pronounce him vncleane: But if the white spot be in the skinne of his flesh, and seeme not to bee lower then the skin, nor the heare thereof be turned vnto white, then the Priest shall shut vp him that hath the plague, seuen dayes. After, the Priest shall looke vpon him the seuenth day: and if the plague seeme to him to abide still, and the plague growe not in the skin, the Priest shall shut him vp yet seuen dayes more. Then the Priest shall looke on him againe the seuenth day, and if the plague be darke, and the sore grow not in the skinne, then the Priest shall pronounce him cleane, for it is a skab: therefore he shall washe his clothes and be cleane. But if the skab growe more in the skinne, after that he is seene of ye Priest for to be purged, he shall be seene of the Priest yet againe.
Then the Priest shall consider, and if the skab growe in the skin, then the Priest shall pronounce him vncleane: for it is leprosie.
When the plague of leprosie is in a man, he shalbe brought vnto the Priest, And the Priest shall see him: and if the swelling be white in ye skin, and haue made ye heare white, and there be rawe flesh in the swelling, It is an old leprosie in the skin of his flesh: and the Priest shall pronounce him vncleane, and shall not shut him vp, for he is vncleane. Also if the leprosie breake	out in the skin, and the leprosie couer all the skin of the plague,

from his head even to his feete, wheresoeuer the Priest looketh, Then the Priest shall consider: and if the leprosie couer all his flesh, he shall pronounce the plague to bee cleane, because it is all turned into whitenesse: so he shalbe cleane. But if there be raw flesh on him when he is seen, he shalbe vn cleane. For the Priest shall see the rawe flesh, and declare him to be vn cleane: for the rawe flesh is vn cleane, therefore it is the leprosie. Or if the rawe flesh change and be turned into white, then he shall come to the Priest, And the Priest shall beholde him and if the sore be changed into white, then the Priest shall pronounce the plague cleane, for it is cleane. The flesh also in whose skin there is a bile and is healed, And in ye place of the bile there be a white swelling, or a white spot somewhat reddish, it shall be seen of the Priest. And when the Priest seeth it, if it appeare lower then the skinne, and the heare thereof bee changed into white, ye Priest then shall pronounce him vn cleane: for it is a plague of leprosie, broken out in the bile. But if the Priest looke on it, and there be no white heares therein, and if it bee not lower then the skin, but be darker, then the Priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. And if it spread abroad in the flesh, ye Priest shall pronounce him vn cleane, for it is a sore. But if the spot continue in his place, and growe not, it is a burning bile: therefore the Priest shall declare him to be cleane. If there be any flesh, in whose skin there is an hote burning, and the quick flesh of ye burning haue a white spot, somewhat reddish or pale, Then the Priest shall looke vpon it: and if the heare in that spot be changed into white, and it appeare lower then the skin, it is a leprosie broken out in the burning therefore the Priest shall pronounce him vn cleane: for it is the plague of leprosie. But if the Priest looke on it, and there be no white heare in the spot, and be no lower then the other skinne, but be darker, then the Priest shall shut him vp seuen dayes. After, the Priest shall looke on him the seuenth day: if it be growen abroad in the skinne, then the Priest shall pronounce him vn cleane: for it is the plague of leprosie. And if the spot abide in his place, not growing in the skin, but is darke, it is a rising of the burning: the Priest shall therefore declare him cleane, for it is the drying vp of the burning. If also a man or woman hath a sore on the head or in the beard, Then the Priest shall see his sore: and if it appeare lower then the skin, and there be in it a small yellow haire, then the Priest shall pronouce him vncleane: for it is a blacke spot, and leprosie of the head or of the beard. And if the Priest looke on the sore of the blacke spotte, and if it seeme not lower then the skinne, nor haue any blacke heare in it, then the Priest shall shut vp him, that hath the sore of the blacke spot, seuen dayes. After, in the seuenth day the Priest shall looke on the sore: and if the blacke spot grewe not, and there be in it no yelowe heare, and the blacke spot seeme not lower then the skinne, Then he shalbe shauen, but the place of the blacke spot shall he not shawe: but the Priest shall shut vp him, that hath the blacke spot, seuen dayes more. And the seuenth day the Priest shall looke on the blacke spot: and if the blacke spot growe not in the skinne, nor seeme lower then the other skinne, then the Priest shall clense him, and hee shall wash his clothes, and be cleane. But if the blacke spot growe abroad in the flesh after his clensing, Then the Priest shall looke on it: and if the blacke spot grow in the skin, the Priest shall not seeke for the yelowe heare: for he is vncleane. But if ye blacke spot seeme to him to abide, and that blacke heare growe therein, the blacke spot is healed, he is cleane, and the Priest shall declare him to be cleane. Furthermore if there bee many white spots in the skin of the flesh of man or woman, Then the Priest shall consider: and if the spots in the skin of their flesh be somewhat darke and white withall, it is but a white spot broken out in the skin: therefore he is cleane. And the man whose heare is fallen off his head, and is balde, is cleane. And if his head lose the heare on the forepart, and be balde before, he is cleane. But if there be in the balde head, or in the balde forehead a white reddish sore, it is a leprosie springing in his balde head, or in his balde forehead. Therefore the Priest shall looke vpon it, and if the rising of the sore bee white reddish in his balde head, or in his bald forehead, appearing like leprosie in the skin of the flesh, He is a leper and vncleane: therefore the Priest shall pronounce him altogether vncleane: for the sore is in his head. The leper also in whom the plague is, shall haue his clothes rent, and his head bare, and shall put a couering vpon his lips, and shall cry, I am vncleane, I am vncleane. As long as the disease shall be vpon him, he shalbe polluted, for he is vncleane: he shall dwell alone, without the campe shall his habitation be. Also the garment that the plague of leprosie is in, whether it be a wollen garment or a linen garment, Whether it bee in the warpe or in ye woofe of linen or of wollen, either in a skin, or in any thing made of skin, And if the sore be greene or somewhat reddish in the garment or in ye skin, or in the warpe, or in the woofe, or in any thing that is made of skin, it is a plague of leprosie and shalbe shewed vnto the Priest. Then the Priest shall see the plague, and shut vp it that hath the plague, seuen dayes, And shall looke on the plague the seuenth day: if the plague growe in the garment or in the warpe, or in the woofe, or in the skinne, or in any thing that is made of skin, that plague is a fretting leprosie and vncleane.
And hee shall burne the garment, or the warpe, or the woofe, whether it bee wollen or linen, or any thing that is made of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a freating leprosie, therefore it shalbe burnt in the fire. If the Priest yet see that the plague grow not in the garment, or in the woofe, or in whatsoever thing of skin it be, Then the Priest shall commaund them to wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it vp seuen dayes more. Againe ye Priest shall looke on the plague, after it is washed: and if the plague haue not changed his colour, though the plague haue spred no further, it is vncleane: thou shalt burne it in the fire, for it is a fret inwarde, whether the spot bee in the bare place of the whole, or in part thereof. And if the Priest see that the plague bee darker, after that it is washed, he shall cut it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warpe, or out of the woofe. And if it appeare stil in ye garment or in the warpe, or in the woofe, or in any thing made of skin, it is a spreading leprie: thou shalt burne the thing wherein the plague is, in the fire. If thou hast washed ye garment or ye warpe, or ye woofe, or whatsouer thing of skin it be, if the plague be departed therefrom, then shall it be washed the second time, and be cleane. This is the lawe of the plague of leprosie in a garment of wollen or linnen, or in the warpe, or in the woofe, or in any thing of skin, to make it cleane or vncleane.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, This is the law of the leper in the day of his clensing: that is, he shall be brought vnto the Priest, And the Priest shall go out of the campe, and the Priest shall consider him: and if the plague of leprosie be healed in the leper, Then shall the Priest command to take for him that is clensed, two sparrows alive and clean, and cedar wood and a scarlet lace, and hyssop. And the Priest shall command to kill one of the birds over pure water in an earthen vessel. After, he shall take the live sparrow with the cedar wood, and the scarlet lace, and the hyssop, and shall dip them and the living sparrow in the blood of the sparrow slain, over the pure water. And he shall sprinkle upon him, that must be clensed of his leprosy, seven times, and cleanse him, and shall let go the live sparrow into the broad field. Then he that shall be clensed, shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his head, and wash himself in water, so he shall be clean: after that shall he come into the host, but shall tarry without his tent seven days. So in the seventh day he shall shave off all his head, both his head, and his beard, and his eye brows: even all his head shall he shave, and shall wash his clothes and shall wash his flesh in water: so he shall be clean. Then in the eighth day he shall take two live lambs without blemish, and an ewe lamb of a year old without blemish, and three tenth-drams of fine flour for a meat offering, mingled with oil, and a pint of oil. And the Priest that maketh him clean shall bring the man which is to be made clean, and those things, before the Lord, at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then the Priest shall take one lamb, and offer him for a trespass offering, and the pint of oil, and shake the to and from before the Lord. And he shall kill the lamb in the place where the sin offering and the burnt offering are slain, even in the holy place: for as the sin offering is the Priest's, so is the trespass offering: for it is most holy. So the Priest shall take of the blood of the trespass offering, and put it upon the lap of the right ear of him that shall be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. The Priest shall also take of the pint of oil, and pour it into the palm of his left hand, And the Priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and sprinkle of the oil with his finger seven times before the Lord. And of the rest of the oil that is in his hand, shall the Priest put upon the lap of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, where the blood of the trespass offring was put. But the remnant of the oyle that is in the Priests hand, he shall powre vpon the head of him that is to be clensed: so the Priest shall make an atonement for him before the Lord. And the Priest shall offer the sinne offring and make an atonement for him that is to bee clensed of his vnclannesse: then after shall he kill the burnt offring. So the Priest shall offer ye burnt offring and the meat offring vpon ye altar and the Priest shall make an atonement for him: so he shalbe cleane. But if he be poore, and not able, then he shall bring one lambe for a trespass offring to be shaken, for his reconciliaition, and a tenth deale of fine flower mingled with oyle, for a meate offring, with a pinte of oyle. Also two turtle doues, or two yong pigeons, as he is able, whereof the one shalbe a sinne offering, and the other a burnt offring. And he shall bring them the eight day for his clensing vnto the Priest at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation before ye Lord. The the Priest shall take the lambe of the trespass offering, and the pint of oyle, and the Priest shall shake them to and from before the Lord. And he shall kill the lambe of the trespass offering, and the Priest shall take of the blood of the trespass offering, and put it vpon the lap of his right eare that is to be clensed, and vpon ye thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great toe of his right foote. Also the Priest shall powre of the oyle into the palme of his owne left hand. So ye Priest shall with his right finger sprinkle of the oyle that is in his left hand, seuen times before the Lord. Then the Priest shall put of the oyle that is in his hande, vpon the lap of the right eare of him that is to be clensed, and vpon ye thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great toe of his right foote: vpon the place of the blood of the trespass offering. But ye rest of the oyle that is in the Priests hand, he shall put vpon the head of him that is to be clensed, to make an atonement for him before the Lord. Also hee shall present one of the turtle doues, or of the yong pigeons, as he is able: Such, I say, as he is able, the one for a sinne offring, and the other for a burnt offring with the meate offring: so the Priest shall make an atonement for him that is to bee clensed before the Lord. This is the lawe of him which hath the plague of leprosie, who is not able in his clensing to offer the whole. The Lord also spake vnto Moses and to Aaron, saying, When ye be come vnto the land of Canaan which I give you in possession, if I send the plague of leprosy in an house of the land of your possession, Then he that oweth the house, shall come and tell the Priest, saying, Me thinke there is like a plague of leprosy in the house. Then the Priest shall command them to emptie the house before the Priest goe into it to see the plague, that all that is in the house be not made unclean, and then shall the Priest goe in to see the house, And hee shall marke the plague: and if the plague be in the walles of the house, and that there be deepe spots, greenish or reddish, which seeme to be lower then the wall, Then the Priest shall goe out of the house to the doore of the house, and shall cause to shut vp the house seuen dayes. So the Priest shall come againe ye seuenth day: and if he see that the plague bee increased in the walles of the house, Then the Priest shall commande them to take away the stones wherein the plague is, and they shall cast them into a foule place without the citie. Also hee shall cause to scrape the house within rounde about, and powre the dust, that they haue pared off, without the citie in an unclean place. And they shall take other stones, and put them in the places of those stones, and shall take other mortar, to plaister the house with. But if the plague come againe and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken away ye stones, and after that hee hath scraped and playstered the house, Then the Priest shall come and see: and if the plague growe in the house, it is a freating leprosie in the house: it is therefore unclean. And hee shall breake downe the house, with the stones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the mortar of the house, and hee shall carie them out of the citie vnto an unclean place. Moreouer he that goeth into the house all the while that it is shut vp, hee shall bee unclean vntill the euen. Hee also that sleepeth in the house shall wash his clothes: he likewise that eateth in the house, shall wash his clothes. But if the Priest shall come and see, that the plague hath spread no further in the house, after the house be plaistered, the Priest shall pronounce that house cleane, for the plague is healed. Then shall he take to purifie the house, two sparrowses, and cedar wood, and skarlet lace, and hyssope. And hee shall kill one sparowe ouer pure water in an earthen vessell, And shall take the cedar wood, and the hyssope, and the skarlet lace with the liue Sparrow, and dip them in the blood of the slayne Sparrow, and in the pure water, and sprinkle the house seuen times:  So shall hee clense the house with ye blood of the sparowe, and with the pure water, and with the lieue sparowe, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyssope, and with the skarlet lace.  Afterwarde he shall let go the lieue sparowe out of the towne into the broad fieldes: so shall he make atonement for the house, and it shall be cleane.  This is the law for every plague of lepresie and blacke spot,  And of the lepresie of the garment, and of the house,  And of the swelling, and of the skab, and of the white spot.  This is the lawe of the lepresie to teache when a thing is vnclene, and when it is cleane.

Moreouer the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Aaron, saying,  Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, Whosoeuer hath an issue from his flesh, is vnclene, because of his issue.  And this shalbe his vnclenes in his issue: when his flesh auoydeth his issue, or if his flesh be stopped from his issue, this is his vnclenes.  Every bed whereon he lyeth that hath the issue, shall be vnclene, and every thing whereon he sitteth, shalbe vnclene.  Whosoeuer also toucheth his bed, shall wash his clothes, and wash himselfe in water, and shall be vnclene vntill the euern.  And he that sitteth on any thing, whereon he sate that hath the issue, shall wash his clothes, and wash himselse in water, and shalbe vnclene vntill the euern.  Also he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the issue, shall wash his clothes, and wash himselfe in water, and shalbe vnclene vntill the euern.  If he also, that hath the issue, spit vpon him that is cleane, he shall wash his clothes, and wash himselfe in water, and shalbe vnclene vntill the euern.  And what sadddle soeuer he rideth vpon, that hath the issue, shalbe vnclene, And whosoeuer toucheth any thing that was undre him, shall be vnclene vnto the euern: and he that beareth those things, shall wash his clothes, and wash himselfe in water, and shall be vn-clene vntill the euern.  Likewise whomesoeuer hee toucheth that hath the issue (and hath not washed his handes in water) shall wash his clothes and wash himselfe in water, and shalbe vnclene vntill the euern.  And the vessel of earth that he toucheth, which hath the issue, shalbe broken: and every vessel of wood shalbe rinsed in water.  But if he that hath an issue, be cleansed of his issue, then shall he count him seuen dayes for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and wash his flesh in pure water: so shall he be cleane. Then the eight day he shall take vnto him two Turtle doues or two yong pigeons, and come before the Lord at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and shall giue them vnto the Priest. And the Priest shall make of the one of them a sinne offeringe, and of the other a burnt offeringe: so the Priest shall make an atonement for him before the Lord, for his issue. Also if any mans issue of seede depart from him, he shall wash all his flesh in water, and be vnCLEane vntill the euen.
And euery garment, and euery skinne whereupon shalbe issue of seed, shall be euen washed with water, and be vnCLEane vnto the euen. If he that hath an issue of seede, do lie with a woman, they shall both wash themselves with water, and be vnCLEane vntill the euen. Also when a woman shall haue an issue, and her issue in her flesh shalbe blood, she shalbe put apart seuen dayes: and whosoeuer toucheth her, shalbe vnCLEane vnto the euen. And whatsoever she lieth vpon in her separation, shalbe vnCLEane, and euery thing that she sitteth vpon, shalbe vnCLEane.
Whosoeuer also toucheth her bedde, shalbe wash his clothes, and wash himselfe with water, and shalbe vnCLEane vnto the euen.
And whosoeuer toucheth any thing that she sate vpon, shal wash his clothes, and wash him selfe in water, and shalbe vn-CLEane vnto the euen: So that whether he touche her bed, or any ting whereon shee hath sit, he shalbe vnCLEane vnto the euen.
And if a man lye with her, and the flowers of her separation touch him, he shalbe vnCLEane seuen dayes, and all the whole bed whereon he lieth, shalbe vnCLEane. Also when a womans issue of blood runneth long time besides the time of her floures, or when she hath an issue, longer then her floures, all the dayes of the issue of her vnCLEannesse shee shalbe vnCLEane, as in the time of her floures. Every bed whereon shee lyeth (as long as her issue lasteth) shalbe to her as her bed of her separation: and whatsoever she sitteth vpon, shalbe vnCLEane, as her vnCLEannesse she is put apart. And whosoeuer toucheth these things, shall be vnCLEane, and shall wash his clothes, and wash him selfe in water, and shalbe vnCLEane vnto the euen. But if she be clensed of her issue, then shee shall count her seuen dayes, and after, shee shall be cleane. And in the eight day shee shall take vnto her two Turtles or two yong pigeons, and bring them vnto the Priest at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.

30 And the Priest shall make of ye one a sinne offerling, and of the other a burnt offerling, and the Priest shall make an atonement for her before the Lord, for the issue of her uncleanliness. Thus shall ye separate the children of Israel from their uncleanliness, that they dye not in their uncleanlinessse, if they defile my Tabernacle that is among them. This is the lawe of him that hath an issue, and of him from whom goeth an issue of seede whereby he is defiled: Also of her that is sicke of her floures, and of him that hath a running issue, whether it bee man or woman, and of him that lyeth with her which is unclean.

16 Moreover the Lord spake vnto Moses, after the death of the two sonnes of Aaron, whe they came to offer before the Lord, and dyed: And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, Speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all times into the Holy place within the vayle, before the Mercisate, which is vpon the Arke, that he dye not: for I wil appeare in the cloude vpon the Mercisate. After this sort shall Aaron come into the Holy place: even with a yong bullocke for a sinne offerling, and a ramme for a burnt offerling. He shall put on the holy linnen coate, and shall haue linnen breeches vpon his flesh, and shall be girded with a linnen girdle, and shall couer his head with a linnen miter: these are the holy garments: therefore shall he wash his flesh in water, when he doeth put them on. And hee shall take of the Congregation of the children of Israel, two hee goates for a sinne offerling, and a ramme for a burnt offerling. Then Aaron shall offer the bullocke for his sinne offerling, and make an atonement for himselfe, and for his house. And he shall take the two hee goates, and present them before the Lord at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then Aaron shall cast lots ouer the two hee goates: one lot for the Lord, and the other for the Scape goate. And Aaron shall offer the goat, vpon which the Lords lot shall fal, and make him a sinne offerling. But the goate, on which the lot shall fall to be the Scape goate, shalbe presented aliue before the Lord, to make reconciliation by him, and to let him go (as a Scape goate) into the wildernes. Thus Aaron shall offer the bullocke for his sinne offerling, and make a reconciliation for himselfe, and for his house, and shall kill the bullocke for his sinne offerling. And he shall take a censer full of burning coles from off the altar before the Lord, and his handfull of sweete incense beaten small, and bring it within the vayle, And shall put the incense vpon the fire before the Lord, that the cloude of the incense may couer the Merciseat that is vpon the Testimonie: so he shall not dye. And hee shall take of the blood of the bullocke, and sprinkle it with his finger vpon the Merciseate Eastward: and before the Merciseate shall he sprinkle of the blood with his finger seuen times. Then shall he kill the goate that is the peoples sinne offring, and bring his blood within the vaile, and doe with that blood, as he did with the blood of the bullocke, and sprinkle it vpon the Merciseate, and before the Merciseate. So he shall purge the Holy place from the vncleannes of the children of Israel, and from their trespasses of all their sinnes: so shall he do also for the Tabernacle of the Cogregation placed with them, in the middes of their vncleannesse. And there shalbe no man in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, when he goeth in to make an atonement in the Holy place, vntill hee come out, and haue made an atonement for himselfe, and for his housholde, and for all the Congregation of Israel. After, he shall goe out vnto the altar that is before the Lord and make a reconciliation vpon it, and shall take of the blood of the bullocke, and of the blood of the goate, and put it vpon the hornes of the Altar round about: So shall hee sprinkle of the blood vpon it with his finger seuen times, and clense it, and halowe it from the vncleannes of the children of Israel. When he hath made an ende of purging the Holy place, and the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the altar, then he shall bring the liue goate: And Aaron shall put both his handes vpon the head of the liue goate, and confesse ouer him al the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their trespasses, in all their sinnes, putting them vpon the head of the goate, and shall sende him away (by the hand of a man appointed) into the wildernes. So the goate shall beare vpon him all their iniquities into the land that is not inhabited, and he shall let the goate go into the wildernesse. After, Aaron shall come into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and put off the linnen clothes, which he put on when he went into the Holy place, and leaue them there. Hee shall wash also his flesh with water in the Holy place, and put on his owne rayment, and come out, and make his burnt offring, and the burnt offring of the people, and make an atonement for himselfe, and for the people. Also the fatte of the sinne offering shall he burne vpon the altar. And he that caried forth the goat, called the Scape goat, shall wash his clothes, and wash his flesh in water, and after that shall come into the hoste. Also the bullocke for the sinne offering, and the goate for the sinne offering (whose blood was brought to make a reconciliation in the Holy place) shall one carie out without the hoste to be burnt in the fire, with their skinnes, and with their flesh, and with their doung. And hee that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and wash his flesh in water, and afterward come into the hoste. So this shalbe an ordinance for euer vnto you: the tenth day of the seventh moneth, yee shall humble your soules, and do no worke at all, whether it be one of the same countrey or a strager that soiourneth among you. For that day shall ye Priest make an atonement for you to clense you: ye shalbe cleane from all your sinnes before the Lord. This shall be a Sabbath of rest vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, by an ordinance for euer. And the Priest whom he shall anoynt, and whom he shall cosecrate (to minister in his fathers steade) shall make the atonement, and shall put on the linnen clothes and Holy vestments, And shall purge the Holy Sanctuarie and the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and shall clense the altar, and make an atonement for the Priests and for all the people of the Congregation. And this shalbe an everlasting ordinance vnto you, to make an atonement for the children of Israel for all their sinnes once a yeere: and as the Lord commanded Moses, he did.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and to his sonnes, and to all the children of Israel, and say vnto them, This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded, saying, Whosoever he be of the house of Israel that killeth a bullocke, or lambe, or goate in the hoste, or that killeth it out of the hoste, and bringeth it not vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation to offer an offring vnto the Lord before the Tabernacle of the Lord, blood shalbe imputed vnto that man: he hath shed blood, wherefore that man shall be cut off from among his people. Therefore the children of Israel shall bring their offerings, which they would offer abroad in the fielde, and present the vnto ye Lord at the doore of the Tabernacle of ye Congregation by ye Priest, and offer them for peace offerings unto the Lord. Then the Priest shall sprinkle the blood upon the Altar of the Lord before the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and burne the fat for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And they shall no more offer their offerings vnto deuils, after whom they have gone a whoring: this shalbe an ordinance for euer vnto them in their generations. Also thou shalt say vnto them, whosoeuer he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which soiourne among them, that offreth a burnt offering or sacrifice, And bringeth it not vnto ye doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation to offer it vnto the Lord, euen that man shall be cut off from his people. Likewise whosoeuer he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that soiourne among them, that eateth any blood, I will euen set my face against that person that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I haue giuen it vnto you to offer vpon the altar, to make an atonement for your soules: for this blood shall make an atonement for the soule. Therefore I saide vnto ye children of Israel, None of you shall eate blood: neither the stranger that soiourneth among you, shall eate blood. Moreover whosoeuer he be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that soiourne among the, which by hunting taketh any beast or foule that may be eaten, he shall powre out the blood thereof, and couer it with dust: For ye life of all flesh is his blood, it is ioyned with his life: therefore I sayd vnto the children of Israel, Ye shall eate the blood of no flesh: for the life of al flesh is the blood thereof: whosoeuer eateth it, shalbe cut off. And every person that eateth it which dyeth alone, or that which is torne with beastes, whether it be one of the same countrey or a stranger, he shall both wash his clothes, and wash himselfe in water, and be vn-cleane vnto the euen: after he shalbe cleane. But if he wash them not, nor wash his flesh, then he shall beare his iniquitie.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, I am the Lord your God. After ye doings of the land of Egypt, wherin ye dwelt, shall ye not doe: and after the maner of the land of Canaan, whither I will bring you, shall ye not do, neither walke in their ordinances, But do after my judgements, and keepe mine ordinances, to walke therein: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall keepe therefore my statutes, and my judgements, which if a man doe, he shall then liue in them: I am the Lord. None shall come neere to any of ye kinred of his flesh to vncouer her shame: I am the Lord. Thou shalt not vncouer the shame of thy father, nor the shame of thy mother: for she is thy mother, thou shalt not discouer her shame.
The shame of thy fathers wife shalt thou not discouer: for it is thy fathers shame. Thou shalt not discover the shame of thy sister the daughter of thy father, or the daughter of thy mother, whether shee bee borne at home, or borne without: thou shalt not discover their shame. The shame of thy sonsnes daughter, or of thy daughters daughter, thou shalt not, I say, vncouer their shame: for it is thy shame. The shame of thy fathers wifes dughter, begotten of thy father (for she is thy sister) thou shalt not, I say, discover her shame. Thou shalt not vncouer the shame of thy fathers sister: for she is thy fathers kinswoman.
Thou shalt not discover the shame of thy mothers sister: for she is thy mothers kinswoman. Thou shalt not vncouer the shame of thy fathers brother: that is, thou shalt not goe in to his wife, for she is thine aunte. Thou shalt not discover the shame of thy daughter in lawe: for she is thy sonsnes wife: therefore shalt thou not vncouer her shame. Thou shalt not discover the shame of thy brothers wife. for it is thy brothers shame. Thou shalt not discover the shame of the wife and of her daughter, neither shalt thou take her sonsnes daughter, nor her daughters daughter, to vncouer her shame: for they are thy kinsfolkes, and it were wickednesse. Also thou shalt not take a wife with her sister, during her life, to vexe her, in vncouering her shame vpon her.
Thou shalt not also go vnto a woman to vncouer her shame, as long as she is put apart for her disease. Moreover, thou shalt not giue thy selfe to thy neighbours wife by carnall copulation, to be defiled with her. Also thou shalt not giue thy children to offer them vnto Molech, neither shalt thou defile the name of thy God: for I am the Lord. Thou shalt not lie with ye male as one lieth with a woman: for it is abomination. Thou shall not also lie with any beast to bee defiled therewith, neither shall any woman stand before a beast, to lie downe thereto: for it is abomination. Yee shall not defile your selues in any of these things: for in al these the nations are defiled, which I will cast out before you: And the land is defiled: therefore I wil visit the wickednesse thereof vpon it, and the lande shall vomit out her inhabitants. Ye shall keepe therefore mine ordinances, and my judgements, and commit none of these abominations, aswell hee that is of the same countrey, as the straunger that soiourneth among you. (For all these abominations haue the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled: And shall not the lande spue you out if ye defile it, as it spued out the people that were before you?) For whosoeuer shall commit any of these abominations, the persons that doe so, shall bee cut off from among their people. Therefore shall yee keepe mine ordinances that ye do not any of the abominable customes, which haue bene done before you, and that yee defile not your selues therein: for I am the Lord your God.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto all the Congregation of the children of Israel, and say vnto them, Ye shalbe holy, for I the Lord your God am holy. Yee shall feare euery man his mother and his father, and shall keepe my Sabbaths: for I am the Lord your God. Ye shall not turne vnto idoles, nor make you molten gods: I am the Lord your God. And when yee shall offer a peace offering vnto the Lord, ye shall offer it freely. It shall be eaten the day yee offer it, or on the morowe: and that which remaineth vntill the third day, shalbe burnt in the fire. For if it be eaten the third day, it shall be vncleane, it shall not be accepted. Therefore he that eateth it, shall beare his iniquitie, because he hath defiled the halowed thing of the Lord, and that person shalbe cut off from his people. When yee reape the harvest of your land, ye shall not reape euery corner of your field, neither shalt thou gather the glainings of thy haruest. Thou shalt not gather the grapes of thy vineyarde cleane, neyther gather euery grape of thy vineyarde, but thou shalt leaue them for the poore and for the straunger: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall not steale, neither deale falsely, neither lie one to another. Also yee shall not sweare by my name falsely, neither shalt thou defile the name of thy God: I am the Lord. Thou shalt not doe vniustly in iudgement. Thou shalt not fauour the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty, but thou shalt judge thy neighbor justly. Thou shalt not walk about with tales among thy people. Thou shalt not stand against the blood of thy neighbor: I am the Lord. Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart, but thou shalt plainly rebuke thy neighbor, and suffer him not to sin. Thou shalt not avenge, nor be mindful of wrong against thy children of thy people, but shalt love thy neighbor as thyself: I am the Lord. Ye shall keep my ordinances. Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with others of divers kinds. Thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed, neither shall a garment of divers things, as of linen and woolen come upon thee. Whosoever also lyeth and medleth with a woman that is a bondmaid, engaged to a husband, and not redeemed, nor freedom given her, she shall be scourged, but they shall not die, because she is not made free. And he shall bring for his trespass offering unto the Lord, at the door of the Tabernacle of the congregation, a ram for a trespass offering. Then the priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the Lord, concerning his sin which he hath done, and pardon shall be given him for his sin which he hath committed. Also when ye shall come into the land, and have planted every tree for meat, ye shall count the fruit of it as uncircumcised: three years shall it be uncircumcised unto you, it shall not be eaten: but in the fourth year all the fruit thereof shall be holy to the praise of the Lord. And in the fifth year shall ye eat of the fruit of it that it may yield to you the increase thereof: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall not eat the flesh with the blood, ye shall not use witchcraft, nor observe times. Ye shall not cut round the corners of your heads, neither shalt thou marre the tuftes of thy beard. Ye shall not cut your flesh for the dead, nor make any print of a mark upon you: I am the Lord. Thou shalt not make thy daughter common, to cause her to be a whore, least the land also fall to whoredom, and the land bee full of wickedness. Ye shall keep my Sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary: I am the Lord. Ye shall not regard them that work with spirits, neither soothsayers: ye shall not seeke to them to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God. Thou shalt rise vp before the horehead, and honour the person of the old man, and dread thy God: I am the Lord. And if a stranger sojourne with thee in your lande, ye shall not vexe him.
But the stranger that dwelleth with you, shalbe as one of your relatives, and thou shalt loue him as thy selfe: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall not doe vnjustly in judgement, in line, in weight, or in measure. You shall have just ballances, true weightes, a true Ephah, and a true Hin. I am the Lord your God, which have brought you out of the lande of Egypt. Therefore shall ye observe all mine ordinances, and all my judgements, and doe them: I am the Lord.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Thou shalt say also to the children of Israel, Whosoeuer he be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that dwell in Israel, that giueth his children vnto Molech, he shall die the death, ye people of ye lande shall stone him to death. And I will set my face against that man and cut him off from among his people, because he hath giuen his children vnto Molech, for to defile my Sanctuarie, and to pollute mine holy Name. And if the people of the lande hide their eyes, and winke at that man when he giueth his children vnto Molech, and kill him not, Then will I set my face against that man, and against his familie, and will cut him off, and all that go a whoring after him to comit whoredome with Molech, from among their people. If any turne after such as worke with spirits, and after soothsayers, to go a whoring after them, then will I set my face against that person, and will cut him off from among his people. Sanctifie your selues therefore, and be holie, for I am the Lord your God. Keepe ye therefore mine ordinances, and doe them. I am the Lord which doeth sanct-fifie you. If there be any that curseth his father or his mother, he shall die the death: seeing hee hath cursed his father and his mother, his blood shalbe vpon him. And the man that commit-teth adulterie with another mans wife, because he hath comitted adulterie with his neighbours wife, the adulterer and the adul-teresse shall die the death. And the man that lyeth with his fathers wife, because hee hath vncovered his fathers shame, they shall both dye: their blood shalbe vpon them. Also the man that lyeth with his daughter in lawe, they both shall dye the death, they haue wrought abomination, their blood shalbe vpon them. The man also that lyeth with the male, as one lyeth with a woman, they have both committed abomination: they shall dye the death, their blood shalbe vpon them. Likewise he that taketh a wife and her mother, committeth wickednesse: they shall burne him and them with fire, that there be no wickednes among you. Also the man that lyeth with a beast, shall dye the death, and ye shall slay the beast. And if a woman come to any beast, and lye therewith, then thou shalt kill the woman and the beast: they shall die the death, their blood shalbe vpon them. Also the man that taketh his sister, his fathers daughter, or his mothers daughter, and seeth her shame and she seeth his shame, it is villenie: therefore they shall be cut off in the sight of their people, because he hath vncovered his sisters shame, he shall beare his iniquitie. The man also that lyeth with a woman haung her disease, and vncovereth her shame, and openeth her fountaine, and she open the fountaine of her blood, they shall bee even both cut off from among their people. Moreover thou shalt not vncover the shame of thy mothers sister, nor of thy fathers sister: because he hath vncovered his kin, they shall beare their iniquitie. Likewise the man that lyeth with his fathers brothers wife, and vncovereth his vncles shame: they shall beare their iniquitie, and shall die childlesse. So the man that taketh his brothers wife, committeth filthines, because he hath vncovered his brothers shame: they shalbe childles. Ye shall keepe therefore all mine ordinances and all my iudgements, and doe them, that the land, whither I bring you to dwel therein, spue you not out. Wherefore ye shall not walke in the maners of this nation which I cast out before you: for they haue committed all these things, therefore I abhorred them. But I haue saide vnto you, ye shall inherite their land, and I will giue it vnto you to possesse it, euen a land that floweth with milke and honie: I am the Lord your God, which haue separated you from other people. Therefore shall ye put difference betweene cleane beastes and vnclane, and betweene vnclane foules and cleane: neither shall ye defile your selues with beastes and foules, nor with any creeping thing, that ye ground bringeth forth, which I haue separated from you as vnclane. Therefore shall ye be holie vnto me: for I the Lord am holy, and I haue separated you from other people, that ye shoulde be mine. And if a man or woman haue a spirite of diuination, or soothsaying in them, they shall die the
And the Lord said unto Moses, Speake unto the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron, and say vnto them, Let none be defiled by the dead among his people, But by his kinseman that is neere vnto him: to wit, by his mother, or by his father, or by his sonne, or by his daughter, or by his brother, Or by his sister a maid, that is neere vnto him, which hath not had a husband: for her he may lament. He shall not lament for the Prince among his people, to pollute him selfe. They shall not make balde partes vpon their head, nor shaue off the locks of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their flesh. They shalbe holy vnto their God, and not pollute the name of their God: for the sacrifices of the Lord made by fire, and the bread of their God they doe offer: therefore they shalbe holie. They shall not take to wife an whore, or one polluted, neither shall they marrie a woman diuorced from her husband: for such one is holy vnto his God. Thou shalt sanctifie him therefore, for he offereth the bread of thy God: he shall be holy vnto thee: for I the Lord, which sanctifie you, am holy. If a Priestes daughter fall to play the whore, she polluteth her father: therefore shall she be burnt with fire. Also ye hie Priest among his brethren, (vpon whose head the anointing oyle was powred, and hath consecrated his hand to put on the garments) shall not uncouver his head, nor rent his clothes, Neither shall he goe to any dead bodie, nor make him selfe uncleane by his father or by his mother, Neither shall he goe out of the Sanctuarie, nor pollute the holy place of his God: for the crowne of the anoynting oyle of his God is vpon him: I am the Lord. Also he shall take a maide vnto his wife: But a widowe, or a diuorced woman, or a polluted, or an harlot, these shall he not marrie, but shall take a maide of his owne people to wife: Neyther shall he defile his seede among his people: for I am the Lord which sanctifie him. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and say, Whosoever of thy seede in their generations hath any blemishes, shall not prease to offer the bread of his God: For whosoever hath any blemish, shall not come neere: as a man blinde or lame, or that hath a flat nose, or that hath any misshapen member, Or a man that hath a broken foote, or a broken hande, Or is crooke backt, or bleare eyed, or hath a blemish in his eye, or be skiruie, or skabbed, or haue his stones broken. None of the seede of Aaron the Priest that hath a blemish, shall come neere to offer the sacrifices of the Lord made by fire, hauing a blemish: he shall not prease to offer the bread of his God. The bread of his God, euene of the most holie, and of the holy shall he eate: But he shall not goe in vnsto the vaile, nor come neere the altar, because hee hath a blemish, least he pollute my Sanctuaries: for I am the Lord that sanctifie them. Thus spake Moses vnto Aaron, and to his sonnes, and to all the children of Israel.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and to his sonnes, that they be separated from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they pollute not mine holy name in those things, which they hallowe vnto me: I am the Lord. Say vnto them, Whosoeuer he be of all your seede among your generations after you, that toucheth the holy things which the children of Israel hallowe vnto the Lord, hauing his vnclenesse vpon him, euene that person shall be cut off from my sight: I am the Lord. Whosoeuer also of the seede of Aaron is a leper, or hath a running issue, he shall not eate of the holy things vntill he be cleane: and who so toucheth any that is vnclene, by reason of the dead, or a man whose issue of seede runneth from him, Or the man that toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made vnclene, or a man, by whom he may take vncleness, whatsoeuer vncleness he hath, The person that hath touched such, shall therefore be vnclene vntill the euene, and shall not eat of ye holy things, except he haue washed his flesh with water. But when the Sunne is downe, hee shalbe cleane, and shall afterward eate of the holy things: for it is his foode. Of a beast that dyeth, or is rent with beasts, whereby he may be defiled, hee shall not eate: I am the Lord. Let them keepe therefore mine ordinance, least they beare their sinne for it, and die for it, if they defile it: I the Lord sanctifie them. There shall no stranger also eate of the holie thing, neither the ghost of the Priest, neither shall an hired seruant eat of the holie thing: But if the Priest bye any with money, he shall eate of it, also he that is borne in his house: they shall eate of his meate. If the Priests daughter also be maried vnto a stranger, she may not eate of the holy offrings. Notwithstanding if the Priests daughter be a widowe or diuorced, and haue no childe, but is returned vnto her fathers house shee shall eate of her fathers bread, as she did in her youth but there shall no stranger eate thereof.
If a man eate of the holie thing unwittingly, he shall put the fift part thereunto, and giue it vnto the Priest with the halowed thing. So they shall not defile the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer vnto the Lord, Neither cause the people to beare the iniquitie of their trespas, while they eate their holy thing: for I the Lord do halowe them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and to his sonnes, and to all the children of Israel, and say vnto them, Whosoever he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, that will offer his sacrifice for all their vowes, and for all their free offrings, which they vse to offer vnto the Lord for a burnt offring, Yee shall offer of your free minde a male without blemish of the beeues, of the sheepe, or of the goates. Ye shall not offer any thing that hath a blemish: for that shall not be acceptable for you. And whosoeuer bringeth a peace offring vnto ye Lord to accomplish his vowe, or for a free offring, of the beeues, or of the sheepe, his free offring shall bee perfect, no blemish shalbe in it. Blinde, or broken, or maimed, or hauing a wenne, or skiruie, or skabbed: these shall yee not offer vnto the Lord nor make an offring by fire of these vpon the altar of the Lord. Yet a bullocke, or a sheepe that hath any member superfluous, or lacking, such mayest thou present for a free offring, but for a vowe it shall not be accepted.
Ye shall not offer vnto ye Lord that which is bruised or crussched, or broken, or cut away, neither shall ye make an offringly thereof in your land, Neither of ye hand of a strager shall ye offer ye bread of your God of any of these, because their corruption is in them, there is a blemish in them: therefore shall they not be accepted for you. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, When a bullocke, or a sheepe, or a goate shall be brought foorth, itshalbe euen seuen daies vnder his damme: and from the eight day forth, itshalbe accepted for a sacrifice made by fire vnto the Lord. As for the cowe or the ewe, yee shall not kill her, and her yong both in one day. So when ye will offer a thanke offring vnto the Lord, ye shall offer willingly. The same day it shalbe eaten, yee shall leaue none of it vntill the morowe: I am the Lord. Therefore shall ye keepe my commandements and do them: for I am the Lord. Neither shall ye pollute mine holy Name, but I will be hallowed among the children of Israel. I the Lord sanctifie you, Which haue brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the Lord.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, The feastes of ye Lord which yee shall call ye holie assemblies, euen these are my feastes. Six daies shall worke be done, but in the seventh day shalbe the Sabbath of rest, an holie convocation: ye shall do no worke therein, it is the Sabbath of the Lord, in all your dwellings. These are the feastes of the Lord, and holie convocations, which yee shall proclaime in their seasons. In the first moneth, and in the fourteenth day of the moneth at euening shalbe ye Passeouer of the Lord. And on the fifteenth day of this moneth shalbe the feast of vnleauened bread vnto the Lord: seuen dayes ye shall eate vnleauened bread. In the first day yee shall haue an holy convocation: ye shall do no seruile worke therein. Also ye shall offer sacrifice made by fire vnto the Lord seuen daies, and in the seventh day shalbe an holie convocation: ye shall do no seruile worke therein. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, When ye be come into ye land which I giue vnto you, and reape the haruest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheafe of the first fruietes of your haruest vnto the Priest. And hee shall shake the sheafe before the Lord, that it may be acceptable for you: the morowe after the Sabbath, the Priest shall shake it. And that day when yee shake the sheafe, shall yee prepare a lambe without blemish of a yeere olde, for a burnt offring vnto the Lord: And the meate offring thereof shalbe two tenth deales of fine floure mingled with oyle, for a sacrifice made by fire vnto ye Lord of sweete sauour. and the drinke offring thereof the fourth part of an Hin of wine. And ye shall eat neither bread nor parched corne, nor greene eares vntill the selfe same day that ye haue brought an offring vnto your God: this shalbe a lawe for euer in your generations and in all your dwellings. Ye shall count also to you from the morowe after the Sabbath, euen from the day that yee shall bring the sheafe of the shake offring, seuen Sabbaths, they shalbe complete. Vnto ye morow after the seventh Sabbath shall ye nomber fiftie dayes: then yee shall bring a newe meate offring vnto the Lord. Ye shall bring out of your habitations bread for the shake offering: they shall be two loaves of two tenth deals of fine flour, which shall be baked with leaven for first fruits unto the Lord. Also ye shall offer with the bread seven lambs without blemish of one yeere old, and a yong bullocke and two rams: they shall be for a burnt offering unto the Lord, with their meate offerings and their drinke offerings, for a sacrifice made by fire of a sweete savour unto the Lord. Then ye shall prepare an hee goat for a sinne offering, and two lambs of one yeere old for peace offerings. And the Priest shall shake them to and from with the bread of the first fruits before the Lord, and with the two lambs: they shall be holy to the Lord, for the Priest. So ye shall proclaime the same day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you: ye shall do no servile worke therein: it shall be an ordinance for euer in all your dwellings, throughout your generations. And when you reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not rid cleane the corners of thy field when thou reapest, neither shalt thou make any aftergathering of thy harvest, but shalt leave them unto the poore and to the stranger: I am the Lord your God. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, In the seventh moneth, and in the first day of the moneth shall ye have a Sabbath, for the remembrance of blowing the trumpets, an holy convocation. Ye shall do no servile worke therein, but offer sacrifice made by fire vnto the Lord. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, The tenth also of this seventh moneth shall be a day of reconciliation: it shall be an holy convocation vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, and offer sacrifice made by fire vnto the Lord. And ye shall doe no worke that same day: for it is a day of reconciliation, to make an atonement for you before the Lord your God. For euery person that humbleth not himselfe that same day, shall euon be cut off from his people. And euery person that shall doe any work that same day, the same person also will I destroy from among his people. Ye shall do no maner worke therefore: this shall be a law for euer in your generations, throughout all your dwellings. This shall be vnto you a Sabbath of rest, and ye shall humble your soules: in the ninth day of the moneth at euon, from euon to euon shall ye celebrate your Sabbath. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, In the fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be for seven days the feast of Tabernacles unto the Lord. In the first day shall be an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile worke therein. Seven days ye shall offer sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord, and in the eighth day shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall offer sacrifices made by fire unto the Lord: it is the solemn assembly, ye shall do no servile worke therein. These are the feast of the Lord (which ye shall call holy convocations) to offer sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord, as burnt offering, and meat offering, sacrifice, and drink offerings, every one upon his day. Beside the Sabbaths of the Lord, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your free offerings, which ye shall give unto the Lord. But in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep an holy feast unto the Lord seven days: in the first day shall be a Sabbath: likewise in the eighth day shall be a Sabbath. And ye shall take you in the first day the fruit of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brooke, and shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days. So ye shall keep this feast unto the Lord seven days in the year, by a perpetually through your generations: in the seventh month shall ye keep it. Ye shall dwell in booths seven days: all that are Israelites born, shall dwell in booths, That your posterity may know that I have made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. So Moses declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the Lord.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Command the children of Israel that they bring unto thee pure olive oil beaten, for the light, to cause ye lamps to burn continually. Without the vail of the Testimonie, in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, shall Aaron dress them, both even and morning before the Lord always: this shall be a law for ever through your generations. He shall dress the lamps upon the pure Candlestick before the Lord perpetually. Also thou shalt take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes thereof: two tenth deals shall be in one cake. And thou shalt set them in two rows, six in a row upon the pure table before the Lord. Thou shalt also put pure incense upon the rowes, that in stead of the bread it may bee for a remembrance, and an offering made by fire to the Lord. Every Sabbath hee shall put them in rowes before the Lord euermore, receiving them of the children of Israel for an everlasting covenent. And the bread shalbe Aarons and his sonnes, and they shall eate it in the holie place: for it is most holie vnto him of the offerings of the Lord made by fire by a perpetuall ordinance. And there went out among the children of Israel the sonne of an Israelitish woman, whose father was an Egyptian: and this sonne of the Israelitish woman, and a man of Israel stroue together in the hoste. So the Israelitish womans sonne blasphemed the name of the Lord, and cursed, and they brought him vnto Moses (his mothers name also was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan) And they put him in warde, till he tolde them the minde of the Lord. Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Bring the blasphemer without the hoste, and let all that heard him, put their handes vpon his head, and let all the Congregation stone him. And thou shalt speake vnto the children of Israel, saying, Whosoeuer curseth his God, shall beare his sinne. And he that blasphemeth the name of the Lord, shalbe put to death: all the Congregation shall stone him to death: aswell the stranger, as he that is borne in the lande: when he blasphemeth the name of the Lord, let him beslaine. He also that killeth any man, he shall be put to death. And he that killeth a beast, he shall restore it, beast for beast. Also if a man cause any blemish in his neighbour: as he hath done, so shall it be done to him. Breache for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: such a blemish as he hath made in any, such shalbe repayed to him. And he that killeth a beast shall restore it: but he that killeth a man shall be slaine. Ye shall haue one lawe: it shalbe aswel for the stranger as for one borne in the countrey: for I am the Lord your God. Then Moses tolde the children of Israel, and they brought the blasphemer out of the hoste, and stoned him with stones: so the children of Israel did as the Lord had commanded Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses in mount Sinai, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, When ye shall come into the lande which I giue you, the lande shall keepe Sabbath vnto the Lord. Sixe yeeres thou shalt sowe thy field, and sixe yeeres thou shalt cut thy vineyarde, and gather the fruite thereof. But the seuenth yeere shalbe a Sabbath of rest vnto the lande: it shall be the Lordes Sabbath: thou shalt neither sowe thy fielde, nor cut thy vineyarde. That which groweth of it owne accorde of thy haruest, thou shalt not reape, neither gather the grapes that thou hast left vnlaboured: for it shalbe a yeere of rest vnto the lande. And the rest of the lande shall be meate for you, euen for thee, and for thy seruant, and for thy mayde, and for thy hired seruant, and for the stranger that soiourneth with thee: And for thy cattell, and for the beastes that are in thy lande shall all the encrease thereof be meate. Also thou shalt number seuen Sabbaths of yeeres vnto thee, euen seuen times seuen yeere: and the space of the seuen Sabbaths of yeeres will be vnto thee nine and fourtie yeere. Then thou shalt cause to blow the trumpet of the Iubile in the tenth day of the seuenth moneth: euen in the day of the reconciliation shall ye make the trumpet blowe, throughout all your lande. And ye shall halowe that yeere, euen the fiftieth yeere, and proclaime libertie in the lande to all the inhabitants thereof: it shalbe the Iubile vnto you, and ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession, and euery man shall returne vnto his familie. This fiftieth yeere shalbe a yeere of Iubile vnto you: ye shall not sowe, neither reape that which groweth of it selfe, neither gather the grapes thereof, that are left vnlaboured. For it is the Iubile, it shall be holy vnto you: ye shall eate of the encrease thereof out of the fielde. In the yeere of this Iubile, ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession. And when thou sellest ought to thy neighbour, or byest at thy neighbours hande, ye shall not oppresse one another: But according to the nomber of yeeres after the Iubile thou shalt bye of thy neighbour: also according to the nomber of the yeeres of the reuennes, he shall sell vnto thee. According to the multitude of yeeres, thou shalt increase the price thereof, and according to thefewnesse of yeeres, thou shalt abate the price of it: for the nomber of fruites doeth he sell vnto thee. Oppresse not ye therefore any man his neighbour, but thou shalt feare thy God: for I am the Lord your God. Wherefore ye shall obey mine ordinances, and keepe my lawes, and do them, and ye shall dwell in the land in safetie. And the lande shall giue her fruite, and ye shall eate your fill, and dwell therein in safetie. And if ye shall say, What shall we eate the seuenth yeere, for we shall not sowe, nor gather in our increase? I will sende my blessing vpon you in the sixt yeere, and it shall bring foorth fruite for three yeeres. And ye shall sowe the eight yeere, and eate of the olde fruite vntill the ninth yeere: vntill the fruite thereof come, ye shall eate the olde. Also the lande shall not be solde to be cut off from the familie: for the land is mine, and ye be but strangers and soiourners with me. Therefore in all the land of your possession ye shall graunt a redemption for the lande. If thy brother be impouerished, and sell his possession, then his redeemer shall come, euen his neere kinsman, and bye out that which his brother solde. And if he haue no redeemer, but hath gotten and founde to bye it out, Then shall he count the yeeres of his sale, and restore the ouerplus to the man, to whome he solde it: so shall he returne to his possession. But if he can not get sufficient to restore to him, then that which is solde, shall remaine in the hande of him that hath bought it, vntill the yere of the Iubile: and in the Iubile it shall come out, and he shall returne vnto his possession. Likewise if a man sell a dwelling house in a walled citie, he may bye it out againe within a whole yeere after it is solde: within a yeere may he bye it out. But if it be not bought out within ye space of a ful yeere, then the house that is in the walled citie, shalbe stablished, as cut off from the familie, to him that bought it, throughout his generations: it shall not goe out in the Iubile. But the houses of villages, which haue no walles round about them, shalbe es-teemed as the fielde of the countrey: they may be bought out againe, and shall goe out in the Iubile. Notwithstanding, the cities of the Leuites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Leuites redeeme at all seasons. And if a man purchase of the Leuites, the house that was solde, and the citie of their possession shall goe out in the Iubile: for the houses of the cities of the Leuites are their possession among the children of Israel. But the fielde of the suburbes of their cities, shall not be solde: for it is their perpetuall possession. Moreover, if thy brother be impouerished, and fallen in decay with thee, thou shalt relieue him, and as a stranger and soiourner, so shall he line with thee. Thou shalt take no vsurie of him, nor vantage, but thou shalt feare thy God, that thy brother may liue with thee. Thou shalt not give him thy money to usurie, nor lend him thy victuals for increase. I am the Lord your God, which have brought you out of the lande of Egypt, to give you the lande of Canaan, and to be your God. If thy brother also that dwelleth by thee, be impoverished, and be sold unto thee, thou shalt not compel him to serve as a bond servant, But as an hired servant, and as a sojourner he shall be with thee: he shall serve thee unto the year of the Jubilee. Then shall he depart from thee, both hee, and his children with him, and shall returne unto his familie, and unto the possession of his fathers shall he returne: For they are my servants, whom I brought out of the lande of Egypt: they shall not be sold as bondmen are sold. Thou shalt not rule ouer him cruelly, but shalt feare thy God. Thy bond servant also, and thy bond maid, which thou shalt have, shall be of the heathen that are round about you: of them shall ye bye servants and maids. And moreouer of the children of the strangers, that are sojourners among you, of them shall ye bye, and of their families that are with you, which they begate in your lande: these shall be your possession. So ye shall take them as inheritance for your children after you, to possess them by inheritance, ye shall use their labours for euer: but ouer your brethren the children of Israel ye shall not rule one ouer another with crueltie. If a sojourner or a stranger dwelling by thee get riches, and thy brother by him be impoverished, and sell him selfe unto the stranger or sojourner dwelling by thee, or to the stocke of the strangers familie, After that he is sold, he may be bought out: one of his brethren may bye him out, Or his vncle, or his vncles sonne may bye him out, or any of the kindred of his flesh among his familie, may redeeme him: either if he can get so much, he may bye him selfe out. Then he shall reckon with his buyer from the yeere that he was sold to him, unto the yere of Jubilee: and the money of his sale shall be according to the number of yeeres: according to the time of an hyred servant shall he be with him. If there be many yeeres behind, according to them he shall giue againe for his deliuerance, of the money that he was bought for. If there remaine but fewe yeeres vnto the yeere of Jubilee, then he shall count with him, and according to his yeeres giue againe for his redemption. He shall be with him yeere by yeere as an hired servant: he shall not rule cruelly ouer him in thy sight. And if he be not redeemed thus, he shall go out in the yeere of Iubile, he, and his children with him. For vnto me the children of Israel are servaunts: they are my servaunts, who I haue brought out of the land of Egypt: I am ye Lord your God.

Ye shall make you none idoles nor grauen image, neither reare you vp any pillar, neither shall ye set any image of stone in your land to bow downe to it: for I am the Lord your God. Ye shall keepe my Sabbaths, and reuerence my Sanctuarie: I am the Lord. If ye walke in mine ordinances, and keepe my commandements, and doe them, I will then sende you raine in due season, and the land shall yelde her increase, and the trees of the fielde shall guie her fruite. And your threshing shall reache vnto the vintage, and the vintage shall reache vnto sowing time, and you shall eate your bread in plenteousnesse, and dwell in your land safely. And I will sende peace in the land, and ye shall sleepe and none shall make you afraid: also I will rid euill beastes out of the lande, and the sworde shall not go through your lande. Also ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you vpon the sworde. And fiue of you shall chase an hundreth, and an hundreth of you shall put ten thousande to flight, and your enemies shall fall before you vpon the sworde. For I will haue respect vnto you, and make you encrease, and multiplie you, and establish my couenant with you. Ye shall eate also olde store, and cary out olde because of the newe. And I will set my Tabernacle among you, and my soule shall not lothe you. Also I will walke among you, and I wil be your God, and ye shalbe my people. I am the Lord your God which haue brought you out of the lande of Egypt, that yee should not be their bondmen, and I haue broken ye bonds of your yoke, and made you goe vpright. But if ye will not obey me, nor do all these commandements, And if ye shall despise mine ordinances, either if your soule abhorre my lawes, so that yee will not do all my commandements, but breake my couenant, Then wil I also do this vnto you, I wil appoint ouer you fearefulnes, a consumption, and the burning ague to consume the eyes, and make the heart heauie, and you shall sowe your seede in vaine: for your enemies shall eate it: And I will set my face against you, and ye shall fal before your enemies, and they that hate you, shall raigne ouer you, and yee shall flee when none pursueth you. And if ye wil not for these things obey me, then wil I punish you seuen times more, according to your sinnes. And I wil breake the pride of your power, and I will make your heauen as yron, and your earth as brasse: And your strength shalbe spent in vaine: neither shall your lande giue her increase, neither shall the trees of the land giue their fruite. And if ye walke stubburnly against me, and will not obey mee, I will then bring seuen times more plagues vpon you, according to your sinnes. I will also sende wilde beastes vpon you, which shall spoyle you, and destroy your cattell, and make you fewe in number: so your hye waies shalbe desolate. Yet if by these ye will not be reformed by me, but walke stubburnly against me, Then wil I also walke stubburnly against you, and I will smite you yet seuen times for your sinnes:

And I wil send a sword vpon you, that shall auenge the quarel of my covenent: and when ye are gathered in your cities, I wil send the pestilence among you, and ye shall be deliuered into the hand of the enemie. When I shall breake the staffe of your bread, then ten women shall bake your breade in one ouen, and they shall deliuer your bread againe by weight, and ye shall eate, but not be satisfied. Yet if ye will not for this obey mee, but walke against me stubburnly, Then will I walke stubburnly in mine anger against you, and I will also chastice you seuen times more according to your sinnes. And ye shall eate ye flesh of your sonnes, and the flesh of your daughters shall ye deououre.
I will also destroy your hye places, and cut away your images, and cast your carkeises vpon the bodies of your idoles, and my soule shall abhorre you. And I will make your cities desolate, and bring your Sanctuarie vnto nought, and will not smelll the sauour of your sweete odours. I will also bring the land vnto a wildernes, and your enemies, which dwell therein, shalbe astonished thereat. Also I wil scatter you among the heathen, and will drawe out a sworde after you, and your land shalbe waste, and your cities shalbe desolate. Then shall the land inioy her Sabbaths, as long as it lieth voide, and yee shalbe in your enemies land: then shall the land rest, and enioy her Sabbaths. All the dayes that it lieth voide, it shall rest, because it did not rest in your Sabbaths, when ye dwelt vpon it. And vpon them that are left of you, I will send euene a faintnes into their hearts in ye land of their enemies, and the sounde of a leafeshaken shall chase them, and they shall flee as fleeing from a sword, and they shall fall, no man pursuing them. They shall fall also one upon another, as before a sword, though none pursue them, and ye shall not be able to stand before your enemies: And ye shall perish among the heathen, and the land of your enemies shall eate you vp. And they that are left of you, shall pine away for their iniquitie, in your enemies landes, and for the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them also. Then they shall confesse their iniquitie, and the wickednes of their fathers for their trespasse, which they haue trespassed against mee, and also because they haue walked stubburnly against me. Therefore I wil walke stubburnly against them, and bring them into the land of their enemies: so then their uncircumcised hearts shalbe humbled, and then they shalt willingly beare the punishment of their iniquitie. Then I will remember my couenant with Iaakob, and my couenant also with Izhak, and also my couenant with Abraham will I remember, and will remember the land. The land also in the meane season shalbe left of them, and shall enjoye her Sabbaths while she lieth waste without them, but they shall willingly suffer the punishment of their iniquitie, because they despised my lawes, and because their soule abhorred mine ordinances. Yet notwithstanding this, when they shalbe in the lande of their enemies, I wil not cast them away, neither will I abhorre them, to destroy them vterly, nor to breake my couenant with them: for I am the Lord their God: But I will remember for them the couenant of olde when I brought them out of ye land of Egypt in the sight of the heathen that I might be their God: I am the Lord. These are the ordinances, and the iudgements, and the lawes, which the Lord made betweene him, and the children of Israel in mount Sinai, by the hand of Moses.

Moreouer the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, If any man shall make a vowe of a person vnto the Lord, by thy estimation, Then thy estimation shall bee thus: a male from twentie yeere olde vnto sixty yeere olde shalbe by thy estimation euen fifty shekels of siluer, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie. But if it be a female, then thy valuation shall be thirtie shekels. And from fiue yere old to twentie yere olde thy valuation shall be for the male twentie shekels, and for the female ten shekels. But from a moneth old vnnto fiue yere old, thy price of the male shall bee fiue shekels of siluer, and thy price of the female, three shekels of siluer. And from sixty yeere olde and aboue, if he be a male, then thy price shallbe fifteene shekels, and for the female ten shekels. But if he be poorer then thou hast esteemed him, then shall hee present himselfe before the Priest, and the Priest shall value him, according to the abilitie of him that vowed, so shall the Priest value him. And if it be a beast, whereof men bring an offering vnnto the Lord, all that one giueth of such vnnto the Lord, shalbe holy. He shall not alter it nor change it, a good for a badde, nor a badde for a good: and if hee change beast for beast, then both this and that, which was changed for it, shall be holy. And if it be any vnclene beast, of which men do not offer a sacrifice vnnto the Lord, hee shall then present the beast before the Priest. And the Priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad: and as thou valuest it, which art the Priest, so shall it bee. But if he will bye it againe, then hee shall giue the fift part of it more, aboue thy valuation. Also whe a man shall dedicate his house to be holy vnnto the Lord, then the Priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad, and as ye Priest shall prise it, so shall the value be. But if he that sanctified it, will redeeme his house, then hee shall giue thereto the fift part of money more then thy estimation, and it shalbe his. If also a man dedicate to the Lord any grounde of his inheritance, then shalt thou esteeme it according to the seede therof: an Homer of barlie seede shalbe at fiftie shekels of siluer. If he dedicate his field immediatly from the yeere of Iubile, it shall bee worth as thou doest esteeme it. But if hee dedicate his fielde after the Iubile, then the Priest shall reckon him the money according to ye yeeres that remaine vnnto the yere of Iubile, and it shalbe abated by thy estimation. And if he that dedicateth it, will redeeme the fielde, then he shall put the fift parte of the price, that thou esteemedst it at, thereunto, and it shall remaine his. And if he will not redeeme the fielde, but the Priest sell the fielde to another man, it shalbe redeemed no more. But the field shalbe holy to the Lord, whe it goeth out in the Iubile, as a fielde separate from common vses: the possession thereof shall be the Priests. If a man also dedicate vnnto ye Lord a fielde which he hath bought, which is not of the groud of his inheritance, Then 23 the Priest shall set the price to him, as thou esteemest it, vnto the yeere of Iubile, and he shall giue thy price the same day, as a thing holy vnto the Lord. But in the yeere of Iubile, the fielde shall returne vnto him, of whome it was bought: to him, I say, whose inheritance the land was. And all thy valuation shall bee 25 according to the shekel of the Sanctuarie: a shekel conteyneth twenty gerahs. Notwithstanding the first borne of the beasts, 26 because it is the Lords first borne, none shall dedicate such, be it bullocke, or sheepe; for it is the Lords. But if it be an vnkleane beast, then he shall redeeme it by thy valuation, and giue the fift part more thereto: and if it be not redeemed, then it shalbe solde, according to thy estimation. Notwithstanding, nothing 28 separate from the common vse that a man doeth separate vnto the Lord of all that he hath (whether it bee man or beast, or lande of his inheritance) may be solde nor redeemed: for every thing separate from the common vse is most holy vnto the Lord.
Nothing separate from the common vse, which shall be separate 29 from man, shalbe redeemed, but dye the death. Also all the tithe of the lande both of the seede of the ground, and of the fruie of the trees is the Lords: it is holy to the Lord. But 30 if a man will redeeme any of his tithe, he shall adde the fift part thereto. And every tithe of bullock, and of sheepe, and of all that goeth vnder the rod, the tenth shalbe holy vnto the Lord. He shall not looke if it be good or bad, neither shall he change it: els if he change it, both it, and that it was changed withall, shalbe holy, and it shall not be redeemed. These are 34 the commandements which the Lord commanded by Moses vnto the children of Israel in mount Sinai.
The Lord spake againe vnto Moses in the wildernesse of Sinai, in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, in the first day of the second moneth, in the second yere after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying,

Take ye the summe of all the Congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, and houshouldes of their fathers with the nomber of their names: to wit, all the males, man by man: From twenty yere olde and aboue, all that go forth to the warre in Israel, thou and Aaron shall number them, throughout their armies. And with you shalbe men of euery tribe, such as are the heads of the house of their fathers. And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you, of the tribe of Reuben, Elizur, the sonne of Shedeur: Of Simeon, Shelumiel the sonne of Zurishaddai: Of Iudah, Nahshon the sonne of Amminadab: Of Issachar, Nethaneel, the sonne of Zuar: Of Zebulun, Eliab, the sonne of Helon: Of the children of Ioseph: Of Ephraim, Elisama the sonne of Ammihud: Of Manasseh, Gamliel, the sonne of Pedahzur: Of Beiamin, Abida the sonne of Gideoni: Of Dan, Ahiezer, the sonne of Ammishaddai: Of Asher, Pagiel, the sonne of Ocran: Of Gad, Eliasaph, the sonne of Deuel: Of Naphtali, Ahira the sonne of Enan. These were famous in the Congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, and heads ouer thousands in Israel. The Moses and Aaron tooke these men which are expressed by their names. And they called all the Congregation together, in the first day of the second moneth, who declared their kindreds by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the nomber of their names, from twenty yere olde and aboue, man by man. As the Lord had commanded Moses, so he nombred them in the wildernesse of Sinai. So were the sons of Reuben Israel’s eldest son by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, man by man every male from twenty years old and above, as many as went forth to warre: The number of them, I say, of the tribe of Reuben, was sixe and fourtie thousande, and five hundred. Of the sons of Simeon by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, the summe thereof by the number of their names, man by man, every male from twenty yeere old and above, all that went forth to warre: The summe of them, I say, of the tribe of Simeon was nine and fiftie thousande, and three hundred. Of the sons of Gad by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went forth to warre: The number of them, I say, of the tribe of Gad was five and fourtie thousand, and six hundred and fiftie. Of the sons of Iudah by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went forth to warre: The number of them, I say, of the tribe of Iudah was three score and fourteene thousande, and sixe hundred. Of the sons of Issachar by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went forth to warre: The number of them also of the tribe of Issachar was foure and fiftie thousande and foure hundred. Of the sons of Zebulun by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went foorth to warre: The number of them also of the tribe of Zebulun was seuen and fiftie thousand and foure hundred. Of the sons of Ioseph, namely of the sons of Ephraim by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went foorth to warre: The number of them also of the tribe of Ephraim was fourtie thousande and five hundred. Of the sons of Manasseh by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty yeere old and above, all that went foorth to warre: The nober of the also of ye tribe of Manasseh was two and thirtie thousand and two hundreth. Of the sonnes of Benjamin by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twentie yeere olde and aboue, all that went foorth to warre: The number of them also of the tribe of Benjamin was fiue and thirtie thousande and foure hundreth. Of the sonnes of Dan by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twentie yeere olde and aboue, all that went foorth to warre: The number of the also of ye tribe of Dan was three score and two thousand and seue hudreth. Of the sonnes of Asher by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twentie yeere olde and aboue, all that went foorth to warre: The number of them also of ye tribe of Asher was one and fourtie thousand and fiue hudreth. Of the children of Naphtali, by their generations, by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twentie yeere olde and aboue, all that went to the warre: The number of them also of the tribe of Naphtali, was three and fiftie thousand, and foure hundreth. These are the summes which Moses, and Aaron nombred, and the Princes of Israel, the twelve men, which were every one for the house of their fathers. So this was all the summe of the sonnes of Israel, by the houses of their fathers, from twenty yeere olde and aboue, all that went to the warre in Israel. And all they were in number sixe hudreth and three thousande, fiue hundreth and fiftie. But the Leuites, after the tribes of their fathers were not nombred among them. For the Lord had spoken vnto Moses, and said, Onely thou shalt not number the tribe of Leui, neither take the summe of them among the children of Israel: But thou shalt appoynt the Leuites ouer the Tabernacle of the Testimonie, and ouer all the instruments thereof, and ouer all things that belong to it: they shall beare the Tabernacle, and all the instruments thereof, and shall minister in it, and shall dwell round about the Tabernacle. And when the Tabernacle goeth forth, the Leuites shall take it downe: and when the Tabernacle is to be pitched, ye Leuites shall set it vp: for the stranger that cometh neere, shalbe slaine. Also the children of Israel shall pitch their tentes, every man in his campe, and every man vnder his standerd throughout their armies. But the Leuites shall pitch rounde about the Tabernacle of the Testimonie, least vengeance come vpon the Congregation of the children of Israel, and the Leuites shall take the charge of the Tabernacle of the Testimonie. So the children of Israel did according to all that ye Lord had comanded Moses: so did they.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Aaron, saying, Ev- ery man of the children of Israel shall campe by his standerd, and vnder the ensigne of their fathers house: farre off about the Tabernacle of the Congregation shall they pitch. On the East side towarde the rising of the sunne, shall they of the standerd of the hoste of Iudah pitch according to their armies: and Nahshon the sonne of Amminadab shalbe captaine of the sonnes of Iu- dah. And his hoste and the number of the were seuentie and foure thousande and sixe hundreth. Next vnto him shall they of the tribe of Issachar pitch, and Nethaneel the sonne of Zuar shalbe the captaine of the sonnes of Issachar: And his hoste, and the number thereof were foure and fiftie thousand, and foure hundreth. Then the tribe of Zebulun, and Eliab the sonne of Helon, captaine ouer the sonnes of Zebulun: And his hoste, and the number thereof seuen and fiftie thousand and foure hun- dreth: The whole number of the hoste of Iudah are an hundreth fourescore and sixe thousande, and foure hundreth according to their armies: they shall first set foorth. On the South side shalbe ye standerd of the host of Reuben according to their armies, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Reuben shalbe Elizur the sonne of Shedeur. And his host, and the number thereof sixe and foutrye thousand and fiue hundreth. And by him shall the tribe of Simeon pitch, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Simeon shall be Shelumiel the sonne of Zurishaddai: And his hoste, and the number of them, nine and fiftie thousand and three hundreth. And the tribe of Gad, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Gad shall be Eliasaph the sonne of Deuel: And his host and the number of the were fiue and fourtye thousand, sixe hundreth and fiftie. All the number of the campe of Reuben were an hundreth and one and fiftie thousande, and foure hundreth and fiftie according to their armies, and they shall set foorth in the seconde place. Then the Tabernacle of the Congregation shall goe with the host of the Leuites, in the mids of the campe as they haue pitched, so shall they goe forwarde, every man in his order according to their standerds. The standerd of the campe of Ephraim shalbe toward the west according to their armies: and ye captaine ouer the sonnes of Ephraim shall be Elishama the sonne of Ammihud: And his host and the number of the were fortie thousand and fiue hundreth. And by him shalbe the tribe of Manasseh, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Manasseh shalbe Gamliel the sonne of Pedahzur: And his hoste and the number of them were two and thirtie thousand and two hundreth. And the tribe of Beniamin, and ye captaine ouer the sonnes of Beniamin shalbe Abidan the sonne of Gideoni: And his host, and the number of the were fiue and thirtie thousand and foure hundreth. All the number of the campe of Ephraim were an hundreth and eight thousande and one hundreth according to their armies, and they shall go in the third place. The standerd of the host of Dan shalbe toward the North according to their armies: and the captaine ouer the children of Dan shall be Ahiezer the sonne of Ammishaddai: And his host and the number of them were two and threescore thousand and seue hundreth. And by him shall the tribe of Asher pitch, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Asher shalbe Pagiel the sonne of Ocran. And his host and the number of them were one and fourtie thousand and fiue hundreth. Then the tribe of Naphtali, and the captaine ouer the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira the sonne of Enan: And his host and the number of them were three and fiftie thousand and foure hundreth. All the number of the host of Dan was an hundreth and seuen and fiftie thousand and sixe hundreth: they shall goe hinmost with their standerdes. These are the summes of the childre of Israel by ye houses of their fathers, all the number of ye host, according to their armies, six hundreth and three thousand, fiue hundreth and fiftie. But the Leuites were not nombred among the children of Israel, as the Lord had commanded Moses. And the children of Israel did according to all that the Lord had commanded Moses: so they pitched according to their standards, and so they journeyed every one with his families, according to the houses of their fathers.

These also were the generations of Aaron and Moses, in the day that the Lord spake with Moses in mount Sinai. So these are the names of the sons of Aaron, Nadab the first born, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. These are the names of the sons of Aaron the anointed Priests, whom Moses did consecrate to minister in the Priests office. And Nadab and Abihu died before the Lord, when they offered strange fire before the Lord in the wilderness of Sinai, and had no children: but Eleazar and Ithamar served in ye Priestes office in the sight of Aaron their father. Then the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Bring the tribe of Levi, and set the before Aaron the Priest that they may serve him. And take the charge with him, even the charge of the whole Congregation before the Tabernacle of the Congregation to do the service of the Tabernacle. They shall also keep all the instruments of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and have the charge of the children of Israel to do the service of the Tabernacle. And thou shalt give the Leuites vnto Aaron and to his sons: for they are given him freely from among the children of Israel. And thou shalt appoint Aaron and his sons to execute their Priestes office: and the stranger that commeth neere, shall be slain. Also the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Behold, I haue euen taken the Leuites from among the children of Israel: for all the first born that openeth the matrice among the children of Israel, and the Leuites shall be mine, Because all the first born are mine: for the same day, that I smote all the first born in the land of Egypt, I sanctified vnto me all the first born in Israel, both man and beast: mine they shall be: I am the Lord. Moreover, the Lord spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, Nomber the children of Levi after the houses of their fathers, in their families: euery male from a moneth olde and aboue shalt thou number. Then Moses numbered them according to the word of the Lord, as he was commanded. And these are the sons of Levi by their names, Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari. Also these are the names of the sons of Gershon by their families: Libni and Shimei. The sons also of Kohath by their families: Amram, and Izehar, Hebron, and Vzziel. And the sons of Merari by their families: Mahli and Mushii. These are the families of Levi, according to the houses of their fathers. Of Gershon came the familie of the Libnites, and the familie of the Shimeites: these are the families of the Gershonites. The summe whereof (after the number of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was counted seuen thousand and five hundreth. The families of the Gershonites shall pitch behind the Tabernacle westward. The captaine and auncient of the house of the Gershonites shalbe Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And the charge of the sonnes of Gershon in the Tabernacle of the Congregation shall be the Tabernacle, and the pauilion, the couering thereof, and the vaile of the dore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, And the hanging of the court, and the vaile of the doore of the court, which is neere the Tabernacle, and neere ye Altar round about, and the cordes of it for all the servise thereof. And of Kohath came the familie of the Amramites, and the familie of the Izeharites, and the familie of the Hebronites, and the familie of the Vzzielites: these are the families of the Kohathites. The number of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue was eight thousand and sixe hundreth, hauing the charge of the Sanctuarie. The families of the sonnes of Kohath shall pitch on the Southside of the Tabernacle. The captaine and auncient of the house, and families of the Kohathites shall be Elizaphan the sonne of Vzziel: And their charge shalbe the Arke, and the Table, and the Candlesticke, and the altars, and the instruments of the Sanctuarie that they minister with, and the vaile, and all that serueth thereto. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest shalbe chiefe captaine of the Leuites, hauing the ouersight of them that haue the charge of the Sanctuarie. Of Merari came the familie of the Mahlites, and the familie of the Mushites: these are the families of Merari. And the summe of them, according to the number of all the males, from a moneth olde and aboue was sixe thousand and two hundreth. The captaine and the ancient of the house of the families of Merari shalbe Zuriel the sonne of Abihail: they shall pitche on the Northside of the Tabernacle. And in ye charge and custodie of the sonnes of Merari shall be the boardes of the Tabernacle, and the barres thereof, and his pillars, and his sockets, and al the instruments thereof, and al that serueth thereto, With the pillars of the court round about, with their sockets, and their pins and their coardes. Also on the forefront of the Tabernacle toward the East, before the Tabernacle, I say, of the Congregation Eastwarde shall Moses and Aaron and his sonnes pitch, hauing the charge of the Sanctuarie, and the charge of the children of Israel: but the stranger that commeth neere, shall be slayne. The wholesumme of ye Leuites, which Moses and Aaron nombred at the commandement of the Lord throughout their families, euen al the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was two and twentie thousand. And the Lord said vnto Moses, Nomber all the first borne that are Males among the children of Israel, from a moneth old and aboue, and take the number of their names. And thou shalt take ye Leuites to me for all the first borne of the children of Israel (I am the Lord) and the cattell of the Leuites for all the first borne of the cattell of the children of Israel. And Moses nombred, as the Lord commanded him, all the first borne of the children of Israel. And all the first borne males rehearsed by name (from a moneth olde and aboue) according to their number were two and twentie thousand, two hundreth seuentie and three. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take the Leuites for all the first borne of the children of Israel, and the cattell of the Leuites for their cattel, and the Leuites shalbe mine, (I am the Lord) And for the redeeming of the two hundreth seuentie and three, (which are moe then the Leuites) of the first borne of the children of of Israel, Thou shalt also take fiue shekels for euery person: after the weight of the Sanctuarie shalt thou take it: ye shekel conteineth twenty gerahs.
And thou shalt giue the money, wherwith the odde number of them is redeemed, vnto Aaron and to his sonnes. Thus Moses took the redemption of the that were redeemed, being more then the Leuites: Of the first borne of the children of Israel tooke he the mony: eue a thousand three hundreth three score and fiue shekels after the shekel of the Sanctuarie. And Moses gau the money of them that were redeemed, vnto Aaron and to his sonnes according to the word of the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Aaron, saying, Take [4] 2 the summe of the sonnes of Kohath from among the sonnes of Leui, after their families, and houses of their fathers, From thirtie yeere olde and aboue, euen vntill fiftie yeere olde, all that enter into the assemblie to do the worke in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. This shall be the office of the sonnes of Kohath in the Tabernacle of the Congregation about the Holiest of all. When the hoste remoueth, then Aaron and his sonnes shall come and take downe the couering vaile, and shall couer the Arke of the Testimonie therewith. And they shall put thereon a couering of badgers skinnes, and shall spread vpon it a cloth altogether of blewe silke, and put to the barres thereof: And vpon ye table of shew bread they shall spread a cloth of blewe silke, and put thereon the dishes, and the incense cups, and goblets, and couerings to couer it with, and the bread shall be thereon continually: And they shall spread vpon them a couering of scarlet, and couer the same with a couering of badgers skinnes, and put to the barres thereof. Then they shall take a cloth of blewe silke, and couer the candlesticke of light with his lampes and his snuffers, and his snuffedishes, and al the oyle vessels thereof, which they occupie about it. So they shall put it, and all the instruments thereof in a couering of badgers skinnes, and put it vpon the barres. Also vpon the golden altar they shall spread a cloth of blewe silke, and couer it with a couering of badgers skinnes, and put to the barres thereof. And they shall take all the instruments of the ministerie wherewith they minister in the Sanctuarie, and put them in a cloth of blew silke, and couer the with a couering of badgers skinnes, and put them on the barres. Also they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth vpon it, And shall put vpon it all the instruments thereof, which they occupie about it: the censers, the flesshookes and the besomes, and the basens, eu'en al the instruments of the altar and they shall spread vpon it a couering of badgers skinnes, and put to the barres of it. And when Aaron and his sonnes haue made an ende of couering the Sanctuarie, and al the instruments of the Sanctuarie, at the removing of the host, afterward the sonnes of Kohath shall come to beare it, but they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they dye. This is the charge of the sonnes of Kohath in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And to the office of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest pertaineth the oyle for the light, and the sweete incense and the dayly meat offring, and the anointing oyle, with the ouersight of all the Tabernacle, and of all that therein is, both in the Sanctuarie and in all the instruments thereof. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and to Aaron, saying, Ye shall not cut off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Leuites: But thus do vnto them, that they may liue and not die, when they come neere to the most holy things: let Aaron and his sonnes come and appoynt them, euery one to his office, and to his charge. But let them not goe in, to see when the Sanctuarie is folden vp, lest they die. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take also ye summe of the sonnes of Gershon, euery one by the houses of their fathers throughout their families: From thirtie yere old and aboue, vntil fiftie yere old shalt thou nomber them, al that enter into the assemblie for to do seruice in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. This shall be the seruice of the families of the Gershonites, to serue and to beare. They shall beare the curtaines of the Tabernacle, and the Tabernacle of the Congregation, his couering, and the couering of badgers skinnes, that is on hie vpon it, and the vayle of the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation: The curtaines also of the court, and the vaile of the entring in of the gate of the court, which is neere the Tabernacle and neere the altar round about, with their cordes, and all the instruments for their seruice, and all that is made for them: so shall they serue. At the commandement of Aaron and his sonnes shall all the seruice of the sonnes of ye Gershonites bee done, in all their charges and in all their seruice, and ye shall appoynt them to keepe all their charges. This is the seruice of the families of the sonnes of the Gershonites in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and their watch shall be vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Priest. Thou shalt nomber the sonnes of Merari by their families, and by the houses of their fathers: From thirty yere olde and aboue, euen vnto fiftie yere olde shalt thou nomber the, all that enter into the assemblie, to doe the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And this is their office and charge according to all their servisue in the Tabernacle of the Congregation: the boardes of the Tabernacle with the barres thereof, and his pillars, and his sockets, And the pillars rounde about the court, with their sockets and their pinnes, and their cords, with all their instruments, euen for all their servisue: and by name ye shall recken the instruments of their office and charge. This is the servisue of the families of the sonnes of Merari, according to all their servisue in the Tabernacle of the Congregation vnder the hand of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Priest. Then Moses and Aaron and the princes of the Congregation nombred the sons of the Kohathites, by their families and by the houses of their fathers, From thirtie yeere olde and aboue, euen vnto fiftie yere olde, all that enter into the assemblie for the seruice of the Tabernacle of ye Congregation. So the nombers of the throughout their families were two thousand, seuen hundred and fiftie. These are the nombers of the families of the Kohathites, al that serue in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, which Moses and Aaron did nomber according to the commandement of the Lord by the hand of Moses. Also the nombers of the sonnes of Gershon throughout their families and houses of their fathers, From thirtie yere olde and vpwarde, euen vnto fiftie yere olde: all that enter into the assemblie for the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. So the nombers of them by their families, and by the houses of their fathers were two thousand sixe hundreth and thirtie. These are the nombers of the families of the sonnes of Gershon: of all that did seruice in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, whom Moses and Aaron did nomber according to the commandement of the Lord. The nombers also of the families of the sonnes of Merari by their families, and by the houses of their fathers, From thirtie yeere olde and vpwarde, euen vnto fiftie yere olde: all that enter into the assemblie for the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. So the nombers of them by their families were three thousand, and two hundreth. These are the summes of ye families of the sonnes of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron nombred according to the commandement of the Lord, by the hand of Moses. So all the nombers of the Leuites, which Moses, and Aaron, and the princes of Israel nombred by their families and by the houses of their fathers, From thirtie yeere olde and vpward, euen to fiftie yere olde, every one that came to doe his duetie, office, seruice and charge in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. So the nombers of them were eight thousand, fiue hundreth and foure score. According to the commandement of the Lord by the hand of Moses did Aaron nomber them, every one according to his seruice, and according to his charge. Thus were they of that tribe nombred, as the Lord commanded Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Command the children of Israel that they put out of the hoste every leper, and every one that hath an issue, and whosoeuer is defiled by the dead.
Both male and female shall ye put out: out of the hoste shall ye put them, that they defile not their tentes among whome I dwell. And the children of Israel did so, and put them out of the host, euene as the Lord had commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying; Speake vnto the children of Israel, When a man or woman shall commit any sinne that men commit, and transgresse against the Lord, when that person shall trespassee, Then they shall con-fesse their sinne which they haue done, and shall restore the domage thereof with his principall, and put the fift part of it more thereto, and shall giue it vnto him, against whom he hath trespassed. But if the man haue no kinseman, to whom he shoulde restore the domage, the domage shall be restored to the Lord for the Priests vse besides the ramme of the atonement, whereby hee shall make atonement for him. And euery offering of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring vnto the Priest, shalbe his: And euery mans halowed things shall bee his: that is, whatsoeuer any man giueth the Priest, it shalbe his. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, If any mans wife turne to euill, and commit a trespasse against him, So that an other man lie with her fleshly, and it bee hid from the eyes of her husband, and kept close, and yet she be defiled, and there be no witnesse against her, neither she taken with the maner, If he be moued with a ielous minde, so that he is ielous ouer his wife, which is defiled, or if he haue a ielous minde, so that he is ielous ouer his wife, which is not defiled, Then shall the man bring his wife to the Priest, and bring her offering with her, the tenth part of an Ephah of barly meale, but he shall not powre oyle vpon it, nor put incense thereon: for it is an offring of ielousie, an offring for a remembrance, calling the sinne to minde: And the Priest shall bring her, and set her before the Lord. Then the Priest shall take the holy water in an earthen vessel, and of the dust that is in the floore of the Tabernacle, euene the Priest shall take it and put it into the water. After, the Priest shall set the woman before the Lord, and vncover the womans head, and put the offring of the memorial in her hands: it is the ielousie offering, and the Priest shall haue bitter and cursed water in his hand, And the Priest shall charge her by an
and say vnto the woman, If no man haue lien with thee, neither thou hast turned to vnkleannesse from thine husband, be free from this bitter and cursed water. But if thou hast turned from thine husband, and so art defiled, and some man hath lyen with thee beside thine husband, (Then the Priest shall charge the woman with an othe of cursing, and the Priest shall say vnto the woman) The Lord make thee to be accursed, and detestable for the othe among thy people, and the Lord cause thy thigh to rot, and thy belly to swell: And that this cursed water may goe into thy bowels, to cause thy belly to swell, and thy thigh to rot. Then the woman shall answere, Amen, Amen. After, the Priest shall write these curses in a booke, and shall blot them out with the bitter water, And shall cause the woman to drinke ye bitter and cursed water, and the cursed water, turned into bitternesse, shall enter into her. Then the Priest shall take the ielousie offring out of the womans hand, and shall shake the offring before the Lord, and offer it vpon ye altar. And the Priest shall take an handfull of the offring for a memorial thereof, and burne it vpon the altar, and afterwarde make the woman drinke the water. When yee haue made her drinke the water, (if she bee defiled and haue trespassed against her husband) then shall the cursed water, turned into bitternesse, enter into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thigh shall rot, and the woman shall be accursed among her people. But if the woman bee not defiled, but bee cleane, she shalbe free and shall conceiue and beare. This is the law of ielousie, when a wife turneth from her husband and is defiled, Or when a man is moued with a ielous minde being ielous ouer his wife then shall he bring the woman before the Lord, and the Priest shall do to her according to al this lawe, And the man shalbe free from sinne, but this woman shall beare her iniquitie.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, When a man or a woman doeth separate themselves to vowe a vowe of a Nazarite to separate himselfe vnto the Lord, He shall abstaine from wine and strong drinke, and shall drinke no sowre wine nor sowre drinke, nor shall drinke any licour of grapes, neither shall eate fresh grapes nor dryed. As long as his abstinence endureth, shall hee eat nothing that is made of the wine of the vine, neither the kernels, nor the huske. While hee is separate by his vowe, the rasor shall not come vpon his head, vntill the dayes be out, in the which he separateth him selfe vnto the Lord, he shalbe holy, and shall let the lockes of the heare of his head growe. During the time that he separateth himselfe vnto the Lord, he shall come at no dead body: Hee shall not make himselfe vnunclean at the death of his father, or mother, brother, or sister: for the consecration of his God is vpon his head. All the dayes of his separation he shalbe holy to the Lord. And if any dye suddenly by him, or hee beware, then the head of his consecration shall be defiled, and he shall shaeve his head in the day of his clensing: in the seventh day he shall shaeve it. And in the eight day hee shall bring two turtlles, or two yong pigeons to the Priest, at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Then the Priest shall prepare the one for a sinne offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and shall make an atonement for him, because he sinned by the dead: so shall he halowe his head the same day, And he shall consecrate vnto the Lord the dayes of his separation, and shall bring a lambe of a yeere olde for a trespasse offering, and the first dayes shalbe voide: for his consecration was defiled. This then is the lawe of the Nazarite: When the time of his consecration is out, he shall come to the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, And hee shall bring his offering vnto the Lord, an hee lambe of a yeere olde without blemish for a burnt offering, and a shee lambe of a yere olde without blemish for a sinne offering, and a ramme without blemish for peace offerings, And a basket of vnleauened bread, of cakes of fine floure, mingled with oyle, and wafers of vnleauened bread anointed with oile, with their meate offering, and their drinke offerings: The which the Priest shall bring before the Lord, and make his sinne offering and his burnt offering. He shall prepare also the ram for a peace offering vnto the Lord, with the basket of vnleauened bread, and the Priest shall make his meate offering, and his drinke offering. And the Nazarite shall shaue the head of his consecration at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and shall take the heare of the head of his consecration, and put it in the fire, which is vnder the peace offering. Then the Priest shall take ye sodden shoulder of the ramme, and an vnleauened cake out of the basket, and a wafer vnleauened, and put them vpon the hands of the Nazarite, after he hath shauen his consecration.

20 And the Priest shall shake them to and from before the Lord: this is an holy thing for the Priest besides the shaken breast, and besides the heaue shoulder: so afterwarde the Nazarite may drinke wine. This is the Lawe of the Nazarite, which he hath vowed, and of his offering vnto the Lord for his consecration, besides that that he is able to bring: according to the vowe which he vowed, so shall he do after the lawe of his consecration. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron and to his sonnes, saying, Thus shall ye blesse the childe of Israel, and say vnto them, The Lord blesse thee, and keepe thee, The Lord make his face shine vpon thee, and be merciful vnto thee, The Lord lift vp his coutenance vpon thee, and giue thee peace. So they shall put my Name vpon the children of Israel, and I wil blesse them.

7 Nowe when Moses had finished the setting vp of the Tabernacle, and anointed it and sanctified it, and all the instruments thereof, and the altar with al the instruments thereof, and had anoynted them and sanctified them, Then the princes of Israel, heads ouer the houses of their fathers (they were the princes of the tribes, who were ouer them that were nombred) offred, And brought their offering before the Lord, sixe couered charets, and twelue oxen: one charet for two princes, and for every one an oxe, and they offred them before the Tabernacle. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take these of them, that they may be to doe the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and thou shalt giue them vnto the Leuites, to euery man according vnto his office. So Moses tooke the charets and the oxen, and gaue them vnto the Leuites: Two charets and foure oxen hee gaue to the sonnes of Gershon, according vnto their office. And foure charets and eight oxen hee gaue to the sonnes of Merari according vnto their office, vnder the hand of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Priest. But to the sonnes of Kohath he gaue none, because the charge of the Sanctuarie belonged to them, which they did beare vpon their shoulders. The princes also offered in the dedication for the altar in the day that it was anoynted: then the princes offered their offering before the altar. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, One prince one day, and an other prince an other day shall offer their offring, for the dedication of the altar.
So then on the first day did Nahshon the sonne of Amminadab of ye tribe of Iudah offer his offring. And his offring was a siluer charger of an hundreth and thirtie shekels weight, a siluer boule of seuenty shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both ful of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offring, An incense cup of gold of tenne shekels, ful of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offring, An hee goate for a sinne offring, And for peace offerings, two bullockes, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, and fiue lambes of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Nahshon the sonne of Amminadab. The second day Nethaneel, the sonne of Zuar, prince of the tribe of Issachar did offer: Who offred for his offring a siluer charger of an hundreth and thirtie shekels weight, a siluer boule of seuenty shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both ful of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offring, An incense cup of gold of ten shekels, ful of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offring, An hee goate for a sinne offring, And for peace offrings, two bullockes, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambes of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Nethaneel the sonne of Zuar. The third day Eliab the sonne of Helon prince of the children of Zebulun offred. His offring was a siluer charger of an hundreth and thirty shekels weight, a siluer boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both ful of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offring, A golden incense cup of ten shekels, ful of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offring, An hee goate for a sinne offring, And for peace offrings, two bullockes, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambes of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Eliab the sonne of Helon. The fourth day Elizur ye sonne of Shedeur prince of the children of Reuben offred. His offring was a siluer charger of an hundreth and thirty shekels weight, a siluer boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both ful of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offring, A golden incense cup of ten shekels, ful of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offring, An hee goate for a sinne offring, And for peace offrings, two bullockes, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambes of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Elizur the sonne of Shedeur. The fifth day Shelumiel the sonne of Zurishaddai, prince of the children of Simeon offered. His offering was a silver charger of an hundredth and thirtie shekels weight, a silver boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuary, both full of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offering. A golden incense cup of ten shekels, full of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offering, An hee goate for a sinne offering, And for a peace offering, two bullocks, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambes of a yere olde: this was the offering of Shelumiel the sonne of Zurishaddai. The sixth day Eliasaph the sonne of Deuel prince of the children of Gad offred. His offering was a silver charger of an hundredth and thirtie shekels weight, a silver boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both full of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offering. A golden incense cup of ten shekels, full of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde, for a burnt offering, An hee goate for a sinne offering, And for a peace offering, two bullocks, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambs of a yere olde: this was the offering of Eliasaph the sonne of Deuel. The seventh day Elishama the sonne of Ammiud prince of the children of Ephraim offered. His offering was a silver charger of an hundredth and thirtie shekels weight, a silver boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuary, both full of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offering. A golden incense cup of ten shekels, full of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offering, An hee goate for a sinne offering, And for a peace offering, two bullocks, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambs of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Elishama the sonne of Ammiud. The eighth day offred Gamliel the sonne of Pedazur, prince of the children of Manasseh. His offering was a silver charger of an hundredth and thirtie shekels weight, a silver boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuary, both full of fine floure, mingled with oyle, for a meate offering. A golden incense cup of ten shekels, full of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yeere olde for a burnt offering, An hee goate for a sinne offering, And for a peace offering, two bullocks, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambs of a yeere olde: this was the offering of Gamliel the sonne of Pedazur. The ninth day Abidan the sonne of Gideoni prince of the children of Benjamin offered. His offering was a silver charger of an hundredth and

The twelfth day Ahira the sonne of Enan, prince of the children of Naphtali offred, His offerning was a siluer charger of an hundreth and thirtie shekels weight, a siluer boule of seuentie shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuarie, both full of fine flour, mingled with oyle, for a meate offerning, A golden incense cup of ten shekels, ful of incense, A yong bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yere olde for a burnt offerning, An hee goate for a sinne offerning, And for peace offerings, two bullockes, fiue rammes, fiue hee goates, fiue lambes of a yere olde: this was the offering of Ahira the sonne of Enan. This was the dedication of the Altar by the princes of Israel, whe it was anointed: twelue chargers of siluer, twelue siluer boules, twelue incense cuppes of golde, Euer charger, conteining an hundreth and thirtie shekels of siluer, and euer boule seuentie: all the siluer vessell conteined two thousande and foure hundreth shekels, after the shekell of the Sanctuarie.

Twelue incense cups of gold ful of incense, conteining ten shekels every cup, after the shekell of the Sanctuarie: all the gold of the incense cups was an hundreth and twentie shekels. All the bullockes for the burnt offering were twelue bullocks, the rams twelue, the lambs of a yeere olde twelue, with their meate of-frings, and twelue hee goates for a sinne offring. And all the bullocks for the peace offerings were foure and twentie bullockes, the rammes sixtie, the hee goates sixtie, the lambes of a yeere olde sixtie: this was the dedication of the Altar, after that it was anointed. And when Moses went into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, to speake with God, he heard the voyce of one speaking vnto him from the Merciseat, that was vpon the Arke of the Testimonie betweene the two Cherubims, and he spake to him.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Aaron, and say vnto him, When thou lightest the lampes, the seuen lampes shall giue light towarde the forefront of the Candlesticke. And Aaron did so, lighting the lampes thereof towarde ye forefront of the Candlesticke, as the Lord had commanded Moses. And this was the worke of the Candlesticke, euen of golde beaten out with the hammer, both the shafte, and the flowres thereof was beaten out with the hammer: according to the paterne, which the Lord had shewed Moses, so made he the Candlesticke.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take the Leuites from among the children of Israel, and purifie them. And thus shalt thou doe vnto them, when thou purifiest them, Sprinkle water of purification vpon them, and let them shaue all their flesh, and wash their clothes: so they shalbe cleane. Then they shall take a yong bullocke with his meate offerning of fine floure, mingled with oyle, and another yong bullocke shalt thou take for a sinne offerning. Then thou shalt bring the Leuites before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and asseble all the Congregation of the children of Israel. Thou shalt bring the Leuites also before the Lord, and the children of Israel shall put their handes vpon the Leuites. And Aaron shall offer the Leuites before the Lord, as a shake offerning of ye childre of Israel, that they may execute the seruice of the Lord. And the Leuites shall put their handes vpon the heades of the bullockes, and make thou the one a sinne offring, and the other a burnt offring vnto the Lord, that thou mayest make an atonement for the Leuites. And thou shalt set the Leuites before Aaron and before his sonnes, and offer the as a shake offring to the Lord. Thus thou shalt separate the Leuites from among the children of Israel, and the Leuites shall be mine. And afterwarde shall the Leuites goe in, to serue in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and thou shalt purifie them and offer them, as a shake offering. For they are freely giuen vnto me from among the children of Israel, for such as open any wombe: for all the first borne of the children of Israel haue I taken them vnto me. For all the first borne of the children of Israel are mine, both of man and of beast: since the day that I smote euery first borne in the land of Egypt, I sanctified them for my selfe. And I haue taken the Leuites for all the first borne of the children of Israel, And haue giuen the Leuites as a gift vnto Aaron, and to his sonnes from among the children of Israel, to do the seruice of the children of Israel in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Israel, that there be no plague among the children of Israel, when the children of Israel come neere vnto the Sanctuarie. Then Moses and Aaron and all the Cogregation of the children of Israel did with the Leuites, according vnto all that the Lord had commanded Moses concerning the Leuites: so did the children of Israel vnto them. So the Leuites were purified, and washed their clothes, and Aaron offred them as a shake offring before the Lord, and Aaron made an atonement for them, to purifie them. And after that, went the Leuites in to doe their seruice in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, before Aaron and before his sonnes: as the Lord had commanded Moses concerning the Leuites, so they did vnto them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, This also belongeth to the Leuites: from fiuie and twen-tie yeere olde and vpwarde, they shall goe in, to execute their office in the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And after the age of fiftie yeere, they shall cease from executing the office, and shall serue no more: But they shall minister with their brethre in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, to keepe things committed to their charge, but they shall doe no seruice: thus shalt thou doe vnto the Leuites touching their charges.
And the Lord spake vnto Moses in the wildernes of Sinai, in the first moneth of the second yeere, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, The children of Israel shall also celebrate the Passeouer at ye time appointed thereunto. In the fourteenth day of this moneth at euen, ye shall keepe it in his due season: according to all the ordinances of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof shall ye keepe it. Then Moses spake vnto the children of Israel, to celebrate the Passeouer. And they kept the Passeouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth at euen in the wildernes of Sinai: according to all that the Lord had comanded Moses, so did ye children of Israel. And certaine men were defiled by a dead man, that they might not keepe the Passeouer the same day: and they came before Moses and before Aaron the same day. And those men said vnto him, We are defiled by a dead man: wherefore are wee kept backe that we may not offer an offering vnto the Lord in the time thereunto appointed among the children of Israel? Then Moses saide vnto them, Stande still, and I will heare what the Lord will commande concerning you. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say, If any amog you, or of your posteritie shalbe vncleane by ye reason of a corps, or be in a log iourney, he shall keepe the Passeouer vnto ye Lord. In the fourteenth day of the second moneth at euen they shall keepe it: with vnleauened bread and sowre herbes shall they eate it. They shall leaue none of it vnto the morning, nor breake any bone of it: according to all the ordinance of the Passeouer shall they keepe it. But the man that is cleane and is not in a iourney, and is negligent to keepe the Passeouer, the same person shalbe cut off from his people: because he brought not the offring of the Lord in his due season, that man shall beare his sinne. And if a stranger dwell among you, and wil keepe the Passeouer vnto the Lord, as the ordinance of the Passeouer, and as the maner thereof is, so shall he do: ye shall haue one lawe both for the stranger, and for him that was borne in the same lande. And when the Tabernacle was reared vp, a cloude covered the Tabernacle, namely the Tabernacle of the Testimonie: and at euen there was vpon the Tabernacle, as the appearance of fire vntill the morning. So it was alway: the cloude covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night. And when the cloude was taken vp from the Tabernacle, then afterwarde the children of Israel iourneyed: and in the place where the cloude abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents. At the commandement of the Lord the children of Israel iourneyed, and at the comandement of the Lord they pitched: as long as the cloude abode vpon the Tabernacle, they lay still. And when the cloude taryed stil vpon the Tabernacle a long time, the childre of Israel kept the watch of the Lord, and iourneyed not. So when the cloud abode a few dayes vpon the Tabernacle, they abode in their tents according to the comandement of ye Lord: for they iourneyed at the commandement of the Lord. And though the cloud abode vpon the Tabernacle from euen vnto the morning, yet if the cloude was taken vp in the morning, then they iourneyed: whether by daye or by night the cloude was taken vp, then they iourneyed. Or if the cloude taryed two dayes or a moneth, or a yeere vpon the Tabernacle, abiding thereon, the children of Israel abode still, and iourneyed not: but when it was taken vp, they iourneyed. At the commandement of the Lord they pitched, and at the commandement of the Lord they iourneyed, keeping the watch of the Lord at the commandement of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Make thee two trum-pets of siluer: of an whole piece shalt thou make the, that thou mayest vse them for the assembling of the Congregation, and for the departure of the campe. And when they shall blowe with them, all the Congregation shall assemble to thee before the doore of the Tabernacle of the Cogregation. But if they blowe with one, then the princes, or heades ouer the thousands of Israel shall come vnto thee. But if ye blow an alarme, then the campe of the that pitch on the East part, shall go forward. If ye blowe an alarme the second time, then the hoste of them that lie on the Southside shall march: for they shall blowe an alarme when they remoue. But in assembling the Congregation, ye shall blowe without an alarme. And the sonnes of Aaron the Priest shall blowe the trumpets, and ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generations. And when ye goe to warre in your lande against the enemie that vexeth you, ye shall blowe an alarme with the trumpets, and ye shall bee remembred before the Lord your God, and shalbe saued from your enemies. Also in the day of your gladnesse, and in your feast dayes, and in the beginning of your moneths, ye shall also blow the trumpets ouer your burnt sacrifices, and ouer your peace offrings, that they may be a remembrance for you before your God: I am the Lord your God.  And in the seconde yeere, in the seconde moneth, and in the twentieth day of the moneth the cloude was taken vp from the Tabernacle of the Testimonie.  And ye children of Israel departed on their iourneys out of the desart of Sinai, and the cloud rested in the wildernesse of Paran.  So they first tooke their journey at the comandement of the Lord, by ye hand of Moses.
In the first place went the standard of the hoste of the children of Iudah, according to their armies: and Nahshon the sonne of Amminabad was ouer his band.  And ouer the band of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethaneel ye sonne of Zuar.  And ouer the band of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the sonne of Helon.  When the Tabernacle was taken downe, then the sonnes of Gershon, and the sonnes of Merari went forward bearing the Tabernacle.  After, departed the standard of the hoste of Reuben, according to their armies, and ouer his band was Elizur the sonne of Shedeur.  And ouer the band of the tribe of ye children of Simeon was Shelumiel the sonne of Shurishaddai.  And ouer the bande of the tribe of ye children of Gad was Eliasaph the sonne of Deuel.  The Kohathites also went forward and bare the Sanctuarie, and the former did set vp the Tabernacle against they came.  Then the standerd of the hoste of the children of Ephraim went forward according to their armies, and ouer his bande was Elishama the sonne of Ammiuud.  And ouer the band of the tribe of ye sonnes of Manasseh was Gamlieel the sonne of Pedazur.  And ouer the band of ye tribe of the sonnes of Beniamin was Abidan the sonne of Gideoni.  Last, the standerd of the hoste of the children of Dan marched, gathering all ye hostes according to their armies: and ouer his bande was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammishaddai.  And ouer the bande of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the sonne of Ocran.  And ouer the bande of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira ye sonne of Enan.  These were the remouings of the children of Israel according to their armies, whe they marched.  After, Moses said vnto Hobab ye sonne of Reuel the Midianite, ye father in law of Moses, We go into the place, of which ye Lord said, I will giue it you: Come thou with vs, and we wil doe thee good: for ye Lord hath promised good vnvo Israel. And he answered him, I will not goe: but I will depart to mine owne countrey, and to my kindred. Then he sayd, I pray thee, leaue vs not: for thou knowest our camping places in the wildernesse: therefore thou mayest be our guide. And if thou go with vs, what goodnes the Lord shall shew vnvo vs, the same will we shewe vnvo thee. So they departed from the mount of the Lord, three dayes iourney: and the Arke of the covenante of the Lord went before them in the three dayes iourney, to searche out a resting place for them. And the cloude of the Lord was vpon the by day, when they went out of the campe. And when the Arke went forwarde, Moses saide, Rise vp, Lord, and let thine enemies bee scattered, and let them that hate thee, flee before thee. And when it rested, hee sayde, Returne, O Lord, to the many thousands of Israel.

When the people became murmurers, it displeased the Lord: and the Lord heard it, therefore his wrath was kindled, and the fire of the Lord burnt among them, and consumed the vtmost parte of the hoste. Then the people cryed vnvo Moses: and when Moses praied vnvo the Lord, the fire was quenched. And he called the name of that place Taberah, because the fire of the Lord burnt among them. And a number of people that was amog them, fell a lusting, and turned away, and the children of Israel also wept, and saide, Who shall giue vs flesh to eate? We remember the fish which we did eat in Egypt for nought, the cucumbers, and the pepons, and the leekes, and the onions, and the garleke. But now our soule is dryed away, we can see nothing but this Man. (The Man also was as coriander seeede, and his colour like the colour of bdelium. The people went about and gathered it, and ground it in milles, or beat it in morters, and baked it in a cauldron, and made cakes of it, and the taste of it was like vnvo the taste of fresh oyle. And when the dewe fell downe vpon the hoste in the night, the Man fell with it) Then Moses heard the people weepe throughout their families, euery man in the doore of his tent, and the wrath of the Lord was grieuously kindled: also Moses was grieued. And Moses saide vnvo the Lord, Wherefore hast thou vexed thy servant? and why haue I not found fauour in thy sight, seeing thou hast put the charge of al this people vpon mee? Haue I conceiued al this people? or haue I begotte them, that thou shouldest say vn to me, Cary them in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth the sucking childe) vn to the lande, for the which thou swarest vn to their fathers? Where should I haue flesh to giue vn to al this people? for they weepe vn to me, saying, Giue vs flesh that we may eate. I am not able to beare al this people alone, for it is too heauie for me. Therefore if thou deale thus with mee, I pray thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, kill me, that I behold not my miserable. Then the Lord said vn to Moses, Gather vn to me seuetie men of ye Elders of Israel, whome thou knowest, that they are the Elders of the people, and gouernors ouer them, and bring them vn to the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and let them stand there with thee, And I will come downe, and talke with thee there, and take of the Spirite, which is vpon thee, and put vpon them, and they shall beare the burthen of the people with thee: so thou shalt not beare it alone. Furthermore thou shalt saye vn to the people, Bee sanctified against to morowe, and yee shall eate flesh: for you haue wept in the eares of the Lord, saying, Who shall giue vs flesh to eate? for we were better in Egypt: therefore the Lord will giue you flesh, and ye shall eate. Ye shall not eat one day nor two daies, nor fiue daies, neither ten daies, nor twentie dayes, But a whole moneth, vntill it come out at your nostrels, and bee lothesome vn to you, because ye haue contemned the Lord, which is among you, and haue wept before him, saying, Why came we hither out of Egypt? And Moses said, Six hundreth thousande footmen are there of the people, among whom I am: and thou saiest, I will giue them flesh, that they may eate a moneth long. Shall the sheepe and the beeues be slaine for them, to finde them? either shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them to suffice them? And the Lord sai d vnto Moses, Is the Lordes hand shortened? thou shalt see now whether my word shall come to passe vn to thee, or no. So Moses went out, and told the people the wordes of the Lord, and gathered seuentie men of the Elders of the people, and set them round about the Tabernacle. Then the Lord came downe in a cloude, and spake vn to him, and tooke of the Spirit that was vpon him, and put it vpon the seuentie Ancient men: and when the Spirit rested vpon them, then they prophecied, and did not cease. But there remained two of the men in the hoste: the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad, and the Spirit rested vpon them, (for they were of them that were written, and went not out vnto the Tabernacle) and they prophesied in the hoste. Then there ranne a yong man, and tolde Moses, and saide, Eldad and Medad doe prophesie in the hoste. And Ioshua the sonne of Nun the servaunt of Moses one of his yong men answered and said, My lord Moses, forbid them. But Moses saide vnto him, Enuiest thou for my sake? yea, would God that all the Lordes people were Prophets, and that the Lord woulde put his Spirit vpon them. And Moses returned into the hoste, he and the Elders of Israel. Then there went foorth a winde from the Lord, and brought quailes from the Sea, and let them fall vpon the campe, a dayes iourney on this side, and a dayes iourney on the other side, round about the hoste, and they were about two cubites aboue the earth.
Then the people arose, al that day, and all the night, and all the next day, and gathered the quailes: he that gathered the least, gathered ten Homers full, and they spred them abroade for their vse round about the hoste. While the flesh was yet betweene their teeth, before it was chewed, even the wrath of the Lord was kindled against the people, and the Lord smote the people with an exceeding great plague. So the name of the place was called, Kibroth-hattaauah: for there they buried the people that fell a lusting. From Kibroth-hattaauah ye people tooke their iourney to Hazeroth, and abode at Hazeroth.

Afterward Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses, because of the woman of Ethiopia whome hee had maried (for hee had marrried a woman of Ethiopia) And they saide, What? hath the Lord spoken but onely by Moses? hath he not spoken also by vs? and the Lord heard this. (But Moses was a verie meeke man, aboue all the men that were vpon the earth) And by and by the Lord sayd vnto Moses, and vnto Aaron, and vnto Miriam, come out yee three vnto the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and they three came forth. Then the Lord came downe in the pillar of the cloude, and stoode in the doore of the Tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both came forth. And hee saide, Heare nowe my wordes, If there be a Prophet of the Lord among you, I will be knowen to him by a vision, and will speake vnto him by dreame. My seruant Moses is not so, who is faithfull in all mine house. Vnto him will I speake mouth to mouth, and by vision, and not in darke wordes, but hee shall see the similitude of the Lord. Wherefore then were ye not afraid to speake against my seruant, euen against Moses? Thus the Lord was very angrie with them, and departed. Also the cloude departed from the Tabernacle: and beholde, Miriam was leprous like snowe: and Aaron looked vpon Miriam, and beholde, she was leprous. Then Aaron saide vnto Moses, Alas, my Lord, I beseech thee, lay not the sinne vpon vs, which we haue foolishly committed and wherein we haue sinned. Let her not, I pray thee, be as one dead, of whome the flesh is halfe consumed, when he commeth out of his mothers wombe. Then Moses cryed vnto the Lord, saying, O God, I beseech thee, heale her nowe. And the Lord said vnto Moses, If her father had spit in her face, shoulde she not haue bene ashamed seuen dayes? let her be shut out of the hoste seuen dayes, and after she shall bee receiued.
So Miriam was shut out of the hoste seuen dayes, and the people remooued not, till Miriam was brought in againe.

Then afterwarde the people remooued from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wildernesse of Paran. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Sende thou men out to search the lande of Canaan which I giue vnto the children of Israel: of euery tribe of their fathers shall ye sende a man, such as are all rulers among them. Then Moses sent them out of the wildernes of Paran at the commandement of the Lord: all those men were heads of the children of Israel. Also their names are these: of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the sonne of Zaccur: Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the sonne of Hori: Of the tribe of Iudah, Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh: Of the tribe of Issachar, Igal the sonne of Ioseph: Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oshea the sone of Nun: Of the tribe of Beniamin, Palti the sone of Raphu: Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the sone of Sodi: Of the tribe of Ioseph, to wit, of the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the sonne of Susi:
Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the sonne of Gemalli: Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the sonne of Michael: Of the tribe of Naph-tali, Nahbi the sonne of Vophsi: Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the men, which Moses sent to spie out the lande: and Moses called ye name of Oshea the sonne of Nun, Iehoshua. So Moses sent them to spie out the lande of Canaan, and said vnto them, Go vp this way toward the South, and go vp into the moutaines, And consider the land what it is, and the people that dwel therein, whether they be strong or weake, either fewe or many, Also what the lande is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad: and what cities they be, that they dwell in, whether they dwell in tents, or in walled townes: And what the land is: whether it be fat or leane, whether there be trees therein, or not. And be of good courage, and bring of the fruite of the lande (for then was the time of the first ripe grapes) So they went vp, and searched out the lande, from the wildernes of Zin vnto Rehob, to go to Hamath, And they ascended toward the South, and came vnto Hebron, where were Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmai, the sonnes of Anak. And Hebron was built seuen yeere before Zoan in Egypt. Then they came to the riuer of Eshcol, and cut downe thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it vpon a barre betweene two, and brought of the pomegranates and of the figges. That place was called the riuer Eshcol, because of the cluster of grapes, which the children of Israel cut downe thence. Then after fourtie dayes, they turned againe from searching of the land. And they went and came to Moses and to Aaron and vnto al the Congregation of the children of Israel, in the wildernesse of Paran, to Kadesh, and brought to the, and to all the Congregation tydings, and shewed them the fruite of the lande. And they tolde him, and saide, We came vnto the land whither thou hast sent vs, and surely it floweth with milke and honie: and here is of the fruite of it. Neuerthelesse the people be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled and exceeding great: and moreouer, we sawe the sonnes of Anak there. The Amalekites dwell in the South countrey, and the Hittites, and the Iebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountaines, and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Iorden. Then Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and saide, Let vs go vp at once, and possesse it: for vndoubtedly we shall overcome it. But the men, that went vp with him, saide, we be not able to goe vp against the people: for they are stronger then we. So they brought vp an euill report of the land which they had searched for the children of Israel, saying, The lande which we haue gone through to search it out, is a land that eateth vp the inhabitants thereof: for all the people that we sawe in it, are men of great stature.

For there we sawe gyants, the sonnes of Anak, which come of the gyants, so that we seemed in our sight like grashoppers: and so wee were in their sight.

Then all ye Congregation lifted vp their voice, and cryed: and the people wept that night, And all the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron: and the whole assemblie said vnto them, Would God we had died in the land of Egypt, or in this wildernes: would God we were dead. Wherefore nowe hath the Lord brought vs into this lande to fall vpon the sworde? our wifes, and our children shall be a pray: were it not better for vs to returne into Egypt? And they said one to another, Let vs make a Captaine and returne into Egypt. Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assemblie of the Congregation of the children of Israel. And Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh two of them that searched the lande, rent their clothes, And spake vnto all the assemblie of the childre of Israel, saying, The land which we walked through to search it, is a very good lande. If the Lord loue vs, he will bring vs into this land, and giue it vs, which is a land that floweth with milke and honie. But rebell not ye against the Lord, neither feare ye the people of the land: for they are but bread for vs: their shielde is departed from the, and the Lord is with vs, feare them not. And all the multitude saide, Stone them with stones: but the glory of the Lord appeared in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, before all the children of Israel. And the Lord said vnto Moses, How long will this people prouoke me, and howe long will it be, yer they beleue me, for al the signes which I haue shewed among them? I will smite them with the pestilence and destroy them, and will make thee a greater nation and mightier then they. But Moses saide vnto the Lord, When the Egyptians shall heare it, (for thou broughtest this people by thy power from among them) Then they shall say to the inhabitants of this land, (for they haue heard that thou, Lord, art among this people, and that thou, Lord, art seene face to face, and that thy cloude standeth ouer them, and that thou goest before them by day time in a pillar of a cloude, and in a pillar of fire by night) That thou wilt kill this people as one man: so the heathen which have heard the fame of thee, shall thus say. Because the Lord was not able to bring this people into the lande, which he sware vnto them, therefore hath he slaine them in the wilder-nesse. And now, I beseech thee, let the power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken, saying, The Lord is slowe to anger, and of great mercie, and forgiiuing iniquitie, and sinne, but not making the wicked innocent, and visiting the wickednes of the fathers vpon the children, in the thirde and fourth generation: Be mercifull, I beseech thee, vnto the iniquitie of this people, according to thy great mercie, and as thou hast forgiiuen this people from Egypt, euen vntill nowe. And the Lord said, I haue forgiiuen it, according to thy request. Notwithstanding, as I liue, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord. For all those men which haue seene my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egypt, and in the wildernes, and haue tempted me this ten times, and haue not obeyed my voyce, Certainly they shall not see the lande, whereof I sware vnto their fathers: neither shall any that prouoke me, see it. But my seruant Caleb, be-cause he had another spirite, and hath followed me stil, euen him will I bring into the lande, whither he went, and his seede shall inherit it. Nowe the Amalekites and the Canaanites remaine in the valley: wherefore turne backe to morowe, and get you into the wildernesse, by the way of the red Sea. After, the Lord spake vnto Moses and to Aaron, saying, How long shall I suf-fer this wicked multitude to murmure against me? I haue heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmure against me. Tell them, As I liue (saith the Lord) I wil surely do vnto you, euen as ye haue spoken in mine eares. Your carkeises shall fall in this wildernes, and all you that were counted through all your nombers, from twentie yeere olde and aboue, which haue murmured against me, Ye shall not doubtles come into the lande, for the which I lifted vp mine hande, to make you dwell therein, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun. But your children, (which ye said shoulde be a pray) them will I bring in, and they shall knowe the lande which ye haue refused: But euen your carkeises shall fall in this wildernes, And your children shall wander in the wildernesse, fourtie yeeres, and shall beare your whoredomes, vntill your carkeises be wasted in the wildernesse. After the number of the dayes, in the which ye searched out the lande, euen fourtie dayes, every day for a yeere, shall ye beare your iniquity, for fourtie yeeres, and ye shall feele my breach of promise. I the Lord haue said, Certainly I will doe so to all this wicked company, that are gathered together against me: for in this wildernesse they shall be consumed, and there they shall die. And the men which Moses had sent to search the land (which, when they came againe, made all the people to murmure against him, and brought vp a slander vpon the lande) Euen those men that did bring vp that vile slander vpon the land, shall die by a plague before the Lord. But Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh, of those men that went to search the land, shall liue. Then Moses tolde these sayings vnto all the children of Israel, and the people sorowed greatly. And they rose vp earely in the morning, and gate them vp into the toppe of the mountaine, saying, Loe, we be readie, to goe vp to the place which the Lord hath promised: for wee haue sinned. But Moses said, Wherefore transgresse yee thus the commandement of the Lord? it will not so come well to passe. Goe not vp (for the Lord is not among you) lest ye be ouerthrowe before your enemies. For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye shall fall by the sworde: for in as much as ye are turned away from the Lord, the Lord also will not be with you. Yet they presumed obstinately to goe vp to the top of the mountaine: but the Arke of the covenant of the Lord, and Moses departed not out of the campe. Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites, which dwelt in that mountaine, came downe and smote them, and consumed them vnto Hormah.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, Whe ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I giue vnto you, And will make an offring by fire vnto the Lord, a burnt offring or a sacrifice to fulfil a vowe, or a free offring, or in your feastes, to make a sweete sauour vnto the Lord of the hearde, or of the flocke. Then let him that offereth his offring vnto the Lord, bring a meate offring of a tenth deale of fine flowre, mingled with the fourth part of an Hin of oyle. Also thou shalt prepare ye fourth part of an Hin of wine to be powred on a lambe, appointed for the burnt offring or any offring. And for a ram, thou shalt for a meat offring, prepare two tenth deales of fine floure, mingled with the third part of an Hin of oyle. And for a drinke-offering, thou shalt offer the third part of an Hin of wine, for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And when thou preparest a bullocke for a burnt offering, or for a sacrifice to fulfill a vowe or a peace offering to the Lord, Then let him offer with ye bullocke a meate offering of three tenth deales of fine floure, mingled with halfe an Hin of oyle. And thou shalt bring for a drinke offering halfe an Hin of wine, for an offering made by fire of a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. Thus shall it be done for a bullocke, or for a ram, or for a lambe, or for a kid. According to the number that yee prepare to offer, so shall yee doe to every one according to their number. All that are borne of the countrey, shall do these things thus, to offer an offering made by fire of sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And if a stranger soiourne with you, or whosoeuer bee among you in your generations, and will make an offering by fire of a sweete sauour vnto the Lord, as ye do, so hee shall doe. One ordinance shalbe both for you of the Congregation, and also for the stranger that dwelleth with you, euene an ordinance for euer in your generations: as you are, so shall the stranger bee before the Lord. One Lawe and one maner shall serue both for you and for the stranger that soiourneth with you. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, When ye be come into the lande, to the which I bring you, And when ye shall eate of the bread of the land, ye shall offer an heaue offering vnto ye Lord. Ye shall offer vp a cake of the first of your dowe for an heaue offering: as the heaue offering of the barne, so ye shall lift it vp. Of the first of your dowe ye shall giue vnto the Lord an heaue offering in your generations. And if ye haue erred, and not obserued all these commande- ments, which the Lord hath spoken vnto Moses, Euen all that the Lord hath commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the first day that the Lord commanded Moses, and hence forward among your generations: And if so be that ought be committed ignorantly of the Congregation, then all ye Congregatio shall giue a bullocke for a burnt offering, for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord, with the meat offering and drinke offering thereto, according to the maner, and an hee goate for a sinne offering. And the Priest shall make an atonement for al the Congregation of the children of Israel, and it shalbe forgien them: for it is ignorance: and they shall bring their offering for an offering made by fire unto the Lord, and their sin offering before the Lord for their ignorance.

Then it shall be forgiven all the Congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that dwelleth among them: for all the people were in ignorance. But if any one person sinneth through ignorance, then he shall bring a shee goat of a yeere olde for a sinne offering. And the Priest shall make an atonement for the ignorant person, when he sinneth by ignorance before the Lord, to make reconciliation for him: and it shall be forgiven him. He that is borne among the children of Israel, and the stranger that dwelleth among them, shall have both one lawe, who so doth sinn by ignorance. But the person that doeth ought presumptuously, whether he be borne in the land, or a stranger, the same blasphemeth the Lord: therefore that person shall be cut off from among his people, Because he hath despised the worde of the Lord, and hath broken his commandement: that person shall be utterly cut off: his iniquitie shall be upon him. And while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man that gathered stickes upon the Sabbath day. And they that found him gathering sticks, brought him vnto Moses and to Aaron, and vnto all the Congregation, And they put him warde: for it was not declared what should be done vnto him. Then the Lord said vnto Moses, This man shall dye the death: and let al the multitude stone him with stones without the hoste. And all the Congregation brought him without the hoste, and stoned him with stones, and he died, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and bid them that they make them fringes vpon the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and put vpon the fringes of the borders a ryband of blewe silke. And ye shall have the fringes, that when ye looke vpon them, ye may remember all the commandemets of the Lord, and do them: and that ye seeke not after your own heart, nor after your owne eyes, after the which ye go a whoring; That yee may remember and doe all my commandements, and bee holy vnto your God. I am the Lord your God, which brought you out of the lande of Egypt, to bee your God: I am the Lord your God.

Nowe Korah the sonne of Izhar, the sonne of Kohath, the sonne of Leui went apart with Dathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, and On the sonne of Peleth, the sonnes of Reuben: And they rose vp against Moses, with certaine of the children of Israel, two hundreth and fiftie captaines of the assemblie, famous in the Congregation, and men of renoume, Who gathered themselfes together against Moses, and against Aaron, and sayde vnto them, Ye take too much vpon you, seeing all the Congregation is holie, every one of them, and the Lord is among them: wherfore then lift ye your selues aboue the Congregation of the Lord? But when Moses heard it, hee fell vpon his face, And spake to Korah and vnto all his companie, saying, To morow the Lord will shew who is his, and who is holy, and who ought to approche neere vnto him: and whom he hath chosen, hee will cause to come neere to him. This doe therefore, Take you censers, both Korah, and all his companie, And put fire therein, and put incense in the before the Lord to morowe: and the man whome the Lord doeth chuse, the same shalbe holie: ye take too much vpon you, ye sonnes of Leui. Againe Moses saide vnto Korah, Heare, I pray you, ye sonnes of Leui. Seemeth it a small thing vnto you that the God of Israel hath separated you from the multitude of Israel, to take you neere to himselfe, to doe the seruice of the Tabernacle of the Lord, and to stand before the Congregation and to minister vnto them? He hath also taken thee to him, and all thy brethren the sonnes of Leui with thee, and seeke ye the office of the Priest also? For which cause, thou, and all thy companie are gathered together against the Lord: and what is Aaron, that ye murmure against him? And Moses sent to call Dathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab: who answered, We will not come vp. Is it a small thing that thou hast brought vs out of a lande that floweth with milke and honie, to kill vs in the wildernesse, except thou make thy selfe lord and ruler ouer vs also? Also thou hast not brought vs vnto a land that floweth with milke and honie, neither giuen vs inheritance of fieldes and vineyardes: wilt thou put out the eyes of these men? we will not come vp. Then Moses waxed verie angry, and saide vnto the Lord, Looke not vnto their offring: I haue not taken so much as an asse from them, neither haue I hurt any of them. And Moses said vnto Korah, Bee thou and al thy companie before the Lord: both thou, they, and Aaron to morowe: And take every man his censor, and put incense in them, and bring ye euery man his censor before the Lord, two hundreth and fiftie censors: thou also and Aaron, euery one his censor. So they tooke euery man his censor, and put fire in them, and laide incense thereon, and stoode in the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation with Moses and Aaron. And Korah gathered all the multitude against them vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation: then the glorie of the Lord appeared vnto all the Congregation. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and to Aaron, saying, Separate your selues from among this Cogregation, that I may consume them at once. And they fell uppon their faces and saide, O God the God of the spirits, of all fleshe, hath not one man onely sinned, and wilt thou bee wroth with all the Congregation? And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the Congregation and say, Get you away from about the Tabernacle of Korah, Dathan and Abiram.
Then Moses rose vp, and went vnto Dathan and Abiram, and the Elders of Israel followed him. And he spake vnto the Congregation, saying, Depart, I pray you, from the tentes of these wicked men, and touche nothing of theirs, lest ye perish in all their sinnes. So they gate them away from the Tabernacle of Korah, Dathan and Abiram on euery side: and Dathan, and Abiram came out and stood in the doore of their tentes with their wiues, and their sonnes, and their little children. And Moses saide, Hereby yee shall knowe that the Lord hath sent me to do all these works: for I haue not done them of mine owne minde. If these men die the common death of all men, or if they be visited after the visitation of all men, the Lord hath not sent me. But if the Lord make a newe thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallowe them vp with all that they haue, and they goe downe quicke into ye pit, then ye shall vnderstand that these men haue prouoked the Lord. And assoone as he had made an ende of speaking all these wordes, euen the ground claue asunder that was vnder them, And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them vp, with their families, and all the men that were with Korah, and all their goods. So they and all that they had, went downe aliope into the pit, and the earth couered them: so they perished from among the Congregation.
And all Israel that were about them, fled at the crie of them: for they said, Let vs flee, least the earth swalow vs vp. But there came out a fire from the Lord, and consumed the two hundred and fiftie men that offred the incense. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the Priest, that he take vp the censers out of the burning, and scatter the fire beyond the altar: for they are halowed, The censers, I say, of these sinners, that destroyed themselues: and let them make of them broade plates for a couering of the Alt-tar: for they offered them before the Lord, therefore they shalbe holy, and they shall be a signe vnto the children of Israel. Then Eleazar the Priest tooke the brasen censers, which they, that were burnt, had offred, and made broade plates of them for a couering of the Altar. It is a remembrance vnto the children of Israel, that no stranger which is not of the seede of Aaron, come neere to offer incense before the Lord, that he be not like Korah and his company, as the Lord said to him by the hand of Moses. But on the morowe all the multitude of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron, saying, Ye haue killed the people of the Lord. And when the Congregation was gathered against Moses and against Aaron, then they turned their faces toward the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and be-holde, the cloude couered it, and the glory of the Lord appeared.
Then Moses and Aaron were come before the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Get you vp from among this Congregation: for I wil consume them quickly: then they fell vpon their faces. And Moses said vnto Aaron, Take the censer and put fire therein of the Altar, and put therein incense, and goe quickly vnto the Congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the Lord: the plague is begunne. Then Aaron tooke as Moses commanded him, and ranne into the middes of the Congregation, and beholde, the plague was begun among the people, and hee put in incense, and made an atonement for the people. And when hee stoode betweene the dead, and them that were aliue, the plague was stayed. So they died of this plague fourtene thousande and seuen hundreth, beside them that dyed in the conspiracie of Korah. And Aaron went againe vnto Moses before the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the plague was stayed.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and take of every one of them a rod, after the house of their fathers, of all their princes according to the familie of their fathers, euene twelue rods: and thou shalt write every mans name vpon his rod. And write Aarons name vpon the rod of Leui: for every rodde shalbe for the head of the house of their fathers. And thou shalt put them in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, before the Arke of the Testimonie, where I wil declare my selue to you. And the mans rod, whome I chuse, shall blossome: and I will make cease from mee the grudgings of the children of Israel, which grudge against you. Then Moses spake vnto the children of Israel, and al their princes gaue him a rod, one rod for every Prince, according to the houses of their fathers, euene twelue rods, and the rod of Aaron was among their roddes.
And Moses layde the rods before the Lord in the Tabernacle of the Testimonie. And when Moses on the morow went into the Tabernacle of the Testimonie, beholde, the rod of Aaron for the house of Leui was budded, and brought forth buddes, and brought forth blossoms, and bare ripe almondes. Then Moses brought out all the rods from before the Lord vnto all the children of Israel: and they looked vpon them, and tooke euery man his rodde. After, the Lord said vnto Moses, Bring Aarons rod againe before the Testimonie to bee kept for a token to the rebellious children, and thou shalt cause their murmurings to cease from me, that they dye not. So Moses did as the Lord had commanded him: so did he. And the children of Israel spake vnto Moses, saying, Behold, we are dead, we perish, we are all lost: Whosoeuer commeth neere, or approcheth to the Tabernacle of the Lord, shall dye: shall we be consumed and dye?

And the Lord sayd vnto Aaron, Thou, and thy sonnes and thy fathers house with thee, shall bear the iniquitie of the Sanctuarie: both thou and thy sonnes with thee shall bear the iniquitie of your Priestes office. And bring also with thee thy brethren of the tribe of Leui of ye familie of thy father, which shalbe ioyned with thee, and minister vnto thee: but thou, and thy sonnes with thee shall minister before the Tabernacle of the Tes-imonie: And they shall keepe thy charge, euene the charge of all the Tabernacle: but they shall not come neere the instruments of the Sanctuary, nor to the altar, lest they die, both they and you: And they shall be joined with thee, and keep the charge of the Tabernacle of the Congregation for all the service of the Tabernacle: and no stranger shall come nigh unto you: Therefore shall ye keep the charge of the Sanctuary, and the charge of the altar: so there shall fall no more wrath upon the children of Israel. For lo, I have taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel, which as a gift of yours, are given unto the Lord, to do the service of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. But thou, and thy sons with thee shall keep your Priest's office for all things of the altar, and within the veil: therefore shall ye serve: for I have made your Priest's office an office of service: therefore the stranger that cometh nigh, shall be slain. Again the Lord spake unto Aaron, Behold, I have given thee the keeping of mine offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel: unto thee I have given them for the anointings sake, and to thy sons, for a perpetual ordinance. This shall be thine of the most holy things, reserved from the fire: all their offering of all their meat offering, and of all their sin offering, and of all their trespass offering, which they bring unto me, that shall be most holy unto thee, and to thy sons. In the most holy place shalt thou eat it: every male shall eat of it: it is holy unto thee. This also shall be thine: the heave offering of their gift, with all the sheave offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto thee and to thy sons and to thy daughters with thee, to be a due on for ever all the clean in thine house shall eat of it. All the fat of the oil, and all the fat of the wine, and of the wheate, which they shall offer unto the Lord for their first fruits, I have given them unto thee. And the first ripe of all that is in their land, which they shall bring unto the Lord, shall be thine: all the clean in thine house shall eat of it. Every thing separate from the common use in Israel, shall be thine. All that first openeth the matrice of any flesh, which they shall offer unto the Lord, of man or beast, shall be thine: but the first borne of man shalt thou redeem, and the first borne of the unclean beast shalt thou redeem. And those that are to be redeemed, shalt thou redeem from the age of a moneth, according to thy estimation, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the Sanctuary, which is twenty gerahs. But the first borne of a kow, or the first borne of a sheepe, or the first borne of a goat... shalt thou not redeem: for they are holy: thou shalt sprinkle their blood at the altar, and thou shalt burn their fat: it is a sacrifice made by fire for a sweet savour unto the Lord. And the flesh of them shall be thine, as theshake breast, and as the right shoulder shall be thine. All the heave offerings of the holy things which the children of Israel shall offer unto the Lord, have I given thee, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee, to be a duty for ever: it is a perpetual covenant of salt before the Lord, to thee, and to thy seed with thee. And the Lord said unto Aaron, Thou shalt have none inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part and thine inheritance among the children of Israel. For behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. Neither shall the children of Israel any more come near the Tabernacle of the Congregation, lest they sustine sin, and die. But the Levites shall do the service in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and they shall bear their sin: it is a law for ever in your generations, that among the children of Israel they possess none inheritance. For the tithes of the children of Israel, which they shall offer as an offering unto the Lord, I have given the Levites for an inheritance: therefore I have said unto them, Among the children of Israel ye shall possess none inheritance. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak also unto the Levites and say unto them, When ye shall take of the children of Israel the tithes, which I have given you of them for your inheritance, then shall ye take an heave offering of that same for the Lord, even the tenth part of the tithe. And your heave offering shall be reckoned unto you, as the corn of the barn, or as the abundance of the wine press. So ye shall also offer an heave offering unto the Lord of all your tithes, which ye shall receive of the children of Israel, and ye shall give thereof the Lords heave offering to Aaron the Priest. Ye shall offer of all your gifts al the Lords heave offerings: of all the fat of the same shall ye offer the holy things thereof. Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have offered the fat thereof, then it shall be counted unto the Levites, as the increase of the corn floor, or as the increase of the wine press. And ye shall eat it in all places, ye, and your households: for it is your wages for your service in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And ye shall bear no sinne by the reason of it, when ye haue offred the fatte of it: neither shall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

And the Lord spake to Moses, and to Aaron, saying, This is the ordinance of the lawe, which the Lord hath commanded, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel that they bring thee a red kow without blemish, wherein is no spot, vpon the which neuer came yoke. And ye shall giue her vnto Eleazar ye Priest, that hee may bring her without the hoste, and cause her to be slaine before his face. Then shall Eleazar the Priest take of her blood with his finger, and sprinkle it before the Tabernacle of the Congregation seuen times. And cause the kow to be burnt in his sight: with her skinne, and her flesh, and her blood, and her doung shall he burne her. Then shall the Priest take cedar wood, and hyssope and skarlet lace, and cast them in the mids of the fire where the kow burneth. Then shall the Priest wash his clothes, and he shall wash his flesh in water, and then come into the hoste, and the Priest shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. Also he that burneth her, shall wash his clothes in water, and wash his flesh in water, and be vncleane vntill euen. And a man, that is cleane, shall take vp the ashes of the kow, and put them without the hoste in a cleane place: and it shalbe kept for the Congregation of the children of Israel for a sprinkling water: it is a sinne offring. Therefore he that gathereth the ashes of the kow, shall wash his clothes, and remaine vncleane vntil euen: and it shalbe kept for the Congregation of the children of Israel for a sprinkling water: it is a sinne offring. Therefore he that gathereth the ashes of the kow, shall wash his clothes, and remaine vncleane vntil euen: and it shalbe vnto the children of Israel, and vnto the stranger that dwelleth among them, a statute for euer. Hee that toucheth the dead body of any man, shalbe vncleane euen seuen dayes. Hee shall purifie himselfe therewith the third day, and the seuenth day he shall be cleane: but if he purifie not himselfe the thirde day, then the seuenth day he shall not be cleane. Whosoeuer toucheth ye corps of any man that is dead, and purgeth not himselfe, defileth the Tabernacle of the Lord, and that person shall be cut off from Israel, because the sprinkling water was not sprinkled vpon him: he shall be vncleane, and his vncleannesse shall remaine still vpon him. This is the law, Whe a man dieth in a tent, all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, shalbe vncleane seuen dayes, And all the vessels that bee open, which haue no couering fastened vpon them, shall be vncleane.

Also whosoeuer toucheth one that is slaine with a sworde in the fielde, or a dead person, or a bone of a dead man, or a graue, shall be vnclene seuen dayes. Therfore for an vnclene person they shall take of the burnt ashes of the sinne offring, and pure water shalbe put thereto in a vessel. And a cleane person shall take hyssoppe and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it vpon the tent, and vpon all the vessels, and on the persons that were therein, and vpon him that touched ye bone, or the slayne, or the dead, or the graue. And the cleane person shall sprinkle vpon the vnclene the third day, and the seuenth day, and hee shall purifie him selfe the seuenth day, and wash his clothes, and wash himself in water, and shalbe cleane at euen.

But the man that is vnclene and purifieth not himselfe, that person shalbe cut off from among the Congregation, because hee hath defiled the Sanctuarie of the Lord: and the sprinkling water hath not bene sprinkled vpon him: therefore shall he be vnclene. And it shalbe a perpetual lawe vnto them, that he that sprinkleth the sprinkling water, shall wash his clothes: also hee that toucheth the sprinkling water, shalbe vnclene vntill euen. And whatsoeuer the vnclene person toucheth, shall be vnclene: and the person that toucheth him, shalbe vnclene vntill the euene.

Then the children of Israel came with ye whole Congregation to the desert of Zin in the first moneth, and the people abode at Cadeshe: where Miriam died, and was buried there. But there was no water for the Congregation, and they assembled them selues against Moses and against Aaron. And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying, Would God we had perished, when our brethren died before the Lord. Why haue ye thus brought the Congregation of the Lord vnto his wildernesse, that both we, and our cattell should die there? Wherefore nowe haue yee made vs to come vp from Egypt, to bring vs into this miserable place, which is no place of seede, nor figges, nor vines, nor pomegranates? neither is there any water to drinke. Then Moses and Aaron went from the assemblie vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and fell vpon their faces: and the glory of the Lord appeared vnto them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take the rod, and gather thou and thy brother Aaron the Congregation together, and speake yee vnto the rocke before their eyes, and it shall giue foorth his water, and thou shalt bring them water out of the rocke: so thou shalt giue the Congregation, and their beastes drinke. Then Moses tooke the rod from before the Lord, as he had commanded him. And Moses and Aaron gathered the Congregation together before the rocke, and Moses sayd vnto them, Heare nowe, ye rebels: shall we bring you water out of this rocke? Then Moses lift vp his hande, and with his rod he smote the rocke twise, and the water came out abundantly: so the Congregation, and their beastes dranke. Againe the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Aaron, Because ye beleeued me not, to sanctifie mee in the presence of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this Congregation into the land which I haue giuen them. This is the water of Meribah, because the children of Israel stroue with the Lord, and hee was sanctified in them. Then Moses sent messengers from Kadesh vnto the king of Edom, saying, Thus sayth thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the trauaile that we haue had, How our fathers went downe into Egypt, and we dwelt in Egypt a long time, where the Egyptians handled vs euill and our fathers. But when we cried vnto the Lord, he heard our voyce, and sent an Angel, and hath brought vs out of Egypt, and beholde, wee are in the citie Kadesh, in thine vtmost border. I pray thee that we may passe through thy countrey: we will not goe through the fieldes nor the vineyardes, neither will we drinke of the water of the welles: we will goe by the kings way, and neither turne vnto the right hand nor to the left, vntill we be past thy borders. And Edom answered him, Thou shalt not passe by mee, least I come out against thee with the sword. Then the children of Israel said vnto him, We will goe vp by the hie way: and if I and my cattell drinke of thy water, I will then pay for it: I will onely (without any harme) goe through on my feete. Hee answered againe, Thou shalt not goe through. The Edom came out against him with much people, and with a mightie power. Thus Edom denied to giue Israel passage through his countrey: wherefore Israel turned away from him. And when the children of Israel with al the Congregation departed from Kadesh, they came vnto the mount Hor. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and to Aaron in the mount Hor neere the coast of the land of Edom, saying, Aaron shall be gathered unto his people: for hee shall not enter into the lande, which I haue giuen vnto the children of Israel, because ye disobeyed my commandement at the water of Meribah. Take Aaron and Eleazar his sonne, and bring them vp into the mount Hor, And cause Aaron to put off his garmentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne: for Aaron shall be gathered to his fathers, and shall die there. And Moses did as the Lord had commanded: and they went vp into the mount Hor, in the sight of all the Congregation.
And Moses put off Aarons clothes, and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne: so Aaron dyed there in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came downe from off the mount. When al the Congregation sawe that Aaron was dead, al the house of Israel wept for Aaron thirtie dayes.

When King Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt toward the South, heard tel that Israel came by the way of the spies, then fought hee against Israel, and tooke of them prysoners. So Israel vowed a vowe vnto the Lord, and said, If thou wilt deliuer and giue this people into mine hand, then I wil vtterly destroy their cities. And the Lord heard the voyce of Israel, and deli-uered them the Canaanites: and they vtterly destroied them and their cities, and called ye name of the place Hormah. Af-fter, they departed from the mount Hor by the way of the red Sea, to compasse the land of Edom: and the people were sore grieued because of the way. And the people spake against God and against Moses, saying, Wherefore haue ye brought vs out of Egypt, to die in the wildernesse? for here is neither bread nor water, and our soule lotheth this light bread. Wherefore the Lord sent fierie serpents among ye people, which stung the people: so that many of the people of Israel died. Therefore the people came to Moses and said, We haue sinned: for wee haue spoken against the Lord, and against thee: pray to the Lord, that he take away the serpents from vs: and Moses prayed for the people. And the Lord said vnto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it vp for a signe, that as many as are bitten, may looke vpon it, and liue. So Moses made a serpent of brasse, and set it vp for a signe: and when a serpent had bitten a man, then he looked to the serpent of brasse, and liued. And ye children of Israel departed thence, and pitched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, and pitched in lie-abarim, in the wildernesse, which is before Moab on the Eastside. They remoued thence, and pitched vpon the riuer of Zared. Thence they departed, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, which is in the wildernesse, and commeth out of the coasts of the Amorites: (for Arnon is the border of Moab, betwenee the Moabites and the Amorites) Wherefore it shall be spoken in the booke of the battels of the Lord, what thing he did in the red sea, and in the riuers of Arnon, And at the streame of the riuers that goeth downe to the dwelling of Ar, and lieth vpon the border of Moab. And from thence they turned to Beer: the same is the well where the Lord said vnto Moses, Assemble the people, and I wil giue them water. Then Israel sang this song, Rise vp well, sing ye vnto it. The princes digged this well, the captaines of the people digged it, euen the lawe giuer, with their staues. And from the wildernesse they came to Mattanah, And from Mattanah to Nahaliel, and from Nahaliel to Bamoth, And from Bamoth in the valley, that is in the plaine of Moab, to the top of Pisgah that looketh toward Ieshimon. Then Israel sent messengers vnto Sihon, King of the Amorites, saying, Let me goe through thy land: we wil not turne aside into the fieldes, nor into the vineyardes, neither drinke of the waters of ye welles: we will goe by the kings way, vntill we be past thy countrie. But Sihon gaue Israel no liceunce to passe through his countrie, but Sihon assembled all his people, and went out against Israel into the wildernesse: and he came to Iahoz, and fought against Israel. But Israel smote him with the edge of the sword, and conquered his land, from Arnon vnto Iabok, euen vnto ye children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was strong. And Israel tooke al these cities, and dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites in Heshbon and in all the villages thereof. For Heshbon was the citie of Sihon the king of the Amorites, which had fought beforetime against the king of the Moabites, and had taken al his land out of his hand, euen vnto Arnon. Wherefore they that speake in proverbes, say, Come to Heshbon, let the citie of Sihon bee built and repaired: For a fire is gone out of Heshbon, and a flame from the citie of Sihon, and hath consumed Ar of the Moabites, and the lords of Bamoth in Arnon. Wo be to thee, Moab: O people of Chemosh, thou art vndone: he hath suffered his sonnes to be pursued, and his daughters to be in captivity to Sihon the king of the Amorites. Their empire also is lost from Heshbon unto Dibon, and wee have destroyed them unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba. Thus Israel dwelt in the lande of the Amorites. And Moses sent to search out Iaazer, and they tooke the townes belonging thereto, and rooted out the Amorites that were there. And they turned and went vp toward Bashan: and Og the King of Bashan came out against them, hee, and all his people, to fight at Edrei. Then the Lord said vnto Moses, Feare him not: for I haue deliuered him into thine hand and all his people, and his land: and thou shalt do to him as thou diddest unto Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.
They smote him therefore, and his sonnes, and all his people, vntill there was none left him: so they conquered his land.

22 After, the children of Israel departed and pitched in the plaine of Moab on the other side of Iordan from Iericho. Now Balak the sonne of Zippor sawe all that Israel had done to the Amorites. And the Moabites were sore afraine of the people, because they were many, and Moab fretted against the children of Israel.
Therfore Moab said vnto the Elders of Midian, Nowe shall this multitude licke vp all that are round about vs, as an oxe licketh vp ye grasse of the fielde: and Balak the sonne of Zippor was King of the Moabites at that time. Hee sent messengers therefore vnto Balaam the sonne of Beor to Pethor (which is by the riuer of the lande of the children of his folke) to call him, saying, Beholde, there is a people come out of Egypt, which couer the face of the earth, and lye ouer against me. Come now therefore, I pray thee, and curse me this people (for they are stronger then I) so it may be that I shall be able to smite them, and to driue them out of the land: for I knowe that hee, whome thou blessest, is blessed, and he whom thou cursest, shall be cursed.
And the Elders of Moab, and the Elders of Midian departed, hauing the reward of the soothsaying in their hande, and they came vnto Balaam, and tolde him the wordes of Balak. Who answered them, Tary here this night, and I will giue you an an-swere, as the Lord shall say vnto mee. So the princes of Moab abode with Balaam. Then God came vnto Balaam, and sayde, What men are these with thee? And Baalam said vnto God, Balak ye sonne of Zippor, king of Moab hath set vnto me, saying, Beholde, there is a people come out of Egypt and couereth the face of the earth: come nowe, curse them for my sake: so it may be that I shalbe able to overcame them in battell, and to druide them out. And God said vnto Balaam, Go not thou with them, neither curse the people, for they are blessed. And Balaam rose vp in the morning, and sayde vnto ye princes of Balak, Returne vnto your land: for the Lord hath refused to giue me leaue to go with you. So the princes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balak, and sayd, Balaam hath refused to come with vs. Balak yet sent againe moe princes, and more honourable then they. Who came to Balaam, and sayde to him, Thus saith Balak the sonne of Zippor, Bee not thou staied, I pray thee, from comming vnto me. For I wil promote thee vnto great honour, and wil do whatsoeuer thou sayest vnto me: come therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people. And Balaam answered, and sayde vnto the seruants of Balak, If Balak woulde giue me his house full of siluer and golde, I can not goe beyonde the worde of the Lord my God, to doe lesse or more. But nowe, I pray you, tary here this night, that I may wit, what the Lord will say vnto mee more. And God came vnto Balaam by night, and sayd vnto him, If the men come to call thee, rise vp, and goe with them: but onely what thing I say vnto thee, that shalt thou doe. So Balaam rose vp early, and sadled his asse, and went with the princes of Moab. And ye wrath of God was kindled, because he went: and the Angel of the Lord stood in the way to be against him, as he rode vpon his asse, and his two seruants were with him. And when the asse saw the Angel of the Lord stand in the way, and his sworde drawen in his hand, the asse turned out of the way and went into the field, but Balaam smote the asse, to turne her into the way. Againe the Angel of the Lord stood in a path of the vineyards, hauing a wall on the one side, and a wall on the other. And when the asse sawe the Angel of the Lord, she thrust her selfe vnto the wall, and dasht Balaams foote against the wall: wherefore hee smote her againe. Then the Angel of the Lord went further, and stooede in a narowe place, where was no way to turne, either to the right hand, or to the left. And when the asse sawe the Angell of the Lord, she lay downe vnder Balaam: therefore Balaam was very wroth, and smote the asse with a staffe. Then the Lord opened the mouth of the asse, and she saide vnto Balaam, What haue I done vnto thee, that thou hast smitten me nowe three times? And Balaam saide vnto the asse, Because thou hast mocked me: I woulde there were a sworde in mine hand, for nowe would I kill thee. And the asse saide vnto Balaam, Am not I thine asse, which thou hast ridden vpon since thy first time vnto this day? haue I used at any time to doe thus vnto thee? Who said, Nay. And the Lord opened the eyes of Balaam, and he sawe the Angel of the Lord standing in the way with his sword drawen in his hande: then he bowed him selfe, and fell flat on his face. And the Angel of the Lord said vnto him, Wherefore hast thou nowe smitten thine asse three times? beholde, I came out to withstande thee, because thy way is not straight before me. But the asse sawe me, and turned from me now three times: for els, if she had not turned from me, surely I had euен nowe slaine thee, and saued her aliue. Then Balaam saide vnto the Angel of the Lord, I haue sinned: for I wist not that thou stoodest in the way against me: now therefore if it displease thee, I will turne home againe. But the Angel said vnto Balaam, Go with the men: but what I say vnto thee, that shalt thou speake. So Balaam went with ye princes of Balak.
And when Balak heard that Balaam came, he went out to meete him vnto a citie of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, euен in the vtmost coast. Then Balak saide vnto Balaam, Did I not sende for thee to call thee? Wherefore camest thou not vnto me? am I not able in deede to promote thee vnto honour? And Balaam made answere vnto Balak, Lo, I am come vnto thee, and can I nowe say any thing at all? the worde that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speake. So Balaam went with Balak, and they came vnto the citie of Huzoth. Then Balak offred bullockes, and sheepe, and sent thereof to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him. And on the morowe Balak tooke Balaam, and brought him vp into the hie places of Baal, that thence hee might see the vtmost part of the people.

And Balaam sayd vnto Balak, Builde me here seuen altars, and prepare me here seuen bullockes, and seuen rammes. And Balak did as Balaam sayd, and Balak and Balaam offred on euery alter a bullocke and a ramme. Then Balaam sayde vnto Balak, Stande by the burnt offring, and I will goe, if so be that the Lord will come and meete me: and whatsoever he sheweth me, I will tell thee: so he went forth alone. And God met Balaam, and Balaam said unto him, I have prepared seven altars, and have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram. And the Lord put an answer in Balaam's mouth, and said, Go againe to Balak, and say on this wise. So when he returned unto him, lo, he stood by his burnt offering, he, and all the princes of Moab.
Then he uttered his parable, and said, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram out of the mountains of the East, saying, Come, curse Israel for my sake: come, and detest Israel.
How shall I curse, where God hath not cursed? or how shall I detest, where the Lord hath not detested? For from the top of the rocks I did see him, and from the hills I did behold him: lo, the people shall dwell by themselves, and shall not be reckoned among the nations. Who can tell the dust of Israel, and the number of the fourth part of Israel? Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his. Then Balak said unto Balaam, What hast thou done unto me? I took thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou hast blessed them altogether. And he answered, and said, Must I not take heed to speak that, which the Lord hath put in my mouth? And Balak said unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, whence thou mayest see them, and thou shalt see but the utmost part of them, and shalt not see them all: therefore curse them out of that place for my sake. And he brought him unto Sede-sophim to the top of Pisgah, and built seven altars, and offered a bullocke, and a ramme on every altar. After, he said unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt offering, and I will meete the Lord yonder. And the Lord met Balaam, and put an answer in his mouth, and said, Go againe unto Balak, and say thus. And when he came to him, behold, he stood by his burnt offering, and the princes of Moab with him: so Balak said unto him, What hath the Lord said? And he uttered his parable, and said, Rise vp, Balak, and hearken: hearken unto me, thou son of Zippor. God is not as man, that he should lie, neither as the son of man that he should repent: hath he said and shall he not do it? and hath he spoken, and shall he not accomplish it? Behold, I have received commandment to bless: for he hath blessed, and I cannot alter it. He seeth none iniquity in Israel, nor seeth no transgression in Israel: the Lord his God is with him, and the joyfull shoute of a king is among them. God brought them out of Egypt: their strength is as an unicorn. For there is no sorcerie in Iaakob, nor soothsaying in Israel: according to this time it shalbe sayde of Iaakob and of Israel, What hath God wrought? Behold, the people shall rise vp as a lyon, and lift vp himselfe as a yong lyon: hee shall not lye downe, till he eate of the pray, and till he drinke the blood of the slayne. Then Balak sayde vnto Balaam, Neither curse, nor blesse them at all. But Balaam answered, and saide vnto Balak, Tolde not I thee, saying, All that the Lord speaketh, that must I do? Againe Balak sayd vnto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I wil bring thee vnto another place, if so be it wil please God, that thou mayest thence curse them for my sake. So Balak brought Balaam vnto the top of Peor, that looketh toward Ieshmon. Then Balaam sayde vnto Balak, Make me here seuen altars, and prepare me here seuen bullocks, and seuen rammes. And Balak did as Balaam had sayd, and offred a bullocke and a ram on every altar.

When Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord to blesse Israel, then he went not, as certaine times before, to set diuinations, but set his face toward the wildernes. And Balaam lift vp his eyes, and looked vpon Israel, which dwelt according to their tribes, and the Spirit of God came vpon him. And he vttered his parable, and sayd, Balaam the sonne of Beor hath sayde, and the man, whose eyes were shut vp, hath sayd, He hath sayde, which heard the wordes of God, and sawe the vision of the Almighty, and falling in a traunce had his eyes opened: How goodly are thy tentes, O Iaakob, and thine habitations, O Israel! As the valleis, are they stretched forth, as gardes by the riuers side, as the aloe trees, which the Lord hath planted, as the cedars beside the waters. The water droppeth out of his bucket, and his seede shalbe in many waters, and his king shall be hier then Agag, and his kingdome shall bee exalted. God brought him out of Egypt: his strength shalbe as an unicorn: he shall eate the nations his enemies, and bruise their bones, and shoote them through with his arrowes. He coucheth and lieth downe as a yong lion, and as a lion: who shall stirre him vp? blessed is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee. Then Balak was very angry with Balaam, and smote his handes together: so Balak sayde vnto Balaam, I sent for thee to curse mine enemies, and beholde, thou hast blessed them nowe three times. Therefore nowe flee vnto thy place: I thought surely to promote thee vnto honour, but loe, the Lord hath kept thee backe from honour. Then Balaam answered Balak, Tolde I not also thy messengers, which thou sentest vnto me, saying, If Balak would giue me his house ful of siluer and gold, I can not passe the commandement of the Lord, to doe either good or bad of mine owne minde? what the Lord shall commaund, the same will I speake. And nowe behold, I goe vnto my people: come, I will aduertise thee what this people shall doe to thy folke in the later dayes. And he vtttered his parable, and sayd, Balaam the sonne of Beor hath sayde, and the man whose eyes were shut vp, hath sayd, He hath said that heard the words of God, and hath the knowledge of the most High, and sawe the vision of the Almighty, and falling in a traunce had his eyes opened: I shall see him, but not nowe: I shall behold him, but not neere: there shall come a starre of Iaakob, and a scepter shall rise of Israel, and shall smite the coastes of Moab, and destroy all the sonnes of Sheth. And Edom shalbe possessed, and Seir shall be a possession to their enemies: but Israel shall do valiantly. He also that shall haue dominion shall bee of Iaakob, and shall destroy the remnant of the citie. And when he looked on Amalek, he vtttered his parable, and sayd, Amalek was the first of the nations: but his latter ende shall come to destruction. And he looked on the Kenites, and vtttered his parable, and sayde, Strong is thy dwelling place, and put thy nest in the rocke. Neuerthelesse, the Kenite shalbe spoyled vntill Asshur cary thee away captiue. Againe he vtttered his parable, and sayd, Alas, who shall liue when God doeth this? The ships also shall come from the coastes of Chittim, and subdue Asshur, and shall subdue Eber, and he also shall come to destruction. Then Balaam rose vp, and went and returned to his place: and Balak also went his way.

Nowe whiles Israel abode in Shittim, the people began to commit whoredome with the daughters of Moab: Which called the people vnto the sacrifice of their gods, and the people ate, and bowed downe to their gods. And Israel coupled himselfe vnto Baal Peor: wherefore the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Israel: And the Lord sayde vnto Moses, Take all the heades of the people, and hang them vp before the Lord against ye sunne, that the indignation of the Lords wrath may be turned from Israel. Then Moses sayd vnto the Judges of Israel, Euer one slay his men that were ioyned vnto Baal Peor. And behold, one of the children of Israel came and brought vnto his brethren a Midianitish woman in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the Congregation of the children of Israel, who wept before the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And when Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest sawe it, hee rose vp from the middes of the Congregation, and tooke a speare in his hand, And followed ye man of Israel into the tent, and thrust them both through: to wit, the man of Israel, and the woman, through her belly: so the plague ceased from the children of Israel. And there died in that plague, foure and twentie thousand. Then the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the Priest, hath turned mine anger away from the children of Israel, while hee was zealous for my sake among them: therefore I haue not consumed the children of Israel in my ielousie. Wherefore say to him, Beholde, I giue vnto him my couenant of peace, And he shall haue it, and his seede after him, euen the couenant of the priestes office for euer, because he was zealous for his God, and hath made an atonement for the children of Israel. And the name of the Israelite thus slayne, which was killed with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri the sonne of Salu, prince of the familie of the Simeonites. And the name of the Midianitish woman, that was slayne, was Cozbi the daughter of Zur, who was head ouer the people of his fathers house in Midian. Againe ye Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Veze the Midianites, and smite them: For they trouble you with their wiles, wherewith they haue beguiled you as concerning Peor, and as concerning their sister Cozbi ye daughter of a prince of Midian, which was slayne in the day of the plague because of Peor.

And so after the plague, the Lord spake vnto Moses, and to Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest, saying, Take the nomber of all the Congregation of the children of Israel from twentie yeere olde and aboue throughout their fathers houses, all that go forth to warre in Israel. So Moses and Eleazar the Priest spake vnto them in the plaine of Moab, by Iorden towarde Iericho, saying, From twentie yeere olde and aboue ye shall number the people, as the Lord had commanded Moses, and the childe of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt. Reuben the first borne of Israel: the children of Reube were: Hanoch, of whom came the familie of the Hanochites, and of Pallu the familie of the Palluites: Of Hesron, the familie of the Hesronites: of Carmi, the familie of the Carmite. These are the families of the Reubenites: and they were in number three and fourtie thousand, seuen hundreth and thirtie. And the sonnes of Pallu, Eliab: And the sonnes of Eliab, Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram: this Dathan and Abiram were famous in the Congregation, and stroue against Moses and against Aaron in the assemblie of Korah, when they stroue against the Lord. And the earth opened her mouth, and swalowed them vp with Korah, when the Congregation died, what time the fire consumed, two hundreth and fiftie men, who were for a signe. Notwithstanding, all the sonnes of Korah dyed not. And the children of Simeon after their families were: Nemuel, of whom came the familie of the Nemuelites: of Iamin, the familie of the Iaminites: of Iachin, the familie of the Iachinites: Of Zerah, the familie of the Zarhites: of Shaul, the familie of the Shaulites. These are the families of the Simeonites: two and twentie thousand and two hundreth. The sonnes of Gad after their families were: Zephon, of whome came ye familie of the Zephonites: of Haggi, the familie of the Haggites: of Shuni, the familie of the Shunites: Of Ozni, the familie of the Oznites: of Eri, the familie of the Erites: Of Arod, the familie of the Arodites: of Areli, the familie of the Arelites. These are the families of the sonnes of Gad, according to their numbers, fourtie thousand and fiue hundreth. The sonnes of Iudah, Er and Onan: but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. So were the sonnes of Iudah after their families: of Shelah came the familie of ye Shelanites: of Pharez, the familie of the Pharzites, of Zerah, the familie of the Zarhites. And the sonnes of Pharez were: of Hesron, the familie of the Hesronites: of Hamul, the familie of the Hamulites. These are the families of Iudah, after their numbers, seuentie and sixe thousande and fiue hundreth. The sonnes of Issachar, after their families were: Tola, of whom came the familie of the Tolaites: of Pua, the fami-24 ilie of the Punites: Of Iashub the familie of the Iashubites: of Shimron, the familie of the Shimronites. These are the families of Issachar, after their numbers, threescore and foure thousand and three hundreth. The sonnes of Zebulun, after their families were: of Sered, the familie of the Sardites: of Elon, the familie of the Elonites: of Iahleel, the familie of the Iahleelites. These are the families of the Zebulunites, after their numbers, three score thousand and five hundred. The sonnes of Ioseph, after their families were Manasseh and Ephraim. The sonnes of Manasseh were: of Machir, the familie of the Machirites: and Machir begate Gilead: of Gilead came the familie of the Gileadites. These are the sonnes of Gilead: of Iezer, the familie of the Iezerites: of Helek, the familie of the Helekites. Of Asriel, the familie of the Asrielites: of Shechem, the familie of Shichmite. Of Shemida, the familie of the Shemidaites: of Hephër, the familie of the Hepherites. And Zelophehad the sonne of Hephër had no sonnes, but daughters: and the names of the daughters of Zelophehad were Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. These are the families of Manasseh, and the number of them, two and fiftie thousand and seven hundred. These are the sonnes of Ephraim after their families: of Shuthelah came the familie of the Shuthalahites: of Becher, the familie of the Bachrites: of Tahan, the familie of the Tahanites. And these are the sonnes of Shuthelah: of Eran the familie of the Eranites. These are the families of Ephraim after their numbers, two and thirtie thousand and five hundred. these are the sonnes of Ioseph after their families. These are the sonnes of Benjamin after their families: of Bela came the familie of the Belaites: of Ashbel, the familie of the Ashbelites: of Ahiram, the familie of the Ahiramites: Of Shupham, the familie of the Suphamites: of Hupham, the familie of the Huphamites. And the sonnes of Bela were Ard and Naaman: of Ard came the familie of the Ardites, of Naaman, the familie of the Naaminites. These are the sonnes of Benjamin after their families, and their numbers, five and fourtie thousand and sixe hundred. These are the sonnes of Dan after their families: of Shuham came the familie of the Shuhamites: these are the families of Dan after their houseoldes. All the families of the Shuhamites were after their numbers, threescore and foure thousand, and four hundred. The sonnes of Asher after their families were: of Iimmnah, the familie of the Iimmmites: of Isui, the familie of the Isuites: of Beriah, the familie of the Berijtes. The sonnes of Beriah were, of Heber the familie of the Heberites: of Malchiel, the familie of the Malchielites. And the name of the daughter of Asher was Sarah. These are the famillies of the sonnes of Asher after their nombers, three and fifty thousand and foure hundreth. The sonnes of Naphtali, after their families were: of Iahzeel, the families of the Iahzeelites: of Guni, the familie of the Gunites. Of Iezer, the familie of the Izrites: of Shillem, the familie of the Shillemites. These are the families of Naphtali according to their housholdes, and their nomber, fiue and fourtie thousande and foure hundreth. These are the nombers of the children of Israel: sixe hundreth and one thousand, seuen hundreth and thirtie. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Vnto these the land shalbe deuided for an inheritance, according to the number of names. To many thou shalt giue the more inheritance, and to fewe thou shalt giue lesse inheritance: to evry one according to his nomber shalbe giuen his inheritance. Notwithstanding, the land shalbe deuided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherite: According to the lot shall the possession thereof be deuided betwene many and fewe. These also are the nobers of ye Leuites, after their families: of Gershon came ye familie of the Gershonites: of Kohath, ye familie of the Kohathites: of Merari, the familie of the Merarites. These are the families of Leui, the familie of the Libnites: the familie of the Hebronites: the familie of the Mahlites: the familie of the Mushites: the familie of the Korhites: and Kohath begate Amram. And Am-rams wife was called Iochebed the daughter of Leui, which was borne vnto Leui in Egypt: and she bare vnto Amram Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam their sister. And vnto Aaron were borne Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. And Nadab and Abihu dyed, because they offred strange fire before the Lord. And their nombers were three and twentie thousand, all males from a moneth old and aboue: for they were not nombred among the children of Israel, because there was none inheritance giuen them among the children of Israel. These are the nombers of Moses and Eleazar the Priest which nombred the children of Is- rael in the plaine of Moab, neere Iorden, towarde Iericho. And among these there was not a man of them, whome Moses and Aaron the Priest nobred, when they tolde the children of Israel in the wildernes of Sinai. For the Lord said of them, They shall die in the wildernes: so there was not left a man of them, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun.

Then came the daughters of Zelophehad, the sonne of Heper, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasseh, of the familie of Manasseh, the sonne of Ioseph (and the names of his daughters were these, Mahlah, Noah and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah) And stoode before Moses, and before Eleazar the Priest, and before the Princes, and all the assemblie, at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, saying,

Our father dyed in the wildernes, and he was not among the assemblie of them that were assembled against the Lord in the companie of Korah, but died in his sinne, and had no sonnes.

Wherefore should the name of our father be taken away from among his familie, because he hath no sonne? giue vs a possession among the brethren of our father. Then Moses brought their cause before the Lord. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, The daughters of Zelophehad speake right: thou shalt giue them a possession to inherite among their fathers brethren, and shalt turne the inheritance of their father vnto them. Also thou shalt speake vnto the children of Israel, saying, If a man die and haue no sonne, then ye shall turne his inheritaunce vnto his daughter. And if he haue no daughter, ye shall giue his inheritance vnto his brethren. And if he haue no brethren, ye shall giue his inheritance vnto his fathers brethren. And if his father haue no brethren, ye shall giue his inheritance vnto his next kinsman of his familie, and he shall possesse it: and this shall be vnto the children of Israel a law of iudgement, as the Lord hath commanded Moses. Againe the Lord said vnto Moses, Go vp into this mount of Abarim, and behold ye lande which I haue giuen vnto the children of Israel. And when thou hast seene it, thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people also, as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were disobedient vnto my worde in the desert of Zin, in the strife of the assemblie, to sanctifie me in the waters before their eyes. That is the water of Meribah in Kadesh in the wildernesse of Zin. Then Moses spake vnto the Lord, saying, Let the Lord God of the spirits of all flesh appoint a man over the Congregation, Who may go out and in before them, and lead them out and in, that the Congregation of the Lord be not as sheepe, which haue not a shepheard. And the Lord said vnto Moses, Take thee Ioshua the sonne of Nun, in whom is the Spirite, and put thine handes vpon him. And set him before Eleazar the Priest, and before all the Congregation, and giue him a charge in their sight. And giue him of thy glory, that all the Congregation of ye children of Israel may obey. And he shall stande before Eleazar the Priest, who shall aske counsell for him by the judgement of Vrim before the Lord: at his worde they shall goe out, and at his worde they shall come in, both he, and all the children of Israel with him and all the Congregation. So Moses did as the Lord had commanded him, and he tooke Ioshua, and set him before Eleazar the Priest, and before all the Congregation. Then he put his handes vpon him, and gaue him a charge, as the Lord had spoken by the hand of Moses.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Command the children of Israel, and say vnto them, Ye shall obserue to offer vnto me in their due season mine offering, and my bread, for my sacrifices made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto me. Also thou shalt say vnto them, This is the offerling made by fire which ye shall offer vnto the Lord, two lambes of a yeere olde without spot, daily, for a continuall burnt offerling. One lambe shalt thou prepare in the morning, and the other lambe shalt thou prepare at euen. And the tenth part of an Ephah of fine floure for a meate offerling mingled with the fourth part of an Hin of beaten oyle. This shalbe a daily burnt offerling, as was made in the mount Sinai for a sweete sauour: it is a sacrifice made by fire vnto the Lord. And the drinke offerling thereof the fourth part of an Hin for one lambe: in the holy place cause to powre the drinke offerling vnto the Lord. And the other lambe thou shalt prepare at euen: as the meate offerling of the morning, and as the drinke offerling thereof shalt thou prepare this for an offerling made by fire of sweete sauour vnto the Lord. But on the Sabbath day ye shall offer two lambes of a yeere old, without spot, and two tenth deales of fine floure for a meate offerling mingled with oyle, and the drinke offerling thereof. This is ye burnt offerling of euery Sabbath, beside the continuall burnt offerling, and drinke offerling thereof. And in the beginning of your moneths, you shall offer a burnt offering unto the Lord, two yong bullockes, and a ramme, and seuen lambes of a yeere olde, without spot.

And three tenth deales of fine floure for a meat offering mingled with oyle for one bullocke, and two tenth deales of fine floure for a meat offering, mingled with oyle for one ramme. And a tenth deale of fine floure mingled with oyle for a meat offering vnto one lambe: for a burnt offering of sweete sauour: it is an offering made by fire vnto the Lord. And their drinke offerings shalbe halfe an Hin of wine vnto one bullocke, and the thirde part of an Hin vnto a ram, and ye fourth part of an Hin vnto a labe: this is the burnt offering of every moneth, throughout the moneths of the yeere. And one hee goat for a sinne offering vnto the Lord shalbe prepared, besides the continuall burnt offering, and his drinke offering. Also the fourteenth day of the first moneth is the Passeouer of the Lord. And in ye fiftenth day of the same moneth is the feast: seuen dayes shall vnleauened bread be eaten. In the first day shalbe an holy convocation, ye shall do no seruile worke therein. But ye shall offer a sacrifice made by fire for a burnt offering vnto the Lord, two yong bullocks, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yeere olde: see that they be without blemish. And their meate offering shalbe of fine floure mingled with oyle: three tenth deales shall ye prepare for a bullocke, and two tenth deales for a ramme: One tenth deale shalt thou prepare for every lambe, euen for the seuen lambes. And an hee goate for a sinne offering, to make an atonement for you. Ye shall prepare these, beside the burnt offering in the morning, which is a continuall burnt sacrifice. After this maner ye shall prepare throughout all the seuen dayes, for the maintaining of the offering made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord: it shall be done beside the continuall burnt offering and drinke offering thereof. And in ye seuenth day ye shall haue an holy convocation, wherein ye shall do no seruile work. Also in the day of your first fruits, when ye bring a newe meate offering vnto the Lord, according to your weekes ye shall haue an holy convocation, and ye shall do no seruile worke in it: But ye shall offer a burnt offering for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord, two yong bullocks, a ramme, and seuen lambes of a yeere olde. And their meat offering of fine floure mingled with oyle, three tenth deales vnto a bullocke, two tenth deales to a ram, And one tenth deale unto every lambe throughout the seuen lambes. And an hee goate to make an atonement for you: (Ye shall doe this besides the continuall burnt offring, and his meate offring:) see they be without blemish, with their drinke offerings.

Moreover, in the first day of the seventh moneth ye shall haue an holy conuocation: ye shall doe no servile worke therein: it shall be a day of blowing the trumpets vnto you. And ye shall make a burnt offering for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord: one yong bullocke, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yeere olde, without blemish. And their meat offring shalbe of fine floure mingled with oyle, three tenth deales vnto the bullocke, and two tenth deales vnto the ramme, And one tenth deale vnto one lambe, for the seuen lambes, And an hee goate for a sinne offering to make an atonement for you, Beside the burnt offring of the moneth, and his meat offring, and the continual burnt offring, and his meate offring and the drinke offrings of the same, according to their maner, for a sweete sauour: it is a sacrifice made by fire vnto ye Lord. And ye shall haue in ye tenth day of the seventh moneth, an holy conuocation: and ye shall humble your soules, and shall not doe any worke therein: But ye shall offer a burnt offring vnto the Lord for a sweete sauour: one yong bullocke, a ramme, and seuen lambes of a yeere olde: see they be without blemish. And their meate offering shall be of fine floure mingled with oyle, three tenth deales to a bullocke, and two tenth deales to a ramme, One tenth deale vnto every lambe, thoroughout the seuen lambes, An hee goate for a sinne offring, (beside ye sinne offring to make the atonement and the continual burnt offring and the meat offring thereof) and their drinke offrings. And in the fifteenth day of the seventh moneth ye shall haue an holie conuocation: ye shall do no servile worke therein, but yee shall keepe a feast vnto the Lord seuen daies. And ye shall offer a burnt offring for a sacrifice made by fire of sweete sauour vnto the Lord, thirteene yong bullockes, two rammes, and fourtene lambes of a yeere olde: they shall bee without blemish. And their meate offering shall bee of fine floure mingled with oyle, three tenth deales vnto every bullocke of the thirteene bullockes, two tenth deales to either of the two rammes, And one tenth deale vnto eche of ye fourteene lambes, And one hee goate for a sinne offring, beside the continuall burnt offring, his meate offring, and his drinke offring. And the second day ye shall offer twelve yong bullockes, two rams, fourteene lambes of a yeere old without blemish, With their meate offring and their drinke offrings for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes according to their nomber, after the maner, And an hee goate for a sinne offring, (beside the continuall burnt offring and his meate offring) and their drinke offrings. Also the third day ye shall offer eleuen bullocks, two rams, and fourteene lambes of a yeere olde without blemish, With their meate offring and their drinke offrings, for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes, after their nomber according to the maner, And an hee goat for a sinne offring, beside the continuall burnt offring, and his meate offring and his drinke offring. And the fourth day ye shall offer tenne bullocks, two rammes, and fourteene lambes of a yeere olde without blemish. Their meate offring and their drinke offrings, for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes according to their nomber, after the maner, And an hee goate for a sinne offering beside the continuall burnt offring, his meate offering and his drinke offering. In the fifth day also ye shall offer nine bullockes, two rammes, and fourteene lambes of a yeere olde without blemish, And their meat offering and their drinke offrings for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes according to their nomber, after the maner, And an hee goat for a sinne offering, beside the continuall burnt offering, and his meat offering and his drinke offering. And in the sixt day ye shall offer eight bullockes, two rams, and fourteene lambes of a yeere olde without blemish, And their meate offering, and their drinke offrings for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes according to their nomber, after the maner, And an hee goat for a sinne offering, beside the continuall burnt offering, his meate offering and his drinke offering. In the seuenth day also ye shall offer seuen bullocks, two rammes and fourteene lambes of a yeere olde without blemish, And their meate offering and their drinke offrings for the bullockes, for the rammes, and for the lambes according to their nomber, after their maner, And an hee goate for a sinne offring, beside the continuall burnt offring, his meate offering and his drinke offering. In the eighth day, yee shall haue a solemne assemblie: yee shall doe no seruile worke therein, But yee shall offer a burnt offering, a sacrifice made by fire for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord, one bullocke, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yeere old without blemish, Their meate offring and their drinke offerings for the bullocke, for the ramme, and for the lambes according to their number, after the maner, And an hee goat for a sinne offerings, beside the continuall burnt offerings, and his meate offerings, and his drinke offerings. These things ye shall do vnto the Lord in your feastes, beside your vowes, and your free offerings, for your burnt offerings, and for your meate offerings, and for your drinke offerings and for your peace offerings.

Then Moses spake vnto the children of Israel according to all that the Lord had commanded him, Moses also spake vnto the heads of ye tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded, Whosoeuer voweth a vow vnto the Lord, or sweareth an othe to binde him selfe by a bonde, he shall not breake his promise, but shall do according to al that proceedeth out of his mouth. If a woman also vow a vow vnto the Lord, and binde her selfe by a bonde, being in her fathers house, in the time of her youth, And her father heare her vowe and bonde, wherewith she hath bound her selfe, and her father hold his peace concerning her, then all her vowes shall stande, and euery bonde, wherewith she hath bound her selfe, shall stand. But if her father disallow her the same day that he heareth all her vowes and bondes, wherewith she hath bound her selfe, they shall not bee of value, and the Lord will forgiue her, because her father disallowed her. And if she haue an husband when she voweth or pronounceth ought with her lips, wherewith she bindeth her selfe, If her husband heard it, and holdeth his peace concerning her, the same day he heareth it, then her vowe shall stande, and her bondes wherewith she bindeth her selfe shall stand in effect. But if her husband disallow her the same day that hee heareth it, then shall hee make her vowe which she hath made, and that that shee hath pronounced with her lips, wherewith shee bound her selfe, of none effect: and the Lord will forgiue her. But euery vowe of a widowe, and of her that is diuorced (wherewith she hath bound her selfe) shall stand in effect with her. And if she vowed in her husbands house, or bound her selfe streightly with an othe, And her husband hath heard it, and helde his peace concerning her, not disallowing her, then all her vowes shall stand, and every bond, wherewith she bound her selfe, shall stand in effect. But if her husband disanulled them, the same day that he heard them, nothing that proceeded out of her lippes concerning her vowes or concerning her bondes, shall stand in effect: for her husband hath disanulled them: and the Lord will forgive her. So every vowe, and every othe or bonde, made to humble the soule, her husband may stablish it, or her husband may break it. But if her husband holde his peace concerning her from day to day, then he stablisheth al her vowes and all her bondes which shee hath made: hee hath confirmed them because he held his peace concerning her the same day that hee hearde them. But if he breake them after that he hath heard them, then shall he beare her iniquitie. These are the ordinances which the Lord commanded Moses, betweene a man and his wife, and betweene the father and his daughter, being young in his fathers house.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Reuenge the children of Israel of the Midianites, and afterwarde shalt thou be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake to the people, saying, Harnesse some of you vnto warre, and let them goe against Midian, to execute the vengeance of the Lord against Midian. A thousande of euery tribe throughout all the tribes of Israel, shall ye sende to the warre. So there were taken out of the thousands of Israel, twelve thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery tribe a thousand. And Moses sent them to the warre, euen a thousand of euery tribe, and sent them with Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest to the warre: and the holy instruments, that is, the trumpets to blow were in his hand. And they warred against Midian, as the Lord had commanded Moses, and slue all the males. They slue also the Kings of Midian among them that were slaine: Eui and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur and Reba fiue kings of Midian, and they slue Balaam the sonne of Beor with the sworde: But the children of Israel tooke the women of Midian prisoners, and their children, and spoyled all their cat-tell, and all their flockes, and all their goods. And they burnt all their cities, wherein they dwelt, and all their villages with fire. And they tooke all the spoyle and all the pray both of men and beasts. And they brought the captiues and that which they had taken, and the spoyle vnto Moses and to Eleazar the Priest, and vnto the Congregation of the children of Israel, into ye campe in the playne of Moab, which was by Iorden toward Iericho. Then Moses and Eleazar the Priest, and all the princes of the Congregation went out of the campe to meete them. And Moses was angry with the captaines of the hoste, with the captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundreds, which came from the warre and battel. And Moses sayde vnto them, What?
haue ye saued all the women? Behold, these caused the children of Israel through the counsell of Balaam to commit a trespasse against the Lord, as concerning Peor, and there came a plague among the Congregation of the Lord. Now therefore, slay all the males among the children, and kill all the women that haue known man by carnall copulation. But all the women children that haue not known carnall copulation, keepe aliue for your selues. And ye shall remaine without the host seuen dayes, all that haue killed any person, and all that haue touched any dead, and purifie both your selues and your prisoners the third day and the seuenth. Also ye shall purifie euery garment and all that is made of skins and al worke of goates heare, and all things made of wood. And Eleazar ye Priest sayd vnto the men of warre, which went to the battel, This is the ordinance of the law which the Lord commanded Moses, As for gold, and silver, brasse, yron, tynne, and lead: Euen all that may abide the fire, yee shall make it goe through the fire, and it shalbe cleane: yet, it shalbe purified with the water of purification: and all that suffereth not the fire, yee shall cause to passe by the water. Ye shall wash also your clothes the seuenth day, and ye shalbe cleane: and afterward ye shall come into the Hoste.
And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Take the summe of the praie that was taken, both of persons and of cattell, thou and Eleazar the Priest, and the chiefe fathers of the Congregation. And deuide the praye betweene the souldiers that went to the warre, and all the Congregation. And thou shalt take a tribute vnto ye Lord of the men of warre, which went out to battel: one person of fiue hundreth, both of the persons, and of the beeues, and of the asses, and of the sheepe. Yee shall take it of their halfe and giue it vnto Eleazar the Priest, as an heaue offring of the Lord. But of the halfe of the children of Israel thou shalt take one, taken out of fiftie, both of the persons, of the beeues, of the asses, and of the sheepe, euen of all the cattel: and thou shalt giue them vnto the Leuites, which haue the charge of the Tabernacle of the Lord. And Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the Lord had commanded Moses. And the bootie, to wit, the rest of the praie which the men of warre had spoyled, was sixe hundreth seuentie and fiue thousand sheepe, And seuentie and two thousand beeues, And three score and one thousand asses, And two and thirtie thousande persons in all, of women that had lyen by no man. And the halfe, to wit, the part of them that went out to warre touching the number of sheepe, was three hundreth seuen and thirtie thousand, and fiue hundreth. And the Lordes tribute of the sheepe was sixe hundreth and seuentie and fiue: And the beeues were six and thirty thousand, whereof the Lordes tribute was seuentie and two. And the asses were thirtie thousande and fiue hundreth, whereof the Lordes tribute was three score and one: And of persons sixtene thousand, whereof the Lordes tribute was two and thirtie persons. And Moses gaue the tribute of the Lordes offring vnto Eleazar the Priest, as the Lord had commanded Moses. And of the halfe of the children of Israel, which Moses deuided from the men of warre, (For the halfe that perteined vnto the Congregation, was three hundreth thirtie and seuen thousand sheepe and fiue hundreth, And sixe and thirtie thousand beeues, And thirtie thousand asses, and fiue hudreth, And sixteene thousande persons) Moses, I say, tooke of the halfe that perteined vnto the children of Israel, one taken out of fiftie, both of the persons, and of the cattell, and gaue them vnto the Leuites, which haue the charge of the Tabernacle of the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. Then the captains which were ouer thousands of the hoste, the captains ouer the thousands, and the captains ouer the hundreds came vnto Moses: And saide to Moses, Thy servaunts haue taken the summe of the men of warre which are vnder our authoritie, and there lacketh not one man of vs. We haue therefore brought a present vnto the Lord, what every man found of jewels of golde, bracelets, and cheines, rings, eare ringes, and ornaments of the legges, to make an atonement for our soules before the Lord. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest tooke the golde of them, and all wrought jewels, And all the golde of the offring that they offered vp to the Lord (of the captaines ouer thousands and hundreds) was sixeene thousande seuen hundredth and fiftie shekels, (For the men of warre had spoyled, every man for him selfe) And Moses and Eleazar the Priest tooke the golde of the captains ouer the thousands, and ouer the hundreds, and brought it into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, for a memoriall of the children of Israel before the Lord.

Nowe the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad had an exceeding great multitude of cattell: and they sawe the lande of Iazer, and the lande of Gilead, that it was an apt place for cattel. Then the children of Gad, and the childe of Reuben came, and spake vnto Moses and to Eleazar the Priest, and vnto the princes of the Congregation, saying, The land of Ataroth, and Dibon, and Iazer, and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Shebam, and Nebo, and Beon, Which countrey the Lord smote before the Congregation of Israel, is a lande meete for cattell, and thy seruants haue cattell: Wherefore, said they, if we haue fou'd grace in thy sight, let this lande be giuen vnto thy seruants for a possession, and bring vs not ouer Iorde. And Moses said vnto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren goe to warre, and ye tary heere? Wherefore now discourage ye the heart of the children of Israel, to goe ouer into the lande, which the Lord hath giuen them? Thus did your fathers when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to see the lande. For when they went vp euen vnto the riuer of Eshcol, and sawe the land: they discouraged the heart of the childre of Israel, that they woulde not goe into the lande, which the Lord had giuen them. And the Lordes wrath was kindled the same day, and he did sweare, saying, None of the men that came out of Egypt from twentie yeere olde and aboue, shall see the land for the which I sware vnto Abraham, to Izhak, and to Iaakob, because they haue not wholly followed me: Except Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh the Kenesite, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun: for they haue constantly followed the Lord. And the Lord was very angry with Israel, and made them wander in the wildernessse fourty yeeres, vntill all the generation that had done euill in the sight of the Lord were consumed. And behold, ye are risen vp in your fathers steade as an encrease of sinfull men, still to augment the fierce wrath of the Lord, toward Israel. For if ye turne away from following him, he will yet againe leaue the people in the wildernesse, and ye shall destroy all this folke.

And they went neere to him, and said, We will builde sheepe foldes here for our sheepe, and for our cattell, and cities for our children. But we our selues will be readie armed to go before the children of Israel, vntill we haue brought them vnto their place: but our childre shall dwell in the defenced cities, because of the inhabitants of the lande. We will not returne vnto our houses, vntil the children of Israel haue inherited, euy man his inheritance. Neither wil we inhereite with them beyond Iorden and on that side, because our inheritance is fallen to vs on this side Iorden Eastwarde. And Moses saide vnto them, If ye will doe this thing, and goe armed before the Lord to warre: And will goe euery one of you in harnesse ouer Iorden before the Lord, vntill he hath cast out his enemies from his sight: And vntill the land be subdued before the Lord, then ye shall returne and be innocent toward the Lord, and toward Israel: and this land shalbe your possession before the Lord. But if ye will not doe so, beholde, ye haue sinned against the Lord, and be sure, that your sinne will finde you out. Builde you then cities for your children and folds for your sheepe, and do that ye haue spoke. Then the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spake vnto Moses, saying, Thy seruants will doe as my lorde commandeth: Our childre, our wiues, our sheepe, and al our cattell shall remaine there in the cities of Gilead, But thy seruants will goe euery one armed to warre before the Lord for to fight, as my lorde saith. So concerning them, Moses commanded Eleazar the Priest, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and the chiefe fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel: And Moses said vnto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, will go with you ouer Iorden, all armed to fight before the Lord, then when the land is subdued before you, ye shall giue the the lad of Gilead for a possessio: But if they will not goe ouer with you armed, then they shall haue their possessions amog you in the land of Canaan. And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben answered, saying, As the Lord hath said vnto thy seruants, so will we doe. We will goe armed before the Lord into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of our inheritance may be to vs on this side Iorden. So Moses gaue vnto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and to halfe the tribe of Manasseh the sonne of Ioseph, the kingdome of Sihon King of the Amorites, and the kingdome of Og King of Bashan, the lande with the cities thereof and coastes, even the cities of the countrey round about. Then the children of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, And Atroth, Shophan, and Iazer, and Iogbehah, And Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, defenced cities: also sheepe foldes. And the children of Reuben built Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Kiriathaim, And Nebo, and Baal-meon, and turned their names, and Shibmah: and gaue other names vnto the cities which they built. And the children of Machir the sonne of Manasseh went to Gilead, and tooke it, and put out the Amorites that dwelt therein. Then Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasseh, and he dwelt therein. And Iair the sonne of Manasseh went and tooke the small townes thereof, and called them Hauoth Iair. Also Nobah went and tooke Kenath, with the villages thereof and called it Nobah, after his owne name.

These are the iourneyes of the children of Israel, which went out of the land of Egypt according to their bands vnder the hand of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote their going out by their iourneies according to ye commandement of the Lord: so these are ye iourneies of their going out. Nowe they departed from Rameses the first moneth, euen the fifteenth day of the first moneth, on the morowe after the Passeouer: and the children of Israel went out with an hie hand in the sight of all the Egyp- tians. (For the Egyptians buried all their first borne, which the Lord had smitten among them: vpon their gods also the Lord did execution.) And the children of Israel remoued from Rameses, and pitched in Succoth. And they departed from Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wildernesse. And they remoued from Etham, and turned againe vnto Pi-hahiroth, which is before Baal-zephon, and pitched before Migdol. And they departed from before Hahiroth, and went through the middes of the Sea into the wildernesse, and went three dayes iourney in the wildernesse of Etham, and pitched in Marah. And they remoued from Marah, and came vnto Elim, and in Elim were twelue fountaines of water, and seuentie palme trees, and they pitched there. And they remoued from Elim, and camped by the red Sea. And they remoued from the red Sea, and lay in the wildernesse of Sin. And they tooke their journey out of the wildernesse of Sin, and set vp their tentes in Dophkah. And they departed from Dophkah, and lay in Alush. And they remoued from Alush, and lay in Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drinke. And they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in the wildernesse of Sinai. And they remoued from the desert of Sinai, and pitched in Kibroth Hattaauah. And they departed from Kibroth Hattaauah, and lay at Hazeroth. And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in Rithmah. And they departed from Rithmah, and pitched at Rimmon Parez. And they departed from Rimmon Parez, and pitched in Libnah. And they remoued from Libnah, and pitched in Rissah. And they iourneyed from Rissah, and pitched in Kehelathah. And they went from Kehelathah, and pitched in mount Shapher. And they remoued from mount Shapher, and lay in Haradah. And they remoued from Haradah, and pitched in Makheloth. And they remoued from Makheloth, and lay in Tahath. And they departed from Tahath, and pitched in Tarah. And they remoued from Tarah, and pitched in Mithkah. And they went from Mithkah, and pitched in Hashmonah. And they departed from Hashmonah, and lay in Moseroth. And they departed from Moseroth, and pitched in Bene-iaakan. And they remoued from Bene-iaakan, and lay in Hor-hagidgad. And they went from Hor-hagidgad, and pitched in Iotbathah. And they remoued from Iotbathah, and lay in Ebronah. And they departed from Ebronah, and lay in Ezion-gaber. And they remoued from Ezion-gaber, and pitched in the wildernesse of Zin, which is Kadesh. And they remoued from Kadesh, and pitched in mount Hor, in the edge of the land of Edom. (And Aaron the Priest went vp into mount Hor, at the commandement of the Lord, and died there, in the fourtieth yeere after the children of Israel were come out of the lande of Egypt, in the first day of the fifth moneth. And Aaron was an hundreth, and three and twentie yeere olde, when hee dyed in mount Hor. And King Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt in the South of the land of Canaan, heard of the comming of the children of Israel) And they departed from mount Hor, and pitched in Zalmonah. And they departed from Zalmonah, and pitched in Punon. And they departed from Punon, and pitched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, and pitched in Iie-abarim, in the borders of Moab. And they departed from Iim, and pitched in Dibon-gad. And they remooued from Dibon-gad, and lay in Almon-diblathaim. And they remooued from Almon-diblathaim, and pitched in the mountainees of Abarim before Nebo. And they departed from the mountainees of Abarim, and pitched in the plaine of Moab, by Iorden toward Ieriche. And they pitched by Iorden, from Bethieshimoth vnto Abel-shittim in the playne of Moab. And the Lord spake vnlo Moses in the playne of Moab, by Iorden towards Ieriche, saying, Speake vnlo the children of Israel, and say vnlo them, When ye are come ouer Iorden to enter into the land of Canaan, Ye shall then drive out all the inhabitants of the land before you, and destroy all their pictures, and breake asunder all their images of metall, and plucke downe all their hie places. And ye shall possesse the lande and dwell therein: for I haue giue you ye land to possesse it. And ye shall inherite the land by lot according to your families: to the more yee shall giue more inheritance, and to the fewer the lesse inheritance. Where the lot shall fall to any man, that shall be his: according to the tribes of your fathers shall ye inherite. But if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land before you, then those which yee let ramaine of them, shalbe prickes in your eyes, and thornes in your sides, and shall vexe you in the land wherein ye dwell. Moreouer, it shall come to passe, that I shall doe vnlo you, as I thought to do vnlo them.

And the Lord spake vnlo Moses, saying, Commande the children of Israel, and say vnlo them, When yee come into the land of Canaan, this is the land that shall fall vnlo your inheritance: that is, the land of Canaan with the coastes thereof. And your Southquarter shalbe from the wildernesse of Zin to the borders of Edom: so that your Southquarter shall be from the salt Sea coast Eastwarde: And the border shall compass you from the South to Maaleh-akrabbim, and reach to Zin, and goe out from the South to Kadesh-barnea: thence it shall stretch to Hazar-addar, and go along to Azmon. And the border shall compass from Azmon vnlo the riuer of Egypt, and shall goe out to the Sea. And your Westquarter shall bee the great Sea: euen that border shalbe your Westcoast. And this shall bee your Northquar-ter: yee shall marke out your border from the great Sea vnto mount Hor. From mount Hor ye shall point out till it come vnto Hamath, and the end of the coast shall be at Zedad. And the coast shall reach out to Ziphron, and goe out at Hazar-enan. this shalbe your Northquarter. And ye shall marke out your Eastquarter from Hazar-enan to Shepham. And the coast shall goe downe from Shepham to Riblah, and from the Eastside of Ain: and the same border shall descend and goe out at the side of the sea of Chinneereth Eastward. Also that border shall goe downe to Iorden, and leaue at the salt Sea. this shalbe your land with the coastes thereof round about. Then Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, This is the lande which yee shall inherite by lot, which the Lord commanded to giue vnto nine tribes and halfe the tribe. For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the housethouldes of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to their fathers housetholds, and halfe the tribe of Manasseh, haue receiued their inheritance. Two tribes and an halfe tribe haue receiued their inheritance on this side of Iorden toward Iericho full East. Againe the Lord spake to Moses, saying, These are the names of the men which shall deuide ye land vnto you: Eleazar the Priest, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun. And ye shall take also a prince of euerie tribe to deuide the land. The names also of the men are these: Of the tribe of Iudah, Caleb ye sonne of Iephunneh. And of the tribe of the sonnes of Simeon, Shemuel the sonne of Ammihud.
Of the tribe of Beniamin, Elidad the sonne of Chislon. Also of the tribe of the sonnes of Dan, the prince Bukki, the sonne of Iogli. Of the sonnes of Ioseph: of the tribe of the sonnes of Manasseh, the prince Hanniel the sonne of Ephod. And of the tribe of the sonnes of Ephraim, the prince Kemuel, the sonne of Shiphtan. Of the tribe also of the sonnes of Zebulun, the prince Elizaphan, the sonne of Parnach. So of the tribe of the sonnes of Issachar, the prince Paltiel the sonne of Azzan. Of the tribe also of the sonnes of Asher, the prince Ahihu, the sonne of Shelomi. And of the tribe of the sonnes of Naphtali, the prince Pedahel, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they, whome the Lord commanded to deuide the inheritance vnto the children of Israel, in the land of Canaan.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses in the plaine of Moab by Iorden, toward Iericho, saying, Commande ye children of Israel, that they giue vnto the Leuites of the inheritance of their possession, cities to dwell in: yee shall giue also vnto the Leuites the suburbs of the cities round about them. So they shall have the cities to dwell in, and their suburbs shall be for their cattell, and for their substance, and for all their beasts. And the suburbs of the cities, which ye shall giue vnto the Leuites, from the wall of the citie outward, shalbe a thousand cubites round about. And yee shall measure without the citie of the Eastside, two thousand cubites: and of the Southside, two thousand cubites: and of the Westside, two thousand cubites: and of ye Northside, two thousand cubites: and the citie shalbe in ye middes. this shalbe the measure of the suburbs of their cities. And of the cities which yee shall giue vnto the Leuites, there shalbe sixe cities for refuge, which ye shall appoint, that he which killeth, may flee thither: and to them yee shall adde two and fourtie cities more. All the cities which yee shall giue to the Leuites, shalbe eight and fourtie cities: them shall ye giue with their suburbs. And concerning the cities which yee shall giue, of the possession of the children of Israel: of many ye shall take more, and of few ye shall take lesse: euery one shall giue of his cities vnto the Leuites, according to his inheritance, which hee inheriteth. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying, Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto them, When ye be come ouer Iorden into the land of Canaan, Ye shall appoint you cities, to bee cities of refuge for you, that the slayer, which slayeth any person vnwares, may flee thither. And these cities shalbe for you a refuge from the auenger, that he which killeth, die not, vntill he stand before the Congregation in iudgement. And of the cities which ye shall giue, sixe cities shall ye haue for refuge. Ye shall appoint three on this side Iorden, and ye shall appoint three cities in the lande of Canaan which shalbe cities of refuge. These six cities shalbe a refuge for the children of Israel, and for the stranger, and for him that dwelleth among you, that euery one which killeth any person vnwares, may flee thither. And if one smite another with an instrument of yron that hee die, hee is a murtherer, and the murtherer shall die the death. Also if hee smite him by casting a stone, wherewith hee may be slaine, and he die, hee is a murtherer, and the murtherer shall die the death.
Or if he smite him with an hand weapon of wood, wherewith he may be slaine, if he die, he is a murtherer, and the murtherer shall die the death. The reuenger of the blood himselfe shall slay the murtherer: when he meeteth him, he shall slay him. But if hee thrust him of hate, or hurle at him by laying of wait, that he die, Or smite him through enimitie with his hand, that he die, he that smote him shall die ye death: for hee is a murtherer: the reuenger of the blood shall slay the murtherer when he meeteth him. But if he pusshed him vnaduisedly, and not of hatred, or cast vpon him any thing, without laying of waite, Or any stone (whereby he might be slaine) and sawe him not, or caused it to fall vpon him, and he die, and was not his enemie, neither sought him any harme, Then the Congregation shall iudge betweene the slayer and the auenger of blood according to these lawes. And the Congregation shall deliuer the slayer out of the hande of the auenger of blood, and the Congregation shall restore him vnto the citie of his refuge, whither hee was fled: and hee shall abide there vnto the death of the hie Priest, which is anointed with the holy oyle. But if the slayer come without the borders of the citie of his refuge, whither he was fled, And the reuenger of blood finde him without the borders of the citie of his refuge, and the reueger of blood slay ye murtherer, he shalbe giltles, Because he should haue remained in the citie of his refuge, vntill the death of the hie Priest: and after the death of the hie Priest, the slayer shall returne vnto the lande of his posession. So these thinges shall be a lawe of iudgement vnto you, throughout your generations in all your dwellings. Whosoeuer killeth any person, the Iudge shall slay the murtherer, through witnesses: but one witnesse shall not testifie against a person to cause him to die. Moreouer ye shall take no recompense for the life of the murtherer, which is worthy to die: but he shalbe put to death. Also ye shall take no recompense for him that is fled to the citie of his refuge, that he should come againe, and dwell in the lande, before the death of the hie Priest. So ye shall not pollute the land wherein ye shall dwell: for blood defileth the land: and the land cannot be clensed of the blood that is shed therein, but by the blood of him that shed it. Defile not therefore the lande which yee shall inhabite, For I dwell in the middes thereof: for I the Lord dwel among the children of Israel.
Then the chief fathers of the family of the sons of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manassah, of the families of the sones of Ioseph, came, and spake before Moses, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Israel, And said, The Lord commanded my lord to give the land to inherit by lot to the children of Israel: and my lord was commanded by the Lord, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother unto his daughters. If they be married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers, and shalbe put vnto the inheritance of the tribe whereof they shalbe: so shall it be taken away from the lot of our inheritance. Also when the Iubile of the children of Israel commeth, then shall their inheritance be put vnto the inheritance of the tribe whereof they shall be: so shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers. Then Moses commanded the children of Israel, according to the word of the Lord, saying, The tribe of the sons of Ioseph haue said well. This is the thing that the Lord hath commanded, concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, They shall be wives, to whom they thinke best, onely to the familie of the tribe of their father shall they marry: So shall not the inheritance of the children of Israel remoue from tribe to tribe, for euery one of the children of Israel shall ioyne himselfe to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. And euery daughter that possesseth any inheritance of the tribes of the children of Israel, shalbe wife vnto one of the familie of the tribe of her father: that the children of Israel may enioye euery man the inheritance of their fathers. Neither shall the inheritance go about from tribe to tribe: but euery one of the tribes of the children of Israel shall sticke to his own inherittance. As the Lord commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad. For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah the daughters of Zelophehad were married vnto their fathers brothers sones, They were wives to certaine of the families of the sones of Manasseh the sone of Ioseph: so their inheritance remained in the tribe of the familie of their father. These are the commandements and lawes which the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, vnto the children of Israel in the plaine of Moab, by Iorden toward Iericho.
These bee the wordes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on this side Iorden in the wildernesse, in the plaine, ouer against the red Sea, betweene Paran and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Di-zahab. There are eleuen dayes journey from Horeb vnto Kadesh-barnea, by the way of mount Seir. And it came to passe in the first day of the eleuenth moneth, in the fourtieth yeere that Moses spake vnto the children of Israel according vnto all that the Lord had giuen him in commandement vnto them. After that he had slaine Sihon the king of the Amorites which dwelt in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, which dwelt at Ashtaroth in Edrei. On this side Iorden in the lande of Moab began Moses to declare this lawe, saying, The Lord our God spake vnto vs in Horeb, saying, Ye haue dwelt long ynough in this mount, Turne you and depart, and goe vnto the mountaine of the Amorites, and vnto all places neere thereunto in the plaine, in the mountaine, or in the valley: both Southwarde, and to the Sea side, to the land of the Canaanites, and vnto Lebanon: euen vnto the great riuer, the riuer Perath. Beholde, I haue set the land before you: go in and possesse that land which the Lord sware vnto your fathers, Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob, to giue vnto them and to their seede after them. And I spake vnto you the same time, saying, I am not able to beare you my selfe alone: The Lord your God hath multiplied you: and beholde, ye are this day as the starres of heauen in nomber: (The Lord God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many moe as ye are, and blesse you, as he hath promised you) Howe can I alone beare your combrance and your charge, and your strife? Bring you men of wisedome and of vnderstanding, and knowen among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you: Then ye answered me and said, The thing is good that thou hast commanded us to doe. So I tooke the chief of your tribes wise and known men, and made them rulers over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fiftie, and captains over tenne, and officers among your tribes. And I charged your judges that same time, saying, Hear the controversies betweene your brethren, and judge righteously betweene every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him. Ye shall haue no respect of person in judgement, but shall heare the small aswell as the great: yee shall not feare the face of man: for the judgement is Gods: and the cause that is too hard for you, bring vnto me, and I will heare it. Also I commanded you the same time all the things which ye should doe. Then we departed from Horeb, and went through all that great and terrible wildernesse (as yee haue seene) by the way of the mountaine of the Amorites, as the Lord our God commanded vs: and we came to Kadesh-barnea. And I saide vnto you, Yee are come vnto the mountaine of the Amorites, which the Lord our God doeth giue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lord thy God hath layde the land before thee: go vp and possesse it, as the Lord the God of thy fathers hath saide vnto thee: feare not, neither be discouraged. Then ye came vnto me euery one, and said, We wil send men before vs, to search vs out the land and to bring vs word againe, what way we must go vp by, and vnto what cities we shall come. So the saying pleased me well, and I tooke twelue men of you, of euery tribe one. Who departed, and went vp into the mountaine, and came vnto the riuer Eshcol, and searched out the land. And tooke of the fruite of the land in their hands, and brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde againe, and sayd, It is a good land, which the Lord our God doeth giue vs. Notwithstanding, ye would not go vp, but were disobedient vnto the commandement of the Lord your God, And murmured in your tentes, and sayd, Because the Lord hated vs, therefore hath hee brought vs out of the land of Egypt, to deliuer vs into the hand of the Amorites, and to destroy vs. Whither shall we go vp? our brethren haue discouraged our hearts, saying, The people is greater, and taller then we: the cities are great and walled vp to heauen: and moreouer we haue seene the sonnes of the Anakims there. But I sayd vnto you, Dread not, nor be afraid of them. The Lord your God, who goeth before you, he shall fight for you, according to all that he did unto you in Egypt before your eyes. And in the wilderness, where thou hast seen how the Lord thy God bare thee, as a man doeth beare his sonne, in all the way which ye haue gone, until ye came unto this place. Yet for all this ye did not believe the Lord your God, Who went in the way before you, to search you out a place to pitch your tentes in, in fire by night, that ye might see what way to goe, and in a cloud by day. Then the Lord heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, and swore, saying, Surely there shall not one of these men of this froward generation, see that good land, which I sware to give unto your fathers; Save Caleb the son of Iephunneh: he shall see it, and to him will I give the land that he hath troden upon, and to his children, because he hath constantly followed the Lord. Also the Lord was angry with me for your sakes, saying, Thou also shalt not goe in thither, But Joshua the son of Nun which standeth before thee, he shall go in thither: incourage him: for he shall cause Israel to inherit it. Moreover, your children, which ye sayd should be a praye, and your sonses, which in that day had no knowledge betweene good and euill, they shall go in thither, and unto them wil I give it, and they shall possesse it. But as for you, turne backe, and take your journey into the wilderness by the way of the red Sea. Then ye answered and sayd unto me, We haue sinned against the Lord, we wil go vp, and fight, according to all that the Lord our God hath commanded vs: and ye armed you euery man to the warre, and were ready to go vp into the mountaine. But the Lord said unto me, Say unto them, Goe not vp, neither fight, (for I am not among you) least ye fall before your enemies. And when I told you, ye would not heare, but rebelled against the commandement of the Lord, and were presumptuous, and went vp into the mountaine. Then the Amorites which dwelt in that mountaine came out against you, and chased you (as bees vse to doe) and destroyed you in Seir, euen vp to Hormah. And when ye came againe, ye wept before the Lord, but the Lord would not heare your voice, nor incline his eares vnto you. So ye abode in Kadesh a long time, according to the time that ye had remained before.

Then we turned, and took our journey into the wilderness, by the way of the red Sea, as the Lord spake vnto me: and we compassed mount Seir a long time. And the Lord spake vnto me, saying, Ye haue compassed this mountaine long ynough: turne you Northward. And warne thou the people, saying, Ye shall go through the coast of your brethren the children of Esau, which dwell in Seir, and they shall be afraide of you: take ye good heede therefore. Ye shall not prouoke them: for I wil not giue you of their land so much as a foot breadth, because I haue giuen mount Seir vnto Esau for a possession. Ye shall buy meate of them for money to eate, and ye shall also procure water of them for money to drinke. For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee in all the workes of thine hand: he knoweth thy walking through this great wildernes, and the Lord thy God hath bene with thee this fourtie yeere, and thou hast lacked nothing. And when we were departed from our brethren the children of Esau which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plaine, from Elath, and from Ezion-gaber, we turned and went by the way of the wildernes of Moab. Then the Lord sayd vnto me, Thou shalt not vexe Moab, neither prouoke them to battel: for I wil not giue thee of their land for a possession, because I haue giuen Ar vnto the children of Lot for a possession. The Emims dwelt therein in times past, a people great and many, and tall, as the Anakims. They also were taken for gyants as the Anakims: whom the Moabites call Emims. The Horims also dwelt in Seir before time, whome the children of Esau chased out and destroyed them before them, and dwelt in their steade: as Israel shall doe vnto the land of his possession, which the Lord hath giuen them. Now rise vp, sayd I, and get you ouer the riuer Zered: and we went ouer the riuer Zered. The space also wherein we came from Kadesh-barnea, vntill we were come ouer the riuer Zered, was eight and thirtie yeeres, vntill all the generation of the men of warre were wasted out from among the hoste, as the Lord sware vnto them. For in deede the hand of the Lord was against them, to destroy them from among the hoste, till they were consumed. So when all the men of warre were consumed and dead from among the people: Then the Lord spake vnto me, saying, Thou shalt goe through Ar the coast of Moab this day: And thou shalt come neere ouer against the children of Ammon: but shalt not lay siege vnto them, nor moue warre against them: for I will not giue thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession: for I haue giuen it vnto the children of Lot for a possession. That also was taken for a land of gyants: for gyants dwelt therein afore time, whome the Ammonites called Zamzummims: A people that was great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims: but the Lord destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them in their inheritance, and dwelt in their stead: As he did to the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, when he destroyed the Horims before them, and they possessed them, and dwelt in their stead vntil this day. And the Auims which dwelt in Hazarim euuen vnto Azzah, the Caphtorims which came out of Caphtor destroyed them, and dwelt in their steade. Rise vp therefore, sayd the Lord: take your iourney, and passe ouer the riuer Arnon: beholde, I haue giuen into thy hand Sihon, the Amorite, King of Heshbon, and his land: begin to possesse it and prouoke him to battell. This day wil I begin to send thy feare and thy dread, vpon all people vnder the whole heauen, which shall heare thy fame, and shall tremble and quake before thee. Then I sent messengers out of the wildernes of Kedemoth vnto Sihon King of Heshbon, with wordes of peace, saying, Let me passe through thy land: I will go by the hie way: I will neither turne vnto the right hand nor to the left. Thou shalt sell me meate for money, for to eate, and shalt giue me water for money for to drinke: onely I will go through on my foote, (As the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did vnto me) vntill I be come ouer Iorden, into the land which the Lord our God giueth vs. But Sihon the King of Heshbon would not let vs passe by him: for the Lord thy God had hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, because hee would deliuer him into thine hand, as appeareth this day. And the Lord sayd vnto me, Beholde, I haue begun to giue Sihon and his land before thee: begin to possesse and inherite his land. Then came out Sihon to meeete vs, him selfe with all his people to fight at Iahaz. But the Lord our God deliuered him into our power, and we smote him, and his sonnes, and all his people. And we tooke all his cities the same time, and destroyed euery citie, men, and women, and children: we let nothing remaine. Onely the cattell we tooke to our selues, and the spoyle of the cities which we tooke, From Aroer, which is by the banke of the riuer of Arnon, and from the citie that is vpon the riuuer, euen vnto Gilead: there was not one citie that escaped vs: for the Lord our God deliuered vp all before vs. Onely vnto the land of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor vnto any place of the riuuer Iabbok, nor vnto the cities in the mountaines, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lord our God forbade vs.

Then we turned, and went vp by the way of Bashan: and Og King of Bashan came out against vs, he, and all his people to fight at Edrei. And the Lord sayde vnto me, Feare him not, for I will deliuere him, and all his people, and his land into thine hand, and thou shalt doe vnto him as thou diddest vnto Sihon King of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon. So the Lord our God deliuered also vnto our hand, Og the King of Bashan, and all his people: and we smote him, vntill none was left him aliue, And we tooke all his cities the same time, neither was there a citie which we tooke not from them, euen three score cities, and all ye countreys of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. All these cities were fenced with hie walles, gates and barres, beside vnwalled townes a great many. And we ouerthrewe them, as we did vnto Sihon King of Heshbon, destroying euery citie, with men, women, and children. But all the cattell and the spoyle of the cities we tooke for our selues. Thus we tooke at that time out of the hand of two Kings of the Amorites, the land that was on this side Iorden from the riuuer of Arnon vnto mount Hermon: (Which Hermon the Sidonians call Shirion, but the Amorites call it Shenir) All the cities of the plaine, and all Gilead, and all Bashan vnto Salchah, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan. For onely Og King of Bashan remained of the remnant of the gyants, whose bed was a bed of yron: is it not at Rabbath among the children of Ammon? the length thereof is nine cubites, and foure cubites the breadth of it, after the cubite of a man. And this land which we possessed at that time, from Arroer, which is by the riuuer of Arnon, and halfe mount Gilead, and the cities thereof, gaue I vnto the Reubenites and Gadites. And the rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tribe of Manasseh: euen all the countrey of Argob with all Bashan, which is called, The land of gyants. Iair the sonne of Manasseh tooke all the countrey of Argob, vnto the coastes of Geshuri, and of Maachathi: and called them after his owne name, Bashan, Hauoth Iair vnto this day. And I gaue part of Gilead vnto Machir. And vnto the Reubenites and Gadites I gaue the rest of Gilead, and vnto the river of Arnon, halfe the river and the borders, euen vnto the river Iabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon: The plaine also and Iorden, and the borders from Chinneereth euen vnto the Sea of the plaine, to wit, the salt Sea vnder the springs of Pisgah Eastwarde. And I commanded you the same time, saying, The Lord your God hath giuen you this lande to possesse it: ye shall goe ouer armed before your brethren the children of Israel, all men of warre. Your wiues onely, and your children, and your cattel (for I know that ye haue much cattel) shall abide in your cities, which I haue giuen you, Vntill the Lord haue giuen rest vnto your brethren as vnto you, and that they also possesse the lande, which the Lord your God hath giuen them beyond Iorden: then shall ye returne every man vnto his possession, which I haue giuen you. And I charged Ioshua the same time, saying, Thine eyes haue seene all that the Lord your God hath done vnto these two Kings: so shall the Lord doe vnto all the kingdomes whither thou goest. Ye shall not feare them: for the Lord your God, he shall fight for you. And I besought the Lord the same time, saying, O Lord God, thou hast begunne to shewe thy seruant thy greatnesse and thy mightie hande: for where is there a God in heauen or in earth, that can do like thy workes, and like thy power? I pray thee let me go ouer and see the good land that is beyond Iorden, that goodly mountaine, and Lebanon. But the Lord was angrie with me for your sakes, and would not heare me: and the Lord said vnto me, Let it suffice thee, speake no more vnto me of this matter. Get thee vp into the top of Pisgah, and lift vp thine eyes Westward, and Northwarde, and Southward, and Eastward, and behold it with thine eyes, for thou shalt not goe ouer this Iorden: But charge Ioshua, and incourage him, and bolden him: for hee shall goe before this people, and he shall deuide for inheritance vnto them, the land which thou shalt see.
So wee abode in the valley ouer against Beth-Peor.

Nowe therefore hearken, O Israel, vnto the ordinances and to the lawes which I teache you to doe, that ye may liue and goe in, and possesse the lande, which the Lord God of your fathers giueth you. Ye shall put nothing vnto the word which I command you, neither shall ye take ought there from, that ye may keepe the commandements of the Lord your God which I commande you. Your eyes haue seen what the Lord did because of Baal-Peor, for al the men that folowed Baal-Peor the Lord thy God hath destroyed euery one from among you. But ye that did cleaue vnto the Lord your God, are aliue euery one of you this day. Behold, I haue taught you ordinances, and lawes, as the Lord my God commanded me, that ye should doe euens so within the land whither ye goe to possesse it. Keepe them therefore, and doe them; for that is your wisdome, and your vnderstanding in the sight of the people, which shall heare all these ordinances, and shall say, Onely this people is wise, and of vnderstanding, and a great nation. For what nation is so great, vnto whome the gods come so neere vnto them, as the Lord our God is neere vnto vs, in all that we call vnto him for? And what nation is so great, that hath ordinances and lawes so righteous, as all this Lawe, which I set before you this day? But take heede to thy selfe, and keepe thy soule diligently, that thou forget not the thinges which thine eyes haue seene, and that they depart not out of thine heart, all the dayes of thy life: but teach them thy sonnes, and thy sonnes sonnes: Forget not the day that thou stoodest before the Lord thy God in Horeb, when the Lord said vnto me, Gather me the people together, and I wil cause them heare my wordes, that they may learne to feare me all the dayes that they shall liue vpon the earth, and that they may teache their children: Then came you neere and stoode vnder the mountaine, and the mountaine burnt with fire vnto the mids of heauen, and there was darkenesse, cloudes and mist. And the Lord spake vnto you out of the middes of the fire, and ye heard the voyce of the wordes, but sawe no similitude, saue a voyce. Then hee declared vnto you his couenant which he commanded you to doe, euen the ten commandements, and wrote them vpon two tables of stone. And the Lord commanded me that same time, that I should teach you ordinances and lawes, which ye should obserue in the lande, whither ye goe, to possesse it. Take therefore good heede vnto your selues: for ye sawe no image in the day that the Lord spake vnto you in Horeb out of the middes of the fire: That ye corrupt not your selues, and make you a grauen image or representation of any figure: whither it be the likenes of male or female, The likenes of any beast that is on earth, or the likenesse of any fethered foule that flieth in the aire: Or the likenesse of any thing that creepeth on the earth, or the likenesse of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth, And lest thou lift vp thine eyes vnto heauen, and when thou seest the sunne and the moone and the starres with all the host of heauen, shouldest bee driuen to worship them and serue them, which the Lord thy God hath distributed to all people vnder the whole heauen. But the Lord hath taken you and brought you out of the yron fornace: out of Egypt to be vnfo to him a people and inheritance, as appeareth this day. And the Lord was angrie with me for your words, and sware that I should not goe ouer Iorden, and that I should not goe in vnfo that good land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee for an inheritance. For I must die in this land, and shall not goe ouer Iorden: but ye shall goe ouer, and possesse that good land. Take heede vnfo your selues, least ye forget the couenant of the Lord your God which hee made with you, and least ye make you any grauen image, or likenes of any thing, as the Lord thy God hath charged thee. For the Lord thy God is a consuming fire, and a ielous God. When thou shalt beget children and childrens children, and shalt haue remained long in the land, if ye corrupt your selues, and make any grauen image, or likenes of any thing, and worke euill in the sight of the Lord thy God, to prouoke him to anger, I call heauen and earth to record against you this day, that ye shall shortly perish from the land, whereunto ye goe ouer Iorden to possesse it: ye shall not prolong your dayes therein, but shall ytterly be destroyed.
And the Lord shall scatter you among the people, and ye shall be left few in number among the nations, whither the Lord shall bring you: And there ye shall serue gods, euen ye worke of mans hand, wood, and stone, which neither see, nor heare, nor eate, nor smelll. But if from thence thou shalt seeke the Lord thy God, thou shalt finde him, if thou seeke him with all thine heart, and with all thy soule. When thou art in tribulation, and all these things are come vpon thee, at the length if thou returne to the Lord thy God, and bee obedient vnfo his voyce, (For the Lord thy God is a mercifull God) he will not forsake thee, neither destroy thee, nor forget the couenant of thy fathers, which hee sware vnfo them. For inquire now of the dayes that are past, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one ende of heaven unto the other, if there came to passe such a great thing as this, or whether any such like thing hath bene heard. Did euer people heare the voyce of God speaking out of the middes of a fire, as thou hast heard, and liued? Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from among nations, by tentations, by signes, and by wonders, and by warre, and by a mightie hand, and by a stretched out arme, and by great feare, according vnto all that the Lord your God did vnto you in Egypt before your eyes? Vnto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest knowe, that the Lord hee is God, and that there is none but he alone. Out of heauen hee made thee heare his voyce to instruct thee, and vpon earth he shewed thee his great fire, and thou hearest his voyce out of the middes of the fire. And because hee loued thy fathers, therefore hee chose their seede after them, and hath brought thee out of Egypt in his sight by his mightie power, To thrust out nations greater and mightier then thou, before thee, to bring thee in, and to giue thee their land for inheritance: as appeareth this day. Vnderstande therefore this day, and consider in thine heart, that the Lord, he is God in heauen aboue, and vpon the earth beneath: there is none other. Thou shalt keepe therefore his ordinances, and his commandements which I commaund thee this day, that it may goe well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayst prolong thy dayes vpon the earth, which the Lord thy God giueth thee for euer. Then Moses separated three cities on this side of Iorden toward the sunne rising: That the slayer should flee thither, which had killed his neighbour at vnwares, and hated him not in time past, might flee, I say, vnto one of those cities, and liue: That is, Bezer in the wildernesse, in the plaine countrie of the Reubenites: and Ramoth in Gilead among the Gadites: and Golan in Bashan among them of Manasseh. So this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel. These are the witnesses, and the ordinances, and the lawes which Moses declared to the children of Israel after they came out of Egypt, On this side Iorden, in the valley ouer against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon King of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel smote, after they were come out of Egypt: And they possessed his land, and the lande of Og King of Bashan, two Kings of the Amorites, which were on this side Iorden towarde the sunne rising: From Aroer, which is by the banke of the river Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is Hermon, And all the plaine by Iorden Eastwarde, even unto the Sea, of ye plaine, vnder the springs of Pisgah.

Then Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the ordinances and the lawes which I propose to you this day, that ye may learn them, and take heed to observe them.

The Lord our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. The Lord made not this covenant with our fathers onely, but with us, even with us all here alive this day. The Lord talked with you face to face in the Mount, out of the midst of the fire. (At that time I stood betweene the Lord and you, to declare unto you ye word of the Lord: for ye were afraid at the sight of the fire, and went not vp into the mount, and he said, I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. Thou shalt have none other gods before my face. Thou shalt make thee no graven image or any likeness of that that is in heaven above, or which is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters vnder the earth. Thou shalt neither bowe thy selfe vnto them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers vpon the children, even unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me: And shewing mercy vnto thousandes of them that love me, and keepe my commandements. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vaine: for the Lord will not holde him guilt-lesse that taketh his Name in vaine. Keepe the Sabbath day, to sanctifie it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. Sixe dayes thou shalt labour, and shalt doe all thy worke: But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: thou shalt not doe any worke therein, thou, nor thy sonne, nor thy daughter, nor thy man servaunt, nor thy mayd, nor thine oxe, nor thine asse, neither any of thy cattel, nor the stranger that is within thy gates: that thy man servaunt and thy mayd may rest aswell as thou. For, remember that thou wast a servaunt in the land of Egypt, and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence by a mightie hand and a stretched out arm: therefore the Lord thy God commanded thee to observe the Sabbath day. Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath comanded thee, that thy dayes may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee vpon the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee. Thou shalt not kill. Neither shalt thou commit adulterie. Neither shalt thou steale. Neither shalt thou beare false wittesse against thy neighbour. Neither shalt thou couet thy neighbours wife, neither shalt thou desire thy neighbours house, his fiedle, nor his man seruant, nor his mayd, his oxe, nor his asse, nor ought that thy neighbour hath. These wordes the Lord spoke vnto all your multitude in the mount out of the mids of the fire, the cloude and the darkenes, with a great voyce, and added no more thereto: and wrote them vpon two tables of stone, and deliuered them vnto me. And when ye heard the voyce out of the middes of the darkenes, (for the mountaine did burne with fire) then ye came to me, all the chiefe of your tribes, and your Elders: And ye sayd, Beholde, the Lord our God hath shewed vs his glory and his greatnes, and we haue heard his voyce out of the middes of the fire: we haue seene this day that God doeth talke with man, and he liueth. Now therefore, why should we dye? for this great fire wil consume vs: if we heare ye voyce of the Lord our God any more, we shall dye. For what flesh was there euer, that heard the voyce of the liuening God speaking out of the middes of the fire as we haue, and liued? Go thou neere and heare all that the Lord our God saith: and declare thou vnto vs all that the Lord our God saith vnto thee, and we will heare it, and doe it. Then the Lord heard the voyce of your wordes, when ye spake vnto me: and the Lord sayd vnto me, I haue heard the voyce of ye wordes of this people, which they haue spoken vnto thee: they haue well sayd, all that they haue spoken. Oh that there were such an heart in them to feare me, and to keepe all my commandements alway: that it might go well with them, and with their children for euer. Go, say vnto them, Returne you into your tentes. But stand thou here with me, and I wil tell thee all the commandements, and the ordinances, and the lawes, which thou shalt teach them: that they may doe them in the land which I giue them to possesse it. Take heede therefore, that ye doe as the Lord your God hath commanded you: turne not aside to the right hand nor to the left, But walke in all the wayes which the Lord your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may go well with you: and that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye shall possess.

These now are the commandments, ordinances, and lawes, which the Lord your God commanded me to teach you, that ye might doe them in the land whither ye go to possess it:

1. These are the commandments, ordinances, and lawes, which the Lord your God commanded me to teach you, that ye might do them in the land which ye shall possess:

3. And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes. Also thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and upon thy gates. And when the Lord thy God hath brought thee into the land, which he sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give to thee, with great and goodly cities which thou buildedst not, and houses full of all manner of goods which thou filledst not, and wells digged which thou diggest not, vineyards and olive trees which thou plantedst not, and when thou hast eaten and art full, beware lest thou forget the Lord, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him, and shalt swear by his Name.

4. Ye shall not walk after other gods, after any of the gods of the people which are round about you, (For the Lord thy God is a jealous God among you:) lest the wrath of the Lord thy God be kindled against thee, and destroy thee from the face of the earth.

5. Ye shall not tempt the Lord your God, as ye did tempt him in Massah: But ye shall keep diligently the commandments of the Lord your God, and his testimonies, and his ordinances which he hath commanded thee, And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord: that thou mayest prosper, and that thou mayest go in, and possess that good land which the Lord sware vnto thy fathers, To cast out all thine enemies before thee, as the Lord hath sayd. When thy sonne shall aske thee in time to come, saying, What meane these testimonies, and ordinances, and Lawes, which the Lord our God hath commanded you? Then shalt thou say vnto thy sonne, We were Pharaohs bondmen in Egypt: but the Lord brought vs out of Egypt with a mightie hand. And the Lord shewed signes and wonders great and euill vpon Egypt, vpon Pharaoh, and vpon all his housholde, before our eyes, And brought vs out from thence, to bring vs in, and to giue vs the land which he sware vnto our fathers. Therefore the Lord hath commanded vs, to doe all these ordinances, and to feare the Lord our God, that it may goe euer well with vs, and that he may preserue vs aliue as at this present. Moreover, this shall be our righteousnes before the Lord our God, if we take heede to keepe all these commandements, as he hath commanded vs.

When the Lord thy God shall bring thee into the land whither thou goest to possesse it, and shall roote out many nations before thee: the Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, seuen nations greater and mightier then thou, And the Lord thy God shall giue them before thee, then thou shalt smite them: thou shalt vtterly destroy them: thou shalt make no couenant with them, nor haue compassion on them, Neither shalt thou make marriages with them, neither giue thy daughter vnto his sonne, nor take his daughter vnto thy sonne. For they wil cause thy sonne to turne away from me, and to serue other gods: then will the wrath of the Lord waxe hote against you and destroy thee suddenly. But thus ye shall deale with them, Ye shall ouerthrowe their altars, and breake downe their pillars, and ye shall cut downe their groues, and burne their grauen images with fire. For thou art an holy people vnto the Lord thy God, the Lord thy God hath chosen thee, to be a precious people vnto himselfe, aboue all people that are vpon the earth. The Lord did not set his loue vpon you, nor chose you, because ye were more in number then any people: for ye were the fewest of all people: But because the Lord loued you, and because hee would keepe the othe which hee had sworne vnto your fathers, the Lord hath brought you out by a mightie hand, and deliuered you out of the house of bondage from the hand of Pharaoh King of Egypt. That thou mayest knowe, that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithfull God which keepeth couenant and mercie vnto them that loue him and keepe his commandements, euen to a thousand generations. And rewardeth them to their face that hate him, to bring them to destruction: he wil not deferre to reward him that hateth him, to his face. Keepe thou therefore the commandements, and the ordinances, and the lawes, which I commaund thee this day to doe them. For if ye hearken vnto these lawes, and observer and doe them, then the Lord thy God shall keepe with thee the couenant, and the mercie which he sware vnto thy fathers. And he wil loue thee, and blesse thee, and multiplie thee: he will also blesse the fruite of thy wombe, and the fruite of thy land, thy corne and thy wine, and thine oyle and the increase of thy kine, and the flockes of thy sheepe in the land, which he sware vnto thy fathers to giue thee. Thou shalt be blessed aboue all people: there shall be neither male nor female barren among you, nor among your cattell. Moreover, the Lord will take away from thee all infirmities, and will put none of the euill diseases of Egypt (which thou knowest) vpon thee, but wil send them vpon all that hate thee. Thou shalt therefore consume all people which the Lord thy God shall giue thee: thine eye shall not spare them, neither shalt thou serue their gods, for that shalbe thy destruction. If thou say in thine heart, These nations are moe then I, how can I cast them out? Thou shalt not feare them, but remember what the Lord thy God did vnto Pharaoh, and vnto all Egypt: The great tentations which thine eyes sawe, and the signes and wonders, and the mighty hand and stretched out arme, whereby the Lord thy God brought thee out: so shall the Lord thy God do vnto all ye people, whose face thou fearest. Moreover, the Lord thy God will send hornets among them vntil they that are left, and hide themselves from thee, be destroyed. Thou shalt not feare them: for the Lord thy God is among you, a God mightie and dreadful. And the Lord thy God wil roote out these nations before thee by little and little: thou mayest not consume them at once, least the beasts of the fielde increase vpon thee. But the Lord thy God shall give them before thee, and shall destroy them with a mighty destruction, until they be brought to naught. And he shall deliver their kings into thine hand, and thou shalt destroy their name from under heaven: there shall no man be able to stand before thee, until thou hast destroyed them. The graven images of their gods shall ye burn with fire, and covet not the silver and gold, that is on them, nor take it unto thee, least thou be snared therewith: for it is an abomination before the Lord thy God. Bring not therefore abomination into thine house, lest thou be accursed like it, but utterly abhorre it, and count it most abominable: for it is accursed.

Ye shall keep all the commandments which I command thee this day, for to do them: that ye may live, and be multiplied, and go in, and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers. And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness, for to humble thee and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments or no. Therefore he humbled thee, and made thee hungry, and fed thee with MAN, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know it, that he might teach thee that man lieth not by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord, doth a man live. Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot swell those forty years. Know therefore in thine heart, that as a man nourisheth his son, so the Lord thy God nourisheth thee. Therefore shalt thou keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, that thou mayest walk in his ways, and fear him. For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land in which are rivers of water and fountains, and depths that spring out of valleys and mountains: A land of wheat and barley, and of vineyards, and figtrees, and pomegranates: A land of oil and wine and honey: A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarcitie, neither shalt thou lack any thing therein: a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose mountains thou shalt digge brass. And when thou hast eaten and filled thy selfe, thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land, which he hath given thee. Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, not keeping his commandments, and his lawes, and his ordinances, which I command thee this day: Lest when thou hast eaten and filled thy selfe, and hast built goodly houses and dwelt therein, And thy beastes, and thy sheepe are increased, and thy siluer and golde is multiplied, and all that thou hast is increased, Then thine heart be lifted vp and thou forget the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, Who was thy guide in the great and terrible wildernes (wherein were fierie serpents, and scorpions, and drought, where was no water, who brought forth water for thee out of ye rock of flint: Who fed thee in the wildernesse with MAN, which thy fathers knewe not) to humble thee, and and to proue thee, that he might doe thee good at thy latter ende. Beware least thou say in thine heart, My power, and the strength of mine owne hand hath prepared me this abundance. But remember the Lord thy God: for it is he which giueth thee power to get substance to establish his couenant which he sware vnto thy fathers, as appeareth this day. And if thou forget the Lord thy God, and walke after other gods, and serue them, and worship them, I testifie vnto you this day that ye shall surely perish. As the nations which the Lord destroyeth before you, so ye shall perish, because ye woulde not be obedient vnto the voyce of the Lord your God.

Heare O Israel, Thou shalt passe ouer Iorden this day, to goe in and to possesse nations greater and mightier then thy selfe, and cities great and walled vp to heauen, A people great and tall, euen the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak? Vnderstand therefore that this day ye Lord thy God is he which goeth ouer before thee as a consuming fire: he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them downe before thy face: so thou shalt cast them out and destroy them suddenly, as the Lord hath said vnto thee. Speake not thou in thine heart (after that the Lord thy God hath cast them out before thee) saying, For my righteousnesse the Lord hath cast me in, to possesse this land: but for the wickednesse of these nations the Lord hath cast them out before thee. For thou entrest not to inherite their lande for thy righteousnesse, or for thy vpright heart: but for the wickednesse of those nations, the Lord thy God doth cast them out before thee, and that he might performe the worde which the Lord thy God sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Izhak, and Iacob. Vnderstand therefore, that ye Lord thy God giueth thee not this good land to possesse it for thy righteousnes: for thou art a stifnecked people. Remember, and forget not, howe thou prouokedst the Lord thy God to anger in the wildernesse: since the day that thou diddest depart out of the land of Egypt, vntill ye came vnto this place ye haue rebelled against the Lord. Also in Horeb ye prouoked the Lord to anger so that the Lord was wroth with you, euen to destroy you. When I was gone vp into the mount, to receiue the tables of stone, the tables, I say, of the couenant, which the Lord made with you: and I abode in the mount fourtie daies and fourtie nights, and I neither ate bread nor yet dranke water: Then the Lord deliuered me two tables of stone, written with the finger of God, and in them was conteyned according to all the wordes which the Lord had said vnto you in the mount out of the middes of the fire, in the day of the assemblie. And when the fourtie daies and fourtie nightes were ended, the Lord gaue me the two tables of stone, the tables, I say, of the couenant. And the Lord said vnto me, Arise, get thee downe quickly from hence: for thy people which thou hast brought out of Egypt, haue corrupt their wayes: they are soone turned out of the way, which I commanded them: they haue made them a molten image. Furthermore, the Lord spake vnto me, saying, I haue seene this people, and beholde, it is a stifnecked people. Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and put out their name from vnder heaue, and I wil make of thee a mightie nation, and greater then they be. So I returned, and came downe from the Mount (and the Mount burnt with fire, and ye two Tables of the couenant were in my two handes) Then I looked, and beholde, ye had sinned against the Lord your God: for ye had made you a molten calfe, and had turned quickly out of the way which the Lord had commanded you. Therefore I tooke the two Tables, and cast them out of my two handes, and brake them before your eyes. And I fell downe before the Lord, fourtie dayes, and fourtie nightes, as before: I neither ate bread nor dranke water, because of al your sinnes, which ye had committed, in doing wickedly in the sight of the Lord, in that ye prouoked him vnto wrath. (For I was afraide of the wrath and indignation, wherewith the Lord was mooued against you, euen to destroy you) yet the Lord heard me at that time also.
Likewise ye Lord was very angrie with Aaron, euem to destroy him: but at that time I prayed also for Aaron. And I tooke your sinne, I meane the calfe which ye had made, and burnt him with fire, and stamped him and ground him small, euem vnsto very dust: and I cast the dust thereof into the riuere, that descended out of the mount. Also in Taberah, and in Massah and in Kibrothhattaauah ye prouoked ye Lord to anger. Likewise when the Lord sent you from Kadesh-barnea, saying, Goe vp, and possesse the land which I haue giuen you, then ye rebelled against the commandement of the Lord your God, and beleueued him not, nor hearkened vnsto his voyce. Ye haue bene rebellious vnsto the Lord, since the day that I knewe you. Then I fell downe before ye Lord fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes, as I fell downe before, because ye Lord had said, that he woulde destroy you. And I prayed vnsto the Lord, and saide, O Lord God, destroy not thy people and thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatnesse, whom thou hast brought out of Egypt by a mightie hand. Remember thy servaunts Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob: looke not to ye stubburnes of this people, nor to their wickednes, nor to their sinne, Lest the countrey, whence thou broughtest them, say, Because ye Lord was not able to bring them into the land which he promised them, or because he hated them, he caried them out, to slay them in the wildernes. Yet they are thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest out by thy mightie power, and by thy stretched out arme.

In the same time the Lord said vnsto me, Hewe thee two Tables of stone like vnsto the first, and come vp vnsto me into the Mount, and make thee an Arke of wood, And I will write vnpon the Tables ye wordes that were vnpon the first Tables, which thou brakest, and thou shalt put them in the Arke. And I made an Arke of Shittim wood, and hewed two Tables of stone like vnsto the first, and went vp into the Mountaine, and the two Tables in mine hand. Then he wrote vnpon the Tables according to the first writing (the tenne commandements, which the Lord spake vnsto you in the Mount out of the middes of the fire, in the day of the assemblie) and the Lord gaue them vnsto me. And I departed, and came downe from the Mount, and put the Tables in the Arke which I had made: and there they be, as the Lord commanded me. And ye children of Israel tooke their iourney from Beeroth of the children of Iaakan to Mosera, where Aaron dyed, and was buried, and Eleazar his sonne became Priest in his steade. From thence they departed vnto Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Iotbath a land of running waters. The same time ye Lord separated the tribe of Leui to beare the Arke of the covenant of the Lord, and to stand before ye Lord, to minister vnto him, and to blesse in his Name vnto this day. Wherefore Leui hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren: for the Lord is his inheritance, as the Lord thy God hath promised him. And I taried in the mount, as at ye first time, fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes, and the Lord heard me at that time also, and the Lord would not destroy thee. But the Lord said vnto me, Arise, goe forth in the iourney before the people, that they may goe in and possesse the land, which I sake vnto their fathers to giue vnto them. And nowe, Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to feare the Lord thy God, to walke in all his wayes, and to loue him, and to serue the Lord thy God, with all thine heart, and with all thy soule? That thou keepe the commandements of the Lord, and his ordinances, which I commaund thee this day, for thy wealth? Beholde, heauen, and the heauen of heauens is the Lords thy God, and the earth, with all that therein is. Notwithstanding, the Lord set his delite in thy fathers to loue them, and did choose their seede after them, euene you aboue all people, as appeareth this day. Circumcise therefore the foreskin of your heart, and harden your neckes no more. For the Lord your God is God of gods, and Lord of lordes, a great God, mightie and terrible, which accepteth no persons nor taketh reward: Who doeth right vnto the fatherlesse and widowe, and loueth the stranger, giuing him foode and rayment. Loue ye therefore the stranger: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt. Thou shalt feare the Lord thy God: thou shalt serue him, and thou shalt cleaue vnto him, and shalt sweare by his Name. He is thy praise, and hee is thy God, that hath done for thee these great and terrible things, which thine eyes haue seene. Thy fathers went downe into Egypt with seuentie persons, and now the Lord thy God hath made thee, as ye starres of ye heauen in multitude.

Therefore thou shalt loue the Lord thy God, and shalt keepe that, which he commandeth to be kept: that is, his ordinances, and his lawes, and his commandements alway. And consider this day (for I speake not to your children, which haue neither knowne nor seene) the chastisement of the Lord your God, his greatnesse, his mighty hande, and his stretched out arme, And his signes, and his actes, which hee did in the middes of Egypt vnto Pharaoh the King of Egypt and vnto all his land: And what he did vnto the hoste of the Egyptians, vnto their horses, and to their charets, when he caused the waters of the red Sea to ouerflowe them, as they pursued after you, and the Lord destroyed them vnto this day: And what he did vnto you in the wildesnesse, vntill yee came vnto this place: And what he did vnto Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab ye sonne of Reuben, when the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them with their housholds and their tents, and all their substance that they had in the middes of al Israel. For your eyes haue seene all the great actes of the Lord which he did. Therefore shall ye keepe all the commandements, which I commaund you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possesse the land whither ye goe to possesse it: Also that ye may prolong your daies in the land, which the Lord sware vnto your fathers, to giue vnto them and to their seede, euen a lande that floweth with milke and honie. For the land whither thou goest to possesse it, is not as the lande of Egypt, from whence ye came, where thou sowedst thy seede, and wateredst it with thy feete as a garden of herbes: But the land whither ye goe to possesse it, is a land of mountaines and valleis, and drinketh water of the raine of heauen. This land doth the Lord thy God care for: the eies of the Lord thy God are alwaies vpon it, from the beginning of the yeere, euen vnnto the ende of the yeere. If yee shall hearken therefore vnnto my commandements, which I commaund you this day, that yee loue the Lord your God and serue him with all your heart, and with all your soule, I also wil giue raine vnnto your land in due time, the first raine and the latter, that thou maist gather in thy wheat, and thy wine, and thine oyle. Also I will send grasse in thy fieldes, for thy cattel, that thou maist eate, and haue inough. But beware lest your heart deceiue you, and lest yee turne aside, and serue other gods, and worship them, And so the anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and he shut vp the heauen, that there be no raine, and that your lande yeelde not her fruit, and yee perish quickly from the good land, which the Lord giueth you. Therefore shall ye lay vp these my words in your heart and in your soule, and binde them for a signe vpon your hand, that they may be as a frontlet betweene your eyes, And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them, whe thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest downe, and when thou risest vp. And thou shalt write them vpon the postes of thine house, and vpon thy gates, That your daies may be multiplied, and the daies of your children, in ye land which the Lord sware vnto your fathers to giue them, as long as the heauens are aboue the earth. For if ye keepe diligently all these commandements, which I command you to doe: that is, to loue the Lord your God, to walke in all his waies, and to cleaue vnto him, Then will the Lord cast out all these nations before you, and ye shall possesse great nations and mightier then you. All the places whereon the soles of your feete shall tread, shalbe yours: your coast shalbe from the wildernes and from Lebanon, and from the Riuere, euen the riuere Perath, vnto ye vttermost Sea. No man shall stande against you: for the Lord your God shall cast the feare and dread of you vpon all the land that ye shall treade vpon, as he hath said vnto you. Beholde, I set before you this day a blessing and a curse: The blessing, if ye obey the commandements of the Lord your God which I command you this day: And ye curse, if ye wil not obey the commandements of the Lord your God, but turne out of the way, which I commande you this day, to go after other gods, which ye haue not knowen. When the Lord thy God therefore hath brought thee into ye lande, whither thou goest to possesse it, then thou shalt put the blessing vpon mount Gerizim, and the curse vpon mount Ebal. Are they not beyond Iorden on that part, where the sunne goeth downe in the land of the Canaanites, which dwel in the plaine ouer against Gilgal, beside the groue of Moreh? For yee shall passe ouer Iorden, to goe in to possesse the land, which ye Lord your God giueth you, and ye shall possesse it, and dwell therein. Take heede therefore that ye doe all the commandements and the lawes, which I set before you this day.

These are the ordinances and the lawes, which ye shall obserue and doe in the lande (which the Lord God of thy fathers giueth thee to possesse it) as long as yee liue vpon the earth. Yee shall utterly destroy all the places wherein the nations which ye shall possesse, serued their gods vpon the hie mountaines and vpon the hilles, and vnder euery greene tree. Also ye shall overthowe their altars, and breake downe their pillers, and burne their groues with fire: and ye shall hew downe ye grauen images of their gods, and abolish their names out of that place. Ye shall not do so vnto ye Lord your God, But ye shall seeke the place which the Lord your God shall chose out of all your tribes, to put his Name there, and there to dwell, and thither thou shalt come, And ye shall bring thither your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the offering of your hands, and your vowes, and your free offrings, and the first borne of your kine and of your sheepe. And there ye shall eate before the Lord your God, and ye shall reioyce in all that yee put your hand vnto, both ye, and your housholdes, because the Lord thy God hath blessed thee. Ye shall not doe after all these things that we doe here this day: that is, euery man whatsoeuer seemeth him good in his owne eyes. For ye are not yet come to rest, and to the inheritance which the Lord thy God giueth thee. But when ye goe ouer Iorden, and dwell in ye land, which the Lord your God hath giuen you to inherit, and when he hath giue you rest from al your enemies round about, and yee dwel in safetie, When there shalbe a place which the Lord your God shall chose, to cause his name to dwell there, thither shall yee bring all that I commaund you: your burnt offrings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the offering of your hands, and all your speciall vowes which ye vowe vnto the Lord: And ye shall reioyce before the Lord your God, yee, and your sonnes and your daughters, and your seruaunts, and your maidens, and the Leuite that is within your gates: for hee hath no part nor inheritance with you. Take heede that thou offer not thy burnt offerings in every place that thou seest: But in ye place which the Lord shall chose in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt offerings, and there thou shalt doe all that I commaund thee. Notwithstanding thou maiest kill and eate flesh in all thy gates, whatsoeuer thine heart desireth, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath giuen thee: both the vncleane and the cleane may eate thereof, as of the roe bucke, and of the hart. Onely ye shall not eat the blood, but powre it vpon the earth as water. Thou maist nor eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corne, nor of thy wine, nor of thine oyle, nor the first borne of thy kine, nor of thy sheep, neither any of thy vowes which thou vowest, nor thy free offerings, nor the offering of thine hands. But thou shalt eate it before the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord thy God shall chuse, thou, and thy sonne, and thy daughter, and thy seruat, and thy maid, and the Leuite that is within thy gates: and thou shalt reioyce before the Lord thy God, in all that thou puttest thine hand to. Beware, that thou forsake not the Leuite, as long as thou liuest vpon the earth. When the Lord thy God shall enlarge thy border, as hee hath promised thee, and thou shalt say, I wil eate flesh, (because thine heart longeth to eate flesh) thou maiest eate flesh, whatsoeuer thine heart desireth. If the place which the Lord thy God hath chosen to put his Name there, be farre from thee, then thou shalt kill of thy bullockes, and of thy sheepe which the Lord hath giuen thee, as I haue commanded thee, and thou shalt eat in thy gates, whatsoeuer thine heart desireth. Euen as the roe bucke, and the hart is eaten, so shalt thou eat them. both the vncleane and the cleane shall eate of them alike. Onely bee sure that thou eate not the blood: for the blood is the life, and thou maiest not eate the life with the flesh. Therefore thou shalt not eat it, but powre it vpon the earth as water. Thou shalt not eat it, that it may go well with thee; and with thy children after thee, when thou shalt doe that which is right in the sight of the Lord: But thine holy things which thou hast, and thy vowes thou shalt take vp, and come vnto the place which the Lord shall chuse. And thou shalt make thy burnt offerings of the flesh, and of the blood vpon the altar of the Lord thy God, and the blood of thine offerings shall bee powred vpon the altar of the Lord thy God, and thou shalt eate the flesh. Take heede, and heare all these woordes which I commaund thee, that it may goe well with thee, and with thy children after thee for euer, when thou doest that which is good and right in the sight of the Lord thy God. When the Lord thy God shall destroy the nations before thee, whither thou goest to possesse them, and thou shalt possesse them and dwell in their lande, Beware, lest thou be taken in a snare af ter them, after that they be destroyed before thee, and lest thou 31 ask after their gods, saying, Howe did these nations serve their gods, that I may doe so likewise? Thou shalt not doe so vnto 32 the Lord thy God: for al abomination, which the Lord hateth, 33 haue they done vnto their gods: for they haue burned both their sonnes and their daughters with fire to their gods. Therefore 34 whatsoever I command you, take heede you doe it: thou shalt 35 put nothing thereto, nor take ought therefrom.

13 If there arise amog you a prophet or a dreamer of dreames, 2 (and giue thee a signe or wonder, And the signe and the wonder, which hee hath tolde thee, come to passe) saying, Let vs go after 3 other gods, which thou hast not knownen, and let vs serue them, Thou shalt not hearken vnto the wordes of the prophet, or vnto 4 that dreamer of dreames: for the Lord your God prooueth you, to knowe whether ye loue the Lord your God with al your heart, and with all your soule. Yee shall walke after the Lord your 5 God and feare him, and shall keepe his commandements, and hearken vnto his voyce, and yee shall serue him, and cleaue vnto 6 him. But that prophet, or that dreamer of dreames, he shall 7 be slaine, because hee hath spoken to turne you away from the Lord your God (which brought you out of the lande of Egypt, 8 and deliuered you out of the house of bodage) to thrust thee out of the way, wherein the Lord thy God commanded thee to walke: so shalt thou take the euill away foorth of the middes of thee.
9 If thy brother, the sonne of thy mother, or thine owne sonne, or thy daughter, or the wife, that lyeth in thy bosome, or thy friend, which is as thine owne soule, intice thee secretly, saying, Let vs goe and serue other gods, (which thou hast not knowen, thou, I say, nor thy fathers) Any of the gods of the people which are round about you, neere vnto thee or farre off from thee, from the one ende of the earth vnto ye other: Thou shalt not cosent vnito him, nor heare him, neither shall thine eye pitie him, nor shewe mercie, nor keepe him secret: But thou shalt euen kill him: thine hand shall be first vpon him to put him to death, and then the handes of all the people. And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he dye (because he hath gone about to thrust thee away from the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of ye land of Egypt, from ye house of bondage) That all Israel may heare and feare, and doe no more any such wickednesse as this among you. If thou shalt heare say (concerning any of thy cities which the Lord thy God hath giuen thee to dwell in) Wicked men are gone out from among you, and haue drawen away the inhabitants of their citie, saying, Let vs go and serue other gods, which ye haue not known, Then thou shalt seeke, and make searche and enquire diligently: and if it be true, and the thing certaine, that such abomination is wrought among you, Thou shalt euen slay the inhabitants of that citie with the edge of the sworde: destroy it vtterly, and all that is therein, and the cattel thereof with the edge of the sworde. And thou shalt gather all the spoyle of it into the middes of the streete thereof, and burne with fire the citie and all the spoyle thereof every whit, vnto the Lord thy God: and it shall be an heape for euer: it shall not be built againe. And there shall cleaue nothing of ye damned thing to thine hand, that the Lord may turne from the fiercenes of his wrath, and shewe thee mercie, and haue compassion on thee and multiplie thee, as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers: When thou shalt obey the voyce of the Lord thy God, and keepe all his commandements which I command thee this day, that thou do that which is right in the eyes of the Lord thy God.

Ye are the children of the Lord your God. Ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make you any baldnesse betweene your eyes for the dead. For thou art an holy people vnto ye Lord thy God, and the Lord hath chosen thee to be a precious people vnto himselfe, aboue all the people that are vpon the earth. Thou shalt eate no maner of abomination. These are the beastes, which ye shall eate, the beefe, the sheepe, and the goate, The hart, and the roe buck, and the bugle, and the wilde goate, and the vnicorne, and the wilde oxe, and the chamois. And euery beast that parteth ye hoofe, and cleaueth the clift into two clawes, and is of the beasts that cheweth the cudde, that shall ye eate. But these ye shall not eate, of them that chew the cud, and of them that deuide and cleaue the hoofe onely: ye camell, nor the hare, nor the cony: for they chewe the cudde, but deuide not ye hoofe: therefore they shall be vncleane vnto you: Also the swine, because he deuideth the hoofe, and cheweth not the cud, shalbe vncleane vnto you: ye shall not eate of their flesh, nor touch their dead carkeises. These ye shall eate, of all that are in the waters: all that haue finnes and scales shall
And whatsoever hath no finnes nor scales, ye shall not eate: it shall be vnuncleane vnnto you. Of all cleane birdes ye shall eate: But these are they, whereof ye shall not eate: the eagle, nor the goshawke, nor the osprey, Nor the glead nor the kite, nor the vulture, after their kind, Nor all kinde of rauens, Nor the ostrich, nor the nightcrow, nor the semeaw, nor the hawke after her kinde, Neither the litle owle, nor the great owle, nor the redshanke, Nor the pellicane, nor the swanne, nor the cormorant: The storke also, and the heron in his kinde, nor the lapwing, nor the backe. And euery creeping thing that flieth, shall be vnuncleane vnnto you: it shall not be eaten. But of all cleane foules ye may eate. Ye shall eate of nothing that dieth alone, but thou shalt giue it vnnto the stranger that is within thy gates, that he may eate it: or thou maiest sell it vnnto a stranger: for thou art an holy people vnnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mothers milke. Thou shalt giue the tithe of all the increase of thy seede, that commeth forth of the fielde yeere by yeere. And thou shalt eate before the Lord thy God (in the place which he shall chose to cause his Name to dwell there) the tithe of thy corne, of thy wine, and of thine oyle, and the first borne of thy kine and of thy sheepe, that thou maiest learne to feare the Lord thy God alway. And if the way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to cary it, because the place is farre from thee, where the Lord thy God shall chose to set his Name, when the Lord thy God shall blesse thee, Then shalt thou make it in money, and take the money in thine hand, and goe vnnto the place which the Lord thy God shall chose. And thou shalt bestowe the money for whatsoever thine heart desireth: whether it be oxe, or sheepe, or wine, or strong drinke, or whatsoever thine heart desireth: and shalt eate it there before the Lord thy God, and reioyce, both thou, and thine household. And the Leuite that is within thy gates, shalt thou not forsake: for he hath neither part nor inheritance with thee. At the end of three yeere thou shalt bring foorth all the tithes of thine increase of the same yeere, and lay it vp within thy gates. Then ye Leuite shall come, because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee, and the stranger, and the fatherlesse, and the widowe, which are within thy gates, and shall eate, and be filled, that the Lord thy God may blesse thee in al the worke...

At the terme of seuen yeeres thou shalt make a freedome. [15]

And this is the maner of the freedome: euery creditour shall quite ye lone of his hand which he hath lent to his neighbour: he shall not aske it againe of his neighbour, nor of his brother: for the yeere of the Lords freedome is proclaimed. Of a stranger thou mayest require it: but that which thou hast with thy brother, thine hand shall remit: Saue when there shall be no poore with thee: for the Lord shall blesse thee in the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee, for an inheritance to possesse it: So that thou hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God to observe and doe all these commandements, which I commande thee this day. For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee, as he hath promised thee: and thou shalt lend vnto many nations, but thou thy selfe shalt not borow, and thou shalt reigne ouer many nations, and they shall not reigne ouer thee. If one of thy brethren with thee be poore within any of thy gates in thy land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee, thou shalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poore brother: But thou shalt open thine hand vnto him, and shalt lend him sufficient for his neede which he hath. Beware that there be not a wicked thought in thine heart, to say, The seuenth yeere, the yeere of freedome is at hand: therefore it grieueth thee to looke on thy poore brother, and he crie vnto the Lord against thee, so that sinne be in thee: Thou shalt giue him, and let it not grieue thine heart to giue vnto him: for because of this the Lord thy God shall blesse thee in al thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand to. Because there shall be euer some poore in the land, therefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open thine hand vnto thy brother, to thy needie, and to thy poore in thy land. If thy brother an Ebrewe sell himselfe to thee, or an Ebrewesse, and serue thee sixe yeere, euen in the seuenth yeere thou shalt let him goe free from thee: And when thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him goe away emptie, But shalt giue him a liberall reward of thy sheepe, and of thy corne, and of thy wine: thou shalt giue him of that wherewith the Lord thy God hath blessed thee. And remember that thou wast a seruant in the land of Egypt, and the Lord thy God deliuered thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day.
And if he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee, because he loueth thee and thine house, and because he is well with thee, Then shalt thou take a naule, and perce his eare through against the doore, and he shall be thy seruant for euer: and vnto thy maid seruant thou shall doe likewise. Let it not grieue thee, when thou lettest him goe out free from thee: for he hath serued thee sixe yeeres, which is the double worth of an hired seruant: and the Lord thy God shall blesse thee in all that thou doest.
All the first borne males that come of thy cattell, and of thy sheepe, thou shalt sanctifie vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt do no worke with thy first borne bullocke, nor sheare thy first borne sheepe. Thou shalt eate it before the Lord thy God yeere by yeere, in the place which the Lord shall chose, both thou, and thine household. But if there be any blemish therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or haue any euill fault, thou shalt not offer it vnto the Lord thy God. But shalt eate it within thy gates: the vnicleane, and the cleane shall eate it alike, as the roe bucke, and as the hart. Onely thou shalt not eate the blood thereof, but powre it vpon the ground as water.

Thou shalt keepe the moneth of Abib, and thou shalt celebrate the Passeouer vnto the Lord thy God: for in the moneth of Abib ye Lord thy God brought thee out of Egypt by night.
Thou shalt therefore offer the Passeouer vnto the Lord thy God, of sheepe and bullockes in the place where the Lord shall chose to cause his Name to dwell. Thou shalt eate no leauened bread with it: but seuen dayes shalt thou eate vnleauened bread therewith, even the bread of tribulation: for thou camest out of the land of Egypt in haste, that thou maist remember ye day whe thou camest out of the land of Egypt, all the dayes of thy life.
And there shalbe no leauen seene with thee in all thy coastes seuen dayes long: neither shall there remaine the night any of the flesh vntil the morning which thou offeredst ye first day at euen. Thou maist not offer ye Passeouer within any of thy gates, which ye Lord thy God giveth thee: But in the place which the Lord thy God shall choose to place his Name, there thou shalt offer the Passeouer at euen, about the going downe of the sunne, in the season that thou camest out of Egypt. And thou shalt roste and eate it in the place which the Lord thy God shall choose, and shalt returne on the morowe, and goe unto thy tentes. Six daies shalt thou eate vnleauened bread, and ye seventh day shall be a solemnne assemblie to ye Lord thy God thou shalt do no worke therein. Seuen weekes shalt thou number vnto thee, and shalt beginne to number ye seuen weekes, when thou beginnest to put the sickel to ye corne: And thou shalt keepe the feast of weekes vnto the Lord thy God, even a free gift of thine hand, which thou shalt giue vnto the Lord thy God, as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee. And thou shalt reioyce before the Lord thy God, thou and thy sonne, and thy daughter, and thy servaunt, and thy maide, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherles, and the widowe, that are among you, in the place which the Lord thy God shall chuse to place his Name there, And thou shalt remember that thou wast a servaunt in Egypt: therefore thou shalt obserue and doe these ordinances. Thou shalt obserue the feast of the Tabernacles seuen daies, when thou hast gathered in thy corne, and thy wine. And thou shalt reioyce in thy feast, thou, and thy sonne, and thy daughter, and thy servaunt, and thy maid, and the Leuite, and the stranger, and the fatherlesse, and the widow, that are within thy gates. Seuen daies shalt thou keepe a feast vnto the Lord thy God in the place which the Lord shall chuse: when the Lord thy God shall blesse thee in all thine increase, and in all the workes of thine hands, thou shalt in any case be glad. Three times in the yeere shall all the males appeare before the Lord thy God in the place which he shall chuse: in the feast of the vnleauen bread, and in the feast of the weekes, and in the feast of the Tabernacles: and they shall not appeare before the Lord emptie. Euery man shall giue according to the gift of his hand, and according to the blessing of the Lord thy God, which he hath giuen thee. Judges and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy cities, which the Lord thy God giueth thee, throughout thy tribes: and they shall iudge the people with righteous iudge-ment. Wrest not thou ye Law, nor respect any person, neither take rewarde: for the reward blindeth ye eyes of the wise, and peruerteth ye worde of ye iust. That which is iust and right shalt thou follow, that thou maiest liue, and possesse the land which the Lord thy God giueth thee. Thou shalt plant thee no groue of any trees neere vnto the altar of the Lord thy God, which thou shalt make thee. Thou shalt set thee vp no pillar, which thing the Lord thy God hateth.

17 Thou shalt offer unto the Lord thy God no bullocke nor sheepe wherein is blemish or any euill fauoured thing: for that is an abomination vnto the Lord thy God. If there be founde among you in any of thy cities, which the Lord thy God giueth thee, man or woman that hath wrought wickednes in the sight of the Lord thy God, in transgressing his couenant, And hath gone and serued other gods, and worshipped them: as the sunne, or the moone, or any of the hoste of heauen, which I haue not commanded, And it be tolde vnto thee, and thou hast heard it, then shalt thou inquiere diligently: and if it be true, and the thing certaine, that such abomination is wrought in Israel, Then shalt thou bring foorth that man, or that woman (which haue committed that wicked thing) vnto thy gates, whether it be man or woman, and shalt stone them with stones, til they die. At the mouth of two or three witnesses shall he that is woorthie of death, die: but at the mouth of one witnesse, he shall not die. The handes of the witnesses shall be first vpon him, to kill him: and afterward the hands of all the people: so thou shalt take the wicked away from among you. If there rise a matter too harde for thee in iudgement betweene blood and blood, betweene plea and plea, betweene plague and plague, in the matters of controuersie within thy gates, then shalt thou arise, and goe vp vnto the place which the Lord thy God shall chuse, And thou shalt come vnto the Priestes of the Leuites, and vnto the iudge that shall be in those daies, and aske, and they shall shewe thee the sentence of iudgement, And thou shalt do according to that thing which they of that place (which the Lord hath chosen) shewe thee, and thou shalt obserue to doe according to all that they informe thee. According to the Lawe, which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgement which they shall tell thee, shalt thou doe: thou shalt not decline from the thing which they shall shew thee, neither to the right hand, nor to the left. And that man that wil doe presumptuously, not hearkening vnto the Priest (that standeth before the Lord thy God to minister there) or vnto the iudge, that man shall die, and thou shalt take away euill from Israel. So all the people shall heare and feare, and doe no more presumptuously. Whe thou shalt come vnto ye land which the Lord thy God giueth thee, and shalt possesse it, and dwell therein, if thou say, I will set a King over me, like as all the nations that are about me, Then thou shalt make him King over thee, whom the Lord thy God shall choose: from among thy brethren shalt thou make a King over thee: thou shalt not set a stranger over thee, which is not thy brother. In any wise he shall not prepare him many horses, nor bring the people again to Egypt, for to encrease the number of horses, seeing the Lord hath said vnto you, Ye shall henceforth goe no more againe that way. Neither shall he take him many wives, lest his heart turne away, neither shall he gather him much siluer and golde. And when he shall sit vpon the throne of his kingdom, then shall he write him this Law repeated in a booke, by the Priests of the Leuites. And it shall be with him, and he shall reade therein all daies of his life, that he may learne to feare the Lord his God, and to keepe all ye words of this Lawe, and these ordinances for to doe them: That his heart be not lifted vp aboue his brethren, and that he turne not from the commandement, to the right hand or to the left, but that he may prolong his daies in his kingdom, he, and his sonnes in the middes of Israel.

The Priests of the Leuites, and all the tribe of Leui shall haue no part nor inheritace with Israel, but shall eate the offerings of the Lord made by fire, and his inheritance. Therefore shall they haue no inheritance among their brethren: for the Lord is their inheritance, as he hath sayd vnto them. And this shalbe the Priests duetie of the people, that they, which offer sacrifice, whether it be bullocke or sheepe, shall giue vnto the Priest the shoulder, and the two cheekes, and the mawe. The first fruites also of thy corne, of thy wine, and of thine oyle, and the first of the fleece of thy sheepe shalt thou giue him. For the Lord thy God hath chosen him out of all thy tribes, to stande and minister in the Name of the Lord, him, and his sonnes for euer. Also when a Leuite shall come out of any of thy cities of all Israel, where hee remained, and come with all the desire of his heart vnto the place, which the Lord shall chuse, He shall then minister in the Name of the Lord his God, as all his brethren the Leuites, which remaine there before the Lord. They shall haue like portions to eat beside that which commeth of his sale of his patrimonie. When thou shalt come into ye land which the Lord thy God giueth thee, thou shalt not learne to do after ye abominations of those nations. Let none be founde among you that maketh his sonne or his daughter to goe thorough the fire, or that vseth witchcraft, or a regarder of times, or a marker of the flying of foules, or a sorcerer, Or a charmer, or that counsellmeth with spirits, or a soothsaier, or that asketh counsel at ye dead.

For all that doe such things are abomination vnto the Lord, and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doeth cast them out before thee. Thou shalt be vpright therefore with the Lord thy God. For these nations which thou shalt possesse, hearken vnsto those that regarde the times, and vnsto sorcerers: as for thee, the Lord thy God hath not suffred thee so. The Lord thy God will raise vp vnsto thee a Prophet like vnsto me, from among you, euen of thy brethren: vnsto him ye shall hearken, According to al that thou desieredst of the Lord thy God in Horeb, in the day of the assemblie, when thou saidest, Let me heare the voice of my Lord God no more, nor see this great fire any more, that I die not. And the Lord sayde vnsto me, They haue well spoken. I will raise them vp a Prophet from among their brethren like vnsto thee, and will put my woordes in his mouth, and he shall speake vnsto them all that I shall commaund him. And whosoeuer will not hearken vnsto my wordes, which he shall speake in my Name, I will require it of him. But the prophet that shall presume to speake a worde in my name, which I haue not commanded him to speake, or that speaketh in the name of other gods, euen the same prophet shall die. And if thou thinke in thine heart, Howe shall we knowe the worde which the Lord hath not spoken? When a prophet speaketh in the Name of the Lord, if the thing follow not nor come to passe, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not therefore be afraid of him.

When the Lord thy God shall roote out the nations, whose lande the Lord thy God giueth thee, and thou shalt possesse them, and dwell in their cities, and in their houses. Thou shalt separate three cities for thee in the middes of thy lande which the Lord thy God giueth thee to possesse it. Thou shalt prepare thee the way, and deuide the coastes of the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee to inherite, into three parts, that euery manslayer may flee thither. This also is ye cause wherfore the manslayer shall flee thither, and liue: who so killeth his neighbor ignorantly, and hated him not in time passed: As hee that goeth vnto the wood with his neighbor to hew wood, and his hand striketh with the axe to cut downe the tree, if the head slip from the helue, and hit his neighbour that he dieth, the same shall flee vnto one of the cities, and liue, Least the auenger of the blood follow after the manslayer, while his heart is chafed, and ouertake him, because the way is long, and slaie him, although he be not worthy of death, because he hated him not in time passed. Wherefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt appoint out three cities for thee. And when the Lord thy God enlargeth thy coastes (as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers) and giueth thee all the lande which he promised to giue vnto thy fathers, (If thou keepe all these commandements to doe them, which I commaund thee this day: to wit, that thou loue the Lord thy God, and walke in his waies for euer) then shalt thou adde three cities moe for thee besides those three, That innocent bloude be not shed within thy land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee to inherit, lest bloud be vpon thee. But if a man hate his neighbour, and lay waite for him, and rise against him, and smite any man that he die, and flee vnto any of these cities, Then the Elders of his citie shall send and set him thence, and deliuer him into the hands of the auenger of the blood, that he may die. Thine eye shall not spare him, but thou shalt put away the crie of innocent bloud from Israel, that it may goe well with thee. Thou shalt not remooue thy neighbours marke, which they of olde time haue set in thine inheritance, that thou shalt inherite in the lande, which ye Lord thy God giueth thee to possesse it. One witnes shall not rise against a man for any trespasse, or for any sinne, or for any fault that hee offendeth in, but at the mouth of two witnesses or at the mouth of three witnesses shall the matter be stablished. If a false witnesse rise vp against a man to accuse him of trespasse, Then both the men which striue together, shall stand before ye Lord, euen before the Priests and the Judges, which shall be in those daies, And the Judges shall make diligent inquisition: and if the witnesse be found false, and hath giuen false witnes against his brother, Then shall yee doe vnto him as hee had thought to doe vnto his brother: so thou shalt take euil away forth of the middes of thee. And the rest shall heare this, and feare, and shall henceforth commit no more any such wickednes among you. Therefore thine eye shall have no compassion, but life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foote for foote.

When thou shalt go forth to warre against thine enemies, and shalt see horses and charrets, and people moe then thou, be not a frayde of them: for the Lord thy God is with thee, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt. And when ye are come neere vnto the battel, then the Priest shall come forth to speake vnsto the people, And shall say vnsto them, Heare, O Israel: ye are come this day vnsto battel against your enemies: let not your heartes faynt, neither feare, nor be amased, nor adread of them. For ye Lord your God goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, and to saue you And let the officers speake vnsto the people, saying, What man is there that hath buylt a new house, and hath not dedicate it? let him go and returne to his house, least he dye in the battel, and an other man dedicate it. And what man is there that hath planted a vineyarde, and hath not eaten of the fruite? let him go and returne againe vnsto his house, least he die in the battel, and another eate the fruite. And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and returne againe vnsto his house, lest he die in the battel, and another man take her. And let the officers speake further vnsto the people, and say, Whosoeuer is a frayde and faynt hearted, let him go and returne vnsto his house, least his brethrens heart faynt like his heart. And after that the officers haue made an ende of speaking vnsto the people, they shall make captaines of the armie to gouerne the people.

When thou commest neere vnsto a citie to fight against it, thou shalt offer it peace. And if it answere thee againe peaceably, and open vnsto thee, then let all the people that is founde therein, be tributaries vnsto thee, and serue thee. But if it will make no peace with thee, but make war against thee, then shalt thou besiege it. And the Lord thy God shall deliuer it into thine handes, and thou shalt smite all the males thereof with the edge of the sworde. Onely the women, and the children, and the cattel, and all that is in the citie, euen all the spoyle thereof shalt thou take vnsto thy selfe, and shalt eate the spoyle of thine enemies, which the Lord thy God hath giuen thee. Thus shalt thou do vnsto all ye cities, which are a great way off from thee, which are not of the cities of these nations here. But of the cities of this people, which the Lord thy God shall giue thee to inherit, thou shalt saue no person aliue, But shalt utterly destroy them: to wit, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee, That they teache you not to doe after all their abominations, which they have done vnto their gods, and so ye should sinne against the Lord your God. When thou hast besieged a citie long time, and made warre against it to take it, destroy not the trees therof, by smiting an axe into them: for thou mayest eate of them: therfore thou shalt not cut them downe to further thee in the siege, (for the tree of the field is mans life) Onely those trees, which thou knowest are not for meate, those shalt thou destroy and cut downe, and make fortes against the citie that maketh warre with thee, vntil thou subdue it.

If one be founde slaine in the lande, which the Lord thy God giueth thee to possesse it, lying in the field, and it is not knowe who hath slaine him, Then thine Elders and thy Iudges shall come forth, and measure vnto the cities that are round about him that is slayne. Aud let ye Elders of that citie, which is next vnto the slaine man, take out of the droue an heifer that hath not bene put to labour, nor hath drawen in the yoke. And let the Elders of that citie bring the heifer vnto a stonie valley, which is neyther eared nor sowen, and strike off the heifers necke there in the valley. Also the Priests the sonnes of Leui (whom the Lord thy God hath chosen to minister, and to blesse in the name of the Lord) shall come forth, and by their word shall all strife and plague be tried. And all the Elders of that citie that came neere to the slayne man, shall wash their hands ouer the heifer that is beheaded in the valley: And shall testifie, and say, Our handes haue not shed this blood, neither haue our eies scene it. O Lord, be mercifull vnto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, and lay no innocent blood to the charge of thy people Israel, and the blood shalbe forgien them. So shalt thou take away the cry of innocet blood from thee, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the Lord. Whe thou shalt go to warre against thine enemies, and the Lord thy God shall deliuer them into thine hands, and thou shalt take the captiues, And shalt see among the captiues a beautifull woman, and hast a desire unto her, and wouldest take her to thy wife, Then thou shalt bring her home to thine house, and she shall shave her head, and pare her nails, And she shall put off the garment that she was taken in, and she shall remaine in thine house, and bewail her father and her mother a moneth long: and after that shalt thou go in unto her, and marry her, and she shall be thy wife. And if thou haue no fauour unto her, then thou mayest let her go whither she will, but thou shalt not sell her for money, nor make marchandise of her, because thou hast humbled her. If a man haue two wiues, one loued and another hated, and they haue borne him children, both the loued and also the hated: if the first borne be the sonne of the hated, Then when the time commeth, that hee appointeth his sonnes to be heires of that which he hath, he may not make the sonne of the beloued first borne before the sonne of the hated, which is the first borne: But he shall acknowledge the sonne of the hated for the first borne, and giue him double portion of all that he hath: for he is the first of his strength, and to him belongeth the right of the first borne. If any man haue a sonne that is stubburne and disobedient, which wil not hearken vnto the voice of his father, nor the voyce of his mother, and they haue chastened him, and he would not obey them, Then shall his father and his mother take him, and bring him out vnto the Elders of his citie, and vnto the gate of the place where he dwelleth, And shall say vnto the Elders of his citie, This our sonne is stubburne and disobedient, and he wil not obey our admonition: he is a riotour, and a drunkard. Then all the men of his citie shall stone him with stones vnto death: so thou shalt take away euill from among you, that all Israel may heare it, and feare. If a man also haue committed a trespasse worthy of death, and is put to death, and thou hangest him on a tree, His body shall not remaine all night vpon the tree, but thou shalt bury him the same day: for the curse of God is on him that is hanged. Defile not therfore thy land which the Lord thy God giueth thee to inherite.

Thou shalt not see thy brothers oxe nor his sheepe go astray, and withdraw thy selfe from them, but shalt bring the againe vnto thy brother. And if thy brother bee not neere vnto thee, or if thou knowe him not, then thou shalt bring it into thine house, and it shall remaine with thee, vntill thy brother seeke after it: then shalt thou deliuer it to him againe. In like maner shalt thou do with his asse, and so shalt thou do with his rayment, and shalt so doe with all lost things of thy brother, which he hath lost: if thou hast found them, thou shalt not withdraw thy selfe from them. Thou shalt not see thy brothers asse nor his oxe fal downe by the way, and withdrawe thy selfe from them, but shalt lift them vp with him. The woman shall not weare that which pertaineth vnto the man, neither shall a man put on womans rayment: for all that doe so, are abomination vnto the Lord thy God. If thou finde a birdes nest in the way, in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be yong or egges, and the damme sitting vpon the yong, or vpon the egges, thou shalt not take ye damme with the yong. But shalt in any wise let the damme go, and take the yong to thee, that thou mayest prosper and prolong thy dayes. When thou buldest a newe house, thou shalt make a battlemet on thy roofe, that thou lay not blood vpon thine house, if any man fal thence. Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with diuers kinds of seedes, lest thou defile the increase of the seede which thou hast sowen, and the fruitie of the vineyarde. Thou shalt not plow with an oxe and an asse together. Thou shalt not weare a garment of diuers sorts, as of woollen and linen together. Thou shalt make thee fringes vpon the foure quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou couerest thy selfe. If a man take a wife, and when he hath lyen with her, hate her, And laye slauderous thinges vnto her charge, and bring vp an euill name vpon her, and say, I tooke this wife, and when I came to her, I founde her not a mayde, Then shall the father of the mayde and her mother take and bring the signes of the maydes virginitie vnto the Elders of the citie to the gate. And the maydes father shall say vnto the Elders, I gaue my daughter vnto this man to wife, and he hateth her: And lo, he layeth slauderous things vnto her charge, saying, I founde not thy daughter a mayde: loe, these are the tokens of my daughters virginitie: and they shall spreade the vesture before the Elders of the citie. Then the Elders of the citie shall take that man and chastise him, And shall condemne him in an hundreth shekels of siluer, and giue them vnto the father of the mayde, because he hath brought vp an euill name vpon a mayde of Israel: and she shalbe his wife, and he may not put her away all his life. But if this thing be true, that the mayde be not found a virgine, Then shall they bring forth the mayde to the doore of her fathers house, and the men of her citie shall stone her with stones to death: for shee hath wrought follie in Israel, by playing ye whore in her fathers house: so thou shalt put euill away from among you. If a man be found lying with a woman marryed to a man, then they shall dye euen both twaine: to wit, the man that lay with the wife, and the wife: so thou shalt put away euil from Israel. If a maid be betrothed vnto an husband, and a man finde her in the towne and lye with her, Then shall yee bring them both out vnto the gates of the same citie, and shall stone them with stones to death: the mayde because she cried not, being in the citie, and the man, because he hath humbled his neighbours wife: so thou shalt put away euill from among you. But if a man finde a betrothed mayde in the field, and force her, and lye with her, then the man that lay with her, shall dye alone: And vnto the mayd thou shalt do nothing, because there is in the mayde no cause of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour and woundeth him to death, so is this matter. For he found her in the fieldes: the betrothed mayde cryed, and there was no man to succour her. If a man finde a mayde that is not betrothed, and take her, and lye with her, and they be founde, Then the man that lay with her, shall giue vnto the maydes father fiftie shekels of siluer: and she shalbe his wife, because he hath humbled her: he can not put her away all his life. No man shall take his fathers wife, nor shall vncouer his fathers skirt.

None that is hurt by bursting, or that hath his priuie member cut off, shall enter into the Congregation of the Lord. A bastard shall not enter into the Congregation of the Lord: euen to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the Congregation of the Lord. The Ammonites and the Moabites shall not enter into the Congregation of the Lord: euen to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the Congregation of the Lord for euer, Because they met you not with bread and water in the way, when yee came out of Egypt, and because they hyred against thee Balaam the sonne of Beor, of Pethor in Aram-naharaim, to curse thee. Neuerthelessse, the Lord thy God would not hearken unto Balaam, but the Lord thy God turned the curse to a blessing unto thee, because the Lord thy God loued thee. Thou shalt not seeke their peace nor their prosperitie all thy dayes for euer.
Thou shalt not abhorre an Edomite: for he is thy brother, neither shalt thou abhorre an Egyptian, because thou wast a strager in his land. The children that are begotten of them in their thirde generation, shall enter into the Congregation of the Lord. When thou goest out with the host against thine enemies, keepe thee then from all wickednesse. If there be among you any that is vnCLEane by that which commeth to him by night, he shall goe out of the hoste, and shall not enter into the hoste, But at euen he shall wash him selfe with water, and when the sunne is downe, he shall enter into the hoste. Thou shalt haue a place also without the hoste whither thou shalt resort, And thou shalt haue a paddle among thy weapons, and when thou wouldest sit downe without, thou shalt shalt digge therewith, and returning thou shalt couer thine excrements. For the Lord thy God walketh in the mids of thy campe to deliuer thee, and to giue thee thine enemies before thee: therefore thine hoste shalbe holy, that he see no filthie thing in thee and turne away from thee. Thou shalt not deliuer the servuant vnto his master, which is escaped from his master vnto thee. He shall dwell with thee, euen among you, in what place he shall chuse, in one of thy cities where it liketh him best: thou shalt not vexe him. There shalbe no whore of the daughters of Israel, neither shall there be a whore keeper of the sonnes of Israel. Thou shalt neyther bring the hyre of a whore, nor the price of a dogge into the house of the Lord thy God for any vow: for euen both these are abomination vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not giue to vsurie to thy brother: as vsurie of money, vsurie of meate, vsurie of any thing that is put to vsurie. Vnto a stranger thou mayest lend vpon vsurie, but thou shalt not lend vpon vsurie vnto thy brother, that the Lord thy God may blesse thee in all that thou settest thine hand to, in the land whither thou goest to possesse it. When thou shalt vowe a vowe vnto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not be slacke to paye it: for the Lord thy God will surely require it of thee, and so it should be sinne vnto thee. But when thou absteineest from vowing, it shalbe no sinne vnto thee. That which is gone out of thy lippes, thou shalt keepe and performe, as thou hast vowed it willingly vnto the Lord thy God: for thou hast spoken it with thy mouth. When thou comest vnto thy neighbours vineyard, then thou mayest eate grapes at thy pleasure, as much as thou wilt: but thou shalt put none in thy vessell. When thou comest into thy neighbours corne thou mayest plucke the eares with thine hand, but thou shalt not moue a sickle to thy neighbours corne.

24 When a man taketh a wife, and marrieth her, if so be shee finde no fauour in his eyes, because hee hath espyed some filthinesse in her, then let him write her a bill of diuorcement, and put it in her hand, and send her out of his house. And when she is departed out of his house, and gone her way, and marrie with an other man, And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a letter of diuorcement, and put it in her hand, and send her out of his house, or if the latter man die which tooke her to wife: Then her first husband, which sent her away, may not take her againe to be his wife, after that she is defiled: for that is abomination in the sight of the Lord, and thou shalt not cause the land to sinne, which the Lord thy God doeth giue thee to inherite. When a man taketh a new wife, he shall not goe a warfare, neither shalbe charged with any businesse, but shalbe free at home one yeere, and reioyce with his wife which he hath taken. No man shall take the nether nor the vpper milstone to pledge: for this gage is his liuing. If any man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh marchandise of him, or selleth him, that thiefe shall die: so shalt thou put euil away from among you. Take heede of the plague of leprosie, that thou obserue diligently, and doe according to all that the Priestes of the Leuites shall teach you: take heede ye doe as I commanded them. Remember what the Lord thy God did vnto Miriam by the way after that ye were come out of Egypt. Whe thou shalt aske again of thy neighbour any thing lent, thou shalt not goe into his house to fet his pledge. But thou shalt stand without, and the man that borowed it of thee, shall bring the pledge out of the doores vnto thee. Furthermore if it be a poore body, thou shalt not sleepe with his pledge, But shalt restore him the pledge when the sunne goeth downe, that he may sleepe in his raiment, and blesse thee: and it shalbe righ-teousnesse vnto thee before the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not oppresse an hyred servant that is needie and poore, neyther of thy brethren, nor of the stranger that is in thy land within thy gates. Thou shalt giue him his hire for his day, neither shall the sunne goe downe vpon it: for he is poore, and therewith susteineth his life: lest he crye against thee vnto the Lord, and it be sinne vnto thee. The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children put to death for the fathers, but every man shalbe put to death for his owne sinne. Thou shalt not peruert the right of the stranger, nor of the fatherlesse, nor take a widowes rayment to pledge. But remember that thou wast a servant in Egypt, and howe the Lord thy God deli-15 ered thee thence. Therefore I commaund thee to doe this thing. When thou cuttest downe thine harvest in thy fielde, and hast forgotten a sheafe in the fielde, thou shalt not goe againe to fet it, but it shalbe for the stranger, for the fatherles, and for the widowe: that the Lord thy God may blesse thee in all the workes of thine hands. When thou beatest thine oliue tree, thou shalt not goe ouer the boughes againe, but it shalbe for the stranger, for the fatherlesse, and for the widowe. When thou gatherest thy vineyard, thou shalt not gather the grapes cleane after thee, but they shalbe for the stranger, for the fatherlesse, and for the widowe. And remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to doe this thing. When there shall be strife betweene men, and they shall come vnto iudgement, and sentence shall be giuen vpon them, and the righteous shall be justified, and the wicked condemned, Then if so be the wicked be worthy to bee beaten, the iudge shall cause him to lie downe, and to be beaten before his face, according to his trespasse, vnto a certaine nomber. Fortie stripes shall he cause him to haue and not past, lest if he should exceede and beate him aboue that with many stripes, thy brother should appeare despised in thy sight. Thou shalt not mousell the oxe that treadeth out the corne. If brethren dwell together, and one of them dye and haue no sonne, the wife of the dead shall not marry without: that is, vnto a stranger, but his kinsman shall goe in vnto her, and take her to wife, and doe the kinsmans office to her. And the first borne which she beareth, shall succeede in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Israel. And if the man will not take his kinswoman, then let his kinswoman goe vp to the gate vnnto the Elders, and say, My kinsman refuseth to rayse vp his brother a name in Israel: hee will not doe the office of a kinsman vnnto me. Then the Elders of his citie shall call him, and commune with him: if he stand and say, I wil not take her, Then shall his kinswoman come vnnto him in the presence of the Elders, and loose his shooe from his foote, and spit in his face, and answere, and say, So shall it be done vnnto that man, that will not buylde vp his brothers house. And his name shall be called in Israel, The house of him whose shooe is put off. When men striue together, one with another, if the wife of the one come neere, for to ridde her husband out of the handes of him that smiteth him, and put foorth her hand, and take him by his priuities, Then thou shalt cut off her hande: thine eye shall not spare her. Thou shalt not haue in thy bagge two maner of weightes, a great and a small, Neither shalt thou haue in thine house diuers measures, a great and a small: But thou shalt haue a right and iust weight: a perfite and a iust measure shalt thou haue, that thy dayes may be lengthened in the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee. For all that doe such things, and all that doe vnrighteously, are abomination vnnto the Lord thy God. Remember what Amalek did vnnto thee by the way, when ye were come out of Egypt: How he met thee by ye way, and smote ye hindmost of you, all that were feeble behind thee, when thou wast fainted and weary, and he feared not God. Therefore, when the Lord thy God hath giuen thee rest from all thine enemies round about in the land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee for an inheritance to possess it, then thou shalt put out the remembrance of Amalek from vnnder heauen: forget not.

out of thine hand, and set it downe before the altar of the Lord thy God. And thou shalt answere and say before the Lord thy God, A Syrian was my father, who being ready to perish for hunger, went downe into Egypt, and soiourned there with a small company, and grew there vnto a nation great, mightie and full of people. And the Egyptians vexed vs, and troubled vs, and laded vs with cruell bondage. But when we cried vnto the Lord God of our fathers, the Lord heard our voyce, and looked on our aduersitie, and on our labour, and on our oppression. And the Lord brought vs out of Egypt in a mightie hande, and a stretched out arme, with great terriblenesse, both in signes and wonders. And he hath brought vs into this place, and hath giuen vs this land, euens a lande that floweth with milke and hony. And now, lo, I haue brought ye first fruites of the land which thou, O Lord, hast giuen me, and thou shalt set it before the Lord thy God, and worship before the Lord thy God: And thou shalt reioyce in all the good things which the Lord thy God hath giuen vnto thee and to thine houshold, thou and the Leuite, and the stranger that is among you. When thou hast made an end of tithing all the tythes of thine increase, the thirde yeere, which is the yeere of tithing, and hast giuen it vnto the Leuite, to the stranger, to the fatherlesse, and to the widowe, that they may eate within thy gates, and be satisfied, Then thou shalt say before the Lord thy God, I haue brought the halowed thing out of mine house, and also haue giuen it vnto the Leuites and to the strangers, to the fatherlesse, and to the widowe, according to all thy comandements which thou hast commanded me: I haue transgressed none of thy comandements, nor forgotten them. I haue not eaten therof in my mourning, nor suffred ought to perish through vncleneannes, nor giuen ought thereof for the dead, but haue hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord my God: I haue done after al that thou hast comaded me. Looke downe from thine holy habitation, euens from heauen, and blesse thy people Israel, and the lande which thou hast giuen vs (as thou swarest vnto our fathers) the land that floweth with milke and hony. This day the Lord thy God doeth command thee to do these ordinances, and lawes: keepe them therefore, and do them with al thine heart, and with all thy soule. Thou hast set vp the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walke in his wayes, and to keepe his ordinances, and his commandments, and his lawes, and to hearken vnto his voyce.

18 And the Lord hath set thee vp this day, to be a precious people vnto him (as hee hath promised thee) and that thou shouledst keepe all his commandements, And to make thee high aboue al nations (which he hath made) in praise, and in name, and in glory, and that thou shouledst be an holy people vnto the Lord thy God, as he hath said.

27 Then Moses with the Elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, Keepe all the comandements, which I command you this day. And when ye shall passe ouer Iorden vnto the lande which the Lord thy God giueth thee, thou shalt set thee vp great stones, and playster them with plaister, And shalt write vpon them all the words of this Lawe, when thou shalt come ouer, that thou mayest go into the land which the Lord thy God giueth thee: a land that floweth with milke and hony, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised thee. Therefore when ye shall passe ouer Iorden, ye shall set vp these stones, which I command you this daye in mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaister them with plaister. And there shalt thou build vnto the Lord thy God an altar, euen an altar of stones: thou shalt lift none yron instrument vpon them. Thou shalt make the altar of the Lord thy God of whole stones, and offer burnt offerings thereon vnto the Lord thy God. And thou shalt offer peace offrings, and shalt eate there and reioyce before the Lord thy God: And thou shalt write vpon the stones al the words of this Law, well and plainly. And Moses and the Priestes of the Leuites spake vnto all Israel, saying, Take heede and heare, O Israel: this day thou art become the people of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt hearken therefore vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, and do his commandements and his ordinances, which I commande thee this day. And Moses charged the people the same day, saying, These shall stand vpon mount Gerizzim, to blesse the people when ye shall passe ouer Iorden: Simeon, and Leui, and Iudah, and Issachar, and Ioseph, and Beniamin. And these shall stand vpon mount Ebal to curse: Reuben, Gad, and Asher, and Ze-bulun, Dan, and Naphtali. And the Leuites shall answere and say vnto all the men of Israel with a loute voyce, Cursed be the man that shall make any carued or molten image, which is an abomination vnto the Lord, the worke of the hands of the craftesman, and putteth it in a secrete place: And all the people shall answere, and say: So be it. Cursed be he that curseth his father and his mother: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that remoueth his neighbors marke: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that maketh ye blinde go out of the way: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that hindreth the right of the stranger, the fatherles, and the widow: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be hee that lyeth with his fathers wife: for he hath uncouered his fathers skirt: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that lieth with any beast: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that lyeth with his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that lyeth with his mother in law: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be hee that smiteth his neyghbour secretly: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that taketh a reward to put to death innocent blood: And all the people shall say: So be it. Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the wordes of this Law, to do them: And all the people shall say: So be it.

If thou shalt obey diligently the voyce of the Lord thy God, and obserue and do all his commandements, which I commande thee this day, then the Lord thy God wil set thee on high aboue all the nations of the earth. And all these blessings shall come on thee, and ouertake thee, if thou shalt obey the voyce of the Lord thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the citie, and blessed also in the fielde. Blessed shalbe the fruite of thy body, and ye fruite of thy ground, and the fruite of thy cattel, the increase of thy kine, and ye flocks of thy sheepe. Blessed shalbe thy basket and thy dough. Blessed shalt thou be, whe thou commest in, and blessed also when thou goest out. The Lord shall cause thine enemies that rise against thee, to fall before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and shall flee before thee leuen wayes. The Lord shall command the blessing to be with thee in thy store houses, and in all that thou settest thine hande to, and wil blesse thee in the land which the Lord thy God giueth thee. The Lord shall make thee an holy people vnto himself, as he hath sworn vnto thee, if thou shalt keepe the commandements of the Lord thy God, and walke in his wayes.
Then all people of the earth shall see that the Name of the Lord is called upon ouer thee, and they shalbe afrayde of thee. And the Lord shall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruite of thy body, and in the fruite of thy cattell, and in the fruite of thy grounde, in the land which the Lord sware vnto thy fathers, to giue thee. The Lord shall open vnto thee his good treasure, euen the heauen to giue rayne vnto thy kind in due season, and to blesse all the worke of thine handes: and thou shalt lende vnto many nations, but shalt not borow thy selfe. And the Lord shall make thee the head, and not the tayle, and thou shalt be aboue onely, and shalt not bee beneath, if thou obey the commandements of the Lord thy God, which I command thee this day, to keepe and to do them. But thou shalt not decline from any of the wordes, which I command you this day, either to the right hand or to the left, to goe after other gods to serue them. But if thou wilt not obey the voyce of the Lord thy God, to keepe and to do all his commandementes and his ordinances, which I command thee this day, then al these curses shall come vpon thee, and ouertake thee. Cursed shalt thou bee in the towne, and cursed also in the fielde. Cursed shall thy basket be, and thy dough. Cursed shall be the fruite of thy body, and the fruite of thy land, the increase of thy kine, and the flockes of thy sheepe. Cursed shalt thou be when thou commest in, and cursed also when thou goest out. The Lord shall sende vpon thee cursing, trouble, and shame, in all that which thou settest thine hand to do, vntil thou be destroyed, and perish quickly, because of the wickednesse of thy workes whereby thou hast forsaken me. The Lord shall make the pestilence cleaue vnto thee, vntill he hath consumed thee from the land, whither thou goest to possesse it. The Lord shall smite thee with a consumption, and with the feuer, and with a burning ague, and with feruent heate, and with the sworde, and with blasting, and with the mildew, and they shall pursue thee vntill thou perish. And thine heauen that is ouer thine head, shall be brasse, and the earth that is vnder thee, yron. The Lord shall giue thee for the rayne of thy land, dust and ashes: euen from heauen shall it come downe vpon thee, vntil thou be destroyed. And the Lord shall cause thee to fall before thine enemies: thou shalt come out one way against them, and shalt flee seuen wayes before them, and shalt be scattered through all the kingdoms of the earth. And thy carkeis shall be meate unto all foules of the ayre, and unto the beasts of the earth, and none shall fray them away. The Lord wil smite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the emeroids, and with the skab, and with the itche, that thou canst not be healed. And ye Lord shall smite thee with madnes, and with blindnes, and with astonying of heart. Thou shalt also grope at noone daies, as the blinde gropeth in darknes, and shalt not prosper in thy wayes: thou shalt neuer but bee oppressed with wrong and be powled euermore, and no man shall succour thee. Thou shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lye with her: thou shalt builde an house, and shalt not dwell therein: thou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not eate the fruite. Thine oxe shalbe slayne before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eate thereof: thine asse shall be violently taken away before thy face, and shall not be restored to thee: thy sheepe shalbe giuen vnto thine enemies, and no man shall rescue them for thee. Thy sonnes and thy daughters shalbe giuen vnto another people, and thine eyes shall still looke for them, euen till they fall out, and there shalbe no power in thine hand. The fruite of thy land and all thy labours shall a people, which thou knowest not, eate, and thou shalt neuer but suffer wrong, and violence alway: So that thou shalt be madde for the sight which thine eyes shall see. The Lord shall smite thee in the knees, and in the thighes, with a sore botche, that thou canst not be healed: euen from the sole of thy foote vnto the top of thine head. The Lord shall bring thee and thy King (which thou shalt set ouer thee) vnto a nation, which neither thou nor thy fathers haue known, and there thou shalt serue other gods: euen wood and stone, And thou shalt be a wonder, a prouerbe and a common talke among all people, whither the Lord shall carie thee. Thou shalt carie out much seede into the fielde, and shalt gather but litle in: for the grashoppers shall destroy it. Thou shalt plant a vineyard, and dresse it, but shalt neither drinke of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the wormes shall eate it. Thou shalt haue Oliue trees in all thy coastes, but shalt not anoynt thy selfe with the oyle: for thine oliues shall fall. Thou shalt beget sonnes, and daughters, but shalt not haue them: for they shall goe into captiuitie. All thy trees and fruite of thy land shall the grashopper consume.
The stranger that is among you, shall clime above thee up on hie, and thou shalt come downe beneath a low. He shall lend thee, and thou shalt not lend him: he shall be the head, and thou shalt be ye tayle. Moreover, all these curses shall come vpon thee, and shall pursue thee and ouertake thee, till thou be destroyed, because thou obeyest not the voyce of the Lord thy God, to keepe his commandements, and his ordinances, which he commanded thee: And they shall be vpon thee for signes and wonders, and vpon thy seede for euer, Because thou servest not the Lord thy God with ioyfulnesse and with a good heart for the abundance of all things. Therefore thou shalt serue thine enemies which the Lord shall send vpon thee, in hunger and in thirst, and in nakednesse, and in neede of all things? and he shall put a yoke of yron vpon thy necke vntill he haue destroyed thee. The Lord shall bring a nation vpon thee from farre, euen from the ende of the world, flying swift as an Egle: a nation whose tongue thou shalt not vnderstand: A nation of a fierce countenance, which will not regarde the person of the olde, nor haue compassion of the yong. The same shall eate the fruit of thy cattell, and the fruite of thy land vntill thou be destroyed, and he shall leaue thee neyther wheate, wine, nor oyle, neither the increase of thy kyne, nor the flockes of thy sheepe, vntill he haue brought thee to nought. And he shall besiege thee in all thy cities, vntill thine hie and strong walles fall downe, wherein thou trustedst in all the lande: and hee shall besiege thee in all thy cities throughout all thy lande, which the Lord thy God hath giuen thee. And thou shalt eate the fruite of thy bodie: euen the flesh of thy sonnes and thy daughters, which the Lord thy God hath giuen thee, during the siege and straitnesse wherein thine enemie shall inclose thee: So that the man (that is tender and exceeding deintie among you) shalbe grieued at his brother, and at his wife, that lieth in his bosome, and at the remnant of his children, which hee hath yet left, For feare of giuing vnto any of them of the flesh of his children, whom he shall eate, because he hath nothing left him in that siege, and straitnesse, wherewith thine enemie shall besiege thee in all thy cities. The tender and deintie woman among you, which neuer woulde venture to set the sole of her foote vpon the grounde (for her softnesse and tendernesse) shalbe grieued at her husband that lieth in her bosome, and at her sonne, and at her daughter, And at her afterbirth (that shall come out from betweene her feete) and at her childe, which she shall beare: for when all things lacke, she shall eate them secretly, during the siege and straitnesse, wherewith thine enemie shall besiege thee in thy cities. If thou wilt not keepe and doe all the wordes of the Lawe (that are written in this booke) and feare this glorious and feareful name The Lord Thy God, The the Lord wil make thy plagues wonderfull, and the plagues of thy seede, euen great plagues and of long continuance, and sore diseases, and of long durance. Moreover, he will bring vpon thee all the diseases of Egypt, whereof thou wast afraide, and they shall cleaue vnto thee. And every sickenesse, and ev ery plague, which is not written in the booke of this Lawe, will the Lord heape vpon thee, vntill thou be destroyed. And ye shall be left few in nomber, where ye were as the starres of heauen in multitude, because thou wouldest not obey the voyce of the Lord thy God. And as the Lord hath reioyced ouer you, to doe you good, and to multiply you, so he will reioyce ouer you, to destroy you, and bring you to nought, and ye shalbe rooted out of the land, whither thou goest to possesse it. And the Lord shall scatter thee among all people, from the one ende of the worlde vnto the other, and there thou shalt serue other gods, which thou hast not knowne nor thy fathers, euen wood and stone. Also among these nations thou shalt finde no rest, neither shall the sole of thy foote haue rest: for the Lord shall giue thee there a trembling heart, and looking to returne till thine eyes fall out, and a sorowfull minde. And thy life shall hang before thee, and thou shalt feare both night and day, and shalt haue none assurance of thy life. In the morning thou shalt say, Woulde God it were euening, and at the euening thou shalt say, Would God it were morning, for ye feare of thine heart, which thou shalt feare, and for the sight of thine eyes, which thou shalt see. And the Lord shall bring thee into Egypt againe with shippes by the way, whereof I saide vnto thee, Thou shalt see it no more againe: and there yee shall sell your selues vnto your enemies for bondmen and bondwomen, and there shalbe no byer.

These are the wordes of the covenant which the Lord commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the lande of Moab beside the covenant which he had made with them in Horeb. And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh and unto all his servants, and unto all his land, The great tentations which thine eyes have seen, those great miracles and wonders: Yet the Lord hath not giuen you an heart to perceiue, and eyes to see, and eares to heare, vnto this day. And I haue led you fourty yere in the wildernesse: your clothes are not waxed olde vpon you, neyther is thy shooe waxed olde vpon thy foote. Ye haue eaten no bread, neither drunke wine, nor strong drinke, that ye might know how that I am the Lord your God. After, ye came vnto this place, and Sihon King of Heshbon, and Og King of Bashan came out against vs vnto battell, and we slewe them, And tooke their lande, and gaue it for an inheritance vnto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the halfe tribe of Manasseh. Keepe therefore the wordes of this covenant and doe them, that ye may prosper in all that ye shall doe. Ye stand this day every one of you before the Lord your God: your heads of your tribes, your Elders and your officers, eue al ye me of Israel: Your children, your wiues, and thy stranger that is in thy campe from the hewer of thy wood, vnto the drawer of thy water, That thou shouldest passe into the covenant of the Lord thy God, and into his othe which the Lord thy God maketh with thee this day, For to establishe thee this day a people vnto him selfe, and that he may be vnto thee a God, as he hath said vnto thee, and as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob. Neither make I this covenant, and this othe with you onely, But aswel with him that standeth here with vs this day before the Lord our God, as with him that is not here with vs this day. For ye knowe, how we haue dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we passed thorowe the middes of the nations, which ye passed by. And ye haue seene their abominations and their idoles (wood, and stone, siluer and golde) which were among them, That there should not be among you man nor woman, nor familie, nor tribe, which should turne his heart away this day from the Lord our God, to goe and serue the gods of these nations, and that there shoulde not be among you any roote that bringeth forth gall and wormewood, So that when he heareth the words of this curse, he blesse him selfe in his heart, saying, I shall haue peace, although I walke according to the stubburnes of mine owne heart, thus adding drunkennesse to thirst. The Lord will not be mercifull vnto him, but then the wrath of the Lord and his ielousie shall smoke against that man, and every curse that is written in this booke, shall light vpon him, and the Lord shall put out his name from vnder heauen, And the Lord shall separate him vnto euil out of all the tribes of Israel, according vnto all the curses of the couenant, that is written in the booke of this Lawe. So that the generatio to come, euen your children, that shall rise vp after you, and the stranger, that shall come from a farre lande, shall say, when they shall see the plagues of this lande, and the diseases thereof, wherewith the Lord shall smite it: (For all that land shall burne with brimstone and salt: it shall not be sowen, nor bring forth, nor any grasse shall growe therein, like as in the overthrowing of Sodom, and Gomorah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the Lord ouerthrew in his wrath and in his anger) Then shall all nations say, Wherefore hath the Lord done thus vnto this lande? how fierce is this great wrath? And they shall answere, Because they haue forsaken the couenant of the Lord God of their fathers, which he had made with them, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt, And went and serued other gods and worshipped them: euen gods which they knewe not, and which had giuen them nothing, Therefore the wrath of the Lord waxed hot against this land, to bring vpon it every curse that is written in this booke. And ye Lord hath rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and hath cast them into another land, as appeareth this day. The secret things belong to the Lord our God, but the things reueiled belong vnto vs, and to our children for euer, that we may doe all the wordes of this Lawe.

Nowe when all these things shall come vpon thee, either the blessing or the curse which I haue set before thee, and thou shalt turne into thine heart, among all the nations whither the Lord thy God hath driuen thee, And shalt returne vnto the Lord thy God, and obey his voyce in all that I commaund thee this day: thou, and thy children with all thine heart and with all thy soule, Then the Lord thy God wil cause thy captiues to returne, and haue compassion vpon thee, and wil returne, to gather thee out of all the people, where the Lord thy God had scattered thee. Though thou werest cast vnto the utmost part of heauen, from thence will the Lord thy God gather thee, and from thence wil he take thee, And the Lord thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possesse it, and he will shewe thee fauour, and will multiplie thee aboue thy fathers. And the Lord thy God will circumsice thine heart, and the heart of thy seede, that thou mayest loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with al thy soule, that thou maiest liue. And the Lord thy God will lay all these curses vpon thine enemies, and on them, that hate thee, and that persecute thee. Returne thou therefore, and obey the voyce of the Lord, and do all his commandements, which I commaund thee this day. And the Lord thy God will make thee plenteous in euery worke of thine hande, in the fruite of thy bodie, and in the fruite of thy cattel, and in the fruite of the lande for thy wealth: for the Lord will turne againe, and reioyce ouer thee to do thee good, as he reioyced ouer thy fathers, Because thou shalt obey the voyce of the Lord thy God, in keeping his comandements, and his ordinances, which are written in the booke of this Law, when thou shalt returne vnto the Lord thy God with all thine heart and with al thy soule. For this commandement which I commande thee this day, is not hid from thee, neither is it farre off. It is not in heauen, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go vp for vs to heauen, and bring it vs, and cause vs to heare it, that we may doe it? Neither is it beyonde the sea, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go ouer the sea for vs, and bring it vs, and cause vs to heare it, that we may do it? But the word is very neere vnto thee: euen in thy mouth and in thine heart, for to do it. Beholde, I haue set before thee this day life and good, death and euill, In that I commaund thee this day, to loue the Lord thy God, to walke in his wayes, and to keepe his commandements, and his ordinances, and his lawes, that thou mayest liue, and be multiplied, and that the Lord thy God may blesse thee in the land, whither thou goest to possesse it. But if thine heart turne away, so that thou wilt not obey, but shalt be seduced and worship other gods, and serue them, I pronounce vnto you this day, that ye shall surely perish, ye shall not prolong your dayes in the lande, whither thou passest ouer Iorden to possesse it. I call heauen and earth to recorde this day against you, that I haue set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore chuse life, that both thou and thy seede may liue. By louing the Lord thy God, by obeying his voyce, and by cleauing vnto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy dayes: that thou mayest dwell in the lande which the Lord sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob, to giue them.

Then Moses went and spake these wordes vnto all Israel, And said vnto them, I am an hundreth and twentie yeere olde this day: I can no more goe out and in: also the Lord hath saide vnto me, Thou shalt not goe ouer this Iorden. The Lord thy God he will goe ouer before thee: he will destroy these nations before thee, and thou shalt possesse them. Ioshua, he shall goe before thee, as the Lord hath said. And the Lord shall doe vnto them, as he did to Sihon and to Og Kings of the Amorites: and vnto their lande whome he destroyed. And the Lord shall giue them before you that ye may do vnto them according vnto euery commandement, which I haue comanded you. Plucke vp your hearts therefore, and be strong: dread not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God him selfe doeth goe with thee: he will not faile thee, nor forsake thee. And Moses called Ioshua, and said vnto him in the sight of all Israel, Be of a good courage and strong: for thou shalt go with this people vnto the lande which the Lord hath sworne vnto their fathers, to giue them, and thou shalt giue it them to inherite. And the Lord him selfe doeth go before thee: he will be with thee: he will not faile thee, neither forsake thee: feare not therefore, nor be discomforted.

And Moses wrote this Lawe, and deliuered it vnvo the Priestes the sonnes of Leui (which bare the Arke of the couenant of the Lord) and vnvo all the Elders of Israel, And Moses commanded them, saying, Evry seuenth yeere when the yeere of freedome shalbe in the feast of the Tabernacles: When all Israel shall come to appeare before the Lord thy God, in the place which he shall chuse, thou shalt reade this Lawe before all Israel that they may heare it. Gather the people together: men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may heare, and that they may learne, and feare the Lord your God, and keepe and obserue all the wordes of this Lawe, And that their children which haue not knowne it, may heare it, and learne to feare the Lord your God, as long as ye liue in the lande, whither ye goe ouer Iorden to possesse it. Then the Lord saide vnto Moses, Beholde, thy dayes are come, that thou must die: Call Ioshua, and stande ye in the Tabernacle of the Congregation that I may giue him a charge. So Moses and Ioshua went, and stooode in the Tabernacle of the Congregation. And the Lord appeared in the Tabernacle, in the pillar of a cloude: and the pillar of the cloude stoode ouer the doore of the Tabernacle.
And the Lord said vnto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleepe with thy fathers, and this people will rise vp, and goe a whoring after the gods of a strange land (whither they goe to dwell therein) and will forsake me, and breake my covenant which I haue made with them. Wherefore my wrath will waxe hote against them at that day, and I will forsake them, and will hide my face from them: then they shall be consumed, and many aduersities and tribulations shall come vpon them: so then they will say, Are not these troubles come vpon me, because God is not with me?
But I will surely hide my face in that day, because of all the euill, which they shall commit, in that they are turned vnto other gods. Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: put it in their mouthes, that this song may be my witnesse against the children of Israel. For I will bring them into the lande (which I sware vnto their fathers) that floweth with milke and honie, and they shall eate, and fil them selues, and waxe fat: then shall they turne vnto other gods, and serue them, and contemne me, and breake my covenant. And then when many aduersities and tribulations shall come vpon them, this song shall answere them to their face as a witnesse: for it shall not be forgotte out of the mouthes of their posteritie: for I knowe their imagination, which they goe about euen now, before I haue brought them into the lande which I sware. Moses therefore wrote this song the same day and taught it the children of Israel. And God gaue Ioshua the sonne of Nun a charge, and said, Be strong, and of a good courage: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the lande, which I sware vnto them, and I will be with thee. And when Moses had made an ende of writing the wordes of this Lawe in a booke vntill he had finished them, Then Moses commanded the Leuites, which bare the Arke of the covenant of the Lord, saying, Take the booke of this Lawe, and put ye it in the side of the Arke of the covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I knowe thy rebellion and thy stiffe necke: beholde, I being yet aliue with you this day, ye are rebellious against the Lord: howe much more then after my death? Gather vnto me all the Elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speake these wordes in their audience, and call heauen and earth to recorde against them. For I am sure that after my death ye will vtterly be corrupt and turne from the way, which I haue commanded you: therefore euill will come vpon you at the length, because ye will comit euill in the sight of the Lord, by prouoking him to anger through the worke of your hands. Thus Moses spake in the audience of all the congregation of Israel the wordes of this song, vntill he had ended them.

Hearken, ye heauens, and I will speake: and let the earth heare the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the raine, and my speach shall stil as the dew, as the showre vpon the herbes, and as the great raine vpon the grasse. For I will publish the name of the Lord: giue ye glorie vnto our God. Perfect is the worke of the mighty God: for all his wayes are judgement. God is true, and without wickednesse: iust, and righteous is he. They haue corrupted them selues towarde him by their vice, not being his children, but a frowarde and crooked generation. Doe ye so rewarde the Lord, O foolish people and vnwise? is not he thy father, that hath bought thee? he hath made thee, and proportioned thee. Remember the dayes of olde: consider the yeeres of so many generations: aske thy father, and he will shewe thee: thine Elders, and they will tell thee. When the most hie God devided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sonnes of Adam, he appoynted the borders of the people, according to the nomber of the children of Israel. For the Lordes portion is his people: Iaakob is the lot of his inheritance. He found him in ye land of ye wildernes, in a waste, and roaring wildernes: he led him about, he taught him, and kept him as ye apple of his eye. As an eagle stereth vp her nest, flootereth ouer her birdes, stretcheth out her wings, taketh them, and beareth them on her wings, So the Lord alone led him, and there was no strange god with him. He caryed him vp to the hie places of the earth, that he might eate the fruiotes of the fieldes, and he caused him to sucke hony out of the stone, and oyle out of the hard rocke: Butter of kine, and milke of sheepe with fat of the lambes, and rammes fed in Bashan, and goates, with the fat of the graines of wheat, and the red licour of the grape hast thou drunke. But he that should haue bene vpright, when he waxed fat, spurned with his heele: thou art fat, thou art grosse, thou art laden with fatnes: therefore he forsooke God that made him, and regarded not the strong God of his salvation. They prouoked him with strange gods: they prouoked him to anger with abominations. They offred vnto deuils, not to God, but to gods whome they knew not: new gods that came newly vp, whome their fathers feared not. Thou hast forgotten the mightie God that begate thee, and hast forgotten God that formed thee. The Lord then sawe it, and was angrie, for the prouocation of his sonnes and of his daughters. And he said, I will hide my face from the: I will see what their ende shalbe: for they are a frowarde generation, children in who is no faith. They haue moued me to ielousie with that which is not God: they haue prouoked me to anger with their vanities: and I will moue them to ielousie with those which are no people: I wil prouoke them to anger with a foolish nation. For fire is kindled in my wrath, and shall burne vnto the bottome of hell, and shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountaines. I will spend plagues vpon them: I will bestowe mine arrowes vpon them. They shalbe burnt with hunger, and consumed with heate, and with bitter destruction: I will also sende the teeth of beastes vpon them, with the venime of serpents creeping in the dust. The sworde shall kill them without, and in the chambers feare: both the yong man and the yong woman, the suckeling with the man of gray heare. I haue said, I would scatter them abroade: I would make their remembrance to cease from among men, Saue that I feared the furie of the enemie, least their aduersaries should waxe proude, and least they should say, Our hie hande and not the Lord hath done all this: For they are a nation voide of counsel, neither is there any vnderstanding in them. Oh that they were wise, then they would vnderstand this: they would consider their latter ende. How should one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousande to flight, except their strong God had sold the, and the Lord had shut them vp? For their god is not as our God, euen our enemies being judges. For their vine is of the vine of Sodom, and of the vines of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their clusters be bitter. Their wine is the poyson of dragons, and the cruel gall of aspes. Is not this laide in store with me, and sealed vp among my treasures? Vengeance and recompence are mine: their foote shall slide in due time: for the day of their destruction is at hand, and the things that shall come vpon them, make haste. For the Lord shall iudge his people, and repent towards his seruants, when hee seeth that their power is gone, and none shut vp in holde nor left abroad. When men shall say, Where are their gods, their mighty God in whom they trusted, Which did eate the fat of their sacrifices, and did drinke the wine of their drinke offering? let them rise vp, and help you: let him be your refuge. Behold now, for I, I am he, and there is no gods with me: I kill, and giue life: I wound, and I make whole: neither is there any that can deliuer out of mine hand. For I lift vp my hand to heauen, and say, I liue for euer. If I whet my glittering sworde, and mine hand take holde on iudgement, I will execute vengeance on mine enemies, and will rewarde them that hate me. I will make mine arrowes drunke with blood, (and my sword shall eate flesh) for the blood of the slaine, and of the captiues, when I beginne to take vengeance of the enemie. Ye nations, praise his people: for he will auenge the blood of his seruants, and will execute vengeance vpon his aduersaries, and will bee mercifull vnto his lande, and to his people. Then Moses came and spake all ye words of this song in the audience of the people, he and Hoshea the sonne of Nun. When Moses had made an end of speaking all these wordes to all Israel, Then hee said vnto them, Set your heartes vnto all the wordes which I testifie against you this day, that ye may commande them vnto your children, that they may obserue and doo all the wordes of this Lawe. For it is no vaine worde concerning you, but it is your life, and by this worde ye shall prolong your dayes in the land, whither yee go ouer Iorden to possesse it. And the Lord spake vnto Moses the selfe same day, saying, Goe vp into the mountaine of Abarim, vnto the mount Nebo, which is in the lande of Moab, that is ouer against Iericho: and beholde the lande of Canaan, which I giue vnto the children of Israel for a possession, And die in the mount which thou goest vp vnto, and thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people, as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was gathered vnto his people, Because ye trespassed against me among the children of Israel, at the waters of Meribah, at Kadesh in the wildernesse of Zin: for ye sanctified me not among the children of Israel. Thou shalt therefore see the lande before thee, but shalt not go thither, I meane, into the land which I giue the children of Israel.

Nowe this is the blessing wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death, and said, The Lord came from Sinai, and rose vp from Seir vnto them, and appeared clearely from mount Paran, and he came with ten thousands of Saints, and at his right hand a firie Lawe for them. Though hee loue the people, yet all thy Saints are in thine handes: and they are humbled at thy foete, to receiue thy words. Moses commanded vs a Lawe for an inheritance of the Congregation of Iaakob. Then he was among the righteous people, as King, when the heads of the people, and the tribes of Israel were assembled. Let Reuben liue, and not die, though his men be a small number. And thus he blessed Iudah, and said, Heare, O Lord, the voyce of Iudah, and bring him vnto his people: his hands shalbe sufficient for him, if thou helpe him against his enemies. And of Leui he said, Let thy Thummim and thine Vrim be with thine Holy one, whome thou diddest proue in Massah, and didst cause him to striue at the waters of Meribah. Who said vnto his father and to his mother, I haue not seene him, neither knewe he his brethren, nor knewe his owne children: for they obserued thy word, and kept thy couenant. They shall teach Iaakob thy iudgements, and Israel thy Lawe: they shall put incense before thy face, and the burnt offring vpon thine altar. Blesse, O Lord, his substance, and accept the worke of his handes: smite through ye loynes of them that rise against him, and of them that hate him, that they rise not againe. Of Beniamin he said, The beloued of the Lord shall dwell in safetie by him: the Lord shall couer him all the day long, and dwell betweene his shoulders. And of Ioseph hee sayde, Blessed of the Lord is his land for the sweetenesse of heauen, for the dewe, and for the depth lying beneath, And for the sweete increase of the sunne, and for the sweete increase of the moone, And for the sweetenest of the top of the ancient mountaines, and for the sweetenest of the olde hilles, And for the sweetenesse of the earth, and abundance thereof: and the good will of him that dwelt in the bushe, shall come vpon the head of Ioseph, and vpon the toppe of the head of him that was separated from his brethren. His beautie shalbe like his first borne bullock, and his horne as the hornes of an unicorne: with them hee shall smite the people together, even the endes of the world: these are also the ten thousands of Ephraim, and these are the thousands of Manasseh. And of Zebulun he sayd, Reioice, Zebulun, in thy going out, and thou Isshachar in thy tents. They shall call ye people vnto the mountaine: there they shall offer the sacrifices of righteousnesse: for they shall sucke of the abundance of the sea, and of the treasures hid in the sand. Also of Gad he said, Blessed be hee that enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, that catcheth for his praye the arme with the head. And hee looked to himselfe at the beginning, because there was a portion of the Lawe-giuere hid: yet hee shall come with the heads of the people, to execute the iustice of the Lord, and his iudgements with Israel. And of Dan he said, Dan is a lions whelp: he shall leape from Bashan. Also of Naphtali he sayd, O Naphtali, satisfied with fauour, and filled with the blessing of the Lord, possesse the West and the South. And of Asher he saide, Asher shalbe blessed with children: he shalbe acceptable vnto his brethren, and shall dippe his foote in oyle. Thy shooes shalbe yron and brasse, and thy strength shall continue as long as thou liuest.
There is none like God, O righteous people, which rideth vpon the heauens for thine helpe, and on the cloudes in his glory. The eternall God is thy refuge, and vnder his armes thou art for euer: hee shall cast out the enemie before thee, and will say, Destroy them. Then Israel the fountaine of Iaakob shall dwell alone in safetie in a lande of wheat, and wine: also his heauens shall drop the dewe. Blessed art thou, O Israel: who is like vnto thee, O people saued by the Lord, the shielde of thine helpe, and which is the sword of thy glorie? therefore thine enemies shall bee in subiexion to thee, and thou shalt tread vpon their hie places.

Then Moses went from the plaine of Moab vp into mount Nebo vnto the top of Pisgah that is ouer against Iericho: and the Lord shewed him all the land of Gilead, vnto Dan, And all Naphtali and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea: And the South, and the plaine of the valley of Jericho, the citie of palmetrees, unto Zoar.

And the Lord said vnto him, This is the lande which I sware vnto Abraham, to Izhak and to Iaacob saying, I will giue it vnto thy seede: I haue caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not goe ouer thither. So Moses the seruant of the Lord dyed there in the land of Moab, according to the worde of the Lord. And hee buried him in a valley in the land of Moab ouer against Beth-peor, but no man knoweth of his sepulchre vnto this day. Moses was nowe an hundreth and twentie yeere olde when hee died, his eye was not dimme, nor his naturall force abated.

And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plaine of Moab thirtie dayes: so the dayes of weeping and mourning for Moses were ended. And Ioshua the sonne of Nun was full of ye spirit of wisedome: for Moses had put his hands vpon him. And the children of Israel were obedient vnto him, and did as the Lord had commanded Moses. But there arose not a Prophet since in Israel like vnto Moses (whome the Lord knew face to face) In all ye miracles and wonders which ye Lord sent him to do in ye land of Egypt before Pharaoh and before all his servantes, and before al his land, And in all that mightie hand and all that great feare, which Moses wrought in the sight of all Israel.
Nowe after the death of Moses the servant of the Lord, the Lord spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses minister, saying, Moses my servant is dead: now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I give them, that is, to ye children of Israel. Every place that the sole of your foote shall treade vpon, haue I giuen you, as I said vnto Moses. From the wildernesse and this Lebanon even vnto the great riuer, the riuer Perath: all the land of the Hittites, even vnto the great Sea towards the going downe of the sunne, shalbe your coast. There shall not a man be able to withstande thee all the dayes of thy life: as I was with Moses, so will I be with thee: I will not leaue thee, nor forsake thee. Be strong and of a good courage: for vnto this people shalt thou deuide the lande for an inheritance, which I sware vnto their fathers to giue them. Onely be thou strong, and of a most valiant courage, that thou mayest observe and doe according to all the Lawe which Moses my servant hath commanded thee: thou shalt not turne away from it to the right hande, nor to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest. Let not this booke of the Law depart out of thy mouth, but meditate therin day and night, that thou mayest observe and doe according to all that is written therein: for then shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and then shalt thou haue good successe. Haue not I commanded thee, saying, Be strong and of a good courage, feare not, nor be discouraged? for I the Lord thy God will be with thee, whithersoever thou goest. Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying, Passe through the hoste, and commande the people, saying, Prepare you vitailes: for after three dayes ye shall passe ouer this Iorden, to goe in to possesse the lande, which the Lord your God giueth you to possesse it. And vnto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to halfe the tribe of Manasseh spake Joshua, saying, Remember the worde, which Moses the seruant of the Lord commanded you, saying, The Lord your God hath giuen you rest, and hath giuen you this land. Your wiues, your children, and your cattell shall remaine in the land which Moses gaue you on this side Iordan: but ye shall goe ouer before your brethren armed, all that be men of warre, and shall helpe them, Vntill the Lord haue giuen your brethren rest, as well as to you, and vntill they also shall possesse the land, which the Lord your God giueth them: then shall ye returne vnto the lande of your possession and shall possesse it, which land Moses the Lordes seruant gaue you on this side Iordan toward the sunne rising. Then they answered Joshua, saying, Al that thou hast commanded vs, we will doe, and whithersoever thou sendest vs, we will goe. As we obeyed Moses in all things, so will we obey thee: onely the Lord thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses. Whosoeuer shall re-bell against thy commandement, and will not obey thy wordes in all that thou commaundest him, let him bee put to death: onely be strong and of good courage.

Then Ioshua the sonne of Nun sent out of Shittim two men to spie secretly, saying, Go, view the land, and also Iericho: and they went, and came into an harlots house, named Rahab, and lodged there. Then report was made to the King of Iericho, saying, Beholde, there came men hither to night, of the children of Israel, to spie out the countrey. And the King of Iericho sent vnto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, and which are entred into thine house: for they be come to search out all the land. (But ye woman had taken the two men, and hid them) Therefore saide she thus, There came men vnto me, but I wist not whence they were. And when they shut the gate in the darke, the men went out, whither the men went I wote not: follow ye after them quickly, for ye shall ouertake them. (But she had brought them vp to the rooife of the house, and hidde them with the stalkes of flaxe, which she had spread abroad vpon the rooife) And certaine men pursued after them, the way to Iordan, vnto the foordes, and as soone as they which pursued after them, were gone out, they shut the gate. And before they were a sleepe, she came vp vnto them vpon the rooife, And saide vnto the men, I knowe that the Lord hath giuen you the land, and that the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, and that all the inhabitants of the land faint because of you. For we have heard, howe the Lord dried vp the water of the redde Sea before you, when you came out of Egypt, and what you did vnto the two Kings of the Amorites, that were on the other side Iorden, vnto Sihon and to Og, whom ye vtterly destroyed: And when wee heard it, our heartes did faint, and there remained no more courage in any because of you: for the Lord your God, he is the God in heauen aboue, and in earth beneath. Now therefore, I pray you, sweare vnto me by the Lord; that as I haue shewed you mercie, ye will also shewe mercie vnto my fathers house, and giue me a true token, And that yee will saue alieue my father and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they haue: and that yee will deliuer our soules from death. And the men answered her, Our life for you to die, if ye vtter not this our businesse: and when the Lord hath giuen vs the lande, we will deale mercifully and truely with thee. Then she let them downe by a corde thorowe the windowe: for her house was vpon the towne wall, and she dwelt vpon the wall. And she said vnto them, Goe you into the mountaine, least the pursuers meete with you, and hide your selues there three dayes, vntill the pursuers be returned: then afterwarde may yee goe your way. And the men said vnto her, We will be blamelesse of this thine othe, which thou hast made vs sweare. Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this cord of red threde in the window, whereby thou lettest vs downe, and thou shalt bring thy father and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy fathers houshold home to thee. And whosoeuer then doeth goe out at the doores of thine house into the streete, his blood shalbe vpon his head, and we will be giltesse: but whosoeuer shall be with thee in the house, his blood shalbe on our head, if any hande touch him: And if thou vtter this our matter, we will be quite of thine othe, which thou hast made vs sweare. And she answered, According vnto your wordes, so be it: then she sent them away, and they departed, and she bound the red cord in ye window. And they departed, and came into the mountaine, and there abode three dayes, vntil the pursuers were returned: and the pursuers sought them throughout all the way, but founde them not. So the two men returned, and descended from the mountaine, and passed ouer, and came to Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and tolde him all things that came vnto them. Also they saide vnto Ioshua, Surely the Lord hath deliuered into our handes all the lande: for euin all the inhabitants of the countrey faint because of vs.

Then Ioshua rose very earely, and they remoued from Shittim, and came to Iorden, he, and all the children of Israel, and lodged there, before they went ouer. And after three dayes the officers went throughout the hoste, And commanded the people, saying, When ye see the Arke of the couenat of the Lord your God, and the Priestes of the Leuites bearing it, ye shall de-part from your place, and goe after it. Yet there shalbe a space betweene you and it, about two thousande cubites by measure: ye shall not come neere vnto it, that ye may knowe the way, by the which ye shall goe: for ye haue not gone this way in times past. (Nowe Ioshua had saide vnto the people, Sanctifie your selues: for to morowe the Lord will doe wonders among you)

Also Ioshua spake vnto the Priestes, saying, Take vp the Arke of the covenent, and goe ouer before the people: so they tooke vp the Arke of the covenent, and went before the people. Then the Lord saide vnto Ioshua, This day will I begin to magnifie thee in the sight of all Israel, which shall knowe, that as I was with Moses, so will I be with thee. Thou shalt therefore command the Priests that beare the Arke of the Couenant, saying, When ye are come to the brinke of the waters of Iorden, ye shall stande still in Iorden. Then Ioshua said vnto the children of Israel, Come hither, and heare the wordes of the Lord your God. And Ioshua said, Hereby ye shall know that the liuing God is among you, and that he will certainly cast out before you the Canaan-ites, and the Hittites, and the Hiuites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Iebusites. Beholde, the Arke of the covenent of the Lord of all the worlde passeth before you into Iorden. Nowe therefore take from among you twelue men out of the tribes of Israel, out of euery tribe a man. And assoone as the soles of the feete of the Priestes (that beare the Arke of the Lord God the Lord of all the worlde) shall stay in the waters of Iorden, the waters of Iorden shall be cut off: for the waters that come from aboue, shall stande still vpon an heape. Then when the people were departed from their tentes to goe ouer Iorden, the Priestes bearing the Arke of the Couenant, went before people. And as they that bare the Arke came vnto Iorden, and the feete of the Priestes that bare the Arke were dipped in the brinke of the water, (for Iorden vseth to fill all his bankes all the time of haruest) Then the waters that came downe from aboue, stayed and rose vpon an heape and departed farre from the citie of Adam, that was beside Zaretan: but the waters that came downe towards the Sea of the wildernes, euen the salt Sea, failed, and were cut off: so the people went right ouer against Iericho. But the Priestes that bare the Arke of the couenant of the Lord, stoode drie within Iorden readie prepared, and all the Israelites went ouer dry, vntill all the people were gone cleane ouer through Iorden.

And when all the people were wholy gone ouer Iorden, (after the Lord had spoken vnto Ioshua, saying, Take you twelue me out of the people, out of euery tribe a man, And command you them, saying, Take you hence out of the middes of Iorden, out of the place where the Priestes stoode in a readinesse, twelue stones, which ye shall take away with you, and leaue them in the lodging where you shall lodge this night) Then Ioshua called the twelue men, whome he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of euery tribe a man, And Ioshua said vnto them, Go ouer before the Arke of the Lord your God, euens through the middes of Iorden, and take vp euery man of you a stone vpon his shoulder according vnto the nomber of the tribes of the children of Israel, That this may bee a signe among you, that whe your children shall aske their fathers in time to come, saying, What meane you by these stones? Then ye may answere them, That the waters of Iorden were cut off before the Arke of the couenant of the Lord: for when it passed through Iorden, the waters of Iorden were cut off: therefore these stones are a memoriall vnto the children of Israel for euer. Then ye children of Israel did euen so as Ioshua had commanded, and tooke vp twelue stones out of the mids of Iorden as ye Lord had said vnto Ioshua, according to the nomber of the tribes of the children of Israel, and caried them away with them vnto the lodging, and layd them down there. And Ioshua set vp twelue stones in the middes of Iorden, in the place where the feete of the Priestes, which bare the Arke of the couenant stood, and there haue they continued vnto this day. So the Priestes, which bare ye Arke, stoode in the middles of Iorden, vntill every thing was finished that ye Lord had comanded Ioshua to say vnto the people, according to all that Moses charged Ioshua: then the people hasted and went ouer. When all the people were cleane passed ouer, the Arke of the Lord went ouer also, and the Priests before the people. And the sonnes of Reuben, and the sonnes of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manassee went ouer before the children of Israel armed, as Moses had charged them. Euen fourty thousand prepared for warre, went before the Lord vnto battel, into ye plaine of Iericho. That day the Lord magnified Ioshua in the sight of all Israel, and they feared him, as they feared Moses all dayes of his life. And the Lord spake vnto Ioshua, saying, Commande the Priests that beare ye Arke of the testimonie, to come vp out of Iorden. Ioshua therefore commanded the Priests, saying, Come ye vp out of Iorden. And when the Priests that bare the Arke of the covenant of ye Lord were come vp out of the middes of Iorden, and assoone as the soles of the Priests feete were set on the dry land, the waters of Iorde returned vnto their place, and flowed ouer all the bankes thereof, as they did before. So the people came vp out of Iorden the tenth day of the first month, and pitched in Gilgal, in the Eastside of Iericho. Also the twelue stones, which they tooke out of Iorden, did Ioshua pitch in Gilgal. And he spake vnto ye childre of Israel, saying, When your children shall aske their fathers in time to come, and say, What meane these stones? Then ye shall shew your children, and say, Israel came ouer this Iorden on dry land: For the Lord your God dryed vp ye waters of Iorden before you, vntill ye were gone ouer, as the Lord your God did the red Sea, which hee dryed vp before vs, till we were gone ouer, That all the people of the worlde may know that the hand of the Lord is mightie, that ye might feare the Lord your God continually.

5 Nowe when all the Kings of the Amorites, which were beyond Iorden Westward, and all the Kingses of the Canaanites which were by the Sea, heard that the Lord had dried vp the waters of Iorden before the children of Israel vntill they were gone ouer, their heart fainted: and there was no courage in them any more because of the children of Israel. That same time the Lord said vnto Ioshua, Make thee sharpe kniues, and returne, and circum-cise the sonnes of Israel the second time. Then Ioshua made him sharpe kniues and circumcised the sonnes of Israel in the hill of the foreskinnes. And this is the cause why Ioshua circumcised all the people, euen the males that came out of Egypt, because all the men of warre were dead in the wildernes by the way after they came out of Egypt. For all the people that came out were circumcised: but all the people that were borne in the wildernes by the way after they came out of Egypt, were not circumcised. For the children of Israel walked fourtie yeres in the wildernes, till all the people of the men of warre that came out of Egypt were consumed, because they obeyed not the voyce of the Lord: vnto whome the Lord sware, that he would not shewe them the lande, which the Lord had sworne vnto their fathers, that he would giue vs, euen a land that floweth with milke and honie. So their sonnes whome he raysed vp in their steade, Ioshua circumcised: for they were vn circumcision, because they circumcised them not by the way. And when they had made an ende of circumcision al the people, they abode in the places in the campe till they were whole. After, the Lord said vn to Ioshua, This day I haue taken away the shame of Egypt from you: wherefore he called the name of that place Gilgal, vn to this day. So the children of Israel abode in Gilgal, and kept ye feast of the Passeouer the fourteenth day of the moneth at euen in ye plaine of Iericho. And they did eat of the corne of the land, on the morow after the Passeouer, vnleauened breade, and parched corne in the same day. And the MAN ceased on the morowe after they had eaten of the corne of the land, neither had the children of Israel MAN any more, but did eate of the fruite of the land of Canaan that yeere. And when Ioshua was by Iericho, he lift vp his eyes and looked: and behold, there stood a man against him, hauing a sword drawen in his hand: and Ioshua went vn to him, and said vn to him, Art thou on our side, or on our aduersaries? And he said, Nay, but as a captaine of the host of the Lord am I nowe come: then Ioshua fel on his face to the earth, and did worship, and saide vn to him, What sayth my Lord vn to his servaunt? And the captaine of ye Lords host said vn to Ioshua, Loose thy shoe of thy foote: for ye place wheron thou standest, is holy: and Ioshua did so.

Now Iericcho was shut vp, and closed, because of the children of Israel: none might go out nor enter in. And the Lord saide unto Ioshua, Behold, I haue giuen into thine hand Iericho and the King thereof, and the strong men of warre. All ye therefore that be men of warre, shall compasse the citie, in going round about the citie once: thus shall you doe sixe dayes: And seuen Priests shall beare seuen trumpets of rams hornes before the Arke: and the seuenth day ye shall compasse the citie seuen times, and the Priests shall blow with the trumpets. And when they make a long blast with the rams horne, and ye heare the sound of the trumpet, al the people shall shoute with a great shoute: then shall the wall of the citie fall downe flat, and the people shall ascend vp, euery man streight before him. Then, Ioshua the sonne of Nun called the Priests and said vnto them, Take vp the Arke of the couenant, and let seuen Priests beare seuen trumpets of rams hornes before the Arke of the Lord. But he said vnto the people, Goe and compasse the citie: and let him that is armed, go forth before the Arke of the Lord. And when Ioshua had spoken vnto the people, the seuen Priestes bare the seuen trumpets of rams hornes before the Arke of the Lord. But he said vnto the people, Goe and compasse the citie: and let him that is armed, go forth before the Arke of the Lord. And when Ioshua had spoken vnto the people, the seuen Priestes bare the seuen trumpets of rams hornes, and went foorth before the Arke of the Lord, and blew with the trumpets, and the Arke of the couenant of ye Lord followed them. And the men of armes went before the Priestes, that blewe the trumpets: then the gathering hoste came after the Arke, as they went and blewe the trumpets. (Nowe Ioshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall nor shout, neither make any noyse with your voyce, neither shall a worde proceed out of your mouth, vntill the day that I say vnto you, Shout, then shall ye shoute) So the Arke of the Lord compassed the citie, and went about it once: then they returned into the hoaste, and lodged in the campe. And Ioshua rose early in the morning, and the Priestes bare the Arke of the Lord: Also seuen Priestes bare seuen trumpets of rams hornes, and went before the Arke of the Lord, and going blewe with the trumpets: and the men of armes went before them, but the gathering hoste came after the Arke of the Lord, as they went and blewe the trumpets. And the second day they compassed the citie once, and returned into the host: thus they did sixe dayes. And when the seuenth day came, they rose early, euen with the dawning of the day, and compassed the citie after ye same maner seuen times: only that day they compassed the citie seuen times. And when the Priestes had blowen ye trumpets the seuenth time, Joshua said unto ye people, Shoute: for the Lord hath giuen you the citie. And the citie shalbe an execrable thing, both it, and all that are therein, vnto the Lord: onely Rahab the harlot shall liue, shee, and all that are with her in the house: for shee hid the messengers that we sent. Notwithstanding, be ye ware of the execrable thing, lest ye make your selues execrable, and in taking of the execrable thing, make also the hoste of Israel execrable, and trouble it. But all siluer, and gold, and vessels of brasse, and yron shalbe consecrate vnto the Lord, and shall come into the Lordes treasury. So the people shouted, whe they had blowen trumpets: for when the people had heard the sound of the trumpet, they shouted with a great shoute: and the wall fel downe flat: so the people went vp into the citie, euery man streight before him: and they tooke the citie. And they utterly destroyed all that was in the citie, both man and woman, yong, and olde, and oxe, and sheepe, and asse, with the edge of the sword. But Ioshua had said vnto the two men that had spied out the countrey, Go into the harlots house, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware to her. So the yong men that were spies, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that shee had: also they brought out all her familie, and put them without the host of Israel. After they burnt the citie with fire, and all that was therein: onely the siluer and the gold, and the vessels of brasse and yron, they put vnto the treasure of the house of the Lord. So Ioshua saued Rahab the harlot, and her fathers houshold, and all that shee had; and shee dwelt in Israel euenthis day, because shee had hid the messengers, which Ioshua sent to spie out Iericho. And Ioshua sware at that time, saying, Cursed be the man before ye Lord, that riseth vp, and buildeth this citie Iericho: hee shall lay the foundation thereof in his eldest sonne, and in his yongest sonne shall hee set vp the gates of it. So the Lord was with Ioshua, and he was famous through all the world.

But the children of Israel committed a trespasse in the excommunicate thing: for Achan the sonne of Carmi, the sonne of Zabdi, the sonne of Zerah of the tribe of Iuda tooke of the excommunicate thing: wherfore the wrath of the Lord was kindled against the children of Israel. And Ioshua sent men from Ieri-cho to Ai, which is beside Bethauen, on ye East side of Bethel, and spake vnto them, saying, Goe vp, and view the countrey.

And ye men went vp, and viewed Ai, And returned to Ioshua, and saide vnto him, Let not al the people go vp, but let as it were two or three thousand men go vp, and smite Ai, and make not al the people to labour thither, for they are fewe. So there went vp thither of the people about three thousande men, and they fledde before the men of Ai. And the men of Ai smote of them vpon a thirtie and sixe men: for they chased them from before the gate vnto Shebarim, and smote them in the going downe: wherfore the heartes of the people melted away like water. Then Ioshua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth vpon his face before the Arke of the Lord, vntill the euentide, he, and the Elders of Israel, and put dust vpon their heads. And Ioshua said, Alas, O Lord God, wherefore hast thou brought this people ouer Iorden, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroye vs? would God we had bene content to dwell on the other side Iorden. Oh Lord, what shall I say, when Israel turne their backes before their enemies? For the Canaanites, and all the inhabitants of the land shall heare of it, and shall compasse vs, and destroy our name out of the earth: and what wilt thou doe vnto thy mightie Name? And the Lord said vnto Ioshua, Get thee vp: wherefore lyest thou thus vpon thy face? Israel hath sinned, and they haue transgressed my couenant, which I commanded them: for they haue euen taken of the excommunicate thing, and haue also stollen, and dissembled also, and haue put it euen with their owne stuffe. Therefore ye children of Israel cannot stand before their enemies, but haue turned their backes before their enemies, because they be execrable: neither will I bee with you any more, except ye destroy the excommunicate from among you. Vp therefore, sanctifie the people, and say, Sanctifie your selues against to morowe: for thus saith the Lord God of Israel, There is an execrable thing among you, O Israel, therefore ye cannot stand against your enemies, vntill ye haue put the execrable thing from among you. In the morning therefore ye shall come according to your tribes, and the tribe which the Lord taketh, shall come according to the families: and the familie which the Lord shall take, shall come by the housh-
by man. And he that is taken with the excommunicate thing, shall be burnt with fire, hee, and all that he hath, because he hath transgressed the couenant of the Lord, and because he hath wrought folly in Israel. So Ioshua rose vp earlie in the morning and brought Israel by their tribes: and the tribe of Iudah was taken. And he brought the families of Iudah, and tooke the familie of the Zarhites, and he brought the familie of the Zarhites, man by man, and Zabdi was taken. And he brought his houshold, man by man, and Achan ye sonne of Carmi, the sonne of Zabdi, the sonne of Zerah of the tribe of Iudah was take. Then Ioshua said vnto Achan, My sonne, I beseech thee, giue glory to the Lord God of Israel, and make confession vnto him, and shewe me now what thou hast done: hide it not from me. And Achan answered Ioshua, and saide, In deede, I haue sinned against the Lord God of Israel, and thus, and thus haue I done. I sawe among the spoyle a goodly Babylonish garment, and two hundreth shekels of siluer, and a wedge of golde of fiftie shekels weight, and I coueted them, and tooke them: and behold, they lye hid in the earth in the mids of my tent, and the siluer vnder it. Then Ioshua sent messengers, which ran vnto the tent, and beholde, it was hid in his tent, and the siluer vnder it. Therefore they tooke them out of the tent, and brought them vnto Ioshua, and vnto all the children of Israel, and layd them before the Lord. Then Ioshua tooke Achan the sonne of Zerah, and the siluer, and the garment and the wedge of golde and his sonnes, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his asses, and his sheepe, and his tent, and all that hee had: and all Israel with him brought them vnto the valley of Achor. And Ioshua said, In as much as thou hast troubled vs, the Lord shall trouble thee this day: and all Israel threwe stones at him, and burned them with fire, and stoned them with stones. And they cast vpon him a great heape of stones vnto this day: and so the Lord turned from his fierce wrath: therefore hee called the name of that place, The valley of Achor, vnto this day.

After, the Lord saide vnto Ioshua, Feare not, neither bee thou faint hearted: take all the men of warre with thee and arise, go vp to Ai: beholde, I haue giuen into thine hand the King of Ai, and his people, and his citie, and his land. And thou shalt doe to Ai and to the King thereof, as thou didst vnto Iericho and to the King thereof: nevertheless the spoyle thereof and the cattell thereof shall ye take vnto you for a praye: thou shalt lye in wait against the citie on the backside thereof. Then Ioshua arose, and all the men of warre to goe vp against Ai: and Ioshua chose out thirtie thousand strong men, and valiant, and sent them away by night. And he commanded them, saying, Behold, yee shall lye in waite against the citie on the backeside of the citie: goe not very farre from the citie, but be ye all in a readinesse. And I and all the people that are with me, will approche vnto the citie: and when they shall come out against vs, as they did at the first time, then will we flee before them. For they wil come out after vs, till we haue brought them out of the citie: for they will say, They flee before vs as at the first time: so we will flee before them. Then you shall rise vp from lying in waite and destroy the citie: for the Lord your God wil deliuer it into your hand. And when ye haue taken the citie, ye shall set it on fire: according to the commandement of the Lord shall ye do: behold, I haue charged you. Ioshua then sent them foorth, and they went to lye in waite, and abode betweene Beth-el and Ai, on the Westside of Ai: but Ioshua lodged that night among the people. And Ioshua rose vp early in the morning, and nombred the people: and he and the Elders of Israel went vp before the people against Ai. Also all the men of warre that were with him went vp and drewe neere, and came against the citie, and pitched on the Northside of Ai: and there was a valley betweene them and Ai. And hee tooke about fiue thousande men, and set them to lye in waite betweene Beth-el and Ai, on the Westside of the citie. And the people set all the hoste that was on the Northside against the citie, and the liers in waite on the West, against the citie: and Ioshua went the same night into the mids of the valley. And when the King of Ai sawe it, then the men of the citie hasted and rose vp earely, and went out against Israel to battell, hee and all his people at the time appointed, before the plaine: for he knew not that any lay in waite against him on the backeside of the citie. Then Ioshua and all Israel as beaten before them, fled by the way of the wildernes. And all the people of the citie were called together, to pursue after them: and they pursued after Ioshua, and were drawen away out of the city. So that there was not a man left in Ai, nor in Beth-el, that went not out after Israel: and they left the citie open, and pursued after Israel. Then the Lord said vnto Ioshua, Stretch out the speare that is in thine hande, towarde Ai: for I wil giue it into thine hand: and Ioshua stretched out the speare that hee had in his hand, toward the citie. And they that lay in wait, arose quickly out of their place, and ranne as soone as he had stretched out his hand, and they entred into the citie, and tooke it, and hasted, and set the citie on fire. And the men of Ai looked behinde them, and sawe it: for loe, the smoke of the citie ascended vp to heauen, and they had no power to flee this way or that way: for the people that fled to the wildernesse, turned backe vpon the pursuers. When Ioshua and all Israel sawe that they that lay in waite, had taken the citie, and that the smoke of the citie mounted vp, then they turned againe and slewe the men of Ai. Also the other issued out of the citie against them: so were they in the middes of Israel, these being on the one side, and the rest on the other side: and they slew them, so that they let none of them remaine nor escape. And the King of Ai they tooke aliue, and brought him to Ioshua. And when Israel had made an ende of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the fielde, that is, in the wildernesse, where they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sworde, vntill they were consumed, all the Israelites returned vnto Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sworde. And all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelue thousande, euen all the men of Ai. For Ioshua drewe not his hande backe againe which he had stretched out with the speare, vntill hee had vtterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. Onely the cattell and the spoyle of this citie, Israel tooke for a praye vnto themselues, according vnto the worde of the Lord, which hee commanded Ioshua. And Ioshua burnt Ai, and made it an heape for euer, and a wildernes vnto this day. And the King of Ai hee hanged on a tree, vnto the euening. And as soone as the sunne was down, Ioshua commanded that they should take his carkeis downe from the tree, and cast it at the entring of ye gate of the city, and lay thereon a great heape of stones, that remaineth vnto this day. Then Ioshua built an altar vnto the Lord God of Israel, in mount Ebal, As Moses the seruant of the Lord had commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the booke of the Lawe of Moses, an altar of whole stone, over which no man had lift an iron: and they offered thereon burnt offerings unto the Lord, and sacrificed peace offerings. Also he wrote thereupon the stones, a rehearsal of the Law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel. And all Israel (and their Elders, and officers and their judges stood on this side of the Ark, and on that side, before the Priestess of the Levites, which bare the Ark of the covenant of the Lord) as well the stranger, as he that is born in the country: half of them were over against mount Gerizim, and half of them over against mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of the Lord had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. Then afterwarde he read all the words of the Law, the blessings and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the Law. There was not a word of all that Moses had commanded, which Joshua read not before all the Congregation of Israel, as well before the women and the children, as the stranger that was conversant among them.

And when all the Kings that were beyond Jordan, in the mountains and in the valleys, and by all the coasts of the great Sea over against Lebanon (as the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites) heard thereof, They gathered themselves together, to fight against Joshua, and against Israel with one accord. But the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done unto Jericho, and to Ai. And therefore they wrought craftily: for they went, and faindethemselves ambassadors, and took old sacks upon their asses, and old bottles for wine, both rent and bound vp, And old shoes and clouted upon their feete: also the raiment upon them was old, and all their provision of bread was dried, and moulded. So they came unto Joshua into the hoste to Gilgal, and said unto him, and unto the men of Israel, We be come from a farre country: nowe therefore make a league with vs. Then the men of Israel said unto the Hivites, It may be that thou dwellest among vs, how then can I make a league with thee? And they said unto Joshua, We are thy servants. Then Joshua saide unto them, Who are ye? and whence come ye? And they answered him, From a very farre country thy servants are come for the Name of the Lord thy God: for we have heard his fame and all that he hath done in Egypt. And all that he hath done to the two Kings of the Amorites that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon King of Heshbon, and to Og King of Bashan, which were at Ashtaroth. Wherefore our elders, and all the inhabitants of our country spake to us, saying, Take victuals with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants: now therefore make ye a league with us. This our bread we took hot with us for victuals out of our houses, the day we departed to come unto you: but now behold, it is dried, and it is moulded. Also these bottles of wine which we filled, were new, and lo, they be rent, and these our garments and our shoes are old, by reason of the exceeding great journey. And the men accepted their tale concerning their victuals, and counselled not with the mouth of the Lord. So Joshua made peace with them, and made a league with them, that he would suffer them to live: also the Princes of the Congregation swore unto them. But at the end of three days, after they had made a league with them, they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them. And the children of Israel took their journey, and came unto their cities the third day, and their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth and Kiriath-jearim. And the children of Israel slew them not, because the Princes of the Congregation had sworn unto them by the Lord God of Israel: wherefore all the Congregation murmured against the Princes. Then all the Princes said unto all the Congregation, We have sworn unto them by the Lord God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them. But this we will do to them, and let them live, least the wrath be upon us because of the oath which we sware unto them. And the Princes said unto them again, Let them live, but they shall hew wood, and draw water unto all the Congregation, as the Princes appoint them. Joshua then called them, and talked with them, and said, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, saying, We are very far from you, when ye dwell among us? Now therefore ye are cursed, and there shall none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the house of my God. And they answered Joshua, and said, Because it was told thy servants, that the Lord thy God had commanded his servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land out of your sight, therefore we were exceeding sore afraid for our liues at the presence of you, and haue done this thing: And beholde nowe, we are in thine hand: doe as it seemeth good and right in thine eyes to doe vnto vs. Euen so did he vnto them, and deliuered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slewe them not. And Ioshua appointed them that same day to be hewers of wood, and draw-ers of water for the Congregation, and for the altar of the Lord vnto this day, in the place which he should chuse.

Now when Adoni-zedek King of Ierusalem had heard how Ioshua had taken Ai and had destroyed it, (for as he had done to Iericho and to the King thereof, so he had done to Ai and to the King thereof) and howe the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them, Then they feared exceedingly: for Gibeon was a great citie, as one of the royall cities: for it was greater then Ai, and all the men thereof were mightie. Wherefore Adoni-zedek King of Ierusalem sent vnto Hoham King of Hebron, and vnto Piram King of Iarmuth, and vnto Iapia King of Lachish, and vnto Debir King of Eglon, saying, Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smite Gibeon: for they haue made peace with Ioshua and with the children of Israel. Therefore the fiue Kings of the Amorites, the King of Ierusalem, the King of Hebron, the King of Iarmuth, the King of Lachish, and the King of Eglon gathered themselues together, and went vp, they with all their hostes, and besieged Gibeon, and made warre against it. And the men of Gibeon sent vnto Ioshua, euen to the hoste to Gilgal, saying, Withdrawe not thine hand from thy seruants: come vp to vs quickly, and saue vs, and helpe vs: for all the Kings of the Amorites which dwell in the mountaines, are gathered together against vs. So Ioshua ascended from Gil-gal, he, and all the people of warre with him, and all the men of might. And the Lord sayd vnto Ioshua, Feare them not: for I haue giuen them into thine hand: none of them shall stand against thee. Ioshua therefore came vnto them suddenly: for he went vp from Gilgal all the night. And the Lord discom-fited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth vp to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah and to Makkedah. And as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going downe to Beth-horon, the Lord cast downe great stones from heauen vpon them, vntill Azekah, and they dyed: they were more that dyed with the hailestones, then they whom the children of Israel slewe with the sword. Then spake Ioshua to the Lord, in the day when the Lord gaue the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he sayd in the sight of Israel, Sunne, stay thou in Gibeon, and thou moone, in the valley of Aialon. And the Sunne abode, and the moone stood still, vntill the people auenged themselues vpon their enemies: (Is not this written in the booke of Iasher?) so the Sunne abode in the middes of the heauen, and hasted not to goe downe for a whole day. And there was no day like that before it, nor after it, that the Lord heard the voyce of a man: for the Lord fought for Israel. After, Ioshua returned, and all Israel with him vnto the campe to Gilgal: But the fiue Kings fled and were hid in a caue at Makkedah. And it was tolde Ioshua, say-ing, The fiue Kings are found hid in a caue at Makkedah. Then Ioshua said, Roule great stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it for to keepe them. But stand ye not still: follow after your enemies, and smite all the hindmost, suffer them not to enter into their cities: for the Lord your God hath giuen them into your hand. And when Ioshua and the children of Israel had made an ende of slaying them with an exceeding great slaughter till they were consumed, and the rest that remained of them were entred into walled cities, Then all the people returned to the campe, to Ioshua at Makkedah in peace: no man mooed his tongue against the children of Israel. After, Ioshua sayd, Open the mouth of the caue, and bring out these fiue Kings vnto me forth of the caue. And they did so, and brought out those fiue Kings vnto him forth of the caue, euen the King of Ierusalem, the King of Hebron, ye King of Iarmuth, the King of Lachish, and the King of Eglon. And when they had brought out those Kings vnto Ioshua, Ioshua called for all the men of Israel, and sayd vnto the chiefe of the men of warre, which went with him, Come neere, set your feete vpon the necks of these Kings: and they came neere and set their feete vpon their necks. And Ioshua sayd vnto them, Feare not, nor be faint hearted, but be strong and of a good courage: for thus will the Lord doe to all your enemies, against whome ye fight. So then Ioshua smote them, and slewe them, and hanged them on fiue trees, and they hanged still vpon the trees vntill the euening. And at the going downe of the sunne, Ioshua gaue commandement, that they should take them downe off the trees, and cast them into the caue (wherein they had bene hid) and they layde great stones vpon the caues mouth, which remaine vntill this day. And that same day Ioshua tooke Makkedah and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the King thereof destroyed he with them, and all the soules that were therein, he let none remaine: for hee did to the King of Makkedah as he had done vnto the King of Iericho. Then Ioshua went from Makkedah, and all Israel with him vnto Libnah, and fought against Libnah. And the Lord gaue it also and the King thereof into the hand of Israel: and he smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the soules that were therein: he let none remaine in it: for he did vnto the King thereof, as he had done vnto the King of Iericho. And Ioshua departed from Libnah, and all Israel with him vnto Lachish, and besieged it, and assaulted it. And the Lord gaue Lachish into the hand of Israel, which tooke it the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the soules that were therein, according to all as he had done to Libnah. Then Horam King of Gezer came vp to helpe Lachish: but Ioshua smote him and his people, vntill none of his remained. And from Lachish Ioshua departed vnto Eglon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged it, and assaulted it, And they tooke it the same day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the soules that were therein he utterly destroyed the same day, according to all that he had done to Lachish. Then Ioshua went vp from Eglon, and all Israel with him vnto Hebron, and they fought against it. And when they had taken it, they smote it with the edge of the sword, and the King thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the soules that were therein: he left none remaining, according to all as he had done to Eglon: for he destroyed it utterly, and all the soules that were therein. So Ioshua returned, and all Israel with him to Debir, and fought against it. And when he had taken it, and the King thereof, and all the citie thereof, they smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed all the soules that were therein, he let none remaine: as he did to Hebron, so he did to Debir, and to the King thereof, as he had also done to Libnah, and to the King thereof. So Ioshua smote all the hill countreys, and the South countreys, and the valleys, and the hill sides, and all their Kings, and let none remaine, but utterly destroyed every soule, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded. And Joshua smote them from Kadesh-barnea eu'en vnto Azzah, and all the countrey of Goshen, eu'en vnto Gibeon. And all these Kings, and their land did Joshua take at one time, because the Lord God of Israel fought for Israel. Afterward, Joshua and all Israel with him returned vnto the campe in Gilgal.

And whe Iabin King of Hazor had heard this, then he sent to Iobab King of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achshaph, And vnto the Kings that were by ye North in the mountaines and plaines toward the Southside of Cinneroth, and in the valleys, and in the borders of Dor Westward, And vnto the Canaanites, both by East, and by West, and vnto the Amorites, and Hittites, and Perizzites, and Iebusites in the mountaines, and vnto the Hiuites vnder Hermon in the land of Mizpeh. And they came out and all their hostes with them, many people as the sande that is on the sea shore for multitude, with horses and charets exceeding many. So all these Kings met together, and came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, for to fight against Israel. Then the Lord sayd vnto Joshua, Be not afrayd for them: for to morowe about this time will I deliuer them all slaine before Israel: thou shalt hough their horses, and burne their charets with fire. Then came Joshua and al the men of warre with him against them by the waters of Merom suddenly, and fell vpon them. And the Lord gaue them into the hand of Israel: and they smote them, and chased them vnto great Zidon, and vnto Misrephothmaim, and vnto the valley of Mizpeh Eastward, and smote them vntill they had none remaining of them. And Joshua did vnto them as the Lord bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt their charets with fire. At that time also Joshua turned backe, and tooke Hazor, and smote the King thereof with the sword: for Hazor before time was the head of all those kingdomes. Moreover, they smote all the persons that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying all, leauing none aliue, and hee burnt Hazor with fire. So all ye cities of those Kings, and all the kings of them did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed them, as Moses the seruant of the Lord had commanded. But Israel burnt none of the cities that stoe still in their strength, saue Hazor onely, that Ioshua burnt. And all the spoyle of these cities and the cattel the children of Israel tooke for their praye, but they smote every man with the edge of the sword vntill they had destroyed them, not leauing one aliue.
As the Lord had commanded Moses his seruant, so did Moses commande Ioshua, and so did Ioshua: he left nothing vndone of all that the Lord had commanded Moses. So Ioshua tooke all this land of the mountaines, and all the South, and all the lande of Goshen, and the lowe countrey, and the plaine, and the mountaine of Israel, and the lowe countrey of the same, From the mount Halak, that goeth vp to Seir, euen vnto Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon, vnder mount Hermon: and all their Kings he tooke, and smote them, and slewe them. Ioshua made warre long time with all those Kings, Neither was there any citie that made peace with the children of Israel, saue those Hiuites that inhabited Gibeon: all other they tooke by battell. For it came of the Lord, to harden their heartes that they shoulde come against Israel in battell to the intent that they shoulde destroye them vtterly, and shewe them no mercie, but that they shoulde bring them to nought: as the Lord had commanded Moses. And that same season came Ioshua, and destroyed the Anakims out of the mountaines: as out of Hebron, out of Debir, out of Anab, and out of all the mountaines of Iudah, and out of all the mountaines of Israel: Ioshua destroyed them vtterly with their cities. There was no Anakim left in the lande of the children of Israel: onely in Azzah, in Gath, and in Ashdod were they left. So Ioshua tooke the whole land, according to all that the Lord had saide vnto Moses: and Ioshua gaue it for an inheritance vnto Israel according to their portion through their tribes: then the land was at rest without warre.

And these are the Kings of the land, which the children of Israel smote and possessed their land, on the other side Iorden toward the rising of the sunne, from the riuer Arnon, vnto mount Hermon, and all the plaine Eastward. Sihon King of the Amorites, that dwelt in Heshbon, hauing dominion from Aroer, which is beside the riuer of Arnon, and from the middle of the riuer, and from halfe Gilead vnto the riuer Iabbok, in the border of the children of Ammon. And from the plaine vnto the sea of Cinneroth Eastward, and vnto the Sea of the plaine, euen the salt sea Eastward, the way to Beth-ieshimoth, and from the South under the springs of Pisgah. They conquered also the coast of Og King of Bashan of the remnant of the giants, which dwelt at Ashtaroth, and at Edrei. And reigned in mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Bashan, unto the border of the Geshurites, and the Maachathites, and half Gilead, even the border of Sihon King of Heshbon. Moses the servant of the Lord, and the children of Israel smote them: Moses also the servant of the Lord gave their land for a possession unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh. These also are the Kings of the country, which Joshua and the children of Israel smote on this side Iordan, Westward, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon, even unto the mount Halak that goeth up to Seir, and Joshua gave it unto the tribes of Israel for a possession, according to their portions: In the mountains, and in the valleys, and in the plains, and in the hill sides, and in the wildernes, and in the South, where were the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hittites, and the Jebusites. The King of Jericho was one: the King of Ai, which is beside Beth-el, one: The King of Jerusalem, one: the King of Hebron, one: The King of Iarmuth, one: the King of Lachish, one: The King of Eglon, one: the King of Gezer, one: The King of Debir, one: the King of Geder, one: The King of Hormah, one: the King of Arad, one: The King of Libnah, one: the King of Adullam, one: The King of Makkedah, one: the King of Beth-el, one: The King of Tappuah, one: the King of Hefer, one: The King of Aphek, one: the King of Lasharon, one: The King of Madon, one: the King of Hazor, one: The king of Shimron-meron, one: the King of Achshaph, one: The King of Taanach, one: the King of Megiddo, one: The King of Kedesh, one: the King of Iokneam of Carmel, one: The King of Dor, in the country of Dor, one: the King of the nations of Gilgal, one: The King of Tirzah, one. all the Kings were thirtie and one.

Nowe when Joshua was olde, and striken in yeeres, the Lord said vnto him, Thou art olde and grown in age, and there remaineth exceeding much land to be possessed: This is the land that remaineth, all the regions of the Philistims, and all Geshuri, From Nilus which is in Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron.
Northward: this is counted of the Canaanites, euen fiue Lordships of the Philistims, the Azzithites, and the Ashdodites, the Eshkelonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites, and the Auites: From the South, all the land of the Canaanites, and the caue that is beside the Sidonians, vnto Aphek, and to the borders of the Amorites: And the land of the Giblites, and all Lebanon, toward the sunne rising from Bahal-gad vnder mount Hermon, vntil one come to Hamath. All the inhabitants of the mountaines from Lebanon vnto Misrephothmaim, and all the Sidonians, I wil cast them out from before the children of Israel: only deuide thou it by lot vnto the Israelites, to inherit, as I haue commanded thee. Nowe therefore deuide this lande to inherit, vnto the nine tribes, and to the halfe tribe of Manasseh. For with halfe therof the Reubenites and the Gadites haue receiued their inheritance, which Moses gaue them beyond Iorden Eastward, euen as Moses the seruant of the Lord had giuen them, From Aroer that is on the brinke of the riuer Arnon, and from the citie that is in the mids of the riuer, and all the plaine of Medeba vnto Dibon, And all the cities of Sihon King of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, vnto the borders of the children of Ammon, And Gilead, and the borders of the Geshurites and of the Maachathites, and all mount Hermon, with all Bashan vnto Salcah: All the kingdome of Og in Bashan, which reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei: (who remained of the rest of the gyants) for these did Moses smite, and cast them out. But the children of Israel expelled not the Geshurites nor the Maachathites: but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites euen vnto this day. Onely vnto the tribe of Leui he gaue none inheritance, but the sacrifices of the Lord God of Israel are his inheritance, as he said vnto him. Moses then gaue vnto the tribe of the children of Reuben inheritance, according to their families. And their coast was from Aroer, that is on the brinke of the riuer Arnon, and from the citie that is in the middes of the riuer, and all the plaine which is by Medeba: Heshbon with all the cities thereof, that are in the plaine: Dibon and Bamoth-baal, and Bethbaal-meon: And Iahazah, and Kedemoth and Mephaath: Kiriathaim also, and Sibmah, and Zerethshahar in the mount of Emek: And Beth-peor, and Ashdoth-pisgah, and Beth-ieshimoth: And all the cities of the plaine: and all the kingdome of Sihon King of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, whome Moses smote with the Princes of Midian, Eui, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, the dukes of Sihon, dwelling in the countrey. And Balaam the sonne of Beor the soothsayer did the children of Israel slay with the sword, among them that were slaine. And the border of the children of Reuben was Iorden with the coastes. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben according to their families, with the cities and their villages. Also Moses gaue inheritance vnto ye tribe of Gad, euen vnto the children of Gad according to their families. And their coastes were Iazer, and all the cities of Gilead and halfe the lande of the children of Ammon vnto Aroer, which is before Rabbah: And from Heshbon vnto Ramoth, Mizpeh, and Betonim: and from Mahanaim vnto the borders of Debir: And in the valley Beth-aram, and Bethnimrah, and Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdome of Sihon King of Heshbon, vnto Iorden and the borders euen vnto the Sea coast of Cinneereth, beyond Iorden Eastward. This is the inheritance of the children of Gad, after their families, with the cities, and their villages. Also Moses gaue inheritance vnto the halfe tribe of Manasseh: and this belonged to the halfe tribe of the children of Manasseh according to their families. And their border was from Mahanaim, euen all Bashan, to wit, all the kingdome of Og King of Bashan, and all the townes of Iair which are in Bashan, threescore cities, And halfe Gilead, and Ashtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were giuen vnto the children of Machir the sonne of Manasseh, to halfe of the children of Machir after their families. These are the heritages, which Moses did distribute in the plaine of Moab beyond Iorden, toward Iericho Eastward. But vnto the tribe of Leui Moses gaue none inheritance: for the Lord God of Israel is their inheritance, as he said vnto them.

These also are the places which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar the Priest, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun and the chiefe fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed to them. By the lot of their inheritance, as the Lord had commanded by the hande of Moses, to giue to the nine tribes, and the halfe tribe. For Moses had giuen inheritance vnto two tribes and an halfe tribe, beyond Iorde: but vnto the Leuites he gaue none inheritance among them. For the childe of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the lande, saue cities to dwell in, with the suburbs of the same for their beastes and their substance. As the Lord had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did when they deuided the land. Then the children of Iudah came vnto Ioshua in Gilgal: and Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh the Kenezite saide vnto him, Thou knowest what the Lord saide vnto Moses the man of God, concerning me and thee in Kadesh-barnea. Fourtie yeere olde was I, when Moses the seruant of the Lord sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espie the land, and I brought him word againe, as I thought in mine heart. But my brethren that went vp with me, discouraged the heart of the people: yet I followed still the Lord my God. Wherefore Moses sware the same day, saying, Certainly the land whereon thy feete haue troden, shalbe thine inheritance, and thy childrens for euer, because thou hast followed constantly the Lord my God. Therefore beholde nowe, the Lord hath kept me alieue, as he promised: this is the fourtie and fift yeere since the Lord spake this thing vnto Moses, while the children of Israel wandered in the wildernes: and nowe loe, I am this day foure score and fiue yeere olde: And yet am as strong at this time, as I was when Moses sent me: as strong as I was then, so strong am I nowe, either for warre, or for gouernment. Nowe therefore giue me this mountaine whereof ye Lord spake in that day (for thou hearest in that day, how the Anakims were there, and the cities great and walled) if so be the Lord will be with me, that I may driue them out, as the Lord said. Then Ioshua blessed him, and gaue vnto Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance. Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh the Kenezite, vnto this day: because he followed constantly the Lord God of Israel. And the name of Hebron was before time, Kiriath-arba: which Arba was a great man amog the Anakims: thus the land ceassed from warre.

This then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Iudah by their families: euen to the border of Edom and the wildernesse of Zin, Southward on the Southcoast. And their South border was the salt Sea coast, from the point that looketh Southward. And it went out on the Southside towarde Maaleth-akrabbim, and went along to Zin, and ascended vp on the Southside vnto Kadesh-barnea, and went along to Hezron, and went vp to Adar, and fet a compasse to Karkaa. From thence went it along to Azmon, and reached vnto the riuier of Egypt, and the end of that coast was on the Westside: this shall be your South coast. Also the Eastborder shalbe the salt Sea, vnto the end of Iorden: and the border on the North quarter from the point of the Sea, and from the end of Iorden. And this border goeth vp to Beth-hogla, and goeth along by ye Northside of Beth-arabah: so the border from thence goeth vp to the stone of Bohan the sonne of Reuben. Againe this border goeth vp to Debir from the valley of Achor, and Northwarde, turning toward Gilgal, that lyeth before the going vp to Adummim, which is on the Southside of the riuier: also this border goeth vp to the waters of En-shemesh, and endeth at En-rogel. Then this border goeth vp to the valley of the sonne of Hinnom; on the Southside of the Iebusites: the same is Ierusalem. also this border goeth vp to the top of the mountaine that lyeth before the valley of Hinnom Westward, which is by the end of the valley of ye gyants Northward. So this border compasseth from the top of the mountaine vnto the fountaine of the water of Nephtoah, and goeth out to the cities of mount Ephron: and this border draweth to Baalah, which is Kiriath-ierarim. Then this border compasseth from Baalah Westward vnto mount Seir, and goeth along vnto the side of mount Iearim, which is Chesalon on the Northside: so it commeth downe to Bethshemeshe, and goeth to Timnah. Also this border goeth out vnto the side of Ekron Northwarde: and this border draweth to Shicron, and goeth along to mount Baalah, and stretcheth vnto Iabneel: and the endes of this coast are to the Sea. And the Westborder is to the great Sea: so this border shalbe the bounds of the children of Iudah round about, according to their families. And vnto Caleb the sonne of Iephumneh did Ioshua giue a part among the children of Iudah, as the Lord commanded him, euen Kiriath-arba of the father of Anak, which is Hebron. And Caleb droue thence three sonnes of Anak, She-shai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the sonnes of Anak. And he went vp thence to the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir before time was Kiriath-sepher. Then Caleb sayd, He that smiteth Kiriath-sepher, and taketh it, euen to him wil I giue Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othniel, the sonne of Ke-naz, the brother of Caleb tooke it: and he gaue him Achsah his daughter to wife. And as she went in to him, she moued him, to aske of her father a fielde: and she lighted off her asse, and Caleb sayd vnto her, What wilt thou? Then she answered, Giue me a blessing: for thou hast giuen mee the South countrey: giue me also springs of water. And hee gaue her the springs aboue and the springs beneath. This shalbe the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Iudah according to their families. And the vtmost cities of the tribe of the children of Iudah, toward the coastes of Edom Southward were Kabzeel, and Eder, and Iagur, And Ki-nah, and Dimonah, and Adadah, And Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ithnan, Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth, And Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, Hesron (which is Hazor) Amam, and Shema, and Moladah, And Hazar, Gaddah, and Heshmon, and Beth-palet, And Hasar-shual, and Beersheba, and Biziothiah, Baalah, and Im, and Azem, And Eltolad, and Chesil, and Hormah, And Ziklag, and Madmanna, and Sansannah, And Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and Ain, and Rimmon: all these cities are twentie and nine with their villages. In the lowe countrey were Eshtaol, and Zoreah, and Ashnah, And Zanoah, and En-gannim, Tap-puah, and Enam, Iarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah, And Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, and Gederothaim: foureene cities with their villages. Zenam, and Hadashah, and Migdal-gad, And Dileam, and Mizpeh, and Ioktheel, Lachish, and Bozkath, and Eglon, And Cabbon, and Lahmam, and Kithlish, And Gederoth, Beth-dagon, and Naamah, and Makkedah: sixtene cities with their villages. Lebnah, and Ether, and Ashan, And Iipttahah, and Ashnah, and Nezib, And Keilah, and Aczib, and Mareshah: nine cities with their villages. Ekron with her townes and her villages, From Ekron, euen vnto the Sea, all that lyeth about Ashdod with their villages. Ashdod with her townes and her villages: Azzah with her townes and her villages, vnto the riuer of Egypt, and the great Sea was their coast. And in the mountaines were Shamir, and Iattir, and So-coh, And Dannah, and Kiriath-sannath (which is Debir) And Anab, and Ashtemoth, and Anim, And Goshen, and Holon, and Giloh: eleuen cities with their villages, Arab, and Dumah, and Eshean, And Ianum, and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah, And Humtah, and Kiriath-arba, (which is Hebron) and Zior: nine cities with their villages. Maon, Carmel, and Ziph, and Juttah, And Izreel, and Iokdeam, and Zanoah, Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages. Halhul, Beth-zur, and Gedor, And Maarah, and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon: sixe cities with their villages. Kiriath-baal, which is Kiriath-ieraim, and Rabbah: two cities with their villages. In the wildernes were Beth-arabah, Middin, and Secacah, And Nibshan, and the citie of salt, and Engedi: sixe cities with their villages. Neuerthelesse, the Iebusites that were the inhabitants of Ierusalem, could not the children of Iudah cast out, but the Iebusites dwell with the children of Iudah at Ierusalem vnto this day.

And the lot fell to the children of Ioseph from Iorden by Iericho vnto the water of Iericho Eastward, and to the wildernes that goeth vp from Iericho by the mount Beth-el: And goeth out from Beth-el to Luz, and runneth along vnto the borders of Archiataroth, And goeth down Westward to the coast of Iaphleti, vnto the coast of Beth-horon the nether, and to Gezer: and the endes thereof are at the Sea. So the children of Ioseph, Manasseh and Ephraim tooke their inheritance. Also the borders of the children of Ephraim according to their families, euen the borders of their inheritance on the Eastside were Atroth-addar, vnto Beth-horon the vupper. And this border goeth out to the Sea vnto Michmethah on the Northside, and this border returneth Eastward vnto Taanathshiloh, and passeth it on the Eastside vnto Ianohah, And goeth downe from Ianohah to Ataroth, and Naarath, and commeth to Iericho, and goeth out at Iorden. And this border goeth from Tappuah Westward vnto the riuer Kanah, and the endes thereof are at the Sea: this is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families. And the separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh: all the cities with their villages. And they cast not out the Canaanite that dwelt in Gezer, but the Canaanite dwelt among the Ephraimites vnto this day, and serued vnder tribute.

This was also the lot of the tribe of Manasseh: for he was the first borne of Ioseph, to wit, of Machir the first borne of Manasseh, and the father of Gilead: nowe because he was a man of warre, he had Gilead and Bashan. And also of the rest of the sonnes of Manasseh by their families, euen of the sonnes of Abiezer, and of the sons of Helek, and of ye sons of Azriel, and of the sons of Shechem, and of the sons of Hepher, and of the sons of Shemida: these were the males of Manasseh, the sonne of Ioseph according to their families. But Zelophehad the sonne of Hephir, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Machir, ye sonne of Manasseh, had no sonnes, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah: Which came before Eleazar the Priest, and before Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and before the princes, saying, The Lord commanded Moses to giue vs an inheritance among our brethren: therefore according to the commandement of the Lord he gaue them an inheritance among the brethren of their father. And there fell ten portions to Manasseh, beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which is on the other side Iorden. Because the daughters of Manasseh did inherite among his sonnes: and Manassehs other sonses had the land of Gilead. So the borders of Manasseh were from Asher to Michmethah that lieth before Shechem, and this border goeth on the right hand, euen vnto the inhabitants of En-tappuah. The land of Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, but Tappuah beside the border of Manasseh belongeth to the sonses of Ephraim. Also this border goeth downe vnto the riuer Kanah Southward to the riuer: these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: and the border of Manasseh is on the Northside of the riuer, and the endes of it are at the Sea, The South perteyneth to Ephraim, and the North to Manasseh, and the Sea is his border: and they met together in Asher Northwarde, and in Issachar Eastward. And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher, Beth-shean, and her townes, and Ibleam, and her townes, and the inhabitants of Dor with ye townes thereof, and the inhabitants of En-dor with the townes thereof, and the inhabitants of Thaanach with her townes, and the inhabitants of Megiddo with the townes of the same, euen three countreis. Yet the children of Manasseh coulde not destroy those cities, but the Canaanites dwelled still in that land. Neuerthelesse, when the children of Israel were strong, they put the Canaanites vnder tribute, but cast them not out wholly. Then the children of Ioseph spake vnto Ioshua, saying, Why hast thou giuen me but one lot, and one portion to inherite, seeing I am a great people, for as much as the Lord hath blessed me hitherto? Joshua then answered them, If thou be much people, get thee vp to the wood, and cut trees for thy selfe there in the lande of the Perizzites, and of the gyants, if mount Ephraim be too narowe for thee. Then the children of Ioseph saide, The mountaine will not be ynough for vs: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the lowe countrey haue charets of yron, aswell they in Beth-shean, and in the townes of the same, as they in the valley of Izreel. And Joshua spake vnto the house of Ioseph, to Ephraim, and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power, and shalt not haue one lot. Therefore the mountaine shall be thine: for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it downe: and the endes of it shall be thine, and thou shalt cast out the Canaanites, though they haue yron charets, and though they be strong.

And the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, came together at Shiloh: for they set vp the Tabernacle of the Congregation there, after the land was subiect vnto them. Nowe there remained among the children of Israel seuen tribes, to whom they had not deuided their inheritance. Therefore Joshua said vnto the children of Israel, Howe long are ye so slacke to enter and possesse the land which the Lord God of your fathers hath giuen you? Giue from among you for every tribe three men, that I may sende them, and that they may rise, and walke through the land, and distribute it according to their inheritance, and returne to me. And that they may deuide it vnto them into seuen parts, (Iudah shall abide in his coast at the South, and the house of Ioseph shall stand in their coastes at the North) Ye shall describe the land therefore into seuen partes, and shall bring them hither to me, and I will cast lottes for you here before the Lord our God. But the Leuites shall haue no part among you: for the Priesthood of the Lord is their inheritance: also Gad and Reuben and halfe the tribe of Manasseh haue receiued their inheritance beyond Iorden Eastward, which Moses the servaunt of the Lord gaue them. Then the men arose, and went their way: and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, Depart, and goe through the land, and describe it, and returne to me, that I may here cast lottes for you before the Lord in Shiloh. So the men departed, and passed through the lande, and described it by cities into seuen partes in a booke, and returned to Joshua into the camp at Shiloh. Then Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh before the Lord, and there Joshua devided the land vnto the children of Israel, according to their portions: And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came foorth according to their families, and the cost of their lot lay betweene the children of Iudah, and the children of Ioseph. And their coast on the Northside was from Iorden, and the border went vp to the side of Iericho on the Northpart, and went vp through the mountaines Westward, and the endes thereof are in the wildernesse of Beth-auen: And this border goeth along from thence to Luz, euen to the Southside of Luz (the same is Beth-el) and this border descendeth to Atroth-addar, neere the mount, that lyeth on the Southside of Beth-horon the nether. So the border turneth, and compasseth the corner of the Sea Southward, from the mount that lyeth before Beth-horon Southward: and the endes thereof are at Kiriath-baal (which is Kiriath-iearim) a citie of the children of Iudah: this is the Westquarter. And the Southquarter is from the ende of Kiriath-iearim, and this border goeth out Westward, and commeth to the fountaine of waters of Nephtoah. And this border descendeth at the ende of the mountaine, that lyeth before the valley of Ben-hinnom, which is in the valley of the gyants Northward, and descendeth into the valley of Hinnom by the side of Iebusi Southwarde, and goeth downe to En-rogel, And compasseth from the North, and goeth foorth to En-shemesh, and stretcheth to Geliloth, which is toward the going vp vnto Adummim, and goeth downe to the stone of Bohan the sonne of Reuben. So it goeth along to the side ouer against the plaie Northward, and goeth downe into the plaie. After, this border goeth along to the side of Beth-hoglah Northward: and the endes thereof, that is, of the border, reach to the point of the salt Sea Northward, and to the ende of Iorden Southward: this is the Southcoast. Also Iorden is the border of it on the Eastside: this is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin by the coastes thereof rounde about according to their families. Nowe the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin according to their families, are Iericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz, And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and Beth-el, And Auim, and Parah, and Ophrah, And Chephar, Ammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba: twelue cities with their villages. Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth, And Mizpeh, and Chephirah, and Mozah, And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah, And Zela, Eleph, and Iebusi, (which is Jerusalem) Gibeath, and Kiriath: fourteene cities with their villages: this is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

And the second lot came out to Simeon, euen for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families: and their inheritance was in the middes of the inheritance of the children of Judah. Nowe they had in their inheritance, Beersheba, and Sheba, and Moladah, And Hazur-shual, and Balah, and Azem, And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah, And Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susah, And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteene cities with their villages. Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan: foure cities with their villages. And all the villages that were round about these cities, vnto Baalathbeer, and Ramath Southward: this is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families. Out of the portion of the children of Judah came ye inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of ye children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within their inheritance. Also the third lot arose for the children of Zebulun according to their families: and the coastes of their inheritance came to Sarid, And their border goeth vp Westwarde, euen to Maralah, and reacheth to Dabbasheth, and meeteth with the river that lyeth before Iokneam, And turneth from Sarid Eastward towarde the sunne rising vnto the border of Chisloth-tabor, and goeth out to Daberath, and ascendeth to Iaphia, And from thence goeth along Eastwarde towarde the sunne rising to Gittah-hepher to Ittah-kazin, and goeth foorth to Rimmon, and turneth to Neah. And this border compasseth it on ye North side to Hannathon, and the endes thereof are in the valley of Iiphtah-el, And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem: twelue cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families: that is, these cities and their villages. The fourth lot came out to Issachar, euen for the children of Issachar according to their families. And their coast was Izreelah, and Chesulloth, and Shunem, And Hapharaim, and Sh-ion, and Anaharath, And Harabbith, and Kishion, and Abez, And Remeth, and En-gannim, and Enhaddah, and Beth-pazzez.
And this coast reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimath, and Beth-shemesh, and the endes of their coast reach to Iorden: sixteene cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families: that is, the cities, and their villages. Also the fift lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families. And their coast was Helcath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achshaph, And Alammlech, and Amad, and Misheal, and came to Carmel Westward, and to Shihor Libnath, And turneth towards the sunne rising to Beth-dagon, and commeth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Iiphtah-el, toward the Northside of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out on the left side of Cabul, And to Ebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, vnto great Zidon. Then the coast turneth to Ramah and to the strong citie of Zor, and this border turneth to Hosah, and the ends thereof are at the Sea from Hebel to Achzib, Vmmah also and Aphek, and Rehob: two and twentie cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families: that is, these cities and their villages. The sixt lot came out to the children of Naphtali, euen to the children of Naphtali according to their families. And their coast was from Heleph, and from Allon in Zaanannim, and Adaminekeb, and Iabneel, euen to Lakum, and the ends thereof are at Iorden. So this coast turneth Westwarde to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the Southside, and goeth to Asher on the Westside, and to Iudah by Iorden toward the sunne rising. And the strong cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Ham-math, Rakkath, and Cinneereth, And Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor, And Kedesh, and Edrei, and En-hazor, And Iron, and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anah, and Beth-shemesh: nine-ten cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families: that is, the cities and their villages. The seuenth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families. And the coast of their inheritance was Zorah, and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, And Shaalabbin, and Aialon, and Ithlah, And Elon, and Temnathah, and Ekron, And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalah, And Iehud, and Bene-berak, and Gath-rimmon, And Me-iarkon, and Rakkon, with the border that lieth before Iapho. But the coastes of the children of Dan fell out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went vp to fight against Leshem, and tooke it, and smote it with the edge of the sworde, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, Dan after the name of Dan their father. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families: that is, these cities and their villages. When they had made an ende of deuiding the lande by the coastes thereof, then the children of Israel gaue an inheritance vnto Ioshua the sonne of Nun among them. According to the worde of the Lord they gaue him the citie which hee asked, euen Timnath-serah in mount Ephraim: and hee built the citie and dwelt therein. These are ye heritages which Eleazar the Priest, and Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and the chiefe fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel deuided by lot in Shiloh before the Lord at the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation: so they made an ende of deuiding the countrey.

The Lord also spake vnto Ioshua, saying, Speake to the children of Israel, and say, Appoint you cities of refuge, whereof I spake vnto you by the hand of Moses, That the slaier that killeth any person by ignorance, and vnwittingly, may flee thither, and they shall be your refuge from the auenger of blood. And he that doeth flee vnto one of those cities, shall stand at the entring of the gate of the citie, and shall shewe his cause to the Elders of the citie: and they shall receiue him into the citie vnto them, and giue him a place, that hee may dwell with them. And if the auenger of blood pursue after him, they shall not deliuer the slaier into his hand because hee smote his neighbour ignorantly, neither hated he him before time: But hee shall dwell in that citie vntill hee stande before the Congregation in judgement, or vntill the death of the hie Priest that shall be in those daies: then shall the slaier returne, and come vnto his owne citie, and vnto his owne house, euen vnto the citie from whence he fled. Then they appointed Kedesh in Galil in mount Naphtali, and Shechem in mount Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba, (which is Hebron) in the mountaine of Iudah. And on the other side Iorden toward Ieri-cho Eastward, they appoynted Bezer in the wildernesse vpon the plaine, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, out of the tribe of Manasseh. These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourned among them, that whosoever killed any person ignorantly, might flee thither, and not die by the hande of the avengeur of blood, vntill hee stoode before the Congregation.

Then came the principall fathers of the Leuites vnto Eleazar the Priest, and vnto Ioshua the sonne of Nun, and vnto the chiefe fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, And spake vnto them at Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, The Lord commanded by the hande of Moses, to giue vs cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattell. So the children of Israel gaue vnto the Leuites, out of their inheritance at the commandement of the Lord these cities with their suburbs. And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites: and the children of Aaron ye Priest, which were of the Leuites, had by lot, out of the tribe of Iudah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Beniamin thirteene cities. And the rest of the children of Kohath had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the halfe tribe of Manasseh, tenne cities. Also the children of Gershon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of ye tribe of Naphtali, and out of the halfe tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteene cities. The children of Merari according to their families had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelue cities. So the children of Israel gaue by lot vnto the Leuites these cities with their suburbs, as the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses. And they gaue out of the tribe of the children of Iudah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeo, these cities which are here named. And they were the childrens of Aaron being of the families of the Kohathites, and of the sonnes of Leuí, (for theirs was the first lot) So they gaue them Kiriath-arba of the father of Anok (which is Hebron) in the mountaine of Iudah, with the suburbs of the same round about it. (But the lande of the citie, and the villages thereof, gaue they to Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh to be his possession) Thus they gaue to the children of Aaron the Priest, a citie of refuge for the slaier, euen Hebron with her suburbs, and Libnah with her suburbes, And Iattir with her suburbs, and Eshtemoa, and her suburbs, And Holon with her suburbs, and Debir with her suburbs, And Ain with her suburbs, and Iuttah with her suburbs, Beth-shemesh with her suburbs: nine cities out of those two tribes. And out of the tribe of Beniamin they gaue Gibeon with her suburbs, Geba with her suburbs, Anathoth with her suburbs, and Almon with her suburbs: foure cities. All the cities of the children of Aaron Priests, were thirteene cities with their suburbs. But to the families of the children of Kohath of the Leuites, which were the rest of the children of Kohath (for the cities of their lot were out of the tribe of Ephraim) They gaue them the citie of refuge for the slaier, Shechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, and Gezer with her suburbs, And Kibzaim with her suburbs, and Bethhoron with her suburbs: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with her suburbs, Gibethon with her suburbs, Aialon with her suburbs, Gath-rimmon with her suburbs: foure cities. And out of the halfe tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs: two cities. All the cities for the other families of the children of Kohath were ten with their suburbs. Also vnto the children of Gershon of the families of the Leuites, they gaue out of the halfe tribe of Manasseh, the citie of refuge for the slaier, Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, and Beeshterah with her suburbs: two cities. And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishon with her suburbs, Dabereh with her suburbs, Iarmuth with her suburbs, En-gannim with her suburbs: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal with her suburbs, Abdon with her suburbs, Helkah with her suburbs, and Rehob with her suburbs: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Naphtali, the citie of refuge for the slaier, Kedesh in Galil with her suburbs, and Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and Kartan with her suburbs: three cities. All the cities of the Gershonites according to their families, were thirteene cities with their suburbs. Also vnto the families of the children of Merari the rest of the Leuites, they gaue out of the tribe of Zebulun, Iokneam with her suburbs, and Kartah with her suburbs, Dimnah with her suburbs, Nahalal, with her suburbs: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer with her suburbs, and Iahazah with her suburbs, Kedemoth with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs: four cities. And out of the tribe of Gad they gave for a city of refuge for the slayer, Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Mahanaim with her suburbs, Heshbon with her suburbs, and Iazer with her suburbs: four cities in all. So all the cities of the children of Merari according to their families (which were the rest of the families of the Leuites) were by their lot, twelve cities. And all the cities of the Leuites within the possession of the children of Israel, were eight and fourteen with their suburbs. These cities lay every one severally with their suburbs round about them: so were all these cities. So the Lord gave unto Israel all ye land, which hee had sworn to give unto their fathers: and they possessed it, and dwelt therein. Also the Lord gave them rest rounde about according to all that hee had sworn unto their fathers: and there stood not a man of all their enemies before them: for the Lord delivered all their enemies into their hand. There failed nothing of all the good things, which the Lord hath sayde unto the house of Israel, but all came to passe.

Then Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, And sayd vnto them, Ye haue kept all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lord commanded you, and haue obeied my voice in all that I commanded you: You haue not forsaken your brethren this long season vnto this day, but haue diligently kept the commandement of the Lord your God. And nowe the Lord hath giuen rest vnto your brethren as he promised them: therefore nowe returne ye and goe to your tentes, to the land of your possession, which Moses the seruant of the Lord hath giuen you beyond Iorden. But take diligent heede, to doe the commandement and Lawe, which Moses the seruant of the Lord commanded you: that is, that ye loue the Lord your God, and walke in all his wayes, and keepe his commandements, and cleaue vnto him, and serue him with all your heart and with all your soule. So Joshua blessed them and sent them away, and they went vnto their tents. Nowe vnto one halfe of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had giuen a possession in Bashan: and vnto the other halfe thereof gaue Joshua among their brethren on this side Iorden Westwarde: therefore when Joshua sent them away vnto their tents, and blessed them, Thus he spake vnto them, saying, Returne with much riches vnto your tents, and with a great multitude of cattell, with siluer and with golde, with brasse and with yron, and with great abundance of rayment: deuide the spoyle of your enemies with your brethren. So the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel from Shiloh (which is in the land of Canaan) to goe vnto the countrey of Gilead to the land of their possession, which they had obteyned, according to ye word of the Lord by the hand of Moses. And when they came vnto the borders of Iorden (which are in the land of Canaan) then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, built there an altar by Iorden, a great altar to see to. When the children of Israel heard say, Beholde, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh haue built an altar in the forefront of the lande of Canaan vpon the borders of Iorden at the passage of the children of Israel: When the children of Israel heard it, then the whole Congregation of the children of Israel gathered them together at Shiloh to goe vp to warre against them. Then the children of Israel sent vnto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to ye halfe tribe of Manasseh into the land of Gilead, Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest, And with him ten princes, of euery chiefe house a prince, according to all the tribes of Israel: for every one was chiefe of their fathers housholde among the thousands of Israel. So they went vnto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to ye halfe tribe of Manasseh into the land of Gilead, Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest, And with him ten princes, of euery chiefe house a prince, according to all the tribes of Israel: for every one was chiefe of their fathers housholde among the thousands of Israel. So they went vnto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the halfe tribe of Manasseh, vnto the land of Gilead, and spake with them, saying, Thus saith the whole congregation of the Lord, What transgression is this that ye haue transgressed against the God of Israel, to turne away this day from the Lord, in that ye haue built you an altar for to rebell this day against the Lord? Haue we too litle for the wickednesse of Peor, whereof we are not clensed vnto this day, though a plague came vpon the Congregation of the Lord? Ye also are turned away this day from the Lord: and seeing ye rebell to day against ye Lord, euens to morowe he will be wroth with all the Congregation of Israel. Notwithstanding if the land of your possession be vncleane, come ye ouer vnto the land of the possession of the Lord, wherein the Lordes Tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession among vs: but rebell not against the Lord, nor rebell not against vs in building you an altar, beside the altar of the Lord our God. Did not Achan ye sonne of Zerah trespasse grieuously in the execrable thing, and wrath fell on all the Congregation of Israel? and this man alone perished not in his wickednesse. Then the children of Reuben and the children of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasseh answered, and saide vnsto the heads ouer the thousands of Israel, The Lord God of gods, the Lord God of gods, he knoweth, and Israel himselfe shall know: if by rebellion, or by transgression against ye Lord we haue done it, saue thou vs not this day. If we haue built vs an altar to returne away from the Lord, either to offer thereon burnt offering, or meate offering, or to offer peace offerings thereon, let the Lord himselfe require it: And if we haue not rather done it for feare of this thing, saying, In time to come your children might say vnsto our children, What haue ye to doe with the Lord God of Israel? For the Lord hath made Iorden a border betweene vs and you, ye children of Reuben, and of Gad: therefore ye haue no part in the Lord: so shall your children make our children cease from fearing the Lord. Therefore we said, We will nowe go about to make vs an altar, not for burnt offering, nor for sacrifice, But it shall be a witnesse betweene vs and you, and betweene our generations after vs, to execute the seruice of the Lord before him in our burnt offerings, and in our sacrifices, and in our peace offerings, and that your children should not say to our children in time to come, Ye haue no part in the Lord. Therefore said we, If so be that they should so say to vs or to our generations in time to come, then will we answere, Beholde the facion of the altar of the Lord, which our fathers made, not for burnt offering nor for sacrifice, but it is a witnesse betweene vs and you. God forbid, that we should rebell against the Lord, and turne this day away from the Lord to builde an altar for burnt offering, or for meate offering, or for sacrifice, saue the altar of the Lord our God, that is before his Tabernacle. And when Phinehas the Priest, and the princes of the Congregation and heads ouer the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the wordes, that the children of Reuben, and children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh spake, they were well content. And Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest said vnsto the children of Reuben and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceiue, that the Lord is among vs, because ye haue not done this trespasse against the Lord: nowe ye haue deliuered the children of Israel out of the hand of the Lord. Then Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar the Priest with the princes returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, vnto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them answere. And the saying pleased the children of Israel: and the children of Israel blessed God, and minded not to goe against them in battell, for to destroy the land, wherein the children of Reuben, and Gad dwelt. Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad called the altar Ed: for it shall be a witnesse betweene vs, that the Lord is God.

And a long season after that the Lord had giuen rest vnto Israel from all their enemies round about, and Ioshua was olde, and stricken in age. Then Ioshua called all Israel, and their Elders, and their heads, and their iudges, and their officers, and said vnto them, I am old, and stricken in age. Also ye haue seene all that the Lord your God hath done vnto al these nations before you, howe the Lord your God him selfe hath fought for you. Beholde, I haue deuided vnto you by lot these nations that remaine, to be an inheritance according to your tribes, from Iorden, with all the nations that I haue destroyed, euen vnto the great Sea Westward. And the Lord your God shall expell them before you, and cast them out of your sight, and ye shall possesse their land, as the Lord your God hath said vnto you. Be ye therefore of a valiant courage, to obserue and doe all that is written in the booke of the Lawe of Moses, that ye turne not from thence to the right hand nor to the left, Neither companie with these nations: that is, with them which are left with you, neither make mention of the name of their gods, nor cause to sweare by them, neither serue them nor bowe vnto them: But sticke fast vnto the Lord your God, as ye haue done vnto this day. For ye Lord hath cast out before you great nations and mightie, and no man hath stand before your face hitherto. One man of you shall chase a thousand: for the Lord your God, he fighteth for you, as he hath promised you. Take good heede therefore vnto your selues, that ye loue the Lord your God. Els, if ye goe backe, and cleaue vnto the rest of these nations: that is, of them that remaine with you, and shall make marriages with them, and 13 goe vnto them, and they to you. Knowe ye for certaine, that the Lord your God will cast out no more of these nations from before you: but they shall be a snare and destruction vnto you, and a whip on your sides, and thornes in your eyes, vntill ye perish out of this good land, which ye Lord your God hath giue you. And beholde, this day do I enter into the way of all ye world, and ye know in al your heartes and in all your soules, that nothing hath failed of all the good things which the Lord your God promised you, but all are come to passe vnto you: nothing hath failed thereof. Therefore as all good things are come vpon you, which the Lord your God promised you, so shall the Lord bring vpon you every euill thing, vntill he haue destroyed you out of this good land, which ye Lord your God hath giue you.

14 When ye shall transgresse the couenant of the Lord your God, which he commanded you, and shall goe and serue other gods, and bowe your selues to them, then shall the wrath of the Lord waxe hote against you, and ye shall perish quickly out of the good lande which he hath giuen you.

24 And Ioshua assembled againe all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called the Elders of Israel, and their heades, and their iudges, and their officers, and they presented themselues before God. Then Ioshua said vnto all the people, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Your fathers dwelt beyond the flood in olde time, euen Terah the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor, and serued other gods. And I tooke your father Abraham from beyond the flood, and brought him through all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seede, and gaue him Izhak. And I gaue vnto Izhak, Iaakob and Esau: and I gaue vnto Esau mount Seir, to possesse it: but Iaakob and his children went downe into Egypt. I sent Moses also and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt: and when I had so done among them, I brought you out. So I brought your fathers out of Egypt, and ye came vnto the Sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with charrets and horsemen vnto the red sea. Then they cryed vnto the Lord, and he put a darkenesse betweene you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea vpon them, and couered them: so your eyes haue seene what I haue done in Egypt also ye dwelt in the wildernesse a long season. After, I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt beyond Iorden, and they fought with you: but I
But I would not heare Balaam: therefore he blessed you, and I deliuered you out of his hand. And ye went ouer Iorden, and came vnto Iericho, and the men of Iericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites and the Iebusites, and I deliuered them into your hand. And I sent hornets before you, which cast them out before you, euен the two kings of the Amorites, and not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. And I haue giuen you a land, wherein ye did not labour, and cities which ye built not, and yee dwell in them, and eate of the vineyards and olie trees, which yee planted not. Nowe therefore feare the Lord, and serue him in vprightnesse and in trueth, and put away the gods, which your fathers serued beyonde the flood and in Egypt, and serue the Lord. And if it seeme euill vnto you to serue the Lord, choose you this day whome yee will serue, whether the gods which your fathers serued (that were beyond the flood) or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwel: but I and mine house will serue the Lord. Then the people answered and saide, God forbid, that we shoulde forsake the Lord, to serue other gods. For the Lord our God, he brought vs and our fathers out of the lande of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and he did those great miracles in our sight, and preserued vs in all the way that we went, and among all the people through whome we came. And the Lord did cast out before vs all the people, euен the Amorites which dwelt in the lande: therefore will we also serue the Lord, for he is our God. And Ioshua saide vnto the people, Ye can not serue the Lord: for he is an holie God: he is a ielous God: hee will not pardon your iniquitie nor your sinnes. If yee forsake the Lord and serue strange gods, then he will re-turne and bring euill vpon you, and consume you, after that hee hath done you good. And the people saide vnto Ioshua, Nay, but we will serue the Lord. And Ioshua saide vnto the people, Yee are witnesses against your selues, that yee haue chosen you the Lord, to serue him: and they sayd, We are witnesses. Then put away nowe, saide he, the strange gods which are among you, and bowe your hearts vnnto the Lord God of Israel. And ye people saide vnnto Ioshua, The Lord our God wil we serue, and his voyce wil we obey. So Ioshua made a couenant with the people the same day, and gaue them an ordinance and lawe in Shechem. And Ioshua wrote these woordes in the booke of the Lawe of God, and tooke a great stone, and pitched it there vnnder an oke that was in the Sanctuarie of the Lord. And Ioshua saide vnnto all the people, Beholde, this stone shall be a witnesse vnnto vs: for it hath heard all the wordes of the Lord which he spake with vs: it shall be therefore a witnesse against you, lest yee denie your God. Then Ioshua let the people depart, every man vnnto his inheritance. And after these things Ioshua the sonne of Nun, the seruaunt of the Lord died, being an hundreth and ten yeeres olde. And they buried him in ye border of his inheritance in Timnath-serah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the Northside of mount Gaash. And Israel serued the Lord all the daies of Ioshua, and all the daies of the Elders that ouerliued Ioshua, and which had knowen all the workes of the Lord that he had done for Israel. And the bones of Ioseph, which the children of Israel brought out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem in a parcel of ground which Iaakob bought of the sonnes of Hamor the father of Shechem, for an hundreth pieces of siluer, and the children of Ioseph had them in their inheritance. Also Eleazar the sonne of Aaron died, whome they buried in the hill of Phinehas his sonne, which was giuen him in mount Ephraim.
After that Ioshua was dead, the children of Israel asked the Lord, saying, Who shall goe vp for vs against the Canaanites, to fight first against them? And the Lord said, Iudah shall goe vp: behold, I haue giuen the land into his hande. And Iudah said vnto Simeon his brother, Come vp with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites: and I likewise will goe with thee into thy lot: so Simeon went with him. Then Iudah went vp, and the Lord deliuered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hands, and they slew of them in Bezek ten thousand men. And they founde Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and slewe the Canaanites, and the Perizzites. But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off the thumbes of his hands and of his feete. And Adoni-bezek said, Seuentie Kings hauing the thumbes of their hands and of their feete cut off, gathered bread vnder my table: as I haue done, so God hath rewarded me. so they brought him to Ierusalem, and there he died. (Nowe the children of Iudah had fought against Ierusalem, and had taken it and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and had set the citie on fire.) Afterwarde also the children of Iudah went downe to fight against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountaine, and towarde the South, and in the lowe countrey. And Iudah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron, which Hebron beforetime was called Kiriath-arba: and they slewe She-shai, and Ahiman and Talmai. And from thence hee went to the inhabitantes of Debir, and the name of Debir in olde time was Kiriath-sepher. And Caleb saide, He that smiteth Kiriath-sepher, and taketh it, euen to him wil I giue Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othniel the sonne of Kenaz Calebs younger brother tooke it, to whome hee gaue Achsah his daughter to wife. And when shee came to him, shee mooed him to aske of her father a field, and shee lighted off her asse, and Caleb saide vnto her, What wilt thou? And she answered him, Give mee a blessing: for thou hast giuen me a South countrey, giue me also springs of water: and Caleb gaue her the springs aboue and the springs beneath. And the childre of Keni Moses father in law went vp out of the citie of the palme trees with the children of Iudah, into the wilderness of Iudah, that lieth in the South of Arad, and went and dwelt among the people. But Iudah went with Simeon his brother, and they slewe the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it, and called the name of the citie Hormah. Also Iudah tooke Azzah with the coasts thereof, and Askelon with the coasts thereof, and Ekron with the coasts thereof. And the Lord was with Iudah, and he possessed the mountaines: for he could not driue out the inhabitantes of the valleis, because they had charrets of yron. And they gaue Hebron vnto Caleb, as Moses had saide, and hee expelled thence the three sonsne of Anak. But the children of Beniamin did not cast out the Iebusites, that inhabited Ierusalem: therefore the Iebusites dwell with the children of Beniamin in Ierusalem vnto this day. They also that were of the house of Ioseph, went vp to Beth-el, and the Lord was with them. And the house of Ioseph caused to viewe Beth-el (and the name of the citie beforetime was Luz) And the spies sawe a man come out of the citie, and they saide vnto him, Shewe vs, we praie thee, the way into the citie, and we will shewe thee mercie. And when hee had shewed them the waie into the citie, they smote the citie with the edge of the sworde, but they let the man and all his housholde depart. Then the man went into the lande of the Hittites, and built a citie, and called the name thereof Luz, which is the name thereof vnto this daie. Neither did Manasseh destroie Bethshean with her townes, nor Taanach with her townes, nor the inhabitantes of Dor with her townes, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam with her townes, neither the inhabitants of Megiddo with her townes: but the Canaanites dwelled still in that lande. Neuerthelesse when Israel was strong, they put the Canaanites to tribute, and expelled them not wholly. Likewise Ephraim expelled not the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer, but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them. Neither did Zebulun expell the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol, but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries. Neither did Asher cast out the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob. But the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites the inhabitantes of the lande: for they did not drive them out. Neither did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath, but dwelt among the Canaanites the inhabitantes of the lande: neuerthelesse the inhabitantes of Beth-shemesh, and of Beth-anath became tributaries vnto them. And the Amorites drove the children of Dan into the mountaine: so that they suffered them not to come downe to the valley. And the Ammonites dwelt still in mount Heres in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim, and when the hand of Iosephs familie preuailed, they became tributaries: And the coast of the Amorites was from Maaleh-akrabbim, euen from Selah and vpward.

And an Angel of the Lord came vp from Gilgal to Bochim, and sayd, I made you to go vp out of Egypt, and haue brought you vnto the land which I had sware vnto your fathers, and sayd, I wil neuer breake my covenant with you. Ye also shall make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land, but shall breake downe their altars: but ye haue not obeyed my voyce. Why haue ye done this? Wherefore, I sayd also, I wil not cast them out before you, but they shalbe as thornes vnto your sides, and their gods shalbe your destruction. And when the Angel of the Lord spake these wordes vnto all the children of Israel, the people lift vp their voyce, and wept. Therefore they called the name of that place, Bochim, and offered sacrifices there vnto the Lord. Now when Ioshua had sent the people away, the children of Israel went euery man into his inheritance, to possesse the land. And the people had serued the Lord al the dayes of Ioshua, and all the dayes of the Elders that outliued Ioshua, which had seene all the great works of the Lord that he did for Israel. But Ioshua the sonne of Nun the seruant of the Lord dyed, when he was an hundreth and ten yeeres olde: And they buryed him in the coastes of his inheritance, in Timnath-heres in mount Ephraim, on the Northside of mount Gaash. And so all that generation was gathered vnto their fathers, and another generation arose after them, which neither knewe the Lord, nor yet the works, which he had done for Israel. Then the children of Israel did wickedly in the sight of the Lord, and serued Baalim,
And forsooke ye Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the lande of Egypt, and followed other gods, euen the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed vnto them, and prouoked the Lord to anger. So they forsooke the Lord, and serued Baal, and Ashtaroth. And the wrath of the Lord was hote against Israel, and he deliuered them into the hands of spoylers, that spoyled them, and he sold them into the handes of their enemies rounde about them, so that they could no longer stande before their enemies. Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the Lord was sore against them, as ye Lord had sayd, and as the Lord had sworne vnto them: so he punished them sore. Notwithstanding, the Lord rayesd vp Iudges, which deliuered them out of the hands of their oppressours. But yet they would not obey their Iudges: for they went a whoring after other gods, and worshipped them, and turned quickly out of the way, wherein their fathers walked, obeying the commandements of the Lord: they did not so. And when the Lord had rayesd them vp Iudges, the Lord was with the Iudge, and deliuered them out of the hande of their enemies all the dayes of the Iudge (for the Lord had compassion on their gronings, because of them that oppressed them and tormented them) Yet when the Iudge was dead, they returned, and did worse then their fathers, in following other gods to serue them and worshippe them: they ceased not from their owne inuention, nor from their rebellious way. Wherfore the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Israel, and he sayd, Because this people hath transgressed my couenant, which I commaded their fathers, and hath not obeyed my voyce, Therefore will I no more cast out before them any of the nations, which Ioshua left when he dyed, That through them I may proue Israel, whether they wil keepe the way of the Lord, to walke therein, as their fathers kept it, or not. So the Lord left those nations, and droue them not out immediatly, neither deliuered them into the hand of Ioshua.

These nowe are the nations which the Lord left, that he might proue Israel by them (euen as many of Israel as had not knowen all the warres of Canaan, Only to make the generations of the children of Israel to know, and to teach them warre, which doubtles their predecessors knew not) Fiue princes of the Philistims, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hittites that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon vntill one come to Hamath. And these remayned to proue Israel by them, to wit, whether they would obey the commandements of the Lord, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses. And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, And they tooke their daughters to bee their wives, and gaue their daughters to their sonnes, and serued their gods. So the children of Israel did wickedly in the sight of the Lord, and forgate the Lord their God, and serued Baalim, and Asheroth. Therefore the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Israel, and he solde them into the hand of Chushan rishathaim King of Aram-naharaim, and the children of Israel serued Chushan rishathaim eyght yeeres. And when the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord, the Lord stirred vp a sauiour to ye children of Israel, and he saued them, euen Othniel the sonne of Kenaz, Calebs yonger brother. And the spirite of the Lord came vpon him, and he iudged Israel, and went out to warre: and the Lord deliuered Chushan rishathaim king of Aram into his hand, and his hand preuailed against Chushan rishathaim. So the lande had rest fourtie yeeres, and Othniel the sonne of Kenaz dyed. Then the children of Israel againe committed wickednesse in the sight of the Lord: and the Lord strengthened Eglon King of Moab against Israel, because they had committed wickednesse before the Lord. And he gathered vnto him the children of Ammon, and Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and they possessed the citie of palme trees. So the children of Israel serued Eglon king of Moab eighteene yeeres. But when the children of Israel cried vnto the Lord, the Lord stirred them vp a sauiour, Ehud the sonne of Gera the sonne of Iemini, a man lame of his right hande: and the children of Israel sent a present by him vnto Eglon King of Moab. And Ehud made him a dagger with two edges of a cubite length, and he did gird it vnder his rayment vpon his right thigh, And he presented ye gift vnto Eglon King of Moab (and Eglon was a very fat man) And when he had now presented the present, he sent away the people that bare ye present, But he turned againe from the quarris, that were by Gilgal, and said, I haue a secret errand vnto thee, O King. Who said, Keepe silence:
and all that stood about him, went out from him. Then Ehud came unto him. (and he sate alone in a summer parlor, which he had) and Ehud said, I have a message unto thee from God. Then he arose out of his throne, And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly, So that the hafte went in after the blade, and the fatte closed about the blade, so that he could not drawe the dagger out of his belly, but the dirt came out. Then Ehud gate him out into the porch, and shut the doors of the parlor vpon him, and locked them. And when he was gone out, his servantes came: who seeing that the doors of the parlor were locked, they sayd, Surely he doeth his easement in his summer chamber. And they taryed till they were ashamed: and seeing he opened not the doors of the parlor, they took the key, and opened them, and behold, their lord was fallen dead on the earth. So Ehud escaped (while they tarried) and was passed the quarris, and escaped vnto Seirah. And when he came home, he blew a trumpet in mount Ephraim, and the children of Israel went downe with him from the mountaine, and he went before them. Then said he vnto them, Follow me: for the Lord hath deliuered your enemies, euen Moab into your hand. So they went downe after him, and took the passages of Iorden toward Moab, and suffred not a man to passe ouer. And they slew of the Moabites the same time about ten thousand men, all fed men, and all were warriours, and there escaped not a man. So Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the hand of Israel: and the land had rest fourscore yeeres. And after him was Shamgar the sonne of Anath, which slew of the Philistims sixe hundreth men with an oxe goade, and he also deliuered Israel.

And the children of Israel began againe to do wickedly in the sight of the Lord when Ehud was dead. And the Lord sold them into the hand of Iabin King of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor, whose chiefe Captaine was called Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles. Then the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord: (for he had nine hundreth charrets of yron, and twenty yeeres he had vexed the children of Israel very sore) And at that time Deborah a Prophetesse the wife of Lapidoth judged Israel. And this Deborah dwelt vnder a palme tree, betweene Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim, and the children of Is-Judges 4:6—19

Israel came up to her for judgment. Then she sent and called Barak the son of Abinoam out of Kadesh of Naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded, saying, Go, and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun? And I will draw thee to the river Kishon Sisera, the captain of Jabin’s army with his chariots, and his multitude, and will deliver him into thine hand. And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, I will not go. Then she answered, I will surely go with thee, but this journey that thou takest, shall not be for thine honour: for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose and went with Barak to Kedesh. And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh, and he went up on his feet with ten thousand men, and Deborah went up with him. (Now Heber the Kenite, which was of the children of Hobab the father in law of Moses, was departed from the Kenites, and pitched his tent until the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh) Then they shewed Sisera, that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor. And Sisera called for all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him from Harosheth of the Gentiles, unto the river Kishon. Then Deborah said unto Barak, Up: for this is the day that the Lord hath delivered Sisera into thine hand. Is not the Lord gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him. And the Lord destroyed Sisera and all his chariots, and all his host with the edge of the sword before Barak, so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet. But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword: there was not a man left. Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Iael the wife of Heber the Kenite: (for peace was betwenee Jabin the king of Hazor, and betwenee the house of Heber the Kenite) And Iael went out to meete Sisera, and said vnto him, Turne in, my lord, turne in to me: feare not. And when he had turned in vnto her into her tent, she couered him with a mantell. And he said vnto her, Giue me, I pray thee, a little water to drinke: for I am thirstie. And shee opened a bottel of milke, and gaue him drinke, and couered him. Againe he sayde vnto her, Stande in the doore of the tent, and when any man doth come and enquire of thee, saying, Is any man there? thou shalt say, Nay. Then Iael Hebers wife tooke a nayle of the tent, and tooke an hammer in her hande, and went softly vnto him, and smote the nayle into his temples, and fastened it into the grounde, (for he was fast a sleepe and weary) and so he dyed. And behold, as Barak pursued after Sisera, Iael came out to meete him, and sayd vnto him, Come, and I wil shewe thee the man, whome thou seekest: and when he came into her tent, behold, Sisera lay dead, and the nayle in his temples. So God brought downe Iabin the King of Canaan that day before the children of Israel. And the hande of the children of Israel prospered, and preuailed against Iabin the King of Canaan, vntill they had destroyed Iabin King of Canaan.

Then sang Deborah, and Barak the sonne of Abinoam the same day, saying, Praise ye the Lord for the auenging of Israel, and for the people that offred themselues willingly. Heare, ye Kings, hearken ye princes: I, euen I will sing vnto the Lord: I will sing praise vnto the Lord God of Israel. Lord, when thou wentest out of Seir, when thou departedst out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heauens rained, the cloudes also dropped water. The mountaineaes melted before the Lord, as did that Sinai before the Lord God of Israel. In the dayes of Shamgar the sonne of Anath, in the dayes of Iael the hie wayes were vnoccupied, and the travelers walked through by wayes. The townes were not inhabited: they decayed, I say, in Israel, vntill I Deborah came vp, which rose vp a mother in Israel. They chose new gods: then was warre in the gates. Was there a shielde or speare seene among fourtie thousand of Israel? Mine heart is set on the gouernours of Israel, and on them that are willing among the people: praise ye the Lord. Speake ye that ride on white asses, yee that dwel by Middin, and that walke by the way. For the noyse of the archers appiaied among the drawers of water: there shall they rehearse the righteousnesse of the Lord, his righteousnesse of his townes in Israel: then did the people of the Lord goe downe to the gates. Vp Deborah, vp, arise, and sing a song: arise Barak, and leade thy captiuitie captiue, thou sonne of Abinoam. For they that remaine, haue dominio ouer the mightie of the people: the Lord hath giuen me dominion ouer the strong. Of Ephraim their roote arose against Amalek: and after thee, Beniamin shall fight against thy people, O Amalek: of Machir came rulers, and of Zebulun they that handle the pen of the writer. And the Princes of Issachar were with Deborah, and Issachar, and also Barak: he was set on his feete in the valley: for the diuisions of Reuben were great thoughts of heart. Why abodest thou among the sheepefolds, to heare the bleatings of the flockes? for the diuisions of Reuben were great thoughts of heart. Gilead abode beyonde Iorden: and why doeth Dan remayne in shippes? Asher sate on the sea shoare, and taryed in his decayed places. But the people of Zebulun and Naphtali haue ieopard their liues vnto the death in the hie places of the field. The Kings came and fought: then fought the Kings of Canaan in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo: they received no gaine of money. They fought from heauen, euen the starres in their courses fought against Sisera.
The Riuer Kishon swepe them away, that ancient riuer the riuer Kishon. O my soule, thou hast marched valiantly. Then were the horsehooues broken with the oft beating together of their mightie men. Curse ye Meroz: (sayd the Angel of the Lord) curse the inhabitantes thereof, because they came not to helpe the Lord, to helpe the Lord against the mighty. Iael the wife of Heber the Kenite shall be blessed aboue other women: blessed shall she be aboue women dwelling in tentes. He asked water, and she gaue him milke: she brought forth butter in a lordly dish. She put her hand to the naile, and her right hand to the workemans hammer: with the hammer smote she Sisera: she smote off his head, after she had wounded, and pearsed his temples. He bowed him downe at her feete, he fell downe, and lay still: at her feete hee bowed him downe, and fell: and when he had sunke downe, he lay there dead. The mother of Sisera looked out at a windowe, and cryed thorowe the lattesse, Why is his charet so long a comming? why tary the wheeles of his charets? Her wise ladies answered her, Yea. Shee answered her selfe with her owne wordes, Haue they not gotten, and they deuide the spoyle? euery man hath a mayde or two. Sisera hath a praye of diuers coloured garmentes, a pray of sundry colours made of needle worke: of diuers colours of needle worke on both sides, for the chiefe of the spoyle. So let all thine enemies perish, O Lord: but they that loue him, shall be as the Sunne when he riseth in his might, and the lande had rest fourtie yeres.

Afterwarde the children of Israel committed wickednesse in the sight of the Lord, and the Lord gaue them into the handes of Midian seuen yeres. And the hand of Midian preuayled against Israel, and because of the Midianites the children of Israel made them dennes in the mountaines, and caues, and strong holdes. When Israel had sownen, then came vp the Midianites, the Amalekites, and they of the East, and came vpon them, And camped by them, and destroyed the fruite of the earth, euyn til thou come vnto Azzah, and left no foode for Israel, neither sheepe, nor oxe, nor asse. For they went vp, and their cattel, and came with their tentes as grashoppers in multitude: so that they and their camels were without number: and they came into the land to destroy it. So was Israel exceedingly impouerished by the Midianites: therefore the children of Israel cryed vnsto the Lord. And when the children of Israel cryed vnsto the Lord because of the Midianites, The Lord sent vnsto the children of Israel a Prophet, who sayd vuto them, Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, I haue brought you vp from Egypt, and haue brought you out of the house of bondage, And I haue deliuered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and haue cast them out before you, and giuen you their land. And I sayde vnsto you, I am the Lord your God: feare not the gods of the Amorites in whose lande you dwell: but ye haue not obeyed my voyce. And the Angell of the Lord came, and sate vnder the oke which was in Ophrah, that perteined vnto Ioash the father of the Ezrites, and his sonne Gideon threshed wheate by the winepresse, to hide it from the Midianites. Then the Angel of the Lord appeared vnsto him, and said vnsto him, The Lord is with thee, thou valiant man. To whome Gideon answered, Ah my Lord, if the Lord be with vs, why then is all this come vpon vs? and where be all his miracles which our fathers tolde vs of, and sayd, Did not the Lord bring vs out of Egypt? but now the Lord hath forsaken vs, and deliuered vs into the hand of the Midianites. And the Lord looked vpon him, and sayd, Goe in this thy might, and thou shalt saue Israel out of the handes of the Midianites: haue not I sent thee?
And he answered him, Ah my Lord, whereby shall I saue Israel? beholde, my father is poore in Manasseh, and I am the least in my fathers house. Then the Lord sayd vnpto him, I wil therefore be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites, as one man. And he answered him, I pray thee, if I haue founde fauour in thy sight, then shewe me a signe, that thou talkest with me. Depart not hence, I pray thee, vntil I come vnpto thee, and bring mine offring, and lay it before thee. And he sayde, I will tary vntill thou come againe. Then Gideon went in, and made ready a kidde, and vnleauened bread of an Ephah of floure, and put the flesh in a basket, and put the broth in a pot, and brought it out vnpto him vnder the oke, and presented it. And the Angell of God saide vnpto him, Take the flesh and the vnleauened bread, and lay them vpon this stone, and powre out the broth: and he did so. Then the Angell of the Lord put forth the ende of the staffe that he had in his hand, and touched the flesh and the vnleauened bread: and there arose vp fire out of the stone, and consumed the flesh and the vnleauened bread: so the Angel of the Lord departed out of his sight. And when Gideon perceiued that it was an Angel of the Lord, Gideon then sayde, Alas, my Lord God: for because I haue seene an Angell of the Lord face to face, I shall die. And the Lord said vnpto him, Peace be vnpto thee: feare not, thou shalt not die. Then Gideon made an altar there vnpto the Lord, and called it, Iehouah shalom: vnpto this day it is in Ophrah, of the father of the Ezrites. And the same night the Lord sayd vnpto him, Take thy fathers yong bullocke, and an other bullocke of seuen yeeres olde, and destroy the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and cut downe the groue that is by it, And build an altar vnpto the Lord thy God vpon the top of this rocke, in a plaine place: and take the seconde bullocke, and offer a burnt offringe with the woode of the groue, which thou shalt cut downe. Then Gideon tooke tenne men of his servants, and did as ye Lord bade him: but because he feared to doe it by day for his fathers housholde, and the men of the citie, he did it by night. And when the men of the citie arose early in the morning, beholde, the altar of Baal was broken, and the groue cut downe that was by it, and the seconde bullocke offred vpon the altar that was made. Therefore they saide one to another, Who hath done this thing? and when they inquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Ioash hath done this thing. Then the men of the city said unto Ioash, Bring out thy son, that he may dye: for he hath destroyed the altar of Baal, and hath also cut downe the grove that was by it. And Ioash said unto all that stood by him, Will ye pleade Baals cause? or will ye saue him? he that will contend for him, let him dye or the morning. If he be God, let him pleade for himselfe against him that hath cast downe his altar. And in that day was Gideon called Ierubbaal, that is, Let Baal pleade for himselfe because he hath broken downe his altar. Then all the Midianites and the Amalekites and they of ye East, were gathered together, and went and pitched in the valley of Izreel. But the Spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon, and he blew a trumpet, and Abiezer was ioyned with him. And he sent messengers thorowout al Manasseh, which also was ioyned with him, and he sent messengers vnto Asher, and to Zebulun and to Naphtali, and they came vp to meete them. Then Gideon said vnto God, If thou wilt saue Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said, Beholde, I wil put a fleece of wooll in the threshing place: if the dewe come on the fleece onely, and it be drie vpon all the earth, then shall I be sure, that thou wilt saue Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said. And so it was: for he rose vp earely on the morow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, and filled a bowle of water. Againe, Gideon sayde vnto God, Be not angry with me, that I may speake once more: let me prooue once againe, I pray thee, with the fleece: let it now be drie onely vpon the fleece, and let dewe be vpon all the ground. And God did so that same night: for it was drie vpon the fleece onely, and there was dewe on all the ground.

7 Then Ierubbaal (who is Gideon) rose vp early, and all the people that were with him, and pitched beside the well of Harod, so that the hoste of the Midianites was on the Northside of them in the valley by the hill of Moreh. And the Lord said vnto Gideon, The people that are with thee, are too many for me to giue the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel make their vaunt against me, and say, Mine hand hath saued mee. Now therefore proclaime in the audience of the people, and say, Who so is timerous or fearefull, let him returne, and depart earely from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people which were at mount Gilead, two and twenty thousand: so ten thousand remained. And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many: bring them downe vnto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and of whome I say vnto thee, This man shall goe with thee, the same shall go with thee: and of whomsoever I say vnto thee, This man shall not goe with thee, the same shall not go. So he brought downe the people vnto the water. And the Lord sayd vnto Gideon, As many as lap the water with their tongues, as a dog lappeth, them put by themselves, and every one that shall bow downe his knees to drinke, put apart. And the number of them that lapped by putting their handes to their mouthes, were three hundred men: but all the remnant of the people kneeled downe vpon their knees to drinke water. Then the Lord sayde vnto Gideon, By these three hundred men that lapped, will I saue you, and deliuer the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man vnto his place. So the people tooke victuiles with them, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel, every man vnto his tent, and reteined the three hundred men: and the hoste of Midian was beneath him in a valley. And the same night the Lord sayde vnto him, Arise, get thee downe vnto the hoste: for I haue deliuered it into thine hand. But if thou feare to go downe, then go thou, and Phurah thy seruant downe to the hoste, And thou shalt hearken what they say, and so shall thine handes be strong to go downe vnto the hoste. Then went he downe and Phurah his seruant vnto the outside of the souldiers that were in the hoste. And the Midianites, and the Amalekites and all they of the East, lay in the valley like grasshoppers in multitude, and their camels were without number, as the sande which is by the sea side for multitude. And when Gideon was come, beholde, a man tolde a dreame vnto his neighbour, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dreame, and lo, a cake of barley bread tumbled from aboue into the hoste of Midian, and came vnto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent fell downe. And his fellow answered, and sayde, This is nothing els saue the sworde of Gideon the sonne of Ioash a man of Israel: for into his hande hath God deliuered Midian and all the hoste. When Gideon heard the dreame tolde, and the interpretation of the same, he worshipped, and returned vnto the hoste of Israel, and said, Vp: for the Lord hath deliuered into your hande the hoste of Midian.

And hee deuided the three hundreth men into three bandes, and gaue every man a trumpet in his hande with emptie pitchers, and lampes within the pitchers. And he sayd vnto them, Looke on me, and do likewise, when I come to the side of the hoste: euens as I do, so do you. When I blowe with a trumpet and all that are with me, blowe ye with trumpets also on euery side of the hoste, and say, For the Lord, and for Gideon. So Gideon and the hundreth men that were with him, came vnto the outside of the hoste, in the beginning of the middle watche, and they raised vp the watchmen, and they blew with their trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their handes. And the three companies blew with trumpets and brake the pitchers, and helde the lampes in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right. handes to blowe withall: and they cryed, The sword of the Lord and of Gideon. And they stoode, euery man in his place round about the hoste: and all the hoste ranne, and cryed, and fled. And the three hundreth blewe with trumpets, and the Lord set every mans sworde vpon his neighbour, and vpon all the hoste: so the hoste fled to Beth-hashittah in Zererah, and to the border of Abel-meholah, vnsto Tabbath. Then the men of Israel being gathered together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, pursued after the Midianites. And Gideon sent messengers vnto all mount Ephraim, saying, Come downe against the Midianites, and take before them the waters vnsto Beth-barah, and Iorden. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered together and tooke the waters vnsto Beth-barah, and Iorden. And they tooke two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb, and slew Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and slewe Zeeb at the winepresse of Zeeb, and pursued the Midianites, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon beyonde Iorden.

Then the men of Ephraim sayde vnto him, Why hast thou serued vs thus that thou calleyst vs not, when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? and they chode with him sharply. To whom he said, What haue I now done in comparison of you? is not the gleaning of grapes of Ephraim better, then the vintage of Abiezer? God hath deliuered into your handes the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? and when he had thus spoken, then their spirits abated toward him. And Gideon came to Iordan to passe ouer, hee, and the three hundreth men that were with him, weary, yet pursing them. And he said vnto the men of Succoth, Giue, I pray you, morsels of bread vnto the people that follow me (for they be wearie) that I may follow after Zebah, and Zalmunna Kings of Midian. And the princes of Succoth sayde, Are the handes of Zebah and Zalmunna nowe in thine hads, that we should giue bread vnto thine army? Gideon then sayde, Therefore when the Lord hath deliuered Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hand, I will teare your flesh with thornes of the wildernes and with breers. And he went vp thence to Penuel, and spake vnto them likewise, and the men of Penuel answered him, as the men of Succoth answered. And he sayd also vnto the men of Penuel, When I come againe in peace, I will breake downe this towre. Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hostes with them, about fiftene thousande, all that were left of all the hostes of them of the East: for there was slaine an hundreth and twentie thousand men, that drew swordes. And Gideon went through them that dwelt in Tabernacles on the East side of Nobah and Iogbehah, and smote the hoste: for the hoste was carelesse. And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, hee followed after them, and tooke the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and discomfited all the hoste. So Gideon the sonne of Ioash returned from battel, the sunne being yet hie, And tooke a seruant of the me of Succoth, and inquired of him: and he wrote to him the princes of Succoth and the Elders thereof, euen seuentie and seuen men. And he came vnto the men of Succoth, and sayd, Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, by whome ye vpbrayded me, saying, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thine hands, that we should giue bread vnto thy weary men? Then he tooke the Elders of the citie, and thornes of the wildernes and breers, and did teare the men of Succoth with them. Also he brake downe the towre of Penuel, and slew the men of the citie. Then saide he vnto Zebah and Zalmunna, What maner of men were they, whom ye slew at Tabor? and they answered, As thou art, so were they: euery one was like the children of a King. And he said, They were my brethren, euen my mothers children: as the Lord liueth, if ye had saued their liues, I would not slay you. Then he sayde vnto Iether his first borne sonne, Vp, and slay them: but the boy drew not his sword: for he feared, because he was yet yong. Then Zebah and Zalmunna sayd, Rise thou, and fall vpon vs: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gideon arose and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and tooke away the ornamentes, that were on their camels neckes. Then the men of Israel sayd vnto Gideon, Reigne thou ouer vs, both thou, and thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne: for thou hast deliuered vs out of the hand of Midian. And Gideon sayde vnto them, I will not reigne ouer you, neither shall my childe reigne ouer you, but the Lord shall reigne ouer you. Againe Gideon sayd vnto them, I would desire a request of you, that you would giue mee euery man the earings of his pray (for they had golden earings because they were Ismaelites) And they answered, Wee will giue them. And they spred a garment, and did cast therein euery man the earings of his pray. And the weight of the golden earings that he required, was a thousande and seuen hundreth shekels of golde, beside collers and iuwels, and purple rayment that was on the kings of Midian, and beside the cheynes that were about their camels neckes. And Gideon made an Ephod thereof, and put it in Ophrah his citie: and all Israel went a whoring there after it, which was the destruction of Gideon and his house. Thus was Midian brought lowe before the children of Israel, so that they lift vp their heads no more: and the countrie was in quietnes fourtie yeeres in the dayes of Gideon. Then Ierubbaal the sonne of Ioash went, and dwelt in his owne house. And Gideon had seuentie sonnes begotten of his body: for he had many wiues. And his concubine that was in Shechem, bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. So Gideon the sonne of Ioash dyed in a good age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Ioash his father in Ophrah, of the father of ye Ezrites. But when Gideon was dead, the children of Israel turned away and went a whoring after Baalim, and made Baal-berith their God. And the children of Israel remembred not the Lord their God, which had deliuered the out of the hands of all their enemies on every side. Neither shewed they mercy on the house of Ierubbaal, or Gideon, according to al the goodnesse which he had shewed vnto Israel.

Then Abimelech the sonne of Ierubbaal went to Shechem vnto his mothers brethren, and communed with them, and with all the familie, and house of his mothers father, saying, Say, I pray you, in the audience of all the men of Shechem, Whether is better for you, that all the sonnes of Ierubbaal, which are seuentie persons, reigne ouer you, either that one reigne ouer you? Remember also, that I am your bone, and your flesh. Then his mothers brethren spake of him in the audience of all the men of Shechem, all these wordes: and their hearts were moued to follow Abimelech: for sayd they, He is our brother. And they gaue him seuentie pieces of siluer out of the house of Baal-berith, wherewith Abimelech hired vayne and light fellowes which followed him. And he went vnto his fathers house at Ophrah, and slew his brethren, the sonnes of Ierubbaal, about seuentie persons vpon one stone: yet Iotham the yongest sonne of Ierubbaal was left: for he hid himselfe. And all the men of Shechem gathered together with all the house of Millo, and came and made Abimelech King in the playne, where the stone was erected in Shechem. And when they told it to Iotham, he went and stoode in the top of mount Gerizim, and lift vp his voyce, and cryed, and sayd vnto them, Hearken vnto mee, you men of Shechem, that God may hearken vnto you. The trees went foorth to anoynt a King ouer them, and sayde vnto the oliue tree, Reigne thou ouer vs. But the oliue tree said vnto them, Should I leaue my fatnes, wherewith by me they honour God and man, and go to advance me aboue ye trees? Then the trees sayde to the fig tree, Come thou, and be King ouer vs. But the fig tree answered them, Should I forsake my sweetenesse, and my good fruite, and goe to advance me aboue the trees? Then sayd the trees vnto the Vine, Come thou, and be king ouer vs. But the Vine sayde vnto them, Should I leaue my wine, whereby I cheare God and man, and goe to advance me aboue the trees? Then said all the trees vnto the bramble, Come thou, and reigne ouer vs. And the bramble said vnto the trees, If ye will in deede anoynt me King ouer you, come, and put your trust vnder my shadowe: and if not, the fire shall come out of the bramble, and consume the Cedars of Lebanon. Now therefore, if ye doe truely and vncorruptly to make Abimelech King, and if ye haue delt well with Ierubbaal and with his house, and haue done vnto him according to the deseruing of his handes, (For my father fought for you, and adventured his life, and deliuered you out of the handes of Midian. And yee are risen vp against my fathers house this day, and haue slayne his children, about seuentie persons vpon one stone, and haue made Abimelech the sonne of his mayde seruant, King ouer the men of Shechem, because hee is your brother) If ye then haue delt truely and purely with Ierubbaal, and with his house this day, then reioyce with you. But if not, let a fire come out from Abimelech, and consume the men of Shechem and the house of Millo: also let a fire come forth from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and consume Abimelech. And Iotham ran away, and fled, and went to Beer, and dwelt there for feare of Abimelech his brother. So Abimelech reigned three yeere ouer Israel. But God sent an euil spirit betweene Abimelech, and the men of Shechem: and the men of Shechem brake their promise to Abimelech, That the crueltie toward the seuentie sonnes of Ierubbaal and their blood might come and be laide vpon Abimelech their brother, which had slayne them, and vpon the men of Shechem, which had ayded him to kill his brethren. So the men of Shechem set men in wayte for him in the toppes of the mountaines: who robbed all that passed that way by them: and it was tolde Abimelech. Then Gaal the sonne of Ebed came with his brethren, and they went to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him. Therefore they went out into the field, and gathered in their grapes and troade them, and made merie, and went into the house of their gods, and did eate and drinke, and cursed Abimelech. Then Gaal the sonne of Ebed sayde, Who is Abimelech? and who is Shechem, that wee should serue him? Is he not the sonne of Ierubbaal? and Zebul is his officer? Serue rather the men of Hamor the father of Shechem: for why should we serue him? Now would God this people were vnder mine hand: then would I put away Abimelech. And he said to Abimelech, Increase thine army, and come out. And when Zebul the ruler of the citie heard the wordes of Gaal the sonne of Ebed, his wrath was kindled. Therefore he sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuily, saying, Beholde, Gaal the sonne of Ebed and his brethren be come to Shechem, and beholde, they fortifie the citie against thee. Now therefore arise by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lye in wayte in the fielde. And rise early in the morning as soone as the sunne is vp, and assault the citie:
and when he and the people that is with him, shall come out against thee, doe to him what thou canst. So Abimelech rose vp, and all the people that were with him by night: and they lay in wayte against Shechem in foure bandes. Then Gaal the sonne of Ebed went out and stood in the entring of the gate of the citie: and Abimelech rose vp, and the folke that were with him, from lying in waite. And when Gaal sawe the people, he said to Zebul, Beholde, there come people downe from the tops of the mountaines: and Zebul said vnto him, The shadowe of the mountaines see me men vnto thee. And Gaal spake againe, and said, See, there come folke downe by the middle of the land, and another bande commeth by the way of the plaine of Meonenim. Then sayd Zebul vnto him, Where is now thy mouth, that said, Who is Abimelech, that we should serue him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out now, I pray thee, and fight with them. And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech. But Abimelech pursued him, and he fledde before him, and many were ouerthrown and wounded, euene vnto the entring of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren that they should not dwell in Shechem. And on the morowe, the people went out into the fielde: which was tolde Abimelech. And he tooke the people, and deuided them into three bandes, and layde wayte in the fieldes, and looked, and beholde, the people were come out of the citie, and he rose vp against them, and smote them. And Abimelech, and the bandes that were with him, rushed forwarde, and stooed in the entring of the gate of the citie: and the two other bandes ran vpon all the people that were in the fielde and slewe them. And when Abimelech had fought against the citie all that day, he tooke the citie, and slewe the people that was therein, and destroyed the citie and sowed salt in it. And when all the men of the towre of Shechem heard it, they entred into an holde of the house of the god Berith. And it was tolde Abimelech, that all the men of the towre of Shechem were gathered together. And Abimelech gate him vp to mounte Zalmon, hee and all the people that were with him: and Abimelech tooke axes with him, and cut downe boughes of trees, and tooke them, and bare them on his shoulder, and sayde vnto the folke that were with him, What ye haue seene me doe, make haste, and doe like me. Then all the people also cut downe every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the holde, and set the holde on fire with them: so all the men of the towre of Shechem dyed also, about a thousand men and women. Then went Abimelech to Tebez, and besieged Tebez, and tooke it. But there was a strong towre within the citie, and thither fledde all the men and women, and all the chiefe of the citie, and shut it to them, and went vp to the toppe of the towre.
And Abimelech came vnto the towre and fought against it, and went hard vnto the doore of the towre to set it on fire. But a certaine woman cast a piece of a milstone vpon Abimelechs head, and brake his braine pan. Then Abimelech called hastily his page that bare his harneis, and sayde vnto him, Drawe thy swordes and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slewe him. And his page thrust him thorowe, and he dyed. And when the men of Israel sawe that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man vnto his owne place. Thus God rendred the wickednes of Abimelech, which he did vnto his father, in slay-ing his seuentie brethren. Also all the wickednes of the men of Shechem did God bring vpon their heads. So vpon them came the curse of Iotham the sonne of Ierubbaal.

After Abimelech there arose to defend Israel, Tola, the sonne of Puah, the sone of Dodo, a man of Issachar, which dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim. And he iudged Israel three and twentie yeere and dyed, and was buried in Shamir. And after him arose Iair a Gileadite, and iudged Israel two and twenty yeere. And he had thirtie sonnes that rode on thirtie ass-ecolts, and they had thirtie cities, which are called Hauoth-Iair vnto this day, and are in the land of Gilead. And Iair dyed, and was buried in Kamon. And the children of Israel wrought wickednesse againe in the sight of the Lord, and serued Baalim and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Aram, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistims, and forsooke the Lord and serued not him. Therefore the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Israel, and he solde them into the hands of the Philistims, and into the handes of the children of Ammon: Who from that yere vexed and oppressed the children of Israel eightene yeres, euen all the children of Israel that were beyond Iorden, in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead. Moreover, the children of Ammon went over Jordan to fight against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim: so that Israel was sore tormented. Then the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, saying, We have sinned against thee, even because we have forsaken our own God, and have served Baalim. And the Lord said unto the children of Israel, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians and from the Amorites, from the children of Ammon and from the Philistines? The Zidonians also, and the Amalekites, and the Maonites did oppress you, and ye cried to me and I saved you out of their hands. Yet ye have forsaken me, and served other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more. Go, and cry unto the gods which ye have chosen: let them save you in the time of your tribulation. And the children of Israel said unto the Lord, We have sinned: do thou unto us whatsoeuer pleaseth thee: onely we pray thee to deliver us this day. Then they put away the strange gods from among them and served the Lord: and his soul was grieved for the misery of Israel. Then the children of Ammon gathered themselves together, and pitched in Gilead: and the children of Israel assembled themselves, and pitched in Mizpeh. And the people and princes of Gilead said one to another, Whosoever will begin the battle against the children of Ammon, the same shall be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

Then Gilead begat Jephthah, and Jephthah the Gileadite was a valiant man, but the son of an harlot. And Gilead's wife bare him sons, and when the woman's children were come to age, they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him, Thou shalt not inherit in our father's house: for thou art the son of a strange woman. Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob: and there gathered idle fellows to Jephthah, and went out with him. And in process of time the children of Ammon made warre with Israel. And when the children of Ammon fought with Israel, the Elders of Gilead went to fet Jephthah out of the land of Tob. And they said unto Jephthah, Come and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon. Jephthah then answered the Elders of Gilead, Did not ye hate me, and expell me out of my father's house? how then come you unto me now in time of your tribulation?
Elders of Gilead said unto Iphtah, Therefore we turne againe to thee now, that thou mayest goe with vs, and fight against the children of Ammon, and bee our head ouer all the inhabitants of Gilead. And Iphtah said vnto the Elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home againe to fight against the children of Ammon, if the Lord giue them before me, shall I be your head? And the Elders of Gilead said to Iphtah, The Lord be witnesse betweene vs, if we doe not according to thy wordes. Then Iphtah went with the Elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captaine ouer them: and Iphtah rehearsed all his wordes before the Lord in Mizpeh. Then Iphtah sent messengers vnto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to doe with me, that thou art come against me, to fight in my lande? And the King of the children of Ammon answered vnto the messengers of Iphtah, Because Israel tooke my lande, when they came vp from Egypt, from Arnon vnto Iabbok, and vnto Iorden: now therefore restore those lands quietly. Yet Iphtah sent messengers againe vnto the King of the children of Ammon, And said vnto him, Thus saith Iphtah, Israel tooke not the lande of Moab, nor the lande of the children of Ammon. But when Israel came vp from Egypt, and walked through the wildernesse vnto the redde Sea, then they came to Kadesh. And Israel sent messengers vnto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, goe thorowe thy lande: but the King of Edom woulde not consent: and also they sent vnto the King of Moab, but he would not: therefore Israel abode in Kadesh. Then they went through the wildernesse, and compassed the lande of Edom, and the lande of Moab, and came by the Eastside of the lande of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, and came not within the coast of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab. Also Israel sent messengers vnto Sihon, King of the Amorites, the King of Heshbon, and Israel said vnto him, Let vs passe, we pray thee, by thy lande vnto our place. But Sihon consented not to Israel, that he shoulde goe through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Iahaz, and fought with Israel. And the Lord God of Israel gaue Sihon and all his folke into the handes of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the lande of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that countrey: And they possessed all the coast of the Amorites, from Arnon vnto Iabbok, and from the wildernesse euen vnto Iorden. Nowe therefore the Lord God of Israel hath cast out the Amorites before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possesse it? Wouldest not thou possesse that which Chemosh thy god giueth thee to possesse? So whomesoeuer the Lord our God driueth out before vs, them will we possesse. And art thou nowe farre better then Balak the sonne of Zippor King of Moab? did he not striue with Israel and fight against them. When Israel dwelt in Heshbon and in her townes, and in Aroer and in her townes, and in all the cities that are by the coasts of Arnon, three hundreth yeeres? why did ye not then recouer them in that space? Wherefore, I haue not offended thee: but thou doest me wrong to warre against me. The Lord the Iudge be iudge this day betweenee the children of Israel, and the children of Ammon. Howbeit the King of the children of Ammon hearkened not vnto the wordes of Iphtah, which he had sent him. Then the Spirite of the Lord came vpon Iphtah, and he passed ouer to Gilead and to Manasseh, and came to Mizpeh in Gilead, and from Mizpeh in Gilead he went vnto the children of Ammon. And Iphtah vowed a vowe vnto the Lord, and said, If thou shalt deliuer the children of Ammon into mine handes, Then that thing that commeth out of the doores of mine house to meete me, when I come home in peace from the children of Ammon, shall be the Lordes, and I will offer it for a burnt offering. And so Iphtah went vnto the children of Ammon to fight against them, and the Lord deliuered them into his handes. And he smote them from Aroer euen till thou come to Minnith, twentie cities, and so foorth to Abel of the vineyardes, with an exceeding great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were humbled before the children of Israel. Nowe when Iphtah came to Mizpeh vnto his house, beholde, his daughter came out to meete him with timbrels and daunces, which was his onely childe: he had none other sonne, nor daughter. And when hee sawe her, hee rent his clothes, and saide, Alas my daughter, thou hast brought me lowe, and art of them that trouble me: for I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lord, and can not goe backe. And she said vnto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth vnto the Lord, doe with me as thou hast promised, seeing that the Lord hath auenged thee of thine enemies the children of Ammon. Also she saide vnto her father, Doe thus much for me: suffer me two moneths, that I may goe to the mountaines, and bewaile my virginitie, I and my fellowes. And he sayde, Goe: and he sent her away two moneths: so she went with her companions, and lamented her virginitie vpon the moutaines. And after the ende of two moneths, she turned againe vnto her father, who did with her according to his vowe which he had vowed, and she had knowen no man. and it was a custome in Israel: The daughters of Israel went yere by yere to lament the daughter of Iphtah the Gileadite, foure dayes in a yeere.

And the me of Ephraim gathered themselues together, and went Northwarde, and saide vnto Iphtah, Wherefore wentest thou to fight against the children of Ammon, and diddest not call vs to goe with thee? we will therefore burne thine house vpon thee with fire. And Iphtah said vnto them, I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon, and when I called you, ye deliuered me not out of their handes. So when I sawe that ye deliuered me not, I put my life in mine hands, and went vpon the children of Ammon: so the Lord deliuered them into mine handes. Wherefore then are ye come vpon me nowe to fight against me? Then Iphtah gathered all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites are runnagates of Ephraim among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites. Also the Gileadites tooke the passages of Iorden before the Ephraimites, and when the Ephraimites that were escaped, saide, Let me passe, then the men of Gilead said vnto him, Art thou an Ephraimite?
If he said, Nay, Then said they vnto him, Say nowe Shibboleth: and he said, Sibboleth: for he could not so pronounce: then they took him, and slewe him at the passages of Iorden: and there fel at that time of the Ephraimites two and fourtie thousand. And Iphtah iudged Israel sixe yeere: then dyed Iphtah the Gileadite, and was buryed in one of the cities of Gilead. After him Ibzan of Beth-lehem iudged Israel, Who had thirtie sonnes and thirtie daughters, which he sent out, and tooke in thirtie daughters from abroade for his sonnes. and he iudged Israel seuen yeere. Then Ibzan died, and was buryed at Bethlehem. And after him iudged Israel Elon, a Zebulonite, and he iudged Israel tenne yeere. Then Elon the Zebulonite dyed, and was buryed in Aijalon in the countrey of Zebulun. And after him Abdon the sonne of Hillel the Pirathonite judged Israel. And he had fourty sonnes and thirtie nephewes that rode on seuentie assec-oltes: and he judged Israel eight yeeres. Then dyed Abdon the sonne of Hillel the Pirathonite, and was buryed in Pirathon, in ye lande of Ephraim, in the Mount of the Amalekites.

Bvt the children of Israel continued to commit wickednesse in the sight of the Lord, and the Lord deliuerd them into the handes of the Philistims fourtie yeere. Then there was a man in Zorah of the familie of the Danites, named Manoah, whose wife was baren, and bare not. And the Angel of the Lord appeared vnto the woman, and said vnto her, Beholde nowe, thou art baren, and bearest not: but thou shalt conceiue, and beare a sonne. And nowe therefore beware that thou drinke no wine, nor strong drinke, neither eate any uncleane thing. For loe, thou shalt conceiue and beare a sonne, and no rasor shall come on his head: for the childe shall be a Nazarite vnto God from his birth: and he shall begin to saue Israel out of the handes of the Philistims. Then the wife came, and tolde her husband, saying, A man of God came vnto me, and the facion of him was like the facion of the Angel of God exceeding feareful, but I asked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name, But he saide vnto me, Beholde, thou shalt conceiue, and beare a sonne, and nowe thou shalt drinke no wine, nor strong drinke, neither eate any uncleane thing: for the childe shalbe a Nazarite to God from his birth to the day of his death. Then Manoah prayed to the Lord and said, I pray thee, my Lord, Let the man of God, whome thou sentest, come againe nowe vnto vs, and teach vs what we shall doe vnto the child when he is borne. And God heard the voyce of Manoah, and the Angel of God came againe vnto the wife, as she sate in the fiedle, but Manoah her husband was not with her. And the wife made haste and ranne, and shewed her husband and sayde vnto him, Behold, the man hath appeared vnto me, that came vnto me to day. And Manoah arose and went after his wife, and came to the man, and saide vnto him, Art thou the man that spakest vnto the woman? and he said, Yea. Then Manoah sayde, Nowe let thy saying come to passe: but howe shall we order the childe and doe vnto him? And the Angell of the Lord saide vnto Manoah, The woman must beware of all that I said vnto her. She may eate of nothing that commeth of the vinetree: she shall not drinke wine nor strong drinke, nor eate any vnclene thing: let her obserue all that I haue commanded her. Manoah then said vnto the Angell of the Lord, I pray thee, let vs reteine thee, vntill we haue made readie a kid for thee. And the Angel of the Lord said vnto Manoah, Though thou make me abide, I will not eate of thy bread, and if thou wilt make a burnt offring, offer it vnto the Lord: for Manoah knewe not that it was an Angel of the Lord.
Againe Manoah said vnto the Angell of the Lord, What is thy name, that when thy saying is come to passe, we may honour thee? And the Angell of the Lord saide vnto him, Why askest thou thus after my name, which is secret? Then Manoah tooke a kid with a meate offering, and offered it vpon a stone vnto the Lord: and the Angell did wonderously, whiles Manoah and his wife looked on. For when the flame came vp toward heauen from the altar, the Angel of the Lord ascended vp in the flame of the altar, and Manoah and his wife behelde it, and fell on their faces vnto the grounde. (So the Angel of the Lord did no more appeare vnto Manoah and his wife.) Then Manoah knewe that it was an Angel of the Lord. And Manoah said vnto his wife, We shall surely dye, because we haue seene God. But his wife saide vnto him, If the Lord woulde kill vs, he woulde not haue receiued a burnt offring, and a meate offring of our hands, neither would he haue shewed vs all these things, nor would now haue tolde vs any such. And the wife bare a sonne, and called his name Samson: and the childe grewe, and the Lord blessed him. And the Spirite of the Lord beganne to strengthen him in the host of Dan, betweene Zorah, and Eshtaol.

Nowe Samson went downe to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistims, And he came vp and told his father and his mother and saide, I haue seene a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistims: now therefore giue me her to wife. Then his father and his mother sayde vnto him, Is there neuer a wife among the daughters of thy brethren, and among all my people, that thou must go to take a wife of the vncircumcised Philistims? And Samson sayd vnto his father, Giue mee her, for she pleaseth me well. But his father and his mother knewe not that it came of the Lord, that he should seeke an occasion against the Philistims: for at that time the Philistims reigned over Israel. Then went Samson and his father and his mother downe to Timnath, and came to ye vineyardes at Timnath: and beholde, a young Lyon roared vpon him. And the Spirit of the Lord came vpon him, and he tare him, as one should haue rent a kid, and had nothing in his hand, neither told he his father nor his mother what he had done. And he went down, and talked with the woman which was beautifull in the eyes of Samson. And within a fewe dayes, when he returned to receiue her, he went aside to see the karkeis of the Lion: and behold, there was a swarme of bees, and hony in the body of the Lyon. And he tooke therof in his handes, and went eating, and came to his father and to his mother, and gaue vnto them, and they did eate: but hee told not them, that he had taken the hony out of the body of the lyon. So his father went down vnto the woman, and Samson made there a feast: for so vsed the yong men to doe. And when they sawe him, they brought thirtie companions to be with him. Then Samson sayd vnto them, I will nowe put forth a riddle vnto you: and if you can declare it me within seuen dayes of the feast, and finde it out, I will giue you thirty sheetes, and thirtie change of garments. But if you cannot declare it mee, then shall yee giue mee thirty sheetes and thirtie change of garments. And they answered him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may heare it. And he sayd vnto them, Out of the eater came meate, and out of the strong came sweetenesse: and they could not in three dayes expound the riddle. And when the seuenth day was come, they said vnto Samsons wife, Entise thine husband, that he may declare vs the riddle, lest wee burne thee and thy fathers house with fire. Haue ye called vs, to possesse vs? is it not so? And Samsons wife wept before him, and said, Surely thou hatest mee and louest mee not: for thou hast put forth a riddle vnto the children of my people, and hast not told it mee. And hee sayd vnto her, Beholde, I haue not told it my father, nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee? Then Samsons wife wept before him seuen dayes, while their feast lasted: and when the seuenth day came he tolde her, because she was importunate vpon him: so she told the riddle to the children of her people. And the men of ye citie sayde vnto him the seuenth day before the Sunne went downe, What is sweeter then honie? and what is stronger then a lyon? Then sayd hee vnto them, If yee had not plowed with my heiffer, yee had not found out my riddle. And the Spirite of the Lord came vpon him, and he went downe to Ashkelon, and slew thirtie men of them and spoyled them, and gaue chaunge of garments vnto them, which expounded the riddle: and his wrath was kindled, and he went vp to his fathers house. Then Samsons wife was giuen to his companion, whom he had vsed as his friend.

But within a while after, in the time of wheate haruest, Samson visited his wife with a kid, saying, I wil go in to my wife into the chamber: but her father would not suffer him to goe in. And her father sayde, I thought that thou hadst hated her: therefore gaue I her to thy companion. Is not her yonger sister fayrer then shee? take her, I pray thee, in stead of the other. Then Samson saide vnto them, Nowe am I more blamelesse then the Philistims: therefore will I doe them displeasure. And Samson went out, and tooke three hundreth foxes, and tooke firebrands, and turned them taile to taile, and put a firebrand in ye middes betweene two tailes. And when he had set the brandes on fire, he sent them out into the standing corne of the Philistims, and burnt vp both the rickes and the standing corne with the vineyardes and oliues. Then the Philistims sayde, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson the sonne in law of the Timnite, because hee had taken his wife, and giuen her to his companion. Then the Philistims came vp and burnt her and her father with fire. And Samson saide vnto them, Though yee haue done this, yet wil I be auenged of you, and then I wil cease. So hee smote them hippe and thigh with a mightie plague: then hee went and dwelt in the top of the rocke Etam. Then the Philistims came vp, and pitched in Iudah, and were spred abroad in Lehi. And the men of Iudah sayde, Why are yee come vp vnto vs? And they answered, To binde Samson are we come vp, and to do to him as hee hath done to vs. Then three thousande men of Iudah went to the top of the rocke Etam, and sayde to Samson, Knowest thou not that the Philistims are rulers ouer vs? Wherefore then hast thou done thus vnto vs? And he answered them, As they did vnto me, so haue I done vnto them. Againe they sayd vnto him, Wee are come to binde thee, and to deliuer thee into the hande of the Philistims. And Samson sayde unto them, Sweare vnto me, that yee will not fall vpon me your selues. And they answered him, saying, No, but we will bynde thee and deliuer thee vnto their hande, but we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two newe cordes, and brought him from the rocke. When hee came to Lehi, the Philistims shouted against him, and the Spirite of the Lord came vpon him, and the cordes that were vpon his armes, became as flaxe that was burnt with fire: for the bandes loosed from his handes. And he found a new iawebone of an asse, and put forth his hand, and caught it, and slewe a thousand men therewith. Then Samson sayd, With the iawe of an asse are heapes vpon heapes: with the iawe of an asse haue I slaine a thousand men. And when he had left speaking, hee cast away the iawebone out of his hande, and called that place, Ramath-Lehi. And he was sore a thirst, and called on the Lord, and sayde, Thou hast giuen this great deliuerance into the hand of thy seruaunt: and nowe shall I dye for thirst, and fall into the handes of the vncircumcised? Then God brake the cheeke tooth, that was in the iawe, and water came thereout: and when he had drunke, his Spirit came againe, and he was reuiued: wherefore the name therof is called, En-hakkore, which is in Lehi vnto this day. And hee iudged Israel in the dayes of the Philistims twentie yeeres.

Then went Samson to Azzah, and sawe there an harlot, and went in vnto her. And it was tolde to the Azzahites, Samson is come hither. And they went about, and laied wayte for him all night in the gate of the citie, and were quiet all the nyght, saying, Abide till the morning earely, and we shall kill him. And Samson slept till midnight, and arose at midnight, and tooke the doores of the gates of the citie, and the two postes and lift them away with the barres, and put them vpon his shoulders, and caried them vp to the top of the mountaine that is before Hebron. And after this hee loued a woman by the riuer of Sorek, whose name was Delilah: Vnto whome came the princes of the Philistims, and said vnto her, Entise him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what meane we may ouercome him, that we may binde him, and punish him, and euery one of vs shall giue thee eleuen hundreth shekels of siluer. And Delilah saide to Samson, Tell mee, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest bee bound, to doe thee hurt.
Samson then answered unto her, If they binde mee with seuen green cordes, that were neuer dryed, then shall I bee weake, and be as an other man. And the princes of the Philistims brought her seuen green cordes that were not dry, and she bound him therewith. (And she had men lying in wayte with her in the chamber) Then she said vnto him, The Philistims be vpon thee, Samson. And hee brake the cordes, as a threede of towe is broken, when it feeleth fire: so his strength was not known. After Delilah saide vnto Samson, See, thou hast mocked mee and tolde mee lies. I pray thee nowe, tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. Then he answered her, If they binde mee with newe ropes that neuer were occupied, then shall I be weake, and be as an other man. Delilah therefore tooke newe ropes, and bounde him therewith, and saide vnto him, The Philistims be vpon thee, Samson: (and men lay in wayte in the chamber) and hee brake them from his armes, as a threede. Afterward Delilah said to Samson, Hitherto thou hast beguiled mee, and tolde me lies: tell me how thou mightest be bounde. And he sayde vnto her, If thou plattedst seuen lockes of mine head with the threeedes of the woufe. And she fastened it with a pinne, and saide vnto him, The Philistims be vpon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleepe, and went away with the pinne of the webbe and the woufe. Againe shee sayde vnto him, Howe canst thou say, I loue thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked mee these three times, and hast not tolde me wherein thy great strength lieth. And because shee was importunate vpon him with her wordes continually, and vexed him, his soule was pained vnto the death. Therefore he tolde her all his heart, and said vnto her, There neuer came rasor vpon mine head: for I am a Nazarite vnto God from my mothers wombe: therefore if I bee shauen, my strength will goe from me, and I shalbe weake, and be like all other men. And when Delilah sawe that he had tolde her all his heart, she sent, and called for the Princes of ye Philistims, saying, Come vp once againe: for he hath shewed mee all his heart. Then the Princes of the Philistims came vp vnto her, and brought the money in their handes. And she made him sleepe vpon her knees, and she called a man, and made him to shawe off the seuen lockes of his head, and shee began to vexe him, and his strength was gone from him. Then she said, The Philistims be vpon thee, Samson. And hee awoke out of his sleepe, and thought, I will go out now as at other times, and shake my selfe, but he knewe not that the Lord was departed from him. Therefore the Philistims tooke him, and put out his eyes, and brought him downe to Azzah, and bounde him with fetters: and hee did grinde in the prison house. And the heare of his head began to growe againe after that it was shauen. Then the Princes of the Philistims gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice vnto Dagon their god, and to reioyce: for they said, Our god hath deliuered Samson our enemie into our handes. Also when the people saw him, they prayed their god: for they sayde, Our god hath deliuered into our hands our enemie and destroyer of our countrey, which hath slayne many of vs. And when their heartes were merie, they said, Call Samson, that he may make vs pastime. So they called Samson out of the prison house, and he was a laughing stocke vnto them, and they set him betweene the pillars. Then Samson saide vnto the seruant that led him by the hande, Lead me, that I may touch the pillars that the house standeth vpon, and that I may leane to them. (Nowe the house was full of men and women, and there were all the princes of the Philistims: also vpon the rooffe were about three thousande men and women that behelde while Samson played) Then Samson called vnto the Lord, and sayde, O Lord God, I pray thee, thinke vpon me: O God, I beseech thee, strengthen me at this time onely, that I may be at once auenged of the Philistims for my two eyes. And Samson layd hold on the two middle pillars whereupon the house stood, and on which it was borne vp: on the one with his right hand, and on the other with his left. Then Samson saide, Let me lose my life with the Philistims: and he bowed him with all his might, and the house fell vpon the princes, and vpon all the people that were therein. so the dead which he slewe at his death were more then they which he had slaine in his life. Then his brethren, and all the house of his father came downe and tooke him, and brought him vp and buryed him betweene Zorah and Eshtaol, in the sepulchre of Manoah his father: nowe he had iudged Israel twenty yeeres.

There was a man of mount Ephraim, whose name was Michah, And he saide vnto his mother, The eleuen hundreth shekels of siluer that were taken from thee, for the which thou cursedst, and spakedst it, euen in mine hearing, beholde, the siluer is with me, I tooke it. Then his mother saide, Blessed be my sonne of the Lord. And when he had restored the eleuen hundreth shekels of siluer to his mother, his mother sayd, I had dedicate the siluer to the Lord of mine hand for my sonne, to make a grauen and molten image. Now therfore I will giue it thee again. And when he had restored the money vnto his mother, his mother tooke two hundreth shekels of siluer, and gaue them to the founder, which made thereof a grauen and molten image, and it was in the house of Michah. And this man Michah had an house of gods, and made an Ephod, and Teraphim, and cosecrated one of his sonnes, who was his Priest. In those dayes there was no King in Israel, but every man did that which was good in his owne eyes. There was also a yong man out of Bethlehem Iudah, of the familie of Iudah: who was a Leuite, and soiourned there. And the man departed out of the citie, euen out of Beth-lehem Iudah, to dwell where he could finde a place: and as he iourneyed, he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Michah. And Michah saide vnto him, Whence comest thou? And the Leuite answered him, I come from Beth-lehem Iudah, and goe to dwell where I may finde a place. Then Michah said vnto him, Dwell with me, and be vnto me a father and a Priest, and I will giue thee ten shekels of siluer by yeere, and a sute of apparell, and thy meate and drinke. So the Leuite went in. And the Leuite was content to dwel with the man, and the yong man was vnto him as one of his owne sonnes. And Michah consecrated the Leuite, and the yong man was his Priest, and was in the house of Michah. Then said Michah, Nowe I know that the Lord will be good vnto me, seeing I haue a Leuite to my Priest.

In those dayes there was no King in Israel, and at the same time the tribe of Dan sought them an inheritance to dwell in: for vnto that time all their inheritance had not fallen vnto them among the tribes of Israel. Therefore the children of Dan sent of their familie, fiue men out of their coastes, euen men expert in warre, out of Zorah and Eshtaol, to viewe the lande and search it out, and saide vnto them, Goe, and search out the lande. Then they came to mount Ephraim to the house of Michah and lodged there. When they were in the house of Michah, they knewe the voyce of the yong man the Leuite: and being turned in thither, they said unto him, Who brought thee hither? or what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou to doe here? And he answered them, Thus and thus dealeth Michah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his Priest. Againe they said vnto him, Aske counsell nowe of God, that we may knowe whether the way which we goe, shalbe prosperous. And the Priest sayde vnto them, Goe in peace: for the Lord guideth your way which ye goe. Then the fiue men departed and came to Laish, and sawe the people that were therein, which dwelt carelesse, after the maner of the Zidonians, quiet and sure, because no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominion: also they were farre from the Zidonians, and had no businesse with other men. So they came againe vnto their brethren to Zorah and Eshtaol: and their brethren saide vnto them, What haue ye done? And they answered, Arise, that we may goe vp against them: for we haue seene the lande, and surely it is very good, and doe ye sit stil? be not slouthfull to goe and enter to possesse the lande: (If ye will goe, ye shall come vnto a carelesse people, and the countrye is large) for God hath giuen it into your hande. It is a place which doeth lacke nothing that is in the worlde. Then there departed thence of the familie of the Danites, from Zorah and from Eshtaol, sixe hundreth men appointed with instruments of warre. And they went vp, and pitched in Kiriath-iearim in Iudah: wherefore they called that place, Mahaneh-Dan vnto this day: and it is behinde Kiriath-iearim. And they went thence vnto mount Ephraim, and came to the house of Michah. Then answered the fiue men, that went to spie out the countrye of Laish, and said vnto their brethren, Knowe ye not, that there is in these houses an Ephod, and Teraphim, and a grauen and a molten image? Nowe therefore consider what ye haue to doe. And they turned thitherward and came to the house of the yong man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Michah, and saluted him peaceably. And the six hundreth men appointed with their weapons of warre, which were of the children of Dan, stoode by the entring of the gate. Then the fiue men that went to spie out the land, went in thither, and tooke the grauen image and the Ephod, and the Teraphim, and the molten image: and the Priest stoode in the entring of the gate with the sixe hundreth men, that were appointed with weapons of warre, And the other went into Michahs house and fet the grauen image, the Ephod, and the Teraphim, and the molten image. Then saide the Priest vnnto them, What doe ye? And they answered him, Holde thy peace: lay thine hande vpon thy mouth, and come with vs to be our father and Priest. Whether is it better that thou shouldest be a Priest vnnto ye house of one man, or that thou shouldest be a Priest vnnto a tribe and to a familie in Israel? And the Priestes heart was glad, and hee tooke the Ephod and the Teraphim, and the grauen image, and went among the people. And they turned and departed, and put the children, and the cattell, and the substance before them. When they were farre off from the house of Michah, the men that were in the houses neere to Michahs house, gathered together, and pursued after the children of Dan, and cryed vnnto the children of Dan: who turned their faces, and said vnnto Michah, What ayleth thee, that thou makest an outcrie? And hee saide, Yee haue taken away my gods, which I made, and the Priest, and go your wayes: and what haue I more? howe then say ye vnnto me, what ayleth thee? And the children of Dan sayde vnnto him, Let not thy voyce be heard among vs, lest angrie fellows runne vpon thee, and thou lose thy life with the liues of thine housholde. So the children of Dan went their wayes: and when Michah saw that they were too strong for him, hee turned, and went backe vnnto his house. And they tooke the things which Michah had made, and the Priest which he had, and came vnnto Laish, vnnto a quiet people and without mistrust, and smote them with the edge of the sworde, and burnt the citie with fire: And there was none to helpe, because Laish was farre from Zidon, and they had no businesse with other men: also it was in the valley that lyeth by Beth-rehob. After, they built the citie, and dwelt therein, And called the name of the citie Dan, after the name of Dan their father which was borne vnnto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was Laish at the beginning. Then the children of Dan set them vp the grauen image: and Ionathan the sonne of Gershom, the sonne of Manasseh and his sonnes were the Priestes in the tribe of the Danites vntil the day of the captiuitie of the lande. So they set them vp the grauen image, which Michah had made, all the while the house of God was in Shiloh. taine Leuite dwelt on the side of mount Ephraim, and took to wife a concubine out of Beth-lehem Iudah. And his concubine played ye whore there, and went away from him vnto her fathers house to Beth-lehem Iudah, and there continued the space of foure moneths. And her husband arose and went after her, to speake friendly vnto her, and to bring her againe: he had also his seruant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him vnto her fathers house, and when the yong womans father sawe him, he reioyced of his comming. And his father in lawe, the yong womans father reteined him: and he abode with him three dayes: so they did eate and drinke, and lodged there. And when the fourth day came, they arose earely in the morning, and he prepared to depart: then the yong womans father said vnto his sonne in lawe, Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread, and then go your way. So they sate downe, and did eate and drinke both of them together. And the yong womans father said vnto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tary all night, and let thine heart be merie. And when the man rose vp to depart, his father in lawe was earnest: therefore he returned, and lodged there. And he arose vp earely the fifth day to depart, and the yong womans father saide, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee: and they taryed vntill after midday, and they both did eate. Afterwarde when the man arose to depart with his concubine and his seruant, his father in lawe, the yong womans father said vnto him, Beholde nowe, the day draweth towarde euen: I pray you, tary all night: beholde, the sunne goeth to rest: lodge here, that thine heart may be merie, and to morowe get you earely vpon your way, and goe to thy tent. But the man would not tarry, but arose and departed, and came ouer against Iebus, (which is Ierusalem) and his two asses laden, and his concubine were with him. When they were neere to Iebus, the day was sore spent, and the seruant said vnto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let vs turne into this citie of the Iebusites, and lodge all night there. And his master answered him, We will not turne into the citie of strangers that are not of the children of Israel, but we will goe forth to Gibeah. And he said vnto his seruant, Come, and let vs drawe neere to one of these places, that wee may lodge in Gibeah or in Ramah. So they went forward vpon their way, and the sunne went downe vpon them neere to Gibeah, which is in Beniamin. Then they turned thither to goe in and lodge in Gibeah: and when he came, he sate him downe in a streeete of the citie: for there was no man that tooke them into his house to lodging. And beholde, there came an old man from his work out of the field at euen, and the man was of mount Ephraim, but dwelt in Gibeah: and the men of the place were the children of Iemini. And when he had lift vp his eyes, he sawe a wayfairing man in the streeetes of the citie: then this olde man sayde, Whither goest thou, and whence camest thou? And hee answered him, Wee came from Beth-lehem Iudah, vnto the side of Mout Ephraim: from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem Iudah, and go now to the house of the Lord: and no man receiueth mee to house, Although we haue straw and prouader for our asses, and also bread and wine for me and thine handmayde, and for the boy that is with thy servaunt: we lacke nothing. And the olde man sayde, Peace bee with thee: as for all that thou lackest, shalt thou finde with me: onely abide not in the streeet al night. So he brought him into his house, and gaue fodder vnto the asses: and they washed their feete, and did eate and drinke. And as they were making their hearts merie, beholde, the men of the citie, wicked men beset the house round about, and smote at the doore, and spake to this olde man the master of the house saying, Bring forth the man that came into thine house that we may knowe him. And this man the master of ye house went out vnto the, and said vnto them, Nay my brethre, do not so wickedly, I pray you: seeing that this man is come into mine house, do not this villenie. Behold, here is my daughter, a virgine, and his concubine: them wil I bring out nowe, and humble them, and doe with them what seemeth you good: but to this man doe not this villenie. But the men woulde not hearken to him: therefore ye man tooke his concubine, and brought her out vnto them: and they knewe her and abused her all the night vnto the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her goe. So the woman came in the dawning of the day, and fell downe at the doore of the mans house where her Lord was, till the light day. And her lorde arose in the morning, and opened the doore of the house, and went out to goe his way, and beholde, the woman his concubine was dead at the doore of the house and her handes lay vpon the thresholde. And hee said unto her, Vp and let vs goe: but shee answered not. Then he tooke her vp vpon the asse, and the man rose vp, and went vn to his place. And whe he was come to his house, he took a knife, and laid hand on his concubine, and deuised her in pieces with her bones into twelue parts, and sent her through all quarters of Israel. And all that saw it, said, There was no such thing done or seene since the time that the children of Israel came vp from the lande of Egypt vnto this day: consider the matter, consult and giue sentence.

Then all the children of Israel went out, and the Congregation was gathered together as one man, from Dan to Beersheba, with the land of Gilead, vnto the Lord in Mizpeh. And the chiefe of all the people, and all the tribes of Israel assembled in the Congregation of the people of God foure hundreth thousand footemen that drewe sword. (Now the children of Beniamin heard that the children of Israel were gone vp to Mizpeh) Then the children of Israel saide, Howe is this wickednesse committed?
And the same Leuite, the womans husband that was slaine, antwered and saide, I came vn to Gibeah that is in Benimn with my concubine to lodge, And the men of Gibeah arose against me, and beset the house round about vpon mee by night, thinking to haue slaine me, and haue forced my concubine that she is dead. Then I tooke my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the countrey of the inheritance of Israel: for they haue committed abomination and villenie in Israel. Behold, ye are al children of Israel: giue your aduise, and counsell herein. Then all the people arose as one man, saying, There shall not a man of vs goe to his tent, neither any turne into his house. But now this is that thing which we will do to Gibeah: we wil goe vp by lot against it, And we wil take ten men of the hundreth throughout al the tribes of Israel, and an hundreth of the thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand to bring vitaile for the people that they may do (when they come to Gibeah of Beniamin) according to all the villeny, that it hath done in Israel.
So all the men of Israel were gathered against the citie, knit to-together, as one man. And the tribes of Israel sent men through al the tribe of Beniamin, saying, What wickednesse is this that is committed among you? Nowe therefore deliuer vs those wicked men which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away euill from Israel: but the children of Beniamin would not obey the voyce of their brethren the children of Israel. But ye children of Beniamin gathered them selues together out of the cities vnto Gibeah, to come out and fight against the children of Israel. And ye children of Beniamin were nombred at that time out of the cities sixe and twenty thousand men that drewe sworde, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were nombred seuen hundreth chosen men. Of all this people were seuen hundreth chosen men, being left handed: all these could sling stones at an heare breadth, and not faile. Also the men of Israel, beside Beniamin, were nombred foure hundreth thousande men that drew sword, euen all men of warre. And the children of Israel arose, and went vp to the house of God, and asked of God, saying, Which of vs shall goe vp first to fight against the children of Beniamin? And the Lord said, Iudah shalbe first. Then the children of Israel arose vp earely and camped against Gibeah. And the men of Israel went out to battell against Beniamin, and the men of Israel put themselues in aray to fight against the beside Gibeah. And the children of Beniamin came out of Gibeah, and slewe downe to the grounde of the Israelites that day two and twentie thousand men. And the people, the men of Israel plucked vp their hearts, and set their battel againe in aray in the place where they put them in aray the first day. (For the children of Israel had gone vp and wept before the Lord vnto the euening, and had asked of the Lord, saying, Shall I goe againe to battel against the children of Beniamin my brethren? and the Lord said, Go vp against them) Then the children of Israel came neere against the children of Beniamin the second day. Also the second day Beniamin came forth to meete them out of Gibeah, and slewe downe to the grounde of the children of Israel againe eighteene thousand men: all they could handle the sword. Then al the children of Israel went vp and all the people came also vnto the house of God, and wept and sate there before the Lord and fasted that day vnto the euening, and offred burnt offrings and peace offrings before the Lord. And the children of Israel asked the Lord (for there was the Arke of the couenat of God in those dayes, And Phinehas the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron stoode before it at that time) saying, Shall I yet goe anie more to battel against the children. of Beniamin my brethren, or shall I cease? And the Lord said, Go vp: for to morowe I will deliuer them into your hand. And Israel set men to lie in waite round about Gibeah. And the children of Israel went vp against the children of Beniamin the third day, and put theseles in aray against Gibeah, as at other times. Then the children of Beniamin comming out against the people, were drawen from the citie: and they began to smite of ye people and kill as at other times, euen by the wayes in the fielde (whereof one goeth vp to the house of God, and the other to Gibeah) vpon a thirtie men of Israel. (For the children of Beniamin sayd, They are fallen before vs, as at the first. But the children of Israel saide, Let vs flee and plucke them away from the citie vnto the hie wayes) And all the men of Israel rose vp out of their place, and put themselves in aray at Baaltamar: and the men that lay in wayte of the Israelites came forth of their place, euen out of the medowes of Gibeah, And they came ouer against Gibeah, ten thousande chosen men of all Israel, and the battell was sore: for they knewe not that the euill was neere them. And the Lord smote Beniamin before Israel, and the children of Israel destroyed of the Beniamites the same day fiue and twenty thousand and an hundreth men: all they could handle the sword. So the children of Beniamin sawe that they were striken downe: for the men of Israel gaue place to the Beniamites, because they trusted to the men that lay in waite, which they had laide beside Gibeah. And they that lay in wait hasted, and brake forth toward Gibeah, and the ambushment drewe themselues along, and smote all the citie with the edge of the sword. Also the men of Israel had appoynted a certaine time with the ambushmentes, that they should make a great flame and smoke rise vp out of the citie. And when the men of Israel retired in the battel, Beniamin began to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirtie persons: for they said, Surely they are striken downe before vs, as in the first battell. But when the flame bega to arise out of the citie, as a pillar of smoke, the Beniamites looked backe, and behold, the flame of the citie began to ascend vp to heauen. Then the men of Israel turned againe, and the men of Beniamin were astonied: for they saw that euill was neere vnto them. Therefore they fled before the men of Israel vnto the way of the wildernesse, but the battell ouertooke them: also they which came out of the cities, slew them among them. Thus they compassed the Beniamites about, and chased them at ease, and ouerran them, euens ouer against Gibeah on the Eastside. And there were slaine of Beniamin eyghteene thousand men, which were all men of warre. And they turned and fled to the wildernes vnto the rocke of Rimmon: and the Israelites glayned of them by the way fiue thousand men, and pursued after them vnto Gidom, and slewe two thousand men of them, So that all that were slayne that day of Beniamin, were fiue and twentie thousand men that drewe sword, which were all men of warre: But sixe hundreth men turned and fled to the wildernesse vnto the rocke of Rimmon, and abode in the rocke of Rimmon foure moneths. Then the men of Israel returned vnto the children of Beniamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword from the men of the citie vnto the beasts, and all that came to hand: also they set on fire all the cities that they could come by.

Moreover, the men of Israel sware in Mizpeh, saying, None of vs shall giue his daughter vnto the Beniamites to wyfe. And the people came vnto ye house of God and abode there till euen before God, and lift vp their voyces, and wept with great lamenttation, And sayde, O Lord God of Israel, why is this come to passe in Israel, that this day one tribe of Israel should want?
And on the morow the people rose vp and made there an altar, and offred burnt offrings and peace offrings. Then the children of Israel said, Who is he among all the tribes of Israel, that came not vp with the Congregation vnto the Lord? for they had made a great othe concerning him that came not vp to the Lord to Mizpeh, saying, Let him die the death. And the children of Israel were sory for Beniamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day. How shall we do for wiues to them that remaine, seeing we haue sworne by the Lord, that we will not giue them of our daughters to wiues? Also they saide, Is there any of the tribes of Israel that came not vp to Mizpeh to the Lord? and beholde, there came none of Iabesh Gilead vnto the hoste and to the Congregation. For when the people were viewed; beholde, none of the inhabitants of Iabesh Gilead were there. Therefore the Congregation sent thither twelue thousande men of the most valiant, and commanded them, saying, Goe, and smite the inhabitants of Iabesh Gilead with the edge of the sword, both women, and children. And this is it that ye shall do: ye shall utterly destroye all the males and all the women that haue lien by men. And they found among the inhabitants of Iabesh Gilead foure hundreth maides, virgins that had knowne no man by lying with any male: and they brought them vnto the hoste to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan. Then the whole Congregation sent and spake with the children of Beniamin that were in the rocke of Rimmon, and called peaceably vnto them: And Beniamin came againe at that time, and they gaue them wiues which they had saued aliue of the women of Iabesh Gilead: but they had not so ynough for them. And the people were sorie for Beniamin, because the Lord had made a breach in the tribes of Israel. Therefore the Elders of the Congregation said, How shall we doe for wiues to the remnant? for the women of Beniamin are destroyed. And they saide, there must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Beniamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel. Howbeit we may not giue them wiues of our daughters: for the childre of Israel had sworne, saying, Cursed be he that giueth a wise to Beniamin. Therefore they said, Beholde, there is a feast of the Lord euery yere in Shiloh in a place, which is on the Northside of Beth-el, and on the Eastside of the way that goeth vp from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the South of Lebanon. Therefore they commanded the children of Beniamin, saying, Goe, and lye in waite in the vineyardes. And when ye see that the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catche you euery man a wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and goe into the land of Beniamin. And when their fathers or their brethren come vnto vs to complaine, we wil say vnto them, Haue pitie on them for our sakes, because we reserued not to eche man his wife in the warre, and because ye haue not giuen vnto them hitherto, ye haue sinned. And the children of Benjamin did so, and tooke wiues of them that danced according to their nomber: which they tooke, and went away, and returned to their inheritance, and repaired the cities and dwelt in them. So the children of Israel departed thence at that time, euery man to his tribe, and to his familie, and went out from thence euery man to his inheritance. In those dayes there was no King in Israel, but every man did that which was good in his eyes.
In the time that the Judges ruled, there was a dearth in the lande, and a man of Beth-lehem Iudah went for to soiourne in the countrey of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sonnes. And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife, Naomi: and the names of his two sonnes, Mahlon, and Chilion, Ephrathites of Beth-lehem Iudah: and when they came into the land of Moab, they continued there. Then Elimelech the husband of Naomi died, and she remayned with her two sonnes, Which tooke them wiues of the Moabites: the ones name was Orpah, and the name of ye other Ruth: and they dwelled there about ten yeeres. And Mahlon and Chilion dyed also both twaine: so the woman was left destitute of her two sonnes, and of her husband. Then she arose with her daughters in law, and returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had heard say in the countrey of Moab, that the Lord had visited his people, and giuen them bread. Wherefore shee departed out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her, and they went on their way to returne vnto the land of Iudah. Then Naomi saide vnto her two daughters in lawe, Goe, returne eche of you vnto her owne mothers house: the Lord shew fauour vnto you, as ye haue done with the dead, and with me. The Lord graunt you, that you may finde rest, either of you in the house of her husband. And when she kissed them, they lift vp their voice and wept. And they saide vnto her, Surely we will returne with thee vnto thy people. But Naomi saide, Turne againe, my daughters: for what cause will you go with me? are there any more sonnes in my wombe, that they may bee your husbands? Turne againe, my daughters: go your way: for I am too olde to haue an husband. If I should say, I haue hope, and if I had an husband this night: yea, if I had borne sonnes, Would yee tarie for them, till they were of age? would ye be deferred for them from taking of husbands?
nay my daughters: for it grieueth me much for your sakes that the hand of the Lord is gone out against me. Then they lift vp their voyce and wept againe, and Orpah kissed her mother in lawe, but Ruth abode still with her. And Naomi said, Beholde, thy sister in law is gone backe vnto her people and vnto her gods: returne thou after thy sister in lawe. And Ruth answered, Intreate mee not to leaue thee, nor to depart from thee: for whither thou goest, I will goe: and where thou dwellest, I will dwell: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried. the Lord do so to me and more also, if ought but death depart thee and me. Whe she saw that she was stedfastly minded to go with her, she left speaking vnto her. So they went both vntill they came to Beth-lehem: and when they were come to Beth-lehem, it was noysed of them through all the citie, and they said, Is not this Naomi? And she answered them, Call me not Naomi, but call me Mara: for the Almighty hath giuen me much bitternes. I went out full, and the Lord hath caused me to returne emptie: why call ye me Naomi, seeing the Lord hath humbled me, and the Almighty hath brought me vnto aduersitie? So Naomi returned and Ruth the Moabitte her daughter in law with her, when she came out of the countrey of Moab: and they came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of barly haruest.

Then Naomis husband had a kinsman, one of great power of the familie of Elimelech, and his name was Boaz. And Ruth ye Moabitte said vnto Naomi, I pray thee, Let mee goe to the fiedle, and gather eares of corne after him, in whose sight I finde fauour. And she said vnto her, Goe my daughter. And she went, and came and gleaned in the fiedle after the reapers, and it came to passe, that she met with the portion of the fiedle of Boaz, who was of the familie of Elimelech. And behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and saide vnto the reapers, The Lord be with you: and they answered him, The Lord blesse thee. Then saide Boaz vnto his seruant that was appointed ouer the reapers, Whose maide is this? And the seruant that was appointed ouer the reapers, answered, and said, It is the Moabitish maide, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab: And shee saide vnto vs, I pray you, let mee gleane and gather after the reapers among the sheaues: so shee came, and hath continued from that time in the morning unto now, save that she taried a little in the house. Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Hearest thou, my daughter? goe to none other field to gather, neither goe from hence: but abide here by my maydens. Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reape, and goe thou after the maidens. Haue I not charged the seruants, that they touche thee not? Moreouer whe thou art a thirst, go vnto ye vessels, and drinke of that which ye seruants haue drawen. Then shee fell on her face, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and said vnto him, How haue I found fauour in thine eyes, that thou shouldest know me, seeing I am a stranger? And Boaz answered, and said vnto her, All is told and shewed me that thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe, since the death of thine husband, and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and ye land where thou wast borne, and art come vnto a people which thou knewest not in time past. The Lord recompense thy worke, and a ful reward be giuen thee of the Lord God of Israel, vnder whose wings thou art come to trust. Then she said, Let me finde fauour in thy sight, my lord: for thou hast comforted mee, and spoken comfortably vnto thy mayde, though I be not like to one of thy maydes. And Boaz said vnto her, At the meale time come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dippe thy morsell in the vineger. And she sate beside the reapers, and hee reached her parched corne: and shee did eate, and was sufficed, and left thereof. And when she arose to gleane, Boaz commanded his seruants, saying, Let her gather among the sheaues, and doe not rebuke her. Also let fall some of the sheaues for her, and let it lie, that she may gather it vp, and rebuke her not. So she gleaned in the field vntill euening, and she thresshed that shee had gathered, and it was about an Ephah of barly. And she tooke it vp, and went into the citie, and her mother in law saw what she had gathered: Also she took forth, and gaue to her that which she had reserued, when she was sufficed. Then her mother in lawe saide vnto her, Where hast thou gleaned to day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, that knewe thee. And she shewed her mother in lawe, with whom she had wrought, and saide, The mans name, with whom I wrought to day, is Boaz. And Naomi said vnto her daughter in law, Blessed be he of the Lord: for he ceaseth not to doe good to the liuing and to the dead. Againe Naomi saide vnto her, The man is neere vnto vs, and of our affinitie.
And Ruth the Moabitesse said, He said also certainly vnto mee, Thou shalt be with my servaunts, vntill they haue ended all mine haruest.  And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her daughter in lawe, It is best, my daughter, that thou goe out with his maides, that they meete thee not in an other feld. Then she kept her by the maides of Boaz, to gather vnto the end of barly haruest, and of wheate haruest, and dwelt with her mother in lawe.

3   Afterward Naomi her mother in lawe said vnto her, My daughter, shall not I seeke rest for thee, that thou mayest prosper?

2   Now also is not Boaz our kinsman, with whose maides thou wast? beholde, he winoweth barly to night in the floore. Wash thy selfe therefore, and anoint thee, and put thy raiment vpon thee, and get thee downe to the floore: let not the man know of thee, vntill he haue left eating and drinking. And when he shall sleepe, marke the place where he layeth him downe, and go, and vncouer the place of his feete, and lay thee downe, and he shall tell thee what thou shalt doe. And she answered her, All that thou biddest me, I will doe. So she went downe vnto the floore, and did according to all that her mother in lawe bade her. And when Boaz had eaten, and drunken, and cheared his heart, he went to lie downe at the end of the heape of corne, and she came softly, and vncouered the place of his feete, and lay downe. And at midnight the man was afraide and caught holde: and loe, a woman lay at his feete. Then he sayd, Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmayd: spread therefore the wing of thy garment ouer thine handmayd: for thou art the kinsman.

Then sayd he, Blessed be thou of the Lord, my daughter: thou hast shewed more goodnes in the latter end, then at the beginning, in as much as thou followedst not yong men, were they poor or rich. And now, my daughter, feare not: I will doe to thee all that thou requirest: for all the citie of my people doeth knowe, that thou art a vertuous woman. And now, it is true that I am thy kinsman, howbeit there is a kinsman neerer then I. Tarie to night, and when morning is come, if he will doe the duetie of a kinsman vnto thee, well, let him doe the kinsmans duetie: but if he will not doe the kinsmans part, then wil I doe the duetie of a kinsman, as the Lord liueth: sleepe vntill the morning. And she lay at his feete vntill the morning: and she arose before one could know another: for he sayd, Let no man knowe, that a woman came into the floore. Also he sayd, Bring the sheete that thou hast vpon thee, and holde it. And when she helde it, he measured sixe measures of barly, and layde them on her, and she went into the citie. And when she came to her mother in law, she sayd, Who art thou, my daughter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her, And said, These sixe measures of barly gaue he me: for he sayd to me, Thou shalt not come emptie vnto thy mother in lawe. Then sayd she, My daughter, sit still, vntill thou knowe how the thing will fall: for the man wil not be in rest, vntill he hath finished the matter this same day.

Then went Boaz vp to the gate, and sate there, and beholde, the kinsman, of whome Boaz had spoken, came by: and he sayd, Ho, such one, come, sit downe here. And he turned, and sate downe. Then he tooke ten men of the Elders of the citie, and sayd, Sit ye downe here. And they sate downe. And he said vnsto ye kinsman, Naomi, that is come againe out of ye countrey of Moab, wil sell a parcel of land, which was our brother Eli-melechs. And I thought to aduertise thee, saying, Buy it before the assistants, and before the Elders of my people. If thou wilt redeeme it, redeeme it: but if thou wilt not redeeme it, tel me: for I know that there is none besides thee to redeeme it, and I am after thee. Then he answered, I wil redeeme it. Then said Boaz, What day thou buyest the field of the hand of Naomi, thou mnst also buy it of Ruth the Moabitesse the wife of the dead, to stirre vp the name of the dead, vpon his inheritance. And the kinsman answered, I can not redeeme it, lest I destroy mine owne inheritance: redeeme my right to thee, for I can not redeeme it. Now this was the maner beforetime in Israel, concerning redeem-ing and changing, for to stablish all things: a man did pluckle off his shooe, and gaue it his neighbour, and this was a sure witnes in Israel. Therefore the kinsman sayd to Boas, Buy it for thee: and he drew off his shooe. And Boaz sayd vnsto the Elders and vnsto all the people, Ye are witnesse this day, that I haue bought all that was Elimelechs, and all that was Chilions and Mahlons, of the hand of Naomi. And moreouer, Ruth the Moabitesse the wife of Mahlon, haue I bought to be my wife, to stirre vp the name of the dead vpon his inheritance, and that the name of the dead be not put out from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this day. And all the people that were in the gate, and the Elders sayd, We are witnesses: the Lord make the wife that commeth into thine house, like Rahel and like Leah, which twaine did build the house of Israel: and that thou mayest doe worthily in Ephrathah, and be famous in Beth-lehem. And that thine house be like the house of Pharez ( whom Thamar bare vnto Iudah) of the seede which the Lord shall giue thee of this yong woman. So Boaz tooke Ruth, and she was his wife: and when he went in vnto her, the Lord gaue that she conceiued, and bare a sonne. And the women sayd vnto Naomi, Blessed be the Lord, which hath not left thee this day without a kinsman, and his name shalbe continued in Israel.

And this shall bring thy life againe, and cherish thine olde age:

for thy daughter in lawe which loueth thee, hath borne vnto him, and she is better to thee then seuen sonnes. And Naomi tooke the childe, and layde it in her lap, and became nource vnto it.

And the women her neighbours gaue it a name, saying, There is a childe borne to Naomi, and called the name thereof Obed:

the same was the father of Ishai, the father of Dauid. These now are ye generations of Pharez: Pharez begate Hezron, And Hezron begate Ram, and Ram begate Amminadab, And Am-minadab begate Nahshon, and Nahshon begate Salmah, And Salmon begate Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed, And Obed begate Ishai, and Ishai begate Dauid.

There was a man of one of the two Ramathaim Zophim, 1 of mount Ephraim, whose name was Elkanah the sonne of Ieroham, the sonne of Elihu, the sonne of Tohu, the sonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: And he had two wiues: 2 the name of one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. And this man went vp out of his citie euery yeere, to worship 3 and to sacrifice vnnto the Lord of hostes in Shiloh, where were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas Priests of the Lord. And on a day, when Elkanah sacrificed, he gaue to Peninnah his wife and to all her sonnes and daughters portions, But vnnto 5 Hannah he gaue a worthy portion: for he loued Hannah, and the Lord had made her barren. And her aduersarie vexed her sore, forasmuch as she vpbraided her, because the Lord had made her barren. (And so did he yeere by yeere) and as oft as she went vp to the house of the Lord, thus she vexed her, that she wept and did not eate. Then sayd Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, 8 why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thine heart troubled? am not I better to thee then ten sonnes? So Hannah rose vp after that they had eaten and drunke in Shiloh (and Eli the Priest sate vpon a stoole by one of the postes of the Temple of the Lord) And she was troubled in her minde, and prayed vnto the Lord, and wept sore: Also she vowed a vowe, and sayd, O Lord of hostes, if thou wilt looke on the trouble of thine handmaide, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaide, but giue vnto thine handmaide a manchilde, then I will giue him vnto the Lord all the dayes of his life, and there shall no rasor come vpon his head. And as she continued praying before the Lord, Eli marked her mouth. For Hannah spake in her heart: her lips did moue onely, but her voyce was not heard:
therefore Eli thought she had bene drunken. And Eli sayde vnto her, Howe long wilt thou be drunken? Put away thy drunken-ness from thee. Then Hannah answered and sayd, Nay my lord, but I am a woman troubled in spirit: I haue drunke neither wine nor strong drinke, but haue powred out my soule before the Lord. Count not thine handmaide for a wicked woman: for of the abundance of my complaint and my griefe haue I spoken hitherto. Then Eli answered, and sayd, Go in peace, and the God of Israel graunt thy petition that thou hast asked of him. She sayd againe, Let thine handmayd finde grace in thy sight: so the woman went her way, and did eate, and looked no more sad. Then they rose vp early, and worshipped before the Lord, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah. Nowe Elkanah knewe Hannah his wife, and the Lord remembred her. For in processe of time Hannah conceiued, and bare a sonne, and she called his name Samuel, Because, said she, I haue asked him of the Lord. So the man Elkanah and all his house went vp to offer vnnto the Lord the yeerely sacrifice, and his vowe: But Hannah went not vp: for she sayd vnnto her husband, I will tarie vntill the childe be weined, then I will bring him that hee may appeare before the Lord, and there abide for euer. And Elkanah her husband sayd vnnto her, Do what seemeth thee best: tarie vntill thou hast weined him: only the Lord accomplish his word. So the woman abode, and gaue her sonne sucke vntill she weined him. And when she had weined him, she tooke him with her with three bullockes and an Ephah of floure and a bottell of wine, and brought him vnnto the house of the Lord in Shiloh, and the childe was yong. And they slewe a bullocke, and brought the childe to Eli. And she said, Oh my Lord, as thy soule liueth, my lord, I am the woman that stoode with thee here praying vnnto the Lord. I prayed for this childe, and the Lord hath giuen me my desire which I asked of him. Therefore also I haue giuen him vnnto the Lord: as long as he liueth hee shalbe giuen vnnto the Lord: and he worshipped the Lord there.

And Hannah prayed, and said, Mine heart reioyceth in the Lord, mine horne is exalted in the Lord: my mouth is enlarged ouer mine enemies, because I reioyce in thy saluation. There is none holy as the Lord: yea, there is none besides thee, and there is no god like our God. Speake no more presumptuously:
let not arrogancie come out of your mouth: for the Lord is a God of knowledge, and by him enterprises are established. The bow and the mightie men are broken, and the weake haue girded themselves with strength. They that were full, are hired foorth for bread, and the hungrie are no more hired, so that the bar-ren hath borne seuen: and shee that had many children, is feeble. The Lord killeth and maketh aliue: bringeth downe to the graue and raiseth vp. The Lord maketh poore and maketh rich: bringeth lowe, and exalteth. He raiseth vp ye poore out of the dust, and lifteth vp the begger from the dunghill, to set them among princes, and to make them inherit the seate of glory: for the pillars of the earth are the Lordes, and he hath set the world vpon them. Hee will keepe the feete of his Saintes, and the wicked shall keepe silence in darkenes: for in his owne might shall no man be strong. The Lordes aduersaries shall be destroyed, and out of heauen shall he thunder vpon them: the Lord shall judge the ends of the worlde, and shall giue power vnto his King, and exalt the horne of his Anoynted. And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house, and the childe did minister vnto the Lord before Eli the Priest. Now the sonnes of Eli were wicked men, and knewe not the Lord. For the Priestes custome towarde the people was this: when any man offered sacrifice, the Priestes boy came, while the flesh was seething, and a fleshhooke with three teeth, in his hand, And thrust it into the kettle, or into the caldron, or into the panne, or into the potte: all that the fleshhooke brought vp, the Priest tooke for himselfe: thus they did vnto all the Israelites, that came thither to Shiloh. Yea, before they burnt the fat, the priestes boy came and saide to the man that offered, Giue me flesh to rost for the priest: for he wil not haue sodden flesh of thee, but rawe. And if any man saide vnto him, Let them burne the fatte according to the custome, then take as much as thine heart desireth: then hee would an-swere, No, but thou shalt giue it nowe: and if thou wilt not, I will take it by force. Therefore the sinne of the yong men was very great before the Lord: for men abhorred the offering of the Lord. Now Samuel being a yong childe ministred before the Lord, girded with a linen Ephod. And his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from yeere to yeere, when she came vp with her husband, to offer the yerely sacrifice. And Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The Lord giue thee seede of this woman, for the petition that she asked of the Lord: and they departed vnto their place. And the Lord visited Hannah, so that she conceiued, and bare three sonnes, and two daughters. And the childe Samuel grewe before the Lord. So Eli was very olde, and heard all that his sonnes did vnto all Israel, and howe they laye with the women that assembled at the doore of the tabernacle of the Congregation. And hee saide vnto them, Why doe ye such things? for of all this people I heare euill reportes of you. Do no more, my sonnes, for it is no good report that I heare, which is, that ye make the Lords people to trespasse. If one man sinne against another, the Iudge shall judge it: but if a man sinne against the Lord, who will pleade for him? Notwithstanding they obeyed not the voyce of their father, because the Lord would slay them. (Nowe the childe Samuel profited and grewe, and was in fauour both with the Lord and also with men) And there came a man of God vnto Eli, and said vnto him, Thus saith the Lord, Did not I plainly appeare vnto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaohs house? And I chose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my Priest, to offer vpon mine altar, and to burne incense, and to weare an Ephod before me, and I gaue vnto the house of thy father all the offrings made by fire of the children of Israel. Wherefore haue you kicked against my sacrifice and mine offering, which I commanded in my Tabernacle, and honourest thy children aboue mee, to make your selues fatte of the first fruites of all the offerings of Israel my people? Wherefore the Lord God of Israel saith, I saide, that thine house and the house of thy father should walke before mee for euer: but nowe the Lord saith, It shall not be so: for them that honour me, I will honour, and they that despise me, shall be despised. Beholde, the dayes come, that I will cut off thine arme, and the arme of thy fathers house, that there shall not be an olde man in thine house. And thou shalt see thine enemie in the habitation of the Lord in all things wherewith God shall blesse Israel, and there shall not be an olde man in thine house for euer. Neuertheless, I will not destroy euer one of thine from mine altar, to make thine eyes to faile, and to make thine heart sorowfull: and all ye multitude of thine house shall die when they be men. And this shalbe a signe vnto thee, that shall come vpon thy two sonnes Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they shall die both. And I will stirre me vp a faithfull Priest, that shall do according to mine heart and according to my minde: and I wil build him a sure house, and he shall walke before mine Anointed for euer. And all that are left in thine house, shall come and bowe downe to him for a piece of siluer and a morsell of bread, and shall say, Appoint me, I pray thee, to one of the priestes offices, that I may eate a morsell of bread.

Nowe the childe Samuel ministred vnto the Lord before Eli: and the word of the Lord was precious in those dayes: for there was no manifest vision. And at that time, as Eli lay in his place, his eyes began to waxe dimme that he could not see. And yet the light of God went out, Samuel slept in the temple of the Lord, where the Arke of God was. Then the Lord called Samuel: and hee said, Here I am. And he ranne vnto Eli, and said, Here am I, for thou calledst me. But he said, I called thee not: goe againe and sleepe. And he went and slept. And the Lord called once againe, Samuel. And Samuel arose, and went to Eli, and said, I am here: for thou diddest call me. And he answered, I called thee not, my sonne: go againe and sleepe. Thus did Samuel, before hee knewe the Lord, and before the word of the Lord was reueiled vnto him. And the Lord called Samuel againe the thirde time: and he arose, and went to Eli, and said, I am here: for thou hast called me. Then Eli perceiued that the Lord had called the childe. Therefore Eli saide vnto Samuel, Goe and sleepe: and if he call thee, then say, Speake Lord, for thy seruant heareth. So Samuel went, and slept in his place. And the Lord came, and stoode, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered, Speake, for thy seruant heareth. Then the Lord said to Samuel, Beholde, I wil doe a thing in Israel, whereof whosoeuer shall heare, his two eares shall tingle. In that day I will raise vp against Eli all things which I haue spoken concerning his house: when I begin, I will also make an ende. And I haue tolde him that I will iudge his house for euer, for the iniquitie which hee knoweth, because his sonnes ranne into a slaunder, and he stayed them not. Nowe therefore I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, that the wickednes of Elis house, shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offring for euer. Afterward Samuel slept vntil the morning, and opened the doores of the house of the Lord, and Samuel feared to shewe Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel my sonne. And he answered, Here I am. Then he said, What is it, that the Lord said vnto thee? I pray thee, hide it not from mee. God doe so to thee, and more also, if thou hide any thing from me, of all that he said vnto thee. So Samuel tolde him every whit, and hid nothing from him. Then hee said, It is the Lord: let him do what seemeth him good. And Samuel grew, and the Lord was with him, and let none of his words fall to the ground. And all Israel from Dan to Beer-sheba knew that faithfull Samuel was the Lordes Prophet.
And the Lord appeared againe in Shiloh: for the Lord reueiled himselfe to Samuel in Shiloh by his word.

And Samuel spake vnsto all Israel: and Israel went out against the Philistims to battel and pitched beside Eben-ezer: and the Philistims pitched in Aphek. And the Philistims put themselves in aray against Israel: and when they ioyned the battell, Israel was smitten downe before the Philistims: who slewe of the armie in the fielde about foure thousand men. So when the people were come into the campe, the Elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the Lord smitten vs this day before ye Philistims? let vs bring the Arke of the couenant of the Lord out of Shiloh vnsto vs, that when it commeth among vs, it may saue vs out of the hande of our enemies. Then the people sent to Shiloh, and brought from thence the Arke of the couenant of the Lord of hostes, who dwelleth betweene the Cherubims: and there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni, and Phinehas, with the Arke of the couenant of God. And when the Arke of the couenant of the Lord came into the hoste, all Israel shouted a mightie shoute, so that the earth rang againe. And when the Philistims heard the noyse of the shoute, they said, What meaneth the sound of this mightie shoute in the host of the Ebrewes? and they vnderstoode, that the Arke of the Lord was come into the hoste.
And the Philistims were afraide, and saide, God is come into the hoste: therefore saide they, Wo vnsto vs: for it hath not bene so heretofore. Wo vnsto vs, who shall deliuer vs out of the hande of these mightie Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wildernes. Be strong and play the men, O Philistims, that ye be not seruants vnsto the Ebrewes, as they haue serued you: be valiant therefore, and fight. And the Philistims fought, and Israel was smitten downe, and fled every man into his tent: and there was an exceeding great slaughter: for there fell of Israel thirtie thousand footemen. And the Arke of God was taken, and the two sonnes of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas died. And there ranne a man of Beniamin out of the armie, and came to Shiloh the same day with his clothes rent, and earth vpon his head. And when hee came, loe, Eli sate vpon a seate by the wayside, wayting: for his heart feared for the Arke of God and when the man came into the citie to tell it, all the citie cried out. And when Eli heard the noyse of the crying, he sayd, What meaneth this noyse of the tumult? and the man came in hastily, and tolde Eli. (Nowe Eli was fourescore and eightene yeere olde, and his eyes were dimme that hee could not see) And the man sayd vnto Eli, I came from the armie, and I fled this day out of the hoste: and he sayd, What thing is done, my sonne? Then the messenger answered and sayd, Israel is fled before the Philistims, and there hath bene also a great slaughter among the people: and moreover thy two sonnes, Hophni and Phinehas are dead, and the Arke of God is taken. And when he had made mention of the Arke of God, Eli fell from his seate backward by the side of the gate, and his necke was broken, and he dyed: for he was an olde man and heauie: and he had iudged Israel fourtie yeeres. And his daughter in lawe Phinehas wife was with childe neere her trauell: and when she heard the report that the Arke of God was taken, and that her father in lawe and her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, and trauailed: for her pains came vpon her. And about the time of her death, the women that stoode about her, sayd vnto her, Feare not: for thou hast borne a sonne: but she answered not, nor regarded it. And she named the childe Ichabod, saying, The glory is departed from Israel, because the Arke of God was taken, and because of her father in lawe and her husband. She sayde againe, The glory is departed from Israel: for the Arke of God is taken.

Then the Philistims tooke the Arke of God and caried it from Eben-ezer vnto Ashdod, Euen the Philistims tooke ye Arke of God, and brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon. And when they of Ashdod rose the next day in the morning, beholde, Dagon was fallen vpon his face on the ground before the Arke of the Lord, and they tooke vp Dagon, and set him in his place againe. Also they rose vp earely in the morning the next day, and beholde, Dagon was fallen vpon his face on the ground before the Arke of the Lord, and the head of Dagon and the two palmes of his hands were cut off vpon the thresholde: onely the stumpe of Dagon was left to him. Therefore the Priests of Dagon, and all that come into Dagones house tread not on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod, vnto this day. But the hand of the Lord was heauie vpon them of Ashdod, and destroyed them, and smote them with the emerods, both Ashdod, and the coastes thereof. And when the men of Ashdod sawe this, they sayd, Let not the Arke of the God of Israel abide with vs: for his hand is sore vpon vs and vpon Dagon our god. They sent therefore and gathered all the princes of the Philistims vnto them, and sayde, What shall we doe with the Arke of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the Arke of the God of Israel be caried about vnto Gath: and they caried the Arke of the God of Israel about. And when they had caried it about, the hand of the Lord was against the citie with a very great destruction, and he smote the men of the citie both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret partes. Therefore they sent the Arke of God to Ekron: and assoone as the Arke of God came to Ekron, the Ekronites cryed out, saying, They haue brought the Arke of the God of Israel to vs to slay vs and our people. Therefore they sent, and gathered together all the princes of the Philistims and sayd, Sende away the Arke of the God of Israel, and let it returne to his owne place, that it slay vs not and our people: for there was a destruction and death throughout all the citie, and the hand of God was very sore there. And the men that dyed not, were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the citie went vp to heauen.

So the Arke of the Lord was in the countrey of the Philistims seuen moneths. And the Philistims called the priests and the soothsayers, saying, What shall we doe with the Arke of the Lord? tell vs wherewith we shall send it home againe. And they sayd, If you send away the Arke of the God of Israel, send it not away emptie, but giue vnto it a sinne offering: then shall ye be healed, and it shall be knowen to you, why his hand departeth not from you. Then sayd they, What shalbe the sinne offring, which we shall give unto it? And they answered, Five golden emerods and five golden mise, according to the number of the princes of the Philistims: for one plague was on you all, and on your princes. Wherefore ye shall make the similitudes of your emerods, and the similitudes of your mise that destroy the land: so ye shall give glory unto the God of Israel, that he may take his hand from you, and from your gods, and from your land. Wherefore then should ye harden your hearts, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he wrought wonderfully among them, did they not let them goe, and they departed? Now therefore make a new cart, and take two milch kine, on whome there hath come no yoke: and tie the kine to the cart, and bring the calues home from them. Then take the Arke of the Lord, and set it vpon the cart, and put the jewels of gold which ye give it for a sinne offering in a coffer by the side thereof, and send it away, that it may go. And take heede, if it goe vp by the way of his owne coast to Beth-shemesh, it is he that did vs this great euill: but if not, we shall know then, that it is not his hand that smote vs, but it was a chance that happened vs. And the men did so: for they tooke two kine that gave milke, and tied them to the cart, and shut the calues at home. So they set the Arke of the Lord vpon the cart, and the coffer with the mise of golde, and with the similitudes of their emerods. And the kine went the streight way to Beth-shemesh, and kept one path and lowed as they went, and turned neither to the right hand nor to the left: also the Princes of the Philistims went after them, vnto the borders of Beth-shemesh. Nowe they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheate harvest in the valley, and they lift vp their eyes, and spied the Arke, and rejoiced when they sawe it. And the cart came into the fielde of Ioshua a Beth-shemite, and stood still there. There was also a great stone, and they claue the wood of the cart, and offered the kine for a burnt offering vnto the Lord. And the Leuites tooke downe the Arke of the Lord, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of golde were, and put them on the great stone, and the men of Beth-shemesh offred burnt offering, and sacrificed sacrifices that same day vnto the Lord. And when the fiue Princes of ye Philistims had seene it, they returned to Ekron the same day. So these are the golden emerods, which the Philistims gaue for a sinne offering to the Lord: for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, and for Ekron one. And golden mise, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistims, belonging to the fiue princes, both of walled townes, and of townes vnwalled, vnto the great stone of Abel, whereon they set the Arke of the Lord: which stone remaineth vnto this day in the fielde of Ioshua the Beth-shemite. And hee smote of the men of Beth-shemesh, because they had looked in the Arke of the Lord: he slew euen among the people fiftie thousand men and three score and ten men. and the people lamented, because the Lord had slaine the people with so great a slaughter. Wherefore the men of Beth-shemesh said, Who is able to stand before this holy Lord God? and to whom shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the inhabitans of Kiriath-iearim, saying, The Philistims haue brought agayne the Arke of the Lord: come ye downe and take it vp to you.

Then the men of Kiriath-iearim came, and tooke vp the Arke of the Lord, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in the hill: and they sanctified Eleazar his sonne, to keepe the Arke of the Lord. (For while the Arke abode in Kiriath-iearim, the time was long, for it was twentie yeeres) and al the house of Israell lamented after ye Lord. Then Samuel spake vnto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye be come againe vnto the Lord with all your heart, put away the strange gods from among you, and Ashtaroth, and direct your hearts vnto the Lord, and serue him only, and he shall deliuer you out of the hand of ye Philistims. Then the children of Israel did put away Baalim and Ashtaroth, and serued the Lord onely. And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you vnto the Lord. And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drewe water and powred it out before the Lord, and fasted the same day, and sayd there, We haue sinned against the Lord. And Samuel iudged the children of Israel in Mizpeh. When the Philistims heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the princes of the Philistims went vp against Israel: and when the children of Israel heard that, they were afraide of the Philistims. And the children of Israel sayd to Samuel, Cease not to crie vnto the Lord our God for vs, that hee may saue vs out of the hand of the Philistims. Then Samuel tooke a sucking lambe, and offered it all together for a burnt offering unto the Lord, and Samuel cried unto the Lord for Israel, and the Lord heard him. And as Samuel offered the burnt offering, the Philistims came to fight against Israel: but the Lord thundred with a great thunder that day upon the Philistims, and scattered them: so they were slain before Israel. And the men of Israel went from Mizpeh and pursued the Philistims, and smote them vntill they came vnder Beth-car. Then Samuel tooke a stone and pitched it betweene Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name thereof, Eben-ezer, and he sayd, Hitherto hath the Lord holpen vs. So the Philistims were brought vnder, and they came no more againe into the coasts of Israel: and the hand of the Lord was against the Philistims all the dayes of Samuel. Also the cities which the Philistims had taken from Israel, were restored to Israel, from Ekron euen to Gath: and Israel deliuered the coasts of the same out of the hands of the Philistims: and there was peace betweene Israel and the Amorites. And Samuel iudged Israel all the dayes of his life, And went about yeere by yere to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and iudged Israel in all those places. Afterward hee returned to Ramah: for there was his house, and there he iudged Israel: also he built an altar there vnto the Lord.

When Samuel was nowe become olde, he made his sonnes Iudges ouer Israel. (And the name of his eldest sonne was Ioel, and the name of the second Abiah) euen Iudges in Beer-sheba. And his sonnes walked not in his wayes, but turned aside after lucre, and tooke rewards, and peruerted the iudgement. Wherefore all the Elders of Israel gathered them together, and came to Samuel vnto Ramah, And said vnto him, Beholde, thou art olde, and thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes: make vs nowe a King to iudge vs like all nations. But the thing displeased Samuel, when they said, Giue vs a King to iudge vs: and Samuel prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord said vnto Samuel, Heare the voyce of the people in all that they shall say vnto thee: for they haue not cast thee away, but they haue cast me away, that I should not reigne ouer the. As they haue euer done since I brought them out of Egypt euen vnto this day, (and haue forsaken me, and served other gods) euen so doe they vnto thee. Nowe therefore hearken vnto their voyce: howbeit yet testifie vnto them, and shewe them the maner of ye King that shall reigne ouer them.
So Samuel told all the wordes of the Lord vnto the people that asked a King of him. And he saide, This shall be the maner of the King that shall reigne ouer you: he will take your sonnes, and appoint them to his charets, and to be his horsemen, and some shall runne before his charet. Also he will make them his captains ouer thousands, and captaines ouer fifties, and to eare his ground, and to reape his harvest, and to make instruments of warre, and the things that serve for his charets. He will also take your daughters and make them apoticaries, and cookes, and bakers. And he will take your fieldes, and your vineyardes, and your best Oliue trees, and giue them to his seruants. And he will take the tenth of your seede, and of your vineyards, and giue it to his Eunuches, and to his seruants. And he will take your men seruants, and your maide seruants, and the chiefe of your yong men, and your asses, and put them to his worke. He will take the tenth of your sheepe, and ye shall be his seruants. And ye shall crie out at that day, because of your King, whom ye haue chosen you, and the Lord will not heare you at that day. But the people would not heare the voyce of Samuel, but did say, Nay, but there shall be a King ouer vs. And we also will be like all other nations, and our King shall iudge vs, and goe out before vs, and fight our battels. Therefore when Samuel heard all ye wordes of ye people, he rehearsed the in ye eares of ye Lord. And the Lord saide to Samuel, Hearken vnto their voyce, and make them a King. And Samuel said vnto the men of Israel, Goe every man vnto his citie.

There was nowe a man of Beniamin, mightie in power named Kish, the sonne of Abiel, the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of Bechor-ath, the sonne of Aphiah, the sonne of a man of Iemini. And he had a sonne called Saul, a goodly yong man and a faire: so that among the children of Israel there was none goodlier then he: from the shoulders vpwarde he was hier then any of the people. And the asses of Kish Sauls father were lost: therefore Kish said to Saul his sonne, Take nowe one of the seruants with thee, and arise, goe, and seeke the asses. So he passed through mount Ephraim, and went through the lande of Shalishah, but they found them not. Then they went through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: he went also through ye land of Iemini, but they found the not. When they came to the lande of Zuph, Saul saide vnto his seruant that was with him, Come and let vs returne, lest my father leaue the care of asses, and take thought for vs. And he said vnto him, Behold nowe, in this citie is a man of God, and he is an honorable man: all that he saith commeth to passe: let vs nowe goe thither, if so be that he can shewe vs what way we may goe. Then saide Saul to his seruant, Well then, let vs goe: but what shall we bring vnto the man? For the bread is spent in our vessels, and there is no present to bring to the man of God: what haue we? And the seruant answered Saul againe, and said, Beholde, I haue founde about me the fourth part of a shekell of siluer: that will I giue the man of God, to tell vs our way. (Beforetime in Israel when a man went to seeke an answere of God, thus he spake, Come, and let vs goe to the Seer: for he that is called nowe a Prophet, was in the olde time called a Seer) Then saide Saul to his seruant, Well saide, come, let vs goe: so they went into the citie where the man of God was. And as they were going vp the hie way to the citie, they found maydes that came out to draw water, and said vnto them, Is there here a Seer? And they answered them, and said, Yea: loe, he is before you: make haste nowe, for he came this day to the citie: for there is an offering of the people this day in the hie place. When ye shall come into the citie, ye shall finde him straightway yet he come vp to the hie place to eate: for the people will not eate vntill he come, because he will blesse the sacrifice: and then eate they that be bidden to the feast: nowe therefore goe vp: for euen now shall ye find him. Then they went vp into the citie, and when they were come into the middes of the citie, Samuel came out against them, to goe vp to the hie place. But the Lord had reuiled to Samuel secretly (a day before Saul came) saying, To morow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Beniamin: him shalt thou anoint to be gouernour ouer my people Israel, that he may saue my people out of the hands of the Philistims: for I haue looked vpon my people, and their crie is come vnto me. When Samuel therefore sawe Saul, the Lord answered him, See, this is the man whom I spake to thee of, he shall rule my people. Then went Saul to Samuel in the middes of the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the Seers house is. And Samuel answered Saul, and saide, I am the Seer: goe vp before me vnto the hie place: for ye shall eate with me to day. and to morowe I will let thee goe, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart. And as for thine asses that were lost three dayes ago, care not for them: for they are founde. and on whom is set all the desire of Israel? is it not vpon thee and on all thy fathers house? But Saul answered, and said, Am not I the sonne of Iemini of the smallest tribe of Israel? and my familie is the least of all the families of the tribe of Beniamin. Wherefore then speakest thou so to me? And Samuel tooke Saul and his seruant, and brought them into the chamber, and made them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden: which were about thirtie persons. And Samuel saide vnto the cooke, Bring forth the portion which I gaue thee, and whereof I said vnto thee, Keepe it with thee. And the cooke tooke vp the shoul-der, and that which was vpon it, and set it before Saul. And Samuel said, Beholde, that which is left, set it before thee and eate: for hitherto hath it bene kept for thee, saying, Also I haue called the people. So Saul did eate with Samuel that day. And when they were come downe from the hie place into the citie, he communed with Saul vpon the top of the house. And when they arose early about ye spring of the day, Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Vp, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose, and they went out, both he, and Samuel. And when they were come downe to the ende of the citie, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the seruant goe before vs, (and he went) but stand thou still nowe, that I may shewe thee the worde of God.

Then Samuel tooke a viole of oyle and powred it vpon his head, and kissed him, and saide, Hath not the Lord anointed thee to be gouernour ouer his inheritance? When thou shalt depart from me this day, thou shalt finde two men by Rahels sepulchre in the border of Beniamin, euen at Zelzah, and they will say vnto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seeke, are founde: and lo, thy father hath left the care of the asses, and soroweth for you, saying, What shall I doe for my sonne? Then shalt thou go forth from thence and shalt come to the plaine of Tabor, and there shall meete thee three men going vp to God to Bethel: one carying three kiddes, and an other carying three loaues of bread, and another carying a bottle of wine: And they will aske thee if all be well, and will gie thee the two loaues of bread, which thou shalt receiue of their handes. After that shalt thou come to the hill of God, where is the garisons of the Philistims: and when thou art come thither to the citie, thou shalt meete a companie of Prophets comming downe from the hie place with a viole, and a tymbrell, and a pipe, and an harpe before them, and they shall prophecie. Then the Spirit of the Lord will come vpon thee, and thou shalt prophecie with them, and shalt be turned into another man. Therefore when these signes shall come vnto to thee, doe as occasion shall serue: for God is with thee. And thou shalt goe downe before me to Gilgal: and I also will come downe vnfo the thee to offer burnt offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace. Tary for me seuen dayes, till I come to thee and shewe thee what thou shalt doe. And when he had turned his backe to goe from Samuel, God gaue him another heart: and all those tokens came to passe that same day. And when they came thither to the hill, beholde, the companie of Prophets meeete him, and the Spirit of God came vpon him, and he propheced among them. Therefore all the people that knewe him before, when they saw that he propheced among the Prophets, saide eche to other, What is come vnto the sonne of Kish? is Saul also among the Prophets? And one of the same place answered, and said, But who is their father? Therefore it was a prouerbe, Is Saul also among the Prophets? And when he had made an ende of prophecying, he came to the hie place. And Sauls vncle saide vnfo him, and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he saide, To seeke the asses: and when we sawe that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle saide, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said vnfo you. Then Saul saide to his vncle, He tolde vs plainely that the asses were founde: but concerning the kingdome whereof Samuel spake, tolde he him not. And Samuel assembled the people vnfo the Lord in Mizpeh, And he saide vnfo the children of Israel, Thus saith ye Lord God of Israel, I haue brought Israel out of Egypt, and deliuered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the handes of all kingdomes that troubled you. But ye haue this day cast away your God, who onely deliuereth you out of all your aduersities and tribulations: and ye said vnfo him, No, but appoint a King ouer vs. Nowe therefore stand ye before the Lord according to your tribes, and according to your thousands. And when Samuel had gathered together all the tribes of Israel, the tribe of Beniamin was taken. Afterwarde he assembled the tribe of Beniamin according to their families, and the familie of Matri was taken. So Saul the sonne of Kish was taken, and when they sought him, he coulde not be found. Therefore they asked the Lord againe, if that man should yet come thither. And the Lord answered, Beholde, he hath hid himselfe among the stuffe. And they ranne, and brought him thence: and when he stoode among the people, he was hier then any of the people from the shoulders vpwarde. And Samuel saide to all the people, See ye not him, whom the Lord hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? and all the people shouted and saide, God saue the King. Then Samuel tolde the people the dutie of the kingdome, and wrote it in a booke, and laied it vp before the Lord, and Samuel sent all the people away euery man to his house. Saul also went home to Gibeah, and there followed him a bande of men, whose heart God had touched, But the wicked men saide, Howe shall he saue vs? So they despised him, and brought him no presents: but he held his tongue.

Then Nahash the Ammonite came vp, and besieged Iabesh Gilead: and all the men of Iabesh saide vnto Nahash, Make a couenant with vs, and we will be thy servants. And Nahash ye Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a couenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eies, and bring that shame vpon all Israel. To whome the Elders of Iabesh said, Giue vs seuen daies respet, that we may sende messengers vnto all the coastes of Israel: and then if no man deliuer vs, we will come out to thee. Then came the messengers to Gibeah of Saul, and tolde these tidings in the eares of the people: and all the people lift vp their voices and wept. And behold, Saul came following the cattell out of the fielde, and Saul saide, What aileth this people, that they weepe? And they tolde him the tidings of the men of Iabesh. Then the Spirit of God came vpon Saul, when he heard those tidings, and he was exceeding angrie, And tooke a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coastes of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, Whosoeuer commeth not foorth after Saul, and after Samuel, so shall his oxen be serued. And the feare of the Lord fell on the people, and they came out with one consent. And when he nombred them in Bezek, the children of Israel were three hundred thousand men: and the men of Judah thirtie thousand. Then they said vnto the messengers that came, So say vnto the men of Iabesh Gilead, To morowe by then the sunne be hote, ye shall haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed it to the men of Iabesh, which were glad. Therefore the men of Iabesh sayde, To morowe we will come out vnto you, and yee shall doe with vs all that pleaseth you. And when the morowe was come, Saul put the people in three bandes, and they came in vpon the hoste in the morning watche, and slewe the Ammonites vntill the heate of the day: and they that remained, were scattered, so that two of them were not left together. Then the people said vnto Samuel, Who is he that saide, Shall Saul reigne ouer vs? bring those men that we may slaie them. But Saul said, There shall no man die this day: for to day the Lord hath saued Israel. Then said Samuel vnto ye people, Come, that we may goe to Gilgal, and renue the kingdome there. So all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul King there before the Lord in Gilgal: and there they offered peace offerings before the Lord: and there Saul and all the men of Israel reioyced exceedingly.

Samuel then said vnto all Israel, Behold, I haue hearkened vnto your voyce in all that yee sayde vnto mee, and haue appointed a King ouer you. Now therefore behold, your King walketh before you, and I am old and graie headed, and beholde, my sonnes are with you: and I haue walked before you from my childhood vnto this day. Beholde, here I am: beare recorde of me before the Lord and before his Anointed. Whose oxe haue I taken? or whose asse haue I taken? or whome haue I done wrong to? or whome haue I hurt? or of whose hande haue I receiued any bribe, to blinde mine eyes therewith, and I will restore it you? Then they sayde, Thou hast done vs no wrong, nor hast hurt vs, neither hast thou taken ought of any mans hand. And he saide vnto them, The Lord is witnesse against you, and his Anointed is witnesse this day, that yee haue founde nought in mine handes. And they answered, He is witnesse. Then Samuel sayde vnto the people, It is the Lord that made Moses and Aaron, and that brought your fathers out of the land of Egypt. Nowe therefore stand still, that I may reason with you before the Lord according to all the righteousnesse of the Lord, which he shewed to you and to your fathers. After that Iaakob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cried unto the Lord, then the Lord sent Moses and Aaron which brought your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place. And when they forgat the Lord their God, he solde them into the hand of Sisera capitaine of the hoste of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistims, and into the hande of the king of Moab, and they fought against them. And they cried unto the Lord, and saide, We haue sinned, because we haue forsaken the Lord, and haue serued Baalim and Ashtaroth. Nowe therefore deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemies, and we will serue thee. Therefore the Lord sent Ierubbaal and Bedan and Iphtaph, and Samuel, and deliuered you out of the handes of your enemies on euery side, and yee dwelled safe. Notwithstanding when you sawe, that Nahash the King of the children of Ammon came against you, ye sayde vnto me, No, but a King shall reigne ouer vs: when yet the Lord your God was your King. Nowe therefore beholde the King whome yee haue chosen, and whome yee haue desired: loe therefore, the Lord hath set a King ouer you. If ye wil feare the Lord and serue him, and heare his voyce, and not disobey the worde of the Lord, both yee, and the King that reigneth ouer you, shall follow the Lord your God. But if yee will not obey the voyce of the Lord, but disobey the Lordes mouth, then shall the hand of the Lord be vpon you, and on your fathers. Nowe also stande and see this great thing which the Lord will doe before your eyes. Is it not nowe wheat haruest? I wil call vnto the Lord, and he shall send thunder and raine, that yee may perceiue and see, howe that your wickednesse is great, which ye haue done in the sight of the Lord in asking you a King. Then Samuel called vnto the Lord, and the Lord sent thunder and raine the same day: and all the people feared the Lord and Samuel exceedingly. And all the people said vnto Samuel, Pray for thy seruaunts vnto the Lord thy God, that we die not: for we haue sinned in asking vs a King, beside all our other sinnes. And Samuel said vnto the people, Feare not. (ye haue indeede done all this wickednesse, yet depart not from following the Lord, but serue the Lord with all your heart, Neither turne yee backe: for that shoulde be after vaine things which cannot profite you, nor deliuer you, for they are but vanitie) For the Lord will not forsake his people for his great Names sake: because it hath pleased the Lord to make you his people. Moreover God forbid, that I should sinne against the Lord, and cease praying for you, but I will shewe you the good and right way. Therefore feare you the Lord, and serue him in the trueth with all your hearts, and consider howe great things he hath done for you. But if ye doe wickedly, ye shall perish, both yee, and your King.

Saul nowe had beene King one yeere, and he reigned two yeeres ouer Israel. Then Saul chose him three thousand of Israel: and two thousande were with Saul in Michmash, and in mount Beth-el, and a thousande were with Ionathan in Gibeah of Beniamin: and the rest of the people he sent euery one to his tent. And Ionathan smote the garison of the Philistims, that was in the hill: and it came to the Philistims eares: and Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Heare, O yee Ebrewes. And al Israel heard say, Saul hath destroied a garison of the Philistims: wherefore Israel was had in abomina- tion with the Philistims: and the people gathered together after Saul to Gilgal. The Philistims also gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand charets, and sixe thousande horsemen: for the people was like the sand which is by the sea side in multitude, and came vp, and pitched in Michmash Eastward from Beth-auen. And when the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait (for the people were in distresse) the people hid themselves in caues, and in holdes, and in rockes, and in towres, and in pittes. And some of the Ebrewes went ouer Iorden vnto the lande of Gad and Gilead: and Saul was yet in Gilgal, and al the people for feare followed him. And he taried seuen daies, according vnnto the time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, therefore the people were scat- tered from him. And Saul sayde, Bring a burnt offering to me and peace offrings: and he offered a burnt offering. And as- soone as hee had made an ende of offering the burnt offering, beholde, Samuel came: and Saul went foorth to meete him, to salute him. And Samuel saide, What hast thou done? Then Saul saide, Because I sawe that the people was scattred from me, and that thou camest not within the daies appoynted, and that the Philistims gathered themselues together to Michmash, Therefore said I, The Philistims will come downe nowe vpon me to Gilgal, and I have not made supplication unto the Lord. I was bold therefore and offered a burnt offering. And Samuel said to Saul, Thou hast done foolishly: thou hast not kept the commandement of the Lord thy God, which he commanded thee: for the Lord had now established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever. But now thy kingdom shall not continue: the Lord hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the Lord hath commanded him to be governor over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the Lord had commanded thee. And Samuel arose, and went him up from Gilgal in Gibeah of Benjamin: and Saul numbered the people that were found with him, about six hundred men. And Saul and Jonathan his son, and the people that were found with them, had their abiding in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines pitched in Michmash. And there came out of the host of the Philistines three bands to destroy, one band turned unto the way of Ophrah unto the land of Shual, And another band turned toward the way to Beth-horon, and the third band turned toward the way of the coast that looketh toward the valley of Zeboim, toward the wilderness. Then there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: for the Philistines said, Lest the Ebrewes make them swords or speares. Wherefore all ye Israelites went downe to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, his mattocke, and his axe, and his weeding hook. Yet they had a file for the shares, and for the mattockes, and for the picke forkes, and for the axes, and for to sharpen the goades. So when the day of battell was come, there was neither sword nor speare founde in the handes of any of the people that were with Saul and with Jonathan: but only with Saul and Jonathan his son was there founde. And the garison of the Philistines came out to the passage of Michmash.

Then on a day Jonathan the sonne of Saul sayde vnto the yong man that bare his armour, Come and let vs goe ouer towarde the Philistims garison, that is yonder on the other side, but he tolde not his father. And Saul taried in the border of Gibeah vnder a pomegranate tree, which was in Migron, and the people that were with him, were about sixe hundredth men. And Ahiah the sonne of Ahitub, Ichabods brother, the sonne of Phinehas, the sonne of Eli, was the Lords Priest in Shiloh, and ware an Ephod: and the people knewe not that Jonathan was gone. Nowe in the way whereby Jonathan sought to go over to the Philistims garison, there was a sharpe rocke on the one side, and a sharpe rocke on the other side: the name of the one was called Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. The one rocke stretched from the North toward Michmash, and the other was from the South toward Gibeah. And Jonathan said to the yong man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over vnto the garison of these vncircumcised: it may be that the Lord will worke with vs: for it is not hard to the Lord to saue with many, or with fewe. And he that bare his armour, said vnto him, Doe all that is in thine heart: goe where it pleaseth thee: beholde, I am with thee as thine heart desireth. Then said Jonathan, Beholde, we goe over vnto those men, and will shewe our selues vnto them. If they say on this wise to vs, Tarie vntill we come to you, then we will stand still in our place, and not goe vp to them. But if they say, Come vp vnto vs, then we will goe vp: for the Lord hath deliuered them into our hande: and this shall be a signe vnto vs. So they both shewed themselues vnto the garison of the Philistims: and the Philistims said, See, the Ebrewes come out of the holes wherein they had hid themselves. And the men of the garison answered Jonathan, and his armour bearer, and said, Come vp to vs: for we will shewe you a thing. Then Jonathan said vnto his armour bearer, Come vp after me: for the Lord hath deliuered them into the hand of Israel. So Jonathan went vp vpon his hands and vpon his feete, and his armour bearer after him: and some fell before Jonathan, and his armour bearer slewe others after him. So the first slaughter which Jonathan and his armour bearer made, was about twentie men, as it were within halfe an acre of land which two oxen plowe. And there was a feare in the hoste, and in the field, and among all the people: the garison also, and they that went out to spoyle, were afraid themselves: and the earth trembled: for it was striken with feare by God. Then the watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Beniamin sawe: and beholde, the multitude was discomfited, and smitten as they went. Therefore saide Saul vnto the people that were with him, Search nowe and see, who is gone from vs. And when they had nombred, beholde, Jonathan and his armour bearer were not there. And Saul said vnto Ahiah, Bring hither the Arke of God (for the Arke of God was at that time with the children of Israel) And while Saul talked vnto the Priest, the noyse that was in the hoste of the Philistims, spred farther abroade, and encreased: therefore Saul said vnto the Priest, Withdraw thine hand. And Saul was assembled with all the people that were with him, and they came to the battell: and behold, every mans sworde was against his fellow, and there was a very great discomfiture. Moreover, the Ebrewes that were with the Philistims beforetime, and were come with them into all partes of the hoste, euery they also turned to be with the Israelites that were with Saul and Ionathan. Also all the men of Israel which had hid themselues in mount Ephraim, when they heard, that the Philistims were fled, they followed after them in the battell. And so the Lord saued Israel that day: and the battell continued vnto Beth-auen. And at that time the men of Israel were pressed with hunger: for Saul charged the people with an othe, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth foode till night, that I may be auenged of mine enemies: so none of the people tasted any sustenance. And all they of the land came to a wood, where hony lay vpon the ground. And the people came into the wood, and beholde, the hony dropped, and no man mooued his hand to his mouth: for the people feared the othe. But Ionathan heard not when his father charged the people with the othe: wherefore he put foorth the ende of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it in an hony combe, and put his hand to his mouth, and his eyes receiued sight. Then answered one of the people, and said, Thy father made the people to sweare, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth sustenance this day: and the people were faint. Then said Ionathan, My father hath troubled the land: see nowe howe mine eyes are made cleare, because I haue tasted a litle of this honie: Howe much more, if the people had eaten to day of the spoyle of their enemies which they found? for had there not bene nowe a greater slaughter among the Philistims? And they smote the Philistims that day, from Michmash to Aiialon: and the people were exceeding faint. So the people turned to the spoile, and tooke sheepe, and oxen, and calues, and slewe them on the ground, and the people did eate them with the blood. Then men tolde Saul, saying, Beholde, the people sinne against the Lord, in that they eate with the blood. And he saide, Ye haue trespassed: roule a great stone vnto me this day. Againe Saul said, Go ye abroad among the people, and bid them bring every man his ox, and every man his sheep, and slay them here, and eat and sin not against the Lord in eating with the blood. And ye people brought every man his ox in his hand that night, and slew them there. Then Saul made an altar unto the Lord, and that was the first altar that he made unto the Lord. And Saul said, Let us go downe after the Philistims by night, and spoyle them vntill the morning shine, and let us not leave a man of them. And they said, Doe whatsoever thou thinkest best. Then said the Priest, Let us drawe neere hither vnto God. So Saul asked of God, saying, Shall I goe downe after ye Philistims? wilt thou deliuer them into the hands of Israel? But he answered him not at that time. And Saul said, All ye chief of the people, come ye hither, and knowe, and see by whom this sinne is done this day. For as the Lord liueth, which saueth Israel, though it be done by Ionathan my sonne, he shall dye the death. But none of all the people answered him. Then he said vnto all Israel, Be ye on one side, and I and Ionathan my sonne will be on the other side. And the people said vnto Saul, Doe what thou thinkest best. Then Saul said vnto the Lord God of Israel, Giue a perfite lot. And Ionathan and Saul were taken, but the people escaped. And Saul said, Cast lot betweene me and Ionathan my sonne. And Ionathan was taken. Then Saul said to Ionathan, Tell me what thou hast done. And Ionathan tolde him, and said, I tasted a little honey with the end of the rod, that was in mine hand, and loe, I must die. Again Saul answered, God doe so and more also, vnlesse thou die the death, Ionathan. And the people said vnto Saul, Shall Ionathan die, who hath so mightily deliuered Israel? God forbid. As the Lord liueth, there shall not one heare of his head fall to the ground: for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people deliuered Ionathan that he dyed not. Then Saul came vp from the Philistims: and the Philistims went to their owne place. So Saul helde the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on euery side, against Moab, and against the children of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the Kings of Zobah, and against the Philistims: and whithersoever he went, he handled them as wicked men. He gathered also an hoste and smote Amalek, and deliuered Israel out of the handes of them that spoyled them. Nowe the sonnes of Saul were Ionathan, and Ishui, and Malchishua: and the names of his two daughters, the elder was called Merab, and the yonger was named Michal. And the name of Sauls wife was Ahinoam the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of his chiefe captaine was Abner the sonne of Ner, Sauls vncle. And Kish was Sauls father: and Ner the father of Abner was the sonne of Abiel. And there was sore warre against the Philistims all the dayes of Saul: and whomsoever Saul sawe to be a strong man, and meete for the warre, he tooke him vnto him.

Afterward Samuel said vnto Saul, The Lord sent me to anoint thee King ouer his people, ouer Israel: nowe therefore obey the voyce of the wordes of the Lord. Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I remember what Amalek did to Israel, howe they laide waite for the in ye way, as they came vp from Egypt. Nowe therefore goe, and sinite Amalek, and destroy ye all that perteyneth vnto them, and haue no compassion on them, but slay both man and woman, both infant and suckling, both oxe, and sheepe, both camell, and asse. And Saul assembled ye people, and nom-bred them in Telaim, two hundreth thousande footemen, and ten thousand men of Iudah. And Saul came to a citie of Amalek, and set watch at the riuer. And Saul said vnto the Kenites, Goe, depart, and get you downe from among the Amalekites, least I destroy you with them: for ye shewed mercie to all the children of Israel, when they came vp from Egypt: and the Ken-ites departed from among the Amalekites. So Saul smote the Amalekites from Hauilah as thou commest to Shur, that is be-fore Egypt, And tooke Agag the King of the Amalekites aliue, and destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword. But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the better sheepe, and the oxen, and the fat beasts, and the lambes, and all that was good, and they would not destroy them: but euery thing that was vile and nought worth, that they destroyed. Then came the worde of the Lord vnto Samuel, saying, It repenteth me that I haue made Saul King: for he is turned from me, and hath not performed my commandements. And Samuel was mooued, and cryed vnto the Lord all night. And when Samuel arose early to meete Saul in the morning, one tolde Samuel, saying, Saul is gone to Carmel: and beholde, he hath made him there a place, from whence he returned, and departed, and is gone downe to Gilgal. Then Samuel came to Saul, and Saul said vnto him. Blessed be thou of the Lord, I haue fulfilled the commandement of the Lord. But Samuel saide, What meaneth then the bleating of the sheepe in mine eares, and the lowing of the oxen which I heare? And Saul answered, They haue brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheepe, and of the oxen to sacrifice them vnto the Lord thy God, and the remnant haue we destroyed. Againe Samuel saide to Saul, Let me tell thee what the Lord hath saide to me this night. And he said vnto him, Say on. Then Samuel saide, When thou wast little in thine owne sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel? for the Lord anointed thee King ouer Israel. And the Lord sent thee on a iourney, and saide, Goe, and destroy those sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them, vntill thou destroy them. Nowe wherefore hast thou not obeyed the voyce of the Lord, but hast turned to the pray, and hast done wickedly in the sight of the Lord? And Saul saide vnto Samuel, Yea, I haue obeyed the voyce of the Lord, and haue gone the way which the Lord sent me, and haue brought Agag the King of Amalek, and haue destroyed the Amalekites. But the people tooke of the spoyle, sheepe, and oxen, and the chiefest of the things which shoulde haue bene destroyed, to offer vnto the Lord thy God in Gilgal. And Samuel saide, Hath the Lord as great pleasure in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as when the voyce of the Lord is obeyed? beholde, to obey is better then sacrifice, and to hearken is better then the fatte of rammes. For rebellion is as the sinne of withcraft, and transgression is wickednesse and idolatrie. Because thou hast cast away the worde of the Lord, therefore hee hath cast away thee from being King. Then Saul sayde vnto Samuel, I haue sinned: for I haue transgressed the commandement of the Lord, and thy wordes, because I feared the people, and obeyed their voyce. Nowe therefore I pray thee, take away my sinne, and turne againe with mee, that I may worship the Lord. But Samuel saide vnto Saul, I will not returne with thee: for thou hast cast away the word of the Lord, and the Lord hath cast away thee, that thou shalt not be King ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned himselfe to goe away, he caught the lappe of his coate, and it rent. Then Samuel saide unto him, The Lord hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee this day, and hath given it to thy neighbour, that is better than thou. For in deed the strength of Israel will not lie nor repent: for he is not a man that he should repent. Then he said, I have sinned: but honour me, I pray thee, before the Elders of my people, and before Israel, and turne againe with me, that I may worship the Lord thy God. So Samuel turned againe, and followed Saul: and Saul worshipped the Lord. Then said Samuel, Bring ye hither to me Agag ye King of the Amalekites: and Agag came unto him pleasantly, and Agag said, Truely the bitterness of death is passed. And Samuel said, As thy sword hath made women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among other women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the Lord in Gilgal. So Samuel departed to Ramah, and Saul went up to his house to Gibeah of Saul. And Samuel came no more to see Saul vntill the day of his death: but Samuel mourned for Saul, and the Lord repented that he made Saul King over Israel.

The Lord then said unto Samuel, Howe long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have cast him away from reigning over Israel? fill thine horn with oyle and come, I will send thee to Ishai the Bethlehemite: for I have provided me a King among his sons.

And Samuel said, Howe can I goe? for if Saul shall heare it, he will kill me. Then the Lord answered, Take an heifer with thee, and say, I am come to doe sacrifice to the Lord. And call Ishai to the sacrifice, and I will shewe thee what thou shalt doe, and thou shalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee. So Samuel did that the Lord bade him, and came to Bethlehem, and the Elders of the towne were astonied at his comming, and sayd, Commest thou peaceablie? And he answered, Yea: I am come to doe sacrifice vnto the Lord: sanctifie your selues, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Ishai and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice. And when they were come, he looked on Eliab, and said, Surely the Lords Anointed is before him. But the Lord said vnto Samuel, Looke not on his countenance, nor on the height of his stature, because I have refused him: for God seeth not as man seeth: for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord beholdeth the heart. Then Ishai called Abinadab, and made him come before Samuel. And he said, Neither hath the Lord chosen this. Then Ishai made Shammah come. And he said, Neither yet hath the Lord chosen him. Againe Ishai made his seue sons to come before Samuel: and Samuel said vnto Ishai, The Lord hath chosen none of these. Finally, Samuel said vnto Ishai, Are there no more children but these? And hee sayde, There remaineth yet a litle one behinde, that keepeth the sheepe. Then Samuel saide vnto Ishai, Sende and set him: for we will not sit downe, till he be come hither. And he sent, and brought him in: and he was ruddie, and of a good countenance, and comely visage. And the Lord saide, Arise, and anoynt him: for this is he. Then Samuel tooke the horne of oyle, and anoynted him in the middes of his brethren. And the Spirit of the Lord came vpon Daviud, from that day forwarde: then Samuel rose vp, and went to Ramah. But the Spirite of the Lord departed from Saul, and an euill spirite sent of the Lord vexed him. And Sauls seruants said vnto him, Beholde noow, the euill spirite of God vexeth thee. Let our Lord therefore command thy seruants, that are before thee, to seeke a man that is a cunning plaier vpon the harpe: that when the euil spirite of God commeth vpon thee, hee may play with his hand, and thou maiest be eased. Saul then saide vnto his seruanteres, Prouide me a man, I pray you, that can play well, and bring him to me. Then answered one of his seruanteres, and sayde, Beholde, I haue seene a sonne of Ishai, a Bethlehemite, that can plaie, and is strong, valiant and a man of warre and wise in matters, and a comely person, and the Lord is with him. Wherefore Saul sent messengers vnto Ishai, and said, Send me Daviud thy sonne which is with the sheepe. And Ishai tooke an asse laden with breade and a flagon of wine and a kidde, and sent them by the hand of Daviud his sonne vnto Saul. And Daviud came to Saul, and stooode before him: and he loued him verie well, and he was his armour bearer. And Saul sent to Ishai, saying, Let Daviud nowe remaine with me: for he hath found fauour in my sight. And so when the euill spirite of God came vpon Saul, Daviud tooke an harpe and plaied with his hande, and Saul was refreshed, and was eased: for the euill spirite departed from him.

Nowe the Philistims gathered their armies to battell, and came together to Shochoh, which is in Iudah, and pitched betweene Shochoh and Azekah, in the coast of Dammim. And Saul, and the men of Israel assembled, and pitched in the valley of Elah, and put themselves in battell araie to meete the Philistims. And the Philistims stooed on a mountaine on the one side, and Israel stooed on a mountaine on the other side: so a valley was betweene them. Then came a man betweene them both out of the tents of the Philistims, named Goliath of Gath: his height was sixe cubites and an hande breadth, Aud had an helmet of brasse vpon his head, and a brigandine vpon him: and the weight of his brigandine was five thousand shekels of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon his legs, and a shield of brasse vpon his shoulders. And the shaft of his speare was like a weauers beame: and his speare head weyed sixe hundredth shekels of yron: and one bearing a shielde went before him. And he stood, and cried against the hoste of Israel, and saide vnto them, Why are yee come to set your battell in aray? am not I a Philistim, and you seruaunts to Saul? chuse you a man for you, and let him come downe to me. If he be able to fight with me, and kill me, then wil we be your seruants: but if I overcome him, and kill him, then shall yee be our seruants, and serue vs. Also the Philistim saide, I defie the hoste of Israel this day: giue mee a man, that we may fight together. When Saul and all Israel heard those wordes of the Philistim, they were discouraged, and greatly afraide. Nowe this Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite of Beth-lehem Iudah, named Ishai, which had eight sonnes: and this man was taken for an olde man in the daies of Saul. And the three eldest sonnes of Ishai went and followed Saul to the battel: and the names of his three sonnes that went to battell, were Eliab the Eldest, and the next Abinadab, and the thirde Shammah. So Dauid was the least: and the three eldest went after Saul. Dauid also went, but hee returned from Saul to feede his fathers sheepe in Beth-lehem. And the Philistim drew neere in the morning, and euening, and continued fourtie daies. And Ishai said vnto Dauid his sone, Take nowe for thy brethren an Ephah of this parched corne, and these ten cakes, and runne to the hoste to thy brethren. Also carie these ten fresh cheeses vnto the captaine, and looke howe thy brethren fare, and receiue their pledge. (Then Saul and they, and all the men of Israel were in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philistims) So Dauid rose vp earely in the morning, and left the sheepe with a keeper, and tooke and went as Ishai had commanded him, and came within the compasse of the hoste: and the hoste went out in aeraie, and shouted in the battell. For Israel and the Philistims had put themselues in aeraie, armie against armie. And Dauid left the things, which he bare, vnder the handes of the keeper of the cariage, and ranne into the hoste, and came, and asked his brethren howe they did. And as hee talked with them, beholde, the man that was betweene the two armies, came vp, (whose name was Goliath ye Philistim of Gath) out of the armie of the Philistims, and spake such woordes, and Dauid heard them. And all the men of Israel, when they sawe the man, ranne away from him, and were sore afraied. For euery man of Israel saide, Sawe yee not this man that commeth vp? euen to reuile Israel is he come vp: and to him that killeth him, wil the king giue great riches, and will giue him his daughter, yea, and make his fathers house free in Israel. Then Dauid spake to the men that stoode with him, and sayde, What shall be done to the man that killeth him, and taketh away the shame from Israel? for who is this vncircumcised Philistim, that he shoulde reuile the hoste of the liuing God? And the people answered him after this maner, saying, Thus shall it be done to the man that killeth him. And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was verie angrie with Dauid, and sayde, Why camest thou downe hither? and with whome hast thou left those fewe sheepe in the wildernesse? I knowe thy pride and the malice of thine heart, that thou art come downe to see the battell. Then Dauid sayde, What haue I nowe done? Is there not a cause? And hee departed from him into the presence of another, and spake of the same maner, and the people answered him according to the former woordes. And they that heard the wordes which Dauid spake, rehearsed them before Saul, which caused him to be brought. So Dauid saide to Saul, Let no mans heart faile him, because of him: thy seruant wil goe, and fight with this Philistim. And Saul sayde to Dauid, Thou art not able to goe against this Philistim to fight with him: for thou art a boye, and he is a man of warre from his youth. And Dauid answered vnto Saul, Thy seruant kept his fathers sheepe, and there came a lyon, and likewise a beare, and tooke a sheepe out of the flocke, And I went out after him and smote him, and tooke it out of his mouth: and when he arose against me, I caught him by the beard, and smote him, and slue him. So thy seruaunt slue both the lyon, and the beare: therefore this uncircumcised Philistim shall be as one of them, seeing hee hath railed on the hoste of the liuing God. Moreouer Dauid sayd, The Lord that deliuered me out of the pawe of the lyon, and out of the paw of the beare, he wil deliuer me out of the hand of this Philistim. Then Saul sayd vnto Dauid, Go, and the Lord be with thee. And Saul put his rayment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpon his head, and put a brigandine vpon him. Then girded Dauid his sword vpon his rayment, and began to go: for he never proued it: and Dauid sayde vnto Saul, I can not goe with these: for I am not accustomed. wherefore Dauid put them off him. Then tooke he his staffe in his hand, and chose him fiue smoothe stones out of a brooke, and put them in his shepheards bagge or skrippe, and his sling was in his hand, and he drewe neere to the Philistim. And the Philistim came and drewe neere vnto Dauid, and the man that bare the shielde went before him. Now when the Philistim looked about and saw Dauid, he disdeined him: for he was but yong, ruddie, and of a comely face. And the Philistim sayde vnto Dauid, Am I a dog, that thou commest to me with staues? And the Philistim cursed Dauid by his gods. And the Philistim sayde to Dauid, Come to me, and I will giue thy flesh vnto the foules of the heauen, and to the beasts of the field. Then sayd Dauid to the Philistim, Thou commest to me with a sword, and with a speare, and with a shield, but I come to thee in the Name of the Lord of hostes, the God of the hoste of Israel, whom thou hast rayled vpon. This day shall the Lord close thee in mine hand, and I shall smite thee, and take thine head from thee, and I wil giue the carkeises of the hoste of the Philistims this daye vnto the foules of the heauen, and to the beasts of the earth, that all the world may know that Israel hath a God, And that all this assembly may know, that the Lord saueth not with sworde nor with speare (for the battel is the Lords) and he will giue you into our handes. And when the Philistim arose to come and drawe neere vnto Dauid, Dauid hasted and ran to fight against the Philistim. And Dauid put his hande in his bagge, and tooke out a stone, and sling it, and smote the Philistim in his forehead, that the stone stucked in his forehead, and he fell groueling to the earth. So Dauid overcame the Philistim with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistim, and slew him, when Dauid had no sword in his hand. Then Dauid ranne, and stood vpon the Philistim, and tooke his sword and drew it out of his sheath, and evevhe him, and cut off his head therewith. So whe the Philistims saw, that their champion was dead, they fled. And the men of Israel and Judah arose, and shouted, and followed after the Philistims, vntill they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Ekron: and the Philistims fell downe wounded by the way of Shaaraim, euen to Gath and to Ekron. And the children of Israel returned from pursuing the Philistims, and spoyled their tents. And Dauid tooke the head of ye Philistim, and brought it to Jerusalem, and put his armour in his tent. When Saul sawe Dauid go forth against the Philistim, he sayd vnto Abner the captaine of his hoste, Abner, whose sonne is this yong man? and Abner answered, As thy soule liueth, O King, I can not tell.
Then the King sayde, Enquire thou whose sonne this yong man is. And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistim, then Abner tooke him, and brought him before Saul with the head of the Philistim in his hand. And Saul sayde to him, Whose sonne art thou, thou yong man? And Dauid answered, I am the sonne of thy seruant Ishai the Bethlehemite.

And when he had made an ende of speaking vnto Saul, the soule of Ionathan was knit with the soule of Dauid, and Ionathan loued him, as his owne soule. And Saul tooke him that day, and woulde not let him returne to his fathers house. Then Ionathan and Dauid made a couenant: for he loued him as his owne soule.
And Ionathan put off the robe that was vpon him, and gaue it Dauid, and his garments, euen to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle. And Dauid went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and behaued himselfe wisely: so that Saul set him ouer the men of warre, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Sauls servaunts. When they came againe, and Dauid returned from the slaughter of the Philistim, the women came out of all cities of Israel singing and dauncing to meete king Saul, with timbrels, with instruments of ioy, and with rebeckes.
And the women sang by course in their play, and sayd, Saul hath slayne his thousand, and Dauid his ten thousand. Therefore Saul was exceeding wroth, and the saying displeased him, and he sayde, They haue ascribed vnto Dauid ten thousand, and to me they haue ascribed but a thousand, and what can he haue more saue the kingdome? Wherefore Saul had an eye on Dauid from that day forward. And on the morowe, the euill spirite of God came vpon Saul, and he prophecied in the middes of the house: and Dauid played with his hand like as at other times, and there was a speare in Sauls hand. And Saul tooke the speare, and sayd, I will smite Dauid through to the wall. But Dauid auoyded twise out of his presence. And Saul was afrayd of Dauid, because the Lord was with him, and was departed from Saul. Therefore Saul put him from him, and made him a capitaine ouer a thousand, and he went out and in before the people. And Dauid behaued himselfe wisely in all his wayes: for the Lord was with him. Wherefore when Saul saw that he was very wise, he was afrayde of him. For all Israel and Iudah loued Dauid, because he went out and in before them. Then Saul sayd to Dauid, Beholde mine eldest daughter Merab, her I will giue thee to wife: onely be a valiant sonne vnto me, and fight the Lordes battels: for Saul thought, Mine hand shall not be vpon him, but the hand of the Philistims shalbe vpon him.

And Dauid answered Saul, What am I? and what is my life, or the family of my father in Israel, that I should be sonne in law to the King? Howbeit when Merab Sauls daughter should haue bene giuen to Dauid, she was giuen vnto Adriel a Meholathite to wife. Then Michal Sauls daughter loued Dauid: and they shewed Saul, and the thing pleased him. Therefore Saul said, I wil giue him her, that she may be a snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistims may bee against him. Wherefore Saul sayde to Dauid, Thou shalt this day be my sonne in law in the one of the twayne. And Saul commanded his seruants, Speake with Dauid secretly, and say, Behold, ye King hath a fauour to thee, and all his seruants loue thee: be now therefore the Kings sonne in law. And Sauls seruantes spake these wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Dauid sayd, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a Kings sonne in lawe, seeing that I am a poore man and of small reputation? And then Sauls seruats brought him word againe, saying, Such wordes spake Dauid. And Saul sayd, This wise shall ye say to Dauid, The King desireth no dowrie, but an hundred foreskinnes of the Philistims, to bee auenged of the Kings enemies: for Saul thought to make Dauid fall into the handes of the Philistims. And when his seruantes tolde Dauid these wordes, it pleased Dauid well, to be the Kings sonne in law: and the dayes were not expired. Afterwarde Dauid arose with his men, and went and slewe of the Philistims two hundreth men: and Dauid brought their foreskinnes, and they gaue them wholly to the King that hee might be the Kings sonne in lawe: therefore Saul gaue him Michal his daughter to wife. Then Saul sawe, and understooode that the Lord was with Dauid, and that Michal the daughter of Saul loued him. Then Saul was more and more afrawde of Dauid, and Saul became alway Dauids enemie. And when the Princes of the Philistims went forth, at their going forth Dauid behaued himselfe more wisely then all the seruants of Saul, so that his name was much set by.

Then Saul spake to Ionathan his sonne, and to all his seru-antes, that they shoulde kill Dauid: but Ionathan Sauls sonne had a great fauour to Dauid. And Ionathan told Dauid, saying, Saul my father goeth about to slay thee: nowe therefore, I pray thee, take heede vnto thy selue vnto the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thy selue. And I will go out, and stand by my father in the fielde where thou art, and will com-mune with my father of thee, and I will see what he sayth, and will tell thee. And Ionathan spake good of Dauid vnto Saul his father, and said vnto him, Let not the King sinne against his seruat, against Dauid: for he hath not sinned against thee, but his works haue bene to thee very good. For he did put his life in daunger, and slew the Philistim, and the Lord wrought a great saluation for al Israel: thou sawest it, and thou reioycedst: wherefore then wilt thou sinne against innocent blood, and slay Dauid without a cause? Then Saul hearkened vnto the voyce of Ionathan, and Saul sware, As the Lord liueth, he shall not dye. So Ionathan called Dauid, and Ionathan shewed him all those words, and Ionathan brought Dauid to Saul, and hee was in his presence as in times past. Againe the warre began, and Dauid went out and fought with the Philistims, and slew them with a great slaughter, and they fled from him. And the euill spirit of the Lord was vpon Saul, as hee sate in his house hauing his speare in his hand, and Dauid played with his hand.
Saul intended to smite David to the wall with the spear: but hee turned aside out of Sauls presence, and he smote the spear against the wall: but David fled, and escaped the same night. Saul also sent messengers vnto Davids house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning: and Michal Davids wife told it him, saying, If thou saue not thy selfe this night, to morowe thou shalt be slayne. So Michal let David downe through a window: and he went, and fled, and escaped. Then Michal tooke an image, and layde it in the bed, and put a pillow stuffed with goates heare vnder the head of it, and couered it with a cloth. And when Saul sent messengers to take David, she sayd, He is sicke. And Saul sent the messengers againe to see David, saying, Bring him to me in the bed, that I may slay him. And when the messengers were come in, behold, an image was in the bed, with a pillow of goates heare vnder the head of it. And Saul said vnto Michal, Why hast thou mocked me so, and sent away mine enemie, that he is escaped? And Michal answered Saul, He said vnto me, Let me go, or els I will kill thee. So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him: and he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth. But one tolde Saul, saying, Beholde, David is at Naioth in Ramah. And Saul sent messengers to take David: and when they sawe a company of Prophets prophecying, and Samuel standing as appoynted ouer them, the Spirit of God fell vpon the messengers of Saul, and they also prophecied. And when it was tolde Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophecied likewise: againe Saul sent the third messengers, and they prophecied also. Then went he himselfe to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu, and he asked, and sayd, Where are Samuel and David? and one sayd, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah. And he went thither, even to Naioth in Ramah, and the Spirit of God came vpon him also, and he went prophecying vntill hee came to Naioth in Ramah. And he stript off his clothes, and he prophesied also before Samuel, and fell downe naked all that day and all that night: therefore they say, Is Saul also among the Prophets? And David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and sayd before Ionathan, What haue I done? what is mine iniquitie? and what sinne haue I committed before thy father, that he seeketh my life? And he sayde vnto him, God forbid, thou shalt not die: beholde, my father will do nothing great nor small, but he will shewe it me: and why should my father hide this thing from me? he will not doe it. And Dauid sware againe and sayd, Thy father knoweth that I haue found grace in thine eyes: therefore he thinketh, Ionathan shall not knowe it, lest he be sorie: but in deede, as the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, there is but a step betweene me and death. Then said Ionathan vnto Dauid, Whatsoeuer thy soule requireth, that I wil do vnto thee. And Dauid said vnto Ionathan, Behold, to morowe is the first day of the moneth, and I shoulde sit with the King at meate: but let me goe, that I may hide my selfe in the fieldes vnto the third day at euene. If thy father make mention of me, then say, Dauid asked leaue of me, that he might goe to Beth-lehem to his owne citie: for there is a yeerely sacrifice for all that familie. And if he say thus, It is well, thy seruant shall haue peace: but if he be angrie, be sure that wickednesse is concluded of him. So shalt thou shew mercy vnto thy seruant: for thou hast ioyned thy seruant into a couenant of the Lord with thee, and if there be in me iniquitie, slay thou me: for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father? And Ionathan answered, God keepe that from thee: for if I knewe that wickednesse were concluded of my father to come vpon thee, would not I tell it thee? Then said Dauid to Ionathan, Who shall tell me? how shall I knowe, if thy father answere thee cruelly? And Ionathan sayde to Dauid, Come and let vs goe out into the fielde: and they twaine went out into the fielde. Then Ionathan sayde to Dauid, O Lord God of Israel, when I haue groped my fathers minde to morow at this time, or within this three dayes, and if it be well with Dauid, and I then send not vnto thee, and shewe it thee, The Lord doe so and much more vnto Ionathan: but if my father haue minde to doe thee euill, I will shew thee also, and sende thee away, that thou mayest goe in peace: and the Lord be with thee as he hath bene with my father. Likewise I require not whiles I liue: for I dout not but thou wilt shew me the mercy of the Lord, that I die not. But I require that thou cut not off thy mercie from mine house for euer: no, not when the Lord hath destroyed the enemies of Dauid, every one from the earth. So Ionathan made a bond with the house of Dauid, saying, Let the Lord require it at the hands of Dauids enemies. And againe Jonathan sware vnto Dauid, because he loued him (for he loued him as his owne soule) Then said Ionathan to him, To morow is the first day of the moneth: and thou shalt be lookd for, for thy place shalbe emptie. Therefore thou shalt hide thy selfe three dayes, then thou shalt goe downe quickly and come to the place where thou diddest hide thy selфе, when this matter was in hand, and shalt remayne by the stone Ezel. And I will shoote three arrowes on the side thereof, as though I shot at a marke. And after I wil sende a boy, saying, Goe, seeke the arrowes. If I say vnto the boy, See, the arrowes are on this side thee, bring them, and come thou: for it is well with thee and no hurt, as the Lord liueth. But if I say thus vnto the boy, Behold, the arrowes are beyonde thee, goe thy way: for the Lord hath sent thee away. As touching the thing which thou and I haue spoken of, beholde, the Lord be betweene thee and me for euer. So Dauid hid him selфе in the field: and when the first day of the moneth came, the King sate to eate meate. And the King sate, as at other times vpon his seate, euen vpon his seate by the wall: and Ionathan arose, and Abner sate by Sauls side, but Dauids place was emptie. And Saul sayde nothing that day: for hee thought, Some thing hath befallen him, though he were cleane, or els becaus he was not purified. But on the morowe which was the second day of the moneth, Dauids place was emptie againe: and Saul sayde vnto Ionathan his sonne, Wherefore commeth not the sonne of Ishai to meate, neither yesterday nor to day? And Ionathan answered vnto Saul, Dauid required of me, that he might goe to Beth-lehem. For he sayde, Let me goe, I pray thee: for our familie offereth a sacrifice in the citie, and my brother hath sent for me: therfore now if I haue found fauour in thine eyes, let me goe, I pray thee, and see my brethren: this is the cause that he commeth not vnto the Kings table. Then was Saul angrie with Ionathan, and sayde vnto him, Thou sonne of the wicked rebellious woman, doe not I know, that thou hast chosen the sonne of Ishai to thy confusion, and to the confusion and shame of thy mother? For as long as the sonne of Ishai liueth vpon the earth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor thy kingdome: wherefore now send and fet him vnto me, for he shall surely die. And Ionathan answered vnto Saul his father, and said vnto him, Wherefore shall he die? what hath he done? And Saul cast a speare at him to hit him, whereby Ionathan knew, that it was determined of his father to slay Dauid. So Ionathan arose from the table in a great anger, and did eate no meate the seconde day of the moneth: for he was sore for Dauid, and because his father had reuiled him. On the next morning therefore Ionathan than went out into the fild, at the time appoynted with Dauid, and a litle boy with him. And he saide vnto his boy, Runne now, seeke the arrowes which I shoote, and as the boy ran, he shot an arrow beyond him. And when the boy was come to the place where the arrowe was that Ionathan had shot, Ionathan cryed after the boy, and sayde, Is not the arrowe beyond thee? And Ionathan cryed after the boy, Make speede, haste and stand not still: and Ionathans boy gathered vp the arrowes, and came to his master, But the boy knewe nothing: onely Ionathan and Dauid knew the matter. Then Ionathan gaue his bowe and arrowes vnto the boy that was with him, and sayd vnto him, Goe, carrie them into the citie. Assoone as the boy was gone, Dauid arose out of a place that was towarde the South, and fel on his face to the ground, and bowed him selfe three times: and they kissed one another, and wept both twaine, till Dauid exceeded. Therefore Ionathan said to Dauid, Goe in peace: that which we haue sworn both of vs in the Name of the Lord, saying, The Lord be betwenee me and thee, and betwene my seede and betwene thy seede, let it stand for euer. And he arose and departed, and Ionathan went into the citie.

Then came Dauid to Nob, to Ahimelech the Priest, and Ahim-leck was astonied at the meeting of Dauid, and saide vnto him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee? And Dauid saide to Ahimelech the Priest, The King hath commanded mee a certaine thing, and hath sayd vnto me, Let no man know whereabout I sende thee, and what I haue commanded thee: and I haue appointed my seruants to such and such places. Nowe therefore if thou hast ought vnnder thine hande, giue me fiue cakes of bread, or what commeth to hand. And the Priest answered Dauid, and saide, There is no common bread vnnder mine hande, but here is halowed bread, if the yong men haue kept themselues, at least from women. Dauid then answered the Priest, and sayde vnto him, Certainly women haue bene separate from vs these two or three dayes since I came out: and the vessels of the yong men were holy, though the way were prophane, and how much more then shall euery one be sanctified this day in the vessell?
So the Priest gaue him halowed bread: for there was no bread there, saue the shewe bread that was taken from before the Lord, to put hote bread there, the day that it was taken away. (And there was the same day one of the seruants of Saul abiding before the Lord, named Doeg the Edomite, the chiefest of Sauls heard-men) And Dauid said vnto Ahimelech, Is there not here vnder thine hand a speare or a sworde? for I haue neither brought my sworde nor mine harnesse with me, because the Kings businesse required haste. And the Priest said, The sword of Goliath the Philistim, whom thou slewest in the valley of Elah, behold, it is wrapt in a cloth behinde the Ephod: if thou wilt take that to thee, take it: for there is none other saue that here: And Dauid sayd, There is none to that, giue it me. And Dauid arose and fled the same day from the presence of Saul, and went to Achish the King of Gath. And the seruants of Achish said vnto him, Is not this Dauid the King of the land? did they not sing vnto him in daunces, saying, Saul hath slayne his thousand, and Dauid his ten thousande? And Dauid considered these wordes, and was sore afraide of Achish the King of Gath. And hee changed his behauiour before them, and fayned him selfe mad in their han-des, and scrabled on the doores of the gate, and let his spettel fall downe vpon his beard. Then said Achish vnto his seruants, Lo, ye see the man is beside him selfe, wherefore haue ye brought him to me? Haue I neede of mad men, that ye haue brought this fellowe to play the mad man in my presence? shall he come into mine house?
Dauid therefore departed thence, and saued him selfe in the caue of Adullam: and when his brethren and all his fathers house heard it, they went downe thither to him. And there gathered vnto him all men that were in trouble and all men that were in dette, and all those that were vexed in minde, and he was their prince, and there were with him about foure hun-dreth men. And Dauid went thence to Mizpeh in Moab, and said vnto the King of Moab, I pray thee, let my father and my mother come and abide with you, till I knowe what God wil doe for me. And he brought them before the King of Moab, and they dwelt with him all the while that Dauid was in the holde.
And the Prophet Gad sayde vnto Davuid, Abide not in the holde, but depart and goe into the land of Iudah. Then Davuid departed and came into the forest of Hareth. And Saul heard that Davuid was discouered, and the men that were with him, and Saul re-mayned in Gibeah vnder a tree in Ramah, hauing his speare in his hande, and all his seruants stoode about him. And Saul said vnto his seruants that stood about him, Heare now, ye sonnes of Iemini, wil the sonne of Ishai giue every one of you fields and vineyarde: will he make you all captaines ouer thousands, and captaines ouer hundreths: That all ye haue conspired against me, and there is none that tellerh mee that my sonne hath made a covenent with the sonne of Ishai? and there is none of you that is sory for me, or sheweth mee, that my sonne hath stirred vp my seruant to lie in wayte against me, as appeareth this day? Then answered Doeg the Edomite (who was appoynted ouer the seruants of Saul) and sayd, I saw the sonne of Ishai when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitub, Who asked counsell of the Lord for him and gaue him vitailes, and he gaue him also the sword of Goliath the Philistim. Then the King sent to call Ahimelech the Priest the sonne of Ahitub, and all his fathers house, to wit, the Priests that were in Nob: and they came all to the King. And Saul said, Heare now thou sonne of Ahitub. And he answered, Here I am, my lord. Then Saul sayde vnto him, Why haue yee conspired against me, thou and the sonne of Ishai, in that thou hast giuen him vitaile, and a sworde, and hast asked counsell of God for him, that he should rise against me, and lye in wayte as appeareth this day? And Ahimelech answered the King, and sayde, Who is so faithfull among all thy seruants as Davuid, being also the Kings sonne in lawe, and goeth at thy commandement, and is honourable in thine house? Haue I this day first begun to aske counsell of God for him? be it farre from mee, let not the King impute any thing vnto his seruant, nor to all the house of my father: for thy seruant knew nothing of all this, lesse nor more. Then the King sayd, Thou shalt surely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all thy fathers house. And the King sayde vnto the sergeantes that stoode about him, Turne, and slay the Priestes of the Lord, because their hand also is with Davuid, and because they knewe when he fled, and shewed it not vnto mee. But the seruantes of the King would not moue their hands to fall upon the Priests of the Lord. Then the King sayde to Doeg, Turne thou and fall upon the Priests. And Doeg the Edomite turned, and ran vpon the Priestes, and slewe that same daye foure score and fiue persons that did weare a linen Ephod.
Also Nob the citie of the Priestes smote he with the edge of the sword, both man and woman, both childe and suckling, both oxe and ass, and sheepe with the edge of the sword. But one of the sonsnes of Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitub (whose name was Abiathar) escaped and fled after Dauid. And Abiathar shewed Dauid, that Saul had slayne the Lords Priestes. And Dauid sayd vnto Abiathar, I knewe it the same day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would tell Saul. I am the cause of the death of all the persons of thy fathers house. Abide thou with me, and feare not: for he that seeketh my life, shall seeke thy life also: for with me thou shalt be in safegard.

Then they tolde Dauid, saying, Beholde, the Philistims fight against Keilah, and spoyle the barnes. Therfore Dauid asked counsel of the Lord, saying, Shal I goe and smite these Philistims? And the Lord answered Dauid, Go and smite the Philistims, and saue Keilah. And Dauids men said vnto him, See, we be afryde here in Iudah, howe much more if we come to Keilah against the hoste of ye Philistims? Then Dauid asked counsell of the Lord againe. And the Lord answered him, and sayd, Arise, go downe to Keilah: for I wil deliuer the Philistims into thine hand. So Dauid and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistims, and brought away their cattel, and smote them with a great slaughter: thus Dauid saued the inhabitants of Keilah. (And when Abiathar the sonne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah, he brought an Ephod with him) And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was come to Keilah, and Saul sayd, God hath deliuered him into mine hand: for he is shut in, seeing he is come into a citie that hath gates and barres. Then Saul called all the people together to warre, for to go downe to Keilah, and to besiege Dauid and his men. And Dauid hauing knowledge that Saul imagined mischiefe against him, saide to Abiathar the Priest, Bring the Ephod. Then sayde Dauid, O Lord God of Israel, thy seruat hath heard, that Saul is about to come to Keilah to destroy the citie for my sake. Wil the lordes of Keilah deliuer me vp into his hand? and will Saul come downe, as thy seruant hath heard? O Lord God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy seruant. And the Lord sayde, He will come downe. Then said Dauid, Will the lords of Keilah deliuer me vp, and the men that are with me, into the hand of Saul? And the Lord sayde, They will deliuer thee vp. Then Dauid and his men, which were about sixe hundreth, arose, and departed out of Keilah, and went whither they coulde. And it was tolde Saul, that Dauid was fled from Keilah, and he left off his iourney. And Dauid abode in the wildernes in holdes, and remayned in a mountaine in the wildernes of Ziph. And Saul sought him every day, but God deliuered him not into his hand. And Dauid sawe that Saul was come out for to seeke his life: and Dauid was in the wildernes of Ziph in the wood. And Ionathan Sauls sonne arose and went to Dauid into the wood, and comforted him in God, And said vnsto him, Feare not: for the hand of Saul my father shall not finde thee, and thou shalt be King ouer Israel, and I shalbe next vnsto thee: and also Saul my father knoweth it. So they twaine made a covenante before ye Lord: and Dauid did remaine in the wood: but Ionathan went to his house. Then came vp the Ziphims to Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doeth not Dauid hide himselfe by vs in holdes, in the wood in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the right side of Ieshimon? Nowe therefore, O King, come downe according to all that thine heart can desire, and our part shall be to deliuer him into the Kinges handes. Then Saul said, Be ye blessed of the Lord: for ye haue had compassion on mee. Goe, I pray you, and prepare ye yet better: know and see his place where he haunteth, and who hath seene him there: for it is sayd to me, He is subtile, and craftie. See therefore and know all the secret places where he hideth himselfe, and come ye againe to me with the certaintie, and I will goe with you: and if he be in the lande, I will searche him out throughout all the thousands of Iudah. Then they arose and went to Ziph before Saul, but Dauid and his men were in the wildernes of Maon, in the playne on the right hande of Ieshimon. Saul also and his men went to seeke him, and they told Dauid: wherefore he came downe vnsto a rocke, and abode in the wildernes of Maon. And when Saul heard that, he folowed after Dauid in the wildernes of Maon. And Saul and his men went on the one side of the mountaine, and Dauid and his men on the other side of the mountaine: and Dauid made haste to get from the presence of Saul: for Saul and his men compassed Dauid and his men round about, to take them. But there came a messenger to Saul, saying, Haste thee, and come: for the Philistims haue invaded the land. Wherefore Saul returned from pursuing Dauid, and went against the Philistims. Therefore they called that place, Sela-hammahlekeoth.

And Dauid went thence, and dwelt in holdes at En-gedi. When Saul was turned from ye Philistims, they told him, saying, Behold, Dauid is in the wildernes of En-gedi. Then Saul tooke three thousande chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seeke Dauid and his men vpon the rocks among the wilde goates. And hee came to the sheepecoates by the way where there was a caue, and Saul went in to do his easement: and Dauid and his men sate in the inward parts of the caue. And the men of Dauid said vnto him, See, the day is come, whereof the Lord sayde vnto thee, Beholde, I will deliuer thine enemie into thine hande, and thou shalt doe to him as it shall seeme good to thee. Then Dauid arose and cut off the lap of Sauls garment priuily. And afterward Dauid was touched in his heart, because he had cut off the lappe which was on Sauls garment. And he said vnto his men, The Lord keepe mee from doing that thing vnto my master the Lords Anoynted, to lay mine hande on him: for he is the Anoynted of the Lord. So Dauid ouercame his servaunts with these words, and suffered them not to arise against Saul: so Saul rose vp out of the caue and went away. Dauid also arose afterward, and went out of the caue, and cryed after Saul, saying, O my lorde the King. And when Saul looked behinde him, Dauid inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himselfe. And Dauid saide to Saul, Wherefore giuest thou an eare to mens words, that say, Behold, Dauid seeketh euill against thee? Behold, this day thine eyes haue seene, that the Lord had deliuereed thee this day into mine hand in the caue, and some bade me kill thee, but I had compassion on thee, and said, I will not lay mine hande on my master: for he is the Lordes Anoynted. Moreover my father, behold: behold, I say, the lappe of thy garmente in mine hand: for when I cut off the lappe of thy garment, I killed thee not. Vnderstad and see, that there is neither euil nor wickednesse in mee, neither haue I sinned against thee, yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The Lord be iudge bettweene thee and me, and the Lord auenge me of thee, and let not mine hand be vpon thee. According as the olde prouerbe sayeth, Wickednesse proceedeth from the wicked, but mine hand be not vpon thee. After whom is the King of Israel come out? after whome doest thou pursue? after a dead dog, and after a flea? The Lord therfore be iudge, and iudge betweene thee and me, and see, and pleade my cause, and deliuer me out of thine hand. Whe Dauid had made an end of speaking these words to Saul, Saul sayd, Is this thy voyce, my sonne Dauid? and Saul lift vp his voice, and wept, And sayd to Dauid, Thou art more righteous then I: for thou hast rendred me good, and I haue ren-dred thee euill. And thou hast shewed this day, that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch as when the Lord had closed me in thine hands, thou killedst me not. For who shall finde his enemie, and let him depart free? wherefore the Lord render thee good for that thou hast done vnto me this day. For now behold, I know that thou shalt be King, and that the kingdome of Israel shall be stablished in thine hand. Sweare now therfore vnto me by the Lord, that thou wilt not destroy my seede after me, and that thou wilt not abolish my name out of my fathers house. So Dauid sware vnto Saul, and Saul went home: but Dauid and his men went vp vnto ye hold.

Then Samuel dyed, and all Israel assembled, and mourned for him, and buried him in his owne house at Ramah. And Dauid arose and went downe to the wildernes of Paran. Now in Maon was a man, who had his possessio in Carmel, and the man was exceeding mightie and had three thousand sheepe, and a thousand goates: and he was shering his sheepe in Carmel. The name also of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigail, and she was a woman of singular wisdome, and beautifull, but the man was churlish, and euil conditioned, and was of the familie of Caleb. And Dauid heard in the wildernesse, that Nabal did shere his sheepe. Therefore Dauid sent tenne yong men, and Dauid said vnto the yong men, Go vp to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and aske him in my name how he doeth. And thus shall ye say for salutation, Both thou, and thine house, and all that thou hast, be in peace, wealth and prosperitie. Behold, I haue heard, that thou hast sherers: now thy shepherds were with vs, and we did the no hurt, neyther did they missse any thing all the while they were in Carmel. Aske thy servuants and they wil shew thee. Wherefore let these yong men finde fauour in thine eyes: (for we come in a good season) giue, I pray thee, whatsoeuer commeth to thine hand vnto thy servuants, and to thy sonne Dauid. And when Dauids yong men came, they tolde Nabal all those wordes in the name of Dauid, and helde their peace. Then Nabal answered Dauids servuantes, and sayd, Who is Dauid? and who is the sonne of Ishai? there be many seruantes nowe a dayes, that breake away every man from his master.
Shall I then take my bread, and my water, and my flesh that I haue killed for my sherers, and giue it vnto men, whom I know not whence they be? So Dauids servuants turned their way, and went againe, and came, and tolde him all those things. And Dauid said vnto his men, Girde euery man his sword about him.
And they girded euery man his sworde: Dauid also girded his sworde. And about foure hundreth men went vp after Dauid, and two hundreth abode by the cariage. Nowe one of the seruantes tolde Abigail Nabals wife, saying, Beholde, Dauid sent messegers out of the wildernesse to salute our master, and he rayled on them. Notwithstanding the men were very good vnto vs, and we had no displeasure, neither missed we any thing as long as we were conuersant with them, when we were in the fieldes.
They were as a wall vnto vs both by night and by day, all the while we were with them keeping sheepe. Nowe therefore take heed, and see what thou shalt doe: for euill will surely come vpon our master, and vpon all his familie: for he is so wicked that a man can not speake to him. Then Abigail made haste, and tooke two hundreth cakes, and two bottels of wine, and fiue sheepe ready dressed, and fiue measures of parched corne, and an hundreth frailes of raisins, and two hundreth of figs, and laded them on asses. Then she said vnto her servuants, Go ye before me: beholde, I will come after you: yet she tolde not her husband Nabal. And as shee rode on her asse, shee came downe by a secret place of the mountaine, and beholde, Dauid and his men came downe against her, and she met them. And Dauid said, In deede I haue kept all in vaine that this fellow had in the wildernesse, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained vnto him: for he hath requited me euill for good. So and more also doe God vnto the enemies of Dauid: for surely I will not leaue of all that he hath, by the dawning of the day, any that pisseth against the wall. And when Abigail sawe Dauid, she hasted and lighted off her asse, and fell before Dauid on her face, and bowed her selfe to the ground, And fel at his feete, and sayd, Oh, my lord, I haue committed the iniquitie, and I pray thee, let thine handmayde speake to thee, and heare thou the wordes of thine handmayde. Let not my lorde, I pray thee, regard this wicked man Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, and follie is with him: but I thine handmayde sawe not the yong men of my lord whom thou sentest. Now therefore my lord, as the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth (the Lord, I say, that hath withholden thee from comming to shedde blood, and that thine hand should not saue thee) so now thine enemies shall be as Nabal, and they that intend to doe my lord euill. And now, this blessing which thine handmaid hath brought vnto my lorde, let it be giuen vnto the yong men, that follow my lord. I pray thee, forgiue the trespasse of thine handmaide: for the Lord will make my lorde a sure house, because my lord fighteth the battels of the Lord, and none euill hath bene found in thee in all thy life. Yet a man hath risen vp to persecute thee, and to seeke thy soule, but the soule of my lorde shall be bounde in the bundel of life with the Lord thy God: and the soule of thine enemies shall God cast out, as out of the middle of a sling. And when the Lord shall haue done to my lorde al the good that he hath promised thee, and shall haue made thee ruler ouer Israel, Then shall it be no griefe vnto thee, nor offence of minde vnto my lord, that he hath not shed blood causelesse, nor that my lorde hath not preserued him selfe: and when the Lord shall haue dealt well with my lorde, remember thine handmaide. Then Dauid said to Abigail, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meete me. And blessed be thy counsel, and blessed be thou, which hast kept me this day from comming to shed blood, and that mine hand hath not saued me. For in deede, as the Lord God of Israel liueth, who hath kept me backe from hurting thee, except thou haddest hasted and met mee, surely there had not bene left vnto Nabal by the dawning of the day, any that pisseth against the wall. Then Dauid receiued of her hande that which she had brought him, and said to her, Goe vp in peace to thine house: behold, I haue heard thy voyce, and haue graunted thy petition. So Abigail came to Nabal, and behold, he made a feast in his house, like the feast of a King, and Nabals heart was merie within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore shee tolde him nothing, neither lesse nor more, vntil the morning arose. Then in the morning when the wine was gone out of Nabal, his wife tolde him those wordes, and his heart died within him, and he was like a stone. And about ten dayes after, the Lord smote Nabal, that he dyed. Now when Dauid heard, that Nabal was dead, he said, Blessed be the Lord that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of ye hand of Nabal, and hath kept his seruant from euil: for the Lord hath recompensed the wickednesse of Nabal vpon his owne head. Also Dauid sent to commune with Abigail to take her to his wife. And whe the seruants of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake vnto her, saying, Dauid sent vs to thee, to take thee to his wife. And she arose, and bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, and said, Behold, let thine handmayde be a seruant to wash the feete of the seruants of my lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and rode vpon an asse, and her fiue maides folowed her, and she went after the messengers of Dauid, and was his wife. Dauid also tooke Ahi-noam of Izreel, and they were both his wiues. Now Saul had giuen Michal his daughter Dauids wife to Phalti the sonne of Gallim.

Againe the Ziphims came vnto Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doeth not Dauid hide him selfe in the hill of Hachilah before Ieshimon? Then Saul arose, and went downe to the wildernes of Ziph, hauing three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, for to seeke Dauid in the wildernesse of Ziph. And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Ieshimon by the way side. Now Dauid abode in the wildernes, and he sawe that Saul came after him into the wildernesse. (For Dauid had sent out spies, and understood, that Saul was come in very deede) Then Dauid arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched, and when Dauid beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner the sonne of Ner which was his chiefe captaine, (for Saul lay in the fort, and the people pitched round about him) Then spake Dauid, and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai the sonne of Zeruiah, brother to Ioab, saying, Who will go downe with me to Saul to the hoste? Then Abishai said, I will goe downe with thee. So 7 David and Abishai came downe to the people by night: and be- holde, Saul lay sleeping within the fort, and his speare did sticke in the ground at his head: and Abner and the people lay round about him. Then saide Abishai to David, God hath closed thine enemie into thine hande this day: now therefore, I pray thee, let me smite him once with a speare to the earth, and I will not smite him againe. And David sayde to Abishai, Destroy him 8 not: for who can lay his hand on the Lords anoynted, and be giltlesse? Moreouer David said, As the Lord liueth, eyther the Lord shall smite him, or his day shall come to dye, or he shall descend into battel, and perish. The Lord keepe mee from lay- ing mine hand vpon the Lordes anointed: but, I pray thee, take now the speare that is at his head, and the pot of water, and let vs goe hence. So David tooke the speare and the pot of water 9 from Sauls head, and they gate them away, and no man saw it, nor marked it, neither did any awake, but they were all asleepe: for the Lord had sent a dead sleepe vpon them. Then David went vnto the other side, and stoode on the toppe of an hill a farre off, a great space being betweene them. And David cryed to the people, and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying, Hearest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered, and said, Who art thou that cryest to the King? And David said to Abner, Art 10 not thou a man? and who is like thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lorde the King? for there came one of the folke in to destroy the King thy lord. This is not well done of thee: as the Lord liueth, ye are worthy to dye, because ye haue not kept your master the Lordes Anointed: and now see where the Kings speare is, and the pot of water that was at his head. And Saul knewe Davids voyce, and sayde, Is this thy voyce, my sonne David? And David sayde, It is my voyce, my lorde O King. And he sayde, Wherefore doeth my lorde thus persecute his servant? for what haue I done? or what euill is in mine hand? Now therefore, I beseech thee, let my lord the King heare the wordes of his servant. If the Lord haue stirred thee vp against me, let him smell the sauour of a sacrifice: but if the children of men haue done it, cursed be they before the Lord: for they haue cast me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, saying, Goe, serue other gods. Nowe 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 therefore let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the Lord: for the King of Israel is come out to seeke a flea, as one would hunt a partridge in the mountaines. Then sayde Saul, I haue sinned: come againe, my sonne Dauid: for I will doe thee no more harme, because my soule was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I haue done foolishly, and haue erred exceedingly. Then Dauid answered, and saide, Beholde the Kings speare, let one of the yong men come ouer and set it. And let the Lord rewarde every man according to his righteousnesse and faithfulness: for the Lord had deliuered thee into mine handes this day, but I woulde not lay mine hand vpon the Lords anointed. And beholde, like as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes: so let my life be set by in the eyes of the Lord, that he may deliuer me out of all tribulation. Then Saul said to Dauid, Blessed art thou, my sonne Dauid: for thou shalt doe great things, and also preuaile. So Dauid went his way, and Saul returned to his place. And Dauid said in his heart, I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul: is it not better for me that I saue my selfe in the lande of the Philistims, and that Saul may haue no hope of me to seeke me any more in all the coastes of Israel, and so escape out of his hand? Dauid therefore arose, and he, and the sixe hundred men that were with him, went vnto Achish the sonne of Maoch King of Gath. And Dauid dwelt with Achish at Gath, he, and his men, euery man with his housholde,Dauid with his two wiues, Ahinoam the Izreelite, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite. And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled to Gath: so he sought no more for him. And Dauid saide vnto Achish, If I haue nowe founde peace in thine eyes, let them giue me a place in some other citie of the countrey, that I may dwell there: for why should thy servaunt dwel in ye head citie of the kingdome with thee? Then Achish gaue him Ziklag that same day: therefore Ziklag pertaineth vnto the kings of Iudah vnto this day. And the time that Dauid dwelt in the countrey of the Philistims, was foure moneths and certaine dayes. Then Dauid and his men went vp, and inuaded the Geshurites, and the Girzites, and the Amalekites: for they inhabited the lande from the beginning, from the way, as thou goest to Shur, euen vnto the lande of Egypt. And Dauid smote the lande, and left neither man nor woman aliue, and tooke sheepe, and oxen, and asses, and camels, and apparell, and returned and came to Achish. And Achish said, Where haue ye bene a rouing this day? And Dauid answered, Against the South of Iudah, and against the South of the Ierahmeelites, and against the South of ye Kenites. And Dauid saue neither man nor woman alieue, to bring them to Gath, saying, Lest they should tel on vs, and say, So did Dauid, and so will be his maner all the while that he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philistims. And Achish beleueed Dauid, saying, He hath made his people of Israel vtterly to abhorre him: therefore he shalbe my seruant for euer.

Nowe at that time the Philistims assembled their bandes and armie to fight with Israel: therfore Achish said to Dauid, Be sure, thou shalt go out with me to the battel, thou, and thy men. And Dauid said to Achish, Surely thou shalt knowe, what thy seruant can doe. And Achish sayde to Dauid, Surely I will make thee keeper of mine head for euer. (Samuel was then dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah his owne citie: and Saul had put away the sorcerers, and the soothsayers out of the land) Then the Philistims assembled themselues, and came, and pitched in Shunem: and Saul assembled all Israel, and they pitched in Gilboa. And when Saul saw the hoste of the Philistims, he was afraid, and his heart was sore astonied. Therefore Saul asked counsel of the Lord, and the Lord answered him not, neither by dreames, nor by Vrim, nor yet by Prophets. Then saide Saul vnto his seruants, Seeke me a woman that hath a familiar spirite, that I may goe to her, and aske of her. And his seruants said to him, Beholde, there is a woman at En-dor that hath a familiar spirite. Then Saul changed him selfe, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: and he saide, I pray thee, coniecture vnto me by the familiar spirite, and bring me him vp whome I shall name vnto thee. And the woman saide vnto him, Beholde, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath destroyed the sorcerers, and the soothsayers out of the land: wherefore then seekest thou to take me in a snare to cause me to die? And Saul sware to her by the Lord, saying, As the Lord liueth, no harme shall come to thee for this thing. Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring vp vnto thee? And he answered, Bring me vp Samuel. And when the woman sawe Samuel, she cryed with a loude voyce, and the woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceiued me? for thou art Saul.

13 And the King said vnto her, Be not afraid: for what sawest thou? And the woman said vnto Saul, I saw gods ascending vp out of the earth. Then he said vnto her, What facion is hee of? And she answered, An olde man commeth vp lapped in a mantel: and Saul knewe that it was Samuel, and he enclinied his face to the grounde, and bowed him selfe. And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me vp? Then Saul answered, I am in great distresse: for the Philistims make warre against me, and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither by Prophetes, neither by dreames: therefore I haue called thee, that thou mayest tell me, what I shall doe. Then said Samuel, Wherefore then doest thou aske of me, seeing the Lord is gone from thee, and is thine enemie? Euen the Lord hath done to him, as hee spake by mine hande: for the Lord will rent the kingdome out of thine hande, and giue it thy neighbour Dauid. Because thou obeyedst not the voyce of the Lord, nor executedst his fierce wrath vpon the Amalekites, therefore hath the Lord done this vnto thee this day. Moreover the Lord wil deliuer Israel with thee into the handes of the Philistims: and to morowe shalt thou and thy sonnes be with me, and the Lord shall giue the hoste of Israel into the handes of the Philistims.

20 Then Saul fell streight way all along on the earth, and was sore afraide because of the wordes of Samuel, so that there was no strength in him: for he had eaten no bread all the day nor all the night. Then the woman came vnto Saul, and sawe that he was sore troubled, and said vnto him, See, thine handmaide hath obeyed thy voyce, and I haue put my soule in mine hande, and haue obeyed thy wordes which thou saydest vnto me. Now therefore, I pray thee, hearke thou also vnto ye voyce of thine handmaid, and let me set a morsell of bread before thee, that thou mayest eat and get thee strength, and go on thy iourney. But he refused, and said, I will not eate: but his seruants and the woman together compelled him, and he obeyed their voyce: so he arose from the earth, and sate on the bed. Nowe the woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she hasted, and killed it, and tooke floure and kneaded it, and baked of it vnleauened bread. Then she brought them before Saul, and before his seruants: and when they had eaten, they stooed, and went away the same night.

So the Philistims were gathered together with all their armies in Aphek: and the Israelites pitched by the fountaine, which is in Izreel. And the princes of the Philistims went foorth by hundreths and thousandes, but Dauid and his men came behinde with Achish. Then saide the princes of the Philistims, What doe these Ebrewes here? And Achish said vnto the princes of the Philistims, Is not this Dauid the seruant of Saul the King of Israel, who hath bene with me these dayes, or these yeeres, and I haue found nothing in him, since he dwelt with me vnto this day? But the princes of the Philistims were wroth with him, and the princes of the Philistims said vnto him, Sende this fellow backe, that he may goe againe to his place which thou hast appointed him, and let him not goe downe with vs to battell, least that in the battell he be an aduersarie to vs: for wherewith should he obteine the fauour of his master? shoulde it not be with the heades of these men? Is not this Dauid, of whome they sang in daunces, saying, Saul slewe his thousande, and Dauid his ten thousande? Then Achish called Dauid, and said vnto him, As the Lord liueth, thou hast bene vpright and good in my sight, when thou wentest out and in with mee in the hoste, neither haue I founde euill with thee, since thou camest to me vnto this day, but the princes doe not fauour thee. Wherefore nowe returne, and go in peace, that thou displease not the princes of the Philistims. And Dauid said vnto Achish, But what haue I done? and what hast thou founde in thy seruant as long as I haue bene with thee vnto this day, that I may not goe and fight against the enemies of my lorde the King? Achish then answered, and said to Dauid, I knowe thou pleasest mee, as an Angell of God: but the princes of the Philistims haue saide, Let him not goe vp with vs to battell. Wherefore now rise vp earely in the morning with thy masters seruants that are come with thee: and when ye be vp earely, assoone as ye haue light, depart. So Dauid and his men rose vp earely to depart in the morning, and to returne into the lande of the Philistims: and the Philistims went vp to Izreel.

Bvt when Dauid and his men were come to Ziklag the thirde day, the Amalekites had inuaded vpon the South, euen vnto Zik-lag, and had smitten Ziklag, and burnt it with fire. And had taken the women that were therein, prisoners, both small and great, and slewe not a man, but caryed them away, and went their wayes. So Dauid and his men came to the city, and beholde, it was burnt with fire, and their wiues, and their sonnes, and their daughters were taken prisoners. Then Dauid and the people that was with him, lift vp their voyces and wept, vntill they could weepe no more. Dauids two wiues were taken prisoners also, Ahinoam the Izreelite, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite. And Dauid was in great sorow: for the people entended to stone him, because the heartes of all the people were vexed euery man for his sonnes and for his daughters: but Dauid comforted him selfe in the Lord his God. And Dauid saide to Abiathar the Priest Ahimelechs sonne, I pray thee, bring me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought the Ephod to Dauid. Then Dauid asked counsell at the Lord, saying, Shall I follow after this companie? shall I ouertake them? And he answered him, Followe: for thou shalt surely ouertake them, and recouer all. So Dauid and the sixe hundreth men that were with him, went, and came to the riuer Besor, where a part of them abode: But Dauid and foure hundreth men followed (for two hundreth abode behinde, being too wearie to goe ouer the riuer Besor) And they found an Egyptian in the fielde, and brought him to Dauid, and gaue him bread and he did eat, and they gaue him water to drinke. Also they gaue him a fewe figges, and two clusters of raisins: and when he had eaten, his spirite came againe to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drunke any water in three dayes, and three nightes. And Dauid saide vnto him, To whome belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he saide, I am a yong man of Egypt, and seruant to an Amalekite: and my master left me three dayes agoe, because I fell sicke. We roued vpon the South of Chereth, and vpon the coast belonging to Iudah, and vpon the South of Caleb, and we burnt Ziklag with fire. And Dauid saide vnto him, Canst thou bring me to this companie? And he said, Sweare vnto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliuer me into the handes of my master, and I will bring thee to this companie. And when he had brought him thither, beholde, they lay scattered abroade vpon all the earth, eating and drinking, and dauncing, because of all the great pray that they had taken out of the lande of the Philistims, and out of the land of Iudah. And Dauid smote them from the twilight, euen vnto the euening of the next morowe, so that there escaped not a man of them, saue foure hundreth yong men, which rode vpon camels, and fled. And Dauid recovered all that the Amalekites had taken: also Dauid rescued his two wiues. And they lacked nothing, small or great, sonne or daughter, or of the spoyle of all that they had taken away: Dauid recovered them all. Dauid also tooke all the sheepe, and the oxen, and they draue them before his cattell, and said, This is Dauids pray. And Dauid came to the two hundreth men that were too wearie for to follow Dauid: whome they had made also to abide at the riuer Besor: and they came to meete Dauid, and to meete the people that were with him: so when Dauid came neere to the people, hee saluted them. Then answered all the euill and wicked of the men that went with Dauid, and saide, Because they went not with vs, therefore will wee giue them none of the pray that wee haue recovered, saue to every man his wife and his children: therefore let them carie them away and depart. Then saide Dauid, Yee shall not doe so, my brethren, with that which the Lord hath giuen vs, who hath preserued vs, and deliuered the companie that came against vs, into our handes. For who will obey you in this matter? but as his part is that goeth downe to the battel, so shall his part be, that tarieth by the stuffe: they shall part alike. So from that day forward hee made it a statute and a lawe in Israel, vntill this day. When Dauid therefore came to Ziklag, he sent of the pray vnto the Elders of Iudah and to his friends, saying, See there is a blessing for you of the spoyle of the enemies of the Lord. Hee sent to them of Beth-el, and to them of South Ramoth, and to them of Iattir, And to them of Aroer, and to them of Siphmoth, and to them of Eshtemoa, And to them of Rachal, and to them of the cities of the Ierahmeelites, and to them of the cities of the Kenites, And to them of Hormah, and to them of Chor-ashan, and to them of Athach, And to them of Hebron, and to all the places where Dauid and his men had hanted.

Now the Philistims fought against Israel, and the me of Israel fled away from ye Philistims, and they fell downe wounded in mount Gilboa. And the Philistims preassed sore vpon Saul and his sonnes, and slewe Ionathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua Sauls sonnes. And when the battel went sore against Saul, the archers and bowmen hit him, and hee was sore wounded of the archers. Then saide Saul vnto his armour bearer, Drawe out thy sworde, and thrust mee through therewith, lest the vncircumcisced come and thrust me through and mocke me: but his armour bearer would not, for hee was sore afraid. Therefore Saul tooke a sworde and fell vpon it. And when his armour bearer sawe that Saul was dead, he fell likewise vpon his sword, and dyed with him. So Saul dyed, and his three sonnes, and his armour bearer, and all his men that same day together. And when the men of Israel that were on the other side of the valley, and they of the other side Iorden saw that the men of Israel were put to flight, and that Saul and his sonnes were dead, then they left the cities, and ran away: and the Philistims came and dwelt in them. And on the morowe when the Philistims were come to spoyle them that were slaine, they founde Saul and his three sonnes lying in mount Gilboa, And they cut off his head, and stripped him out of his armour, and sent into the land of ye Philistims on euery side, that they should publish it in the temple of their idoles, and among the people. And they layed vp his armour in the house of Ashtaroth, but they hanged vp his body on the wall of Beth-shan. When the inhabitants of Iabesh Gilead heard, what the Philistims had done to Saul, Then they arose (as many as were strong men) and went all night, and tooke the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, from the wall of Beth-shan, and came to Iabesh, and burnt them there, And tooke their bones and buried them vnder a tree at Iabesh, and fasted seuen dayes.
After the death of Saul, when David was returned from the slaughter of the Amalekites and had beene two dayes in Ziklag, Behold, a man came the third day out of the host from Saul with his clothes rent, and earth vpon his head: and when he came to David, he fell to the earth, and did obeisance. Then David saide vnto him, Whence commest thou? And he said vnto him, Out of the host of Israel I am escaped. And David saide vnto him, What is done? I pray thee, tell me. Then he said, that the people is fled from the battell, and many of the people are ouerthrown, and dead, and also Saul and Jonathan his sonne are dead. And David saide vnto the yong man that tolde it him, Howe knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his sonne be dead? Then the yong man that tolde him, answered, As I came to mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned vpon his speare, and loe, the charets and horsemen followed hard after him. And when he looked backe, he saw me, and called me. And I answered him, Here am I. And he said vnto me, Who art thou? And I answered him, I am an Amalekite. Then saide hee vnto me, I pray thee come vpon mee, and slay me: for anguish is come vpon me, because my life is yet whole in me. So I came vpon him, and slewe him, and because I was sure that hee coulde not liue, after that hee had fallen, I tooke the crowne that was vpon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arme, and brought them hither vnto my lord. Then David tooke hold on his clothes, and rent them, and likewise al the men that were with him. And they mourned and wept, and fasted vntil euen, for Saul and for Jonathan his sonne, and for the people of the Lord, and for the house of Israel, because they were slaine with the sword. Afterward David saide vnto the yong man that tolde it him, Whence art thou? And hee answered, I am the sonne of a stranger an Amalekite. And Dauid said vnto him, How wast thou not afraied, to put forth thine hand to destroy the Anoynted of the Lord? Then Dauid called one of his yong men, and said, Goe neere, and fall vpon him. And hee smote him that he dyed. Then said Dauid vnto him, Thy blood be vpon thine owne head: for thine owne mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I haue slaine the Lords Anoynted. Then Dauid mourned with this lamentation ouer Saul, and ouer Ionathan his sonne, (Also he bade them teach the children of Iudah to shoote, as it is written in the booke of Iasher) O noble Israel, hee is slaine vpon thy hie places: how are the mightie ouerthrown! Tell it not in Gath, nor publish it in the streetes of Ashkelon, lest the daughters of the Philistims reioyce, lest the daughters of the vncircumcised triumph. Ye mountaines of Gilboa, vpon you be neither dewe nor raine, nor be there fieldes of offerings: for there the shielde of the mightie is cast downe, the shielde of Saul, as though he had not bene anointed with oyle. The bow of Ionathan neuer turned backe, neither did the sword of Saul returne emptie from the blood of the slaine, and from the fatte of the mightie. Saul and Ionathan were louely and pleasant in their liues, and in their deaths they were not deuided: they were swifter then eagles, they were stronger then lions. Yee daughters of Israel, weepe for Saul, which clothed you in skarlet, with pleasures, and hanged ornaments of gold vpon your apparel. Howe were the mightie slaine in the mids of the battel! O Ionathan, thou wast slaine in thine hie places. Wo is me for thee, my brother Ionathan: very kinde hast thou bene vnto me: thy loue to me was wonderfull, passing the loue of women: howe are the mightie ouerthrown, and the weapons of warre destroyed!

2 After this, Dauid asked counsel of the Lord, saying, Shall I go vp into any of the cities of Iudah? And the Lord sayd vnto him, Goe vp. And Dauid sayd Whither shall I goe? Hee then answered, Vnto Hebron. So Dauid went vp thither, and his two wiues also, Ahinoam the Izreelite, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite. And Dauid brought vp the men that were with him, every man with his houshold, and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron. Then the men of Iudah came, and there they anoynted Dauid King ouer the house of Iudah. And they tolde Dauid, saying, that the men of Iabesh Gilead buried Saul. And David sent messengers unto the men of Iabesh Gilead, and said unto them, Blessed are ye of the Lord, that ye have shewed such kindness unto your lord Saul, that you have buried him. Therefore now the Lord sheweth mercy and truth unto you: and I will recompense you this benefit, because ye have done this thing. Therefore now let your hands be strong, and be you valiant: albeit your master Saul be dead, yet notwithstanding the house of Judah hath anointed me King over them. But Abner the son of Ner that was captain of Saul’s host, took Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him to Mahanaim, and made him King over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Izreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel. Ish-bosheth Saul’s son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years: but the house of Judah followed David. (And the time which David reigned in Hebron over the house of Judah, was seven years and six months) And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul went out of Mahanaim to Gibeon. And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David went out and met one another by the pool of Gibeon: and they sat downe, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool. Then Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise, and play before us. And Joab said, Let them arise. Then there arose and went out twelve of Benjamin by number, which pertained to Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David. And every one caught his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow’s side, so they fell downe together: wherefore ye place was called Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon. And the battle was exceeding sore that same day: for Abner and the men of Israel fell before the servants of David. And there were three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel. And Asahel was as light on foot as a wild roe. And Asahel followed after Abner, and in going he turned neither to the right hand nor to the left from Abner. Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered, Yea. Then Abner said, Turn thee either to the right hand, or to the left, and take one of the young men, and take thee his weapons: and Asahel would not depart from him. And Abner said to Asahel, Depart from me: where-for should I smite thee to the ground? how then should I be able to hold up my face to Joab thy brother? And when he would not depart, Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him: and he fell down there, and dyed in his place. And as many as came to the place where Asahel fell downe and dyed, stood still. Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sunne went downe, when they were come to the hill Ammah, that lieth before Giah, by the way of the wildernes of Gibeon. And the children of Benjamin gathered them selves together after Abner, and were on an heape and stood on the top of an hill. Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever? knowest thou not, that it will be bitterness in the latter ende? howe long then shall it be, or thou bid the people returne from following their brethren? And Joab sayde, As God liueth, if thou haddest not spoken, surely euene in the morning the people had departed euery one backe from his brother. So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more. And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plaine, and went over Iordan, and past through all Bithron till they came to Mahanaim. Joab also returned backe from Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of Dauides servants nineteene men and Asahel. But the servants of Dauid had smitten of Benjamin, and of Abners men, so that three hundred and threescore men dyed. And they tooke vp Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Bethlehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and when they came to Hebron, the day arose.

There was then long warre betwenee the house of Saul and the house of Dauid: but Dauid waxed stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker. And vnto Dauid were children borne in Hebron: and his eldest sonne was Amnon of Ahinoam the Izreelite, and his seconde, was Chileab of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: and the third, Absalom the sonne of Maacah the daughter of Talmai the King of Geshur, and the fourth, Adonijah the sonne of Haggith, and the fifth, Shephatiah the sonne of Abital, and the sixt, Ithream by Eglah Dauids wife: these were borne to Dauid in Hebron. Nowe while there was warre between the house of Saul and the house of David, Abner made all his power for the house of Saul. And Saul had a concubine named Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah. And Ish-bosheth sayde to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in to my fathers concubine? Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I a dogges head, which against Judah do shew mercie this day vnto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his neighbours, and haue not deliuered thee into the hande of David, that thou chargest me this day with a fault concerning this woman? So doe God to Abner, and more also, except, as the Lord hath sworne to David, euен so I doe to him, To remoue the kingdome from the house of Saul, that the throne of David may be stablished ouer Israel, and ouer Judah, euен from Dan to Beer-sheba. And he durst no more answere to Abner: for he feared him. Then Abner sent messengers to David on his behalfe, saying, Whose is the lande? who should also say, Make couenant with me, and beholde, mine hande shalbe with thee, to bring all Israel vnto thee. Who saide, Well, I will make a couenant with thee: but one thing I require of thee, that is, that thou see not my face except thou bring Michal Sauls daughter when thou commest to see me. Then David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth Sauls sonne, saying, Deliuer me my wife Michal, which I marryed for an hundreth foreskinnes of the Philistims. And Ish-bosheth sent, and tooke her from her husband Phaltiel the sonne of Laish. And her husband went with her, and came weeping behinde her, vnto Bahurim: then saide Abner vnto him, Go, and returne. So he returned. And Abner had communication with the Elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David in times past, that he might be your King. Nowe then doe it: for the Lord hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of my seruant David I will saue my people Israel out of the handes of the Philistims, and out of the handes of all their enemies. Also Abner spake to Beniamin, and afterward Abner went to speake with David in Hebron, concerning all that Israel was content with, and the whole house of Beniamin. So Abner came to David to Hebron, hauing twentie men with him, and David made a feast vnto Abner, and to the men that were with him. Then Abner sayde vnto David, I will rise vp, and goe gather all Israel vnto my lorde the King, that they may make a couenant with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. Then David let Abner depart, who went in peace. And beholde, the servants of David and Joab came from the campe, and brought a great pray with them (but Abner was not with David in Hebron: for he had sent him away, and he departed in peace) When Joab, and all the hoste that was with him were come, men tolde Joab, saying, Abner the sonne of Ner came to the King, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace. Then Joab came to the King, and said, What hast thou done? beholde, Abner came vnto thee, why hast thou sent him away, and he is departed? Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner: for he came to deceuine thee, and to knowe thy outgoing and ingoing, and to knowe all that thou doest. And when Joab was gone out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him againe from the well of Siriah vnknowing to David. And when Abner was come againe to Hebron, Joab tooke him aside in the gate to speake with him peaceably, and smote him vnder the fift ryb, that he dyed, for the blood of Asahel his brother. And when afterwarde it came to Davids eare, he said, I and my kingdome are giltlesse before the Lord for euer, concerning the blood of Abner the sonne of Ner. Let the blood fall on the head of Joab, and on all his fathers house, that the house of Joab be neuer without some that haue running issues, or leper, or that leaneth on a staffe, or that doeth fall on the sworde, or that lacketh bread. (So Joab and Abishai his brother slewe Abner, because he had slaine their brother Asahel at Gibeon in battel) And David said to Joab, and to al the people that were with him, Rent your clothes, and put on sackecloth, and mourn before Abner: and King David him selfe followed the beare. And when they had buryed Abner in Hebron, the King lift vp his voyce, and wept beside the sepulchre of Abner, and all the people wept. And the King lamented ouer Abner, and sayde, Dyed Abner as a foole dyeth? Thine handes were not bounde, nor thy feete tyed in fetters of brasse: but as a man falleth before wicked men, so diddest thou fall. And all the people wept againe for him. Afterwarde all the people came to cause David eate meate while it was yet day, but David sware, saying, So doe God to me and more also, if I taste bread, or ought els till the sunne be downe. And all the people knewe it, and it pleased them: as whatsoeuer the King did, pleased all the people. For all the people and all Israel understood that day, how that it was not the Kings deed that Abner the son of Ner was slain. And the King said vnto his servants, Know ye not, that there is a prince and a great man fell this day in Israel? And I am this day weake and newly anointed King: and these men the sons of Zeruiah be too harde for me: the Lord rewardeth the doer of euill according to his wickednesse.

And when Sauls son heared that Abner was dead in Hebron, then his handes were feeble, and all Israel was afraide. And Sauls son had two men that were captaines of bandes: the one called Baanah, and the other called Rechab, the sons of Rimmon a Beerothite of the children of Beniamin. (for Beeroth was reckened to Beniamin, Because the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and sojourned there, vnto this day). And Ionathan Sauls son had a son that was lame on his feete: he was five yere olde when the tydings came of Saul and Ionathan out of Israel: then his nourse tooke him, and fledde away. And as she made haste to flee, the childe fell, and beganne to halte, and his name was Mephibosheth. And the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah went and came in the heat of the day to the house of Ish-bosheth (who slept on a bed at noone) And beholde, Rechab and Baanah his brother came into the midst of the house as they would have wheate, and they smote him under the fift ryb, and fled. For when they came into the house, he slept on his bed in his bed chamber, and they smote him, and slew him, and beheaded him, and tooke his head, and gate them away through the plaine all the night. And they brought the head of Ish-bosheth vnto Dauid to Hebron, and saide to the King, Beholde the head of Ish-bosheth Sauls sonne thine enemie, who sought after thy life: and the Lord hath avenged my lorde the King this day of Saul, and of his seede. Then Dauid answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and saide vnto them, As the Lord liueth, who hath deliuered my soule out of al aduersity, When one tolde me, and sayde that Saul was dead, (thinking to have brought good tydings) I tooke him and slew him in Ziklag, who thought that I woulde haue giuen him a rewarde for his tidings: How much more, when wicked men haue slaine a righteous person in his owne house, and vpon his bed? shall I not now therfore require his blood at your hand, and take you from the earth?

Then Dauid commanded his yong men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands and their feete, and hanged them vp ouer the poole in Hebron: but they tooke the head of Ishbosheth, and buried it in the sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

Then came all the tribes of Israel to Dauid vnto Hebron, and said thus, Beholde, we are thy bones and thy flesh. And in time past when Saul was our King, thou leddest Israel in and out: and the Lord hath sayde to thee, Thou shalt feede my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captaine ouer Israel. So all the Elders of Israel came to the King to Hebron: and King Dauid made a covenante with them in Hebron before the Lord: and they anoynted Dauid King ouer Israel. Dauid was thirtie yeere olde when he began to reigne: and hee reigned fortie yeere. In Hebron hee reigned ouer Iudah seuen yeere, and sixe moneths: and in Ierusalem hee reigned thirtie and three yeeres ouer all Israel and Iudah. The King also and his men went to Ierusalem vnto the Iebusites, the inhabitants of the land: who spake vnto Dauid, saying, Except thou take away the blinde and the lame, thou shalt not come in hither: thinking that Dauid coulde not come thither. But Dauid tooke the fort of Zion: this is the citie of Dauid. Nowe Dauid had sayd the same day, Whosoeuer smiteth the Iebusites, and getteth vp to the gutters and smiteth the lame and blinde, which Dauids soule hateth, I will preferre him: therefore they saide, The blinde and the lame shall not come into that house. So Dauid dwelt in that forte, and called it the citie of Dauid, and Dauid built rounde about it, from Millo, and inward. And Dauid prospered and grewe: for the Lord God of hostes was with him. Hiram also king of Tyrus sent messengers to Dauid, and cedar trees, and carpenters, and masons for walles: and they built Dauid an house. Then Dauid knewe that the Lord had stablished him King ouer Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdome for his people Israels sake. And Dauid tooke him more concubines and wiues out of Ierusalem, after hee was come from Hebron, and more sonnes and daughters were borne to Dauid. And these bee the names of the sonnes that were borne vnto him in Ierusale: Shammua, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Salomon, And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Nepheg, and Iaphia, And Elishama, and Eliada, and Eliphalet. But when the Philistims hearde that they had anoynted Dauid King ouer Israel, all the Philistims came vp to seeke Dauid: and when Dauid heard, he went downe to a fort. But the Philistims came, and spred themselves in the valley of Rephaim. Then Dauid asked counsel of the Lord, saying, Shall I goe vp to the Philistims? wilt thou deliuer them into mine handes? And the Lord answered Dauid, Goe vp: for I will doubtlesse deliuer the Philistims into thine handes. Then Dauid came to Baal-perazim, and smote them there, and sayde, The Lord hath deuided mine enemies asunder before mee, as waters be deuided asunder: therefore he called the name of that place, Baal-perazim. And there they left their images, and Dauid and his men burnt them. Againe the Philistims came vp, and spred themselves in the valley of Rephaim. And when Dauid asked counsell of the Lord, hee answered, Thou shalt not goe vp, but turne about behinde them, and come vpon them ouer against the mulberie trees. And when thou hearest the noyse of one going in the toppes of the mulberie trees, then remoue: for then shall the Lord goe out before thee, to smite the hoste of the Philistims. Then Dauid did so as the Lord had commanded him, and smote the Philistims from Geba, vntil thou come to Gazer.

Againe Dauid gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, euen thirtie thousand, And Dauid arose and went with all the people that were with him from Baale of Iudah to bring vp from thence the Arke of God, whose name is called by the Name of the Lord, of hostes, that dwelleth vpon it betweene the Cherubims. And they put the Arke of God vpon a newe cart, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was in Gibeah. And Vzzah and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab did driue the newe carte. And when they brought the Arke of God out of the house of Abinadab, that was in Gibeah, Ahio went before the Arke, And Dauid and al the house of Israel played before the Lord on all instruments made of firre, and on harpes, and on Psalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals. And when they came to Nachons threshing floore, Vzzah put his hande to the Arke of God, and helde it: for the oxen did shake it. And the Lord was verie wroth with Vzzah, and God smote him in the same place for his fault, and there he dyed by the Arke of God. And David was displeased, because the Lord had smitten Vzzah: and he called the name of the place Perez Vzzah vntill this day. Therefore David that day feared the Lord, and sayd, How shall the Arke of the Lord come to mee? So David would not bring the Arke of the Lord vnto him into the citie of David, but David caried it into ye house of Obed-edom a Gittite. And the Arke of the Lord continued in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite, three moneths, and the Lord blessed Obed-edom, and all his houseth. And one told King David, saying, The Lord hath blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that hee hath, because of the Arke of God: therefore David went and brought the Arke of God from the house of Obed-edom, into the citie of David with gladnesse. And when they that bare the Arke of the Lord had gone sixe paces, he offred an oxe, and a fatte beast. And David danced before the Lord with al his might, and was girded with a linnen Ephod. So David and all the house of Israel, brought the Arke of the Lord with shouting, and sound of trumpet. And as the Arke of the Lord came into the citie of David, Michal Sauls daughter looked through a windowe, and sawe King David leape, and dance before the Lord, and shee despised him in her heart. And when they had brought in the Arke of the Lord, they set it in his place, in the mids of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: then David offred burnt offrings, and peace offrings before the Lord. And assoone as David had made an ende of offring burnt offrings and peace offrings, hee blessed the people in the Name of the Lord of hostes, And gaue among all the people, euen among the whole multitude of Israel, aswel to the women as men, to euerie one a cake of bread, and a piece of flesh, and a bottell of wine: so all the people departed eu-erie one to his house. The David returned to blesse his house, and Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meete David, and sayde, O howe glorious was the King of Israel this day, which was vncovered to day in the eyes of the maidens of his seruantes, as a foole vncovereth himselfe. Then David sayd vnto Michal, It was before the Lord, which chose me rather then thy father, and all his house, and commanded me to bee ruler over the people of the Lord, euen over Israel: and therefore will I play before the Lord, And will yet be more vile then thus, and will be low in mine owne sight, and of the verie same maidseruants, which thou hast spoken of, shall I be had in honour. Therefore Michal the daughter of Saul had no child unto the day of her death.

Afterwarde when the King sate in his house and the Lord had giuen him rest rounde about from all his enemies. The King saide vnto Nathan the Prophet, Beholde, nowe I dwel in an house of cedar trees, and the Arke of God remayneth within the curtaine. Then Nathan sayde vnto the King, Go, and doe all that is in thine heart: for the Lord is with thee. And the same night the worde of the Lord came vnto Nathan, saying, Goe and tell my seruant Dauid, Thus saieth the Lord, Shalt thou buylde me an house for my dwelling? For I haue dwelt in no house since the time that I brought the children of Israel out of Egypt vnto this day, but haue walked in a tent and tabernacle. In al the places wherein I haue walked with all the children of Israel, spake I one worde with any of the tribes of Israel when I commanded the iudges to feede my people Israel? or sayde I, Why build ye not me an house of cedar trees? Nowe therefore so say vnto my seruant Dauid, Thus saieth the Lord of hostes, I tooke thee from the sheepecote following the sheepe, that thou mightest bee ruler ouer my people, ouer Israel. And I was with thee wheresoeuer thou hast walked, and haue destroyed all thine enemies out of thy sight, and haue made thee a great name, like vnto the name of the great men that are in the earth. (Also I will appoynt a place for my people Israel, and will plant it, that they may dwell in a place of their owne, and moue no more, neither shall wicked people trouble them any more as before time, And since the time that I set Judges ouer my people of Israel) and I will giue thee rest from al thine enemies: also the Lord telleth thee, that he will make thee an house. And when thy daies bee fulfilled, thou shalt sleepe with thy fathers, and I wil set vp thy seede after thee, which shall procede out of thy body, and will stablishe his kingdome. He shall buylde an house for my Name, and I will stablishe ye throne of his kingdome for euer. I will be his father, and hee shall bee my sonne: and if he sinne, I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the plagues of the children of men. But my mercy shall not depart away from him, as I tooke it from Saul whome I haue put away before thee. And thine house shall be stablisshed and thy kingdome for euer before thee, euene thy throne shalbe stablisshed for euer.
According to all these wordes, and according to all this vision, Nathan spake thus vnto Dauid. Then King Dauid went in, and sate before the Lord, and sayde, Who am I, O Lord God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto? And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O Lord God, therefore thou hast spoken also of thy seruants house for a great while: but doth this appertaine to man, O Lord God? And what can Dauid say more vnto thee? for thou, Lord God, knowest thy seruant. For thy words sake, and according to thine owne heart hast thou done all these great things, to make them knownen vnto thy seruant. Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for thy words sake, and according to thine owne heart hast thou done all these great things, to make them knownen vnto thy seruant. Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that wee haue heard with our eares. And what one people in the earth is like thy people, like Israel? whose God went and redeemed them to himselfe, that they might be his people, and that hee might make him a name, and do for you great things, and terrible for thy land, O Lord, euen for thy people, whome thou redeemedst to thee out of Egypt, from the nations, and their gods? For thou hast ordeyned to thy selfe thy people Israel to be thy people for euer: and thou Lord art become their God. Nowe therefore, O Lord God, confirme for euer the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy seruant and his house, and doe as thou hast sayde. And let thy Name bee magnified for euer by them that shall say, The Lord of hostes is the God ouer Israel: and let the house of thy seruant Dauid be stablished before thee. For thou, O Lord of hostes, God of Israel, hast reueiled vnto thy seruant, saying, I will build thee an house: therefore hath thy seruant bene bold to pray this prayer vnto thee. Therefore nowe let it please thee to blesse the house of thy seruant, that it may continue for euer before thee: for thou, O Lord God, hast spoken it: and let the house of thy seruant be blessed for euer, with thy blessing.

After this now, Dauid smote the Philistims, and subdued them, and Dauid tooke the bridle of bondage out of the hand of the Philistims. And hee smote Moab, and measured them with a corde, and cast them downe to the ground: he measured them with two cordes to put them to death, and with one full corde to keepe them aliue: so became the Moabites Dauids seruants, and brought giftes. Dauid smote also Hadadezer the sonne of Rehob King of Zobah, as he went to recouer his border at the riuer Euphrates. And Dauid tooke of them a thousand and seuen hundred horsemen, and twenty thousande footemen, and Dauid destroyed all the chargets, but he reserued an hundredth chargets of them. Then came the Aramites of Dammesek to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, but Dauid slewe of the Aramites two and twenty thousande men. And Dauid put a garison in Aram of Damesek: and the Aramites became seruants to Dauid, and brought gifts. And the Lord saued Dauid wheresoever he went. And Dauid tooke the shieldes of gold that belonged to the seruants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem. And out of Betah, and BerOTHai (cities of Hadadezer) king Dauid brought exceeding much brasse. Then Toi king of Hamath heard howe Dauid had smitten all the hoste of Hadadezer, Therefore Toi sent Ioram his sonne vnto King Dauid, to salute him, and to reioyce with him because he had fought against Hadadezer, and beaten him (for Hadadezer had warre with Toi) who brought with him vessels of siluer, and vessels of golde, and vessels of brasse. And King Dauid did dedicate them vnto the Lord with the siluer and golde that he had dedicate of all the nations, which he had subdued: Of Aram, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philistims, and of Amalek, and of the spoyle of Hadadezer ye sonne of Rehob King of Zobah. So Dauid gate a name after that hee returned, and had slayne of the Aramites in the valley of salt eighteene thousand men. And he put a garison in Edom: throughout all Edom put he souldiers, and all they of Edom became Dauids seruants: and the Lord kept Dauid whithersoever he went. Thus Dauid reigned ouer all Israel, and executed iudgement and iustice vnto all his people. And Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah was ouer the hoste, and Ioshaphat the sonne of Ahilud was recorder. And Zadok the sonne of Ahitub, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the Priestes, and Seraijah the Scribe. And Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and Dauids sonnes were chiefe rulers.

And Dauid sayde, Is there yet any man left of the house of Saul, that I may shew him mercie for Ionathans sake? And there was of the housholde of Saul a servuant whose name was Ziba, and when they had called him vnto Davuid, the King sayd vnto him, Art thou Ziba? And he sayd, I thy servuant am he. Then the King sayd, Remayneth there yet none of the house of Saul, on whome I may shewe the mercie of God? Ziba then answered the King, Ionathan hath yet a sonne lame of his feete. Then the King said vnto him, Where is he? And Ziba said vnto the King, Behold, he is in the house of Machir ye sonne of Ammiel of Lo-debar. Then King Davuid sent, and tooke him out of the house of Machir the sonne of Ammiel of Lo-debar. Nowe when Mephibosheth the sonne of Ionathan, the sonne of Saul was come vnto Davuid, he fel on his face, and did reuere. And Davuid sayde, Mephibosheth? And he answered, Beholde thy servuant. Then Davuid sayd vnto him, Feare not: for I wil surely shewe theee kindnes for Ionathan thy fathers sake, and will restore thee all the fieldes of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eate bread at my table continually. And he bowed himselfe and sayd, What is thy servuant, that thou shouldest looke vpon such a dead dog as I am? Then the king called Ziba Sauls servuant, and said vnto him, I haue giue vnto thy masters sonne all that perteined to Saul and to all his house. Thou therefore and thy sonnes and thy servantes shall till the lande for him, and bring in that thy masters sonne may haue foode to eate. And Mephibosheth thy masters sonne shall eate bread alway at my table (nowe Ziba had fifteene sonnes, and twentie servantes) Then sayd Ziba vnto the King, According to all that my lord the King hath commaded his servuant, so shall thy seruat do, that Mephibosheth may eate at my table, as one of the Kings sonnes. Mephibosheth also had a yong sonne named Micha, and all that dwelled in the house of Ziba, were servantes vnto Mephibosheth. And Mephibosheth dwelt in Ierusalem: for he did eate continually at the Kings table, and was lame on both his feete.

After this, the King of the children of Ammon dyed, and Hanun his sonne reigned in his steade. Then sayde Davuid, I will shewe kindnesse vnto Hanun the sonne of Nahash, as his father shewed kindnesse vnto me. And Davuid sent his servantes to comfort him for his father. So Davuids servants came into the lande of the children of Ammon. And the princes of the children of Ammon sayde vnto Hanun their lorde, Thinkest thou that Davuid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters to thee? hath not Dauid rather sent his seruants vnto thee, to search the citie, and to spie it out, and to ouerthrow it? Wherefore Hanun tooke Dauids seruants, and shaued off the halfe of their beard, and cut off their garments in the middle, euen to their buttockes, and sent them away. When it was told vnto Dauid, he sent to meete them (for the men were exceedingly ashamed) and the King sayde, Tary at Iericho, vntill your beards be growen, then returne. And when the children of Ammon sawe that they stanke in the sight of Dauid, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Aramites of the house of Rehob, and the Aramites of Zoba, twentie thousande footemen, and of King Maacah a thousand men, and of Ish-tob twelue thousande men. And when Dauid heard of it, he sent Ioab, and all the hoste of the strong men. And the children of Ammon came out, and put their armie in aray at the entring in of the gate: and the Aramites of Zoba, and of Rehob, and of Ish-tob, and of Maacah were by themselves in the fielde. When Ioab saw that the front of the battel was against him before and behinde, he chose of all the choyse of Israel, and put them in aray against the Aramites. And the rest of the people hee deliuered into the hande of Abishai his brother, that hee might put them in aray against the children of Ammon. And he sayde, If the Aramites be stronger then I, thou shalt helpe me, and if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, I will come and succour thee. Be strong and let vs be valiant for our people, and for the cities of our God, and let the Lord do that which is good in his eyes. Then Ioab, and the people that was with him, ioyned in battel with the Aramites, who fled before him. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Aramites fled, they fled also before Abishai, and entred into the citie. so Ioab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Ierusalem. And when the Aramites sawe that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered them together. And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Aramites that were beyond the Riuere: and they came to Helam, and Shobach the capitaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them. When it was shewed Dauid, then he gathered all Israel together, and passed ouer Iordan and came to Helam: and the Aramites set themselues in aray against Dauid, and fought with him: And the Aramites fled be-before Israel: and David destroyed seven hundred chariots of the Aramites, and four hundred horsemen, and smote Shobach the captain of his host, who died there. And when all the Kings, that were servants to Hadarezer, saw that they fell before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them. And the Aramites feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

And when the year was expired in the time when Kings go forth to battle, David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel, who destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah: but David remained in Jerusalem. And when it was evening tide, David arose out of his bed, and walked upon the roof of the Kings palace: and from the roof he saw a woman washing her self: and the woman was very beautifull to looke upon. And David sent and inquired what woman it was: and one sayde, Is not this Bath-sheba the daughter of Eliam, wife to Vriah the Hittite? Then David sent messengers, and tooke her away: and she came vnto him and he lay with her: (now she was purified from her uncleaness) and she returned vnto her house. And the woman conceived: therefore shee sent and tolde David, and sayd, I am with childe. Then David sent to Joab, saying, Send me Vriah the Hittite. And Joab sent Vriah to David. And when Vriah came vnto him, David demanded him how Joab did, and how the people fared, and how the warre prospered. Afterward David said to Vriah, Go downe to thine house, and wash thy feete. So Vriah departed out of the Kings palace, and the king sent a present after him. But Vriah slept at the doore of the Kings palace with all the servants of his lord, and went not downe to his house. Then they tolde David, saying, Vriah went not downe to his house: and David saide vnto Vriah, Commest thou not from thy iourney? why didst thou not go downe to thine house? Then Vriah answered David, The Arke and Israel, and Iudah dwell in tents: and my lord Joab and the servants of my lord abide in the open fields: shall I then go into mine house to eate and drinke, and lie with my wife? by thy life, and by the life of thy soule, I will not do this thing. Then David sayd vnto Vriah, Tary yet this day, and to morrow I will send thee away. So Vriah abode in Ierusalem that day, and the morowe. Then David called him, and hee did eate and drinke before him, and he made him drunke: and at euen he went out to lie on his couch with the servants of his Lord, but went not downe to his house. And on the morowe Dauid wrote a letter to Ioab, and sent it by the hand of Vriah. And he wrote thus in the letter, Put ye Vriah in the forefront of the strength of the battell, and recule ye backe from him, that he may be smitten, and die.
So when Ioab besieged the citie, he assigned Vriah vnto a place, where he knewe that strong men were. And the men of the citie came out, and fought with Ioab: and there fell of the people of the servants of Dauid, and Vriah the Hittite also dyed. Then Ioab sent and tolde Dauid all the things concerning the warre, And he charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made an ende of telling all the matters of the warre vnto the King, And if the kings anger arise, so that he say vnto thee, Wherefore approched ye vnto the citie to fight? knewe ye not that they would hurle from the wall? Who smote Abimelech sonne of Ierubesheth? did not a woman cast a piece of a milstone vpon him from the wall, and he died in Thebez? why went you nie the wall? Then say thou, Thy servaunt Vriah the Hittite is also dead. So the messenger went, and came and shewed Dauid all that Ioab had sent him for. And the messenger said vnto Dauid, Certainly the men preuailed against vs, and came out vnto vs into the field, but we pursued them vnto the entring of the gate.
But the shooters shot from ye wall against thy servants, and some of the Kings servants be dead: and thy servaunt Vriah the Hittite is also dead. Then Dauid said vnto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say vnto Ioab, Let not this thing trouble thee: for the sworde deuoureth one as well as another: make thy battell more strong against the citie and destroy it, and encourage thou him.
And when the wife of Vriah heard that her husband Vriah was dead, shee mourned for her husband. So when the mourning was past, Dauid sent and tooke her into his house, and shee became his wife, and bare him a sonne: but ye thing that Dauid had done, displeased the Lord.

Then the Lord sent Nathan vnto Dauid, who came to him, and sayd vnto him, There were two men in one citie, the one riche, and the other poore. The rich man had exceeding many sheepe and oxen: But the poore had none at all, saue one litle sheepe which he had bought, and nourished vp: and it grew vp with him, and with his children also, and did eate of his owne morsels, and dranke of his owne cup, and slept in his bosome, and was vnto him as his daughter. Now there came a stranger vnto the rich man, who refused to take of his owne sheepe, and of his owne oxen to dresse for the stranger that was come vnto him, but tooke the poore mans sheepe, and dressed it for the man that was come to him. Then Dauid was exceeding wroth with the man, and sayde to Nathan, As the Lord liueth, the man that hath done this thing, shall surely dye, And he shall restore the lambe foure folde, because he did this thing, and had no pitie thereof. Then Nathan sayd to Dauid, Thou art the man. Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, I anoyned thee King ouer Israel, and deliuered thee out of the hand of Saul, And gaue thee thy lorde house, and thy lords wiues into thy bosome, and gaue thee the house of Israel, and of Iudah, and would moreouer (if that had bene too litle) haue giuen thee such and such things. Wherefore hast thou despised the commandement of the Lord, to doe euill in his sight? thou hast killed Vriah the Hittite with ye sworde, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slaine him with the sworde of the children of Ammon. Now therefore the sworde shall neuer depart from thine house, because thou hast despised me, and taken the wife of Vriah the Hittite to be thy wife. Thus sayth the Lord, Behold, I will rayse vp euil against thee out of thine owne house, and will take thy wiues before thine eyes, and give them vnto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wiues in the sight of this sunne. For thou diddest it secretly: but I will doe this thing before all Israel, and before the sunne. Then Dauid sayde vnto Nathan, I haue sinned against the Lord. And Nathan sayde vnto Dauid, I haue sinned against the Lord. And Nathan sayde vnto Dauid, The Lord also hath put away thy sinne, thou shalt not die. Howbeit because by this deede thou hast caused the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme, the childe that is borne vnto thee shall surely die. So Nathan departed vnto his house: and the Lord stroke the childe that Vriahs wife bare vnto Dauid, and it was sicke. Dauid therefore besought God for the childe, and fasted and went in, and lay all night vpon the earth. Then the Elders of his house arose to come vnto him, and to cause him to rise from the groud: but he would not, neither did he eate meate with them. So on the seuenth day the child dyed: and the seruants of Dauid feared to tell him that the childe was dead: for they sayde, Beholde, while the childe was aliue, we spake vnto him, and he woulde not hearken vnto our voyce: how then shall we say vnto him, The childe is dead, to vexe him more? But when Dauid sawe that his servantes whispered, Dauid perceiued that the childe was dead: therefore Dauid sayde vnto his servants, Is the childe dead? And they sayd, He is dead. Then Dauid arose from the earth, and washed and anoynted himselfe, and changed his apparell, and came into the house of the Lord, and worshipped, and afterward came to his owne house, and bade that they should set bread before him, and he did eate. Then saide his servants vnto him, What thing is this, that thou hast done? thou diddest fast and weepe for the childe while it was aliue, but when the childe was dead, thou diddest rise vp, and eate meate. And he sayde, While the childe was yet aliue, I fasted, and wept: for I sayde, Who can tell whether God will haue mercy on me, that the childe may liue? But now being dead, wherefore shoulde I now fast?
Can I bring him againe any more? I shall goe to him, but he shall not returne to me. And Dauid comforted Bath-sheba his wife, and went in vnto her, and lay with her, and she bare a sonne, and he called his name Salomon: also the Lord loued him. For the Lord had sent by Nathan the Prophet: therefore he called his name Iedidiah, because the Lord loued him. Then Ioab fought against Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and tooke the citie of the kingdome. Therefore Ioab sent messengers to Dauid, saying, I haue fought against Rabbah, and haue taken the citie of waters. Now therefore gather the rest of the people together, and besiege the city, that thou mayest take it, lest the victorie be attributed to me. So Dauid gathered al the people together, and went against Rabbah, and besieged it, and tooke it. And he tooke their Kings crowne from his head, (which weighed a talent of golde, with precious stones) and it was set on Dauids head: and he brought away the spoyle of the citie in exceeding great abundance. And he carried away the people that was therein, and put them vnder sawes, and vnder yron harowes, and vnder axes of yron, and cast them into the tyle kylne: euen thus did he with all the cities of the children of Ammon. Then Dauid and all the people returned vnto Ierusalem.

Now after this so it was, that Absalom the sonne of Dauid hauing a fayre sister, whose name was Tamar, Amnon the sonne of Dauid loued her. And Amnon was so sore vexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar: for she was a virgin, and it seemed hard to Amnon to doe any thing to her. But Amnon had a friend called Ionadab, the sonne of Shimeah Dauids brother: and Ionadab was a very subtile man. Who sayde vnto him, Why art thou the Kings sonne so leane from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? Then Amnon answered him, I loue Tamar my brother Absaloms sister. And Ionadab sayd vnto him, Lie downe on thy bed, and make thy selfe sicke: and when thy father shall come to see thee, say vnto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come, and giue me meate, and let her dresse meate in my sight, that I may see it, and eate it of her hand. So Amnon lay downe, and made himselfe sicke: and when the King came to see him, Amnon sayde vnto the King, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may receiue meate at her hand. Then Dauid sent home to Tamar, saying, Goe now to thy brother Amnons house, and dresse him meate. So Tamar went to her brother Amnons house, and he lay downe: and she tooke floure, and knead it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes. And she tooke a pan, and powred them out before him, but he would not eat. Then Amnon saide, Cause ye euery man to goe out from me: so euery man went out from him. Then Amnon said vnto Tamar, Bring the meate into the chamber, that I may eate of thine hand. And Tamar tooke the cakes which shee had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother. And when she had set them before him to eate, he tooke her, and sayd vnto her, Come, lye with me, my sister. But shee answered him, Nay, my brother, doe not force me: for no such thing ought to be done in Israel: commit not this follie. And I, whither shall I cause my shame to goe? and thou shalt be as one of the fooles in Israel: now therefore, I pray thee, speake to the King, for he will not denie me vnto thee. Howbeit he would not hearken vnto her voyce, but being stronger then she, forced her, and lay with her. Then Amnon hated her exceedingly, so that the hatred wherewith he hated her, was greater then the loue, wherewith hee had loued her: and Amnon sayde vnto her, Vp, get thee hence. And she answered him, There is no cause: this euill (to put mee away) is greater then the other that thou diddest vnto me: but he would not heare her, But called his servant that serued him, and sayd, Put this woman now out from me, and locke the doore after her. (And she had a garment of diuers coulours vpon her: for with such garments were the Kings daughters that were virgins, appareled) Then his servant brought her out, and locked the doore after her. And Tamar put ashes on her head and rent the garment of diuers colours which was on her, and layde her hand on her head, and went her way crying. And Absalom her brother sayd vnto her, Hath Amnon thy brother bene with thee? Now yet be still, my sister: he is thy brother: let not this thing grieue thine heart. So Tamar remayned desolate in her brother Absaloms house. But when King Dauid heard all these things, he was very wroth. And Absalom sayde vnto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad: for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Tamar. And after the time of two yeeres, Absalom had sheepe sheerers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim, and Absalom called all the Kings sonnes. And Absalom came to the King and sayd, Beholde now, thy seruant hath sheepe sheerers: I pray thee, that the King with his seruants would goe with thy seruant. But the King answered Absalom, Nay my sonne, I pray thee, let vs not goe all, lest we be chargeable vnto thee. Yet Absalom lay sore vpon him: howbeit he would not go, but thanked him. Then sayd Absalom, But, I pray thee, shall not my brother Amnon goe with vs? And the king answered him, Why should he go with thee? But Absalom was instant vpon him, and he sent Amnon with him, and all the Kings children. Now had Absalom commanded his seruants, saying, Marke now when Amnons heart is merry with wine, and when I say vnto you, Smite Amnon, kill him, feare not, for haue not I commanded you? be bold therefore, and play the men. And the seruantes of Absalom did vnto Amnon, as Absalom had commanded: and al the Kings sonnes arose, and every man gate him vp vpon his mule, and fled. And while they were in the way, tydings came to Dauid, saying, Absalom hath slaine al the Kings sonnes, and there is not one of them left. Then the King arose, and tare his garments, and lay on the ground, and all his seruants stoode by with their clothes rent. And Ionadab the sonne of Shimeah Dauids brother answered and sayde, Let not my lord suppose that they haue slayne all the yong men the Kings sonnes: for Amnon onely is dead, because Absalom had reported so, since hee forced his sister Tamar. Nowe therefore let not my lord the King take the thing so grieuously, to thinke that all ye Kings sonnes are dead: for Amnon only is dead. Then Absalom fled: and the yong man that kept the watch, lift vp his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill side behinde him. And Ionadab said vnto the King, Behold, ye Kings sonnes come: as thy seruant sayd, so it is. And assoone as hee had left speaking, behold, the Kings sonnes came, and lift vp their voyces, and wept: and the King also and all his seruants wept exceedingly sore. But Absalom fled away, and went to Talmai the sonne of Ammihur King of Geshur: and Dauid mourned for his sonne euery day. So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three yeeres. And King Dauid desired to go forth vnto Absalom, because he was pacified concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

Then Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah perceyued, that the Kings heart was toward Absalom, And Ioab sent to Tekoah, and brought thence a subtile woman, and sayd vnto her, I pray thee, fayne thy selfe to mourne, and nowe put on mourning apparel, and anoynt not thy selfe with oyle: but be as a woman that had now long time mourned for the dead. And come to the King, and speake on this maner vnto him, (for Ioab taught her what she should say). Then the woman of Tekoah spake vnto the king, and fel downe on her face to the ground, and did obeysance, and sayd, Helpe, O King. Then the King sayd vnto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am in deede a widow, and mine husband is dead: And thine handmayd had two sonnes, and they two stroue together in the fielde: (and there was none to part them) so the one smote the other, and slew him. And beholde, the whole familie is risen against thine handmayde, and they sayde, Deliuer him that smote his brother, that we may kill him for the soule of his brother whome hee slewe, that we may destroy the heire also: so they shall quenche my sparkle which is left, and shall not leaue to mine husband neither name nor posteritie vpon the earth. And the King said vnto the woman, Go to thine house, and I wil giue a charge for thee. Then the woman of Tekoah said vnto the King, My lord, O King, this trespas be on me, and on my fathers house, and the King and his throne be giltlesse. And the King sayde, Bring him to me that speaketh against thee, and he shall touche thee no more. Then said she, I pray thee, let the King remember the Lord thy God, that thou wouldest not suffer many reuengers of blood to destroy, lest they slay my sonne. And he answered, As the Lord liueth, there shall not one heare of thy sonne fall to the earth. Then the woman said, I pray thee, let thine handmayde speake a worde to my lord the King. And he sayd, Say on. Then the woman sayde, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? or why doeth the King, as one which is faultie, speake this thing, that he will not bring againe his banished? For we must needes dye, and we are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered vp againe: neither doeth God spare any person, yet doeth he appoynt meanes, not to cast out from him, him that is expelled. Nowe therefore that I am come to speake of this thing vnto my lord the King, the cause is that the people haue made me afrayd: therefore thine handmayde sayd, Nowe will I speake vnto the King: it may be that the King will perfourme the request of his handmayde. For the King wil heare, to deliuer his handmayde out of the hande of the man that woulde destroy mee, and also my sonne from the inheritance of God. Therefore thine handmaid sayd, The word of my lord the King shall now be comfortable: for my lorde the King is euen as an Angel of God in hearing of good and bad: therefore the Lord thy God be with thee. Then the King answered, and said vnto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall aske thee. And the woman sayde, Let my lord the King now speake. And the King said, Is not the hand of Ioab with thee in all this? Then the woman answered, and sayd, As thy soule liueth, my lord the King, I will not turne to the right hande nor to the left, from ought that my lorde the King hath spoken: for euen thy seruant Ioab bade mee, and he put all these wordes in the mouth of thine handmayde. For to the intent that I should chage the forme of speach, thy seruant Ioab hath done this thing: but my lord is wise according to the wisdome of an Angel of God to vnderstande all things that are in the earth. And the King sayde vnto Ioab, Beholde nowe, I haue done this thing: go then, and bring the yong man Absalom againe. And Ioab fell to the grounde on his face, and bowed himselfe, and thanked the King. Then Ioab sayde, This day thy seruant knoweth, that I haue found grace in thy sight, my lord the King, in that the King hath fulfilled the request of his seruant. And Ioab arose, and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Ierusalem. And the King sayde, Let him turne to his owne house, and not see my face. So Absalom turned to his owne house, and saw not the Kings face. Nowe in all Israel there was none to be so much prayed for beautie as Absalom: from the sole of his foote euen to the toppe of his head there was no blemish in him. And when he polled his head, (for at every yeeres ende he polled it: because it was too heauie for him, therefore he polled it) he weyghed the heare of his head at two hundred shekels by the Kings weight. And Absalom had three sonnes, and one daughter named Tamar, which was a fayre woman to looke vpon. So Absalom dwelt the space of two yeres in Ierusalem, and saw not the Kings face. Therefore Absalom sent for Ioab to sende him to the King, but he would not come to him: and when he sent againe, he would not come.
Therefore he sayde vnto his seruants, Beholde, Ioab hath a fielde by my place, and hath barley therein: go, and set it on fire: and Absaloms seruants set the field on fire. Then Ioab arose, and came to Absalom vnto his house, and sayd vnto him, Wherefore haue thy seruants burnt my field with fire? And Absalom answered Ioab, Beholde, I sent for thee, saying, Come thou hither, and I wil send thee to the King for to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? It had bene better for me to haue bene there still: nowe therefore let mee see the Kings face: and if there be any trespasse in me, let him kill me. Then Ioab came to the King, and told him: and he called for Absalom, who came to the King, and bowed himselfe to the grounde on his face before the King, and the King kissed Absalom.

After this, Absalom prepared him charrets and horses, and fiftie men to runne before him. And Absalom rose vp early, and stoode hard by the entring in of the gate: and euery man that had any matter, and came to the King for judgement, him did Absalom call vnto him, and sayde, Of what citie art thou? And he answered, Thy seruant is of one of the tribes of Israel. Then Absalom said vnto him, See, thy matters are good and righteous, but there is no man deputed of the King to heare thee. Absalom sayd moreouer, Oh that I were made Iudge in the lande, that every man which hath any matter of controuersie, might come to me, that I might do him iustice. And when any man came neere to him, and did him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and tooke him, and kissed him. And on this maner did Absalom to al Israel, that came to the King for iudgement: so Absalom stale the hearts of the men of Israel. And after fourtie yeeres, Absalom sayd vnto the King, I pray thee, let me go to Hebron, and render my vowe which I haue vowed vnto the Lord. For thy servauant vowed a vowe when I remayned at Geshur, in Aram, saying, If the Lord shall bring me againe in deede to Ierusalem, I will serue the Lord. And the King sayd vnto him, Go in peace.
So he arose, and went to Hebron. Then Absalom sent spyes throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, When yee heare the sound of the trumpet, Ye shall say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron.
And with Absalom went two hundreth men out of Ierusalem, that were called: and they went in their simplicitie, knowing nothing. Also Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids counseller, from his citie Giloh, while he offred sacrifices: and the treason was great: for the people encreased still with Absalom.
Then came a messenger to Dauid, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are turned after Absalom. Then Dauid sayd vnto all his servauants that were with him at Ierusalem, Vp, and let vs flee: for we shall not escape from Absalom: make speede to depart, lest he come suddenly and take vs, and bring euill vpon vs, and smite the citie with the edge of the sworde. And the Kings servauants sayd vnto him, Behold, thy servauants are ready to do according to all that my lord the King shall appoynt. So the King departed and all his houshold after him, and the King left ten concubines to keepe the house. And the King went forth and all the people after him, and taried in a place farre off. And all his servauants went about him, and all the Cherethites and all the Pelethites and all the Gittites, euen sixe hudreth men which were come after him from Gath, went before the King. Then sayde the King to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore commest thou also with vs? Returnde aud abide with the King, for thou art a stranger: depart thou therefore to thy place. Thou camest yesterday, and should I cause thee to wander to day and go with vs? I will goe whither I can: therefore returne thou and cary againe thy brethren: mercy and truth be with thee. And Ittai answered the King, and said, As the Lord liueth, and as my lord the King liueth, in what place my lord the King shalbe, whether in death or life, even there surely will thy servant bee. Then Dauid sayd to Ittai, Come, and go forward. And Ittai the Gittite went, and all his men, and all the children that were with him. And all the countrey wept with a loude voyce, and all the people went forward, but the King passed over the brooke Kidron: and all the people went over toward the way of ye wildernes. And lo, Zadok also was there, and all the Leuites with him, bearing the Arke of the covenant of God: and they set downe the Arke of God, and Abiathar went vp vntill the people were all come out of the citie.
Then the King said vnto Zadok, Carie the Arke of God againe into the citie: if I shall finde fauour in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me againe, and shewe me both it, and the Tabernacle thereof. But if he thus say, I haue no delite in thee, behold, here am I, let him doe to me as seemeth good in his eyes. The King sayde againe vnto Zadok the Priest, Art not thou a Seer? returne into the citie in peace, and your two sonnes with you: to wit, Ahimaaz thy sonne, and Ionathan the sonne of Abiathar.
Behold, I wil tarie in the fieldes of the wildernes, vntill there come some worde from you to be tolde me. Zadok therefore and Abiathar caried the Arke of God againe to Ierusalem, and they taried there. And Dauid went vp the mount of olives and wept as he went vp, and had his head couered, and went barefooted: and al the people that was with him, had euery man his head couered, and as they went vp, they wept. Then one tolde Dauid, saying, Ahithophel is one of them that haue cospired with Absalom: and Dauid sayde, O Lord, I pray thee, turne the counsell of Ahithophel into foolishnesse. Then Dauid came to the toppe of the mount where he worshipped God: and beholde, Hushai the Archite came against him with his coate torne, and having earth vpon his head. Vnto whom Dauid sayd, If thou goe with me, thou shalt be a burthen vnto me.
But if thou returne to the citie, and say vnto Absalom, I wil be thy servant, O King, (as I haue bene in time past thy fathers servant, so will I now be thy servant) then thou mayest bring me the counsell of Ahithophel to nought. And hast thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the Priests? therefore what so euer thou shalt heare out of the Kings house, thou shalt shew to Zadok and Abiathar the Priests. Beholde, there are with them their two sonnes: Ahimaaz Zadoks sonne, and Ionathan Abiathars sonne: by them also shall ye send me euery thing that ye can heare. So Hushai Dauids friend went into the citie: and Absalom came into Ierusalem.

When Dauid was a little past the top of the hill, behold, Ziba the seruant of Mephibosheth mette him with a couple of asses sadled, and vpon them two hundreth cakes of bread, and an hundreth bunches of raisins, and an hundreth of dryed figges, and a bottel of wine. And the King said vnto Ziba, What 2 meanest thou by these? And Ziba said, They be asses for the kings housholde to ride on, and bread and dryed figges for the yong men to eate, and wine, that the faint may drinke in the wilderness. And the king sayde, But where is thy masters sonne? Then Ziba answered the King, Beholde, he remayneth in Ierusalem: for he sayde, This day shall the house of Israel restore me the kingdome of my father. Then said the King to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that perteined vnto Mephibosheth. And Ziba saide, I beseech thee, let me finde grace in thy sight, my lord, O King. And when king Dauid came to Bahurim, behold, thence came out a man of the familie of the house of Saul, named Shimei the sonne of Gera: and he came out, and cursed. And he cast stones at Dauid, and at all the seruants of King Dauid: and all the people, and all the men of warre were on his right hande, and on his left. And thus sayde Shimei when hee cursed, Come forth, come foorth thou murtherer, and wicked man. The Lord hath brought vpon thee all the blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned: and the Lord hath deliuered thy kingdome into the hand of Absalom thy sonne: and beholde, thou art taken in thy wickednesse, because thou art a murtherer. Then saide Abishai the sonne of Zeruiah vnto the King, Why doeth this dead dog curse my lord the King? let me goe, I pray thee, and take away his head. But the King saide, What haue I to doe with you, ye sonnes of Zeruiah? for he curseth, eue because the Lord hath bidden him curse Dauid: who dare then say, Wherfore hast thou done so? And Dauid sayd to Abishai, and to all his seruants, Beholde, my sonne which came out of mine owne bowels, seeketh my life: then howe much... more now may this sonne of Iemini? Suffer him to curse: for the Lord hath bidden him. It may be that the Lord will looke on mine affliction, and doe me good for his cursing this day.
And as Dauid and his men went by the way, Shimei went by the side of the mountaine ouer against him, and cursed as he went, and threw stones against him, and cast dust. Then came the King and all the people that were with him wearie, and refreshed them selues there. And Absalom, and all the people, the men of Israel, came to Ierusalem, and Ahithophel with him. And when Hushai the Archite Dauids friend was come vnto Absalom, Hushai said vnto Absalom, God saue the King, God saue the King. Then Absalom sayd to Hushai, Is this thy kindenes to thy friend? Why wentest thou not with thy friend? Hushai then answered vnto Absalom, Nay, but whome the Lord, and this people, and all the men of Israel chuse, his will I be, and with him will I dwell. And moreouer vnto whome shall I doe seruice? not to his sonne? as I serued before thy father, so will I before thee. Then spake Absalom to Ahithophel, Giue counsell what we shall doe. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom, Goe in to thy fathers concubines, which he hath left to keepe the house: and when all Israel shall heare, that thou art abhorred of thy father, the hands of all that are with thee, shall be strong.
So they spread Absalom a tent vpon the top of the house, and Absalom went in to his fathers concubines in the sight of all Israel. And the counsell of Ahithophel which he counseled in those dayes, was like as one had asked counsell at the oracle of God: so was all the counsel of Ahithophel both with Dauid and with Absalom.

Moreouer Ahithophel said to Absalom, Let me chuse out now twelve thousand men, and I will vp and follow after Dauid this night, And I will come vpon him: for he is wearie, and weake handed: so I will feare him, and all the people that are with him, shall flee, and I will smite the King onely, And I will bring againe all the people vnto thee, and when all shall returne, ( the man whome thou seekest being slaine) all the people shalbe in peace. And the saying pleased Absalom well, and all the Elders of Israel. Then said Absalom, Call now Hushai the Archite also, and let vs heare likewise what he sayth. So when Hushai came to Absalom, Absalom spake vnto him, saying, Ahithophel hath spoken thus: shall we doe after his saying, or no? tell thou. Hushai then answered vnto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath giuen, is not good at this time. For, said Hushai, thou knowest thy father, and his men, that they be strong men, and are chafed in minde as a beare robbed of her whelps in the feld: also thy father is a valiant warrier, and will not lodge with the people. Behold, he is hid now in some caue, or in some place: and though some of them be ouerthrowen at the first, yet the people shall heare, and say, The people that follow Absalom, be ouerthrowen. Then he also that is valiant whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall shrinke and faint: for all Israel knoweth, that thy father is valiant, and they which be with him, stout men. Therefore my counsell is, that all Israel be gathered vnto thee, from Dan euen to Beer-sheba as the sand of the sea in nomber, and that thou goe to battell in thine owne person. So shall we come vpon him in some place, where we shall finde him, and we will vpon him as the dewe falleth on the ground: and of all the men that are with him, wee will not leaue him one. Moreouer if he be gotten into a citie, then shall all the men of Israel bring ropes to that citie, and we will draw it into the riuer, vntill there be not one small stone founde there. Then Absalom and all the men of Israel sayde, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better, then the counsell of Ahithophel: for the Lord had determined to destroy the good counsell of Ahithophel, that the Lord might bring euill vpon Absalom. Then said Hushai vnto Zadok and to Abiathar the Priests, Of this and that maner did Ahithophel and the Elders of Israel counsell Absalom: and thus and thus haue I counseled. Now therefore sende quickly, and shewe Dauid, saying, Tarie not this night in the fieldes of the wildernesse, but rather get thee ouer, lest the King be deuoured and all the people that are with him. Now Ionathan and Ahimaaz abode by En-rogel: (for they might not be seene to come into the citie) and a maid went, and tolde them, and they went and shewed King Dauid. Neuertheless a yong man sawe them, and tolde it to Absalom. therefore they both departed quickly, and came to a mans house in Bahurim, who had a well in his court, into the which they went downe. And the wife tooke and spred a couering ouer the welles mouth, and spred ground corne thereon, that the thing
And when Absaloms servants came to the wife into the house, they said, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman answered them, They be gone ouer the brooke of water. And when they had sought them, and could not finde them, they returned to Ierusalem. And assoone as they were departed, the other came out of the well, and went and tolde King Dauid, and sayde vnto him, Vp, and get you quickly ouer the water: for such counsell hath Ahithophel giuen against you. Then Dauid arose, and all the people that were with him, and they went ouer Iorden vntil the dawning of the day, so that there lacked not one of them, that was not come ouer Iorden. Nowe when Ahithophel sawe that his counsell was not followed, he sadled his asse, and arose, and he went home vnto his citie, and put his houshold in order, and hanged him selfe, and dyed, and was buryed in his fathers graue. Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Iorden, he, and all the men of Israel with him. And Absalom made Amasa capitaine of the hoste in the stead of Ioab: which Amasa was a mans sonne named Ithra an Israelite, that went in to Abigail the daughter of Nahash, sister to Zeruiah Ioabs mother. So Israel and Absalom pitched in the land of Gilead. And when Dauid was come to Mahanaim, Shobi the sonne of Nahash out of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Machir the sonne of Ammiel out of Lo-debar, and Barzelai the Gileadite out of Rogel Brought beds, and basens, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and floure, and parched corne, and beans, and lentiles, and parched corne. And they brought hony, and butter, and sheepe, and cheese of kine for Dauid and for the people that were with him, to eate: for they said, The people is hungry, and wearie, and thirstie in the wildernesse.

Then Dauid numbred the people that were with him, and set ouer them capitaines of thousands and capitaines of hundreths. And Dauid sent foorth the third part of the people vnder the hand of Ioab, and the thirde part vnder the hand of Abishai Ioabs brother the sonne of Zeruiah: and the other third part vnder the hand of Ittai the Gittite. and the King said vnto the people, I will goe with you my selfe also. But the people answered, Thou shalt not goe foorth: for if we flee away, they will not regarde us, neither will they passe for vs, though halfe of vs were slaine:
but thou art now worth ten thousand of vs: therefore nowe it is better that thou succour vs out of the citie. Then the King said vnto them, What seemeth you best, that I will doe. So the King stood by the gate side, and all the people came out by hundreths and by thousands. And the King commanded Ioab and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Entreate the yong man Absalom gently for my sake. and all the people heard whe the King gaue al the captains charge concerning Absalom. So the people went out into the fielde to meete Israel, and the battell was in the wood of Ephraim: Where the people of Israel were slaine before the seruants of Dauid: so there was a great slaughter that day, euen of twentie thousande. For the battel was skattered ouer all the countrey: and the wood deuoured much more people that day, then did the sworde. Nowe Absalom met the seruants of Dauid, and Absalom rode vpon a mule, and the mule came vnder a great thicke oke: and his head caught holde of the oke, and he was taken vp betweene the heauen and the earth: and the mule that was vnder him went away. And one that sawe it, tolde Ioab, saying, Beholde, I sawe Absalom hanged in an oke. Then Ioab saide vnto the man that tolde him, And hast thou in deede seene? why then diddest thou not there smite him to the grounde, and I woulde haue giuen thee ten shekels of siluer, and a girdle? Then the man saide vnto Ioab, Though I should receive a thousande shekels of siluer in mine hande, yet woulde I not lay mine hande vpon the Kings sonne: for in our hearing the King charged thee, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Beware, least any touche the yong man Absalom. If I had done it, it had bene the danger of my life: for nothing can be hid from the King: yea, thou thy selfe wouldest haue bin against me. Then saide Ioab, I will not thus tary with thee. And he tooke three dartes in his hande, and thrust them through Absalom, while he was yet aliue in the middes of the oke. And tenne seruants that bare Ioabs armour, compassed about and smote Absalom, and slewe him. Then Ioab blewe the trumpet, and the people returned from pursuing after Israel: for Ioab helde backe the people. And they tooke Absalom, and cast him into a great pit in the wood, and layed a mightie great heape of stones vpon him: and all Israel fled euery one to his tent. Nowe Absalom in his life time had taken and reared him vp a pillar, which is in the kings dale: for he saide, I haue no sonne to keepe my name in remembrance. and he called the pillar after his owne name, and it is called vnto this day, Absaloms place. Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Zadok, I pray thee, let me runne, and beare the King tidings that the Lord hath deliuered him out of the hande of his enemies. And Ioab said vnto him, Thou shalt not be the messenger to day, but thou shalt beare tidings another time, but to day thou shalt beare none: for the Kings sonne is dead. Then said Ioab to Cushi, Goe, tel the king, what thou hast scene. And Cushi bowed himselfe vnto Ioab, and ran. Then saide Ahimaaz the sonne of Zadok againe to Ioab, What, I pray thee, if I also runne after Cushi? And Ioab said, Wherefore now wilt thou runne, my sonne, seeing that thou hast no tidings to bring? Yet what if I runne? Then he saide vnto him, Runne. So Ahimaaz ranne by the way of the plaine, and ouerwent Cushi. Now Davuid sate betwene the two gates. And the watchman went to the top of the gate vpon the wall, and lift vp his eyes, and sawe, and beholde, a man came running alone. And the watchman cryed, and tolde ye king. And the King said, If he be alone, he bringeth tidings. And he came apace, and drew neere. And the watchman saw another man running, and the watchman called vnto the porter, and said, Behold, another man runneth alone. And the King said, He also bringeth tidings. And the watchman said, Me thinketh the running of the formost is like the running of Ahimaaz the sonne of Zadok. Then the King said, He is a good man, and commeth with good tidings. And Ahimaaz called, and sayde vnto the King, Peace be with thee: and he fell downe to the earth vpon his face before the King, and saide, Blessed be the Lord thy God, who hath shut vp the men that lift vp their handes against my lorde the King. And the King saide, Is the yong man Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz answered, When Ioab sent the Kings seruant, and me thy seruant, I sawe a great tumult, but I knewe not what. And the King said vnto him, Turne aside, and stand here. so he turned aside and stoode still. And beholde, Cushi came, and Cushi saide, Tidings, my lorde the King: for the Lord hath deliuered thee this day out of the hande of all that rose against thee. Then the King saide vnto Cushi, Is the yong man Absalom safe? And Cushi answered, The enemies of my lorde the King, and all that rise against thee to doe thee hurt, be as that yong man is. And the King was mooued, and went vp to the chamber ouer the gate, and wept: and as he went, thus he said, O my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne Absalom: woulde God I had dyed for thee, O Absalom, my sonne, my sonne.

And it was tolde Ioab, Behold, the King weepeth and mourneth for Absalom. Therefore the victorie of that day was turned into mourning to all the people: for the people heard say that day, The King soroweth for his sonne. And the people went that day into the citie secretly, as people confounded hide them selues when they flee in battell. So the King hid his face, and the King cryed with a loude voyce, My sonne Absalom, Absalom my sonne, my sonne. Then Ioab came into the house to the King, and said, Thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy servants, which this day haue saued thy life and the liues of thy sones, and of thy daughters, and the liues of thy wiues, and the liues of thy concubines, In that thou louest thine enemies, and hatest thy friendes: for thou hast declared this day, that thou regardest neither thy princes nor servants: therefore this day I perceiue, that if Absalom had liued, and we all had dyed this day, that then it would haue pleased thee well. Nowe therefore vp, come out, and speake comfortably vnto thy servants: for I sweare by the Lord, except thou come out, there will not tarie one man with thee this night: and that wil be worse vnto thee, then all the euill that fell on thee from thy youth hitherto. Then the King arose, and sate in the gate: and they tolde vnto all the people, saying, Beholde, the King doeth sit in the gate: and all the people came before the King: for Israel had fled euery man to his tent. Then all the people were at strife thorowout all the tribes of Israel, saying, The King saued vs out of the hande of our enemies, and he deliuered vs out of the hande of the Philistims, and nowe he is fled out of the lande for Absalom. And Absalom, whome we anoynted ouer vs, is dead in battel: therefore why are ye so slow to bring the King againe? But King Davud sent to Zadok and to Abiathar the Priestes, saying, Speake vnto the Elders of Iudah, and say, Why are ye behind to bring the King againe to his house, (for the saying of al Israel is come vnto the king, euen to his house) Ye are my brethren: my bones and my flesh are ye: wherefore then are ye the last that bring the 13 King againe? Also say ye to Amasa, Art thou not my bone and my flesh? God do so to me and more also, if thou be not captaine of the hoste to me for euer in the roume of Ioab. So he bowed the heartes of all the men of Iudah, as of one man: therefore they sent to the King, saying, Returne thou with all thy servaunts. So the King returned, and came to Iorden. And Iudah came to Gilgal, for to goe to meete the King, and to con-duct him ouer Iorde. And Shimei the sonne of Gera, ye sonne of Iemini, which was of Bahurim, hasted and came down with the men of Iudah to meete king Dauid, And a thousande men of Beniamin with him, and Ziba the seruant of the house of Saul, and his fifteene sonnes and twentie seruants with him: and they went ouer Iorden before ye king. And there went ouer a boate to carie ouer the Kings houshold, and to do him pleasure. Then Shimei the sonne of Gera fell before the King, when he was come ouer Iorden, And saide vnto the King, Let not my lorde impute wickednesse vnto me, nor remember ye thing that thy seruant did wickedly when my lorde the King departed out of Ierusalem, that the King should take it to his heart. For thy seruant doeth knowe, that I haue done amisse: therefore beholde, I am the first this day of al the house of Ioseph, that am come to goe downe to meete my lord the King. But Abishai the sonne of Zeruiah answered, and said, Shal not Shimei die for this, because he cursed the Lordes anoynted? And Dauid saide, What haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of Zeruiah, that this day ye should be aduersaries vnto me? shall there any man die this day in Israel? for doe not I know that I am this day King ouer Israel? Therefore the King saide vnto Shimei, Thou shalt not die, and the king sware vnto him. And Mephibosheth the sonne of Saul came downe to meete the king, and had neither washed his feete, nor dressed his beard, nor washed his clothes from the time the king departed, vntill he returned in peace. And when he was come to Ierusalem, and met the king, the king said vnto him, Wherefore wentest not thou with me, Mephibosheth? And he answered, My lorde the king, my seruant deceived me: for thy seruant said, I would haue mine asse sadled to ride thereon, for to goe with the king, because thy seruant is lame. And he hath accused thy seruant vnto my lorde the king: but my lorde the king is as an Angel of God: doe therefore thy pleasure. For all my fathers house were but dead men before my lord the king, yet diddest thou set thy servant among them that did eate at thine owne table: what right therefore haue I yet to crye any more vnto the king? And the king said vnto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters? I haue said, Thou, and Ziba deuide the landes. And Mephibosheth saide vnto the king, Yea, let him take all, seeing my lorde the king is come home in peace. Then Barzillai the Gileadite came downe from Rogelim, and went ouer Iorden with the king, to conduct him ouer Iorden. Nowe Barzillai was a very aged man, euen fourescore yeere olde, and he had provided the king of sustenance, while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a man of very great substance. And the king said vnto Barzillai, Come ouer with me, and I will feede thee with me in Ierusalem. And Barzillai said vnto the king, Howe long haue I to liue, that I should goe vp with the king to Ierusalem? I am this day fourescore yeere olde: and can I discerne betweene good or euill? Hath thy servaunt any taste in that I eat or in that I drinke? Can I heare any more the voyce of singing men and women? wherefore then should thy servaunt be anymore a burthen vnto my lord the king? Thy servaunt will goe a litle way ouer Iorden with the king, and why wil the king recompence it me with such a rewarde? I pray thee, let thy servaunt turne backe againe, that I may die in mine owne citie, and be buryed in the graue of my father and of my mother: but beholde thy servaunt Chimham, let him goe with my lorde the king, and doe to him what shall please thee. And the king answered, Chimham shall go with me, and I will do to him that thou shalt be content with: and whatsoever thou shalt require of me, that will I do for thee. So all the people went ouer Iorden: and the King passed ouer: and the King kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and hee returned vnto his owne place. Then the King went to Gilgal, and Chimham went with him, and all the people of Iudah conducted the King, and also halfe ye people of Israel. And behold, all the men of Israel came to the King, and sayd vnto the King, Why haue our brethren the men of Iudah stollen thee away, and haue brought the King and his househould, and all Dauids men with him ouer Iorden? And all the men of Iudah answered the men of Israel, Because the King is neere of kin to vs: and wherefore now be ye angry for this matter? haue we eaten of the Kings cost, or have we taken any bribes? And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, We have ten parts in the King, and have also more right to David then ye: Why then did ye despise vs, that our advise should not bee first had in restoring our King? And the wordes of the men of Judah were fiercer then the wordes of the men of Israel.

Then there was come thither a wicked man (named Sheba the sonne of Bichri, a man of Iemini) and hee blew the trumpet, and said, We have no part in David, neither have we inheritance in the sonne of Ishai: euery man to his tents, O Israel. So euery man of Israel went from David and followed Sheba the sonne of Bichri: but the men of Judah claue fast vnto their King, from Iorden euen to Jerusalem. When David then came to his house to Jerusalem, the King tooke the ten women his concubines, that hee had left behinde him to keepe the house, and put them in warde, and fed them, but lay no more with them: but they were enclosed vnto the day of their death, liuing in widowhode.

Then sayde the King to Amasa, Assemble me the men of Judah within three dayes, and be thou here present. So Amasa went to assemble Judah, but hee taried longer then the time which he had appoynted him. Then David sayd to Abishai, Now shall Sheba the sonne of Bichri doe vs more harme then did Absalom: take thou therefore thy lords seruants and follow after him, lest he get him walled cities, and escape vs. And there went out after him Ioabs men, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and all the mightie men: and they departed out of Jerusalem, to follow after Sheba the sonne of Bichri. When they were at the great stone, which is in Gibeon, Amasa went before them, and Ioabes garment, that hee had put on, was girded vnto him, and vpon it was a sword girded, which hanged on his loynes in the sheath, and as hee went, it vsed to fall out. And Ioab sayde to Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? and Ioab tooke Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kisse him. But Amasa tooke no heede to the sworde that was in Ioabs hande: for therewith he smote him in the fift rib, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and smote him not the second time: so he dyed. then Ioab and Abishai his brother followed after Sheba the sonne of Bichri. And one of Ioabs men stood by him, and said, He that fauoureth Ioab, and hee that is of Dauids part, let him go after Ioab. And Amasa wallowed in blood in the mids of the way: and when the man sawe that all the people stood still, he remoued Amasa out of the way into the fielde, and cast a cloth vpon him, because he saw that euery one that came by him, stoode still. When hee was remoued out of the way, euery man went after Ioab, to follow after Sheba the sonne of Bichri. And he went through all the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, and Bethmaachah and all places of Berim: and they gathered together, and went also after him. So they came, and besieged him in Abel, neere to Bethmaachah: and they cast vp a mount against the citie, and the people thereof stood on the ramper, and al the people that was with Ioab, destroyed and cast downe the wall. Then cried a wise woman out of the citie, Heare, heare, I pray you, say vnto Ioab, Come thou hither, that I may speake with thee. And when hee came neere vnto her, the woman said, Art thou Ioab? And he answered, Yea. And she said to him, Heare the wordes of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do heare. Then shee spake thus, They spake in the olde time, saying, They shoulde aske of Abel. and so haue they continued. I am one of them, that are peaceable and faithful in Israel: and thou goest about to destroy a citie, and a mother in Israel: why wilt thou deuoure the inheritance of the Lord? And Ioab answered, and said, God forbid, God forbid it me, that I should deuoure, or destroy it. The matter is not so, but a man of mout Ephraim (Sheba ye sonne of Bichri by name) hath lift vp his had against ye King, euen against Dauid: deliuer vs him onely, and I will depart from the citie. And the woman saide vnto Ioab, Beholde, his head shalbe throwen to thee ouer the wall. Then the woman went vnto all the people with her wisedome, and they cut off the head of Sheba the sonne of Bichri, and cast it to Ioab: the he blewe the trumpet, and they retired from the citie, euery man to his tent: and Ioab returned to Ierusalem vnto the King. Then Ioab was ouer all the hoste of Israel, and Benaiah the sonne of Jehoiada ouer the Cherethites and ouer the Pelethies, And Adoram ouer the tribute, and Ioshaphat the sonne of Ahiulud the recorder, And Sheia was Scribe, and Zadok and Abiathar the Priests, And also Ira the Iairite was chiefe about Dauid.

Then there was a famine in the dayes of Dauid, three yeeres together: and Dauid asked counsell of the Lord, and the Lord answered. It is for Saul, and for his bloody house, because hee slew the Gibeonites. Then ye King called the Gibeonites and said vnto them. (Now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but a remnant of the Amorites, vnto whom ye children of Israel had sworne: but Saul sought to slay them for his zeale toward the children of Israel and Iudah) And Dauid said vnto the Gibeonites, What shall I doe for you, and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may blesse the inheritance of the Lord? The Gibeonites then answered him, Wee will haue no siluer nor golde of Saul nor of his house, neither for vs shalt thou kill any man in Israel. And he said, What ye shall say, that will I doe for you. Then they answered the King, The man that consumed vs and that imagined euill against vs, so that we are destroyed from remaining in any coast of Israel. Let seuen men of his sonnes be deliuered vnto vs, and we will hang them vp vnto the Lord in Gibeah of Saul, the Lordes chosen. And the King said, I will giue them. But the King had compassion on Mephibosheth the sonne of Ionathan the sonne of Saul, because of the Lordes othe, that was betweene them, euen betweene Dauid and Ionathan the sonne of Saul. But the King tooke the two sonnes of Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, whome shee bare vnto Saul, euen Armoni and Mephibosheth and the fiue sonnes of Michal, the daughter of Saul, whome shee bare to Adriel the sonne of Barzillai the Meholathite. And hee deli-uered them vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, which hanged them in the mountaine before the Lord: so they died all seuen together, and they were slaine in the time of haruest: in the first dayes, and in the beginning of barly haruest. Then Rizpah the daughter of Aiah tooke sackecloth and hanged it vp for her vpon the rocke, from the beginning of haruest, vntill water dropped vpom them from the heauen, and suffered neither the birdes of the aire to light on the by day, nor beasts of the fielde by night.
And it was told Dauid, what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah ye concubine of Saul had done. And Dauid went and tooke the bones of Saul and the bones of Ionathan his sonne from the cit-zens of Iabesh Gilead, which had stollen them from the streete of Beth-shan, where the Philistims had hanged them, when the Philistims had slaine Saul in Gilboa. So hee brought thence the bones of Saul and the bones of Ionathan his sonne, and they gathered the bones of them that were hanged. And the bones of Saul and of Ionathan his sonne buried they in the countrey of Benjamin in Zelah, in the graue of Kish his father: and when they had perfourmed all that the King had commanded, God was then appeased with the land. Againe the Philistims had warre with Israel: and Dauid went downe, and his seruants with him, and they fought against the Philistims, and Dauid fainted. Then Ishi-benob which was of the sonnes of Haraphah (the head of whose speare wayed three hundreth shekels of brasse) euene he being girded with a newe sword, thought to haue slaine Dauid. But Abishai the sonne of Zeruiah succoured him, and smote the Philistim, and killed him. Then Dauids men sware vnto him, saying, Thou shalt goe no more out with vs to battell, lest thou quench the light of Israel. And after this also there was a battell with the Philistims at Gob, then Sibbechai the Hushathite slewe Saph, which was one of ye sonnes of Haraphah. And there was yet another battell in Gob with the Philistims, where Elhanah the sonne of Iaare-oregim, a Bethlehemite slewe Goliath the Gittite: the staffe of whose speare was like a weauers beame. Afterward there was also a battell in Gath, where was a man of a great stature, and had on euerie hand sixe fingers, and on euerie foote sixe toes, foure and twentie in nomber: who was also the sonne of Haraphah. And when he reuiled Israel, Ionathan the sonne of Shima the brother of Dauid slewe him. These foure were borne to Haraphah in Gath, and died by the hande of Dauid and by the hands of his seruants.

And Dauid spake the woordes of this song vnto the Lord, what time the Lord had deliuered him out of the handes of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul. And he sayd, The Lord is my rocke and my fortresse, and he that deliuereth mee. God is my strength, in him will I trust: my shielde, and the horne of my saluation, my hie tower and my refuge: my Sauiour, thou hast saued me from violence. I will call on the Lord, who is worthy to be praysed: so shall I be safe from mine enemies. For the pangs of death haue compassed me: the floods of vn-godlinessse haue made mee afrayd. The sorowes of the graue compassed mee about: the snares of death ouertooke mee. But in my tribulation did I call vpon the Lord, and crie to my God, and he did heare my voyce out of his temple, and my crie did enter into his eares. Then the earth trembled and quaked: the foundations of the heauens mooued and shooke, because he was angrie. Smoke went out at his nostrels, and consuming fire out of his mouth: coles were kindled thereat. He bowed the heauens also, and came downe, and darkenes was vnder his feete. And he rode vpon Cherub and did flie, and hee was seene vpon the winges of the winde. And hee made darkenesse a Tabernacle round about him, euen the gatherings of waters, and the cloudes of the ayre. At the brightnesse of his presence the coles of fire were kindled. The Lord thunders from heauen, and the most hie gaue his voyce. He shot arrowes also, and scattered them: to wit, lightning, and destroyed them. The chanelles also of the sea appeared, euen the foundations of the worlde were discouered by the rebuking of the Lord, and at the blast of the breath of his nostrels. He sent from aboue, and tooke me: hee drewe me out of many waters. He deliuered me from my strong enemie, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me. They preuented me in the day of my calamitie, but the Lord was my stay, And brought me foorth into a large place: he deliuered me, because he fauoured me. The Lord rewarded me according to my righteousnesse: according to the purenesse of mine handes he recompensed me. For I kept the wayes of the Lord, and did not wickedly against my God. For all his lawes were before me, and his statutes: I did not depart therefrom. I was vpright also towarde him, and haue kept me from my wickednesse. Therefore the Lord did reward me according to my righteousnesse, according to my purenesse before his eyes. With the godly thou wilt shewe thy selfe godly: with the vpright man thou wilt shewe thy selfe vpright. With the pure thou wilt shewe thy selfe pure, and with the frowarde thou wilt shewe thy selfe frowarde. Thus thou wilt saue the poore people: but thine eyes are vpon the hautie to humble them. Surely thou art my light, O Lord: and the Lord will lighten my darkenes. For by thee haue I broken through an hoste, and by my God haue I leaped ouer a wall. The way of God is vncorrupt: the word of the Lord is tryed in the fire: he is a shield to all that trust in him. For who is God besides the Lord? and who is mightie, saue our God? God is my strength in battel, and maketh my way vpright. He maketh my feete like hindes feete, and hath set me vpon mine hie places. He teacheth mine handes to fight, so 35 that a bowe of brasse is broken with mine armes. Thou hast also 36 giuen me the shield of thy saluation, and thy louing kindnesse 37 hath caused me to increase. Thou hast enlarged my steppes 38 vnder me, and mine heeles haue not slid. I haue pursued mine 39 enemies and destroyed them, and haue not turned againe vntill 40 I had consumed them. Yea, I haue consumed them and thrust 41 them through, and they shall not arise, but shall fall vnder my 42 feete. For thou hast girded me with power to battell, and them 43 that arose against me, hast thou subdued vnder me. And thou 44 hast giuen me the neckes of mine enemies, that I might destroy 45 them that hate me. They looked about, but there was none 46 to saue them, euen vnsto the Lord, but he answered them not. 47 Then did I beate them as small as the dust of the earth: I did 48 treade them flat as the clay of the streeete, and did spread them 49 abroad. Thou hast also deliuered me from the contentions of 50 my people: thou hast preserued me to be the head ouer nations: 51 the people which I knewe not, doe serue me. Strangers shalbe 52 in subiection to me: assoone as they heare, they shall obey me. 53 Strangers shall shrinke away, and feare in their priuie chambers. 54 Let the Lord liue, and blessed be my strength: and God, euen 55 the force of my saluation be exalted. It is God that giueth me 56 power to reuenge me, and subdue the people vnder me. And 57 rescueth me from mine enemies: (thou also hast lift me vp from 58 them that rose against me, thou hast deliuered me from the cru- 59 ell man. Therefore I will praise thee, O Lord amog the nations, 60 and will sing vnsto thy Name) He is the tower of saluation for 61 his King, and sheweth mercie to his anointed, euen to Dauid, 62 and to his seede for euer.

These also be the last wordes of Dauid, Dauid the sonne of 63 Ishai saith, euen the man who was set vp on hie, the Anointed 64 of the God of Iacob, and the sweete singer of Israel saith, The 65 Spirit of the Lord spake by me, and his worde was in my tongue. 66
The God of Israel spake to me, ye strength of Israel saide, Thou 67 shalt beare rule ouer men, being iust, and ruling in the feare 68 of God. Euen as the morning light when the sunne riseth, the 69 morning, I say, without cloudes, so shall mine house be, and not 70 as the grasse of the earth is by the bright raine. For so shall 71 not mine house be with God: for he hath made with me an eu-erlasting covenant, perfect in all pointes, and sure: therefore all mine health and whole desire is, that he will not make it growe so. But the wicked shalbe euery one as thornes thrust away, because they can not be taken with handes. But the man that shall touch them, must be defensed with yron, or with the shaft of a speare: and they shall be burnt with fire in the same place. These be the names of the mightie men whome Dauid had. He that sate in the seate of wisedome, being chiefe of the princes, was Adino of Ezni, he slewe eight hundreth at one time. And after him was Eleazar the sonne of Dodo, the sonne of Ahohi, one of the three worthies with Dauid, when they defied the Philistims gathered there to battel, when the men of Israel were gone vp. He arose and smote the Philistims vntill his hande was wearie, and his hande claue vnto the sworde: and the Lord gaue great victorie the same day, and the people returned after him onely to spoyle. After him was Shammah the sonne of Age the Hararite: for the Philistims assembled at a towne, where was a piece of a fielde full of lentils, and the people fled from the Philistims. But he stoode in the middes of the fielde, and defended it, and slewe the Philistims: so the Lord gaue great victorie. Afterward three of the thirtie captaines went downe, and came to Dauid in the haruest time vnto the caue of Adullam, and the hoste of the Philistims pitchted in the valley of Rephaim. And Dauid was then in an holde, and the garison of ye Philistims was then in Beth-lehem. And Dauid longed, and said, Oh, that one would giue me to drinke of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate. The three mightie brake into the host of the Philistims, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and tooke and brought it to Dauid, who woulde not drinke thereof, but powred it for an offring vnto ye Lord, And said, O Lord, be it farre from me, that I should doe this. Is not this the blood of the men that went in ieopardie of their liues? therefore he woulde not drinke it. These things did these three mightie men. And Abishai the brother of Ioab, the sonne of Zeruiah, was chiefe among the three, and he lifted vp his speare against three hundreth, and slewe them, and he had the name among the three. For he was most excellent of the three, and was their captaine, but he attained not vnto the first three. And Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada the sonne of a valiant man, which had done many actes, and was of Kabzeel, slew two strong men of Moab: he went downe also, and slew a lyon in the middes of a pit in the time of snowe. And he slew an Egyptian a man of great stature, and the Egyptian had a speare in his hande: but he went downe to him with a staffe, and plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hand, and slewed him with his owne speare. These things did Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and had the name among the three worthies. He was honourable among thirtie, but he attained not to the first three: and Dauid made him of his counsell. Asahel the brother of Ioab was one of the thirtie: Elhanan the sonne of Dodo of Beth-lehem: Shammah the Harodite: Erika ye Harodite: Helez the Paltite: Ira the sonne of Ikkes the Tekoite: Abiezer the Anethothite: Mebunnai the Husathite: Zalmon an Ahohite: Maharai the Netophathite: Heleb the sonne of Baanah a Netophathite: It-tai the sonne of Ribai of Gibeah of the children of Beniamin: Benaiah the Pirathonite: Hiddai of the riuer of Gaash: Abi-albon the Arbathite: Azmaueth the Barhumite: Elihaba the Shaalbonite: of the sonnes of Iashen, Ionathan: Shammah the Hararite: Ahiam the sonne of Sharar the Hamrite: Eliphelet the sonne of Ahasbai the sonne of Maachathi: Eliam the sonne of Ahithophel the Gilonite: Hezra the Carmelite: Paarai the Arbite: Igal the sonne of Nathan of Zobah: Bani the Gadite: Zelek the Ammonite: Naharai the Becrothite, the armour bearer of Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah: Ira the Ithrite: Gareb the Ithrite: Uriiah the Hittite, thirtie and seuen in all.

And the wrath of the Lord was againe kindled against Israel, and he moued Dauid against them, in that he said, Goe, number Israel and Iudah. For the King said to Ioab the captaine of the hoste, which was with him, Goe speedily now through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan euen to Beer-sheba, and number ye the people, that I may knowe the number of the people. And Ioab saide vnto the King, The Lord thy God increase the people an hundreth folde more then they be, and that the eyes of my lorde the King may see it: but why doeth my lord the King desire this thing? Notwithstanding the Kings worde preuailed against Ioab and against the capitaines of the hoste: therefore Ioab and the capitaines of the hoste went out from the presence of the King to number the people of Israel. And they passed ouer Iorden, and pitched in Aroer at the right side of the citie that is in the middes of the valley of Gad and toward Iazer. Then they came to Gilead, and to Tahtim-hodshi, so they came to Dan Iaan, and so about to Zidon. And came to the fortresse of Tyrs and to all the cities of the Huites and of the Canaanites, and went toward the South of Iudah, euen to Beer-sheba. So when they had gone about all the lande, they returned to Ierusalem at the ende of nine moneths and twentie dayes. And Ioab delivered the nomber and summe of the people vnto the King: and there were in Israel eight hundreth thousande strong men that drewe swordes, and the men of Iudah were fiue hundreth thousand men.

Then Dauids heart smote him, after that he had numbred the people: and Dauid said vnto the Lord, I haue sinned exceedingly in that I haue done: therefore nowe, Lord, I beseech thee, take away the trespasse of thy seruant: for I haue done very foolishly. And when Dauid was vp in the morning, the worde of the Lord came vnto the Prophet Gad Dauids Seer, saying, Go, and say vnto Dauid, Thus saith ye Lord, I offer thee three thinges, chuse thee which of them I shall doe vnto thee. So Gad came to Dauid, and shewed him, and said vnto him, Wilt thou that seuen yeeres famine come vpon thee in thy lande, or wilt thou flee three moneths before thine enemies, they following thee, or that there bee three dayes pestilence in thy land? nowe aduise thee, and see, what answere I shall giue to him that sent me. And Dauid said vnto Gad, I am in a wonderfull strait: let vs fall nowe into the hand of the Lord, (for his mercies are great) and let mee not fall into the hand of man. So the Lord sent a pestilece in Israel, from the morning euen to the time appointed: and there dyed of the people from Dan euen to Beer-sheba seuentie thousand men. And when the Angel stretched out his hande vpon Ierusalem to destroy it, the Lord repented of the euil, and said to the Angel that destroyed the people, It is sufficient, holde nowe thine hand. And the Angel of the Lord was by the threshing place of Araunah the Iebusite. And Dauid spake vnto the Lord (when he sawe the Angel that smote the people) and saide, Behold, I haue sinned, yea, I haue done wickedly: but these sheepe, what haue they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, be against mee and against my fathers house. So Gad came the same day to Dauid, and said vnto him, Go vp, reare an altar vnto the Lord in the threshing floore of Araunah the Iebusite. And 19 Dauid (according to the saying of Gad) went vp, as the Lord and his servants comming toward him, and Araunah went out, and bowed himselfe before the King on his face to the ground, and Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the King come to his seruant? Then Dauid answered, To bye the threshing floore of thee for to builde an altar vnto the Lord, that the plague may cease from the people. Then Araunah saide vnto Dauid, Let my lord the King take and offer what seemeth him good in his eyes: beholde the oxen for the burnt offring, and charets, and the instruments of the oxen for wood. (All these things did Araunah as a King giue vnto the King: and Araunah saide vnto the King, The Lord thy God be fauourable vnto thee) Then the King saide vnto Araunah, Not so, but I will bye it of thee at a price, and will not offer burnt offring vnto ye Lord my God of that which doeth cost me nothing. So Dauid bought the threshing floore, and the oxen for fiftie shekels of siluer. And Dauid built there an altar vnto the Lord, and offred burnt offrings and peace offrings, and the Lord was appeased toward ye lande, and the plague ceased from Israel.
Now when King David was old, and striken in yeeres, they couered him with clothes, but no heate came vnto him. Wherefore his seruants saide vnto him, Let there be sought for my lord ye King a yong virgin, and let her stand before the king, and cherish him: and let her lie in thy bosome, that my lord the King may get heate. So they sought for a faire young maide thoroughout all the coastes of Israel, and founde one Abishag a Shunamite, and brought her to the king. And the maid was exceeding faire, and cherished the king, and ministred to him, but the King knew her not. Then Adoniia the sonne of Haggith exalted himselfe, saying, I will be king. And he gate him charets and horsemen, and fiftie men to run before him. And his father would not displease him from his childehood, to say, Why hast thou done so? And hee was a very goodly man, and his mother bare him next after Absalom. And he tooke counsel of Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah, and of Abiathar the Priest: and they helped forward Adoniia. But Zadok the Priest, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and Nathan the Prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the men of might, which were with Dauid, were not with Adoniia. Then Adoniia sacrificed sheepe and oxen, and fat cattel by the stone of Zoheleth, which is by En-rogel, and called all his brethren the kings sonnes, and al the men of Iudah ye Kings servants. But Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah, and the mightie men, and Salomon his brother bee called not. Wherefore Nathan spake vnto Bath-sheba the mother of Salomon, saying, Hast thou not heard, that Adoniia the sonne of Haggith doeth reigne, and Dauid our lord knoweth it not? Now therefore come, and I will now giue thee counsell, howe to saue thine owne life, and the life of thy sonne Salomon. Go, and get thee in vnto King Dauid, and say vnto him, Didest not thou, my lorde, O King, sweare vnto thine handmaide, saying, Assuredly Salomon thy sonne shall reigne after me, and he shall sit vpon my throne? why is then Adoniiah King? Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the King, I also will come in after thee, and confirme thy wordes. So Bath-sheba went in vnto the King into the chamber, and the King was verie olde, and Abishag the Shunammithe ministred vnto ye King. And Bathsheba bowed and made obeisance vnto the King. And the King saide, What is thy matter? And shee answered him, My lorde, thou swarest by the Lord thy God vnto thine handmaide, saying, Assuredly Salomon thy sonne shall reigne after me, and he shall sit vpon my throne. And beholde, nowe is Adoniiah king, and now, my lord, O King, thou knowest it not. And he hath offred many oxen, and fatte cattel, and sheepe, and hath called all the sonnes of the King, and Abiathar the Priest, and Ioab the captaine of the hoste: but Salomon thy seruant hath he not bidden. And thou, my lorde, O King, knowest that the eyes of all Israel are on thee, that thou shoulde tell them, who shoulde sit on the throne of my lord the King after him. For els when my lord the King shall sleepe with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe reputed vile. And lo, while she yet talked with the King, Nathan also the Prophet came in. And they tolde the King, saying, Beholde, Nathan the Prophet. And when he was come in to the King, hee made obeisance before the King vpon his face to the ground. And Nathan saide, My lorde, O King, hast thou said, Adoniiah shall reigne after mee, and he shall sit vpon my throne? For hee is gone downe this day, and hath slaine many oxen, and fat cattel, and sheepe, and hath called al the Kings sonnes, and the captaines of the hoste, and Abiathar the Priest: and behold, they eate and drinke before him, and say, God saue King Adoniiah. But me thy seruant, and Zadok the Priest, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and thy seruant Salomon hath he not called. Is this thing done by my lord the King, and thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruant, who should sitte on the throne of my lorde the King after him? Then King Dauid answered, and saide, Call me Bath-sheba. And shee came into ye Kings presence, and stoode before the King. And the King sware, saying, As the Lord liueth, who hath redeemed my soule out of all aduersitie, That as I sware vnto thee by the Lord God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Salomon thy sonne shall reign after me, and hee shall sit vpon my throne in my place, so will I certainly doe this day. Then Bath-sheba bowed her face to the earth, and did reverence vnto the King, and said, God saue my lord King Dauid for euer. And King Dauid saide, Call mee Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada. And they came before the King. Then the King said vnto them, Take with you the seruants of your lorde, and cause Salomon my sonne to ride vpon mine owne mule, and carie him downe to Gihon. And let Zadok the Priest and Nathan the Prophet anoint him there King ouer Israel, and blowe ye the trumpet, and say, God saue king Salomon. Then come vp after him, that hee may come and sit vpon my throne: and hee shall bee King in my steade: for I haue appointed him to be prince ouer Israel and ouer Iudah. Then Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada answered the King, and said, So be it, and the Lord God of my lord the King ratifie it. As the Lord hath bene with my lorde the King, so be he with Salomon, and exalt his throne aboue the throne of my lorde king Dauid. So Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites went downe and caused Salomon to ride vpon king Dauids mule, and brought him to Gihon. And Zadok the Priest tooke an horne of oyle out of the Tabernacle, and anointed Salomon: and they blewe the trumpet, and all the people said, God saue king Salomon. And all the people came vp after him, and the people piped with pipes, and reioyced with great ioye, so that the earth rang with the sound of them. And Adoniiah and all the ghestes that were with him, heard it: (and they had made an ende of eating) and when Ioab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said, What meaneth this noise and vprore in the citie? And as he yet spake, beholde, Ionathan the sonne of Abiathar the Priest came: and Adoniiah said, Come in: for thou art a worthie man, and bringest good tidings. And Ionathan answered, and said to Adoniiah, Verely our lord King Dauid hath made Salomon King. And the King hath sent with him Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they haue caused him to ride vpon the Kings mule. And Zadok the Priest, and Nathan ye Prophet haue anointed him King in Gihon: and they are gone vp from thence with ioy, and the citie is moued: this is the noise that ye haue heard. And Salomon also sitteth on the throne of the kingdome. And moreouer the Kings seruantes came to blesse our lord King Dauid, saying, God make the name of Salomon more famous then thy name, and exalt his throne aboue thy throne: therefore the King worshipped vpon the bed. And thus sayd the King also, Blessed bee the Lord God of Israel, who hath made one to sit on my throne this day, euen in my sight. Then all the ghestes that were with Adonijah, were afraide, and rose vp, and went euery man his way. And Adonijah fearing the presence of Salomon, arose and went, and tooke holde on the horns of the altar. And one tolde Salomon, saying, Beholde, Adonijah doeth feare King Salomon: for lo, he hath caught holde on the horns of the altar, saying, Let King Salomon sweare vnto me this day, that he will not slay his seruant with the sword. Then Salomon sayd, If he will shewe him selfe a worthy man, there shall not an heare of him fall to the earth, but if wickednes be found in him, he shall dye. Then King Salomon sent, and they brought him from the altar, and he came and did obeisance vnto King Salomon. And Salomon sayde vnto him, Go to thine house.

Then the dayes of Dauid drewe neere that he should die, and hee charged Salomon his sonne, saying, I go the way of all the earth: be strong therefore, and shew thy selfe a man, And take heede to the charge of the Lord thy God, to walke in his wayes, and keepe his statutes, and his commandements, and his judgements, and his testimonies, as it is written in the Law of Moses, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and in euery thing whereunto thou turnest thee, That the Lord may confirme his worde which hee spake vnto me, saying, If thy sonnes take heede to their way, that they walke before me in trueth, with all their hearts, and with all their soules, thou shalt not (sayd he) want one of thy posteritie vpon the throne of Israel. Thou knowest also what Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah did to me, and what he did to the two captaines of the hostes of Israel, vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, and vnto Amasa the sonne of Iether: whome he slewe, and shed blood of battell in peace, and put the blood of warre vpon his girdle that was about his loynes, and in his shooes that were on his feete. Doe therefore according to thy wisdome, and let thou not his hoare head go downe to the grave in peace.
But shew kindnes vnto the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be among them that eate at thy table: for so they came to me when I fled from Absalom thy brother. And beholde, with thee is Shimei the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Iemini, of Bahurim, which cursed mee with an horrible curse in the day when I went to Mahanaim: but hee came downe to meete me at Iorden, and I sware to him by the Lord, saying, I will not slay thee with the sword. But thou shalt not count him innocent: for thou art a wise man, and knowest what thou oughtest to doe vnnto him: therefore thou shalt cause his hoare head to goe downe to the grave with blood. So Dauid slept with his fathers, and was buried in the citie of Dauid. And the dayes which Dauid reigned vpon Israel, were fourtie yeeres: seuen yeeres reigned he in Hebron, and thirtie and three yeeres reigned he in Jerusalem.
Then sate Salomon vpon the throne of Dauid his father, and his kingdome was stablished mightily. And Adonijah the sonne of Haggith came to Bath-sheba the mother of Salomon: and she saide, Commest thou peaceably? And hee said, Yea. He said moreouer, I haue a sute vnto thee. And she sayd, Say on. Then he said, Thou knowest that the kingdome was mine, and that all Israel set their faces on me, that I should reigne: howbeit the kingdome is turned away, and is my brothers: for it came to him by the Lord. Nowe therefore I aske thee one request, refuse me not. And she said vnnto him, Say on. And he sayd, Speake, I pray thee, vnnto Salomon ye King, (for he will not say thee nay) that he giue me Abishag the Shunammite to wife. And Bathsheba sayd, Well, I will speake for thee vnnto the King. Bathsheba therefore went vnnto King Salomon, to speake vnnto him for Adonijah: and the King rose to meete her, and bowed himselfe vnnto her, and sate downe on his throne: and he caused a seate to be set for the Kings mother, and she sate at his right hand.
Then she sayd, I desire a small request of thee, say me not nay.
Then the King sayde vnnto her, Aske on, my mother: for I will not say thee nay. She sayd then, Let Abishag the Shunammite be giuen to Adonijah thy brother to wife. But King Salomon answered and sayd vnnto his mother, And why doest thou aske Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? aske for him the kingdome also: for he is mine elder brother, and hath for him both Abiathar the Priest, and Joab the son of Zeruiah. Then King Salomon swore by the Lord, saying, God do so to me and more also, if Adoniiah hath not spoken this word against his own life. Now therefore as ye Lord liueth, who hath established me, and set me on the throne of David my father, who also hath made me an house, as he promised, Adoniiah shall surely die this day. And King Salomon sent by the hand of Benaiah the son of Iehoiada, and he smote him that he dyed. Then the King said unto Abiathar the Priest, Go to Anathoth unto thine own fields: for thou art worthy of death: but I will not this day kill thee, because thou barest the Ark of the Lord God before David my father, and because thou hast suffered in all, wherein my father hath been afflicted. So Salomon cast out Abiathar from being Priest unto the Lord, that he might fulfill the wordes of the Lord, which he spake against the house of Eli in Shiloh.

Then tidings came to Joab: (for Joab had turned after Adoniiah, but he turned not after Absalom) and Joab fled unto the Tabernacle of the Lord, and caught hold on the horns of the altar. And it was tolde king Salomon, that Joab was fled unto the Tabernacle of the Lord, and beholde, he is by the altar. Then Salomon sent Benaiah the son of Iehoiada, saying, Go, fall upon him. And Benaiah came to the Tabernacle of the Lord, and said unto him, Thus saith the King, Come out. And he said, Nay, but I will die here. Then Benaiah brought the King word againe, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me. And the King said unto him, Doe as he hath said, and smite him, and bury him, that thou mayest take away the blood, which Joab shed causelesse, from me and from the house of my father. And the Lord shall bring his blood upon his owne head: for he smote two men more righteous and better than he, and slew them with the sword, and my father David knew not: to wit, Abner the son of Ner, captain of the hoste of Israel, and Amasa the son of Iether captain of the hoste of Judah. Their blood shall therefore returne upon the head of Joab, and on the head of his seede for euer: but upon David, and upon his seede, and upon his house, and upon his throne shall there be peace for euer from the Lord. So Benaiah the son of Iehoiada went vp, and smote him, and slew him, and he was buryed in his owne house in the wildernesse. And the King put Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada in his roume ouer the hoste: and the King set Zadok the Priest in the roume of Abiathar. Afterwarde the King sent, and called Shimei, and sayde vnnto him, Buylde thee an house in Ierusalem, and dwell there, and depart not thence any whither.
For that day that thou goest out, and passest ouer the riuer of Kidron, knowe assuredly, that thou shalt dye the death: thy blood shall be vpon thine owne head. And Shimei sayd vnnto the King, The thing is good: as my lord the King hath sayd, so wil thy seruant doe. So Shimei dwelt in Ierusalem many dayes.
And after three yeres two of the seruants of Shimei fled away vnnto Achish sonne of Maachah King of Gath: and they tolde Shimei, saying, Behold, thy seruants be in Gath. And Shimei arose, and sadled his asse, and went to Gath to Achish, to seeke his seruantes: and Shimei went, and brought his seruants from Gath. And it was tolde Salomon, that Shimei had gone from Ierusalem to Gath, and was come againe. And the King sent and called Shimei, and sayde vnnto him, Did I not make thee to swere by the Lord, and protested vnnto thee, saying, That day that thou goest out, and walkest any whither, knowe assuredly that thou shalt dye the death? And thou saydest vnnto mee, The thing is good, that I haue heard. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lord, and the commandement wherewith I charged thee? The King sayde also to Shimei, Thou know-est all the wickednes whereunto thine heart is priuie, that thou diddest to Dauid my father: the Lord therefore shall bring thy wickednesse vpon thine owne head. And let King Salomon be blessed, and the throne of Dauid stablished before the Lord for euer. So the King comanded Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada: who went out and smote him that he dyed. And the kingdom was establisht in the hand of Salomon.

Salomon then made affinitie with Pharaoh King of Egypt, and tooke Pharaohs daughter, and brought her into the citie of Dauid, vntill hee had made an ende of buylding his owne house, and the house of the Lord, and the wall of Ierusalem round about.
Only the people sacrificed in the hie places, because there was no house buylt vnnto the name of the Lord, vntill those dayes. And Salomon loued the Lord, walking in the ordinances of Dauid his father: onely he sacrificed and offred incense in the hie places.
And the King went to Gibeon to sacrifice there, for that was the chiefe hie place: a thousand burnt offrings did Salomon offer vpon that altar. In Gibeon the Lord appeared to Salomon in a dreame by night: and God sayd, Aske what I shall giue thee. And Salomon sayd, Thou hast shewed vnto thy seruant Dauid my father great mercie, when hee walked before thee in trueth, and in righteousnesse, and in vprightnes of heart with thee: and thou hast kept for him this great mercie, and hast giuen him a sonne, to sit on his throne, as appeareth this day. And now, O Lord my God, thou hast made thy seruant King in steade of Dauid my father: and I am but a yong childe, and know not howe to go out and in. And thy seruant is in the mids of thy people, which thou hast chosen, euon a great people which cannot be told nor nobred for multitude. Giue therefore vnto thy seruant an vnderstanding heart, to iudge thy people, that I may discerne betweene good and bad: for who is able to iudge this thy mightie people? And this pleased the Lord well, that Salomon had desired this thing. And God sayde vnto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thy selfe long life, neryther hast asked riches for thy selfe, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies, but hast asked for thy selfe vnderstanding to heare iudgement, Beholde, I haue done according to thy wordes: lo, I haue giuen thee a wise and an vnderstanding heart, so that there hath bene none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall arise the like vnto thee. And I haue also giuen thee that, which thou hast not asked, both riches and honour, so that among the Kings there shall be none like vnto thee all thy dayes. And if thou wilt walke in my wayes, to keepe mine ordinances and my commandements, as thy father Dauid did walke, I will prolong thy dayes. And when Salomon awoke, behold, it was a dreame, and he came to Ierusalem, and stoode before the Arke of the couenant of the Lord, and offred burnt offrings and made peace offrings, and made a feast to all his seruants. Then came two harlots vnto the King, and stoode before him. And the one woman sayd, Oh my lorde, I and this woman dwell in one house, and I was deliuered of a childe with her in the house. And the third day after that I was deliuered, this woman was deliuered also: and we were in the house together: no stranger was with vs in the house, saue we twaine. And this womans sonne died in the night: for she ouerlay him. And she rose at midnight, and tooke my sonne from my side, while thine handmaide slept, and layde him in her bosome, and layde her dead sonne in my bosome. And when I rose in the morning to giue my sonne sucke, beholde, he was dead: and when I had well considered him in the morning, beholde, it was not my sonne, whom I had borne. Then the other woman sayd, Nay, but my sonne liueth, and thy sonne is dead. Againe she sayde, No, but thy sonne is dead, and mine alieue: thus they spake before the King. Then sayde the King, She sayth, This that liueth is my sonne, and the dead is thy sonne: and the other sayth, Nay, but the dead is thy sonne, and the liuing is my sonne. Then the King said, Bring me a sworde: and they brought out a sworde before the King. And the King sayde, Deuide ye the liuing child in twaine, and giue the one halfe to the one, and the other halfe to the other. Then spake the woman, whose the liuing child was, vnto the King, for her compassion was kindled toward her sonne, and she sayde, Oh my lorde, giue her the liuing childe, and slay him not: but the other sayde, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but deuide it.

Then the King answered, and sayde, Giue her the liuing childe, and slay him not: this is his mother. And all Israel heard the judgement, which the King had iudged, and they feared the King: for they sawe that the wisedome of God was in him to doe iustice.

And King Salomon was King ouer all Israel. And these were his princes, Azariah the sonne of Zadok the Priest, Elihoreph and Ahiah the sonnes of Shisha scribes, Iehoshaphat the sonne of Ahilud, the recorder, And Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer the hoste, and Zadok and Abiathar Priests, And Azariah the sonne of Nathan was ouer the officers, and Zabud the sonne of Nathan Priest was the Kings friend, And Ahishar was ouer the houshold: and Adoniram the sonne of Abda was ouer the tribute. And Salomon had twelue officers ouer all Israel, which prouided vitailes for the King and his housholde: eche man had a moneth in the yeere to prouide vitailes. And these are their names: the sonne of Hur in mount Ephraim: The sonne of Dekar in Makaz, and in Shaalbim and Beth-shemesh, and Elon and Beth-hanan: The sonne of Hesed in Aruboth, to whom perteined Sochoh, and all the land of Heper: The sonne of Abinadab in all the region of Dor, which had Taphath the daughter of Salomon to wife.
Baana the sonne of Ahilud in Taanach, and Megiddo, and in all Beth-shean, which is by Zartanah beneath Izreel, from Beth-shean to Abelmeholah, eue til beyond ouer against Iokmeam: The sonne of Geber in Ramoth Gilead, and his were the townes of Iair, the sonne of Manasseh, which are in Gilead, and vnder him was the region of Argob, which is in Bashan: threescore great cities with walles and barres of brasse. Ohinadab the sonne of Iddo had to Mahanaim: Ahimaaz in Naphtali, and he tooke Basmath the daughter of Salomon to wife: Baanah the sonne of Hushai in Asher and in Aloth: Iehoshaphat the sonne of Paruah in Issachar. Shimei the sonne of Elah in Beniamin: Geber the sonne of Vri in the countrey of Gilead, the land of Sihon King of the Amorites, and of Og King of Bashan, and was officer alone in the land. Judah and Israel were many, as the sand of the sea in number, eating, drinking, and making merry. And Salomon reigned ouer all kingdomes, from the Riuer vnto the lande of the Philistims, and vnto the border of Egypt, and they brought presents, and serued Salomon all the dayes of his life. And Salomons vitailes for one day were thirtie measures of fine floure, and threescore measures of meale: Ten fat oxen, and twentie oxen of the pastures, and an hundreth sheepe, beside hartes, and buckes, and bugles, and fat foule. For he ruled in all the region on the other side of the Riuer, from Tiphsah euen vnto Azzah, ouer all the Kings on the other side the Riuer: and he had peace round about him on euery side. And Judah and Israel dwelt without feare, euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his fig tree, from Dan, euen to Beer-sheba, all the dayes of Salomon. And Salomon had fourtie thousande stalles of horses for his charets, and twelue thousand horsemen. And these officers prouided vitaile for king Salomon, and for all that came to King Salomons table, euery man his moneth, and they suffred to lacke nothing. Barley also and strawe for the horses and mules brought they vnto the place where the officers were, euery man according to his charge. And God gaue Salomon wisdome and understanding exceeding much, and a large heart, euen as the sand that is on the sea shore, And Salomons wisdome excelled the wisedome of all the children of the East and all the wisedome of Egypt. For he was wiser then any man: yea, then were Ethan the Ezrahite, the Heman, then Chalcol, then Darda the sonnes of Mahol: and he was famous throughout all nations round about. And Salomon spake three thousand prouerbs: and his songs were a thousand and fiue. And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon, euen vnto the hyssope that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of foules, and of creeping thinges, and of fishes. And there came of all people to heare the wisedome of Salomon, from all Kings of the earth, which had heard of his wisedome.

And Hiram King of Tyrus sent his seruants vnto Salomon, (for he had heard, that they had anoyned him King in the roume of his father) because Hiram had euer loued Dauid. Also Salomon sent to Hiram, saying, Thou knowest that Dauid my father could not build an house vnto the Name of the Lord his God, for the warres which were about him on every side, vntill the Lord had put them vnder the soles of his feete. But now the Lord my God hath giuen me rest on every side, so that there is neither aduersarie, nor euill to resist. And beholde, I purpose to build an house vnto ye Name of the Lord my God, as the Lord spake vnto Dauid my father, saying, Thy sonne, whom I wil set vpon thy throne for thee, he shall build an house vnto my Name. Now therefore commaund, that they hewe me cedar trees out of Lebanon, and my seruants shall be with thy seruants, and vnto thee will I giue the hire for thy seruants, according to all that thou shalt appoynt: for thou knowest that there are none among vs, that can hewe timber like vnto the Sidonians. And when Hiram heard the wordes of Salomon, he reioyced greatly, and sayde, Blessed be the Lord this day, which hath giuen vnto Dauid a wise sonne ouer this mightie people. And Hiram sent to Salomon, saying, I haue considered the things, for the which thou sentest vnto me, and will accomplish all thy desire, concerning the cedar trees and firre trees. My seruants shall bring them downe from Lebanon to the sea: and I will conuey them by sea in raftes vnto the place that thou shalt shew me, and wil cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receiue them: nowe thou shalt doe mee a pleasure to minister foode for my familie. So Hiram gaue Salomon cedar trees and firre trees, euen his full desire. And Salomon gaue Hiram twentie thousand measures of wheate for foode to his householde, and twentie measures of beaten oyle. Thus much gaue Salomon to Hiram yere by yere.
And the Lord gave Solomon wisdom as he promised him. And there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two made a covenant. And King Solomon raised a sume out of all Israel, and the sume was thirtie thousand men: Whome he sent to Lebanon, ten thousand a moneth by course: they were a moneth in Lebanon, and two moneths at home. And Adoniram was ouer the summe. And Salomon had seuentie thousand that bare burdens, and fourescore thousand masons in the mountaine, Besides the princes, whome Salomon appoynted ouer the worke, euen three thousande and three hundreth, which ruled the people that wrought in the worke. And the King commanded them, and they brought great stones and costly stones to make the foundation of the house, euen hewed stones. And Salomons workemen, and the workemen of Hiram, and the masons hewed and prepared timber and stones for the buylding of the house.

And in the foure hundreth and foure score yeere (after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt) and in the fourth yere of the reigne of Salomon ouer Israel, in the moneth Zif, (which is the second moneth) he built the house of the Lord. And the house which King Solomon built for the Lord, was three score cubites long, and twentie broade, and thirtie cubites hie. And the porch before the Temple of the house was twentie cubites long according to the breadth of the house, and ten cubites broade before the house. And in the house he made windowes, broad without, and narrowe within. And by the wall of the house hee made galleries round about, euen by the walles of the house round about the Temple and the oracle, and made chambers round about. The nethermost gallerie was fiue cubites broade, and the middlemost sixe cubites broade, and the third seuen cubites broade: for he made restes round about without the house, that the beames should not be fastened in the walles of the house. And when the house was built, it was built of stone perfite, before it was brought, so that there was neither hammer, nor axe, nor any toole of yron heard in the house, while it was in building. The doore of the middle chamber was in the right side of the house, and men went vp with winding stayres into the middlemost, and out of the middlemost into the third. So he built the house and finished it, and sieled the house being vawted with sieling of cedar trees. And he built the galleries upon all the wall of the house of five cubits height, and they were joined to the house with beams of cedar. And the word of the Lord came to Solomon, saying, Concerning this house which thou buildest, if thou wilt walk in mine ordinances, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments, to walk in them, then will I perform unto thee my promise, which I promised to David thy father. And I will dwell among the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel. So Solomon built the house and finished it. And built the walls of the house within, with boards of cedar tree from the pavement of the house unto the walls of the ceiling, and within he covered them with wood, and covered the floor of the house with planks of firre. And he built twenty cubits in the sides of the house with boards of cedar, from the floor to the walls, and he prepared a place within it for the oracle, even the most holy place. But the house, that is, the Temple before it, was fourtie cubits long. And the cedar of the house within was carved with knops, and graven with flowers: all was cedar, so that no stone was seen. Also he prepared the place of the oracle in the mids of the house within, to set the Arke of the covenant of the Lord there. And the place of the oracle within was twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits broad, and twenty cubits high, and he covered it with pure gold, and covered the altar with cedar. So Solomon covered the house within with pure gold: and he shut the place of the oracle with chains of gold, and covered it with gold. And he overlaid all the house with gold, until all the house was made perfect. also he covered the whole altar, that was before the oracle, with gold. And within the oracle he made two Cherubims of olive tree, ten cubits high. The wing also of the one Cherub was five cubites, and the wing of the other Cherub was five cubites: from the uttermost part of one of his wings unto the uttermost part of the other of his wings, were ten cubites. Also the other Cherub was of ten cubites: both the Cherubims were of one measure and onewise. For the height of the one Cherub was ten cubits, and so was the other Cherub. And he put the Cherubims within the inner house, and the Cherubims stretched out their wings, so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other Cherub touched the other wall: and their other wings touched one another in the middles of the house. And he overlaid the Cherubims with golde. And he carued all the walles of the house round about with grauen figures of Cherubims and of Palmetrees, and grauen flowres within and without. And the floore of the house hee couered with golde within and without. And in the entring of the oracle he made two doores of oliue tree: and the vpper post and side postes were fiue square. The two doores also were of oliue tree, and he graued them with grauing of Cherubims and palme trees, and grauen floures, and couered them with golde, and layed thin golde vpon the Cherubims and vpon the palme trees. And so made he for the doore of the Temple, postes of oliue tree foure square. But the two doores were of firre tree, the two sides of the one doore were round, and the two sides of the other doore were round. And he graued Cherubims, and palme trees, and carued floures and couered the carued worke with golde, finely wrought. And hee built the court within with three rowes of hewed stone, and one rowe of beames of cedar. In the fourth yeere was the foundation of the house of the Lord layed in the moneth of Zif: And in the eleuenth yeere in the moneth of Bul, (which is the eight moneth) hee finished the house with all the furniture thereof, and in euery point: so was he seuen yeere in building it.

Bvt Salomon was building his owne house thirteene yeeres, and finished all his house. He built also an house called the forest of Lebanon, an hundreth cubites long, and fiftie cubites broad, and thirtie cubites hie, vpon foure rowes of cedar pillars, and cedar beames were layed vpon the pillars. And it was couered aboue with cedar vpon the beames, that lay on the fourtie and fiue pillars, fifteene in a rowe. And the windowes were in three rowes, and windew was against windew in three rankes. And all the doores, and the side postes with the windowes were foure square, and windowe was ouer against windowe in three rankes. And he made a porche of pillars fiftie cubites long, and thirtie cubites broade, and the porch was before them, even before them were thirtie pillars. Then he made a porche for the throne, where he iudged, euen a porche of judgement, and it was sieled with cedar from pauement to pauement. And in his house, where he dwelt, was an other hall more inwarde then the porche which was of the same worke. Also Salomon made an house for Pharaoh's daughter (whom he had taken to wife) like unto this porch. All these were of costly stones, hewed by measure, and sawed with sawes within and without, from the foundation unto the stones of an hand breadth, and on the outside to the great court. And the foundation was of costly stones, and great stones, even of stones of ten cubites, and stones of eight cubites. Above also were costly stones, squared by rule, and boardes of cedar. And the great court round about was with three rows of hewed stones, and a rowe of cedar beames: so was it to ye inner court of the house of the Lord, and to the porche of the house. Then King Salomon sent, and set one Hiram out of Tyrus. He was a widow's sonne of the tribe of Naphtali, his fathar being a man of Tyrus, and wrought in brasse: he was full of wisedomme, and understanding, and knowledge to worke all maner of worke in brasse: who came to King Salomon, and wrought all his worke. For he cast two pillars of brasse: ye height of a pillar was eighteen cubites, and a threede of twelve cubites did compasse either of ye pillars. And he made two chapiters of molten brasse to set on the tops of the pillars: the height of one of the chapiters was five cubites, and the height of the other chapiter was five cubites. He made grates like networke, and wrethen worke like chaynes for the chapiters that were on the top of the pillars, even seuen for the one chapiter, and seuen for the other chapiter. So he made the pillars and two rows of pomegranates round about in the one grate to couer the chapiters that were vpon the top. And thus did he for the other chapiter. And the chapiters that were on the toppe of the pillars were after lilye worke in ye porche, foure cubites. And the chapiters vpon the two pillars had also abowe, ouer against the belly within the networke pomegranates: for two hundereth pomegranates were in the two rankes about vpon either of the chapiters. And he set vp the pillars in the porche of the Temple. And when hee had set vp the right pillar, he called the name thereof Iachin: and when he had set vp the left pillar, he called the name thereof Boaz.
And vpon the top of the pillars was worke of lilyes: so was the workemanship of the pillars finished. And he made a molten sea ten cubites wide from brim to brim, rounde in compasse, and five cubites hie, and a line of thirtie cubites did compasse it about. And vnnder the brimme of it were knoppes like wilde cucumers compassing it round about: and the two rowes of knoppes were cast, when it was molten. It stoode on twelue bulles, three looking towarde the North, and three toward the West, and three toward the South, and three towards the East: and the sea stoode aboue vpon them, and all their hinder partes were inward. It was an hand bredth thicke, and the brim thereof was like the worke of the brim of a cup with floures of lilyes: it contained two thousad Baths. And he made tenne bases of brasse, one base was foure cubites long, and foure cubites broad, and three cubites hie. And the worke of the bases was on this maner, They had borders, and the borders were betweene the ledges: And on the borders that were betweene the ledges, were lyons, bulles and Cherubims: and vpon the ledges there was a base aboue: and beneath the lyons and bulles, were addicions made of thinne worke. And evey base had foure brasen wheeles, and plates of brasse: and the foure corners had undersetters: vnder the caldron were undersetters molten at the side of evey addition. And the mouth of it was within the chapiter and aboue to measure by the cubite: for the mouth thereof was round made like a base, and it was a cubite and halfe a cubite: and also vpon the mouth thereof were grauen workes, whose borders were foure square, and not round. And vnder the borders were foure wheeles, and the axeltrees of the wheeles ioyned to the base: and the height of a wheele was a cubite and halfe a cubite. And the faction of the wheeles was like the faction of a charet wheele, their axeltrees, and their naues and their felloes, and their spokes were all molten. And foure undersetters were vpon the foure corners of one base: and the undersetters thereof were of the base it selfe. And in the toppe of the base was a rounde compasse of halfe a cubite hie round about: and vpon the toppe of the base the ledges thereof and the borders thereof were of the same. And vpon the tables of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof he did graue Cherubims, lions and palmetrees, on the side of evey one, and addicions round about. Thus made he the tenne bases, They had all one casting, one measure, and one syse. Then made he ten caldrons of brasse, one caldron conteyned fourty Baths: and every caldron was foure cubites, one caldron was vpon one base throughout the ten bases. And he set the bases, five on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house. And he set the sea on the right side of the house Eastward toward the South. And Hiram made caldrons, and besomes, and basens, and Hiram finished all the work that he made to King Salomon for the house of ye Lord: To wit, two pillars and two bowles of the chapiters that were on the toppe of the two pillars, and two grates to couer the two bowles of the chapiters which were upon the toppe of the pillars, And foure hundreth pomegranates for the two grates, euen two rowes of pomegranates for every grate to couer the two bowles of the chapiters, that were upon the pillars, And the ten bases, and ten caldrons vpon the bases, And the sea, and twelve bulles vnnder that sea, And pottes, and besomes and basens: and all these vessels, which Hiram made to King Salomon for the house of the Lord, were of shining brasse. In the plaine of Iorden did the King cast them in clay betweene Succoth and Zarthan. And Salomon left to weigh all the vessels because of the exceeding aboundance, neyther could the weight of the brasse be counted. So Salomon made all the vessels that perteyned vnto the house of the Lord, the golden altar, and the golden table, whereon the shewbread was, And the candlestickes, five at the right side, and five at the left, before the oracle of pure gold, and the flowres, and the lampes, and the snuffers of golde, And the bowles, and the hookes, and the basens, and the spoones, and the ashpannes of pure golde, and the hinges of golde for the doores of the house within, euen for the most holy place, and for the doores of the house, to wit, of the Temple. So was finished all the worke that King Salomon made for the house of the Lord, and Salomon brought in the things which Dauid his father had dedicated: the siluer and the golde and the vessels, and layed them among the treasures of the house of the Lord.

Then King Salomon assembled the Elders of Israel, euen all the heads of the tribes, the chiefe fathers of the children of Israel vnto him in Ierusalem, for to bring vp the Arke of the covenant of the Lord from the citie of Dauid, which is Zion. And all the men of Israel assembled vnto King Salomon at the feast in the moneth of Ethanim, which is the seuenth moneth. And all the Elders of Israel came and the Priests tooke the Arke. They bare the Arke of the Lord, and they bare the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the Tabernacle: those did the Priestes and Leuites bring vp. And King Salomon and all the Congregation of Israel, that were assembled vnto him, were with him before the Arke, offering sheepe and beeues, which could not be tolde, nor nombred for multitude. So the Priestes brought the Arke of the covenent of the Lord vnto his place, into the oracle of the house, into the most holy place, even vnder the wings of the Cherubims. For ye Cherubims stretched out their wings ouer the place of the Arke, and the Cherubims couered the Arke, and the barres thereof aboue. And they drewe out the barres, that the endes of the barres might appeare out of the Sanctuarie before the oracle, but they were not seene without: and there they are vnto this day. Nothing was in the Arke saue the two tables of stone which Moses had put there at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenent with the children of Israel, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt. And when the Priestes were come out of the Sanctuarie, the cloude filled the house of the Lord, So that the Priestes could not stande to minister, because of the cloude: for the glorie of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord. Then spake Salomon, The Lord said, that he woulde dwell in the darke cloude. I haue built thee an house to dwell in, an habitation for thee to abide in for euer. And the King turned his face, and blessed all the Congregation of Israel: for all the Congregation of Israel stoode there. And he said, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who spake with his mouth vnto Dauid my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, saying, Since the day that I brought my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no citie of all the tribes of Israel, to builde an house that my name might be there: but I haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israel. And it was in ye heart of Dauid my father to builde an house to the Name of the Lord God of Israel. And the Lord said vnto Dauid my father, Where as it was in thine heart to build an house vnto my Name, thou diddest well, that thou wast so minded: Neuerthelesse thou shalt not builde the house, but thy sonne that shall come out of thy loynes, he shall builde the house vnto my Name. And the Lord hath made good his worde that he spake: and I am risen vp in the roume of Dauid my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the Lord promised, and haue built the house for the Name of the Lord God of Israel. And I have prepared therein a place for the Arke, wherein is the covenant of the Lord which he made with our fathers, whom he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

Then Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the sight of all the Congregation of Israel, and stretched out his hands towards heaven. And said, O Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, thou that keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart. Thou that hast kept with thy servant David my father, that thou hast promised him: for thou spakest with thy mouth and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as appeareth this day. Therefore now, Lord God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that thou hast promised him, saying, Thou shalt not want a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel: so that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me; as thou hast walked in my sight. And now, O God of Israel, I pray thee, let thy word be verified, which thou spakest unto thy servant David my father. Is it true in deed, that God will dwell on the earth? Behold, the heavens, and the heavens of heavens are not able to contain thee: how much more unable is this house that I have built? But have thou respect unto the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O Lord, my God, to hear the cry and prayer which thy servant prayeth before thee this day: That thine eyes may be open toward this house, night and day, even toward the place whereof thou hast said, My Name shall be there: that thou mayest hearken unto the prayer which thy servant prayeth in this place. Hear thou therefore the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which pray in this place, and hear thou in the place of thine habitation, even in heaven, and when thou hearest, have mercy. When a man shall trespass against his neighbour, and he lay upon him an oath to cause him to swear, and the swearer shall come before thine altar in this house, Then hear thou in heaven, and doe and judge thy servants, that thou condemn the wicked to bring his way upon his head, and justify the righteous, to give him according to his righteousness. When thy people Israel shall be overthrown before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and turn again to thee, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication vnto thee in this house, Then heare thou in heauen, and be mercifull vnto the sinne of thy people Israel, and bring them againe vnto the lande, which thou gauest vnto their fathers. When heauen shalbe shut vp, and there shalbe no raine because they haue sinned against thee, and shall pray in this place, and confesse thy Name, and turne from their sinne, when thou doest afflict them, Then heare thou in heauen, and pardon the sinne of thy servaunts and of thy people Israel (when thou hast taught the the good way wherein they may walke) and giue raine vpon the land that thou hast giuen to thy people to inherite. When there shalbe famine in the land, when there shalbe pestilence, when there shall be blasting, mildewe, grashopper or caterpiller, when their enemie shall besiege them in the cities of their lande, or any plague, or any sickenesse, Then what prayer, and supplication so euer shalbe made of any man or of all thy people Israel, when euery one shall knowe the plague in his owne heart, and stretch foorth his handes in this house, Heare thou then in heauen, in thy dwelling place, and be mercifull, and doe, and giue euery man according to all his wayes, as thou knowest his heart, (for thou only knowest the heartes of all the children of men) That they may feare thee as long as they liue in ye lad, which thou gauest vnto our fathers. Moreover as touching the stranger that is not of thy people Israel, who shall come out of a farre countrey for thy Names sake, (When they shall heare of thy great name, and of thy mightie hande, and of thy stretched out arme) and shall come and pray in this house, Heare thou then in heauen thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth for vnto thee: that all the people of the earth may know thy Name, and feare thee, as do thy people Israel: and that they may know, that thy Name is called vpon in this house which I haue built. When thy people shall go out to battell against their enemie by the way that thou shalt sende them, and shall pray vnto the Lord towarde the way of the citie which thou hast chosen, and toward the house that I haue built for thy Name, Heare thou then in heauen their prayer and their supplication, and iudge their cause. If they sinne against thee, ( for there is no man that sinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliuer them vnto the enemies, so that they cary them away prisoners vnto the land of the enemies, either farre or neere, Yet if they turne againe vnto their heart in the lande (to the which they be caryed away captiues) and returne and pray vnto thee in the lande of them that caryed them away captiues, saying, We haue sinned, we haue transgressed, and done wickedly, If they turne againe vnto thee with all their heart, and with all their soule in the lande of their enemies, which led them away captiues, and pray vnto thee toward the way of their land, which thou gauest vnto their fathers, and toward the citie which thou hast chosen, and the house, which I haue built for thy Name, Then heare thou their prayer and their supplication in heauen thy dwelling place, and iudge their cause, And be mercifull vnto thy people that haue sinned against thee, and vnto all their iniquities (wherein they haue transgressed against thee) and cause that they, which led them away captiues, may haue pitie and compassion on them: For they be thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest out of Egypt from the middes of the yron fornace. Let thine eyes be open vnto the prayer of thy seruant, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel, to hearken vnto them, in all that they call for vnto thee. For thou diddest separate them to thee from among all people of the earth for an inheritance, as thou saidest by the hand of Moses thy seruant, when thou broughtest our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord God. And when Salomon had made an ende of praying all this prayer and supplication vnto the Lord, he arose from before the altar of the Lord, from kneeling on his knees, and stretching of his handes to heauen, And stoode and blessed all the Congregation of Israel with a loud voyce, saying, Blessed be the Lord that hath giuen rest vnto his people Israel, according to all that hee promised: there hath not fayled one word of all his good promise which he promised by the hand of Moses his seruant. The Lord our God be with vs, as he was with our fathers, that he forsake vs not, neither leaue vs, That he may bow our heartes vnto him, that we may walke in all his waies, and keepe his commandements, and his statutes, and his lawes, which he commanded our fathers. And these my wordes, which I haue prayed before the Lord, be neere vnto the Lord our God day and night, that he defende the cause of his seruant, and the cause of his people Israel alway as the matter requireth, That all the people of ye earth may knowe, that the Lord is God, and none other. Let therefore be perfect with the Lord our God to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as this day. Then the King and all Israel with him offered sacrifice before the Lord. And Solomon offered a sacrifice of peace offerings which he offered unto the Lord, to wit, two and twenty thousand beeves, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheepe: so the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the Lord. The same day did the King hallow the middle of the court, that was before the house of the Lord: for there he made burnt offerings, and the meate offerings, and the fat of the peace offerings, because the brasen altar that was before the Lord, was too little to receive the burnt offerings, and the meate offerings, and the fat of the peace offerings. And Solomon made at that time a feast and all Israel with him, a very great Congregation, even from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt, before the Lord our God, seven days and seven days, even fourteen days. And the eight day he sent the people away: and they thanked the King and went unto their tents joyous and with glad heart, because of all the goodness that the Lord had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

When Solomon had finished the building of the house of the Lord, and the kings palace, and all that Solomon desired and minded to do, Then the Lord appeared unto Solomon the second time, as he appeared unto him at Gibeon. And the Lord said unto him, I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication, that thou hast made before me: I have hallowed this house (which thou hast built) to put my Name there for ever, and mine eyes, and mine heart shall be there perpetually. And if thou wilt walk before me (as David thy father walked in pureness of heart and in righteousness) to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and keep my statutes, and my judgments, Then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom upon Israel for ever, as I promised to David thy father, saying, Thou shalt not want a man upon the throne of Israel. But if ye and your children turn away from me, and will not keep my commandments, and my statutes (which I have set before you) but go and serve other gods, and worship them, Then will I cut off Israel from the land, which I have given them, and the house which I have hallowed for my Name, will I cast out of my sight, and Israel shall be a prouerbe, and a common talke among all people. Euen this hie house shall bee so: every one that passeth by it, shallbe astonied, and shall hisse, and they shall say, Why hath the Lord done thus vnto this land and to this house? And they shall answere, Because they forsooke the Lord their God, which brought their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and haue taken holde vpon other gods, and haue worshipped them, and serued them, therfore hath the Lord brought vpon them all this euill. And at the ende of twentieth yeeres, when Salomon had buylded the two houses, the house of the Lord, and the Kings palace, (For the which Hiram the King of Tyrus had brought to Salomon timber of cedar, and firre trees, and golde, and whatsoeuer he desired) then King Salomon gaue to Hiram twentie cities in the land of Galil. And Hiram came out from Tyrus to see the cities which Salomon had giuen him, and they pleased him not. Therefore hee sayde, What cities are these which thou hast giuen me, my brother? And hee called them the land of Cabul vnto this day. And Hiram had sent the King sixe score talents of gold. And this is the cause of the tribute why King Salomon raised tribute, to wit, to builde the house of the Lord, and his owne house, and Millo, and the wall of Ierusalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer. Pharaoh King of Egypt had come vp, and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and slew the Canaanites, that dwelt in the citie, and gaue it for a present vnto his daughter Salomons wife. (Therefore Salomon builte Gezer and Beth-horon the nether, And Baalath and Tamor in the wildernes of the land, And all the cities of store, that Salomon had, euen cities for charets, and cities for horsemen, and all that Salomon desired and woulde build in Ierusalem, and in Lebanon and in all the land of his dominion) All the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hiuites, and Iebusites, which were not of the children of Israel: To wit, their children that were left after them in the lande, whome the children of Israel were not able to destroy, those did Salomon make tributaries vnto this day. But of the children of Israel did Salomon make no bondmen: but they were men of warre and his servaunts, and his princes, and his captaines, and rulers of his charets and his horsemen. These were the princes of the officers, that were ouer Salomons worke: euen fiue hundreth and fiftie, and they ruled the people that wrought in the worke. And Pharaohs daughter came vp from the citie of Dauid vnto the house which Salomon had built for her: then did he buylde Millo. And thrise a yere did Salomon offer burnt offringes and peace offerings vpon the altar which he built vnto the Lord: and hee burnt incense vpon the altar that was before the Lord, when hee had finished the house. Also King Salomon made a nauie of ships in Ezeon-geber, which is beside Eloth, and the brinke of the red Sea, in the land of Edom. And Hiram sent with the nauie his seruants, that were mariners, and had knowledge of the sea, with the seruants of Salomon. And they came to Ophir and sette from thence foure hundreth and twentie talents of gold, and brought it to King Salomon.

And the Queene of Sheba hearing ye fame of Salomon (concerning the Name of the Lord) came to proue him with hard questions. And she came to Ierusalem with a verie great traine, and camels that bare sweete odours, and golde exceeding much, and precious stones: and shee came to Salomon, and communed with him of all that was in her heart. And Salomon declared vnto her all her questions: nothing was hid from the King, which he expounded not vnto her. Then the Queene of Sheba sawe all Salomons wisedome, and the house that he had built, And the meate of his table, and the sitting of his seruants, and the order of his ministers, and their apparel, and his drinking vessels, and his burnt offerings, that he offered in the house of the Lord, and she was greatly astonied. And shee sayde vnto the King, It was a true worde that I heard in mine owne lande of thy sayings, and of thy wisedome. Howebeit I beleeued not this report till I came, and had seene it with mine eyes: but lo, ye one halfe was not tolde mee: for thou hast more wisedome and prosperitie, then I haue heard by report. Happy are the men, happie are these thy seruants, which stande euer before thee, and heare thy wisedome. Blessed be the Lord thy God, which loued thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel, because the Lord loued Israel for euer and made thee King to doe equitie and righteousnesse. And she gau the King sixe score talents of golde, and of sweete odours exceeding much, and precious stones. There came no more such aboundance of sweete odours, as the Queene of Sheba gau to King Salomon. The nauie also of Hiram (that caried gold from Ophir) brought likewise great plentie of Almuggim trees from Ophir and precious stones. And the King made of ye Almuggim trees pillars for the house of the Lord, and for ye Kings palace, and made harpes and psalter-ies for singers. There came no more such Almuggim trees, nor were any more seene vnpto this day. And King Salomon gaue vnpto the Queene of Sheba, whatsoeuer she would aske, besides that, which Salomon gaue her of his kingly liberalitie: so she returned and went to her owne countrey, both shee, and her servantes. Also the weight of golde, that came to Salomon in one yeere, was sixe hundreth three score and six talents of gold, Besides that he had of marchant men and of the marchandises of them that solde spices, and of all the Kings of Arabia, and of the princes of the countrey. And King Salomon made two hundreth targets of beaten golde, sixe hundreth shekels of gold went to a target: And three hundreth shieldes of beaten golde, three pound of gold went to one shielde: and the King put them in the house of the wood of Lebanon. Then the King made a great throne of yuorie, and couered it with the best golde.
And the throne had six steps, and the top of the throne was round behind, and there were stayes on either side on the place of the throne, and two lions standing by the stayes. And there stoode twelue lions on the sixe steps on either side: there was not the like made in any kingdome. And all King Salomons drinking vessels were of golde, and all the vessels of the house of the woode of Lebanon were of pure golde, none were of siluer: for it was nothing esteemed in the dayes of Salomon. For the King had on the sea the nauie of Tharshish with the nauie of Hiram: once in three yere came the nauie of Tharshish, and brought golde and siluer, yuorie, and apes and peacockes. So King Salomon exceeded all the kings of the earth both in riches and in wisedome. And al the world sought to see Salomon, to heare his wisedome, which God had put in his heart, And they brought every man his present, vessels of siluer, and vessels of golde, and raiment, and armour, and sweete odours, horses and mules, from yeere to yeere. Then Salomon gathered together charrets and horsemen: and he had a thousand and foure hundreth charetts, and twelue thousande horsemen, whome hee placed in the charet cities, and with the King at Ierusalem. And the King gave silver in Jerusalem as stones, and gave cedars as the wild fig trees that grow abundantly in the plain. Also Salomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and fine linen: the Kings marchants received the linen for a price. There came up and went out of Egypt some chariot, worth six hundred shekels of silver: that is, one horse, an hundred and fifty and thus they brought horses to all the Kings of the Hittites and to the Kings of Aram by their means.

But King Salomon loved many outlandish women: both the daughter of Pharaoh, and the women of Moab, Ammon, Edom, Zidon and Heth, Of the nations, whereof the Lord had said ye unto the children of Israel, Go not ye in to them, nor let them come in to you: for surely they will turn your hearts after their gods, to them, I say, did Salomon join in love. And he had seven hundred wives, that were princesses, and three hundred concubines, and his wives turned away his heart. For when Salomon was old, his wives turned his heart after other gods, so that his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God, as was the heart of David his father. For Salomon followed Ashtaroth the god of the Zidonians, and Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites. So Salomon wrought wickedness in the sight of the Lord, but continued not to follow the Lord, as did David his father. Then did Salomon build an high place for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the mountaine that is over against Jerusalem, and unto Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon. And so did he for all his outlandish wives, which burnt incense and offered unto their gods. Therefore the Lord was angry with Salomon, because he had turned his heart from the Lord God of Israel, which had appeared unto him twice, And had given him a charge concerning this thing, that he should not follow other gods: but he kept not that, which the Lord had commanded him. Wherefore the Lord said unto Salomon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant, and my statutes (which I commanded thee) I will surely rent the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant. Notwithstanding in thy days I will not do it, because of David thy father, but I will rent it out of the hand of thy sonne: Howbeit I will not rent all the Kingdom, but will give one tribe to thy sonne, because of David my servant, and because of Jerusalem which I haue chosen. Then the Lord stirred vp an aduersarie vnto Sal-alomon, euen Hadad the Edomite, of the Kings seede, which was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edom, and Ioab the captaine of the hoste had smitten all the males in Edom, and was gone vp to bury ye slaine, (For six moneths did Ioab remaine there, and all Israel, till he had destroyed all the males in Edom) Then this Hadad fled and certaine other Edomites of his fathers seru-ants with him, to goe into Egypt, Hadad being yet a little childe.
And they arose out of Midian, and came to Paran, and tooke men with them out of Paran, and came to Egypt vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, which gaue him an house, and appointed him vitailes, and gaue him lande. So Hadad found great fauour in the sight of Pharaoh, and he gaue him to wife the sister of his owne wife, euen the sister of Tahpenes the Queene. And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his sonne, whome Tahpenes wayned in Pharaohs house: and Genubath was in Pharaohs house among the sonnes of Pharaoh. And when Hadad heard in Egypt, that Dauid slept with his fathers, and that Ioab the captaine of the hoste was dead, Hadad sayde to Pharaoh, Let me depart, that I may goe to mine owne countrey. But Pharaoh saide vnto him, What hast thou lacked with me, that thou wouldest thus go to thine owne countrey? And he answered, Nothing, but in any wise let me goe. And God stirred him vp another aduersarie, Rezon the sonne of Eliada, which fled from his lorde Hadadezer King of Zobah. And he gathered men vnto him, and had bene captaine ouer the company, when Dauid slew them. And they went to Damascus, and dwelt there, and they made him King in Damascus. Therefore was he an aduersarie to Israel all the daies of Salomon: besides the euil that Hadad did, he also abhorred Israel, and reigned ouer Aram. And Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat an Ephrathite of Zereda Salomons servant (whose mother was called Zeruah a widowe) lift vp his hand against the King. And this was the cause that he lift vp his hande against the King, When Salomon built Millo, he repared the broken places of the citie of Dauid his father. And this man Ieroboam was a man of strength and courage, and Salomon seeing that the yong man was meete for the worke, he made him ouerseer of all the labour of the house of Ioseph. And at that time, when Ieroboam went out of Ierusalem, the Prophet Ahiiah the Shilonite founde him in the way, having a newe garment on him, and they two were alone in ye field. Then Ahiah caught the newe garment that was on him, and rent it in twelue pieces. And said to Ieroboam, Take vnto thee ten pieces: for thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Beholde, I wil rent the kingdome out of ye hands of Salomon, and will giue ten tribes to thee. But he shall haue one tribe for my seruant Dauids sake, and for Ierusalem the citie, which I haue chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, Because they haue forsaken me, and haue worshipped Ashtaroth the god of the Zidonians, and Chemosh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the Ammonites, and haue not walked in my wayes (to do right in mine eyes, and my statutes, and my lawes) as did Dauid his father. But I will not take the whole kingdome out of his hande: for I will make him prince all his life long for Dauid my servants sake, whome I haue chosen, and who kept my commandements and my statutes. But I will take the kingdome out of his sonnes hand, and will giue it vnto thee, euene the ten tribes. And vnto his sonne will I giue one tribe, that Dauid my seruant may haue a light alway before me in Ierusalem the citie, which I haue chosen me, to put my Name there. And I wil take thee, and thou shalt reigne, euene as thine heart desireth, and shalt be King ouer Israel. And if thou hearken vnto all that I commande thee, and wilt walke in my wayes, and doe right in my sight, to keepe my statutes and my commandements, as Dauid my seruant did, then will I be with thee, and build thee a sure house, as I built vnto Dauid, and wil giue Israel vnto thee. And I will for this afflict the seede of Dauid, but not for euer. Salomon sought therefore to kill Ieroboam, and Ieroboam arose, and fled into Egypt vnto Shishak King of Egypt, and was in Egypt vntil the death of Salomon. And the rest of the wordes of Salomon, and all that he did, and his wisedom, are they not written in the booke of the actes of Salomon? The time that Salomon reigned in Ierusalem ouer all Israel, was fourtie yeere. And Salomon slept with his fathers and was buried in the citie of Dauid his father: and Rehoboam his sonne reigned in his steade.

And Rehoboam went to Shechem: for al Israel were come to Sheche, to make him king. And whe Ieroboam ye sonne of Nebat heard of it (who was yet in Egypt, whither Ieroboam had fled from king Salomon, and dwelt in Egypt) Then they sent and called him: and Ieroboam and all the Congregation of Israel came, and spake vnto Rehoboam, saying, Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous servitude of thy father, and his sore yoke which he put vpon vs, lighter, and we will serue thee. And he said vnto them, Depart yet for three dayes, then come againe to me. And the people departed. And King Rehoboam tooke counsell with the olde men that had stande before Salomon his father, while he yet liued, and sayde, What counsell giue ye, that I may make an answere to this people? And they spake vnto him, saying, If thou be a seruant vnto this people this day, and serue them, and answere them, and speake kinde wordes to them, they will be thy servuants for euer. But he forsooke the counsell that the olde men had giuen him, and asked counsell of the yong men that had bene brought vp with him, and waited on him. And he said vnto them, What counsell giue ye, that we may answere this people, which haue spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke, which thy father did put vpon vs, lighter? Then the yong men that were brought vp with him, spake vnto him, saying, Thus shalt thou say vnto this people, that haue spoken vnto thee, and said, Thy father hath made our yoke heauie, but make thou it lighter vnto vs: euen thus shalt thou say vnto them, My least part shalbe bigger then my fathers loynes. Now where as my father did burden you with a grievous yoke, I will yet make your yoke heauier: my father hath chastised you with rods, but I will correct you with scourges. Then Ieroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, saying, Come to me againe ye thirde day. And the king answered the people sharply, and left the old mens counsell that they gaue him, And spake to them after the counsell of the yong men, saying, My father made your yoke grievous, and I will make your yoke more grievous: my father hath chastised you with rods, but I will correct you with scourges. And the King hearkened not vnto the people: for it was the ordinance of the Lord, that he might perfourme his saying, which the Lord had spoken by Ahiiiah the Shilonite vnto Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat. So when all Israel sawe that the King regarded them not, the people answered the King thus, saying, What portion haue we in Dauid? we haue none inheritance in the sonne of Ishai. To your tents, O Israel: nowe see to thine owne house, Dauid. So Israel departed vnto their tents. Howbeit ouer the children of Israel, which dwelt in the cities of Iudah, did Rehoboam reigne still. Nowe the King Rehoboam sent Adoram the receiuer of the tribute, and all Israel stoned him to death: then King Rehoboam made speede to get him vp to his charet, to flee to Ierusalem. And Israel rebelled against the house of Dauid vnto this day. And when all Israel had heard that Ieroboam was come againe, they sent and called him vnto the assemblie, and made him King ouer all Israel: none followed the house of Dauid, but the tribe of Iudah onely. And when Rehoboam was come to Ierusalem, he gathered all the house of Iudah with the tribe of Beniamin an hundreth and foure score thousand of chosen men (which were good warriours) to fight against the house of Israel, and to bring the kingdome againe to Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon. But the worde of God came vnto Shemaiah the man of God, saying, Speake vnto Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon King of Iudah, and vnto all the house of Iudah and Beniamin, and the remnant of the people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not goe vp, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel: returne euery man to his house: for this thing is done by me. They obeyed therefore the worde of the Lord and returned, and departed, according to the worde of the Lord. Then Ieroboam built Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein, and went from thence, and built Penuel. And Ieroboam thought in his heart, Nowe shall the kingdome returne to the house of Dauid. If this people goe vp and doe sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Ierusalem, then shall the heart of this people turne againe vnto their lorde, euen to Rehoboam King of Iudah: so shall they kill me and goe againe to Rehoboam King of Iudah. Whereupon the King tooke counsell, and made two calues of golde, and saide vnto them, It is too much for you to goe vp to Ierusalem: beholde, O Israel, thy gods, which brought thee vp out of the lande of Egypt. And he set the one in Beth-el, and the other set he in Dan. And this thing turned to sinne: for the people went (because of the one) euen to Dan. Also he made an house of hie places, and made Priestes of the lowest of the people, which were not of the sonnes of Leui. And Ieroboam made a feast the fifteenth day of the eight moneth, like vnto the feast that is in Iudah, and offred on the altar. So did he in Beth-el and offered vnto the calues that he had made: and he placed in Beth-el the Priestes of the hie places, which he had made. And he offered vpon the altar, which he had made in Beth-el, the fifteenth day of the eight moneth, (euen in the moneth which he had forged of his owne heart) and made a solemne feast vnto the children of Israel: and he went vp to the altar, to burne incense.

And beholde, there came a man of God out of Iudah (by the commandement of the Lord) vnto Beth-el, and Ieroboam stoode by the altar to offer incense. And he cryed against the altar by the comandement of the Lord, and said, O altar, altar, thus saith the Lord, Beholde, a child shalbe borne vnto the house of Dauid, Iosiah by name, and vpon thee shall he sacrifice the Priestes of the hie places that burne incense vpon thee, and they shall burne mens bones vpon thee. And he gaue a signe the same time, saying, This is the signe, that the Lord hath spoken, Behold, the altar shall rent, and the ashes that are vpon it, shall fall out. And when the King had heard the saying of the man of God, which he had cryed against the altar in Beth-el, Ieroboam stretched out his hand from the altar, saying, Lay holde on him: but his hande which he put foorth against him, dryed vp, and he could not pull it in againe to him. The altar also claue asunder, and the ashes fell out from the altar, according to the signe, which the man of God had giuen by the commandement of the Lord. Then the King answered, and saide vnto the man of God, I beseeche thee, pray vnto ye Lord thy God, and make intercession for me, that mine hand may bee restored vnto me. And the man of God besought the Lord, and the Kings hand was restored, and became as it was afore. Then the King sayde vnto the man of God, Come home with mee, that thou mayest dyne, and I will giue thee a reward. But the man of God saide vnto the King, If thou wouldest giue me halfe thine house, I would not goe in with thee, neither woulde I eate bread nor drinke water in this place. For so was it charged mee by the worde of the Lord, saying, Eate no bread nor drinke water, nor turne againe by the same way that thou camest. So he went another way and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el. And an olde Prophet dwelt in Beth-el, and his sonnes came and tolde him all ye woorkes, that the man of God had done that day in Bethel, and the wordes which he had spoken vnto the King, tolde they their father. And their father sayde vnto them, What way went he? and his sonnes shewed him what waye the man of God went, which came from Iudah. And hee saide vnto his sonnes, Saddle mee the asse. Who sadled him the asse, and hee rode thereon, And went after the man of God, and found him sitting vnder an oke: and he saide vnto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Iudah? And he sayd, Yea. Then he said vnto him, Come home with me, and eate bread. But he answered, I may not returne with thee, nor go in with thee, neither wil I eate bread nor drinke water with thee in this place. For it was charged me by the word of the Lord, saying, Thou shalt eate no bread, nor drinke water there, nor turne againe to goe by the way that thou wentest. And he said vnto him, I am a Prophet also as thou art, and an Angel spake vnto me by the worde of the Lord, saying, Bring him againe with thee into thine house, that hee may eate bread and drinke water: but he lyed vnto him. So he went againe with him, and did eate bread in his house, and dranke water. And as they sate at the table, the worde of the Lord came vnto the Prophet, that brought him againe. And he cried vnto the man of God that came from Iudah, saying, Thus sayeth the Lord, Because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and hast not kept the commandement which the Lord thy God commanded thee, But camest backe againe, and hast eaten bread and drunke water in the place (whereof he did say vnto thee, Thou shalt eate no bread nor drinke any water) thy carkeis shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers. And when he had eaten bread and drunke, he sadled him the asse, to wit, to the Prophet whome he had brought againe. And hee cried vnto the man of God that came from Iudah, saying, Thus sayeth the Lord, Because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and hast not kept the commandement which the Lord thy God commanded thee, But camest backe againe, and hast eaten bread and drunke water in the place (whereof he did say vnto thee, Thou shalt eate no bread nor drinke any water) thy carkeis shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers. And when he had eaten bread and drunke, he sadled him the asse, to wit, to the Prophet whome he had brought againe. And when hee was gone, a lion met him by the way, and slewe him, and his body was cast in the way, and the asse stoode thereby: the lion stood by the corps also. And beholde, men that passed by, sawe the carkeis cast in the way, and the lion standing by the corps: and they came and tolde it in ye towne where the olde Prophet dwelt. And when the Prophet that brought him backe againe from the waye, hearde thereof, hee sayde, It is the man of God, who hath bene disobedient vnto the commandement of the Lord: therefore the Lord hath deliuered him vnto the lion, which hath rent him and slayne him, according to the worde of the Lord, which he spake vnto him. And he spake to his sonnes, saying, Saddle me the asse. And they sadled him. And he went and founde his body cast in the way, and the asse and the lion stoode by the corps: and the lion had not eaten the bodie, nor torne the asse. And the Prophet tooke vp the body of the man of God, and layed it vpon the asse, and brought it againe, and the olde Prophet came to the citie, to lament and burie him. And he layed his bodie in his owne graue, and they lamented ouer him, saying, Alas, my brother. And when he had buried him, he spake to his sonnes, saying, When I am dead, burie ye mee also in the sepulchre, wherein the man of God is buried: lay my bones beside his bones. For that thing which he cried by the word of the Lord against the altar that is in Beth-el, and against all the houses of the hie places, which are in the cities of Samaria, shall surely come to passe. Howbeit after this, Ieroboam conuerted not from his wicked way, but turned againe, and made of the lowest of the people Priests of the hie places. Who would, might consecrate him selfe, and be of the Priestes of the hie places. And this thing turned to sinne vnto the house of Ieroboam, euen to roote it out, and destroy it from the face of the earth. At that time Abiiah the sonne of Ieroboam fell sicke. And Ieroboam saide vnto his wife, Vp, I pray thee, and disguise thy selfe, that they know not that thou art the wife of Ieroboam, and goe to Shiloh: for there is Ahiiah the Prophet, which tolde mee that I shoulde bee King ouer this people, And take with thee tenne loaues and craknels, and a bottell of honie, and goe to him: hee shall tell thee what shall become of the yong man. And Ieroboams wife did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Ahiiah: but Ahiiah could not see, for his sight was decayed for his age. Then the Lord saiide vnto Ahiiah, Beholde, the wife of Ieroboam commeth to aske a thing of thee for her sonne, for he is sicke: thus and thus shalt thou say vnto her: for when shee commeth in, shee shall feine her selfe to be another. Therefore when Ahiiah heard the sounde of her feete as shee came in at the doore, hee saiide, Come in, thou wife of Ieroboam: why feinest thou thus thy selfe to bee an other? I am sent to thee with heauie tidings. Goe, tel Ieroboam, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Forasmuch as I haue exalted thee from among the people, and haue made thee prince ouer my people Israel, And have rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and have given it thee, and thou hast not been as my servant David, which kept my commandments, and followed me with all his heart, and did only that which was right in mine eyes. But hast done evil above all that were before thee (for thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me, and hast cast me behind thy back). Therefore behold, I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam him that pisseth against the wall, as well him that is shut up, as him that is left in Israel, and will sweep away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man sweepeth away dung, till it be all gone. The dogs shall eat him of Jeroboam's stock that dyeth in the city, and the foules of the air shall eat him that dyeth in the field: for the Lord hath said it. Up therefore and get thee to thine house: for when thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die. And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found some goodness towards the Lord God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam. Moreover, the Lord shall stirre him vp a King over Israel, which shall destroy the house of Jeroboam in that day: what? yea, even now. For the Lord shall smite Israel, as when a reede is shaken in the water, and he shall weede Israel out of his good land, which he gave to their fathers, and shall scatter them beyond the River, because they have made them groves, provoking the Lord to anger. And he shall give Israel vp, because of the sins of Jeroboam, who did sin, and made Israel to sin. And Jeroboam's wife arose, and departed, and came to Tirzah, and when she came to the threshold of the house, the young man dyed. And they buried him, and all Israel lamented him; according to the word of the Lord, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahiiah the Prophet. And the rest of Jeroboam's acts, how he wars, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. And the days which Jeroboam reigned, were two and twenty yeere: and he slept with his fathers, and Nadab his son reigned in his stead. Also Rehoboam the sonne of Solomon reigned in Judah. Rehoboam was one and fourtie yere olde, when he began to reign, and reigned seuentene yere in Jerusalem, the citie which the Lord did choose out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his Name there: and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonite. And Iudah wrought wickednesse in the sight of the Lord: and they prouoked him more with their sinnes, which they had committed, then all that which their fathers had done. For they also made them hie places, and images, and groues on every hie hill, and under every greene tree. There were also Sodomites in the lande, they did according to all the abominations of the nations, which the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel. And in the fift yere of King Rehoboam, Shishak King of Egypt came vp against Ierusale, And tooke the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the Kings house, and tooke away all: also he caried away all the shields of golde which Salomon had made. And King Rehoboam made for them brasen shieldes, and committed them vnto ye hands of the chiefe of the garde, which wayted at the doore of the Kings house. And when the King went into the house of the Lord, the garde bare them, and brought them againe into the gard chamber. And the rest of the actes of Rehoboam, and all that hee did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Ieroboam continually.
And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid: his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonite. And Abiiam his sonne reigned in his stead.

15 And in the eighteenth yeere of King Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, reigned Abiiam ouer Iudah. Three yeere reigned hee in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Maachah the daughter of Abishalom. And hee walked in all the sinnes of his father, which hee had done before him: and his heart was not perfite with the Lord his God as the heart of Dauid his father. But for Dauids sake did the Lord his God giue him a light in Ierusalem, and set vp his sonne after him, and established Ierusalem, Because Dauid did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, and turned from nothing that he commanded him, all the dayes of his life, saue onely in the matter of Vriah the Hittite. And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Ieroboam as long as he liued.
The rest also of the actes of Abiiam, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? there was also warre betwene Abiiam, and Ieroboam.
And Abiiam slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Daviud: and Asa his sonne reigned in his steade. And in the twentie yeere of Ieroboam King of Israel reigned Asa ouer Iudah. He reigned in Jerusalem one and fourtie yeere, and his mothers name was Maachah the daughter of Abishalom. And Asa did right in the eyes of the Lord, as did Daviud his father. And he tooke away the Sodomites out of the lande, and put away all the idoles that his fathers had made. And he put downe Maachah his mother also from her estate, because shee had made an idole in a grewe: and Asa destroyed her idoles, and burnt them by the brooke Kidron. But they put not downe the hie places. Neuertheles Asas heart was vpright with the Lord all his dayes. Also he brought in the holy vessels of his father, and the things that he had dedicated vnto ye house of the Lord, siluer, and golde, and vessels. And there was warre betwenee Asa and Baasha King of Israel all their dayes. Then Baasha king of Israel went vp against Iudah, and buylt Ramah, so that he woulde let none go out or in to Asa King of Iudah. Then Asa tooke all the siluer and the gold that was left in the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the kings house, and deliuered them into the handes of his seruantes, and King Asa sent them to Ben-hadad the sonne of Tabrimon, the sonne of Hezion king of Aram that dwelt at Damascus, saying, There is a covenant betwenee me and thee, and betwenee my father and thy father: behold, I haue sent vnto thee a present of siluer and golde: come, breake thy covenant with Baasha King of Israel, that he may depart from me. So Ben-hadad hearkened vnto King Asa, and sent the captaines of the hosts, which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote lion, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali. And when Baasha heard thereof, hee left buylding of Ramah, and dwelt in Tirzah. Then king Asa assembled al Iudah, none excepted. and they tooke the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha had buylt, and King Asa built with them Geba of Beniamin and Mizpah. And the rest of all the actes of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he buylt, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? but in his olde age he was diseased in his feete. And Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid his father. And Iehoshaphat his sonne reigned in his steade. And Nadab the sonne of Ieroboam began to reigne ouer Israel the second yere of Asa King of Iudah, and reigned ouer Israel two yeere. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, walking in the way of his father, and in his sinne wherewith he made Israel to sinne. And Baasha the sonne of Ahijah of ye house of Issachar conspired against him, and Baasha slue him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistims: for Nadab and all Israel layde siege to Gibbethon.
Euen in the third yeere of Asa King of Iudah did Baasha slay him, and reigned in his steade. And when he was King, he smote all the house of Ieroboam, he left none aliue to Ieroboam, vntill hee had destroyed him, according to the word of the Lord which he spake by his seruant Ahijah the Shilonite, Because of the sinnes of Ieroboam which he committed, and wherewith he made Israel to sinne, by his prouocation, wherewith he prouoked the Lord God of Israel. And the residue of the actes of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And there was warre betwenee Asa and Baasha King of Israel, all their dayes. In the thirde yeere of Asa King of Iudah, began Baasha the sonne of Ahijah to reigne ouer all Israel in Tirzah, and reigned foure and twentie yeeres.
And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, walking in the way of Ieroboam, and in his sinne, wherewith he made Israel to sinne.

Then the word of the Lord came to Iehu the sonne of Hanani against Baasha, saying, Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and made thee captaine ouer my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the way of Ieroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sinne, to prouoke me with their sinnes, Beholde, I will take away the posteritie of Baasha, and the posteritie of his house, and will make thine house like the house of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat. He that dyeth of Baashas stocke in the citie, him shall the dogs eate: and that man of him which dyeth in the fieldes, shall the foules of the ayre eate. And the rest of the actes of Baasha and what he did, and his power, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buryed in Tirzah, and Elah his sonne reigned in his steade. And also by the hande of Iehu the sonne of Hanani the Prophet, came the worde of the Lord to Baasha, and to his house, that he should be like the house of Ieroboam, even for all the wickednes that he did in the sight of the Lord, in prouoking him with the worke of his hands, and because he killed him. In the sixe and twentie yeere of Asa king of Iudah began Elah ye sonne of Baasha to reigne ouer Israel in Tirzah, and reigned two yeere. And his seruant Zimri, captaine of halfe his charets, conspired against him, as he was in Tirzah drinking, til he was drunken in the house of Arza steward of his house in Tirzah. And Zimri came and smote him and killed him, in the seuen and twentie yeere of Asa king of Iudah, and reigned in his stead. And when he was King, and sate on his throne, he slew al the house of Baasha, not leauing thereof one to pisse against a wall, neither of his kinsfolkes nor of his friendes. So did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the Lord which he spake against Baasha by the hande of Iehu the Prophet, For all the sinnes of Baasha, and sinnes of Elah his sonne, which they sinned and made Israel to sinne, and prouoked the Lord God of Israel with their vanities. And the rest of the actes of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? In the seuen and twentie yeere of Asa King of Iudah did Zimri reigne seuen dayes in Tirzah, and the people was then in campe against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistims. And the people of the hoste heard saye, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slayne the King. Wherefore all Israel made Omri the captaine of the hoste, king ouer Israel that same day, euen in the hoste. Then Omri went vp from Gibbethon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged Tirzah. And when Zimri saw, that the citie was taken, he went into the palace of the Kings house, and burnt himselfe, and the Kings house with fire, and so dyed, For his sinnes which hee sinned, in doing that which is euil in the sight of the Lord, in walking in the way of Ieroboam, and in his sinnes which he did, causing Israel to sinne. And the rest of the actes of Zimri, and his treason that hee wrought, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? Then were the people of Israel deuided into two partes: for halfe the people followed Tibni the sonne of Ginath to make him King, and the other halfe followed Omri. But the people that folowed Omri, preuayled against the people that followed Tibni the sonne of Ginath: so Tibni dyed, and Omri reigned. In the one and thirtie yeere of Asa King of Iudah bega Omri to reigne ouer Israel, and reigned twelue yeere. Sixe yeere reigned he in Tirzah. And he bought the mountaine Samaria of one Shemer for two talents of siluer, and buylt in the mountaine, and called the name of the citie, which he buylt, after the name of Shemer lord of the mountaine, Samaria. But Omri did euil in the eyes of the Lord, and did worse then all that were before him. For he walked in all the way of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and in his sinnes wherewith he made Israel to sinne in prouoking the Lord God of Israel with their vanities. And the rest of the actes of Omri, that hee did, and his strength that he shewed, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And Omri slept with his fathers, and was buryed in Samaria: and Ahab his sonne reigned in his stead. Nowe Ahab the sonne of Omri began to reigne ouer Israel, in the eyght and thirtie yeere of Asa king of Iudah: and Ahab the sonne of Omri reigned ouer Israel in Samaria two and twenty yere. And Ahab the sonne of Omri did worse in ye sight of the Lord then al that were before him. For was it a light thing for him to walke in the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, except hee tooke Iezebel also the daughter of Ethbaal King of the Zidonians to wife, and went and serued Baal, and worshipped him? Also he reared vp an altar to Baal in the house of Baal, which he had buylt in Samaria. And Ahab made a groue, and Ahab proceeded, and did prouoke the Lord God of Israel more then all the kings of Israel that were before him. In his dayes did Hiel the Bethelite buylde Iericho: he layed the foundation thereof in Abiram his eldest sonne, and set vp the gates thereof in his yongest sonne Segub, according to the worde of the Lord which he spake by Ioshua the sonne of Nun.

And Eliiah the Tishbite one of the inhabitats of Gilead sayde vnto Ahab, As the Lord God of Israel liueth, before whom I stand, there shall be neither dewe nor rayne these yeeres, but according to my worde. And the worde of the Lord came vnto him, saying, Go hence, and turne thee Eastwarde, and hide thy selfe in the riuer Cherith, that is ouer against Iorden, And thou shalt drinke of the riuer: and I haue comanded the rauens to feede thee there. So he went and did according vnto the word of the Lord: for he went, and remained by the river Cherith that is over against Jordan. And the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening, and he dranke of the river. And after a while the river dried up, because there fell no rain upon the earth. And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Up, and get thee to Zarephath, which is in Zidon, and remain there: behold, I have commanded a widow there to sustain thee. So he arose, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow was there gathering sticks: and he called her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drinke. And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand. And she said, As the Lord thy God liueth, I have not a cake, but even an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruse: and behold, I am gathering a few sticks for to go in, and dresse it for me and my son, that we may eate it, and dye. And Elias said unto her, Fear not, come, do as thou hast said, but make me thereof a little cake first of all, and bring it unto me, and afterward make for thee, and thy son. For thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The meal in the barrel shall not be wasted, neither shall the oil in the cruse be diminished, unto the time that the Lord send rain upon the earth. So she went, and did as Elias said, and she did eate: so did he and her house for a certain time. The barrel of the meal wasted not, nor the oil was spent out of the cruse, according to the word of the Lord, which he spake by the hand of Elias. And after these things, the son of the wife of the house fell sick, and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him. And she said unto Elias, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son? And he said unto her, Give me thy son. and he tooke him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a chamber, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed. Then he called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord my God, hast thou punished also this widow, with whom I sojourn, by killing her son? And he stretched himselfe upon the child three times, and called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord my God, I pray thee, let this child's soul come into him againe. Then the Lord heard the voyce of Eliiah, and the soule of the child came into him againe, and he reuied. And Eliiah tooke the childe, and brought him downe out of the chamber into the house, and deliuered him vnto his mother, and Eliiah sayd, Behold, thy sonne liueth. And the woman saide vnto Eliiah, Now I knowe that thou art a man of God, and that the worde of the Lord in thy mouth is true.

After many dayes, the worde of the Lord came to Eliiah, in the third yeere, saying, Goe, shewe thy selfe vnto Ahab, and I will sende rayne vpon the earth. And Eliiah went to shew himselfe vnto Ahab, and there was a great famine in Samaria. And Ahab called Obadiah the gouernour of his house: (and Obadiah feared God greatly: For when Iezebel destroyed the Prophets of the Lord, Obadiah tooke an hundreth Prophets, and hid them, by fiftie in a caue, and he fed them with bread and water.) And Ahab saide vnto Obadiah, Goe into the land, vnto all the fountaines of water, and vnto all the riuers, if so be that we may finde grasse to saue the horses and the mules aliue, lest we depreiuie the lande of the beasts. And so they deuided the lande betweene them to walke thorowe it. Ahab went one way by him selfe, and Obadiah went another way by him selfe. And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Eliiah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face, and said, Art not thou my lord Eliiah? And he answered him, Yea, goe tell thy lord, Behold, Eliiah is here. And he said, What haue I sinned, that thou wouldest deliuer thy seruant into the hande of Ahab, to slay me? As the Lord thy God liueth, there is no nation or kingdome, whither my lorde hath not sent to seeke thee: and when they sayd, He is not here, he tooke an othe of the kingdome and nation, if they had not found thee. And now thou sayest, Goe, tell thy lorde, Beholde, Eliiah is here. And when I am gone from thee, the Spirit of the Lord shall cary thee into some place that I doe not know: so when I come and tell Ahab, if he cannot finde thee, then wil he kill me: But I thy seruant feare the Lord from my youth. Was it not tolde my lord, what I did when Iezebel slew the Prophets of the Lord, how I hid an hundreth men of the Lordes Prophets by fifties in a caue, and fed them with bread and water? And now thou sayest, Go, tel thy lord, Behold, Eliiah is here, that he may slay me. And Eliiah said, As the Lord of hostes liueth, before whome I stand, I will surely shewe my selfe vnto him this day. So Obadiah went to meete Ahab, and tolde him: And Ahab went to meete Eliiah. And when Ahab saw Eliiah, Ahab said vnto him, Art thou he that troubleth Israel?
And he answered, I haue not troubled Israel, but thou, and thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the commandements of the Lord, and thou hast followed Baalim. Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel vnto mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal foure hundreth and fiftie, and the prophets of the groues foure hundreth, which eate at Iezebels table. So Ahab sent vnto all the children of Israel, and gathered the prophets together vnto mount Carmel. And Eliiah came vnto all the people, and said, How long halt ye betweene two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal be he, then goe after him. And the people answered him not a worde. Then said Eliiah vnto the people, I onely remayne a Prophet of the Lord: but Baals prophets are foure hundreth and fiftie men. Let them therefore giue vs two bullockes, and let them chuse the one, and cut him in pieces, and lay him on the wood, but put no fire vnder, and I will prepare the other bullocke, and lay him on the wood, and will put no fire vnder. Then call ye on the name of your god, and I will call on the name of the Lord: and then the God that answereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people answered, and sayde, It is well spoken. And Eliiah said vnto the prophets of Baal, Chuse you a bullocke, and prepare him first, (for ye are many) and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire vnder.
So they tooke the one bullocke, that was giuen them, and they prepared it, and called on the name of Baal, from morning to noone, saying, O Baal, heare vs: but there was neither voyce, nor any to answere: and they leapt vpon the altar that was made.
And at noone Eliiah mocked them, and said, Crye loude: for he is a god: either he talketh or pursueth his enemies, or is in his iourney, or it may be that he sleepeth, and must be awaked.
And they cryed loude, and cut them selues as their maner was,
with kniues and launcers, till the blood gushed out vpon them.
And when midday was passed, and they had prophecied vntil the offring of the euening sacrifice, there was neither voyce, nor one to answere, nor any that regarded. And Eliiah said vnto all the people, Come to me. And all the people came to him. And he repayred the altar of the Lord that was broken downe. And Eliiah tooke twelue stones, according to the nomber of the tribes of the sonnes of Iaakob, (vnto whome the worde of the Lord came, saying, Israel shalbe thy name) And with the stones he buylt an altar in the Name of the Lord: and he made a ditch round about the altar, as great as woulde conteine two measures of seede. And he put the wood in order, and hewed the bullocke in pieces, and layd him on the wood, And said, Fill foure barrels with water, and powre it on the burnt offring and on the wood.
Againe he said, Doe so againe. And they did so the second time. And he sayde, Doe it the third time. And they did it the third time. And the water ran round about the altar: and he filled the ditch with water also. And when they should offer the euening sacrifice, Eliiah the Prophet came, and sayd, Lord God of Abraham, Izhak and of Israel, let it be knowen this day, that thou art the God of Israel, and that I am thy seruant, and that I haue done all these things at thy commandement. Heare me, O Lord, heare me, and let this people know that thou art the Lord God, and that thou hast turned their heart againe at the last.
Then the fire of the Lord fell, and consumed the burnt offring, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked vp the water that was in the ditche. And when all the people sawe it, they fell on their faces, and saide, The Lord is God, the Lord is God. And Elijah said vnto them, Take the prophets of Baal, let not a man of them escape. and they tooke them, and Eliiah brought them to the brooke Kishon, and slewe them there. And Eliiah saide vnto Ahab, Get thee vp, eate and drinke, for there is a sound of much rayne. So Ahab went vp to eate and to drinke, and Eliiah went vp to the top of Carmel: and he crouched vnto the earth, and put his face betweene his knees, And sayde to his seruant, Goe vp now and looke towarde the way of the Sea. And he went vp, and looked, and sayde, There is nothing. Againe he sayd, Goe againe seuen times. And at the seuenth time he sayd, Behold, there ariseth a little cloude out of the sea like a mans hand. Then he sayd, Vp, and say vnto Ahab, Make readie thy charet, and get thee downe, that the raine stay thee not.
And in the meane while the heauen was blacke with cloudes and winde, and there was a great rayne. Then Ahab went vp and came to Izreel. And the hand of the Lord was on Eliiah, and he girded vp his Ioynes, and ran before Ahab till he came to Izreel.

Now Ahab tolde Iezebel all that Eliiah had done, and how he had slaine all the prophets with the sword. Then Iezebel sent a messenger vnto Eliiah, saying, The gods doe so to me and more also, if I make not thy life like one of their liues by to morowe this time. When he sawe that, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beer-sheba, which is in Iudah, and left his servant there. But he went a dayes iourney into the wildernesse, and came and sate downe vnder a iuniper tree, and desired that he might die, and sayde, It is now ynough: O Lord, take my soule, for I am no better then my fathers. And as he lay and slept vnder the iuniper tree, behold now, an Angel touched him, and said vnto him, Vp, and eate. And when he looked about, behold, there was a cake baken on the coles, and a pot of water at his head: so he did eate and drinke, and returned and slept. And the Angel of the Lord came againe the second time, and touched him, and sayd, Vp, and eate: for thou hast a great iourney. Then he arose, and did eate and drinke, and walked in the strength of that meate fourtie dayes and fourtie nights, vnto Horeb the mount of God. And there he entred into a caue, and lodged there: and beholde, the Lord spake to him, and said vnto him, What doest thou here, Eliiah? And he answered, I haue bene very ielous for the Lord God of hostes: for the children of Israel haue forsaken thy couenant, broken downe thine altars, and slayne thy Prophets with the sword, and I onely am left, and they seeke my life to take it away. And he saide, Come out, and stand vpon the mount before the Lord. And beholde, the Lord went by, and a mightie strong winde rent the mountaines, and brake the rockes before the Lord: but the Lord was not in the winde: and after the wind came an earthquake: but the Lord was not in the earthquake: And after the fire came a still and soft voyce. And when Eliiah heard it, he couered his face with his mantel, and went out, and stoode in the entring in of ye caue: and behold, there came a voyce vnto him, and sayd, What doest thou here, Eliiah? And he answered, I haue bene very ielous for the Lord God of hostes, because the children of Israel haue forsaken thy couenant, cast downe thine altars, and slayne thy Prophets with the sworde, and I onely am left, and they seeke my life to take it away. And the Lord said vnto him, Goe, returne by the wildernes vnto Damascus, and when thou commest there, anoint Hazael King ouer Aram. And Iehu the sonne of Nimshi shalt thou anoynt King ouer Israel: and Elisha the sonne of Shaphat of Abel Meholah shalt thou anoynt to be Prophet in thy roume. And him that escapeth from the sworde of Hazael, shall Iehu slay: and him that escapeth from the sword of Iehu, shall Elisha slay. Yet wil I leaue seuen thousand in Israel, euen all the knees that haue not bowed vnto Baal, and euer mouth that hath not kissed him. So he departed thence, and found Elisha the sonne of Shaphat who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and was with the twelft: and Eliiah went towards him, and cast his mantel vpon him. And he left the oxen, and ran after Eliiah, and sayde, Let mee, I pray thee, kisse my father and my mother, and then I wil follow thee. Who answered him, Go, returne: for what haue I done to thee?

And when he went backe againe from him, he tooke a couple of oxen, and slewe them, and sod their flesh with the instruments of the oxen, and gaue vnto the people, and they did eate: then he arose and went after Eliiah, and ministred vnto him.

Then Ben-hadad the King of Aram assembled all his armie, and two and thirtie Kings with him, with horses, and charets, and went vp and besieged Samaria, and fought against it. And he sent messengers to Ahab King of Israel, into the citie, And sayd vnto him, Thus sayth Ben-hadad, Thy siluer and thy golde is mine: also thy women, and thy fayre children are mine. And the King of Israel answered, and sayd, My lord King, according to thy saying, I am thine, and all that I haue. And when the messengers came againe, they said, Thus commandeth Ben-hadad, and saith, When I shall send vnto thee, and command, thou shalt deliuer me thy siluer and thy golde, and thy women, and thy children, Or els I will sende my seruants vnto thee by to morow this time: and they shall search thine house, and the houses of thy seruants: and whatsoeuer is pleasant in thine eyes, they shall take it in their handes, and bring it away. Then the King of Israel sent for all the Elders of the land, and sayd, Take heede, I pray you, and see how he seeketh mischiefe: for he sent vnto me for my wiues, and for my children, and for my siluer, and for my golde, and I denied him not. And all the Elders, and all the people sayd to him, Hearken not vnto him, nor consent. Wherefore hee sayde vnto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lorde the King, All that thou diddest sende for to thy seruant at the first time, that I will doe, but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed, and brought him an answere. And Ben-hadad sent vnto him, and sayde, The gods do so to me and more also, if the dust of Samaria be ynough to all the people that follow me, for every man an handfull. And the King of Israel answered, and sayd, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth his harneis, boast himselfe, as he that putteth it off. And when he heard that tidings, as he was with the Kings drinking in the pauilions, he sayd vnto his seruants, Bring forth your engines, and they set them against the citie. And beholde, there came a Prophet vnto Ahab King of Israel, saying, Thus sayeth the Lord, Hast thou seene all this great multitude? beholde, I will deliver it into thine hande this day, that thou mayest knowe, that I am the Lord. And Ahab sayd, By whome? And he sayde, Thus sayth the Lord, By the seruants of the princes of the prouinces. He sayde againe, Who shall order the battel? And he answered, Thou. Then he nombred the seruantes of the princes of the prouinces, and they were two hundreth, two and thirtie: and after them he nombred the whole people of all the children of Israel, euuen seuen thousand. And they went out at noone: but Ben-hadad did drinke till he was drunken in the tentes, both he and the Kings: for two and thirtie Kings helped him. So the seruants of the princes of the prouinces went out first: and Ben-hadad sent out, and they shewed him, saying, There are men come out of Samaria. And he sayde, Whether they be come out for peace, take them aliue: or whether they bee come out to fight, take them yet aliue. So they came out of the citie, to wit, the seruants of the princes of the prouinces, and the hoste which followed them. And they slew euery one his enemie: and the Aramites fled, and Israel pursued them: but Ben-hadad ye King of Aram escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the King of Israel went out, and smote the horses and charets, and with a great slaughter slew he the Aramites. (For there had come a Prophet to the King of Israel, and had sayd vnto him, Goe, be of good courage, and consider, and take heede what thou doest: for when the yeere is gone about, the King of Aram wil come vp against thee) Then the seruants of the King of Aram said vnto him, Their gods are gods of the moutaines, and therefore they ouercame vs: but let vs fight against them in the playne, and doubtlesse we shall ouercome them. And this doe, Take the Kings away, euery one out of his place, and place captaines for them. And number thy selfe an armie, like the armie that thou hast lost, with such horses, and such charets, and we wil fight against them in the plaine, and doubtlesse we shall ouercome them: and he hearkened vnto their voyce, and did so. And after the yeere was gone about, Ben-hadad nombred the Aramites, and went vp to Aphek to fight against Israel. And the children of Israel were nombred, and were all assem-bled and went against them, and the children of Israel pitched before them, like two litle flockes of kiddes: but the Aramites filled the countrey. And there came a man of God, and spake vnto the King of Israel, saying, Thus sayeth the Lord, Because the Aramites haue sayd, The Lord is the God of the mountaines, and not God of the valleis, therefore will I deliuer all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. And they pitched one ouer against the other seuen dayes, and in the seuenth day the battel was ioyned: and the children of Israel slew of the Aramites an hundreth thousand footemen in one day. But the rest fled to Aphek into the citie: and there fel a wall vpon seuen and twentie thousand men that were left: and Ben-hadad fled into the citie, and came into a secret chamber. And his seruants sayd vnto him, Beholde nowe, we haue heard say that the Kings of the house of Israel are mercifull Kings: we pray thee, let vs put sacke cloth about our loynes, and ropes about our heads, and goe out to the King of Israel: it may be that he will saue thy life. Then they gyrded sackecloth about their loynes, and put ropes about their heads, and came to the King of Israel, and sayd, Thy seruant Ben-hadad sayth, I pray thee, let me liue: and he sayd, Is he yet aliue? he is my brother. Now the men tooke diliget heede, if they could catch any thing of him, and made haste, and sayd, Thy brother Ben-hadad. And he sayd, Go, bring him. So Ben-hadad came out vnto him, and he caused him to come vp vnto the chariot. And Ben-hadad sayd vnto him, The cities, which my father tooke from thy father, I wil restore, and thou shalt make streeties for thee in Damascus, as my father did in Samaria. Then said Ahab, I will let thee goe with this covenat. So he made a covenat with him, and let him goe. Then a certaine man of the children of the Prophets sayd vnto his neighbour by the comandement of the Lord, Smite me, I pray thee. But the man refused to smite him. Then sayd he vnto him, Because thou hast not obeyed the voyce of the Lord, beholde, as soone as thou art departed from me, a lyon shall slay thee. So when he was departed from him, a lyon found him and slew him. Then he founde another man, and sayde, Smite mee, I pray thee. And the man smote him, and in smiting wounded him. So the Prophet departed, and wayted for the King by the way, and disguised himselfe with ashes vpon his face. And when the King came by, he cried vnto the King, and said, Thy seruant went into the middes of the battel: and beholde, there went away a man, whom another man brought vnto me, and sayd, Keepe this man: if he be lost, and want, thy life shall go for his life, or els thou shalt pay a talent of siluer.
And as thy seruant had here and there to do, he was gone: And the King of Israel said vnto him, So shall thy judgement be: thou hast giuen sentence. And hee hasted, and tooke the ashes away from his face: and the King of Israel knewe him that he was of the Prophets: And he said vnto him, Thus saith the Lord, Because thou hast let goe out of thine handes a man whom I apoynted to dye, thy life shall goe for his life, and thy people for his people. And the King of Israel went to his house heauie and in displeasure, and came to Samaria.

After these things Naboth the Izreelite had a vineyarde in Izreel, hard by the palace of Ahab King of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying, Giue me thy vineyarde, that I may make mee a garden of herbes thereof, because it is neere by mine house: and I will giue thee for it a better vineyarde then it is: or if it please thee, I will giue thee the worth of it in money. And Naboth said to Ahab, The Lord keepe me from giuing the inheritance of my father vnto thee. Then Ahab came into his house heauie and in displeasure, because of the word which Naboth the Izreelite had spoken vnto him. for hee had sayde, I will not giue thee the inheritance of my fathers, and he lay vpon his bed, and turned his face and would eate no bread. Then Iezebel his wife came to him and said vnto him, Why is thy spirit so sad that thou eatest no bread? And he said vnto her, Because I spake vnto Naboth the Izreelite, and sayd vnto him, Giue me thy vineyard for money, or if it please thee, I will giue thee another vineyard for it: but he answered, I wil not giue thee my vineyarde. Then Iezebel his wife sayde vnto him, Doest thou nowe gouerne the kingdome of Israel? vp, eate bread, and be of good cheere, I will giue thee the vineyard of Naboth the Izreelite. So she wrote letters in Ahabs name, and sealed them with his seale, and sent the letters vnto the Elders, and to the nobles that were in his citie dwelling with Naboth. And shee wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaime a fast, and set Naboth among the chiefe of the people. And set two wicked men before him, and let them witnesse against him, saying, Thou diddest blaspheme God and the King: then cary him out, and stone him that he may dye. And the men of his citie, euen the Elders and gouernours, which dwelt in his citie, did as Iezebel had sent vnto them: as it was written in the letters, which she had sent vnto them. They proclaimed a fast, and set Naboth among the chiefe of the people. And there came two wicked men, and sate before him: and the wicked men witnessed against Naboth in the presence of the people saying, Naboth did blaspheme God and the King. Then they caried him away out of the citie, and stoned him with stones, that he dyed. Then they sent to Iezebel, saying, Naboth is stoned and is dead. And when Iezebel heard that Naboth was stoned and was dead, Iezebel sayd to Ahab, Vp, and take possession of the vineyarde of Naboth the Izreelite, which he refused to giue thee for money: for Naboth is not aliue, but is dead. And when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, he rose to go downe to the vineyard of Naboth the Izreelite, to take possession of it. And the word of the Lord came vnto Eliiah the Tishbite, saying, Arise, goe downe to meete Ahab King of Israel, which is in Samaria. loe, he is in the vineyarde of Naboth, whither he is gone downe to take possession of it. Therefore shalt thou say vnto him, Thus sayth the Lord, Hast thou killed, and also gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto him, saying, Thus sayth the Lord, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, shall dogs licke euen thy blood also. And Ahab sayd to Eliiah, Hast thou found mee, O mine enemie? And he answered, I haue found thee:
for thou hast solde thy selfe to worke wickednes in the sight of the Lord. Beholde, I will bring euill vpon thee, and wil take away thy posteritie, and wil cut off from Ahab him that pisseth against the wall, as well him that is shut vp, as him that is left in Israel, And I wil make thine house like the house of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha the sonne of Ahiiyah, for the prouocation wherewith thou hast prouoked, and made Israel to sinne. And also of Iezebel spake the Lord, saying, The dogs shall eate Iezebel, by the wall of Izreel. The dogs shall eate him of Ahab's stocke, that dyeth in the citie: and him that dyeth in the fieldes, shall the foules of the ayre eate. (But there was none like Ahab, who did fell him selfe, to worke wickednesse in the sight of the Lord: whom Iezebel his wife prouoked. For he did exceeding abominably in following idoles, according to all that the Amorites did, whom the Lord cast out before the children of Israel.) Nowe when Ahab heard those wordes, he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth vpon him and fasted, and lay in sackecloth and went softly. And the worde of the Lord came to Eliiah the Tishbite, saying, Seest thou how Ahab is humbled before me? because he submitteth himselfe before me, I will not bring that euill in his dayes, but in his sonnes dayes wil I bring euill vpon his house.

And they continued three yeere without warre betweene Aram and Israel. And in the third yeere did Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah come downe to ye King of Israel. (Then the King of Israel saide vnto his servants, Knowe yee not that Ramoth Gilead was ours? and wee stay, and take it not out of ye hand of the King of Aram?) And he sayde vnto Iehoshaphat, Wilt thou goe with mee to battel against Ramoth Gilead? And Iehoshaphat saide vnto the King of Israel, I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and mine horses as thine horses. Then Iehoshaphat saide vnto the King of Israel, Aske counsaile, I pray thee, of the Lord to day. Then the King of Israel gathered the prophets vpon a foure hundreth men, and said vnto them, Shal I go against Ramoth Gilead to battel, or shall I let it alone? And they said, Go vp: for ye Lord shall deliuer it into the hands of the King. And Iehoshaphat said, Is there here neuer a Prophet of the Lord more, that we might inquiere of him? And the King of Israel said vnto Iehoshaphat, There is yet one man (Michaiah the sonne of Imlah) by whom we may ask counsel of the Lord, but I hate him: for he doeth not prophesie good vnto me, but euill. And Iehoshaphat sayd, Let not the King say so. Then the King of Israel called an Eunuche, and sayde, Call quickly Michaiah the sonne of Imlah. And the King of Israel and Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah sate either of them on his throne in their apparell in the voyde place at the entring in of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets prophesied before them. And Zidkiiah the sonne of Chenaanah made him hornes of yron, and sayd, Thus sayth the Lord, With these shalt thou push the Aramites, vntill thou hast consumed them. And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Goe vp to Ramoth Gilead, and prosper: for the Lord shall deliuer it into the Kings hand. And the messenger that was gone to call Michaiah spake vnto him, saying, Beholde now, the wordes of the prophets declare good vnto the King with one accorde: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like the worde of one of them, and speake thou good. And Michaiah saide, As the Lord liueth, whatsoeuer the Lord sayth vnto me, that will I speake. So he came to the King, and the King said vnto him, Michaiah, shall we go against Ramoth Gilead to battel, or shall we leaue off? And he answered him, Goe vp, and prosper: and the Lord shall deliuer it into the hand of the King. And the King said vnto him, How oft shall I charge thee, that thou tell me nothing but that which is true in the Name of the Lord? Then he said, I sawe all Israel scattered vpon the mountaines, as sheepe that had no shepheard. And the Lord sayde, These haue no master, let euery man returne vnto his house in peace. (And the King of Israel saide vnto Iehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would prophesie no good vnto me, but euill?) Againe he said, Heare thou therefore the worde of the Lord. I sawe the Lord sit on his throne, and all the hoste of heauen stood about him on his right hand and on his left hand. And the Lord sayd, Who shall entise Ahab that he may go and fall at Ramoth Gilead? And one said on this manner, and another sayd on that manner. Then there came forth a spirit, and stoode before the Lord, and sayd, I wil entise him. And the Lord sayd vnto him, Wherewith? And he sayd, I will goe out, and be a false spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. Then he sayd, Thou shalt entise him, and shalt also preuayle: goe forth, and doe so.
Now therefore behold, the Lord hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and the Lord hath appointed evil against thee. Then Zidkiiah the sonne of Chenaanah came neere, and smote Michaiah on the cheeke and sayd, When went the Spirit of the Lord from me, to speake vnto thee? And Michaiah saide, Behold, thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt goe from chamber to chamber to hide thee. And the King of Israel sayd, Take Michaiah, and cary him vnto Amon the gouernour of the citie, and vnto Ioash the Kings sonne, And say, Thus saith the King, Put this man in the prison house, and feede him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction, vntill I returne in peace. And Michaiah sayde, If thou returne in peace, the Lord hath not spoken by me. And he sayd, Hearken all ye people. So the King of Israel and Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah went vp to Ramoth Gilead. And the King of Israel sayde to Iehoshaphat, I will change mine apparell, and will enter into the battell, but put thou on thine apparell. And the King of Israel changed himselfe, and went into the battell. And the King of Aram commanded his two and thirtie captaines ouer his charets, saying, Fight neither with small, nor great, saue onely against the King of Israel. And when the captaines of the charets saw Iehoshaphat, they sayd, Surely it is the King of Israel, and they turned to fight against him: and Iehoshaphat cryed. And when the captaines of the charets saw that he was not the King of Israel, they turned backe from him. Then a certaine man drewe a bow mightily and smote the King of Israel betweene the ioyntes of his brigandine. Wherefore he sayde vnto his charet man, Turne thine hand and cary me out of the hoste: for I am hurt. And the battel encreased that day, and the King stoode still in his charet against the Aramites, and dyed at euen: and the blood ran out of the wound into the middes of the charet. And there went a proclamation thorowout the hoste about the going downe of the sunne, saying, Euyery man to his citie, and euyery man to his owne countrey. So the King died, and was brought to Samaria, and they buried the King in Samaria. And one washed the charet in the poole of Samaria, and the dogs licked vp his blood (and they washed his armour) according vnto the word of the Lord which he spake. Concerning the rest of the actes of Ahab and all that he did, and the yuorie house which he built, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Ahab slept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his sonne reigned in his stead.

And Iehoshaphat the sonne of Asa began to reigne vpon Iudah in the fourth yeere of Ahab King of Israel. Iehoshaphat was fiue and thirty yere olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned fiue and twentie yeere in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi. And he walked in all the wayes of Asa his father, and declined not therefrom, but did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord. Neuerthelesse the hie places were not taken away: for the people offred still and burnt incense in the hie places. And Iehoshaphat made peace with the King of Israel. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iehoshaphat, and his worthy deede that he did, and his battels which he fought, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And the Sodomites, which remayned in the dayes of his father Asa, he put cleane out of the land. There was then no King in Edom: the deputie was King. Iehoshaphat made shippes of Tharshish to sayle to Ophir for golde, but they went not, for the shippes were broken at Ezion Gaber. Then sayde Ahaziah the sonne of Ahab vnto Iehoshaphat, Let my servants goe with thy servants in the ships, But Iehoshaphat would not. And Iehoshaphat did sleepe with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid his father, and Iehoram his sonne reigned in his stead. Ahaziah the sonne of Ahab began to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria, the seuenteenth yeere of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, and reigned two yeerees ouer Israel. But he did euill in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne. For he serued Baal and worshipped him, and prouoked the Lord God of Israel vnto wrath, according vnto all that his father had done.
When Moab rebelled against Israel after the death of [1] Ahab: And Ahaziah fell through the lattice window in his upper chamber which was in Samaria: so he was sick: then he sent messengers, to whom he said, Go, and enquire of Baal-zebub the God of Ekron, if I shall recover of this my disease. Then the Angel of the Lord said to [2] Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, and go to meet the messengers of the King of Samaria, and say unto them, Is it not because there is no God in Israel, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the God of Ekron? Wherefore thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt not come downe from the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt die the death. So Elijah departed. And the messengers returned unto him, to whom he said, Why are ye nowe returned? And they answered him, There came a man and met us, and said unto us, Go, and return to the King which sent you, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Is it not because there is no God in Israel, that thou sendest to enquire of Baal-zebub the God of Ekron? Therefore thou shalt not come downe from the bed, on which thou art gone vp, but shalt die ye death. And he saide unto them, What manner of man was he which came and met you, and tolde you these wordes? And they said unto him, [3] He was an hearie man, and girded with a girdle of lether about his loynes. Then sayde he, It is Elijah the Tishbite. Therefore the King sent vnto him a captaine ouer fiftie with his fiftie men, who went vp vnto him: for beholde, he sate on the toppe of a mountaine, and he saide vnto him, O man of God, the King hath commanded that thou come downe. But Elijah answered, and saide to the captaine ouer the fiftie, If that I be a man of God, let fire come downe from the heauen, and deuoure thee and thy fiftie. So fire came downe from the heauen and deuoured him and his fiftie. Againe also he sent vnto him another captaine ouer fiftie, with his fiftie. Who spake, and saide vnto him, O man of God, thus the King commandeth, Come downe quickly. But Eliiah answered, and saide vnto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come downe from the heauen, and deuoure thee and thy fiftie. So fire came downe from the heauen, and deuoured him and his fiftie. Yet againe he sent the third captaine ouer fiftie with his fiftie. And the thirde captaine ouer fiftie went vp, and came, and fell on his knees before Eliiah, and besought him, and saide vnto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life and the life of these thy fiftie seruants be precious in thy sight. Beholde, there came fire downe from the heauen and deuoured the two former captaines ouer fiftie with their fifties: therefore let my life nowe be precious in thy sight. And the Angel of the Lord said vnto Eliiah, Goe downe with him, be not afraide of his presence. So he arose, and went downe with him vnto the King. And he saide vnto him, Thus saith the Lord, Because thou hast sent messengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, (was it not because there was no God in Israel to inquire of his worde?) therefore thou shalt not come downe off the bed, on which thou art gone vp, but shalt die the death. So he dyed according to the worde of the Lord which Eliiah had spoken. And Iehoram began to reigne in his steade, in the seconde yeere of Iehoram the sonne of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, because he had no sonne. Concerning the rest of the actes of Ahaziah, that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

2 And when the Lord would take vp Eliiah into heauen by a whirle winde, Eliiah went with Elisha from Gilgal. Then Eliiah saide to Elisha, Tarie here, I pray thee: for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel. But Elisha said, As the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee. So they came downe to Beth- el. And the children of the Prophets that were at Beth-el, came out to Elisha, and said vnto him, Knowest thou that the Lord will take thy master from thine head this day? And he said, Yea, I knowe it: holde ye your peace. Againe Eliiah saide vnto him, Elisha, tarie here, I pray thee: for the Lord hath sent me to Iericho: But he said, As the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee. So they came to Iericho. And the children of the Prophets that were at Iericho, came to Elisha, and saide vnto him, Knowest thou, that the Lord will take thy master from thine head this day? And he sayde, Yea, I knowe it: holde ye your peace. Moreover Eliiah saide vnto him, Tarie, I pray thee, here: for the Lord hath sent me to Iorden. But he saide, As the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee. So they went both together. And fiftie men of the sonnes of the Prophets went and stooede on the other side a farre off, and they two stooede by Iorden. Then Eliiah tooke his cloke, and wrapt it together, and smote the waters, and they were deuided hither and thither, and they twaine went ouer on the dry lande. Nowe when they were passed ouer, Eliiah saide vnto Elisha, Aske what I shall doe for thee before I be taken from thee. And Elisha saide, I pray thee, let thy Spirit be double vpon me. And he saide, Thou hast asked an hard thing: yet if thou see me when I am taken from thee, thou shalt haue it so: and if not, it shall not be. And as they went walking and talking, beholde, there appeared a charret of fire, and horses of fire, and did separate them twaine. So Eliiah went vp by a whirle winde into heauen. And Elisha saw it, and he cryed, My father, my father, the charret of Israel, and the horsemen thereof: and he sawe him no more: and he tooke his owne clothes, and rent them in two pieces. He tooke vp also the cloke of Eliiah that fell from him, and returned, and stooed by the banke of Iorden. After, he tooke the cloke of Eliiah, that fell from him, and smote the waters, and sayde, Where is the Lord God of Eliiah? And so he also, after he had striken the waters, so that they were deuided this way and that way, went ouer, euen Elisha. And when the children of the Prophets, which were at Iericho, saw him on the other side, they sayde, The Spirite of Eliiah doeth rest on Elisha: and they came to meete him, and fell to the grounde before him. And said vnto him, Beholde nowe, there be with thy seruants fiftie strong men: let them go, we pray thee, and seeke thy master, if so be the Spirite of the Lord hath taken him vp, and cast him vpon some mountaine, or into some valley. But he said, Ye shall not sende. Yet they were instant vpon him, til he was ashamed: wherefore he saide, Sende. So they sent fiftie men, which sought three dayes, but founde him not. Therefore they returned to him, (for he taryed at Iericho) and he said vnto them, Did not I say vnto you, Goe not? And the men of the citie saide vnto Elisha, Beholde, we pray thee: the situation of this citie is pleasant, as thou, my lorde, seest, but the water is naught, and the ground baren. Then he saide, Bring me a newe cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him. And he went vnto the spring of the waters, and cast there the salt, and said, Thus saith the Lord, I haue healed this water: death shall no more come thereof, neither barennesse to the ground. So the waters were healed vntill this day, according to the worde of Elisha which hee had spoken. And he went vp from thence vnto Beth-el. And as he was going vp the way, little children came out of the citie, and mocked him, and saide vnto him, Come vp, thou balde head, come vp, thou balde head. And he turned backe, and looked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lord. And two beares came out of the forest, and tare in pieces two and fourtie children of them. So he went from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he returned to Samaria.

3 Nowe Iehoram the sonne of Ahab beganne to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria, the eighteenth yeere of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, and reigned twelue yeeres. And he wrought euill in the sight of the Lord, but not like his father nor like his mother: for he tooke away the image of Baal that his father had made. Neuerthelesse, he cleaued vnto the sinnes of Ieroboam, the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne, and departed not therefrom. Then Mesha King of Moab had store of sheepe, and rendred vnto the King of Israel an hundreth thousande lambes, and an hundreth thousande rammes with the wooll. But when Ahab was dead, the king of Moab rebelled against the King of Israel. Therefore King Iehoram went out of Samaria the same season, and nombred all Israel, And went, and sent to Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, saying, The King of Moab hath rebelled against me: wilt thou goe with me to battell against Moab? And he answered, I will goe vp: for I am, as thou art, my people, as thy people, and mine horses as thine horses. Then said he, What way shall we goe vp? And he answered, The way of the wildernesse of Edom. So went the King of Israel and the king of Iudah, and the King of Edom, and when they had compassed the way seuen dayes, they had no water for the hoste, nor for the cattell that followed them.
Therefore the King of Israel sayde, Alas, that the Lord hath called these three Kings, to giue them into the hand of Moab. But Iehoshaphat saide, Is there not here a Prophet of the Lord, that we may inquiere of the Lord by him? And one of the King of Israels seruants answered, and said, Here is Elisha the sonne of Shaphat, which powred water on the handes of Eliiah. Then Iehoshaphat saide, The worde of the Lord is with him. Therefore the King of Israel, and Iehoshaphat, and the King of Edom went downe to him. And Elisha sayde vnto the King of Israel, What haue I to doe with thee? get thee to the prophets of thy father and to the prophets of thy mother. And the King of Israel saide vnto him, Nay: for the Lord hath called these three Kings, to giue them into the hande of Moab. Then Elisha said, As the Lord of hostes liueth, in whose sight I stande, if it were not, that I regarde the presence of Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah, I woulde not haue looked towarde thee, nor scene thee. But nowe bring me a minstrel. And when the minstrel played, the hand of the Lord came vpon him. And he saide, Thus saith the Lord, Make this valley full of ditches. For thus saith the Lord, Ye shall neither see winde nor see raine, yet the valley shalbe filled with water, that ye may drinke, both ye and your cattel, and your beasts. But this is a small thing in the sight of the Lord: for he will giue Moab into your hande. And ye shall smite euery strong towne and euery chiefe citie, and shall fell euery faire tree, and shall stoppe all the fountaines of water, and marre euery good fielde with stones. And in the morning whe the meat offring was offred, beholde, there came water by the way of Edom: and the countrey was filled with water. And when al the Moabites heard that the Kings were come vp to fight against them, they gathered all that was able to put on harnesse, and vpwarde, and stood in their border. And they rose earely in the morning, when the sunne arose vpon the water, and the Moabites saw the water ouer against them, as red as blood. And they saide, This is blood the Kings are surely slaine, and one hath smitten another: now therefore, Moab, to the spoyle. And when they came to the host of Israel, the Israelites arose vp, and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them, but they inuaded them, and smote Moab. And they destroyed the cities: and on all the good field euery man cast his stone, and filled them and they stopt all the fountains of water, and felled all the good trees: onely in Kirharaseth left they the stones thereof: howebeit they went about it with slings, and smote it. And when the King of Moab saw that the battel was too sore for him, he tooke with him seuen hudreth men that drew the sword, to break through vnto the King of Edom: but they could not. Then he tooke his eldest sonne, that should haue reigned in his stead, and offered him for a burnt offer of offering vpon the wall: so that Israel was sore grieued, and they departed from him, and returned to their countrey.

And one of the wiues of the sonnes of the Prophets cryed vnfo Elisha, saying, Thy servant mine husband is dead, and thou knowest, that thy servant did feare the Lord: and the creditour is come to take my two sonnes to bee his bondmen. Then Elisha sayde vnfo her, What shall I do for thee? tell mee, what hast thou at home? And she sayd, Thine handmayd hath nothing at home, saue a pitcher of oyle. And he sayde, Goe, and borowe thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, emptie vessels, and spare not. And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the doore vpon thee and vpon thy sonnes, and powre out into all those vessels, and set aside those that are full. So shee departed from him, and shut the doore vpon her, and vpon her sonnes. And they brought to her, and she powred out. And when the vessels were full, shee sayde vnfo her sonne, Bring mee yet a vessel. And hee said vnfo her, There is no moe vessels. And the oyle ceased. Then shee came and tolde the man of God. And he said, Goe, and sell the oyle, and pay them that thou art in debt vnfo, and liue thou and thy children of the rest. And on a time Elisha came to Shunem, and there a woman of great estimation constrained him to eate bread: and as he passed by, he turned in thither to eate bread. And she sayde vnfo her husband, Beholde, I know now, that this is an holy man of God that passeth by vs continually. Let vs make him a litle chamber, I pray thee, with walles, and let vs set him there a bed, and a table, and a stoole, and a candlesticke, that hee may turne in thither when hee commeth to vs. And on a day, hee came thither and turned into the chamber, and lay therein. And sayd to Gehazi his seruant, Call this Shumammite: and when hee called her, she stood before him. Then he sayd vnfo him, Say vnfo her now, Beholde, thou hast had all this great care for vs, what shall we doe for thee? Is there any thing to bee spoken for thee to the King or to the capitaine of the hoste? And shee answered, I dwell among mine owne people. Againe he sayde, What is then to be done for her? Then Gehazi answered, In deede she hath no sonne, and her husband is olde. Then said he, Cal her. And hee called her, and shee stoode in the doore. And he said, At this time appointed, according to the time of life, thou shalt embrace a sonne. And she sayd, Oh my Lord, thou man of God, doe not lye vnto thine handmayd. So the woman conceiued, and bare a sonne at that same season, according to the time of life, that Elisha had sayd vnto her. And when the childe was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father, and to the reapers. And he sayde to his father, Mine head, mine head. Who sayd to his servuant, Beare him to his mother. And hee tooke him and brought him to his mother, and hee sate on her knees till noone, and dyed. Then shee went vp, and layed him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the doore vpon him, and went out. Then she called to her husband, and sayd, Send with me, I pray thee, one of the yong men and one of the asses: for I will haste to the man of God, and come againe. And he sayd, Wherefore wilt thou goe to him to day? it is neither newe moone nor Sabbath day. And she answered, All shalbe well. Then she sadled an asse, and sayde to her servuant, Driue, and goe forward: staye not for me to get vp, except I bid thee. So she went, and came vnto the man of God to mount Carmel. And when the man of God sawe her ouer against him, he sayd to Gehazi his servuant, Beholde, the Shunammite. Runne nowe, I say, to meete her, and say vnto her, Art thou in health? is thine husband in health? and is the child in health? And she answered, We are in health. And when shee came to the man of God vnto the moutaine, she caught him by his feete: and Gehazi went to her, to thrust her away: but the man of God said, Let her alone: for her soule is vexed within her, and the Lord hath hid it from me, and hath not told it mee. Then she said, Did I desire a sonne of my lord? did I not say, Deceiue me not? Then he sayd to Gehazi, Gird thy loynes, and take my staffe in thine hand, and goe thy way: if thou meete any, salute him not: and if any salute thee, answere him not: and laye my staffe vpon the face of the childe. And the mother of the childe sayde, As the Lord liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee. Therefore he arose, and followed her. But Gehazi was gone before them, and had layed the staffe vpon the face of the childe, but he neither spake nor heard: wherefore hee returned to meete him, and told him, saying, The childe is not waken.

Then came Elisha into the house, and beholde, the childe was dead, and layed vpon his bedde. He went in therefore, and shut the doore vpon them twayne, and prayed vnto the Lord. After he went vp, and lay vpon the child, and put his mouth on his mouth, and his eyes vpon his eies, and his hands vpon his handes, and stretched himselfe vpon him, and the flesh of the child waxed warme. And hee went from him, and walked vp and downe in the house, and went vp and spred himselfe vpon him: then the childe neesed seuen times, and opened his eyes. Then he called Gehazi, and sayd, Call this Shunammite. So he called her, which came in vnto him. And he said vnto her, Take thy sonne. And she came, and fell at his feete, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and tooke vp her sonne, and went out. Afterward Elisha returned to Gilgal, and a famine was in the land, and the children of the Prophets dwelt with him. And hee sayd vnto his seruant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the children of the Prophets. And one went out into the fielde, to gather herbes, and founde, as it were, a wilde vine, and gathered thereof wilde gourdes his garment ful, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew it not. So they powred out for the men to eate: and when they did eate of the pottage, they cryed out, and sayde, O thou man of God, death is in the pot: and they could not eate thereof. Then he said, Bring meale. And hee cast it into the potte, and sayd, Powre out for the people, that they may eate: and there was none euill in the pot. Then came a man from Baal-shalisha, and brought the man of God bread of the first fruits, euen twenty loaues of barley, and full eares of corne in the huske. And hee saide, Giue vnto the people, that they may eate. And his seruant answered, How shoulde I set this before an hundreth men? He sayd againe, Giue it vnto the people, that they may eate: for thus sayth the Lord, They shall eate, and there shall remaine. So he set it before them, and they did eate, and left ouer, according to the word of the Lord.
Now was there one Naaman captain of the hoste of the King of Aram, a great man, and honourable in the sight of his lorde, because that by him the Lord had deliuered the Aramites. He also was a mightie man and valiant, but a leper. And the Aramites had gone out by bands, and had taken a little mayde of the land of Israel, and she serued Naamans wife. And she sayd vnto her mistres, Would God my lord were with the Prophet that is in Samaria, he would soone deliuer him of his leprosie. And he went in, and tolde his lorde, saying, Thus and thus saith the mayde that is of the land of Israel. And the King of Aram sayde, Goe thy way thither, and I will send a letter vnto the King of Israel. And he departed, and tooke with him ten talents of siluer, and sixe thousand pieces of golde, and ten change of rayments, And brought the letter to the King of Israel to this effect, Now when this letter is come vnto thee, vnderstand, that I haue sent thee Naaman my seruant, that thou maiest heale him of his leprosie. And when the King of Israel had read the letter, he rent his clothes, and sayde, Am I God, to kill and to giue life, that hee doth send to mee, that I should heale a man from his leprosie? wherfore consider, I pray you, and see howe he seeketh a quarel against me. But when Elisha the man of God had heard that the King of Israel had rent his clothes, he sent vnto the King, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? Let him come now to me, and he shall knowe that there is a Prophet in Israel. Then Naaman came with his horses, and with his charets, and stoode at the doore of the house of Elisha. And Elisha sent a messenger vnto him, saying, Go and wash thee in Iorden seuen times, and thy flesh shall come againe to thee, and thou shalt be clensed. But Naaman was wroth and went away, and sayde, Beholde, I thought with my selfe, Hee will surely come out, and stande, and call on the Name of the Lord his God and put his hand on the place, and heale the leprosie. Are not Abanah and Pharpar, riuers of Damascus, better then all the waters of Israel? may I not washe mee in them, and bee cleansed? so hee turned, and departed in displeasure. But his seruants came, and spake vnto him, and sayd, Father, if the Prophet had commanded thee a great thing, wouldest thou not haue done it? howe much rather then, when hee sayth to thee, Wash and be cleane? Then went he downe, and washed him selfe seuen times in Iorden, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came againe, like vnto ye flesh of a litle child, and he was cleane. And hee turned againe to the man of God, hee, and all his companie, and came and stood before him, and sayd, Behold, now I knowe that there is no God in all the world, but in Israel: now therefore, I pray thee, take a reward of thy servaunt. But hee sayde, As the Lord liueth (before whom I stand) I wil not receiue it. And he would haue constrained him to receiue it, but he refused. Moreouer Naaman sayde, Shall there not be giuen to thy servaunt two mules loade of this earth? for thy servaunt will henceforth offer neither burnt sacrifice nor offring vnto any other god, saue vnto the Lord. Herein the Lord bee mercifull vnto thy servaunt, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon, to worship there, and leaneth on mine hand, and I bowe my selfe in the house of Rimmon: when I doe bowe downe, I say, in the house of Rimmon, the Lord be merci-full vnto thy servaunt in this point. Vnto whome he saide, Goe in peace. So he departed from him about halfe a dayes journey of grounde. And Gehazi the servaunt of Elisha the man of God sayde, Beholde, my master hath spared this Aramite Naaman, receiuing not those things at his hand that he brought: as the Lord liueth, I will runne after him, and take somewhat of him. So Gehazi followed speedily after Naaman. And when Naaman sawe him running after him, he light downe from the charret to meete him, and said, Is all well? And he answered, All is well: my master hath set me, saying, Behold, there be come to me, euen nowe from mount Ephraim two yong men of the children of the Prophets: giue them, I pray thee, a talent of siluer, and two change of garmets. And Naaman saide, Yea, take two talents: and he compelled him, and bound two talents of siluer in two bagges, with two change of garments, and gaue them vnto two of his servaunts, that they might beare them be-fore him. And when he came to the towre, he tooke them out of their handes, and laide them in the house, and sent away the men: and they departed. Then he went in, and stooode before his master. And Elisha said vnto him, Whence commest thou, Gehazi? And he said, Thy servaunt went no whither. But he saide vnto him, Went not mine heart with thee when the man turned againe from his charret to meete thee? Is this a time to take money, and to receiue garments, and olieues, and vineyardes, and sheepe, and oxen, and men seruants, and maide seruants? The leprosie therefore of Naaman shall cleaue vnto thee, and to thy seede for euer. And he went out from his presence a leper white as snowe.

And the children of the Prophets saide vnto Elisha, Behold, we pray thee, the place where we dwell with thee, is too litle for vs. Let vs nowe goe to Iorden, that we may take thence euery man a beame, and make vs a place to dwell in. And he answered, Goe. And one said, Vouchsafe, I pray thee, to goe with thy seruants, and he answered, I will goe. So he went with them, and when they came to Iorden, they cut downe wood. And as one was felling of a tree, the yron fell into the water: then he cryed, and said, Alas master, it was but borowed. And the man of God saide, Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. Then he cut downe a piece of wood, and cast in thither, and he caused the yron to swimme. Then he saide, Take it vp to thee. And he stretched out his hand, and tooke it. Then the King of Aram warred against Israel, and tooke counsell with his seruants, and said, In such and such a place shalbe my campe. Therefore the man of God sent vnto the King of Israel, saying, Beware thou goe not ouer to such a place: for there the Aramites are come downe. So the King of Israel sent to the place which the man of God tolde him, and warned him of, and saued himselfe from thence, not once, nor twise. And the heart of the King of Aram was troubled for this thing: therefore he called his seruants and saide vnto them, Will ye not shewe me, which of vs bewrayeth our counsel to the king of Israel? Then one of his seruants saide, None, my lorde, O King, but Elisha the Prophet that is in Israel, telleth the King of Israel, euen the wordes that thou speakest in thy priuie chamber. And he said, Goe, and espie where he is, that I may sende and fetch him. And one tolde him, saying, Beholde, he is in Dothan. So he sent thither horses, and charrets, and a mightie hoste: and they came by night, and compassed the citie. And when the seruant of the man of God arose earely to goe out, beholde, an hoste compassed the citie with horses and charrets. Then his seruant sayde vnto him, Alas master, howe shall we doe? And he answered, Feare not: for they that be with vs, are moe then they that be with them.
Then Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I beseech thee, open his eyes, that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the servant, and he looked, and beheld, the mountaine was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha. So they came downe to him, but Elisha prayed vnto the Lord, and said, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindness. And he smote them with blindness, according to the word of Elisha. And Elisha said vnto them, This is not the way, neither is this the citie: follow me, and I will leade you to the man whome ye seeke. But he ledde them to Samaria. And when they were come to Samaria, Elisha saide, Lord, open their eyes that they may see. And the Lord opened their eyes, and they saw, and beholde, they were in the mids of Samaria. And the King of Israel sayde vnto Elisha when he sawe them, My father, shall I smite them, shall I smite them? And he answered, Thou shalt not smite them: doest thou not smite them that thou hast taken with thy sword, and with thy bowe? but set bread and water before them, that they may eate and drinke and goe to their master. And he made great preparation for them: and when they had eaten and drunken, he sent them away: and they went to their master. So ye bands of Aram came no more into the land of Israel. But afterward Ben-hadad King of Aram gathered all his hoste, and went vp, and besieged Samaria. So there was a great famine in Samaria: for loe, they besieged it vntill an asses head was at foure score pieces of siluer, and the fourth part of a kab of doues doung at fiue pieces of siluer. And as the King of Israel was going vpon the wall, there cryed a woman vnto him, saying, Helpe, my lord, O King. And he said, Seeing the Lord doeth not succour thee, howe shoulde I helpe thee with the barne, or with the wine presse? Also the King said vnto her, What ayleth thee? And she answered, This woman sayde vnto me, Giue thy sonne, that we may eate him to day, and we will eate my sonne to morowe. So we sod my sonne, and did eate him: and I saide to her the day after, Giue thy sonne, that we may eate him, but she hath hid her sonne. And when the King had heard the wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, (and as he went vpon the wall, the people looked, and behold, he had sackecloth within vpon his flesh) And he saide, God doe so to me and more also, if the head of Elisha the sonne of Shaphat shall stande on him this day. (Nowe Elisha sate in his house, and the Elders sate with him.) And the King sent a man before him: but before the messenger came to him, he saide to the Elders, See ye not howe this murtherers sonne hath sent to take away mine head? take heede when the messenger commeth, and shut the doore and handle him roughly at the doore: is not the sounde of his masters feete behinde him? While he yet talked with them, beholde, the messenger came downe vnto him, and saide, Behold, this euill commeth of the Lord: should I attende on the Lord any longer?

Then Elisha saide, Heare ye the worde of the Lord: thus saith the Lord, To morowe this time a measure of fine floure shalbe solde for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel in the gate of Samaria. Then a prince, on whose hande the King leaned, answered the man of God, and saide, Though the Lord would make windowes in the heauen, could this thing come to passe? And he said, Beholde, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not eate thereof. Nowe there were foure leprous men at the entring in of the gate: and they saide one to an other, Why sitte we here vntill we die? If we say, We will enter into the citie, the famine is in the citie, and we shall die there: and if we sit here, we dye also. Nowe therefore come, and let vs fall into the campe of the Aramites: if they saue our liues, we shall liue: and if they kill vs, we are but dead. So they rose vp in the twilight, to goe to the campe of the Aramites: and when they were come to the vtmost part of the campe of the Aramites, loe, there was no man there. For the Lord had caused the campe of the Aramites to heare a noyse of charrets and a noise of horses, and a noise of a great armie, so that they sayde one to another, Beholde, the King of Israel hath hired against vs the Kings of the Hittites, and the Kings of the Egyptians to come vpon vs. Wherefore they arose, and fled in the twilight, and left their tentes and their horses, and their asses, euen the campe as it was, and fledde for their liues. And when these lepers came to the vtmost part of the campe, they entred into one tent, and did eate and drinke, and caryed thence siluer and golde, and raiment, and went and hid it: after they returned, and entred into another tent, and caryed thence also, and went and hid it. Then saide one to another, We doe not well: this day is a day of good tidings, and we holde our peace. if we tary till day light, some mischiefe will come vpon vs. Nowe therefore, come, let vs goe, and tell the Kings housholde. So they came, and called vnto the porters of the citie, and tolde them, saying, We came to the campe of the Aramites, and loe, there was no man there, neither voyce of man, but horses tyed and asses tyed: and the tents are as they were. And the porters cryed and declared to the Kings house within. Then the King arose in the night, and saide vnto his servaunts, I wil shew you now, what the Aramites haue done vnto vs. They know that we are affamished, therefore they are gone out of the campe to hide them selues in the fielde, saying, When they come out of the citie, we shall catch them aliue, and get into the citie. And one of his servaunts answered, and said, Let me take now fiue of the horses that remaine, and are left in the citie, (behold, they are euuen as all the multitude of Israel that are left therein: beholde, I say, they are as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed) and we wil send to see. So they tooke two charets of horses, and the King sent after the hoste of the Aramites, saying, Goe and see. And they went after them vnto Iorden, and loe, all the way was full of clothes and vessels which the Aramites had cast from them in their hast: and the messengers returned, and told ye King. Then the people went out and spoyled the campe of the Aramites: so a measure of fine floure was at a shekel, and two measures of barley at a shekel according to the word of the Lord. And the King gaue the prince (on whose hande he leaned) the charge of the gate, and the people trode vpon him in the gate, and he dyed, as the man of God had saide, which spake it, when the King came downe to him. And it came to passe, as the man of God had spoken to the King, saying, Two measures of barley at a shekel, and a measure of fine floure shall be at a shekel, to morowe about this time in the gate of Samaria. But the prince had answered the man of God, and saide, Though the Lord would make windowes in the heauen, coulde it come so to passe? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not eate thereof. And so it came vnto him: for the people trode vpon him in the gate, and he dyed.

Then spake Elisha vnto the woman, whose sonne he had restored to life, saying, Vp, and goe, thou, and thine house, and sojourn where thou canst sojourn: for the Lord hath called for a famine, and it commeth also upon the land seven years. And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God, and went both she and her householde and sojourned in the lande of the Philistims seven years. And at the seven years ende, the woman returned out of the lande of the Philistims, and went out to call upon the King for her house and for her land. And the King talked with Gehazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell mee, I pray thee, all the great acts, that Elisha hath done. And as he told the King, howe he had restored one dead to life, behold, the woman, whose sonne he had raised to life, called upon the King for her house and for her land. Then Gehazi sayd, My lorde, O King, this is the woman, and this is her sonne, whom Elisha restored to life. And when the King asked the woman, she told him: so the King appointed her an Eunuch, saying, Restore thou all that are hers, and all the fruites of her landes since the day shee left the land, euen untill this time. Then Elisha came to Damascus, and Ben-hadad the King of Aram was sicker, and one told him, saying, The man of God is come hither. And the King said vnto Hazael, Take a present in thine hande, and goe meete the man of God, that thou mayest inquire of ye Lord by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease? So Hazael went to meete him, and tooke the present in his hand, and of every good thing of Damascus, euen the burden of fourtie camels, and came and stood before him, and sayde, Thy sonne Ben-hadad King of Aram hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I recover of this disease? So Hazael went to meete him, and tooke the present in his hand, and of every good thing of Damascus, euen the burden of fourtie camels, and came and stood before him, and sayde, Thy sonne Ben-hadad King of Aram hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I recover of this disease? And Elisha sayd to him, Goe, and say vnto him, Thou shalt recover: howbeit the Lord hath shewed me, that he shall surely dye. And hee looked vpon him stedfastly, till Hazael was ashamed, and the man of God wept. And Hazael sayde, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, Because I knowe the euill that thou shalt do vnto the children of Israel: for their strong cities shalt thou set on fire, and their yong men shalt thou slay with the sworde, and shalt dash their infantes against the stones, and rent in pieces their women with child. Then Hazael said, What? is thy servant a dog, that I should doe this great thing? And Elisha answered, The Lord hath shewed mee, that thou shalt be King of Aram. So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master, who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, Hee tolde mee that thou shouldest recover. And on the morow he tooke a thick cloth and dipt in it water, and spread it on his face, and hee dyed: and Hazael reigned in his stead. Now in the fift yere of Ioram ye sonne of Ahab King of Israel, and of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah, Iehoram the sonne of Iehoshaphat King of Iudah began to reigne. He was two and thirtie yere olde, when he began to reigne: and hee reigned eight yeere in Jerusalem. And hee walked in the wayes of the Kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wife, and hee did euill in the sight of the Lord. Yet the Lord would not destroy Iudah, for Dauid his seruants sake, as he had promised him to give him a light, and to his children for euer. In those dayes Edom rebelled from vnder the hand of Iudah, and made a King ouer themselues. Therefore Ioram went to Zair, and all his charets with him, and he arose by night, and smote the Edomites which were about him with the captains of the charets, and the people fled into their tents. So Edom rebelled from vnder the hand of Iudah vnto this day. then Libnah rebelled at that same time. Concerning the rest of the actes of Ioram and all that hee did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And Ioram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Ahaziah his sonne reigned in his stead. In the twelft yere of Ioram the sonne of Ahab King of Israel did Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram King of Iudah begin to reigne. Two and twentie yeere olde was Ahaziah when he began to reigne, and he reigned one yere in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Athaliah the daughter of Omri King of Israel. And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did euill in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for hee was the sonne in law of the house of Ahab. And he went with Ioram the sonne of Ahab to warre against Hazael King of Aram in Ramoth Gilead, and the Aramites smote Ioram. And King Ioram returned to bee healed in Izreel of the wounds which ye Aramites had giuen him at Ramah, whe he fought against Hazael King of Aram. And Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram King of Iudah went downe to see Ioram the sonne of Ahab in Izreel, because he was sicke.

Then Elisha the Prophet called one of ye children of the Prophets, and sayde vnnto him, Gird thy loynes and take this boxe of oyle in thine hand and get thee to Ramoth Gilead. And when thou commest thither, looke where is Iehu ye sonne of Iehoshaphat, the sonne of Nimshi, and go, and make him arise vp from among his brethren, and leade him to a secret chamber. Then take the boxe of oyle and powre it on his head, and say, Thus sayth the Lord, I haue anointed thee for King ouer Israel. then open the doore, and flee without any tarying. So the seruat of ye Prophet gate him to Ramoth Gilead. And when he came in, behold, the captaines of the armie were sitting. And he sayde, I haue a message to thee, O captaine. And Iehu sayd, Vnnto which of all vs? And he answered, To thee, O captaine. And he arose, and went into the house, and he powred the oyle on his head and sayde vnnto him, Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, I haue anointed thee for King ouer the people of the Lord, euen ouer Israel. And thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy master, that I may auenge the blood of my servuants the Prophets, and the blood of al the servuants of the Lord of the hand of Iezebel. For the whole house of Ahab shalbe destroied: and I will cut off from Ahab, him that maketh water against the wall, as well him that is shut vp, as him that is left in Israel. And I will make the house of Ahab like the house of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha the sonne of Ahiaiah. And the dogges shall eate Iezebel in the fielde of Izreel, and there shalbe none to burie her. And he opened the doore, and fled. Then Iehu came out to the servuants of his lord. And one sayd vnnto him, Is all well? wherefore came this mad fellowe to thee? And hee sayde vnnto them, Ye knowe the man, and what his talke was. And they sayde, It is false, tell vs it nowe. Then he sayd, Thus and thus spake he to me, saying, Thus saieth the Lord, I haue anointed thee for King ouer Israel. Then they made haste, and tooke euery man his garment, and put it vnder him on the top of the staires, and blewe the trumpet, saying, Iehu is King. So Iehu ye sonne of Iehoshaphat the sonne of Nimshi conspired against Ioram: (Now Ioram kept Ramoth Gilead, he and all Israel, because of Hazael King of Aram. And King Ioram returned to bee healed in Izreel of the woundes, which the Aramites had giuen him, when hee fought with Hazael King of Aram) and Iehu sayde, If it be your mindes, let no man depart and escape out of the citie, to goe and tell in Izreel. So Iehu gate vp into a charet, and went to Izreel: for Ioram lay there, and Ahaziah King of Iudah was come downe to see Ioram. And the watchman that stoode in the towre in Izreel spyped the com-panie of Iehu as hee came, and sayd, I see a companie. And Iehoram said, Take a horseman and send to meete them, that hee may say, Is it peace? So there went one on horseback to meete him, and sayde, Thus sayth the King, Is it peace? And Iehu sayd, What hast thou to do with peace? Turne behinde me.
And the watchman tolde, saying, The messenger came to them, but he commeth not againe. Then hee sent out another on horsebacke, which came to them, and sayde, Thus sayth the King, Is it peace? And Iehu answered, What hast thou to doe with peace? turne behinde me. And the watchman tolde, saying, He came to them also, but commeth not againe, and the marching is like the marching of Iehu the sonne of Nimshi: for he marcheth furiously. Then Iehoram sayd, Make ready: and his charet was made ready. And Iehoram King of Israel and Ahaziah King of Iudah went out eyther of them in his charet against Iehu, and met him in the fielde of Naboth the Izreel-ite. And when Iehoram sawe Iehu, he sayde, Is it peace, Iehu?
And he answered, What peace? whiles the whoredomes of thy mother Iezebel, and her witchcraftes are yet in great nomber?
Then Iehoram turned his hand, and fled, and said to Ahaziah, O Ahaziah, there is treason. But Iehu tooke a bowe in his hande, and smote Iehoram betweene the shoulders, that the arowe went through his heart: and he fell downe in his charet. Then said Iehu to Bidkar a captaine, Take, and cast him in some place of the fielde of Naboth the Izreelite: for I remember that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, the Lord layed this burden vpon him. Surely I haue seene yesterday the blood of Naboth, and the blood of his sonnes, saide the Lord, and I will render it thee in this fielde, saith the Lord: nowe therefore take and cast him in the fielde, according to the word of the Lord.
But when Ahaziah the King of Iudah saw this, he fled by the way of the garden house: And Iehu pursued after him, and sayd, Smite him also in the charet: and they smote him in the going vp to Gur, which is by Ibleam. And hee fled to Megiddo, and there dyed. And his seruants caried him in a charet to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre with his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And in the eleuenth yere of Ioram the sonne of Ahab, began Ahaziah to reigne ouer Iudah. And when Iehu was come to Izreel, Iezebel heard of it, and painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a windowe. And as Iehu entred at the gate, shee sayde, Had Zimri peace, which slewe his master? And he lift vp his eyes to the windowe, and sayd, Who is on my side, who? Then two or three of her Eunuches looked vnto him. And he sayde, Cast her downe: and they cast her downe, and hee sprinkled of her blood vpon the wall, and vpon the horses, and he trode her vnder foote. And when he was come in, he did eate and drinke, and sayde, Visite now yonder cursed woman, and burie her: for she is a Kings daughter. And they went to burie her, but they foud no more of her, then the skull and the feete, and the palmes of her handes. Wherefore they came agayne and tolde him. And he said, This is the worde of the Lord, which he spake by his seruant Eliiah the Tishbite, saying, In the fielde of Izreel shall ye dogs eate the flesh of Iezebel. And the carkeis of Iezebel shalbe as doung vpon the ground in the field of Izreel, so that none shall say, This is Iezebel.

Ahab had nowe seuentie sonnes in Samaria. And Iehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria vnto the rulers of Izreel, and to the Elders, and to the bringers vp of Ahabes children, to this effect, Nowe when this letter commeth to you, (for ye haue with you your masters sonnes, yee haue with you both charets and horses, and a defenced citie, and armour) Consider therefore which of your masters sonnes is best and most meete, and set him on his fathers throne, and fight for your masters house. But they were exceedingly afraid, and saide, Behold two Kings coulde not stande before him, how shall we then stand? And he that was gouernour of Ahabes house, and he that ruled the citie, and the Elders, and the bringers vp of the children sent to Iehu, saying, We are thy seruants, and will doe all that thou shalt bid vs: we will make no King: do what seemeth good to thee. Then he wrote another letter to them, saying, If ye be mine, and wil obey my voyce, take the heads of ye men that are your masters sonnes, and come to me to Izreel by to morowe this time. (Nowe the Kings sonnes, euen seuentie persons were with the great men of the citie, which brought them vp) And when the letter came to them, they tooke the Kings sonsnes, and slewe the seuentie persons, and layde their heads in baskets, and sent them vnto him to Izreel. Then there came a messenger and tolde him, saying, They haue brought the heads of the Kings sonsnes. And he sayd, Let them lay them on two heapes at the entring in of the gate vntil the morning. And when it was day, he went out, and stood and sayd to all the people, Ye be righteous: behold, I conspired against my master, and slew him: but who slew all these? Knowe nowe that there shall fall vnto the earth nothing of the word of the Lord, which the Lord spake concerning the house of Ahab: for the Lord hath brought to passe the things that hee spake by his seruant Eliiah. So Iehu slew al that remained of the house of Ahab in Izreel, and all that were great with him, and his familiars and his priestes, so that he let none of his remaine. And he arose, and departed and came to Samaria. And as Iehu was in the way by an house where the shepheards did shere, He met with the brethre of Ahaziah king of Iudah, and sayd, Who are ye? And they answered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah, and goe downe to salute the children of the King and the children of the Queene. And he sayde, Take them aliue. And they tooke them aliue, and slew them at the well beside the house where the sheepe are shorne, euen two and fourtie men, and he left not one of them. And when he was departed thence, hee met with Iehonadab the sonne of Rechab comming to meete him, and he blessed him, and sayde to him, Is thine heart vpright, as mine heart is towarde thine? And Iehonadab answered, Yea, doubtlesse. Then giue me thine hande. And when he had giuen him his hande, he tooke him vp to him into the charet. And he sayde, Come with me, and see the zeale that I haue for the Lord: so they made him ride in his charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slew all that remained vnto Ahab in Samaria, till he had destroyed him, according to the worde of the Lord, which he spake to Eliiah. Then Iehu assembled all the people, and sayd vnto them, Ahab serued Baal a litle, but Iehu shall serue him much more. Now therefore call vnto me all ye prophets of Baal, all his seruants, and all his priestes, and let not a man be lacking: for I haue a great sacrifice for Baal: whosoeuer is lacking, he shall not liue. But Iehu did it by a subtiltie to destroy ye seruats of Baal. And Iehu sayd, Proclaime a solemn assembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it. So Jehu sent unto all Israel, and all the servants of Baal came, and there was not a man left that came not. And they came into the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was full from end to end. Then he said unto him that had the charge of the vestry, Bring forth vestments for all the servants of Baal. And he brought the out vestments. And when Jehu went, and Jehonadab the son of Rechab into the house of Baal, he said unto the servants of Baal, Search diligently, and look, lest there be here with you any of the servants of the Lord, but the servants of Baal only. And when they went in to make sacrifice and burnt offering, Jehu appoynted four score men without, and said, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands, escape, his soul shall be for his soul. And when he had made an end of the burnt offering, Jehu said to the guard, and to the captains, Go in, slay them, let not a man come out. And they smote them with the edge of the sword. And the guard, and the captains cast them out, and went unto the city, where was the temple of Baal. And they brought out the images of the temple of Baal, and burnt them. And they destroyed the image of Baal, and threw down the house of Baal, and made a vases of it unto this day. So Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat which made Israel to sin, Jehu departed not from them, neither from the golden calves that were in Beth-el and that were in Dan. And the Lord said unto Jehu, Because thou hast diligently executed that which was right in mine eyes, and hast done unto the house of Ahab according to all things that were in mine heart, therefore shall thy sons unto the fourth generation sit on the throne of Israel. But Jehu regarded not to walk in the law of the Lord God of Israel with all his heart: for he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, which made Israel to sin. In those days the Lord began to lothe Israel, and Hazael smote them in all the coasts of Israel, From Iordan Eastward, even all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and them that were of Manasseh, from Aroer (which is by the river Arnon) and Gilead and Bashan. Concerning the rest of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his valiant deeds, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in Samaria, and Iehoahaz his sonne reigned in his stead. And the time that Iehu reigned over Israel in Samaria is eight and twenty yeeres.

Then Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah when she saw that her sonne was dead, she arose, and destroyed all the Kings seede. But Iehosheba the daughter of King Ioram, and sister to Ahaziah tooke Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the Kings sonnes that shoulde be slaine, both him and his nource, keeping them in the bed chaber, and they hid him from Athaliah, so that he was not slaine. And he was with her hid in the house of the Lord sise yeere: and Athaliah did reigne over the land.

And the seventh yeere Iehoiada sent and tooke the captains over hundreths, with other captains and them of the garde, and caused them to come vnto him into the house of the Lord, and made a covenent with them, and tooke an othe of them in the house of the Lord, and shewed them the Kings sonne. And he commanded them, saying, This is it that ye must doe, The third part of you, that commeth on the Sabbath, shall warde towarde the Kings house: And another third part in the gate of Sur: and another thirde part in the gate behinde them of the garde: and ye shall keepe watche in the house of Massah. And two parts of you, that is, all that goe out on the Sabbath day, shall keepe the watch of the house of the Lord about the King. And ye shall compasse the King rounde about, every man with his weapon in his hande, and whosoeuer commeth within the ranges, let him be slayne: be you with the King, as he goeth out and in. And the captains of the hundreths did according to all that Iehoiada the Priest commaded, and they tooke every man his men that entred in to their charge on the Sabbath with them that went out of it on the Sabbath, and came to Iehoiada the Priest. And the Priest gaue to the captains of hundreths the speares and the shieldes that were King Davids, and were in the house of the Lord. And the garde stooede, every man with his weapon in his hande, from the right side of the house to the left side, about the altar and about the house, round about the King.

Then he brought out the Kings sonne, and put the crowne vpon him and gaue him the Testimonie, and they made him King: also they anoynted him, and clapt their handes, and sayde, God saue the King. And when Athaliah heard the noyse of the running of the people, she came in to the people in the house of the Lord. And when she looked, behold, the King stood by a pillar, as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the King, and all the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets. Then Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, Treason, treason. But Jehoiada the Priest commanded the captains of the hundredths that had the rule of the hoste, and sayde vnto them, Haue her forth of the ranges, and he that followeth her, let him die by the sworde: for the Priest had sayd, Let her not be slaine in the house of the Lord. Then they laid hands on her, and she went by the way, by the which the horses goe to the house of the King, and there was she slaine. And Jehoiada made a couenant betweene the Lord, and the King and the people, that they should be the Lordes people: likewise betweene the King and the people. Then all the people of the lande went into the house of Baal, and destroyed it with his altars, and his images brake they downe courageously, and sleue Mattan the Priest of Baal before the altars: and the Priest set a garde ouer the house of the Lord. Then he tooke the captains of hudreths, and the other captains, and the garde, and all the people of the lande: and they brought the King from the house of the Lord, and came by the way of the gate of the garde to the Kings house: and he sate him downe on the throne of the Kings. And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the citie was in quiet: for they had slaine Athaliah with the sworde beside the Kings house. Seuen yeere olde was Jehoash when he began to reigne.

In the seuenth yere of Iehu Jehoash began to reigne, and reigned fourty yeres in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba. And Jehoash did that which was good in the sight of the Lord all his time that Jehoiada the Priest taught him. But the hie places were not taken away: for the people offered yet and burnt incense in the hie places. And Jehoash sayde to the Priestes, All the siluer of dedicate things that bee brought to the house of the Lord, that is, the money of them that are vnder the count, the money that euery man is set at, and all the money that one offereth willingly, and bringeth into the house of the Lord, Let the Priestes take it to them, euery man of his acquaintance: and they shall repaire the broken places of the house, wheresoever any decay is founde. Yet in the three and twentieth yeere of King Iehoash the Priestes had not mended that which was decayed in the Temple. Then King Iehoash called for Iehoiada the Priest, and the other Priestes, and sayd vnto them, Why repaire yee not the ruines of the Temple? nowe therefore receiue no more money of your acquaintance, except yee deliuer it to repaire the ruines of the Temple. So the Priestes consented to receiue no more money of the people, neither to repaire the decayed places of the Temple. Then Iehoiada the Priest tooke a chest and bored an hole in the lid of it, and set it beside the altar, on the right side, as every man commeth into the Temple of the Lord. And the Priestes that kept the doore, put therein all the money that was brought into the house of the Lord. And when they sawe there was much money in the chest, the Kinges Secretarie came vp and the hie Priest, and put it vp after that they had tolde the money that was found in the house of the Lord, And they gaue the money made readie into the handes of them, that vndertooke the worke, and that had the oversight of the house of the Lord; and they payed it out to the carpenters and builders that wrought vpon the house of the Lord, And to the masons and hewers of stone, and to bye timber and hewed stone, to repayre that was decayed in the house of the Lord, and for all that which was layed out for the reparation of the Temple. Howbeit there was not made for the house of the Lord bowles of siluer, instruments of musicke, basons, trumpets, nor any vessels of golde, or vessels of siluer of the money that was brought into the house of the Lord. But they gaue it to the workemen, which repayred therewith the house of the Lord. Moreover, they reckoned not with the men, into whose handes they deliuered that money to be bestowed on workemen: for they dealt faithfully.

The money of the trespasse offring and the money of ye sinne offrings was not brought into the house of the Lord: for it was the Priests. Then came vp Hazael King of Aram, and fought against Gath and tooke it, and Hazael set his face to goe vp to Ierusalem. And Iehoash King of Iudah tooke all the halowed things that Iehoshaphat, and Iehoram, and Ahaziah his fathers Kings of Iudah had dedicated, and that he himselfe had dedicated, and all the golde that was found in the treasures of the house of the Lord and in the Kings house, and sent it to Hazael King of Aram, and he departed from Ierusalem. Concerning the rest of the acts of Joash and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? And his servants arose and wrought treason, and slew Joash in the house of Millo, when he came down to Silla: Even Jozachar the son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad the son of Shomer his servants smote him, and he dyed: and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

In the three and twentieth year of Joash the son of Ahaziah King of Judah, Jehoahaz the son of Jehu began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned seventeen years. And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, and followed the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin, and departed not therefrom. And the Lord was angry with Israel, and delivered them into the hand of Hazael King of Aram, and into the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Hazael, all his days. And Jehoahaz besought the Lord, and the Lord heard him: for he saw the trouble of Israel, wherewith the King of Aram troubled them. (And the Lord gave Israel a deliverer, so that they came out from under the subjection of the Aramites. And the children of Israel dwelt in their tents as before time. Nevertheless they departed not from the sins of the house of Jeroboam which made Israel sin, but walked in them. even the grove also remained still in Samaria) For he had left of the people to Jehoahaz but fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen, because the King of Aram had destroyed them, and made them like dust beaten to powder. Concerning the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz and all that he did, and his valiant deeds, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Joash his son reigned in his stead. In the seventeenth and thirtieth year of Joash King of Judah began Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned six and twenty years. And did evil in the sight of the Lord: for he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat that made Israel to sin, but he walked therein. Concerning the rest of the acts of Joash and all that he did, and his valiant deeds, and how he fought against Amaziah King of Judah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And Ioash slept with his fathers, and Ieroboam sate vpon his seate: and Ioash was buryed in Samaria among the Kings of Israel. When Elisha fell sicke of his sickenesse whereof he dyed, Ioash the King of Israel came downe vnto him, and wept vpon his face, and sayd, O my father, my father, the charet of Israel, and the horsemen of the same.
Then Elisha sayde vnto him, Take a bowe and arrowes. And he tooke vnto him bowe and arrowes. And he sayde to the King of Israel, Put thine hand vpon the bowe. And he put his hand vpon it. And Elisha put his hands vpon the Kings hands, And saide, Open the windowe Eastward. And when he had opened it, Elisha said, Shoote. And he shot. And he sayd, Beholde the arrowe of the Lordes deliuerance and the arrowe of deliuerance against Aram: for thou shalt smite the Aramites in Aphek, till thou hast consumed them. Againe he said, Take the arrowes.
And he tooke them. And he sayde vnto the King of Israel, Smite the ground. And he smote thrise, and ceased. Then the man of God was angry with him, and sayde, Thou shouldest haue smitten fiue or sixe times, so thou shouldest haue smitten Aram, till thou haddest consumed it, where nowe thou shalt smite Aram but thrise. So Elisha dyed, and they buryed him. And certaine bandes of the Moabites came into the land that yeere. And as they were burying a man, behold, they saw the soldiers: therefore they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisha. And when the man was downe, and touched the bones of Elisha, he reuieued and stoode vpon his feete. But Hazael King of Aram vexed Israel all the dayes of Iehoahaz. Therefore the Lord had mercy on them and pitied them, and had respect vnto them because of his couenant with Abraham, Izhak, and Iaakob, and would not destroy them, neither cast he them from him as yet. So Hazael the King of Aram dyed: and Ben-hadad his sonne reigned in his stead. Therefore Iehoash the sonne of Iehoahaz returned, and tooke out of the hand of Ben-hadad the sonne of Hazael the cities which he had taken away by warre out of the hand of Iehoahaz his father: for three times did Ioash beate him, and restored the cities vnto Israel.

The second yeere of Ioash sonne of Iehoahaz King of Israel reigned Amaziah the sonne of Ioash King of Iudah. He was fiue and twentie yeere olde when he began to reigne, and reigned nine and twenty yeere in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Iehoadan of Ierusalem. And he did vprightly in the sight of 3 the Lord, yet not like Dauid his father, but did according to all that Ioash his father had done. Notwithstanding the hie places were not taken away: for as yet the people did sacrifice and burnt incense in the hie places. And when the kingdome was confirmed in his hand, he slewe his seruants which had killed the King his father. But the children of those that did slay him, 4 he slewe not, according vnto that that is written in the booke of the Lawe of Moses, wherein the Lord commanded, saying, The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children put to death for the fathers: but euery man shall be put to death for his owne sinne. He slew also of Edom in the valley of salt ten thousand, and tooke the citie of Sela by warre, and called the name thereof Ioktheel vnto this day. Then Amaziah sent messengers to Iehoash the sonne of Iehoahaz, sonne of Iehu King of Israel, saying, Come, let vs see one another in the face. Then Iehoash the King of Israel sent to Amaziah King of Iudah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, Giue thy daughter to my sonne to wife: and the wilde beast that was in Lebanon, went and trode downe the thistle. Because thou hast smitten Edom, thine heart hath made thee proud: bragge of glory, and tary at home. why doest thou prouoke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Iudah with thee? But Amaziah would not heare: therefore Iehoash King of Israel went vp: and he and Amaziah King of Iudah sawe one another in the face at Beth-shemesh which is in Iudah. And Iudah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fledde euery man to their tents. But Iehoash King of Israel tooke Amaziah King of Iudah, the sonne of Iehoash the sonne of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and came to Ierusalem, and brake downe the wall of Ierusalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, foure hundreth cubites. And he tooke all the gold and siluer, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the Kings house, and the children that were in hostage, and returned to Samaria. Concerning the rest of the acts of Iehoash which he did and his valiant deedes, and how he fought with Amaziah King of Iudah, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? And Iehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried at Samaria among the Kings of Israel: and Ieroboam his sonne reigned in his stead.
And Amaziah the sonne of Ioash King of Iudah, liued after the death of Iehoash sonne of Iehoahaz King of Israel fifteene yeere.
Concerning the rest of the actes of Amaziah, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah?  But they wrought treason against him in Ierusalem, and he fled to Lachish, but they sent after him to Lachish, and slewe him there.  And they brought him on horses, and he was buried at Ierusalem with his fathers in the citie of Dauid.  Then all the people of Iudah tooke Azariah which was sixteene yeere olde, and made him King for his father Amaziah.  He built Elath, and restored it to Iudah, after that the King slept with his fathers.  In the fifteenth yeere of Amaziah the sonne of Ioash King of Iudah, was Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash made King ouer Israel in Samaria, and reigned one and fourtie yeere.  And he did euill in the sight of the Lord: for he departed not from all the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne.  He restored the coast of Israel, from the entring of Hamath, vnto the Sea of the wildernesse, according to the worde of the Lord God of Israel, which he spake by his seruant Ionah the sonne of Amittai the Prophet, which was of Gath Hepher.  For the Lord saw the exceeding bitter affliction of Israel, so that there was none shutte vp, nor any left, neyther yet any that could helpe Israel.  Yet the Lord had not decreed to put out the name of Israel from vnder the heauen: therefore he preserued them by the hand of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash.  Concerning the rest of the actes of Ieroboam, and all that he did, and his valiant deedes, and how he fought, and how he restored Damascus, and Hamath to Iudah in Israel, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?  So Ieroboam slept with his fathers, even with the Kings of Israel, and Zachariah his sonne reigned in his steade.

In the seuen and twentieth yeere of Ieroboam King of Israel, began Azariah, sonne of Amaziah King of Iudah to reigne.  Sixteene yeere olde was he, when he was made King, and he reigned two and fiftie yeere in Ierusalem: and his mothers name was Iecholiah of Ierusalem.  And he did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah did.  But the hie places were not put away: for the people yet offered, and burned incense in the hie places. And the Lord smote the King: 5 and he was a leper vnto the day of his death, and dwelt in an house apart, and Iotham the kings sonne governed the house, and judged the people of the land. Concerning the rest of the actes 6 of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? So Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buryed him with his fathers in the citie of Dauid, and Iotham his sonne reigned in his stead. In the eyght 8 and thirtieth yeere of Azariah King of Iudah did Zachariah the sonne of Ieroboam reigne ouer Israel in Samaria sixe moneths, And did euill in the sight of the Lord, as did his fathers: for he 9 departed not from the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne. And Shallum the sonne of Iabesh 10 cospired against him, and smote him in the sight of the people, and killed him, and reigned in his stead. Concerning the rest of the actes of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. This was the word of the 12 Lord, which he spake vnto Iehu, saying, Thy sonnes shall sit on the throne of Israel vnto the fourth generation after thee. And it came so to passe. Shallum the sonne of Iabesh began to reigne 13 in the nine and thirtieth yeere of Vzziah King of Iudah: and he reigned the space of a moneth in Samaria. For Menahem 14 the sonne of Gadi went vp from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and smote Shallum the sonne of Iabesh in Samaria, and slew him, and reigned in his stead. Concerning the rest of the acts of Shallum, and the treason which he wrought, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.
Then Menahem destroyed Tiphsah, and all that were therein, 16 and the coastes thereof from Tirzah, because they opened not to him, and he smote it, and ript vp all their women with childe.
The nine and thirtieth yeere of Azariah King of Iudah, beganne 17 Menahem the sonne of Gadi to reigne ouer Israel, and reigned ten yeeres in Samaria. And he did euill in the sight of the 18 Lord, and departed not all his dayes from the sinne of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne. Then Pul the 19 king of Asshur came against the land: and Menahem gaue Pul a thousand talents of siluer, that his hande might bee with him, and establish the kingdome in his hand. And Menahem exacted 20 the money in Israel, that all men of substance shoulde giue the King of Asshur fiftie shekels of siluer a piece: so the king of Asshur returned and taried not there in the land. Concerning the rest of the actes of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?
And Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his sonne did reigne in his steade. In ye fiftieth yere of Azariah king of Iudah, began Pekahiah the sonne of Menahem to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria, and reigned two yere. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord: for he departed not from the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne. And Pekah the sonne of Remaliah, his captaine conspired against him, and smote him in Samaria in the place of the Kings palace with Argob and Arieh, and with him fiftie men of the Gileadites: so he killed him, and reigned in his steade. Concerning the rest of the actes of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. In the two and fiftieth yere of Azariah King of Iudah began Pekah the sonne of Remaliah to reigne ouer Israel in Samaria, and reigned twentie yeere. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord: for he departed not from the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, that made Israel to sinne. In the dayes of Pekah king of Israel came Tiglath Pileser king of Asshur, and tooke Iion, and Abel, Beth-maachah, and Ianoah, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilah, and all the land of Naphtali, and caryed them away to Asshur. And Hoshea the sonne of Elah wrought treason against Pekah the sonne of Remaliah, and smote him, and slewe him, and reigned in his stead in the twentieth yeere of Iotham the sonne of Vzziah. Concerning the rest of the actes of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. In the second yere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliah King of Israel, began Iotham sonne of Vzziah King of Iudah to reigne. Fiue and twentie yeere olde was he, when he began to reigne, and he reigned sixteene yeere in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Ierusha the daughter of Zadok. And hee did vprightly in the sight of the Lord: he did according to all that his father Vzziah had done. But the hie places were not put away: for the people yet offered and burnt incense in the hie places: he buylt the hyest gate of the house of the Lord. Concerning the rest of the acts of Iotham, and all that hee did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Iudah? In those dayes the Lord began to send against Iudah Rezin the king of Aram, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliah. And Iotham slept with his fathers, and was buryed with his fathers in the citie of Dauid his father, and Ahaz his sonne reigned in his steade.

The seuenteenth yeere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliah, Ahaz the sonne of Iotham King of Iudah began to reigne. Twentie yeere olde was Ahaz, when hee began to reigne, and he reigned sixeene yeere in Ierusalem, and did not vprightly in the sight of the Lord his God, like Dauid his father: But walked in the way of ye kings of Israel, yea, and made his sonne to go through the fire, after the abominations of the heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel. Also he offred and burnt incense in the hie places and on the hilles, and vnder euer ery greene tree. Then Rezin king of Aram and Pekah sonne of Remaliah King of Israel came vp to Ierusalem to fight: and they besieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him. At the same time Rezin king of Aram restored Elath to Aram, and droue the Iewes from Elath: so the Aramites came to Elath, and dwelt there vnto this day. Then Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath Pileser king of Asshur, saying, I am thy seruant and thy sonne: come vp, and deliuer me out of the hand of the king of Aram, and out of the hand of the King of Israel which rise vp against me. And Ahaz tooke the siluer and the golde that was found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the Kings house, and sent a present vnto the King of Asshur. And the King of Asshur consented vnto him: and the King of Asshur went vp against Damascus. and when he had taken it, he caryed the people away to Kir, and slew Rezin. And King Ahaz went vnto Damascus to meete Tигlath Pileser King of Asshur: and when King Ahaz sawe the altar that was at Damascus, he sent to Vriiah the Priest the paterne of the altar, and the facion of it, and all the workemanship thereof. And Vriiah the Priest made an altar in al poyntes like to that which King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, so did Vriiah the Priest against King Ahaz came from Damascus. So when the King was come from Damascus, the King sawe the altar: and the King drewe neere to the altar and offered thereon. And hee burnt his burnt offering, and his meate offering, and powred his drinke offering, and sprinkled the blood of his peace offerings besides the altar, And set it by the brasen altar which was before the Lord, and brought it in farther before the house betweene the altar and the house of the Lord, and set it on the North side of the altar. And King Ahaz commanded Vriiah the Priest, and sayde, Vpon the great altar set on fire in the morning the burnt offring, and in the euen the meate offring, and the Kings burnt offring and his meate offering, with the burnt offring of all the people of the lande, and their meate offring, and their drinke offrings: and powre thereby all the blood of the burnt offring, and all the blood of the sacrifice, and the brasen altar shalbe for me to inquiere of God. And Vriiah the Priest did according to all that King Ahaz had commanded. And King Ahaz brake the borders of the bases, and tooke the caldrons from off them, and tooke downe the sea from the brasen oxen that were vnder it, and put it vpon a pauement of stones. And the vaile for the Sabbath (that they had made in the house) and the Kings entrie without turned he to the house of the Lord, because of the King of Asshur. Concerning the rest of the actes of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buryed with his fathers in the citie of Dauid, and Hezekiah his sonne reigned in his steade.

In the twelfth yeere of Ahaz King of Iudah began Hoshea the sonne of Elah to reigne in Samaria ouer Israel, and reigned nine yeeres. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, but not as the Kinges of Israel, that were before him. And Shalmaneser king of Asshur came vp against him, and Hoshea became his seruant, and gaue him presents. And the King of Asshur founde treason in Hoshea: for he had sent messengers to So King of Egypt, and brought no present vnto the King of Asshur, as he had done yeerely: therfore the king of Asshur shut him vp, and put him in prison. Then the king of Asshur came vp throughout all the lande, and went against Samaria, and besieged it three yeere. In the ninth yeere of Hoshea, the King of Asshur tooke Samaria, and caryed Israel away vnto Asshur, and put them in Halah, and in Habor by the riuver of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes. For when the children of Israel sinned against the Lord their God, which had brought them out of the land of Egypt, from under ye hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and feared other gods, And walked according to the facions of the Heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel, and after the maners of the Kings of Israel, which they vsed, And the children of Israel had done secretly things that were not vpright before the Lord their God, and throughout all their cities had built hie places, both from the tower of the watch, to the defensed citie, And had made them images and groues upon every hie hill, and under every greene tree, And there burnt incense in all the hie places, as did the heathen, whom the Lord had taken away before them, and wrought wicked things to anger the Lord, And served idoles: whereof the Lord had sayd vn to them, Ye shall do no such thing, Notwithstanding the Lord testified to Israel, and to Iudah by all the Prophets, and by all the Seers, saying, Turne from your euill wayes, and keepe my commandements and my statutes, according to all the Lawe, which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the Prophets. Neuerthelesse they would not obey, but hardened their neckes, like to the neckes of their fathers, that did not beleue in the Lord their God. And they refused his statutes and his covenent, that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies (wherewith he witnessed vn to them) and they followed vanitie, and became vaine, and followed the heathen that were round about them: concerning whome the Lord had charged them, that they should not do like them. Finally they left all the commandements of the Lord their God, and made them molten images, euen two calues, and made a groue, and worshipped all the hoste of heauen, and served Baal. And they made their sonses and their daughters passe thorowe the fire, and vsed witchcraft and enchantments, yea, solde them selues to doe euill in the sight of the Lord, to anger him. Therefore the Lord was exceeding wroth with Israel, and put them out of his sight, and none was left but the tribe of Iudah onely. Yet Iudah kept not the commandements of the Lord their God, but walked according to the facion of Israel, which they vsed. Therefore the Lord cast off all the seede of Israel, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the handes of spoylers, vntill he had cast them out of his sight. For he cut off Israel from the house of Dauid, and they made Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat King: and Ieroboam drew Israel away from following the Lord, and made them sinne a great sinne. For the children of Israel walked in all the sinnes of Ieroboam, which he did, and departed not therefrom, Vntill the Lord put Israel away out of his sight, as he had said by all his seruants the Prophets, and caryed Israel away out of their land to Asshur vnto this day. And the King of Asshur brought folke from Babel, and from Cuthah, and from Aua, and from Hamath, and from Sepharuaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria in steade of the children of Israel: so they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. And at the beginning of their dwelling there, they feared not the Lord: therefore the Lord sent lions among them, which slewe them. Wherefore they spake to the King of Asshur, saying, The nations which thou hast remoued, and placed in the cities of Samaria, knowe not the maner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and behold, they slay them, because they knowe not the maner of the God of the land. Then the King of Asshur commanded, saying, Carie thither one of the Priestes whome ye brought thence, and let him goe and dwell there, and teache them the maner of the God of the countrey. So one of the Priestes, which they had caryed from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they shoulde feare the Lord. Howbeit euery nation made their gods, and put them in the houses of the hie places, which the Samaritanes had made, euery nation in their cities, wherein they dwelt. For the men of Babel made Succoth-Benoth: and the men of Cuth made Ner-gal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima, And the Auims made Nibhaz, and Tartak: and the Sepharuims burnt their children in the fire to Adrammelech, and Anammelech the gods of Sepharuaim. Thus they feared the Lord, and appoynted out Priestes out of them selues for the hie places, who prepared for them sacrifices in the houses of the hie places. They feared the Lord, but serued their gods after the maner of the nations whome they caryed thence. Vnto this day they doe after the olde maner: they neyther feare God, neyther doe after their ordinances, nor after their customes, nor after the Lawe, nor after the commandement, which the Lord commanded the children of Iaakob, whom he named Israel, And with whom the Lord had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, Fear none other gods, nor bow to their gods, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them: But fear the Lord which brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power, and a stretched out arm: him fear ye, and worship him, and sacrifice to him. Also keep ye diligently the statutes and the ordinances, and the Law, and the commandment, which he wrote for you, that ye do them continually, and fear not other gods. And forget not the covenant that I have made with you, neither fear ye other gods. But fear the Lord your God, and he will deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies. Howbeit they obeyed not, but did after their old custom. So these nations feared the Lord, and served their images also: so did their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day.

Now in the third year of Hoshea, son of Elah King of Israel, Hezekiah the son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign. He was five and twenty year old when he began to reign, and reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Abi the daughter of Zachariah, And he did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that David his father had done. He took away the high places, and brake the images, and cut downe the groves, and brake in pieces the brasen serpent that Moses had made: for unto those days the children of Israel did burn incense to it, and he called it Nehushtan. He trusted in the Lord God of Israel: so that after him was none like him among all the Kings of Judah, neither were there any such before him. For he clave to the Lord, and departed not from him, but kept his commandements, which the Lord had commanded Moses. So the Lord was with him, and he prospered in all things, which he took in hande: also he rebelled against the King of Assyria, and served him not. He smote the Philistims unto Azzah, and the coastes thereof, from the watch towre unto the defensed citie. And in the fourth yere of King Hezekiah, (which was the seventh yere of Hoshea sonne of Elah King of Israel) Shalmaneser King of Assyria came vp against Samaria, and besieged it. And after three yeeres they took it, euen in the sixt yere of Hezekiah: that is, the ninth yere of Hoshea King of Israel was Samaria taken. Then the King of Assyria did carry away Israel vnto Assyria, and put them in Halah and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes, Because they would not obey the voice of the Lord their God, but transgressed his covenant: that is, all that Moses the servant of the Lord had commanded, and would neither obey nor doe them. Moreover, in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib King of Assyria came up against all the strong cities of Judah, and took them. Then Hezekiah King of Judah sent unto the King of Assyria to Lachish, saying, I have offended: depart from me, and what thou layest upon me, I will bear it. And the King of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah King of Judah three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. Therefore Hezekiah gave all the silver that was found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the Kings house. At the same season did Hezekiah pull off the plates of the doors of the Temple of the Lord, and the pillars (which the said Hezekiah King of Judah had covered over) and gave them to the King of Assyria.
And the King of Assyria sent Tartan, and Rab-saris, and Rab-shakeh from Lachish to King Hezekiah with a great host against Jerusalem. And they went up, and came to Jerusalem, and when they were come up, they stood by the conduit of the upper pool, which is by the path of the fuller’s field, And called to the King. Then came out to them Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, which was steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, and Ioah the son of Asaph the recorder. And Rabshakeh said unto them, Tell ye Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus saith the great King, even the great King of Assyria, What confidence is this wherein thou trustest? Thou thinkest, Surely I have eloquence, but counsel and strength are for the warre. On whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest against me? Lo, thou trustest now in this broken staff of reed, to wit, on Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that trust on him. But if ye say unto me, We trust in the Lord our God, is not that he whose hie places, and whose altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath sayed to Judah and Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem? Now therefore give hostages to my lord the King of Assyria, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able to set riders upon them. For how canst thou despise any captaine of the least of my masters servants, and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and horsemen? Am I now come vp without the Lord to this place, to destroy it? the Lord sayd to me, Goe vp against this land, and destroy it. Then Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah, and Shebnah, and Ioah said vnto Rabshakeh, Speake I pray thee, to thy servaunts in the Aramites language, for we vnderstand it, and talke not with vs in the Iewes tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall. But Rabshakeh saide vnto them, Hath my master sent me to thy master and to thee to speake these words, and not to the men which sit on the wall, that they may eate their owne doung, and drinke their owne pisse with you? So Rabshakeh stoode and cryed with a loude voyce in the Iewes language, and spake, saying, Heare the wordes of the great King, of the king of Asshur. Thus sayth the King, Let not Hezekiah deceiue you: for he shall not be able to deliuer you out of mine hand. Neither let Hezekiah make you to trust in the Lord, saying, The Lord will surely deliuer vs, and this citie shall not be giuen ouer into the hand of the king of Asshur. Hearken not vnto Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Asshur, Make appointment with me, and come out to me, that euery man may eate of his owne vine, and euery man of his owne figge tree, and drinke euery man of the water of his owne well, Till I come, and bring you to a land like your owne land, euuen a land of wheate and wine, a land of bread and vineyarde, a lande of oliues oyle, and hony, that ye may liue and not die: and obey not Hezekiah, for he deceiuethe you, saying, The Lord will deliuer vs. Hath any of the gods of the nations deliuered his lande out of the hand of the King of Asshur? Where is the god of Hamah, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharuaim, Hena and Iuah? how haue they deliuered Samaria out of mine hand? Who are they among all the gods of the nations, that haue deliuered their lande out of mine hand, that the Lord should deliuer Ierusalem out of mine hand? But the people helde their peace, and answered not him a worde: for the Kings commandement was, saying, Answere ye him not. Then Eliakim, the sonne of Hilkiah which was steward of the house, and Shebnah the chancellor, and Ioah the sonne of Asaph the recorder came to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and tole him the wordes of Rabshakeh.

And when King Hezekiah heard it, he rent his clothes and put on sackecloth, and came into the house of the Lord. And sent Eliakim which was the stewarde of the house, and Shebnah the chancellor, and the Elders of the Priestes clothed in sackecloth to Isaiah the Prophet the sonne of Amoz. And they said vnto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation and of rebuke, and blasphemie: for the childre are come to the birth, and there is no strength to bring foorth. If so be the Lord thy God hath heard all the wordes of Rabshakeh, whome the King of Asshur his master hath sent to raile on the liuing God, and to reproch him with wordes which the Lord thy God hath heard, then lift thou vp thy prayer for the remnant that are left. So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah. And Isaiah said vnto them, So shall ye say to your master, Thus sayeth the Lord, Be not afraide of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Asshur haue blasphemed me. Beholde, I will sende a blast vpon him, and he shall heare a noyse, and returne to his owne lande: and I will cause him to fall by the sworde in his owne lande. So Rabshakeh returned, and founde the King of Asshur fighting against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish. He heard also men say of Tirhakah King of Ethiopia, Beholde, he is come out to fight against thee: he therefore departed and sent other messengers vnto Hezekiah, saying, Thus shall ye speake to Hezekiah King of Iudah, and say, Let not thy God deceiue thee in whome thou trustest, saying, Ierusalem shall not be deliuered into the hande of the King of Asshur. Beholde, thou hast heard what the Kings of Asshur haue done to all landes, how they haue destroyed them: and shalt thou be deliuered? Haue the gods of the heathen deliuered them which my fathers haue destroyed? as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden, which were in Thelasar? Where is the King of Hamath, and the King of Arpad, and the King of the citie of Shepharuaraim, Hena and Iuah? So Hezekiah receiued the letter of the hande of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went vp into the house of the Lord, and Hezekiah spread it before the Lord. And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord, and saide, O Lord God of Israel, which dwellest betweene the Cherubims, thou art very God alone ouer all the kingdomes of the earth: thou hast made the heauen and the earth. Lord, bow downe thine eare, and heare: Lord open thine eyes and behold, and heare the wordes of Saneherib, who hath 17 sent to blaspheyme the liuing God. Trueth it is, Lord, that the Kings of Asshur haue destroyed the nations and their landes, And haue set fire on their gods: for they were no gods, but the worke of mans hands, euen wood and stone: therefore they destroyed them. Nowe therefore, O Lord our God, I beseech thee, saue thou vs out of his hande, that all the kingdomes of the earth may knowe, that thou, O Lord, art onely God. Then Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I haue heard that which thou hast prayed me, concerning Saneherib King of Asshur. This is the worde that the Lord hath spoken against him, O Virgine, daughter of Zion, he hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne: O daughter of Ierusalem, he hath shaken his head at thee. Whome hast thou railed on? and whome hast thou blaspheemed? and against whome hast thou exalted thy voyce, and lifted vp thine eyes on hie? euen against the Holie one of Israel. By thy messengers thou hast rayled on the Lord, and said, By the multitude of my charets I am come vp to the toppe of the mountaines, by the sides of Lebanon, and will cut downe the hie cedars thereof, and the faire firre trees thereof, and I will goe into the lodging of his borders, and into the forest of his Carmel. I haue digged, and drunke the waters of others, and with the plant of my feete haue I dried all the floods closed in. Hast thou not heard, howe I haue of olde time made it, and haue formed it long ago? and should I nowe bring it, that it should be destroyed, and laid on ruinous heapes, as cities defensed? Whose inhabitants haue small power, and are afraid, and confounded: they are like the grasse of the field, and greene herbe, or grasse on ye house toppes, or as corne blasted before it be growen. I knowe thy dwelling, 27 yea, thy going out, and thy comming in, and thy furie against me. And because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come vp to mine eares, I will put mine hooke in thy nostrels, and my bridle in thy lippes, and will bring thee backe againe the same way thou camest. And this shalbe a signe vnto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou shalt eate this yeere such things as growe of them selues, and the next yeere such as growe without sowing, and the third yeere sowe ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eate the fruites thereof. And the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah, shall againe take roote downewarde, and beare fruite vpwarde. For out of Jerusalem shall goe a remnant, and some that shall escape out of mount Zion: the zeale of the Lord of hostes shall doe this. Wherefore thus saith the Lord, concerning the King of Asshur, He shall not enter into this citie, nor shoote an arrowe there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a mount against it: But he shall returne the way he came, and shall not come into this citie, saith the Lord. For I will defende this citie to saue it for mine owne sake, and for Dauid my servants sake.

And the same night the Angell of the Lord went out and smote in the campe of Asshur an hundreth foure score and fiue thousande: so when they rose earely in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses. So Saneherib King of Asshur departed, and went his way, and returned, and dwelt in Nineueh. And as he was in the Temple worshipping Nisroch his god, Adramelech and Sharezer his sonnes slewe him with the sword: and they escaped into the land of Ararat, and Esarhaddon his sonne reigned in his steade.

About that time was Hezekiah sicke vnto death: and the Prophet Isaiah the sonne of Amoz came to him, and said vnto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order: for thou shalt die, and not liue. Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, saying, I beseech thee, O Lord, remember nowe, howe I haue walked before thee in trueth and with a perfite heart, and haue done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept sore. And afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle of the court, the worde of the Lord came to him, saying, Turne againe, and tell Hezekiah the captaine of my people, Thus saith the Lord God of Dauid thy father, I haue heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares: behold, I haue healed thee, and ye third day thou shalt go vp to ye house of ye Lord, And I wil adde vtto thy dayes fiftene yere, and wil deliver thee and this citie out of the hand of the King of Asshur, and will defende this citie for mine owne sake, and for Dauid my seruants sake. Then Isaiah sayde, Take a lumpe of dry figges. And they tooke it, and layed it on the boyle, and he recovered. For Hezekiah had saide vnto Isaiah, What shalbe the signe that the Lord will heale me, and that I shall goe vp into the house of the Lord the thirde day?
And Isaiah answered, This signe shalt thou haue of the Lord, that the Lord will do that he hath spoken, Wilt thou that the shadowe goe forwarde ten degrees, or go backe ten degrees? And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadowe to passe forward ten degrees: not so then, but let ye shadow go backe ten degrees. And Isaiah the Prophet called vnto the Lord, and he brought againe the shadowe ten degrees backe by the degrees whereby it had gone downe in the diall of Ahaz. The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan King of Babel, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard howe that Hezekiah was sicke. And Hezekiah heard them, and shewed them all his treasure house, to wit, the siluer, and the golde, and the spices, and the precious oyntment, and all the house of his armour, and al that was founde in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, and in all his realme, that Hezekiah shewed them not. Then Isaiah the Prophet came vnto King Hezekiah, and saide vnto him, What saide these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They be come from a farre countrey, eu'en from Babel. Then saide he, What haue they scene in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house haue they scene: there is nothing among my treasures, that I haue not shewed the. And Isaiah said vnto Hezekiah, Heare the worde of the Lord. Beholde, the dayes come, that all that is in thine house, and what so euer thy fathers haue layed vp in store vnto this day, shall be caryed into Babel: Nothing shall be left, saith the Lord. And of thy sonnes, that shall procede out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shalbe eunuches in the palace of the King of Babel. Then Hezekiah said vnto Isaiah, The word of the Lord which thou hast spoken, is good: for saide he, Shall it not be good, if peace and trueth be in my dayes? Concerning the rest of the actes of Hezekiah, and all his valiant deedes, and howe he made a poole and a cundite, and brought water into the citie, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Manasseh his sonne reigned in his steade.

Manasseh was twelue yeere olde when he began to reigne, and reigned fiftie and fiue yeere in Ierusalem: his mothers name also was Hephzi-bah. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord after the abomination of the heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel. For he went backe and built the hie places, which Hezekiah his father had destroyed: and he erected vp altars for Baal, and made a groue, as did Ahab King of Israel, and worshipped all the hoste of heauen and serued them. Also he built altars in the house of the Lord, of the which the Lord saide, In Ierusalem will I put my Name. And he built altars for al the hoste of ye heauen in the two courtes of the house of the Lord. And he caused his sonnes to passe through the fire, and gaue him selfe to witchcraft and sorcerie, and he vsed them that had familiar spirits and were soothsayers, and did much euill in the sight of the Lord to anger him. And he set the image of the groue, that he had made, in the house, whereof ye Lord had saide to Dauid and to Salomon his sonne, In this house and in Ierusaleme, which I haue chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for euer. Neither will I make the feete of Israel, mooue any more out of the lande, which I gaue their fathers: so that they will obserue and doe all that I haue commanded them, and according to all the Lawe that my seruant Moses commanded them. Yet they obeyed not, but Manasseh ledde them out of the way, to doe more wickedly then did the heathen people, whom the Lord destroyed before the children of Israel. Therefore the Lord spake by his seruants the Prophets, saying, Because that Manasseh King of Iudah hath done such abominations, and hath wrought more wickedly then al that the Amorites (which were before him) did, and hath made Iudah sinne also with his idoles, Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Beholde, I will bring an euill vpon Ierusalem and Iudah, that who so heareth of it, both his eares shall tingle. And I will stretch ouer Ierusalem the line of Samaria, and the plommet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Ierusalem, as a man wipeth a dish, which he wipeth, and turneth it vpside downe. And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliuer them into the hande of their enemies, and they shalbe robbed and spoyled of all their aduersaries, Because they haue done euil in my sight, and haue prouoked mee to anger, since the time their fathers came out of Egypt vntill this day. Moreouer Manasseh shed innocent blood exceeding much, till hee replenished Ierusaleme from corner to corner, beside his sinne wherwith he made Iudah to sinne, and to doe euill in the sight of the Lord. Concerning the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and all that hee did, and his sinne that he sinned, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, euyn in the garden of Vzza: and Amon his sonne reigned in his steade.
Amon was two and twentie yere olde, when he began to reigne, and hee reigned two yeere in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Meshullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Iotbah. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, as his father Manasseh did. For hee walked in all the way that his father walked in, and serued the idoles that his father serued, and worshipped them. And he forsooke the Lord God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the Lord. And the servantes of Amon conspired against him, and slewe the King in his owne house. And the people of the land slewe all them that had conspired against King Amon, and the people made Iosiah his sonne King in his steade. Concerning the rest of the acts of Amon, which he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? And they buried him in his sepulchre in the garden of Vzza: and Iosiah his sonne reigned in his steade.

Iosiah was eight yeere olde when he beganne to reigne, and hee reigned one and thirtie yeere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Iedidah the daughter of Adaiaia of Bozcath. And hee did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, and walked in all the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neither to the right hand, nor to the left. And in the eighteenth yeere of King Iosiah, the King sent Shaphan the sonne of Azaliah the sonne of Meshullam the chancellor to ye house of the Lord, saying, Goe vp to Hilkiah the high Priest, that hee may summe the siluer which is brought into the house of the Lord, which the keepers of the doore haue gathered of the people. And let them deliuer it into the hande of them that doe the worke, and haue the ouersight of the house of the Lord: let them giue it to them that worke in the house of the Lord, to repaire the decayed places of the house: To wit, vnto the artificers and carpenters and masons, and to bye timber, and hewed stone to repaire the house. Howebeit, let no rekoning bee made with them of the money, that is deliuered into their hand: for they deale faithfully. And Hilkiah the high Priest sayde vnto Shaphan the chancellor, I haue found the booke of the Lawe in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gaue the booke to Shaphan, and hee reade it. So Shaphan the chancellor came to ye King, and brought him word againe, and saide, Thy seru-ants haue gathered the money, that was found in the house, and haue deliuered it vnto the hands of them that doe the worke, and haue the ouersight of the house of the Lord. Also Shaphan the chancellor shewed the King saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath deli-uered me a booke. And Shaphan read it before the King. And when the King had heard the wordes of the booke of the Law, he rent his clothes. Therefore the King commanded Hilkiah the Priest, and Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Achbor the sonne of Michaiah, and Shaphan the chancellor, and Asahiah the Kings seruant, saying, Go ye and inquire of the Lord for me, and for the people, and for all Iudah concerning the wordes of this booke that is founde: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is kindled against vs, because our fathers haue not obeyed the wordes of this booke, to doe according vnto all that which is written therein for vs. So Hilkiah the Priest and Ahikam, and Achbor and Shaphan, and Asahiah went vnto Huldah the Prophetesse the wife of Shallum, ye sonne of Tikuah, the sonne of Harhas keeper of the wardrobe: (and she dwelt in Ierusalem in the colledge) and they communed with her. And shee answered them, Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, Tel the man that sent you to mee, Thus sayth the Lord, Behold, I wil bring euill vpon this place, and on the inhabitants thereof, euen al the words of the booke which ye King of Iudah hath read, Because they haue forsaken mee, and haue burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger me with all ye works of their hands: my wrath also shalbe kindled against this place and shall not be queched: But to the King of Iudah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, so shall ye say vnto him, Thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel, The wordes that thou hast heard, shall come to passe. But because thine heart did melt, and thou hast humbled thy selfe before the Lord, when thou hearedst what I spake against this place, and against the inhabitants of the same, to wit, that it should be destroyed and accursed, and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me, I haue also heard it, saith the Lord. Beholde therefore, I wil gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the euil, which I will bring vpon this place. Thus they brought the King worde againe.

Then the King sent, and there gathered vnto him all the Elders of Iudah and of Ierusalem. And the King went vp into the house of the Lord, with all the men of Iudah and all the inhabitants of Ierusalem with him, and the Priests and Prophets, and all the people both small and great: and he reade in their eares all the wordes of the booke of the couenant, which was found in the house of the Lord. And the King stood by the pillar, and made a couenant before the Lord, that they shoulde walke after the Lord, and keepe his commandements, and his testimonies, and his statutes with all their heart, and with all their soule, that they might accomplish the wordes of this couenant written in this booke. And all the people stood to the couenant. Then the King commanded Hilkiah the hie Priest and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the doore, to bring out of ye Temple of the Lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the groue, and for all the hoste of heauen, and he burnt them without Ierusalem in the fieldes of Kedron, and caryed the pouder of them into Beth-el. And he put downe the Chemarims, whom the Kings of Iudah had founded to burne incense in the hie places, and in the cities of Iudah, and about Ierusalem, and also them that burnt incense vnto Baal, to the sunne and to the moone, and to the planets, and to all the hoste of heauen. And he brought out the groue from the Temple of the Lord without Ierusalem vnto the valley of Kedron, and burnt it in the valley Kedron, and stampt it to pouder, and cast the dust thereof vpon the graues of the children of the people. And hee brake downe the houses of the Sodomites, that were in the house of the Lord, where the women woue hangings for the groue. Also he brought all the priests out of the cities of Iudah, and defiled the hie places where the Priests had burnt incense, euen from Geba to Beer-sheba, and destroyed the hie places of the gates, that were in the entring in of the gate of Ioshua the gouernour of the citie, which was at the left hand of the gate of the citie. Neuerthelessen the Priests of the hie places came not vp to the altar of the Lord in Ierusalem, saue onely they did eate of the vn-leauened bread among their brethren. He defiled also Topheth, which was in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man shoulde make his sonne or his daughter passe through the fire to Molech. He put downe also the horses that the Kings of Iudah had giuen to the sunne at the entring in of the house of the Lord, by the chamber of Nethan-melech the eunuche, which was ruler of the suburbs, and burnt the charcets of the sunne with fire. And the altars that were on the top of the chamber of Ahaz, which the Kings of Iudah had made, and the altars which Manasseh had made in the two courts of the house of the Lord did the King breake downe, and hasted thence, and cast the dust of them in the brooke Kedron. Moreouer the King defiled the hie places that were before Ierusalem and on the right hand of the mount of corruption (which Salomon the King of Israel had buylt for Ashtoreth the idole of the Zidonians, and for Chemosh the idole of the Moabites, and for Milchom the abomination of the children of Ammon) And he brake the images in pieces, and cut downe the groues and filled their places with the bones of men. Furthermore the altar that was at Beth-el, and the hie place made by Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to sinne, both this altar and also the hie place, brake he downe, and burnt the hie place, and stampt it to powder and burnt the groue. And as Iosiah turned himselfe, he spied the graues, that were in the mount, and sent and tooke the bones out of the graues, and burnt them vpon the altar and polluted it, according to the word of the Lord, that the man of God proclaimed, which cryed the same wordes. Then he sayde, What title is that which I see? And the men of the citie sayd vnto him, It is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Iudah, and tolde these things that thou hast done to the altar of Beth-el.
Then sayde he, Let him alone: let none remooue his bones. So his bones were saued with the bones of the Prophet that came from Samaria. Iosiah also tooke away all the houses of the hie places, which were in the cities of Samaria, which the Kings of Israel had made to anger the Lord, and did to them according to all the factes that he had done in Beth-el. And he sacrificed all the Priests of the hie places, that were there vpon the altars, and burnt mens bones vpon them, and returned to Ierusalem. Then the king commanded all the people, saying, Keepe the passeouer vnto the Lord your God, as it is written in the booke of this covenant. And there was no Passeouer holden like that from the dayes of the Judges that iudged Israel, nor in all the dayes of the Kinges of Israel, and of the Kings of Iudah. And in the eighteenth yere of King Iosiah was this Passeouer celebrated to the Lord in Ierusalem. Iosiah also tooke away them that had familiar spirits, and the soothsayers, and the images, and the idoles, and al the abominations that were espied in the lande of Iudah and in Ierusalem, to performe the wordes of the Lawe, which were written in the booke that Hilkiah the Priest found in the house of the Lord. Like vnto him was there no King before him, that turned to the Lord with al his heart, and with all his soule, and with all his might according to all the Lawe of Moses, neither after him arose there anie like him. Notwithstanding the Lord turned not from the fiercenesse of his great wrath wherewith he was angrie against Iudah, because of all the prouocatios wherwith Manasseh had prouoked him. Therefore the Lord saide, I will put Iudah also out of my sight, as I haue put away Israel, and will cast off this citie Ierusalem, which I haue chosen, and the house whereof I said, My name shalbe there. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iosiah, and all that hee did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iudah? In his dayes Pharaoh Nechoh King of Egypt went vp against the King of Asshur to the riuer Perath. And King Iosiah went against him, whome when Pharaoh sawe, he slewe him at Megiddo. Then his seruants caryed him dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Ierusalem, and buried him in his owne sepulchre. And the people of the lande tooke Iehoahaz the sonne of Iosiah, and anointed him, and made him King in his fathers steade. Iehoahaz was three and twentie yeere olde when he beganne to reigne, and reigned three moneths in Ierusalem. His mothers name also was Hamutal the daughter of Ieremiah of Libnah. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his fathers had done. And Pharaoh Nechoh put him in bondes at Riblah in the lande of Hamath, while he reigned in Ierusalem, and put the lande to a tribute of an hundreth talents of siluer, and a talent of golde. And Pharaoh Nechoh made Eliakim the sonne of Iosiah King in steade of Iosiah his father, and turned his name to Iehoiakim, and tooke Iehoahaz away, which when he came to Egypt, dyed there. And Iehoiakim gaue the siluer and the golde to Pharaoh, and taxed the land to giue the money, according to the commadement of Pharaoh: he leuyed of every man of the people of the lande, according to his value, siluer and golde to giue vnto Pharaoh Nechoh. Iehoiakim was fiue and twentie yere olde, when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeeres in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Zebudah the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his fathers had done.

In his dayes came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel vp, and Iehoiakim became his seruant three yeere: afterwarde he turned, and rebelled against him. And the Lord sent against him bandes of the Caldees, and bands of the Aramites, and bands of the Moabites, and bandes of the Ammonites, and he sent them against Iudah to destroy it, according to the worde of the Lord, which he spake by his seruants the Prophets. Surely by the commandement of the Lord came this vpon Iudah, that he might put them out of his sight for the sinnes of Manasseh, according to all that he did, And for the innocent blood that he shed, (for he filled Ierusalem with innocent blood) therefore the Lord would not pardon it. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kinges of Iudah? So Iehoiakim slept with his fathers, and Iehoiachin his sonne reigned in his steade. And the King of Egypt came no more out of his lande: for the King of Babel had taken from the riuer of Egypt, vnto the riuer Perath, all that pertained to the King of Egypt. Iehoiachin was eighteene yere old, when he beganne to reigne, and reigned in Ierusalem three moneths. His mothers name also was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Ierusalem. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father had done. In that time came the seruants of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel vp against Ierusalem: so the citie was besieged. And Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel came against the citie, and his seruants did besiege it. Then Iehoiachin the king of Iudah came out against the King of Babel, he, and his mother and his seruants, and his princes, and his eunuches: and the King of Babel tooke him in the eyght yeere of his reigne. And he caryed out thence all the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the Kings house, and brake all the vessels of gold, which Salomon King of Israel had made in the Temple of the Lord, as the Lord had saide.
And he caryed away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the strong men of warre, euen ten thousande into captiuitie, and all the workemen, and cunning men: so none remained sauing the poore people of the lande. And he caryed away Iehoiachin into Babel, and the Kings mother, and the Kinges wiues, and his eunuches, and the mightie of the lande caryed he away into captiuitie from Ierusalem to Babel. And al the men of warre, euen seuen thousand, and carpenters, and lockesmithes a thousande: all that were strong and apt for warre, did the King of Babel bring to Babel captiues. And the King of Babel made Mattaniah his vncle King in his steade, and changed his name to Zedekiah. Zedekiah was one and twentie yeere olde, when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeeres in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Hamutal the daughter of Ieremiah of Libnah. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done. Therefore certainly the wrath of the Lord was against Ierusalem and Iudah vntill he cast them out of his sight. And Zedekiah rebelled against the King of Babel.

And in the ninth yeere of his reigne, the tenth moneth and tenth day of the moneth Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel came, he, and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and pitched against it, and they built fortes against it round about it. So the citie was besieged vnto the eleueth yeere of King Zedekiah. And the ninth day of the moneth the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no bread for the people of the lande. Then the citie was broken vp, and all the men of warre fled by night, by the way of the gate, which is betwene two walles that was by the Kings garden: nowe the Caldees were by the citie round about: and the King went by the way of the wildernesse. But the armie of the Caldees pursued after the King, and tooke him in the desertes of Iericho, and all his hoste was scattered from him. Then they tooke the King, and caried him vp to the King of Babel to Riblah, where they gaue iudgement vpon him. And they slew the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bounde him in chaines, and caried him to Babel. And in the fift moneth, and seuenth day of the moneth, which was the nineteeth yere of King Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel, came Nebuzar-adan chiefe stewarde and seruaunt of the King of Babel, to Ierusalem, And burnt the house of the Lord, and the Kings house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all the great houses burnt he with fire. And all the armie of the Caldees that were with the chiefe stewarde, brake downe the walles of Jerusalem round about. And the rest of the people that were left in the citie, and those that were fled and fallen to the King of Babel, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan chiefe steward carie away captiue. But the chiefe steward left of the poore of the land to dresse the vines, and to till the land. Also the pillars of brasse that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brasen Sea that was in the house of the Lord, did the Caldees breake, and caried the brasse of them to Babel. The pots also and the besomes, and the instruments of musike, and the incense dishes, and al the vessels of brasse that they ministred in, tooke they away. And the asshe pannes, and the basens, and all that was of gold, and that was of siluer, tooke the chiefe steward away, With the two pillars, one Sea and the bases, which Salomon had made for the house of the Lord: the brasse of all these vessels was without weight. The height of the one pillar was eightene cubits, and the chapiter thereon was brasse, and the height of the chapiter was with networke three cubites, and pomegranates vpon the chapiter rounde about, all of brasse: and likewise was the second pillar with the networke. And the chiefe steward tooke Seraiah the chiefe Priest, and Zephaniah the second Priest, and the three keepers of the doore. And out of the citie hee tooke an Eunuch that had the ouersight of the men of warre, and fiue men of them that were in the Kinges presence, which were founde in the citie, and Sopher captaine of the hoste, who mustred the people of the lande, and threescore men of the people of the lande, that were founde in the citie. And Nebuzar-adan the chiefe stewarde tooke them, and brought them to the King of Babel to Riblah. And the King of Babel smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Iudah was caried away captiue out of his owne land. Howbeit there remained people in the land of Iudah, whom Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel left, and made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan ruler ouer them. Then when all the captaines of the host and their men heard, that the king of Babel had made Gedaliah gouernour, they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, to wit, Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and Seraiah the sonne of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Iaazaniah the sonne of Maachathi, they and their men. And Gedaliah sware to them, and to their men, and sayd vnto them, Feare not to be the seruants of the Caldees: dwell in the land, and serue the King of Babel, and ye shalbe well. But in the seuenth moneth Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah the sonne of Elishama of the Kings seede, came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, and he died, and so did he the Iewes, and the Caldees that were with him at Mizpah. Then all ye people both small and great, and the captaines of the armie arose, and came to Egypt: for they were afraide of the Caldees. Notwithstanding in the seuen and thirtieth yeere after Iehoiachin King of Iudah was caried away, in the twelft moneth and the seuen and twentieth day of the moneth, Euil-merodach King of Babel in the yeere that hee began to reigne, did lift vp the head of Iehoiachin King of Iudah out of the prison, And spake kindly to him, and set his throne aboue the throne of the Kings that were with him in Babel, And changed his prison garments: and he did continually eate bread before him, all the dayes of his life. And his portion was a continual portion giuen him by the King, euery day a certaine, all the dayes of his life.

These were famous princes in their families, and increased greatly their fathers houses. And they went to the entring in of Gedor, euen vnto the East side of the valley, to seeke pasture for their sheepe. And they found fat pasture and good, and a wide land, both quiet and fruitfull: for they of Ham had dwelt there before. And these described by name, came in the dayes of Hezekiah king of Iudah, and smote their tents, and the inhabitants that were found there, and destroyed them vutterly vnto this day, and dwelt in their roume, because there was pasture there for their sheepe. And besides these, fiue hundred men of the sonses of Simeon went to mount Seir, and Pelatiah, and Nearsiah, and Rophaiah, and Vzziel the sonses of Ishi were their captains. And they smote the rest of Amalek that had escaped, and they dwelt there vnto this day.

The sonses also of Reuben the eldest sonne of Israel (for he was the eldest, but had defiled his fathers bed, therefore his birthright was giuen vnto the sonses of Ioseph the sonne of Israel, so that the genealogie is not rekoned after his birthright. For Iudah preuailed aboue his brethren, and of him came the prince, but the birthright was Iosephs) The sonses of Reuben the eldest sonne of Israel, were Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. The sonses of Ioel, Shemaiah his sonne, Gog his sonne, and Shimei his sonne, Michah his sonne, Reaiah his sonne, and Baal his sonne, Beerah his sonne: whom Tilgath Pilneeser King of Asshur caryed away: he was a prince of the Reubenites. And when his brethren in their families rekoned the genealogie of their generations, Ieiel and Zechariah were the chiefe, And Bela the sonne of Azaz, the sonne of Shema, the sonne of Ioel, which dwelt in Aroer, euen vnto Nebo and Baal meon. Also Eastwarde he inhabited vnto the entring in of the wildernes from the riuer Perath for they had much cattel in the land of Gilead. And in the dayes of Saul they warred with the Hagarims, which fell by their hands: and they dwelt in their tentes in all the East partes of Gilead. And the children of Gad dwelt ouer against them in the land of Bashan, vnto Salchah. Ioel was the chiefest, and Shapham the second, but Iaanai and Shaphat were in Bashan. And their brethren of the house of their fathers were Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Sorai, and Iacan, and Zia and Eber, seuen. These are the childres of Abihail, the sonne of Huri, the sonne of Iaroah, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Ieshishai, the sonne of Iahdo, the sonne of Buz. Ahi the sonne of Abdiel, the sonne of Guni was chiefe of the houshold of their fathers. And they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in the townes thereof, and in all the suburbs of Sharon by their borders. All these were rekoned by genealogies in the dayes of Iotham King of Iudah, and in the dayes of Ieroboam King of Israel. The sonses of Reuben and of Gad, and of halfe the tribe of Manasseh of those that were viliant men, able to beare shield, and sworde, and to draw a bowe, exercised in warre, were foure and fourtie thousand, seuen hundreth and three score, that went out to the warre. And they made warre with the Hagarims, with Ietur, and Naphish, and Nodab. And they were holpen against them, and the Hagarims were deliuered into their hande, and all that were with them: for they cryed to God in the battel, and he heard them, because they trusted in him. And they led away their cattel, euen their camels fiftie thousand, and two hundreth, and fiftie thousand sheepe, and two thousand asses, and of persons an hundreth thousand. For many fel downe wounded, because the warre was of God. And they dwelt in their steads vntill the captiuitie. And the children of the halfe tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land, from Baashan vnto Baal Hermon, and Senir, and vnto mount Hermon: for they increased. And these were the heads of the housholds of their fathers, euen Epher and Ishi, and Eliel and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodauiah, and Jahdiel, strong men, valiant and famous, heads of the housholdes of their fathers. But they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of the people of the lande, whome God had destroyed before them. And the God of Israel stirred vp the spirit of Pul king of Asshur, and the spirite of Tilgath Pilneeser king of Asshur, and he caryed them away: euen the Reubenites and the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, and brought them vnto Halah and Habor, and Hara, and to the riuer Gozan, vnto this day.

The sonnes of Leui were Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. And the sonnes of Kohath, Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Vzziel. And the children of Amram, Aaron, and Moses and Miriam. And the sonnes of Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and Eleazar, and Ithamar. Eleazar begate Phinehas. Phinehas begate Abishua, And Abishua begate Bukki, and Bukki begate Vzzi, And Vzzi begate Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begate Meraioth. Meraioth begate Amariah, and Amariah begate Ahitub, And Ahitub begate Zadok, and Zadok begate Ahimaaz, And Ahimaaz begate Azariah, and Azariah begate Iohanan, And Iohanan begate Azariah (it was hee that was Priest in the house that Salomon built in Ierusalem) And Azariah begate Amariah, and Amariah begate Ahitub, And Ahitub begate Zadok, and Zadok begate Shallum, And Shallum begate Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begate Azariah, And Azariah begate Seraiah, and Seraiah begate Iehozadak, And Iehozadak departed when the Lord caried away into captitivity Judah and Jerusalem by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar. The sonnes of Leui were Gershom, Kohath and Merari. And these be the names of the sonnes of Gershom, Libni, and Shimei. And the sonnes of Kohath were Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron and Vzziel. The sonnes of Merari, Mahli and Mushi: and these are the families of Leui concerning their fathers. Of Gershom, Libni his sonne, Iahath his sonne, Zimmah his sonne, Ioah his sonne, Iddo his sonne, Zerah his sonne, Jeaterai his sonne. The sonnes of Kohath, Aminadab his sonne, Korah his sonne, Assir his sonne, Elkanah his sonne, and Ebi-asaph his sonne, and Assir his sonne, Tahath his sonne, Vriel his sonne, Vzziah his sonne, and Shaul his sonne. And the sonnes of Elkanah, Amasai, and Ahimoth. Elkanah. the sonnes of Elkanah, Zophai his sonne, and Nahath his sonne, Eliab his sonne, Ieroham his sonne, Elkanah his sonne, And the sonnes of Shemuel, the eldest Vashni, then Abiah. The sonnes of Merari were Mahli, Libni his sonne, Shimei his sonne, Vzzah his sonne, Shimea his sonne, Haggiah his sonne, Asaiah his sonne. And these be they whom Daud set for to sing in the house of the Lord, after that the Arke had rest. And they ministred before the Tabernacle, euen the Tabernacle of the Congregation with singing, vntill Salomon had built ye house of the Lord in Ierusalem: then they continued in their office, according to their custome. And these ministred with their children: of the sonnes of Kohath, Heman a singer, the sonne of Ioel, the sonne of She-muel, The sonne of Elkanah, the sonne of Ieroham, the sonne of Eliel, the sonne of Toah, The sonne of Zuph, the sonne of Elkanah, the sonne of Mahath, the sonne of Amasai, The sonne of Elkanah, the sonne of Ioel, the sonne of Azariah, the sonne of Zephaniah, The sonne of Tahath, the sonne of Assir, the sonne of Elbiasaph, the sonne of Korah, The sonne of Izhar, the sonne of Kohath, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel. And his brother Asaph stoode on his right hand: and Asaph was the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Shimea, The sonne of Michael, the sonne of Baaseiah, the sonne of Malchiah, The sonne of Ethni, the sonne of Zerah, the sonne of Adaiah, The sonne of Ethan, the sonne of Zimmah, the sonne of Shimei, The sonne of Iahath, the sonne of Gershom, the sonne of Leui. And their brethren the sonnes of Merari were on the left hand, euen Ethan the sonne of Kishi, the sonne of Abdi, the sonne of Malluch, The sonne of Hashabiah, the sonne of Amaziah, the sonne of Hilkiah, The sonne of Amzi, the sonne of Bani, the sonne of Shamer, The sonne of Mahli, the sonne of Mushi, the sonne of Merari, the sonne of Levi. And their brethren the Leuites were appointed vnnto all the servise of the Tabernacle of the house of God. But Aaron and his sonnes burnt incense vpon the altar of burnt offering, and on the altar of incense, for all that was to do in the most holy place, and to make an atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the seruant of God had commanded. These are also the sonnes of Aaron, Eleazar his sonne, Phinehas his sonne, Abishua his sonne, Bukki his sonne, Vzzi his sonne, Zerahiah his sonne, Meraioth his sonne, Amariah his sonne, Ahitub his sonne, Zadok his sonne, and Ahimaaz his sonne. And these are the dwelling places of them throughout their townes and coasts, euen of the sonnes of Aaron for the familie of the Kohathites, for the lot was theirs. So they gaue them Hebron in the lande of Iudah and the suburbes thereof rounde about it. But the fielde of the citie, and the villages thereof they gaue to Caleb the sonne of Iephunneh. And to the sonnes of Aaron they gaue the cities of Iudah for refuge, euen Hebron and Libna with their suburbes, and Iattir, and Eshtemoa with their suburbes, And Hilen with her suburbes, and Debir with her suburbes, And Ashan and her suburbes, and Bethshemesh and her suburbes: And of the tribe of Beniamin, Geba and her suburbes, and Alemeth with her suburbes, and Anathoth with her suburbes: all their cities were thirteene cities by their families. And vnto the sonnes of Kohath the remnant of the familie of the tribe, euen of the halfe tribe of the halfe of Manasseh, by lot ten cities. And to the sonnes of Gershom according to their families out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteene cities. Vnto the sonnes of Merari according to their families out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, by lot twelue cities. Thus the children of Israel gaue to the Leuites cities with their suburbes. And they gaue by lot out of the tribe of the children of Iudah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Beniamin, these cities, which they called by their names. And they of the families of the sons of Kohath, had cities and their coastes out of the tribe of Ephraim. And they gaue vnto them cities of refuge, Shechem in mount Ephraim, and her suburbs, and Gezer and her suburbs, 1okmeam also and her suburbs, and Bethhoron with her suburbs, And Aialon and her suburbs, and Gath Rimmon and her suburbs, And out of the halfe tribe of Manasseh, Aner and her suburbs, and Bileam and her suburbs, for the families of the remnant of the sons of Kohath. Vnto the sons of Gershom out of the familie of the halfe tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan, and her suburbs, and Ashtaroth with her suburbs, And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kedesh and her suburbs, Daberath and her suburbs, Ramoth also and her suburbs, and Anem with her suburbs, And out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal and her suburbs, and Abdon and her suburbs, And Hukok and her suburbs, and Rehob and her suburbs, And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilea and her suburbs, and Hammon and her suburbs, and Kiriathaim and her suburbs. Vnto the rest of the children of Merari were giuen out of ye tribe of Zebulun Rimmon and her suburbs, Tabor and her suburbs, And on the other side Iorden by Iericho, euen on the Eastside of Iorden, out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wildernesse with her suburbs, and Iahzah with her suburbs, And Kedemoth with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs, And out of the tribe of Gad Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Mahanaim with her suburbs, And Heshbon with her suburbs, and Iaazer with her suburbs.

And the sons of Issachar were Tola and Puah, Iashub, and Shimron, foure, And the sons of Tola, Vzzi, and Rephaiah, and Ieriel, and Iahmai, and Iibsam, and Shemuel, heads in the households of their fathers. Of Tola were valiant men of warre in their generations, whose nombre was in the dayes of Dauid two and twentie thousand, and sixe hundreth. And the sonne of Vzzi was Izrahaiah, and the sonses of Izrahaiah, Michael, and Obadiah, and Ioel, and Isshiah, fiue men all princes. And with them in their generations after the houshold of their fathers were bandes of men of warre for battel, sixe and thirtie thousand: for they had many wiues and children. And their brethren among all the families of Issachar were valiant men of warre, reckoned in all by their genealogies foure score and seven thousand. The sonses of Beniamin were Bela, and Becher, and Iediael, three. And the sonses of Bela, Ezbon, and Vzzi, and Vzziel, and Ierimoth, and Iri, five heads of the households of their fathers, valiant men of warre, and were reckoned by their genealogies, two and twenty thousand and thirtie and foure. And the sonses of Becher, Zemirah, and Ioash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Ierimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth: all these were the sonses of Becher. And they were nombred by their genealogies according to their generations, and the chiefe of the houses of their fathers, valiant men of warre, twenty thousand and two hundreth. And the sonne of Iediael was Bilhan, and the sonses of Bilhan, Ieush, and Beniamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar. All these were the sonses of Iediael, chiefe of the fathers, valiant men of warre, seuentene thousand and two hundreth, marching in battel aray to the warre. And Shuppim, and Huppim were ye sonses of Ir, but Hushim was the sonne of another. The sonses of Naphtali, Iahziel, and Guni, and Iezer, and Shallum of the sonses of Bilhah. The sonne of Manasseh was Ashriel whom she bare vnto him, but his concubine of Aram bare Machir the father of Gilead. And Machir tooke to wife the sister of Huppim and Shuppim, and the name of their name was Maachah. And the name of the second sonne was Zelophehad, and Zelophehad had daughters. And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a sonne, and called his name Peresh, and the name of his brother was Shereshe: and his sonses were Vlam and Rakem. And the sonne of Vlam was Bedan. These were the sonses of Gilead the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasseh. And his sister Molecheth bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah. And the sonses of Shemida were Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam. The sonses also of Ephraim were Shuthelah, and Bered his sonne, and Tahath his sonne, and his sonne Eladah, and Tahath his sonne, And Zabad his sonne, and Shuthelah his sonne, and Ezer, and Elead: and the men of Gath that were borne in the land, slewe them, because they came downe to take away their cattel. Therefore Ephraim their father mourned many dayes, and his brethren came to confort him. And when he went in to his wife, she conceiued, and bare him a sonne, and he called his name Beriah, because affliction was in his house. And his daughter was Sherah, which built Beth-horon the nether, and the vpper, and Vzzen Sheerah. And Rephah was his sonne, and Resheph, and Telah his sonne, and Tahan his sonne, Laadan his sonne, Ammihud his sonne, Elishama his sonne, Non his sonne, Iehoshua his sonne. And their possessions and their habitations were Beth-el, and the villages thereof, and Eastward Naaran, and Westwarde Gezer with the villages thereof, Shechem also and the villages thereof, vnto Azzah, and the villages thereof. And by the places of the children of Manasseh, Beth-shean and her villages, Taanach and her villages, Megiddo and her villages, Dor and her villages. In those dwelt the children of Ioseph the sonne of Israel. The sonnes of Asher were Imnah, and Isuah, and Ishuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister. And the sonnes of Beriah, Heber, and Malchiel, which is the father of Birzauith. And Heber begate Iaphlet, and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shuah their sister. And the sonnes of Iaphlet were Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashuath: these were the children of Iaphlet. And the sonnes of Shamer, Ahi, and Rohgah, Iehubbah, and Aram. And the sonnes of his brother Helem were Zophah, and Iimna, and Shelesh and Amal. The sonnes of Zophah, Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah, Bezer and Hod, and Shamma, and Shilshah, and Ithran, and Beera. And the sonnes of Iether, Iephunneh, and Pispa and Ara. And the sonnes of Vlla, Harah, and Haniel, and Rizia. All these were the children of Asher, the heads of their fathers houses, noble men, valiant men of warre and chiefe princes, and they were rekoned by their genealogies for warre and for battell to the number of s=c=e=x=6 and twentie thousand men.

Beniamin also begate Bela his eldest sonne, Ashbel the second, and Aharah the third, Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fift. And the sonnes of Bela were Addar, and Gera, and Abihud, And Abishua, and Naaman and Ahoah, And Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram. And these are the sonnes of Ehud: these were the chiefe fathers of those that inhabited Geba: and they were caryed away captiues to Monahath. And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera, he caryed them away captiues: and he begate Vzza, and Ahihu. And Shaharaim begate certaine in the coutrey of Moab, after he had sent away Hushim and Baara his wives. He begat, I say, of Hodesh his wife, Iobab and Zibia, and Mesha, and Malcham, And Ieuz and Shachia and Mirma: these were his sons, and chief fathers. And of Hushim he begat Ahitub and Elpaal. And the sons of Elpaal were Eber, and Misham and Shamed (which built Ono, and Lod, and the villages thereof) And Beriah and Shema (which were the chief fathers among the inhabitants of Aialon: they draue away the inhabitants of Gath) And Ahio, Shashak and Ierimoth, And Sebadiah, and Arad, and Ader, And Michael, and Ispah, and Ioha, the sons of Beriah, And Zebadiah, and Meshullam, and Hizki, and Heber, And Ishmerai and Izliah, and Iobab, the sons of Elpaal, Iakim also, and Zichri, and Sabdi, And Elienai, and Zillethai, and Eliel, And Adaiah, and Beraiah, and Shimrah the sons of Shimei, And Ishpan, and Eber, and Eliel, And Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan, And Hananiah, and Elam, and Antothiiah, Iphedeiah and Penuel ye sons of Shashak, And Shamsherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah, And Iaareshiah, and Eliah, and Zichri, the sons of Ieroham. These were the chief fathers according to their generations, euen princes, which dwelt in Ierusalem. And at Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, and the name of his wife was Maachah. And his eldest son was Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Nadab, And Gidor, and Ahio, and Zacher. And Mikloth begate Shimeah: these also dwelt with their brethren in Ierusalem, euen by their brethren. And Ner begate Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begate Ionathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal. And the sonne of Ionathan was Merib-baal, and Merib-baal begate Micah. And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz. And Ahaz begate Iehoadah, and Iehoadah begate Alemeth, and Az-maueth, and Zimri, and Zimri begate Moza, And Moza begate Bineah, whose sonne was Raphah, and his sonne Eleasah, and his sonne Azel. And Azel had sixe sons, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obidiah, and Hanan: all these were the sons of Azel. And the sons of Eshek his brother were Vlam his eldest son, Iehush the second, and Eliphelet the third. And the sons of Vlam were valiant men of warre which shot with the bow, and had many sons and nephewes, an hundredth and fiftie: all these were of the sons of Benjamin.

Thus all Israel were numbered by their genealogies: and beholde, they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel and of Judah, and they were carried away to Babylon for their transgression. And the chief inhabitants that dwelt in their own possessions, and in their own cities, even Israel the priests, the Levites, and the Nethinims. And in Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manasseh. Vthai the son of Amihud the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani: of the children of Pharez, the son of Judah. And of Shiloni, Asaiah the eldest, and his sons. And the sons of Zerah, Ieuel, and their brethren six hundred and nineti. And of the sons of Benjamin, Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah, And Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Vzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephatiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibniiah. And their brethren according to their generations nine hundred, fiftie and sixe: all these men were chief fathers in the householdes of their fathers. And of the priests, Iedaiah, and Iehoiarib, and Iachin, And Azariah the son of Hilkiah, ye son of Meshullam, and the son of Zadok, the son of Ahitub the chief of the house of God, And Adaiah the son of Jeroham, ye sonne of Pashur, the son of Malchihia, and Maasai the sonne of Adiel, the sonne of Jahzerah, the sonne of Meshullam, the sonne of Meshillemith, the sonne of Immer. And their brethren the chief of the households of their fathers a thousand, seuen hundred and three score valiant men, for the worke of the service of the house of God. And of the Levites, Shemaiah the sonne of Hasshub, the sonne of Azrikam, the sonne of Hashabiah the sonnes of Merari, And Bakbakkar, Heresh and Galal, and Mattaniah the sonne of Micha, the sonne of Zichri, the sonne of Asaph, And Obadiah the sonne of Shemaiah, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Jeduthun, and Berechiah, the sonne of Asa, the sonne of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites. And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief. For they were porters to this time by companies of the children of Levi vnto the Kings gate eastward. And Shallum the sonne of Kore the sonne of Ebiasaph the sonne of Korah, and his brethren the Korathites (of the house of their father) were ouer the worke, and office to keepe the gates of the Tabernacle: so their families were ouer the hoste of the Lord, keeping the entrie. And Phinehas ye sonne of Eleazar was their guide, and the Lord was with him. Zechariah the sonne of Meshelemiah was the porter of the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. All these were chosen for porters of the gates, two hundreth and twelue, which were nombred according to their genealogies by their townes. Dauid established these and Samuel the Seer in their perpetuall office. So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the Lord, euyn of the house of the Tabernacle by wardes. The porters were in foure quarters Eastward, Westward, Northward and Southward. And their brethren, which were in their townes, came at seuen dayes from time to time with them. For these foure chiefe porters were in perpetuall office, and were of the Leuites and had charge of the chambers, and of the treasures in the house of God. And they lay rounde about the house of God, because the charge was theirs, and they caused it to be opened euery morning. And certaine of them had the rule of the ministring vessels: for they brought them in by tale, and brought them out by tale. Some of them also were appoynted ouer the instruments, and ouer all the vessels of the Sanctuarie, and of the floure, and the wine, and the oyle, and the incense, and the sweete odours. And certaine of the sonnes of the Priestes made oyntments of sweete odours. And Mattithiah one of the Leuites which was the eldest sonne of Shallum the Korhite, had the charge of the things that were made in the frying panne. And other of their brethren the sonnes of Kohath had the oversight of the shewbread to prepare it euery Sabbath. And these are the singers, the chiefe fathers of the Leuites, which dwelt in the chambers, and had none other charge: for they had to do in that busines day and night: These were the chiefe fathers of the Leuites according to their generations, and the principall which dwelt at Ierusalem. And in Gibeon dwelt ye father of Gibeon, Ieiel, and the name of his wife was Maachah. And his eldest sonne was Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth. And Mikloth begate Shimeam: they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalem, even by their brethren. And Ner begate Kish, and Kish begate Saul, and Saul begate Ionathan and Malchishua, and Abinadab and Eshbaal. And the sonne of Ionathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begate Micah. And the sonnes of Micah were Pithon, and Melech and Tahrea. And Ahaz begate Iarah, and Iarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaueth, and Zimri, and Zimri begate Moza. And Moza begate Binea, whose sonne was Rephaiah, and his sonne was Eleasah, and his sonne Azel. And Azel had sixe sonnes, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ismael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: these are the sonnes of Azel.

Then the Philistims fought against Israel: and the men of Israel fled before the Philistims, and fell downe slaine in mount Gilboa. And the Philistims pursued after Saul and after his sonnes, and the Philistims smote Ionathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua the sonnes of Saul. And the battel was sore against Saul; and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers. Then sayde Saul to his armour bearer, Drawe out thy sworde, and thrust me thorowe therewith, lest these vncircumcised come and mocke at me: but his armour bearer would not, for he was sore afraid: therefore Saul tooke the sword and fell vpon it. And when his armour bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise vpon the sworde, and dyed. So Saul dyed and his three sonnes, and all his house, they dyed together. And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, sawe how they fledde, and that Saul and his sonnes were dead, they forsooke their cities, and fled away, and the Philistims came, and dwelt in them. And on the morrowe when the Philistims came to spoyle them that were slaine, they found Saul and his sonnes lying in mount Gilboa. And when they had stript him, they tooke his head and his armour, and sent them into the land of the Philistims round about, to publish it vnto their idoles, and to the people. And they layd vp his armour in the house of their god, and set vp his head in the house of Dagon. When all they of Iabesh Gilead heard all that the Philistims had done to Saul, Then they arose (all the valiant men) and tooke the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, and brought them to Iabesh, and buryed the bones of them vnder an oke in Iabesh, and fasted seuen dayes. So Saul dyed for his transgression, that he committed against the Lord, euen against the word of the Lord, which he kept not, and in that he sought and asked counsel of a familiar spirit. And asked not of the Lord: therefore he slewe him, and turned the kingdom vnto Dauid the sonne of Ishai.

Then all Israel gathered themselves to Dauid vnto Hebron, saying, Beholde, we are thy bones and thy flesh. And in time past, euen when Saul was King, thou leddest Israel out and in: and the Lord thy God sayde vnto thee, Thou shalt feede my people Israel, and thou shalt be captaine ouer my people Israel. So came all the Elders of Israel to the King to Hebron, and Dauid made a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anoynted Dauid King ouer Israel, according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Samuel. And Dauid and all Israel went to Ierusalem, which is Iebus, where were the Iebusites, the inhabitants of the land. And the inhabitants of Iebus said to Dauid, Thou shalt not come in hither. Neuertheles Dauid tooke the towre of Zion, which is the city of Dauid. And Dauid sayd, Whosoeuer smiteth the Iebusites first, shalbe the chiefe and captaine. So Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah went first vp, and was captaine. And Dauid dwelt in the tower: therefore they called it the citie of Dauid. And he built the citie on euery side, from Millo euen round about, and Ioab repaired the rest of the citie. And Dauid prospered, and grewe: for the Lord of hostes was with him. These also are the chiefe of the valiant men that were with Dauid, and ioyned their force with him in his kingdom with al Israel, to make him King ouer Israel, according to the worde of the Lord. And this is the nomber of the valiant men whome Dauid had, Iashobeam the sonne of Hachmoni, the chiefe among thirtie: he lift vp his speare against three hundreth, whom he slewe at one time. And after him was Eleazar the sonne of Dodo the Ahohite, which was one of the three valiant men. He was with Dauid at Pas-dammim, and there the Philistims were gathered together to battel: and there was a parcell of ground full of barley, and the people fled before the Philistims. And they stood in the middes of the field, and saued it, and slewe the Philistims: so the Lord gaue a great victorie. And three of the thirtie captaines went to a rocke to Dauid, into the caue of Adullam. And the armie of the Philistims camped in the valley of Rephaim. And when David was in the hold, the Philistines' garison was at Beth-lehem. And David longed, and said, Oh, that one would give me to drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem that is at the gate. Then these three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it for an oblation to the Lord. And said, Let not my God suffer me to do this: should I drink the blood of these men's lives? for they have brought it with the jeopardy of their lives: therefore he would not drink it: these things did these three mighty men. And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three, and he lifted up his spear against three hundred, and slew them, and had the name among the three. Among the three he was more honourable than the two, and he was their captain: but he attained not unto the first three. Benaiah the son of Jehoiada (the son of a valiant man) which had done many acts, and was of Kabzeel, he slew two strong men of Moab: he went down also and slew a lion in the midst of a pit in time of snow. And he slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, even five cubits long, and in the Egyptians hand was a spear like a weaver's beam: and he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptians hand, and slew him with his own spear. These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three worthies. Behold, he was honourable among thirty, but he attained not unto the first three. And David made him of his counsel. These also were valiant men of war, Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lehem, Shammoth the Harodite, Helez the Pelonite, Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Antothite, Sibbecai the Husathite, Ilai the Ahohite, Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the son of Baanah the Netophathite, Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeah of the children of Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite, Hurai of the rivers of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, Azmaeueth the Baharumite, Elihab the Shaalbonite, The sons of Hashem the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shageh the Harite, Ahiam the son of Sacar the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Vr, Hezro the Carmelite, Naarai the son of Ezbi, Ioel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the sonne of Haggeri, Zelek the Ammonite, Nahrai the Berothite, the armour bearer of Ioab, the sonne of Zeruiah, Ira the Ithrite, Garib the Ithrite, Vriah the Hittite, Zabad the sonne of Ahlai, Adina the sonne of Shiza the Reubenite, a captaine of the Reubenites, and thirtie with him, Hanan the sonne of Maachah, and Ioshaphat the Mithnite, Vzia the Ashtherathite, Shama and Ieiel the sonnes of Otham the Aroerite, Iediael the sonne of Shimri, and Ioha his brother the Tizite, Eliel the Mahauite, and Ieribai and Ioshauiah the sonnes of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite, Eliel and Obed, and Iaasiel the Mesobaite.

These also are they that came to Dauid to Ziklag, while he was yet kept close, because of Saul the sonne of Kish: and they were among the valiant and helpers of the battel. They were weaponed with bowes, and could use the right and the left hand with stones and with arrowes and with bowes, and were of Sauls brethren, euuen of Beniamin. The chiefe were Ahiezer, and Ioash the sonnes of Shemaah a Gibeathite, and Ieziel, and Pelet the sonnes of Asinaueth, Berachah and Iehu the Antothite, And Ishmaia the Gibeonite, a valiant man among thirtie, and aboue the thirtie, and Ieremiah, and Iehaziel, and Iohanan, and Ioshabad the Gederathite, Eluzai, and Ierimoth, and Bealiah, and She- mariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite, Elkanah, and Ishiah, and Azariel, and Ioezer, Iashobeam of Hakorehim, And Ioe- liah, and Zebadiah, the sonnes of Ieroham of Gedor, And of the Gadites there separated them selues some vnto Dauid into the holde of the wildernesse, valiant men of warre, and men of armes, and apt for battel, which coulde handle speare and shielde, and their faces were like the faces of lyons, and were like the roes in the mountaines in swiftnesse, Ezer the chiefe, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third, Mishmanah the fourth, Ieremiah the fift, Attai the sixt, Eliel the seuenth, Iohanan the eight, Elzabad the ninth, Ieremiah the tenth, Macbannai the eleuenth. These were the sonnes of Gad, captains of the hoste: one of the least could resist an hundreth, and the greatest a thousand. These are they that went ouer Iorden in the first moneth when he had filled ouer all his bankes, and put to flight all them of the valley, toward the East and the West. And there came of the children of Beniamin, and Iudah to the hold vnto Dauid, And Dauid went out to meete them, and answered and sayde vnsto them, If yee be come peaceably vnsto me to helpe me, mine heart shall be knit vnsto you, but if you come to betray me to mine aduersaries, seeing there is no wickednes in mine handes, the God of our fathers beholde it, and rebuke it. And the spirit came vpon Amasai, which was the chiefe of thirtie, and he said, Thine are we, Dauid, and with thee, O sonne of Ishai. Peace, peace be vnsto thee, and peace be vnsto thine helpers: for thy God helpeth thee. Then Dauid receiued them, and made them captains of the garison. And of Manasseh some fell to Dauid, when he came with the Philistims against Saul to battell, but they helped them not: for the Princes of the Philistims by aduisement sent him away, saying, He will fall to his master Saul for our heads. As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Iozabad, and Iediael, and Michael, and Iozabad, and Elihu, and Ziltai, heads of the thousands that were of Manasseh. And they helped Dauid against that bad: for they were all valiant men and were captains in the hoste. For at that time day by day there came to Dauid to helpe him, vntill it was a great hoste, like the hoste of God. And these are the nombers of the captains that were armed to battell, and came to Dauid to Hebron to turne the kingdome of Saul to him, according to the worde of the Lord. The children of Iudah that bare shield and speare, were sixe thousand and eight hundreth armed to the warre. Of the children of Simeon valiant men of warre, seuen thousand and an hundreth. Of the children of Leui foure thousande and sixe hundreth. And Iehoiada was the chiefe of them of Aaron: and with him three thousande and seuen hundreth. And Zadok a yong man very valiant, and of his fathers housholde came two and twentie captains. And of the children of Beniamin the brethren of Saul three thousande: for a great part of them vnsto that time kept the warde of the house of Saul. And of the children of Ephrain twentie thousande, and eight hundreth valiant men and famous men in the housholde of their fathers. And of the halfe tribe of Manasseh eighteene thousand, which were appointed by name to come and make Dauid King. And of the children of Issachar which were men that had vnderstanding of the times, to knowe what Israel ought to doe: the heades of them were two hundreth, and all their brethren were at their commandement. Of Zebulun that went out to battel, expert in warre, and in all instruments of warre, fiftie thousande which could set the battell in aray: they were not of a double heart. And of Naphtali a thousand captains, and with them with shielde and speare seuen and thirtie thousande. And of Dan expert in battell, eyght and twentye thousande, and sixe hundreth. And of Asher that went out to the battell and were trained in the warres, fourtie thousand. And of the other side of Iorden of the Reubenites, and of the Gadites, and of the halfe tribe of Manasseh with all instruments of warre to fight with, an hundreth and twentie thousand. All these men of warre that could leade an armie, came with vpright heart to Hebron to make Dauid King ouer all Israel: and all the rest of Israel was of one accorde to make Dauid King: And there they were with Dauid three dayes, eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them. Moreouer they that were neere them vntill Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali brought bread vpon asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, euen meate, floure, figges, and reisins, and wine and oyle, and beeues and sheepe abundantly: for there was ioy in Israel.

And Dauid counselled with the captaines of thousandes and of hundreths, and with all the gouernours. And Dauid said to all the Congregation of Israel, If it seeme good to you, and that it proceedeth of the Lord our God, we will sende to and from unto our brethren, that are left in all the lande of Israel (for with them are the Priests and the Leuites in the cities and their suburbs) that they may assemble them selues vnto vs. And we will bring againe the Arke of our God to vs: for we sought not vnto it in the dayes of Saul. And all the Congregation answered, Let vs doe so: for the thing seemed good in the eyes of all the people. So Dauid gathered all Israel together from Shihor in Egypt, euen vnto the entring of Hamath, to bring the Arke of God from Kiriath-iearim. And Dauid went vp and all Israel to Baalath, in Kiriath-iearim, that was in Iudah, to bring vp from thence the Arke of God the Lord that dwelleth betweene the Cherubims, where his Name is called on. And they caryed the Arke of God in a newe cart out of the house of Abinadab: and Vzza and Ahio guided the cart. And Dauid and all Israel played before God with all their might, both with songes and with harpes, and with violes, and with timbrels and with cymbales and with trumpets. And when they came vnto the threshing floore of Chidon, Vzza put forth his hand to holde the Arke, for the oxen did shake it. But the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Vzza, and he smote him, because he layed his hande vpon the Arke: so he dyed there before God. And Dauid was angrie, because the Lord had made a breach in Vzza, and he called the name of that place Perez-vzza vnto this day.
And Dauid feared God that day, saying, Howe shall I bring in to me the Arke of God? Therefore Dauid brought not the Arke to him into the citie of Dauid, but caused it to turne into the house of Obed Edom the Gittite. So the Arke of God remained in the house of Obed Edom, euen in his house three moneths: and the Lord blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

Then sent Hiram the King of Tyrus messengers to Dauid, and cedar trees, with masons and carpenters to builde him an house.
Therefore Dauid knewe that the Lord had confirmed him King ouer Israel, and that his kingdome was lift vp on hie, because of his people Israel. Also Dauid tooke moe wiues at Ierusalem, and Dauid begate moe sonnes and daughters. And these are the names of the children which he had at Ierusalem, Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Salomon, And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elpalet, And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Iaphia, And Elishedama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet. But when the Philistims heard that Dauid was anointed King ouer Israel, all the Philistims came vp to seeke Dauid. And when Dauid heard, he went out against them. And the Philistims came, and spred them selues in the valley of Rephaim. Then Dauid asked counsel at God, saying, Shall I goe vp against the Philistims, and wilt thou deliuer them into mine hande? And the Lord saide vnto him, Goe vp: for I will deliuer them into thine hande. So they came vp to Baal-perazim, and Dauid smote them there: and Dauid said, God hath deuided mine enemies with mine hande, as waters are deuided: therefore they called the name of that place, Baal-perazim. And there they had left their gods: and Dauid said, Let them euen be burnt with fire. Againe the Philistims came and spread them selues in the valley. And when Dauid asked againe counsell at God, God said to him, Thou shalt not goe vp after them, but turne away from them, that thou mayest come vpon them ouer against the mulberie trees. And when thou hearest the noyse of one going in the toppes of the mulberie trees, then goe out to battel: for God is gone foorth before thee, to smite the hoste of the Philistims. So Dauid did as God had commanded him: and they smote the hoste of the Philistims from Gibeon euen to Gezer. And the fame of Dauid went out into all landes, and the Lord brought the feare of him vpon all nations.

And Dauid made him houses in the citie of Dauid, and prepared a place for the Arke of God, and pitched for it a tent. Then Dauid saide, None ought to carie the Arke of God, but the Leuites: for the Lord hath chosen them to beare the Arke of the Lord, and to minister vnto him for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israel together to Ierusalem to bring vp the Arke of the Lord vnto his place, which he had ordeined for it. And Dauid assembled the sonnes of Aaron, and the Leuites. Of the sonnes of Kohath, Vriel the chiefe, and his brethren sixe score. Of the sonnes of Merari, Asaiah the chiefe, and his brethren two hundreth and twentie. Of the sonnes of Gershom, Ioel the chiefe, and his brethren an hundreth and thirtie. Of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chiefe, and his brethren two hundreth. Of the sonnes of Hebron, Eliel the chiefe, and his brethren fourescore. Of the sonnes of Vzziel, Amminadab the chiefe, and his brethren an hundreth and twelue. And Dauid called Zadok and Abiathar the Priestes, and of the Leuites, Vriel, Asaiah and Ioel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab: And he saide vnto them, Ye are the chiefe fathers of the Leuites: sanctifie your selues, and your brethren, and bring vp the Arke of the Lord God of Israel vnto the place that I haue prepared for it. For because ye were not there at the first, the Lord our God made a breach among vs: for we sought him not after due order. So the Priestes and the Leuites sanctified them selues to bring vp the Arke of the Lord God of Israel. And the sonnes of the Leuites bare the Arke of God vpon their shoulders with the barres, as Moses had commanded, according to the worde of the Lord. And Dauid spake to the chiefe of the Leuites, that they should appoint certaine of their brethren to sing with instruments of musike, with violes and harpes, and cymbales, that they might make a sounde, and lift vp their voyce with joye. So the Levites appointed Heman the sonne of Ioel, and of his brethren Asaph the sonne of Berechiah, and of the sonses of Merari their brethren, Ethan the sonne of Kushaiah, And with them their brethren in the seconde degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Iaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Vnni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneah, and Obed Edom, and Ieiel the porters. So Heman, Asaph and Ethan were fingers to make a sounde with cymbales of brasse, And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Vnni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah with violes on Alamoth, And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneah, and Obed Edom, and Ieiel, and Azaziah, with harpes vpon Shem-nith Ienazzeah. But Chenaniah the chiefe of the Levites had the charge, bearing ye burden in the charge, for he was able to instruct. And Berechiah and Elkanah were porters for the Arke. And Shecaniah and Iehoshaphat and Nethaneel and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the Priestes did blowe with trumpets before the Arke of God, and Obed Edom and Ieiiah were porters for the Arke. So Dauid and the Elders of Israel and the captains of thousandes went to bring vp the Arke of the covenant of the Lord from the house of Obed Edom with joye. And because that God helped the Levites that bare the Arke of the covenant of the Lord, they offered seuen bullockes and seuen rammes. And Dauid had on him a linen garment, as all the Levites that bare the Arke, and the singers and Chenaniah that had the chiefe charge of the singers: and vpon Dauid was a linnen Ephod. Thus all Israel brought vp the Arke of the Lordes covenant with shouting and sounde of cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbales, making a sound with violes and with harpes. And when the Arke of the covenant of the Lord came into the citie of Dauid, Michal the daughter of Saul looked out at a windowe, and sawe King Dauid dauncing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

So they brought in the Arke of God, and set it in the middes of the Tabernacle that Dauid had pitched for it, and they offred burnt offrings and peace offrings before God. And when Dauid had made an ende of offering the burnt offering and the peace offerings, hee blessed the people in the Name of the Lord. And he dealt to every one of Israel both man and woman, to every one

4 a cake of breade, and a piece of flesh, and a bottel of wine. And he appointed certaine of the Leuites to minister before the Arke of the Lord, and to rehearse and to thanke and prayse the Lord God of Israel: Asaph the chiefe, and next to him Zechariah, Ieiel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed Edom, euen Ieiel with instruments, vi-oles and harpes, and Asaph to make a sound with cymbales, And Benaiah and Iahaziel Priestes, with trumpets continually before the Arke of the covenent of God. Then at that time Dauid did appoint at the beginning to giue thankes to the Lord by the hand of Asaph and his brethren. Praise the Lord and call vpon his Name: declare his workes among the people. Sing vnto him, sing praise vnto him, and talke of all his wonderfull workes. Reioyce in his holy Name: let the hearts of them that seeke the Lord reioyce. Seeke the Lord and his strength: seeke his face continually. Remember his marueilous workes that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgements of his mouth, O seede of Israel his seruant, O the children of Iaakob his chosen. He is the Lord our God: his judgements are throughout all the earth. Remember his covenent for euer, and the worde, which hee commanded to a thousand generations: Which he made with Abraham, and his othe to Izhak: And hath confirmed it to Iaakob for a Law, and to Israel for an euerlasting covenent, Saying, To thee will I giue the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance. When ye were fewe in number, yea, a very fewe, and strangers therein, And walked about from nation to nation, and from one kingdome to another people, He suffered no man to do them wrong, but rebuked Kings for their sakes, say- ing, Touch not mine anoynted, and doe my Prophets no harme. Sing vnto the Lord all the earth: declare his saluation from day to day. Declare his glory among the nations, and his wonderful workes among all people. For the Lord is great and much to be praised, and hee is to bee feared aboue all gods. For all the gods of the people are idoles, but the Lord made the heauens. Prayse and glory are before him: power and beautie are in his place. Giue vnto the Lord, ye families of the people: giue vnto the Lord glory and power. Giue vnto the Lord ye glory of his Name: bring an offering and come before him, and worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuarie. Tremble ye before him, al the earth: surely the world shalbe stable and not moue. Let the heauens reioyce, and let the earth be glad, and let them say among the nations, The Lord reigneth. Let the sea roare, and all that therein is: Let the field be ioyfull and all that is in it. Let the trees of the wood then reioyce at the presence of the Lord: for he commeth to iudge the earth. Prayse the Lord, for hee is good, for his mercie endureth for euer. And say ye, Saue vs, O God, our salvation, and gather vs, and deliuer vs from the heathen, that we may prayse thine holy Name, and glorie in thy praise. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for euer and euer: and let all people say, So be it, and praise the Lord. Then he left there before the Arke of the Lordes couenant Asaph and his brethren to minister continually before the Arke, that which was to be done every day: And Obed Edom and his brethren, three score and eight: and Obed Edom the sonne of Ieduthun, and Hosah were porters. And Zadok the Priest and his brethren the Priestes were before the Tabernacle of ye Lord, in the hie place that was at Gibeon, To offer burnt offerings vnto the Lord, vpon the burnt offerng altar continually, in the morning and in the euening, euens according vnto all that is written in the law of the Lord, which hee commanded Israel. And with them were Heman, and Ieduthun, and the rest that were chosen (which were appointed by names) to praise the Lord, because his mercie endureth for euer. Euen with them were Heman and Ioduthun, to make a sound with the cornets and with the cymbales, with excellent instruments of musique: and the sonnes of Ieduthun were at the gate. And all the people departed, euery man to his house: and Dauid returned to blesse his house.

Nowe afterward when Dauid dwelt in his house, he saide to Nathan the Prophet, Beholde, I dwell in an house of cedar trees, but the Arke of the Lordes couenant remaineth vnder curtaines. Then Nathan said to Dauid, Do all that is in thine heart: for God is with thee. And the same night euyn the word of God came to Nathan, saying, Goe, and tell Dauid my servaunt, Thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt not buylde me an house to dwell in: For I haue dwelt in no house, since the day that I brought out the childe of Israel vnto this daye, but I haue bene from tent to tent, and from habitation to habitation. Wheresoeuer I haue walked with all Israel spake I one word to any of the iudges of Israel (whome I commanded to feede my people) saying, Why haue ye not built mee an house of cedar trees? Nowe therefore thus shalt thou say vnto my seruant Dauid, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, I tooke thee from the sheepecoat and from following the sheepe, that thou shouldest bee a prince ouer my people Israel. And I haue bene with thee whithersoeuer thou hast walked, and haue destroyed all thine enemies out of thy sight, and haue made thee a name, like the name of the great men that are in the earth. (Also I will appoynt a place for my people Israel, and will plant it, that they may dwell in their place, and moue no more: neither shall the wicked people vexe them any more, as at the beginning, And since the time that I commanded iudges ouer my people Israel) And I wil subdue all thine enemies: therefore I say vnto thee, that the Lord wil buylde thee an house. And when thy dayes shalbe fulfilled to go with thy fathers, then will I rayse vp thy seede after thee, whichshalbe of thy sonnes, and will stablish his kingdome. He shall builde me an house, and I will stablish his throne for euer. I wil be his father, and he shalbe my sonne, and I will not take my mercie away from him, as I tooke it from him that was before thee. But I wil establish him in mine house, and in my kingdome for euer, and his throne shalbe stablished for euer, According to all these wordes, and according to al this vision. So Nathan spake to Dauid. And Dauid the King went in and sate before the Lord and said, Who am I, O Lord God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto? Yet thou esteeming this a small thing, O God, hast also spoken concerning the house of thy seruaut for a great while, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of hie degree, O Lord God. What can Dauid desire more of thee for the honour of thy seruant? for thou knowest thy seruant. O Lord, for thy seruantes sake, euen according to thine heart hast thou done all this great thing to declare all magnificence. Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we haue heard with our eares. Moreover what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whose God went to redeeme them to be his people, and to make thy sefle a Name, and to doe great and terrible things by casting out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast deliuered out of Egypt? For thou hast ordeined thy people Israel to be thine owne people for euer, and thou Lord art become their God. Therefore nowe 23 Lord, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy seruant and concerning his house, be confirmed for euer, and doe as thou hast sayd, And let thy name be stable and magnified for euer, that it may be sayd, The Lord of hostes, God of Israel, is the God of Israel, and let the house of Dauid thy seruant bee stablished before thee. For thou, O my God, hast reuiled vnto the eare of thy seruant, that thou wilt builde him an house: therefore thy seruant hath bene bolde to pray before thee. Therefore nowe Lord (for thou art God, and hast spoken this goodnesse vnto thy seruant) Now therefore, it hath pleased thee to blesse the house of thy seruant, that it may bee before thee for euer: for thou, O Lord, hast blessed it, and it shalbe blessed for euer.

And after this Dauid smote the Philistims, and subdued them, and tooke Gath, and the villages thereof out of the hand of the Philistims. And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauuids seruants, and brought giftes. And Dauid smote Hadarezer King of Zobah vnto Hamath, as he went to stablish his border by the riuer Perath. And Dauid tooke from him a thousand charets, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footemen, and destroyed all the charets, but he reserued of them an hundreth charets. Then came the Aramites of Damascus to succour Hadarezer King of Zobah, but Dauid slew of the Aramites two and twenty thousand. And Dauid put a garison in Aram of Damascus, and the Aramites became Dauuids seruants, and brought giftes: and the Lord preserued Dauid wheresoeuer he went. And Dauid tooke the shieldes of gold that were of the seruants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Ierusalem. And from Tibhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought Dauid exceeding much brasse, wherewith Salomon made the brasen Sea, and the pillars and the vessels of brasse. Then Tou King of Hamath heard howe Dauid had smitten all the hoste of Hadarezer King of Zobah: Therefore he sent Hadoram his sonne to King Dauid, to salute him, and to reioyce with him, because he had fought against Hadarezer, and beaten him (for Tou had warre with Hadarezer) who brought all vessels of golde and siluer and brasse. And King Dauid did dedicate them vnto the Lord, with the siluer and golde that hee brought from all the nations, from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philistims, and from Amalek.

And Abishai the sonne of Zeruiah smote of Edom in the salt valley eighteen thousand, And he put a garison in Edom, and all the Edomites became Dauids seruantes: and the Lord preserued Dauid wheresoeuer he went. So Dauid reigned ouer all Israel, and executed judgement and justice to all his people. And Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah was ouer the hoste, and Iehoshaphat the sonne of Ahilud recorder, And Zadok the sonne of Ahitub, and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the Priests, and Shausha the Scribe, And Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer the Cherethites and the Pelethites: and the sonnes of Dauid were chiefe about the King.

After this also Nahash the King of the children of Ammon dyed, and his sonne reigned in his stead. And Dauid said, I will shew kindnesse vnto Hanun the sonne of Nahash, because his father shewed kindnesse vnto me. And Dauid sent messengers to comfort him for his father. So the seruants of Dauid came into the lande of the children of Ammon to Hanun to comfort him. And the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, Thinkest thou that Dauid doeth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters vnto thee? Are not his servaunts come to thee to search, to seeke and to spie out the land? Wherefore Hanun tooke Dauids servaunts, and shaued them, and cut off their garments by the halfe vnto the buttocks, and sent them away. And there went certaine and tolde Dauid concerning the men: and he sent to mete them (for the men were exceedingely ashamed) and the King saide, Tarie at Iericho, vntill your beardes be growen: then returne. When the children of Ammon saw that they stanke in the sight of Dauid, then sent Hanun and the children of Ammon a thousande talents of siluer to hire them charets and horsemen out of Aram Naharaim and out of Aram Maachah, and out of Zobah. And they hired them two and thirty thousande charets, and the King of Maachah and his people, which came and pitched before Medeba: and the children of Ammon gathered themselues together from their cities, and came to the battell. And when Dauid heard, he sent Ioab and all the hoste of the valiant men. And the children of Ammon came out, and set their battell in aray at the gate of the citie. And the Kings that were come, were by them selues in the fielde. When Ioab saw that the front of the battel was against him before and behinde, then he chose out of all the choyse of Israel, and set him selfe in aray to mee te the Aramites. And the rest of the people he deliuered vnto the hande of Abishai his brother, and they put them selues in aray against the children of Ammon. And he saide, If Aram be too strong for me, then thou shalt succour me: and if the children of Ammon preuaile against thee, then I wil succour thee. Be strong, and let vs shewe our selues valiant for our people, and for the cities of our God, and let the Lord doe that which is good in his owne sight.
So Ioab and the people that was with him, came neere before the Aramites vnto the battel, and they fled before him. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Aramites fled, they fled also before Abishai his brother, and entred into the citie: so Ioab came to Ierusalem. And when the Aramites sawe that they were discomfited before Israel, they sent messengers and causd the Aramites to come forth that were beyond the riuer: and Shophach the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them. And when it was shewed Dauid, he gathered all Israel, and went ouer Iorden, and came vnto them, and put him selfe in aray against them: And when Dauid had put him selfe in battel aray to mee te the Aramites, they fought with him.
But the Aramites fled before Israel, and Dauid destroyed of the Aramites seuen thousand charets, and fourtie thousand footemen, and killed Shophach the captaine of the hoste. And when the seruants of Hadarezer sawe that they fell before Israel, they made peace with Dauid, and serued him. And the Aramites would no more succour the children of Ammon.

And when the yere was expired, in the time that Kings goe out a warfare, Ioab caryed out the strength of the armie, and destroyd the countrey of the children of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah (but Dauid taryed at Ierusalem) and Ioab smote Rabbah and destroyed it. Then Dauid tooke the crowne of their King from off his head, and founde it the weight of a talent of golde, with precious stones in it: and it was set on Dauids head, and he brought away the spoyle of the citie exceeding much. And he caryed away the people that were in it, and cut them with sawes, and with harowes of yron, and with axes: euen thus did Dauid with all the cities of the children of Ammon.
Then Dauid and all the people came againe to Jerusalem. And after this also there arose warre at Gezer with the Philistims: then Sibbechai the Hushathite slewe Sippai, of the children of Haraphah, and they were subdued. And there was yet another battell with the Philistims: and Elhanan the sonne of Iair slewe Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whose spearestaffe was like a weauers beame. And yet againe there was a battell at Gath, where was a man of a great stature, and his fingers were by sixes, euen foure and twentie, and was also the sonne of Haraphah. And when he reuiled Israel, Iehonathan the sonne of Shimea Dauids brother did slay him. These were borne vnto Haraphah at Gath, and fell by the hand of Dauid: and by the hands of his seruants.

And Satan stoode vp against Israel, and prouoked Dauid to nomber Israel. Therefore Dauid said to Ioab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, and nomber Israel from Beer-sheba euen to Dan, and bring it to me, that I may knowe the nomber of them. And Ioab answered, The Lord increase his people an hundreth times so many as they be, O my lord the King: are they not all my lords seruants? wherefore doeth my lord require this thing? why should he be a cause of trespasse to Israel? Neuerthelesse the Kings word pruailed against Ioab. And Ioab departed and went thorowe all Israel, and returned to Jerusalem. And Ioab gaue the nomber and summe of the people vnto Dauid: and all Israel were eleuen hundreth thousande men that drewe sword: and Iudah was foure hundreth and seuentie thousande men that drewe sword. But the Leuites and Beniamin counted he not among them: for the Kings worde was abominable to Ioab. And God was displeased with this thing: therefore he smote Israel. Then Dauid saide vnto God, I haue sinned greatly, because I haue done this thing: but now, I beseech thee, remooue the iniquitie of thy seruant: for I haue done very foolishly. And the Lord spake vnto Gad Dauids Seer, saying, Goe and tell Dauid, saying, Thus saith the Lord, I offer thee three thinges: choose thee one of them, that I may doe it vnto thee. Either three yeeres famine, or three moneths to be destroyed before thine aduersaries, and the sworde of thine enemies to take thee, or els the sworde of the Lord and pestilence in the lande three dayes, that the Angel of the Lord may destroy throughout all the coastes of Israel: nowe therefore advise thee, what word I shall bring againe to him that sent me. And Dauid said vnto Gad, I am in a wonderfull strait. let me nowe fall into the hande of the Lord: for his mercies are exceeding great, and let me not fall into the hande of man. So the Lord sent a pestilence in Israel, and there fell of Israel seuentie thousande men. And God sent the Angel into Ierusalem to destroy it. And as he was destroying, the Lord behelde, and repented of the euill and sayde to the Angel that destroyed, It is nowe ynough, let thine hande cease. Then the Angel of the Lord stoode by the thresching floore of Ornan the Iebusite. And Dauid lift vp his eyes, and sawe the Angel of the Lord stande betweene the earth and the heauen with his sworde drawen in his hand, and stretched out towarde Ierusalem. Then Dauid and the Elders of Israel, which were clothed in sacke, fell vpon their faces. And Dauid said vnto God, Is it not I that commanded to nomber the people? It is euen I that haue sinned and haue committed euil, but these sheepe what haue they done? O Lord my God, I beseech thee, let thine hande be on me and on my fathers house, and not on thy people for their destruction. Then the Angel of the Lord commanded Gad to say to Dauid, that Dauid should goe vp, and set vp an altar vnto the Lord in the thresching floore of Ornan the Iebusite. So Dauid went vp according to the saying of Gad, which he had spoken in the Name of the Lord. And Ornan turned about, and sawe the Angel, and his foure sonnes, that were with him, hid them selues, and Ornan thresshed wheat. And as Dauid came to Ornan, Ornan looked and sawe Dauid, and went out of the thresching floore, and bowed himselfe to Dauid with his face to the grounde. And Dauid saide to Ornan, Giue me the place of thy thresching floore, that I may builde an altar therein vnto the Lord: giue it me for sufficient money, that the plague may be stayed from the people. Then Ornan saide vnto Dauid, Take it to thee, and let my lord the King do that which seemeth him good: loe, I giue thee bullockes for burnt offrings, and thresching instruments for wood, and wheat for meate offring, I giue it all. And King Dauid saide to Ornan, Not so: but I will bye it for sufficient money: for I wil not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt offrings without cost. So David gave to Ornan for that place six hundred shekels of gold by weight. And David built there an altar unto the Lord, and offered burnt offerings, and peace offerings, and called upon the Lord, and he answered him by fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt offering. And when the Lord had spoken to the Angel, he put up his sword again into his sheath. At that time when David saw that the Lord had heard him in the threshing floore of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there.

(But the Tabernacle of the Lord which Moses had made in the wildernes, and the altar of burnt offering were at that season in the hie place at Gibeon. And David could not go before it to aske counsel at God: for he was afraide of the sword of the Angel of the Lord.)

And David said, This is the house of the Lord God, and this is the altar for the burnt offering of Israel. And David commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the lande of Israel, and he set masons to hewe and polish stones to builde the house of God. David also prepared much yron for the nayles of the doores and of the gates, and for the ioynngs, and abundance of brasse passing weight, And cedar trees without number: for the Zidonians and they of Tyrus brought much cedar wood to David. And David said, Salomon my sonne is yong and tender, and we must builde an house for the Lord, magnificall, excellent and of great fame and dignitie throughout all countreysis. I will therefore nowe prepare for him. So David prepared very much before his death. Then he called Salomon his sonne, and charged him to builde an house for the Lord God of Israel. And David said to Salomon, My sonne, I purposed with my selfe to builde an house to the Name of the Lord my God, But the worde of the Lord came to me, saying, Thou hast shed much blood, and hast made great battels: thou shalt not builde an house vnto my Name: for thou hast shead much blood vpon the earth in my sight. Beholde, a sonne is borne to thee, which shalbe a man of rest, for I will giue him rest from all his enemies rounde about: therefore his name is Salomon: and I will sende peace and quietnes vpon Israel in his dayes. Hee shall builde an house for my Name, and he shalbe my sonne, and I will be his father, and I will establish the throne of his kingdome vpon Israel for euer. Nowe therefore my sonne, the Lord shall be with thee, and thou shalt prosper, and thou shalt build an house to the Lord thy God, as he hath spoken of thee. Only the Lord give thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee charge over Israel, even to keep the Law of the Lord thy God. Then thou shalt prosper, if thou take heed to observe the statutes and the judgments which the Lord commanded Moses for Israel: be strong and of good courage: fear not, neither be afraid. For behold, according to my poverty have I prepared for the house of the Lord an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand talents of silver, and of brass and of iron passing weight: for there was abundance: I have also prepared timber and stone, and thou mayest provide more thereto. Moreover thou hast workmen with thee enough, hewers of stone, and workmen for timber, and all men expert in every work. Of gold, of silver, and of brass, and of iron there is no number: Up therefore, and be doing, and the Lord will be with thee. David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying, Is not the Lord your God with you, and hath given you rest on every side? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is subdued before the Lord and before his people. Now set your hearts and your souls to seek the Lord your God, and arise, and build the Sanctuary of the Lord God to bring the Ark of the covenant of the Lord, and the holy vessels of God into the house built for the Name of the Lord.

So when David was old and full of days, he made Solomon his son King over Israel. And he gathered together all the princes of Israel with the Priestes and the Leuites. And the Leuites were numbered from ye age of thirtie yeere and aboue, and their number according to their summe was eight and thirtie thousand men. Of these four and twenty thousand were set to advance the worke of the house of the Lord, and sixe thousand were overseers and judges. And four thousand were porters, and four thousand praised the Lord with instruments which he made to praise the Lord. So David devided offices vnto them, to wit, to the sons of Leui, to Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. Of the Gershonites were Laadan and Shimei. The sons of Laadan, the chiefe was Iehiel, and Zetham and Ioeel, three. The Sonnes of Shimei, Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haram, three:
these were the chiefe fathers of Laadan. Also the sonnes of Shimei were Iahath, Zina, Ieush, and Beriah: these foure were ye sonnes of Shimei. And Iahath was the chiefe, and Zizah the seconde, but Ieush and Beriah had not many sonnes: therfore they were in the families of their father, counted but as one. The sonnes of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron aud Vzziel, foure. The sonnes of Amram, Aaron and Moses: and Aaron was separated to sanctifie the most holy place, hee and his sonnes for euer to burne incense before the Lord, to minister to him, and to blesse in his Name for euer. Moses also the man of God, and his children were named with the tribe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses were Gershom, and Eliezer, Of the sonnes of Gershom was Shebuel the chiefe. And the sonne of Eliezer was Rehabiah the chiefe: for Eliezer had none other sonnes: but the sonnes of Rehabiah were very many. The sone of Izhar was Shelomith ye chiefe. The sonnes of Hebron were Ieriah the first, Amariah the second, Iahaziel the third, and Iekamiam the fourth. The sones of Vzziel were Michah the first, and Isshiah the second. The sonnes of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. The sonnes of Mahli, Eleazar and Kish. And Eleazar dyed, and had no sonnes, but daughters, and their brethren the sonnes of Kish tooke them. The sonnes of Mushi were Mahli, and Eder, and Ierimoth, three. These were the sonnes of Leui according to the house of their fathers, euen the chiefe fathers according to their offices, according to the number of names and their summe that did the worke for the service of the house of the Lord from the age of twentie yeeres and above. For Dauid sayde, The Lord God of Israel hath giuen rest vnto his people, that they may dwell in Ierusalem for euer. And also the Leuites shall no more beare the Tabernacle and al the vessels for the service thereof. Therefore according to the last wordes of Dauid, the Leuites were nombred from twentie yeere and abowe, And their office was vnder the hand of the sonnes of Aaron, for the service of the house of the Lord in the courtes, and chambers, and in the purifiyng of all holy things, and in the worke of the service of the house of God, Both for the shewbread, and for the fine floure, for the meate offring, and for the vnleauened cakes, and for the fryed things, and for that which was rosted, and for all measures and cise, And for to stand euery morning, to giue thanks and praise to the Lord, and likewise at euen, And to offer all burnt offrings vnto the Lord, in the Sabbaths, in the moneths, and at the appointed times, according to the number and according to their custome continually before the Lord, And that they should keepe the charge of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the charge of ye holy place, and the charge of ye sonnes of Aaron their brethren in the seruice of ye house of the Lord.

These are also the diuisions of the sonnes of Aaron: The sonnes of Aaron were Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. But Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Priestes office. And Dauid distributed them, euen Zadok of the sonnes of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sonnes of Ithamar according to their offices in their ministration. And there were found more of the sonnes of Eleazar by the number of men, then of the sonnes of Ithamar. and they devided them, to wit, among the sonnes of Eleazar, sixteene heads, according to the housholde of their fathers, and among ye sonnes of Ithamar, according to the housholde of their fathers, eight. Thus they distributed them by lot the one from the other, and so the rulers of the Sanctuary and the rulers of the house of God were of the sonnes of Eleazar and of the sonnes of Ithamar. And Shemaia the sonne of Nethaneel the scribe of the Leuites, wrote them before ye King and the princes, and Zadok the Priest, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar, and before ye chiefe fathers of the Priests and of the Leuites, one familie being reserued for Eleazar, and another reserued for Ithamar. And the first lot fell to Iehoiarib, and the second to Iedaiah, The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, The fifth to Malchiiiah, the sixt to Miiamin, The seventh to Hakkoz, the eight to Abiiah, The ninth to Ieshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, The eleuenth to Eliashib, the twelft to Iakim, The thirteenth to Huppa, the fouretninth to Ieshebeab, The fiftenth to Bilgah, the sixtenth to Immer, The seuententh to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizer, The ninetenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Iehezekel, The one and twentie to Iachin, the two and twentie to Gamul, The three and twentie to Deliah, the foure and twentie to Maaziah. These were their orders according to their offices, when they entred into the house of the Lord according to their custome vnder the hande of Aaron their father, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded him. And of the sons of Levi that remained of the sons of Amram, was Shubael, of the sons of Shubael, Iedeiah, Of Rehabiah. even of the sons of Rehabiah, the first Isshiiah, Of Izhari, Shelomoth, of the sons of Shelomoth, Iahath, And his sons Ieriah the first, Amariah the second, Iahaziel the thirde, and Iekameam the fourth, The sonne of Vzziel was Michah, ye sonne of Michah was Shamir, The brother of Michah was Isshiiah, the sonne of Isshi-iah, Zechariah, The sons of Merari, were Mahli and Mushi, the sonne of Iaaiziiah was Beno, The sons of Merari of Iahaziah were Beno, and Shoham, and Zaccur and Ibri. Of Mahli came Eleazar, which had no sonnes. Of Kish. the sonne of Kish was Ierahmeel, And the sons of Mushi were Mahli, and Eder, and Ierimoth: these were sons of the Leuites after the hous-old of their fathers. And these also cast lots with their brethren the sons of Aaron before King Dauid, and Zadok and Ahim-elech and the chiefe fathers of the Priests, and of the Leuites, euen the chiefe of the families against their yonger brethren.

So Dauid and the captaines of the armie separated for the ministerie the sons of Asaph, and Heman, and Ieduthun, who should sing prophesies with harpes, with violes, and with cymbales, and their nomber was even of the men for the office of their ministerie, to wit, Of the sons of Asaph, Zaccur, and Ioseph, and Nethaniah, and Asharelah the sons of Asaph were vnder the hand of Asaph, which sang prophesies by the commission of the King. Of Ieduthun, the sons of Ieduthun, Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Ieshaiah, Ashabiah and Mattithiah, six, vnder the hands of their father: Ieduthun sang prophecies with an harpe, for to giue thankes and to praise the Lord. Of Heman, the sonsoes of Heman, Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Vzziel, Shebuel, and Ier-imoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamtiezer, Ioshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth. All these were the sons of Heman, the Kings Seer in the wordes of God to liift vp the horne: and God gaue to Heman fourtene sonses and three daughters. All these were vnder the hande of their father, singing in the house of the Lord with cymbales, violes and harpes, for the service of the house of God, and Asaph, and Ieduthun, and Heman were at the Kings commandement. So was their nomber with their brethre that were instruct in ye songs of the Lord, even of all that were cunning, two hundred four score and eight. And they cast lottes, charge against charge, as well small as great, the cunning man as the scholar. And the first lot fell to Ioseph which was of Asaph, the second, to Gedaliah, who with his brethren and his sons were two hundred and eight. The third, to Zaccur, he, his sons and his brethren were two hundred. The fourth, to Izri, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The fifth, to Nethaniah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The sixth, to Bukkiah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The seventh, to Iesharelah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The eighth, to Ieshaiah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The ninth, to Mattaniah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The tenth, to Shimei, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The eleventh, to Azareel, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The twelfth, to Ashabiah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The thirteenth, to Shubael, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The fourteenth, to Mattithiah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The fifteenth, to Ierimoth, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The sixteenth, to Hananiah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The seventeenth, to Ioshbekashah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The eighteenth, to Hanani, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The nineteenth, to Mallothi, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The twentieth, to Eliathah, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The one and twentieth, to Hothir, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The two and twentieth, to Giddalti, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The three and twentieth, to Mahazioth, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred. The four and twentieth, to Romamti-ezer, he, his sons and his brethren two hundred.

Concerning the divisions of the porters, of the Korhites, Meshelemiah the son of Kore of the sons of Asaph. And the sons of Meshelemiah, Zechariah the eldest, Iediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Iathniel the fourth, Elam the fifth, Ichohanan the sixth, and Elishoenai the seventh. And the sons of Obed Edom, Shemaiah the eldest, Iehozabad the second, Ioah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth, Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eight: for God had blessed him. And to Shemaiah his sonne, were sonnes born, that ruled in the house of their father, for they were men of might. The sons of Shemaiah were Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad and his brethren, strong men: Elihu also, and Semachiah. All these were of the sons of Obed Edom, they and their sons and their brethren mightie and strong to serve, even three score and two of Obed Edom. And of Meshelemiah sons and brethren, eighteen mightie men. And of Hosah of the sons of Merari, the sons were Shuri the chief, and (though he was not the eldest, yet his father made him the chief) Helkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, and Zechariah the fourth: all the sons and the brethren of Hosa were thirteene. Of these were the divisions of the porters of the chief men, having the charge against their brethren, to serve in the house of the Lord. And they cast lots both small and great for the house of their fathers, for every gate. And the lot on the East side fell to Shelemiah: then they cast lots for Zechariah his son a wise counsellor, and his lot came out Northward: To Obed Edom Southward, and to his sons the house of Asappim: To Shuppim and to Hosah Westward with the gate of Shallecheth by the paved street that goeth upward, ward over against ward. Eastward were sixe Levites, and Northward four a day, and Southward four a day, and toward Asappim two and two. In Parbar toward the West were four by the paved street, and two in Parbar. These are the divisions of the porters of the sons of Kore, and of the sons of Merari. And of the Levites. Ahiah was over the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the dedicate things. Of the sons of Laadan the sons of the Gershunites descending of Laadan, the chief fathers of Laadan were Gershunni and Iehieli. The sons of Iehieli were Zethan and Joel his brother, appointed over the treasures of the house of the Lord. Of the Amramites, of the Izharites, of the Hebronites and of the Ozielites. And Shebuel the son of Gershom, the sonne of Moses, a ruler over the treasures. And of his brethren which came of Eliezer, was Rehabiah his sonne, and Ieshaiah his sonne, and Ioram his sonne, and Zichri his sonne, and Shelomith his sonne. Which Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treasures of the dedicate things, which David the King, and the chief fathers, the captains over thousands, and hundreds, and the captains of the army had dedicated. (For of the battles and of the spoiles they did dedicate to maintain the house of the Lord) And all that Samuel the Seer had dedicate and Saul the sonne of Kish and Abner the sonne of Ner, and Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah, and whosoeuer had dedicate any thing, it was vnder the hand of Shelomith, and his brethren. Of the Izharites was Chenaniah and his sonnes, for the busines without ouer Israel, for officers and for Iudges. Of the Hebronites, Ashabiah and his brethren, men of actiuitie, a thousande, and seuen hundreth were officers for Israel beyonde Iorden Westward, in all the busines of the Lord, and for the seruice of the King. Among the Hebronites was Iediiiah the chiefest, euen the Hebronites by his generations according to the families. And in the fourtieth yere of the reigne of Dauid they were sought for: and there were founde among them men of actiuitie at Iazer in Gilead. And his brethren men of actiuitie, two thousand and seuen hundreth chiefe fathers, whom King Dauid made rulers ouer the Reuben-ites, and the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, for euery matter perteining to God, and for the Kings busines.

The children of Israel also after their nomber, euen the chiefe fathers and captaines of thousands and of hundreths, and their officers that serued the King by diuers courses, which came and in went out, moneth by moneth throughout al the moneths of the yeere: in euery course were foure and twentie thousand. Ouer the first course for the first moneth was Iashobeam the sonne of Zabdiel: and in his course were foure and twentie thousand. Of the sonnes of Perez was the chiefe ouer all the princes of the armies for the first moneth. And ouer the course of the sec-ond moneth was Dodai, an Ahohite, and this was his course, and Mikloth was a captaine, and in his course were foure and twentie thousand. The captaine of the thirde hoste for the third mon-eth was Benaiah the sonne of Iehoiada the chiefe Priest: and in his course were foure and twentie thousand. This Benaiah was mightie among thirtie and aboue the thirtie, and in his course was Amizabad his sonne. The fourth for the fourth moneth was Asahel the brother of Ioab, and Zebadiah his sonne after him: and in his course were foure and twentie thousand. The fift for ye fift moneth was prince Shamhuth the Izrahite: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The sixt for the sixt moneth was Ira the sonne of Ikkesh the Tekoite: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The seventh for the seventh moneth was Helez the Pelonite, of the sonnes of Ephraim: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The eight for the eight moneth was Sibbecai the Hushathite of the Zarhites: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The ninth for the ninth moneth was Abiezer the Anethothite of the sonnes of Iemini: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The tenth for the tenth moneth was Maharai, the Netophathite of the Zarhites: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The eleueth for the eleuenth moneth was Benahiah the Pirathonite of the sonnes of Ephraim: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. The twelft for the twelft moneth was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel: and in his course foure and twentie thousand. Moreover the rulers ouer the tribes of Israel were these: ouer the Reubenites was ruler, Eliezer the sonne of Zichri: ouer the Shimeonites, Shephatiah the sonne of Maachah: Ouer the Leuites, Hashabiah the sonne of Remuel: ouer them of Aharon, and Zadok: Ouer Judah, Elihu of the brethren of Davuid: ouer Issachar, Omri the sonne of Michael: Ouer Zebulun, Ishmaia the sonne of Obadiah: ouer Naphtali, Ierimoth the sonne of Azriel: Ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, Hoshea the sonne of Azazziah: ouer the halfe tribe of Manasseh, Ioel the sonne of Pedaiah: Ouer the other halfe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the sonne of Zechariah: ouer Beniamin, Iaasiel the sonne of Abner: Ouer Dan, Azariel the sonne of Ieroham. these are the princes of the tribes of Israel. But Davuid tooke not the nober of them from twentie yeere olde and vnder, because the Lord had sayde that he would increase Israel like vnto the starres of the heauens. And Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah beganne to nomber: but hee finished it not, because there came wrath for it against Israel, neither was the nomber put into the Chronicles of King Davuid. And ouer the Kings treasures was Azmaueth the sonne of Adiel: and ouer the treasures in the fieldes, in the cities and in the villages and in the towers was Iehonathan the sonne of Vzziah: And ouer the workemen in the fielde that tilled the ground, was Ezri the sonne of Chelub: And ouer them that dressed the vines, was Shimei the Ramathite: and ouer that which appertaine to the vines, and ouer the store of the wine was Sabdi the Shiphmite: And ouer the olieue trees and mulberie trees that were in the valleys, was Baal Hanan the Gederite: and ouer the store of the oyle was Ioash: And over the oxen that fed in Sharon, was Shetrai the Sharonite: and over the oxen in the valleyes was Shaphat the sonne of Adlai: And over the camels was Obil the Ishmaelite: and over the asses was Iehdeiah the Meronothite: And over the sheepe was Iaziz the Hagerite: all these were the rulers of the substance that was King Dauids. And Iehonathan Dauids vnCLE a man of counsell and vnderstanding (for he was a scribe) and Iehiel the sonne of Hachmoni were with the Kings sonnes. And Ahitophel was the Kings counseller, and Hushai the Archite the Kings friend. And after Ahitophel was Iehoiada the sonne of Benaiah and Abiathar: and captaine of the Kings armie was Ioab.

Nowe Dauid assembled all the princes of Israel: the princes of the tribes, and the captaines of the bandes that serued the King, and the captaines of thousands and the captaines of hundreths, and the rulers of all the substance and possession of the King, and of his sonnes, with the eunuches, and the mightie, and all the men of power, vnto Ierusalem. And King Dauid stoode vp vpon his feete; and saide, Heare ye me, my brethren and my people: I purposed to haue buyslt an house of rest for the Arke of the covenent of the Lord, and for a footestoole of our God, and haue made ready for the building, But God sayde vnto me, Thou shalt not buylde an house for my Name, because thou hast bene a man of warre, and hast shed blood. Yet as the Lord God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father, to be King ouer Israel for euer (for in Iudah woulde he chuse a prince, and of the house of Iudah is the house of my father, and among the sonnes of my father he delited in me to make me King ouer all Israel) So of all my sonnes (for the Lord hath giuen me many sonnes) he hath euen chosen Salomon my sonne to sit vpon the throne of the kingdome of the Lord ouer Israel. And he sayd vnto me, Salomon thy sonne, he shall build mine house and my courtes: for I haue chosen him to be my sonne, and I will be his father. I will stablish therefore his kingdome for euer, if he endeouer himselfe to do my commandements, and my iudgements, as this day. Now therefore in the sight of all Israel the Congregation of the Lord, and in the audience of our God, keepe and seeke for all the commandements of the Lord your God, that ye may possesse this good lande, and leaue it for an inheritance for your children after you for ever. And thou, Salomon my sonne, know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart, and with a willing mind: For the Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of thoughts: if thou seekest him, he will be found of thee, but if thou forsaketh him, he will cast thee off for ever. Take heed now, for the Lord hath chosen thee to build the house of the Sanctuarie: be strong therefore, and doe it. Then Dauid gave to Salomon his sonne the paterne of the porch and of the houses thereof, and of the closets thereof, and of the galleries thereof, and of the chambers thereof that are within, and of the house of the merciesate, And the paterne of all that he had in his mind for the courtes of the house of the Lord, and for all the chambers round about, for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of the dedicatory things, And for the courses of the Priestes, and of the Leuites, and for all the worke for the service of the house of the Lord, and for all the vessels of the ministerie of the house of the Lord. He gave of golde by weight, for the vessels of gold, for all the vessels of all manner of service, and all the vessels of siluer by weight, for all manner vessels of all manner of service. The weight also of golde for the candlestickes, and gold for their lampes, with the weight for every candlestick, and for the lampes thereof, and for the candlestickes of siluer by the weight of the candlestick, and the lampes thereof, according to the use of every candlestick, And the weight of the gold for the tables of shewbread, for every table, and siluer for the tables of siluer, And pure golde for the fleshhookes, and the bowles, and plates, and for basens, golde in weight for every basen, and for siluer basens, by weight for every basen. And for the altar of incense, pure golde by weight, and golde for the paterne of the chariot of the Cherubs that spread themselfes, and covered the Arke of the couenant of the Lord: All, said he, by writing sent to me by the hand of the Lord, which made me understand all the workmanship of the paterne. And Dauid said to Salomon his sonne, Be strong, and of a valiant courage and doe it: feare not, nor be afraid: for the Lord God, even my God is with thee: he will not leave thee nor forsake thee till thou hast finished all the worke for the service of the house of the Lord. Beholde also, the companies of the Priestes and the Leuites for all the service of the house of God, even they shall be with thee for the whole worke, with every free heart that is skilfull in any manner of service. The princes also and all the people will be wholly at thy commandement.

Moreover David the King said unto all the Congregation, God hath chosen Salomon mine onely sonne yong and tender, and the worke is great: for this house is not for man, but for the Lord God. Now I haue prepared with all my power for the house of my God, golde for vessels of golde, and siluer for them of siluer, and brasse for things of brasse, yron for things of yron, and wood for things of wood, and onix stones, and stones to be set, and carbuncle stones and of diuers colours, and all precious stones, and marble stones in aboundance. Moreover, because I haue delite in the house of my God, I haue of mine owne golde and siluer, which I haue giuen to the house of my God, beside all that I haue prepared for the house of the Sanctuarie, Euen three thousand talents of gold of the golde of Ophir, and seuen thousand talents of fined siluer to overlay the walles of the houses. The golde for the things of golde, and the siluer for things of siluer, and for all the worke by the handes of artificers: and who is willing to fill his hand to day vnto the Lord? So the princes of the families, and the princes of the tribes of Israel, and the captaines of thousands and of hundreths, with the rulers of the Kings worke, offred willingly, And they gaue for the service of the house of God fiue thousande talents of golde, and ten thousand pieces, and ten thousand talents of siluer, and eighteene thousand talents of brasse, and one hundreth thousand talents of yron. And they with whom precious stones were found, gaue them to the treasure of ye house of the Lord, by the hand of Iehiel the Gershunnite. And the people reioyced when they offred willingly: for they offred willingly vnto ye Lord, with a perfite heart. And Dauid the King also reioyced with great ioy. Therefore Dauid blessed the Lord before all the Congregation, and Dauid sayde, Blessed be thou, O Lord God, of Israel our father, for euer and euer. Thine, O Lord, is greatnesse and power, and glory, and victorie and praise: for all that is in heauen and in earth is thine: thine is the kingdome, O Lord, and thou excellest as head ouer all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest ouer all, and in thine hand is power and strength, and in thine hande it is to make great, and to giue strength vnto all. Now therefore our God, we thanke thee, and prayse thy glorious Name. But who am I, and what is my people, that we shoulde be able to offer willingly after this sort? for all things come of thee: and of thine owne hand we haue giuen thee. For we are stragers before thee, and soiourners, like all our fathers: our dayes are like ye shadowe vpon the earth, and there is none abiding. O Lord our God, all this abundance that we haue prepared to buylde thee an house for thine holy Name, is of thine hand and all is thine. I knowe also, my God, that thou tryest the heart, and hast pleasure in righteousnesse: I haue offred willingly in the vprightnesse of mine heart all these things: now also haue I seene thy people which are found here, to offer vnto thee willingly with ioy. O Lord God of Abraham, Izhak and Israel our fathers, keepe this for euer in the purpose, and the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their hearts vnto thee.
And giue vnto Salomon my sonne a perfit heart to keepe thy commandements, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to doe all things, and to builde the house which I haue prepared. And Dauid said to all the Congregation, Now blesse the Lord your God. And all the Congregation blessed the Lord God of their fathers, and bowed downe their heads, and worshipped the Lord and the King. And they offred sacrifices vnto the Lord, and on the morowe after that day, they offered burnt offrings vnto the Lord, euen a thousande yong bullocks, a thousand rammes and a thousand sheepe, with their drinke offrings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel. And they did eate and drinke before the Lord the same day with great ioy, and they made Salomon the sonne of Dauid King the seconde time, and anoynted him prince before the Lord, and Zadok for the hie Priest. So Salomon sate on the throne of the Lord, as King in steade of Dauid his father, and prospered: and all Israel obeyed him. And all the princes and men of power, and all the sonnes of King Dauid submitted them selues vnder King Salomon. And the Lord magnified Salomon in dignitie, in the sight of all Israel, and gaue him so glorious a kingdome, as no King had before him in Israel.
Thus Dauid the sonne of Ishai reigned ouer all Israel. And the space that he reigned ouer Israel, was fourtie yeere: seuen yeere reigned he in Hebron, and three and thirtie yeere reigned he in Ierusalem: And he dyed in a good age, full of dayes, riches and honour, and Salomon his sonne reigned in his steade. Concerning the actes of Dauid the King first and last, behold, they are written in the booke of Samuel the Seer, and in the booke of Nathan the Prophet, and in the booke of Gad the Seer, With all his reigne and his power, and times that went ouer him, and ouer Israel and ouer all the kingdomes of the earth.
The second book of the chronicles.

When Salomon the sonne of Dauiid was confirmed in his kingdom: and the Lord his God was with him, and magnified him highly. And Salomon spake vnto all Israel, to the captaines of thousands, and of hundreths, and to the iudges, and to all the gouernours in all Israel, euен the chiefe fathers. So Salomon and all the Congregation with him went to the hie place that was at Gibeon: for there was the Tabernacle of the Congregation of God which Moses the seruant of the Lord had made in the wildernes. But the Arke of God had Dauid brought vp from Kiriath-iearim, when Dauid had made preparation for it: for he had pitched a tent for it in Ierusalem. Moreouer the brasen altar that Bezaleel the sonne of Vri, the sonne of Hur had made, did hee set before the Tabernacle of the Lord: and Salomon and the Congregation sought it. And Salomon offred there before the Lord vpon the brasen altar that was in the Tabernacle of the Congregation: euuen a thousand burnt offrings offred he vpon it. The same night did God appeare vnto Salomon, and sayde vnto him, Aske what I shall giue thee. And Salomon sayde vnto God, Thou hast shewed great mercy vnto Dauid my father and hast made me to reigne in his stead. Nowe therefore, O Lord God, let thy promise vnto Dauid my father be true: for thou hast made mee King ouer a great people, like to the dust of the earth. Giue me now wisdome and knowledge, that I may go out and go in before this people: for who can iudge this thy great people? And God sayde to Salomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, treasures nor honour, nor the liues of thine enemie, neither yet hast asked long life, but hast asked for thee wisdome and knowledge that thou mightest iudge my people, ouer whome I haue made thee King, Wisdome and knowledge is granted vnto thee, and I will giue thee riches and treasures and honour, so that there hath not bene the like among the Kings which were before thee, neither after thee shall there be the like. Then Salomon came from the hie place, that was at Gibeon, to Jerusalem from before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and reigned ouer Israel. And Salomon gathered the charrets and horesemen: and he had a thousand and foure hundreth charrets, and twelue thousande horsemen, whome he placed in the charret cities, and with the King at Jerusalem. And the King gaue siluer and gold at Jerusalem as stones, and gaue cedar trees as the wilde figge trees, that are abundantly in the playne. Also Salomon had horses brought out of Egypt and fine linen: the Kings marchants receiued the fine linen for a price. They came vp also and brought out of Egypt some charret, worth sixe hundreth shekels of siluer, that is an horse for an hundreth and fiftie: and thus they brought horses to all the Kings of the Hittites, and to the Kings of Aram by their meanes.

Then Salomon determined to builde an house for the Name of the Lord, and an house for his kingdome. And Salomon tolde out seuentie thousand that bare burdens, and fouresonde men to hewe stones in the mountaine, and three thousand and sixe hundreth to oversee them. And Salomon sent to Hiram the king of Tyrus, saying, As thou hast done to Dauid my father, and didst sende him cedar trees to buylde him an house to dwell in, so do to me. Behold, I buylde an house vnto the Name of the Lord my God, to sanctifie it vnto him, and to burne sweete incense before him, and for the continuall shewbread, and for the burnt offrings of the morning and euening, on the Sabbath dayes, and in the new moneths, and in the solemne feastes of the Lord our God: this is a perpetuall thing for Israel. And the house which I buylde, is great: for great is our God aboue all gods. Who is he then that can be able to buylde him an house, when the heauen, and the heauen of heauens can not conteine him? who am I then that I should buylde him an house? but I do it to burne incense before him. Sende me nowe therefore a cunning man that can worke in golde, in siluer, and in brasse, and in yron, and in purple, and crimosin and blue silke, and that can graue in grauen worke with the cunning men that are with me in Iudah and in Jerusalem, whom Dauid my father hath prepared. Sende mee also cedar trees, firre trees and Algum-mim trees from Lebanon: for I knowe that thy seruants can skill to hewe timber in Lebanon: and beholde, my seruantes shalbe with thine, That they may prepare me timber in abundance: for the house which I doe buylde, is great and wonderfull. And behold, I will giue to thy seruants the cutters and the hewers of timber twentie thousand measures of beaten wheate, and twentie thousand measures of barley, and twentie thousand baths of wine, and twentie thousand baths of oyle. Then Huram King of Tyrus answered in writing which he sent to Salomon, Because the Lord hath loued his people, he hath made thee King ouer them. Huram sayd moreouer, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which made the heauen and the earth, and that hath giuen vnto Dauid the King a wise sonne, that hath discretion, prudence and vnderstanding to buylde an house for the Lord, and a palace for his kingdome. Now therefore I haue sent a wise man, and of vnderstanding of my father Hurams, The sonne of a woman of the daughters of Dan: and his father was a man of Tyrus, and he can skill to worke in golde, in siluer, in brasse, in yron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue silke, and in fine linen, and in crimosin, and can graue in all grauen workes, and broyder in all broydered worke that shalbe giuen him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord Dauid thy father. Now therefore the wheate and the barley, the oyle and the wine, which my lorde hath spoken of, let him send vnto his servaunts. And we wil cut wood in Lebanon as much as thou shalt neede, and will bring it to thee in raftes by the sea to Iapho, so thou mayest cary them to Ierusalem. And Salomon nombred al the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the nombbring that his father Dauid had nombred them: and they were found an hundreth and three and fiftie thousand, and sixe hundreth. And he set seuentie thousande of them to the burden, and fourescore thousande to hewe stones in the mountaine, and three thousande and sixe hundreth overseers to cause the people to worke.

So Salomon began to buylde the house of the Lord in Ierusalem, in mount Moriah which had bene declared vnto Dauid his father, in the place that Dauid prepared in the thresshing floore of Ornan the Iebusite. And he beganne to buylde in the seconde moneth and the second day, in the fourth yeere of his reigne. And these are the measures, whereon Salomon grounded to buylde the house of God: the length of cubites after the first measure was three score cubites, and the breadth twenty cubites: And the porch, that was before the length in the front of the breadth was twentie cubits, and the height was an hundreth and twen tie, and he ouerlayd it within with pure golde. And the greater house he sieled with firre tree which he ouerlayd with good golde, and graued thereon palme trees and chaines. And hee ouerlayde the house with precious stone for beautie: and the golde was gold of Paruaim. The house, I say, the beames, postes, and walles thereof and the doores thereof ouerlayde he with gold, and graued Cherubims vpon the walles. He made also the house of the most holy place: the length thereof was in the front of the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twentie cubites: and he ouerlayde it with the best golde, of sixe hundreth talents. And the weight of the nayles was fiftie shekels of golde, and hee ouerlayde the chambers with golde. And in the house of the most holy place he made two Cherubims wrought like children, and ouerlayd them with golde. And the wings of the Cherubims were twentie cubites long: the one wing was fiue cubites, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing fiue cubites, reaching to the wing of the other Cherub. Likewise the wing of ye other Cherub was fiue cubites, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing fiue cubites ioyning to the wing of the other Cherub. The wings of these Cherubims were spread abroade twentie cubites: they stoode on their feete, and their faces were toward the house. He made also the vaile of blew silke and purple, and crimosin, and fine linen, and wrought Cherubims thereon. And he made before the house two pillars of fiue and thirtie cubites hie: and the chapiter that was vpon the top of eche of them, was fiue cubites. He made also chaines for the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an hundreth pomegranates, and put them among the chaines. And he set vp the pillars before the Temple, one on the right hande and the other on the left, and called that on the right hand Iachin, and that on the left hand Boaz.

And hee made an altar of brasse twentie cubites long, and twentie cubites broade, and ten cubites hie. And he made a molten Sea of ten cubites from brim to brim, rounde in compasse, and five cubits high: and a line of thirtie cubites did compasse it about. And vnder it was ye facion of oxen, which did compasse it rounde about, tenne in a cubite compassing the Sea about: two rowes of oxen were cast when it was molten. It stoode vpon twelue oxen: three looked toward the North, and three looked towarde the West, and three looked toward the South, and three looked toward the East, and the Sea stoode about vpon them, and all their hinder parts were inwarde. And the thicennesse thereof was an hande breadth, and the brim thereof was like the worke of the brim of a cuppe with floures of lilies: it conteined three thousand baths. He made also ten caldrons, and put fiue on the right hand, and fiue on the left, to wash in them, and to clense in them that which apperteined to the burnt offrings: but the Sea was for the Priests to wash in. And he made ten candlestickes of golde (according to their forme) and put them in the Temple, fiue on the right hand, and fiue on the left. And he made ten tables, and put them in the Temple, fiue on the right hand, and fiue on the left: and he made an hundreth basens of golde. And he made the court of the Priests, and the great court and doores for the court, and ouerlayd the doores thereof with brasse. And he set the Sea on the right side Eastward toward the South. And Huram made pottes and besoms and basens, and Huram finished the worke that hee shoulde make for King Salomon for the house of God, To wit, two pillars, and the bowles and the chapiters on the top of ye two pillars, and two grates to couer the two bowles of the chapiters which were vpon the toppe of the pillars: And foure hundreth pomegranates for the two grates, two rowes of pomegranates for every grate to couer the two bowles of the chapiters, that were vpon the pillars. He made also bases, and made caldrons vpon the bases: And a Sea, and twelue bulles vnder it: Pottes also and besoms, and fleshhookes, and all these vessels made Huram his father, to King Salomon for the house of the Lord, of shining brasse. In the playne of Iorden did the King cast them in clay betweene Succoth and Zeredathah. And Salomon made al these vessels in great abundance: for the weight of brasse could not be rekoned. And Salomon made al the vessels that were for the house of God: the golden altar also and the tables, whereon the shewbread stoode. Moreouer the candlestickes, with their lampes to burne them after the maner, before the oracle, of pure golde. And the flores and the lampes, and the snuffers of gold, which was fine golde. And the hookes, and the basens, and the spoones, and the ashpons of pure golde: the entrie also of the house and doores thereof within, euen of the most holy place: and the doores of the house, to wit, of the Temple were of golde.

So was all the worke finished that Salomon made for the house of the Lord, and Salomon brought in the things that Dauid his father had dedicated, with the siluer and the golde, and all the vessels, and put them among the treasures of the house of God. Then Salomon assembled the Elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chiefe fathers of the children of Israel vnto Ierusalem to bring vp the Arke of the couenant of the Lord from the citie of Dauid, which is Zion. And all ye men of Israel as- sembled vnto the King at the feast: it was in ye seuenth moneth. And all the Elders of Israel came, and the Leuites tooke vp the Arke. And they caried vp the Arke and the Tabernacle of the Congregation: and all the holy vessels that were in the Tabernacle, those did the Priests and Leuites bring vp. And King Salomon and all the Congregation of Israel that were assem- bled vnto him, were before ye Arke, offring sheepe and bullocks, which could not be told nor nobred for multitude. So the Priests brought the Arke of the couenant of the Lord vnto his place, into the Oracle of the house, into the most Holy place, euen vnder the wings of the Cherubims. For ye Cherubims stretched out their wings over the place of the Arke, and the Cherubims couered the Arke and the barres thereof aboue. And they drewe out the barres, that the endes of the barres might bee seene out of the Arke before the Oracle, but they were not seene without: and there they are vnto this day. Nothing was in the Arke, saue the two Tables, which Moses gaue at Horeb, where the Lord made a couenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt. And when the Priestes were come out of the Sanctuarie (for all the Priests that were present, were sanctified and did not waite by course. And the Leuites the singers of all sortes, as of Asaph, of Heman, of Ieduthun, and of their sonnes and of their brethren, being clad in fine linen, stoode with cymbales, and with violes and harpes at the East ende of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty Priestes blowing with trumpets: And they were as one, blowing trumpets, and singing, and made one sounde to bee heard in praysing and thanking the Lord, and when they lift vp their voyce with trumpets and with cymbales, and with instruments of musicke, and when they praysed the Lord, singing, For he is good, because his mercie lasteth for euer) then the house, euen the house of the Lord was filled with a cloude, So that the Priests could not stand to minister, because of the cloude: for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of God.

Then Salomon sayd, The Lord hath sayde that he would dwell in the darke cloude: And I haue built thee an house to dwell in, an habitation for thee to dwell in for euer. And the King turned his face, and blessed all the Congregation of Israel (for all the Congregation of Israel stoode there) And he said, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who spake with his mouth vnto Dauid my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, saying, Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no citie of al the tribes of Israel to buylde an house, that my Name might be there, neyther chose I any man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel: But I haue chosen Ierusalem, that my Name might be there, and haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israel. And it was in the heart of Dauid my father to builde an house vnto the Name of the Lord God of Israel, But the Lord sayde to Dauid my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to buylde an house vnto my Name, thou diddest well, that thou wast so minded. Notwithstanding thou shalt not build the house, but thy sonne which shall come out of thy loynes, he shall buylde an house vnto my Name. And the Lord hath performed his worde that he spake: and I am risen vp in the roume of Dauid my father, and am set on the throne of Israel as the Lord promised, and haue built an house to the Name of the Lord God of Israel. And I haue set the Arke there, wherein is the couenant of the Lord, that he made with the children of Israel. And the King stoode before the altar of the Lord, in the presence of all the Congregation of Israel, and stretched out his hands, (For Salomon had made a brasen skaffold and set it in the middes of the court, of fiue cubites long, and fiue cubites broade, and three cubites of height, and vpon it he stoode, and kneeled downe vpon his knees before all the Congregation of Israel, and stretched out his hands toward heauen) And sayd, 14 O Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee in heauen nor in earth, which keepest covenant, and mercie vnto thy servants, that walke before thee with all their heart. Thou that hast kept with thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou hast promised him: for thou spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as appeareth this day. Therefore now Lord God of Israel, keepe with thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou hast promised him, saying, Thou shalt not want a man in my sight, that shall sit vpon the throne of Israel: so that thy sonnes take heed to their wayes, to walke in my Lawe, as thou hast walked before me. And now, O Lord God of Israel, let thy worde be verified, which thou spakest vnto thy seruant Dauid. (Is it true in deede that God will dwell with man on earth? beholde, the heauens, and the heauens of heauens are not able to conteine thee: how much more vnable is this house, which I haue buylt?) But haue thou respect to the prayer of thy seruant, and to his supplication, O Lord my God, to heare the prayer which thy seruant prayeth before thee, That thine eyes may be open toward this house day and night, euén toward the place, whereof thou hast sayde, that thou wouldest put thy Name there, that thou mayest hearken vnto the prayer, which thy seruant prayeth in this place. Heare thou therefore the supplication of thy seruant, and of thy people Israel, which they pray in this place: and heare thou in the place of thine habitation, euén in heauen, and when thou hearest, be mercifull. When a man shall sinne against his neighbour, and he laye vpon him an othe to cause him to sweare, and the swearer shall come before thine altar in this house, Then heare thou in heauen, and doe, and iudge thy servants, in recompensing the wicked to bring his way vpon his head, and in iustifying the righteous, to giue him according to his righteousnes. And when thy people Israel shalbe ouerthrowen before the enemie, because they haue sinned against thee, and turne againe, and confesse thy Name, and pray, and make supplication before thee in this house, Then heare thou in heauen, and be mercifull vnto the sinne of thy people Israel, and bring them againe vnto the land which thou gauest to them and to their fathers. When heauen shall be shut vp, and there shalbe no rayne, because they haue sinned against thee, and shall pray in this place, and confesse thy Name, and turne from their sinne, when thou doest afflict them, Then heare thou in heauen, and pardon the sinne of thy seruants, and of thy people Israel (when thou hast taught them the good way wherein they may walke) and giue rayne vpon thy lande, which that thou hast giuen vnto thy people for an inheritance. When there shalbe famine in the land, when there shalbe pestilence, blasting, or mildew, when there shall be grashopper, or caterpiller, when their enemie shall besiege them in the cities of their land, or any plague or any sickenesse, Then what prayer and supplication so euer shalbe made of any man, or of all thy people Israel, whe every one shall knowe his owne plague, and his owne disease, and shall stretch forth his hands toward this house, Heare thou then in heauen, thy dwelling place, and be merciful, and giue every man according vnto all his wayes, as thou doest knowe his heart (for thou onely knowest the hearts of the children of men) That they may feare thee, and walke in thy wayes as long as they liue in the land which thou gauest vnto our fathers. Moreouer, as touching ye stranger which is not of thy people Israel, who shall come out of a farre countrey for thy great Names sake, and thy mighty hande, and thy stretched out arme: when they shall come and pray in this house, Heare thou in heauen thy dwelling place, and doe according to all that the stranger calleth for vnto thee, that all the people of the earth may knowe thy Name, and feare thee like thy people Israel, and that they may knowe, that thy Name is called vpon in this house which I haue built. When thy people shall goe out to battell against their enemies, by the way that thou shalst send them, and they pray to thee, in the way towarde this citie, which thou hast chosen, euen toward the house which I haue built to thy Name, Then heare thee in heauen their prayer and their supplication, and judge their cause. If they sinne against thee ( for there is no man that sinneth not) and thou be angry with them and deliuer them vnto the enemies, and they take them and cary them away captiue vnto a lande farre or neere, If they turne againe to their heart in the lande whither they be caryed in captiues, and turne and pray vnto thee in the lande of their captiuitie, saying, We haue sinned, we haue transgressed and haue done wickedly, If they turne againe to thee with all their heart, and with all their soule in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house which I have built for thy Name, Then hear thou in heaven, in the place of thine habitation their prayer and their supplication, and judge their cause, and be merciful unto thy people, which have sinned against thee. Now my God, I beseech thee, let thine eyes be open, and thine ears attend unto the prayer that is made in this place. Now therefore arise, O Lord God, to come into thy rest, thou, and the ark of thy strength: O Lord God, let thy priests be clothed with salvation, and let thy saints rejoice in goodness. O Lord God, refuse not the face of thine anointed: remember the mercies promised to David thy servant.

And when Solomon had made an end of praying, fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices: and the glory of the Lord filled the house, So that the priests could not enter into the house of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord had filled the Lord’s house. And when all the children of Israel saw the fire, and the glory of the Lord come down upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the earth upon the pavement, and worshipped and praised the Lord, saying, For he is good, because his mercy lasteth for ever. Then the King and all the people offered sacrifices before the Lord. And King Solomon offered a sacrifice of two and twenty thousand bullocks, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the King and all the people dedicated the house of God. And the priests waited on their offices, and the Levites with the instruments of music of the Lord, which King David had made to praise the Lord, because his mercy lasteth for ever: when David praised God by them, the priests also blew trumpets over against them: and all they of Israel stood by. Moreover Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lord: for there he had prepared burnt offerings, and the fat of the peace offerings, because the brassen altar which Solomon had made, was not able to receive the burnt offering, and the meate offering, and the fat. And Solomon made a feast at that time of seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the riuuer of Egypt. And in the eight daie they made a solemnne assemblie: for they had made the dedication of the altar seuen daies, and the feast seuen dayes. And the three and twentieth day of the seuenth moneth, he sent the people away into their tentes, ioyous and with glad heart, because of the goodnesse that the Lord had done for Dauid and for Salomon, and for Israel his people. So Salomon finished the house of the Lord, and the Kings house, and all that came into Salomons heart to make in the house of the Lord: and he prospered in his house. And the Lord appeared to Salomon by night and said to him, I haue heard thy prayer, and haue chosen this place for my selfe to be an house of sacrifice. If I shut the heauen that there be no raine, or if I commaund the grashopper to deuoure the lande, or if I sende pestilence among my people, If my people, among whome my Name is called vpon, doe humble them selues, and praye, and seeke my presence, and turne from their wicked wayes, then will I heare in heauen, and be mercifull to their sinne, and wil heale their land: Then mine eies shalbe open and mine eares attent vnnto the prayer made in this place. For I haue nowe chosen and sanctified this house, that my Name may be there for euer: and mine eyes and mine heart shalbe there perpetuaily. And if thou wilt walke before me, as Dauid thy father walked, to doe according vnto all that I haue commanded thee, and shalt ob-servue my statutes and my judgements, Then will I stablish the throne of thy kingdome, according as I made the covenant with Dauid thy father, saying, Thou shalt not want a man to be ruler in Israel. But if ye turne away, and forsake my statutes and my commandements which I haue set before you, and shall goe and serue other gods, and worshippe them, Then will I plucke them vp out of my lande, which I haue giuen them, and this house which I haue sanctified for my Name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a prowerbe and a common talke among all people. And this house which is most hie, shall be an astonishment to every one that passeth by it, so that he shall say, Why hath the Lord done thus to this lande, and to this house?
And they shall answere, Because they forsooke the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the lande of Egypt, and haue taken holde on other gods, and haue worshipped them, and serued them, therefore hath he brought all this euill vpon them.
And after twenty yeere when Salomon had built the house of the Lord, and his owne house, Then Salomon built the cities that Huram gaue to Salomon, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there. And Salomon went to Hamath Zobah, and over-came it. And he built Tadmor in the wilderness, and repayred all the cities of store which hee built in Hamath. And he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, cities defensed with walles, gates and barres: Also Baalath, and al the cities of store that Salomon had, and all the charret cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and every pleasant place that Salomon had a minde to builde in Ierusalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the lande of his dominion. And all the people that were left to ye Hittites, and ye Amorites, and Perizzites, and the Hiuuites, and the Iebusites, which were not of Israel, But of their children which were left after them in the lande, whome the children of Israel had not consumed, euen them did Salomon make tributaries vntill this day. But of the children of Israel did Salomon make no seruantes for his worke: for they were men of warre, and his chiefe princes, and the captaines of his charrets and of his horsemen. So these were the chiefe of the officers which Salomon had, euen two hundreth and fiftie that bare rule ouer the people. Then Salomon brought vp the daughter of Pharaoh out of the citie of Dauid, into the house that he had built for her: for he saide, My wife shall not dwel in the house of Dauid King of Israel: for it is holy, because that the Arke of the Lord came vnto it. Then Salomon offered burnt offrings vnto the Lord, on the altar of the Lord, which he had built before the porche, To offer according to the commandement of Moses every day, in the Sabbaths, and in the newe moones, and in the solemnne feastes, three times in the yeere, that is, in the feast of the Unleauened bread, and in the feast of the Weekes, and in the feast of the Tabernacles. And he set the courses of the Priestes to their offices, according to the order of Dauid his father, and the Leuites in their watches, for to praise and minister before the Priestes every day, and the porters by their courses, at every gate: for so was the commandement of Dauid the man of God. And they declined not from the commandement of the King, concerning the Priests and the Leuites, touching al things, and touching the treasures. Nowe Salomon had made prouision for all the worke, from the day of the foundation of the house of the Lord, until it was finished: so the house of the Lord was perfect. Then went Salomon to Ezion-geber, and to Eloth by the sea side in the land of Edom. And Huram sent him by the hands of his servants, shippes, and servants that had knowledge of the sea: and they went with the servants of Salomon to Ophir, and brought thence four hundred and fifty talents of golde, and brought them to King Salomon.

And when the Queene of Sheba heard of the fame of Salomon, she came to proue Salomon with hard questions at Ierusalem, with a very great traine, and camels that bare sweete odours and much golde, and precious stones: and when she came to Salomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart. And Salomon declared her all her questions, and there was nothing hid from Salomon, which he declared not vnto her. Then the Queene of Sheba sawe the wisedome of Salomon, and the house that he had buylt, And the meate of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the order of his wayters, and their apparel, and his butlers, and their apparel, and his burnt offrings which he offered in the house of the Lord, and she was greatly astonied.

And she said to the King, It was a true worde which I heard in mine owne lande of thy sayings, and of thy wisedome: Howbeit I beleued not their report, vntil I came, and mine eyes had seene it: and beholde, the one halfe of thy great wisedom was not told me: for thou exceedest the fame that I heard. Happie are thy men, and happie are these thy servants, which stande before thee alway, and heare thy wisedome. Blessed be the Lord thy God, which loued thee, to set thee on his throne as King, in the steade of the Lord thy God: because thy God loueth Israel, to establish it for euer, therefore hath he made thee King ouer them, to execute judgement and justice. Then she gaue the King sixe score talents of golde, and of sweete odours exceeding much and precious stones: neither was there such sweete odours since, as the Queene of Sheba gaue vnto King Salomon. And the servants also of Huram, and the servants of Salomon which brought golde from Ophir, brought Alsummim wood and precious stones. And the King made of the Alsummim wood staires in the house of the Lord, and in the Kings house, and harpes and violes for singers: and there was no such scene before in the lande of Iudah. And King Salomon gaue to the Queuee of Sheba every pleasant thing that she asked, besides for that which she had brought vnto the King: so she returned and went to her owne countrey, both she, and her seruants. Also the weight of golde that came to Salomon in one yeere, was sixe hundreth three score and sixe talents of golde. Besides that which chapmen and marchants brought: and all the Kings of Arabia, and the princes of the countrey brought golde and siluer to Salomon. And King Salomon made two hundreth targets of beaten golde, and sixe hundreth shekels of beaten golde went to one target. And three hundreth shieldes of beaten golde: three hundreth shekels of golde went to one shielde, and the King put them in the house of the wood of Lebanon. And the King made a great throne of yuorie and overlaid it with pure golde. And the throne had sixe steppes, with a footestoole of golde fastened to the throne, and stayes on either side on the place of the seate, and two lyons standing by the stayes. And twelve lyons stood there on the sixe steps on either side: there was not the like made in any kingdome. And all King Salomons drinking vessels were of golde, and all the vessels of the house of the wood of Lebanon were of pure gold: for siluer was nothing esteemed in ye dayes of Salomon. For the Kings ships went to Tarshish with the seruants of Huram, euery three yeere once came the ships of Tarshish, and brought golde, and siluer, yuorie, and apes, and peacockes. So King Salomon excelled all the Kings of the earth in riches and wisedome. And all the Kings of the earth sought the presence of Salomon, to heare his wisedome that God had put in his heart. And they brought euery man his present, vessels of siluer, and vessels of golde, and raiment, armour, and sweet odours, horses, and mules, from yeere to yeere. And Salomon had foure thousand stalles of horses, and charets, and twelue thousand horsmen, whom he bestowed in the charet cities, and with the King at Ierusalem. And he reigned ouer all the Kings from the Riuer euen vnto the land of the Philistims, and to the border of Egypt. And the King gaue siluer in Ierusalem, as stones, and gaue cedar trees as the wilde fig trees, that are aboundant in the plaine. And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egypt, and out of all landes. Concerning the rest of the actes of Salomon first and last, are they not written in the booke of Nathan the Prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahiiah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Ieedo the Seer against Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat? And Salomon reigned in Jerusalem ouer all Israel fourtie yeeres. And Salomon slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid his father: and Rehoboam his sonne reigned in his steade.

Then Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Sheche came all Israel to make him king. And when Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat heard it, (which was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of Salomon the King) he returned out of Egypt. And they sent and called him: so came Ieroboam and all Israel, and communed with Rehoboam, saying, Thy father made our yoke grieuous: nowe therefore make thou the grieuous seruittude of thy father, and his sore yoke, that he put vpon vs, lighter, and we will serue thee. And he sayde to them, Depart yet three dayes, then come againe vnto me. And the people departed. And King Rehoboam tooke counsel with the olde men that had stande before Salomon his father, while hee yet liued, saying, What counsell giue ye that I may answere this people? And they spake vnto him, saying, If thou be kinde to this people, and please them, and speake louing words to them, they will be thy servants for euer. But hee left the counsel of the ancient men that they had giuen him, and tooke counsell of the yong men that were brought vp with him, and waited on him. And he sayd vnto them, What counsel giue ye, that we may answere this people, which haue spoken to mee, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put vpon vs, lighter? And the yong men that were brought vp with him, spake vnto him, saying, Thus shall thou answere the people that spake to thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heauie, but make thou it lighter for vs: thus shalt thou say vnto them, My least part shalbe bigger then my fathers loines. Now whereas my father did burden you with a grieuous yoke, I will yet increase your yoke: my father hath chastised you with roddes, but I will correct you with scourges. Then Ieroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the King had appointed saying, Come againe to me the third day. And the King answered them sharply: and King Rehoboam left the counsel of the ancient men, And spake to them after ye counsell of the yong men, saying, My father made your yoke grievous, but I will increase it: my father chastised you with rods, but I will correct you with scourges. So the king hearkened not unto the people: for it was the ordinance of God that the Lord might performe his saying, which hee had spoken by Ahiiiah the Shilonite to Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat. So when all Isarael sawe that the King would not heare them, the people answered the King, saying, What portion have we in David? for we have none inheritance in the sonue of Ishai. O Israel, every man to your tents: now see to thine owne house, David. So all Israel departed to their tents. Howbeit Rehoboam reigned over the children of Israel, that dwelt in the cities of Iudah. Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died: then King Rehoboam made speede to get him vp to his charret, to flee to Jerusalem. And Israel rebelled against the house of David vnto this day.

And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Iudah and Beniamin nine score thousande chosen men of warre to fight against Israel, and to bring the kingdome againe to Rehoboam. But the worde of the Lord came to She-maiah the man of God, saying, Speake vnto Rehoboam, the sonne of Salomon King of Iudah, and to all Israel that are in Iudah, and Beniamin, saying, Thus sayth the Lord, Ye shall not goe vp, nor fight against your brethren: returne euery man to his house: for this thing is done of me. They obeyed therefore the word of the Lord, and returned from going against Ieroboam. And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and buylt strong cities in Iudah. Hee buylt also Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa, And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam, And Gath, and Maresha, and Ziph, And Adoraim, and Lachish, and Azekah, And Zo- rah, and Aialon, and Hebron, which were in Iudah and Beniamin, strong cities. And he repaired the strong holdes and put capaines in them, and store of vitaile, and oyle and wine. And in all cities he put shieldes and speares, and made them exceeding strong: so Iudah and Beniamin were his. And the Priests and the Leuites that were in all Israel, resorted vnto him out of all their coastes. For the Leuites left their suburbes and their possession, and came to Iudah and to Jerusalem: for Ieroboam and his sonnes had cast them out from ministring in the Priestes office vnto the Lord. And he ordeyned him Priests for the hie places, and for the deuilis and for the calues which he had made. And after the Leuites there came to Ierusalem of all the tribes of Israel, such as set their heartes to seeke the Lord God of Israel, to offer vnto the Lord God of their fathers. So they strengthened the kingdome of Iudah, and made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon mightie, three yeere long: for three yeere they walked in the way of Dauid and Salomon. And Rehoboam tooke him Mahalath ye daughter of Ierimoth the sonne of Dauid to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sonne of Ishai, Which bare him sonnes Ieush, and Shemariah, and Zaham. And after her he tooke Maakah ye daughter of Absalom which bare him Abiiah, and Atthai, and Ziza, and Shelomith. And Rehoboam loued Maakah ye daughter of Absalom aboue all his wiues and his concubines: for he tooke eighteene wiues, and three score concubines, and begate eyght and twentie sonnes, and three score daughters. And Rehoboam made Abiiah the sonne of Maakah the chiefe ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him King. And he taught him: and dispersed all his sonnes throughout all the countreis of Iudah and Beniamin vnto every strong citie: and hee gaue them aboundance of vitaile, and desired many wiues.

And when Rehoboam had established the kingdome and made it strong, hee forsooke the Lawe of the Lord, and all Israel with him. Therefore in the fift yeere of King Rehoboam, Shishak the King of Egypt came vp against Ierusalem (because they had transgressed against the Lord) With twelue hundreth charets, and three score thousande horsemen, and the people were without nomber, that came with him from Egypt, euen the Lubims, Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians. And he tooke the strong cities which were of Iudah, and came vnto Ierusalem. Then came Shemaiah the Prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Iudah, that were gathered together in Hierusalem, because of Shishak, and sayde vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord, Ye haue forsaken me, therefore haue I also left you in the handes of Shishak. Then the princes of Israel, and the King humbled themselves, and sayde, The Lord is iust. And when the Lord sawe that they humbled themselves, the worde of the Lord came to Shemaiah, saying, They haue humbled theselues, therefore I will not destroy them, but I will sende them deliuerance shortly, and my wrath shall not bee powred out vpon Ierusalem by the hand of Shishak. Neuerthelesse they shalbe his servantes: so shall they knowe my service, and the service of the kingdomes of the earth. Then Shishak King of Egypt came vp against Ierusalem, and tooke the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the Kings house he tooke euen all, and hee caried away the shields of golde, which Salomon had made. In stead whereof King Rehoboam made shieldes of brasse, and committed them to the handes of the chiefe of the garde, that wayted at the doore of the Kings house. And when the King entred into the house of the Lord, the garde came and bare them and brought them againe vnto the garde chamber. And because hee humbled himselfe, the wrath of the Lord turned from him, that hee woulde not destroy all together. And also in Iudah the things prospered. So King Rehoboam was strong in Ierusalem and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and fourtie yere olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned seuenteeone yeres in Ierusalem, the citie which the Lord had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his Name there. And his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonitesse. And he did euill: for hee prepared not his heart to seeke the Lord. The actes also of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the booke of Shemaia the Prophet, and Iddo the Seer, in rehearsing the genealogie? and there was warre alway betweene Rehoboam and Ieroboam. And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the citie of Dauid, and Abiiah his sonne reigned in his stead.

In the eyghteenth yeere of King Ieroboam began Abiiah to reigne ouer Iudah. He reigned three yere in Ierusalem: (his mothers name also was Michaiah the daughter of Vriel of Gibea) and there was warre betweene Abiiah and Ieroboam. And Abiiah set the battel in aray with the armie of valiant men of warre, euen foure hundreth thousand chosen men. Ieroboam also set the battell in aray against him with eight hundreth thousande chosen men which were strong and valiant. And Abiiah stood vp vpvn mount Zemeraim, which is in mount Ephraim, and sayde, O Ieroboam, and all Israel, heare you me, Ought you not to know that the Lord God of Israel hath giuen the kingdome ouer Israel to Dauid for euer, euen to him and to his sones by a couenant of salt? And Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat the servuant of Salomon the sonne of Dauid is risen vp, and hath rebelled against his lord: And there are gathered to him vayne men and wicked, and made themselves strong against Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon: for Rehoboam was but a childe and tender hearted, and coulde not resist them. Now therefore ye thinke that yee be able to resist against the kingdome of the Lord, which is in the handes of the sonnes of Dauid, and ye bee a great multitude, and the golden calues are with you which Ieroboam made you for gods. Haue ye not driuen away the Priestes of the Lord the sonnes of Aaron and the Leuites, and haue made you Priests like the people of other countreis? whosoeuer commeth to consecrate with a yong bullocke and seuen rams, the same may be a Priest of them that are no gods. But wee belong vnsto the Lord our God, and haue not forsaken him, and the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron minister vnsto the Lord, and the Leuites in their office. And they burne vnsto the Lord euery morning and euery euening burnt offerings and sweete incense, and the brede is set in order vpon the pure table, and the candlesticke of golde with the lampes thereof, to burne euery euening: for we keepe the watch of the Lord our God: but ye haue forsaken him. And behold, this God is with vs, as a captaine, and his Priests with the sounding trumpets, to crie an alarume against you. O yee children of Israel, fight not against the Lord God of your fathers: for ye shall not prosper. But Ieroboam caused an ambushment to compasse, and come behind them, when they were before Iudah, and the ambushment behinde them. Then Iudah looked, and beholde, the battel was before and behinde them, and they cried vnto the Lord, and the Priestes blewe with the trumpets. And the men of Iudah gaue a shoute: and euen as the men of Iudah shouted, God smote Ieroboam and also Israel before Abiiah and Iudah. And the children of Israel fledde before Iudah, and God deliuered them into their hande. And Abiiah and his people slewe a great slaughter of them, so that there fel downe wounded of Israel fiue hundreth thousand chosen men. So the children of Israel were brought vnnder at that time: and the children of Iudah preuailed, because they stayed vnpon the Lord God of their fathers. And Abiiah pursued after Ieroboam, and tooke cities from him, euem Beth-el, and the villages thereof, and Ieshanah with her villages, and Ephron with her villages. And Ieroboam recovered no strength againe in the dayes of Abiaiah, but the Lord plagued him, and he dyed. So Abiaiah waxed mighty, and married foureteene wiues, and begate two and twentie sonnes, and sixtene daughters. The rest of the actes of Abiaiah and his maners and his sayings are written in the storie of the Prophet Iddo.

So Abiaiah slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid, and Asa his sonne reigned in his steade: in whose dayes the lande was quiet ten yeere. And Asa did that was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God. For he tooke away the altars of the strange gods and the hie places, and brake downe the images, and cut downe the groues, And commanded Iudah to seeke the Lord God of their fathers, and to doe according to the Lawe and the comandement. And he tooke away out of all the cities of Iudah the hie places, and the images: therefore the kingdome was quiet before him. He built also strong cities in Iudah, because the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeeres: for the Lord had giuen him rest. Therefore he saide to Iudah, Let vs builde these cities and make walles about, and towers, gates, and barres, whiles the lande is before vs: because we haue sought the Lord our God, we haue sought him, and he hath giuen vs rest on euery side: so they built and prospered. And Asa had an armie of Iudah that bare shieldes and speares, three hundreth thousande, and of Beniamin that bare shieldes and drewe bowes, two hundreth and foure score thousande: all these were valiant men. And there came out against them Zerah of Ethiopia with an hoste of ten hundreth thousande, and three hundreth charets, and came vnto Mare-shah. Then Asa went out before him, and they set the battell in aray in the valley of Zephathah beside Mareshah. And Asa cryed vnto the Lord his God, and saide, Lord, it is nothing with thee to helpe with many, or with no power: helpe vs, O Lord our God: for we rest on thee, and in thy Name are we come against this multitude: O Lord, thou art our God, let not man preuaile against thee. So the Lord smote the Ethiopians before Asa and before Iudah, and the Ethiopians fled. And Asa and the people that was with him, pursued them vnto Gerar. And the Ethiopians hoste was overthrown, so that there was no life in them: for they were destroyed before the Lord and before his hoste: and they caryed away a mightie great spoyle. And they smote all the cities rounde about Gerar: for the feare of the Lord came vpon them, and they spoyled all the cities, for there was exceeding much spoyle in them. Yea, and they smote the tents of cattel, and carried away plentie of sheepe and camels, and returned to Ierusalem.

Then the Spirite of God came vpon Azariah the sonne of Obed. And he went out to meete Asa, and said vnto him, O Asa, and all Iudah, and Beniamin, heare ye me. The Lord is with you, while ye be with him: and if ye seeke him, he wil be founde of you, but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you. Nowe for a long season Israel hath bene without the true God, and without Priest to teach and without Lawe. But whosoeuer returned in his affliction to the Lord God of Israel, and sought him, he was founde of them. And in that time there was no peace to him, that did goe out and goe in: but great troubles were to all the inhabitants of the earth. For nation was destroyed of nation, and citie of citie: for God troubled them with all aduersitie. Be ye strong therefore, and let not your handes be weake: for your worke shall haue a rewarde. And when Asa heard these wordes, and the prophesie of Obed the Prophet, he was encouraged, and tooke away the abominations out of all the lande of Iudah, and Beniamin, and out of the cities which he had taken of mount Ephraim, and he renued the altar of the Lord, that was before the porche of the Lord. And he gathered all Iudah and Beniamin, and the strangers with them out of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for there fell many to him out of Israel, when they sawe that the Lord his God was with him. So they assembled to Ierusalem in the third moneth, in the fifteenth yere of the reigne of Asa. And they offred vnto the Lord the same time of the spoyle, which they had brought, euen seuen hundreth bullockes, and seuen thousande sheepe. And they made a couenant to seeke the Lord God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their soule. And whosoeuer will not seeke the Lord God of Israel, shalbe slaine, whether he were small or great, man or woman. And they swore vnto the Lord with a loude voyce, and with shouting and with trumpets, and with cornets. And all Iudah reioyced at the othe: for they had sworne vnto the Lord with all their heart, and sought him with a whole desire, and he was founde of them. And the Lord gaue them rest rounde about. And King Asa deposed Maachah his mother from her regencie, because she had made an idole in a groue: and Asa brake downe her idole, and stamped it, and burnt it at the brooke Kidron. But the hie places were not taken away out of Israel: yet the heart of Asa was perfit all his dayes. Also he brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicate, and that he had dedicate, siluer, and golde, and vessels. And there was no warre vnsto the fiue and thirtieth yeere of the reigne of Asa.

In the sixe and thirtieth yeere of the reigne of Asa came Baasha king of Israel vp against Iudah, and built Ramah to let none passe out or goe in to Asa king of Iudah. Then Asa brought out siluer and gold out of the treasures of the house of the Lord, and of the Kings house, and sent to Benhadad King of Aram that dwelt at Damascus, saying, There is a covenant betweene me and thee, and betweene my father and thy father: behold, I haue sent thee siluer and golde: come, breake thy league with Baasha King of Israel that hee may depart from me. And Benhadad hearkened vnto King Asa, and sent the captaines of the armies which hee had, against the cities of Israel. And they smote Iion, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store cities of Naphtali. And when Baasha heard it, he left building of Ramah, and let his worke cease. Then Asa the King tooke all Iudah, and caryed away the stones of Ramah and the tymber thereof, wherewith Baasha did builde, and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah. And at that same time Hanani the Seer came to Asa King of Iudah, and saide vnto him, Because thou hast rested vpon the king of Aram, and not rested in the Lord thy God, therefore is the hoste of the King of Aram escaped out of thine hande. The Ethiopians and the Lubims, were they not a great hoste with charrets and horsemen, exceeding many? yet because thou diddest rest vpon the Lord, he deliuered them into thine had. For the eyes of the Lord beholde all the earth to shewe him selfe strong with them that are of perfite heart towarde him: thou hast then done foolishly in this: therefore from henceforth thou shalt haue warres. Then Asa was wroth with the Seer, and put him into a prison: for he was displeased with him, because of this thing. And Asa oppressed certaine of the people at the same And behold, the acts of Asa first and last, loe, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Iudah and Israel. And Asa in the nine and thirtieth yeere of his reigne was diseased in his feete, and his disease was extreme: yet he sought not the Lord in his disease, but to the Phisicions. So Asa slept with his fathers, and dyed in the one and fourtieth yeere of his reigne. And they buryed him in one of his sepulchres, which he had made for him selfe in the citie of Dauid, and layed him in the bed, which they had filled with sweete odours and diuers kindes of spices made by the arte of the apoticarie: and they burnt odours for him with an exceeding great fire.

And Iehosphat his sonne reigned in his steade, and preuailed against Israel. And he put garisons in all the strong cities of Iudah, and set bandes in the lande of Iudah and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken. And the Lord was with Iehoshaphat, because he walked in the first wayes of his father Dauid, and sought not Baalim, But sought the Lord God of his father, and walked in his commandements, and not after the trade of Israel. Therefore the Lord stablished the kingdome in his hande, and all Iudah brought presents to Iehoshaphat, so that he had of riches and honour in abundance. And he lift vp his heart vnto the wayes of the Lord, and he tooke away moreouer the hie places and the groues out of Iudah. And in the thirde yere of his reigne he sent his princes, Ben-hail, and Obadiah, and Zechariah, and Nethaneel, and Michaiah, that they should teach in the cities of Iudah, And with them Leuites, Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Iehonathan, and Adoniiah, and Tobiiah, and Tob-adoniiah, Leuites, and with the Elishama and Iehoram Priestes. And they taught in Iudah, and had the booke of the Lawe of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Iudah, and taught the people. And the feare of the Lord fell vpon all the kingdomes of ye lands that were round about Iudah, and they fought not against Iehoshaphat. Also some of the Philistims brought Iehoshaphat giftes and tribute siluer, and the Arabians brought him flockes, seuen thousande and seuen hundreth rammes, and seuen thousande and seuen hundreth hee goates. So Iehoshaphat prospered and grewe vp on hie: and he built in Iudah palaces and cities of store. And he had great workes in the cities of Judah, and men of warre, and valiant men in Jerusalem. And these are the numbers of them after the house of their fathers, In Judah were captains of thousands, Adnah the captain, and with him of valiant men three hundred thousand. And at his hand Iehohanan a captain, and with him two hundred and fourscore thousand. And at his hand Amasiah the son of Zichri, which willingly offered him selfe vnto the Lord, and with him two hundred thousand valiant men. And of Benjamin, Eliada a valiant man, and with him armed men with bowe and shielde two hundred thousand. And at his hand Iehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourscore thousand armed to the warre. These waited on the King, besides those which the King put in the strong cities throughout all Judah.

And Iehoshaphat had riches and honour in abundance, but he was joyned in affinitie with Ahab. And after certaine yeeres he went downe to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab slew sheepe and oxen for him in great number, and for the people that he had with him, and entised him to goe vp vnto Ramoth Gilead. And Ahab King of Israel saide vnto Iehoshaphat King of Judah, Wilt thou goe with mee to Ramoth Gilead? And he answered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and wee will ioyne with thee in the warre. And Iehoshaphat sayde vnto the King of Israel, Aske counsel, I pray thee, at the worde of the Lord this day. Therefore the King of Israel gathered of Prophets foure hundred men, and sayde vnto them, Shall we goe to Ramoth Gilead to battel, or shall I cease? And they sayd, Go vp: for God shall deliuer it into the Kings hand. But Iehoshaphat sayde, Is there heere neuer a Prophet more of the Lord that wee might inquire of him? And the King of Israel sayd vnto Iehoshaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may aske counsell of the Lord, but I hate him: for he doeth not prophesie good vnto me, but alway euil: it is Michaiah the sonne of Imla. Then Iehoshaphat said, Let not the King say so. And the King of Israel called an eunuche, and said, Call quickly Michaiah the sonne of Imla. And the King of Israel, and Iehoshaphat King of Judah sate either of them on his throne clothed in their apparel: they sate euuen in the threshing floore at the entring in of the gate of Samaria: and all the Prophets prophesied before them. And Zidkiah ye sonne of Chenaanah made him hornes of yron, and sayde, Thus sayth the Lord, With these shalt thou push the Aramites vntill thou hast consumed them. And all the Prophets prophesied so, saying, Go vp to Ramoth Gilead, and prosper: for the Lord shall deliuer it into the hand of the King.
And the messenger that went to call Michaiah, spake to him, saying, Beholde, the wordes of the Prophets declare good to the King with one accord: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and speake thou good. And Michaiah saide, As the Lord liueth, whatsoever my God saith, that will I speake.
So he came to the King, and the King said vnto him, Michaiah, shall we go to Ramoth Gilead to battel, or shall I leaue off?
And he said, Goe yee vp, and prosper, and they shalbe deliuered into your hand. And the King sayd to him, Howe oft shall I charge thee, that thou tell mee nothing but the trueth in the Name of the Lord? Then he said, I saw al Israel scattered in the mountaines, as sheepe that haue no shepheard: and the Lord sayd, These haue no Master: let them returne euery man to his house in peace. And the King of Israel sayde to Iehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not prophesie good vnto me, but euill? Againe hee saide, Therefore heare ye the worde of the Lord: I sawe the Lord sit vpon his throne, and all the hoste of heauen standing at his right hand, and at his left. And the Lord sayd, Who shall perswade Ahab King of Israel, that he may go vp, and fall at Ramoth Gilead? And one spake and said thus, and another said that. Then there came forth a spirit and stoode before the Lord, and said, I will perswade him.
And the Lord said vnto him, Wherein? And he saide, I will goe out, and bee a false spirit in the mouth of all his Prophets.
And hee said, Thou shalt perswade, and shalt also preuaile: goe forth and do so. Now therefore behold, the Lord hath put a false spirit in the mouth of these thy Prophets, and the Lord hath determined euill against thee. Then Zidkiah the sonne of Chenaanah came neere, and smote Michaiah vpon the cheeke, and sayde, By what way went the Spirit of the Lord from me, to speake with thee? And Michaiah saide, Behold, thou shalt see that day when thou shalt goe from chamber to chamber to hide thee. And the King of Israel sayde, Take ye Michaiah, and cary him to Amon the gouernour of the citie, and to Ioash the Kings sonne, And say, Thus saith the King, Put this man in the prison house, and feede him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction vntil I returne in peace. And Michaiah said, If thou returne in peace, the Lord hath not spoken by me. And he saide, Heare, all ye people. So the King of Israel and Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah went vp to Ramoth Gilead. And the King of Israel said vnto Iehoshaphat, I will change my selfe, and enter into the battel: but put thou on thine apparel. So the King of Israel changed himselfe, and they went into the battel. And the King of Aram had commanded the captaines of the charets that were with him, saying, Fight you not with small, nor great, but against the King of Israel onely. And when the captaines of the charets saw Iehoshaphat, they sayde, It is the King of Israel: and they compassed about him to fight. But Iehoshaphat cryed, and the Lord helped him and moued them to depart from him. For when the captaines of the charets saw that hee was not the King of Israel, they turned backe from him. Then a certaine man drewe a bowe mightily, and smote the King of Israel betweene the ioyntes of his brigandine: Therefore he saide to his charetman, Turne thine hand, and carie mee out of the host: for I am hurt. And the battel increased that day: and the King of Israel stood still in his charet against the Aramites vntil euen, and dyed at the time of the sunne going downe.

And Iehoshaphat the King of Iudah returned safe to his house in Ierusalem. And Iehu the sonne of Hanani the Seer went out to meete him, and said to King Iehoshaphat, Wouldest thou helpe the wicked, and loue them that hate the Lord? therefore for this thing the wrath of the Lord is vpon thee. Neuertheles good things are found in thee, because thou hast taken away ye groues out of the land, and hast prepared thine heart to seeke God. So Iehoshaphat dwelt at Ierusalem, and returned and went through the people from Beer-sheba to mount Ephraim, and brought them againe vnto the Lord God of their fathers. And hee set iudges in the lande throughout all the strong cities of Iudah, citie by citie. And said to the iudges, Take heede what ye doe: for yee execute not the judgements of man, but of the Lord, and he will be with you in the cause and judgement. Wherefore nowe let the feare of the Lord be vpon you: take heede, and do it: for there is no iniquitie with the Lord our God, neither respect of persons, nor receiuing of reward. Moreouer in Ierusalem did Iehoshaphat set of the Leuites, and of the Priests and of the chiefe of the families of Israel, for the judgement and cause of the Lord: and they returned to Ierusale. And he charged them, saying, Thus shall yee doe in the feare of the Lord faithfully and with a perfite heart. And in euery cause that shall come to you of your brethren that dwel in their cities, betweene blood and blood, betweene law and precept, statutes and judgements, ye shall iudge them, and admonish them that they trespasse not against the Lord, that wrath come not vpon you and vpon your brethren. This shall ye do and trespasse not.

And behold, Amariah the Priest shalbe the chiefe ouer you in all matters of the Lord, and Zebadiah ye sonne of Ishmael, a ruler of the house of Iudah, shalbe for al the Kings affaires, and the Leuites shalbe officers before you. Bee of courage, and doe it, and the Lord shalbe with the good.

After this also came the children of Moab and the children of Ammon, and with them of the Ammonites against Iehoshaphat to battell. Then there came that tolde Iehoshaphat, saying, There commeth a great multitude against thee from beyonde the Sea, out of Aram: and beholde, they bee in Hazzon Tamar, which is En-gedi. And Iehoshaphat feared, and set him selfe to seeks the Lord, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Iudah.

And Iudah gathered them selues together to aske counsel of the Lord: they came euen out of all the cities of Iudah to inquire of the Lord, And Iehoshaphat stoode in the Congregation of Iudah and Ierusalem in the house of the Lord before the new court, And saide, O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heauen? and reignest not thou on all the kingdomes of the heathen? and in thine hande is power and might, and none is able to withstand thee. Diddest not thou our God cast out ye inhabitants of this lande before thy people Israel, and gauest it to the seede of Abraham thy friende for euer? And they dwelt therein, and haue built thee a Sanctuarie therein for thy Name, saying, If euill come vpon vs, as the sworde of judgement, or pestilence, or famine, we will stande before this house and in thy presence (for thy name is in this house) and will crie vnto thee in our tribulation, and thou wilt heare and helpe. And now beholde, the children of Ammon and Moab, and mount Seir, by whome thou wouldest not let Israel goe, when they came out of the land of Egypt: but they turned aside from them, and destroyed them not: Behold, I say, they reward vs, in comming to cast vs out of thine inheritance, which thou hast caused vs to inherit. O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for there is no strength in vs to stand before this great multitude that commeth against vs, neither doe wee knowe what to doe: but our eyes are toward thee. And all Iudah stood before the Lord with their yong ones, their wiues, and their children. And Iahaziel the sonne of Zechariah the sonne of Benaiah, the sonne of Ieiel, the sonne of Mattaniah, a Leuite of the sonnes of Asaph was there, vpon whom came the Spirite of ye Lord, in the middes of the Congregation. And he said, Hearken ye, all Iudah, and ye inhabitantes of Ierusalem, and thou, King Iehoshaphat: thus saith the Lord vnto you, Feare you not, neither be afraide for this great multitude: for the battel is not yours, but Gods. To morowe goe yee downe against them: beholde, they come vp by the cleft of Ziz, and ye shall finde them at the ende of the brooke before the wildernes of Ieruel. Ye shall not neede to fight in this battell: stand still, moue not, and behold the salvation of the Lord towardes you: O Iudah, and Ierusalem, feare ye not, neither be afraid: to morow goe out against them, and the Lord wilbe with you. Then Iehoshaphat bowed downe with his face to the earth, and all Iudah and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell downe before the Lord, worshipping the Lord. And the Leuites of the children of the Kohathites and of the childre of the Corhites stood vp to prayse the Lord God of Israel with a loude voyce on hie. And when they began to shoute, and to prayse, the Lord layed ambushments against the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come against Iudah, and they slewe one another. For the children of Ammon and Moab rose against the inhabitants of mount Seir, to slay and to destroy them and when they had made an end of the inhabitantes of Seir, euery one helped to destroy another. And when Iudah came towarde Mizpah in the wildernes, they looked vnto the multitude: and behold, the carkeises were fallen to the earth, and none escaped. And when Iehoshaphat and his people came to take away the spoyle of them, they founde among them in abundance both of substance and also of bodies laden with precious iewels, which they tooke for themselues, till they could cary no more: they were three dayes in gathering of the spoyle: for it was much. And in the fourth day they assembled themselues in the valley of Berachah: for there they blessed the Lord: therefore they called the name of that place, The valley of Berachah vnto this day. Then euery man of Iudah and Ierusalam returned with Iehoshaphat their head, to goe againe to Ierusalam with ioy: for the Lord had made them to reioyce ouer their enemies. And they came to Ierusalam with viols and with harpes, and with trumpets, euen vnto the house of the Lord.
And the feare of God was vpon all the kingdomes of the earth, wh** they had heard that the Lord had fought against ye enemies of Israel. So the kingdom of Iehoshaphat was quiet, and his God gaue him rest on euery side. And Iehoshaphat reigned ouer Iudah, and was fiue and thirtie yeere olde, when he began to reigne: and reigned fiue and twentie yeere in Ierusalam, and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi. And he walked in the way of Asa his father, and departed not therefrom, doing that which was right in the sight of the Lord. Howbeit the hie places were not taken away: for the people had not yet prepared their hearts vnto the God of their fathers. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iehoshaphat first and last, beholde, they are written in the booke of Iehu the sonne of Hanani, which is mentioned in the booke of the kings of Israel. Yet after this did Iehoshaphat King of Iudah ioyne himselfe with Ahaziah King of Israel, who was giuen to do euill. And he ioyned with him, to make ships to go to Tarshish: and they made the shippes in Ezion Gaber. Then Eliezer ye sonne of Dodaubah of Mare-shah prophecied against Iehoshaphat, saying, Because thou hast ioyned thy selwe with Ahaziah, the Lord hath broken thy workes. and the shippes were broken, that they were not able to go to Tarshish.

Iehoshaphat then slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Iehoram his son reigned in his stead. And he had brethren the sons of Iehoshaphat, Azariah, and Iehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah. All these were the sons of Iehoshaphat King of Israel. And their father gave them great gifts of silver and of gold, and of precious things, with strong cities in Judah, but the kingdom gave he to Iehoram: for he was the eldest. And Iehoram rose vp upon the kingdom of his father, and made himselfe strong, and slew all his brethren with the sword, and also of the princes of Israel. Iehoram was two and thirty yeere old, when he began to reign, and he reigned eight yeere in Jerusalem. And he walked in the way of the Kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done: for he had the daughter of Ahab to wife, and he wrought euill in the eyes of the Lord. Howbeit the Lord would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David, and because he had promised to give a light to him, and to his sonnes for euer. In his dayes Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah, and made a King over them. And Iehoram went forth with his princes, and all his charrets with him: and hee rose vp by night, and smote Edom, which had compassed him in, and the captains of the charrets. But Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah unto this day. then did Libnah rebell at the same time from under his hand, because he had forsaken the Lord God of his fathers. Moreouer hee made hie places in the mountaines of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, and compelled Judah thereto. And there came a writing to him from Elijah the Prophet, saying, Thus sayth the Lord God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Iehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa King of Judah, But hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitantes of Jerusalem to go a whoring, as the house of Ahab went a whoring, and hast also slaine thy brethren of thy fathers house, which were better then thou, Beholde, with a great plague will the Lord smite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy substance, And thou shalt be in great diseases in the disease of thy bowels, untill thy bowels fall out for the disease, day by day. So the Lord stirred vp against Iehoram the spirite of the Philistims, and the Arabians that were beside the Ethiopians. And they came vp into Iudah, and brake into it, and caryed away all the substance that was found in the Kings house, and his sonnes also, and his wiues, so that there was not a sonne left him, saue Iehoahaz, the yongest of his sonnes. And after all this, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease. And in processe of time, even after the end of two yeeres, his guttes fell out with his disease: so he dyed of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him like the burning of his fathers. When he began to reigne, he was two and thirtie yeere olde, and reigned in Ierusalem eight yeere, and liued without being desired: yet they buryed him in the citie of Dauid, but not among the sepulchres of the Kings.

And the inhabitants of Ierusalem made Ahaziah his yongest sonne King in his steade: for the armie that came with the Arabians to the campe, had slayne all the eldest: therefore Ahaziah the sonne of Iehoram King of Iudah reigned. Two and fourtie yeere olde was Ahaziah when he began to reigne, and he reigned one yeere in Ierusalem. and his mothers name was Athaliah the daughter of Omri. He walked also in the ways of the house of Ahab: for his mother counsalelled him to doe wickedly. Wherefore he did euill in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for they were his counsellers after the death of his father, to his destruction. And he walked after their counsel, and went with Iehoram the sonne of Ahab King of Israel to fight against Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth Gilead: and the Aramites smote Ioram. And he returned to be healed in Izreel, because of the woundes wherewith they had wounded him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael King of Aram. Nowe Azariah the sonne of Iehoram King of Iudah went downe to see Iehoram the sonne of Ahab at Izreel, because hee was diseased. And the destruction of Ahaziah came of God in that he went to Ioram: for when he was come, he went forth with Iehoram against Iehu the sonne of Nimshi, whom the Lord had anointed to destroy the house of Ahab. Therefore when Iehu executed judgement vpon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Iudah and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziah that waited on Ahaziah, he slew them also. And he sought Ahaziah, and they caught him where he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Iehu, and slewed him, and buried him, because, sayd they, he is the sonne of Iehoshaphat, which sought the Lord with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah was not able to reteine the kingdome. Therefore when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah sawe that her sonne was dead, shee arose and destroyed all the Kings seede of the house of Iudah. But Iehoshabeath the daughter of ye King, tooke Ioash the sonne of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the Kings sonnes, that shoulde be slayne, and put him and his nourse in the bed chamber: so Iehoshabeath the daughter of King Iehoram the wife of Iehoiada the Priest (for shee was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah: so she slew him not. And hee was with them hid in the house of God sixe yeeres, whiles Athaliah reigned ouer the land.

And in the seuenth yeere Iehoiada waxed bolde, and tooke the captaines of hundreths, to wit, Azariah the sonne of Ieroham, and Ishmael the sonne of Iehohanan, and Azariah the sonne of Obed, and Maasiah the sonne of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the sonne of Zichri in covenant with him. And they went about in Iudah, and gathered the Leuites out of all the cities of Iudah, and the chiefe fathers of Israel: and they came to Ierusale. And al the Congregation made a covenant with the King in the house of God: and he sayde vnto them, Behold, the Kings sonne must reigne, as the Lord hath sayd of the sonnes of Dauid. This is it that ye shall do, The third part of you that come on the Sabbath of the Priests, and the Leuites, shalbe porters of the doores. And another third part toward the Kings house, and another thirde part at the gate of the foundation, and al the people shalbe in the courts of the house of the Lord. But let none come into the house of the Lord, saue the Priests, and the Leuites that minister: they shall go in, for they are holy: but all the people shall keepe the watch of the Lord. And the Leuites shall compasse the King rounde about, and every man with his weapon in his hand, and he that entreth into the house, shall be slaine, and be you with the King, when he commeth in, and when he goeth out. So the Leuites and all Iudah did according to all things that Iehoiada the Priest had commanded, and tooke every man his men that came on the Sabbath, with them that went out on the Sabbath: for Iehoiada the Priest did not discharge the courses. And Iehoiada the Priest delivered to the captains of hundreths speares, and shieldes, and bucklers which had bene King Dauids, and were in the house of God. And he caused all the people to stand (evry man with his weapon in his hande) from the right side of the house, to ye left side of the house by the altar and by the house round about ye king. Then they brought out the Kings sonne, and put vpon him the crowne and gaue him the testimonie, and made him King. And Iehoiada and his sonnes anoynted him, and sayd, God saue the King. But when Athaliah heard the noyse of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of the Lord. And when she looked, beholde, the King stoode by his pillar at the entring in, and the princes and the trumpets by the King, and all the people of the land reioyced, and blew the trumpets, and the singers were with instruments of musike, and they that could sing prayse: then Athaliah rent her clothes, and said, Treason, treason. Then Iehoiada the Priest brought out the captains of hundreths that were gouernours of the hoste, and said vnto them, Haue her foorth of the ranges, and he that followeth her, let him dye by the sword: for the Priest had said, Slay her not in the house of the Lord. So they layde hands on her: and when she was come to the entring of the horsegate by the Kings house, they slew her there. And Iehoiada made a covenent betweene him, and all the people, and the King, that they would be the Lords people. And all the people went to the house of Baal, and destroyed, and brake his altars and his images, and slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. And Iehoiada appointed officers for the house of the Lord, vnder the handes of the Priestes and Leuites, whome Dauid had distributed for the house of the Lord, to offer burnt offrings vnto the Lord, as it is written in the Law of Moses, with reioycing and singing by the appoyntment of Dauid. And he set porters by the gates of ye house of the Lord, that none that was vncleane in any thing, should enter in. And he tooke the captaines of hundreths, and the noble men, and the gouernours of the people, and all the people of the land, and he caused the King to come downe out of the house of the Lord, and they went thorowe the hie gate of the Kings house, and set the King vpon the throne of the kingdome. Then all the people of the land reioyced, and the citie was quiet, after that they had slaine Athaliah with the sword.

Ioash was seuen yere olde, when he began to reigne, and he reigned fourty yeere in Ierusalem: and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba. And Ioash did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, all the dayes of Iehoiada the Priest. And Iehoiada tooke him two wiues, and he begate sonnes and daughters. And afterward it came into Ioash mind, to renew the house of the Lord. And he assembled the Priests and the Leuites, and said to them, Goe out vnto the cities of Iudah, and gather of all Israel money to repaire the house of your God, from yeere to yeere, and haste the thing: but the Leuites hasted not. Therefore the King called Iehoiada, the chiefe, and said vnto him, Why hast thou not required of the Leuites to bring in out of Iudah and Ierusalem the taxe of Moses the seruant of the Lord, and of the Congregation of Israel, for the Tabernacle of the testimonie? For wicked Athaliah, and her children brake vp the house of God: and all the things that were dedicate for the house of the Lord, did they bestowe vpon Baalim. Therefore the King commanded, and they made a chest, and set it at the gate of the house of the Lord without. And they made proclamation thorow Iudah and Ierusalem, to bring vnto the Lord the taxe of Moses the seruant of God, layde vpon Israel in the wildernes. And all the princes and all the people reioyced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, vntill they had finished. And when it was time, they brought the chest vnto the Kings officer by the hand of the Leuites: and when they saw that there was much siluer, then the Kings Scribe (and one appoynted by the hie Priest) came and emptied the chest, and tooke it, and caried it to his place againe: thus they did day by day, and gathered siluer in abundance. And the King and Iehoiada gaue it to such as did the labour and worke in the house of the Lord, and hyred masons and carpenters to repayre the house of the Lord: they gaue it also to workers of yron and brasse, to repayre the house of the Lord. So the workemen wrought, and the worke amended through their hands: and they restored the house of God to his state, and strengthened it. And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the siluer before the King and Iehoiada, and he made thereof vessels for the house of the Lord, euen vessels to minister, both morters and incense cuppes, and vessels of golde, and of siluer: and they offered burnt offerings in the house of the Lord continually all the days of Iehoiada. But Iehoiada waxed old, and was full of days and dyed. An hundred and thirtie yeere olde was he when he dyed. And they buried him in the citie of Dauid with the kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house. And after the death of Iehoiada, came the princes of Iudah, and did reverence to the King, and the King hearkened vnto them. And they left the house of the Lord God of their fathers, and serued groves and idoles: and wrath came vpon Iudah and Ierusalem, because of this their trespass. And God sent Prophets among the, to bring them againe vnto the Lord: and they made protestation among them, but they would not heare. And the Spirit of God came vpon Zechariah the sonne of Iehoiada the Priest, which stood aboue the people, and sayde vnto them, Thus sayth God, Why transgresse ye the commandements of the Lord? surely ye shall not prosper: because ye haue forsaken the Lord, he also hath forsaken you. Then they conspired against him and stoned him with stones at the commandement of the King, in the court of the house of the Lord. Thus Ioash the King remembred not the kindnesse which Iehoiada his father had done to him, but slew his sonne. And when he dyed, he sayd, The Lord looke vpon it, and require it. And when the yeere was out, the host of Aram came vp against him, and they came against Iudah and Ierusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all the spoyle of them vnto the King of Damascus. Though the armie of Aram came with a small company of men, yet the Lord deliuered a very great armie into their hand, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers: and they gave sentence against Ioash. And when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great diseases) his owne servants conspired against him for the blood of the children of Iehoiada the Priest, and slew him on his bed, and he dyed, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid: but they buryed him not in the sepulchres of the Kings. And these are they that conspired against him, Zabad the sonne of Shimrath an Ammonitesse, and Iehozabad the sonne of Shimrith a Moabitesse. But his sonses, and the summe of the taxe gathered by him, and the foundation of the house of God, behold, they are written in the storie of the booke of the Kings. And Amaziah his sonne reigned in his steade.

Amaziah was fiue and twentie yere old when he began to reigne, and he reigned nine and twentie yeere in Ierusalem: and his mothers name was Iehoaddan, of Ierusalem. And he did vprightly in the eyes of the Lord, but not with a perfite heart. And when the kingdome was established vnto him, he slewe his servants, that had slaine the King his father. But he slewe not their children, but did as it is written in the Lawe, and in the booke of Moses, where the Lord commanded, saying, The fathers shall not dye for the children, neyther shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall dye for his owne sinne. And Amaziah assembled Iudah, and made them captains ouer thousands, and captains ouer hundreths, according to the houses of their fathers, thorowout all Iudah and Beniamin: and he numbered them from twentie yeere olde and aboue, and founde among them three hundreth thousand chosen men, to goe forth to the warre, and to handle speare and shield. He hyred also an hundreth thousand valiant men out of Israel for an hundreth talents of siluer. But a man of God came to him, saying, O King, let not the armie of Israel goe with thee: for the Lord is not with Israel, neither with all the house of Ephraim. If not, goe thou on, doe it, make thy selfe strong to the battel, but God shall make thee fall before the enemie: for God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe. And Amaziah sayde to the man of God, What shall we doe then for the hundreth talents, which I haue giuen to the hoste of Israel? Then the man of God answered, The Lord is able to giue thee more then this. So Amaziah separated them, to wit, the armie that was come to him out of Ephraim, to returne to their place: wherefore their wrath was kindled greatly against Iudah, and they returned to their places with great anger. Then Amaziah was encouraged, and led forth his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the children of Seir, ten thousand. And other ten thousand did the children of Iudah take aliue, and caryed them to the top of a rocke, and cast them downe from the top of the rocke, and they all burst to pieces. But the men of the armie, which Amaziah sent away, that they should not goe with his people to battell, fell vpon the cities of Iudah from Samaria vnto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and tooke much spoyle. Now after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them vp to be his gods, and worshipped them, and burned incense vnto them. Wherefore the Lord was wroth with Amaziah, and sent vnto him a Prophet, which sayd vnto him, Why hast thou sought the gods of the people, which were not able to deliuer their owne people out of thine hand?
And as he talked with him, he said vnto him, Haue they made thee the Kings counseler? cease thou: why should they smite thee? And the Prophet ceased, but said, I knowe that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not obeyed my counsell. Then Amaziah King of Iudah tooke counsell, and sent to Ioash the sonne of Iehoahaz, the sonne of Iehu King of Israel, saying, Come, let vs see one another in the face. But Ioash King of Israel sent to Amaziah King of Iudah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, Giue thy daughter to my sonne to wife: and the wilde beast that was in Lebanon went and trode downe the thistle. Thou thinkest: lo, thou hast smitten Edom, and thine heart lifteth thee vp to bragge: abide now at home: why doest thou prouoke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Iudah with thee? But Amaziah would not heare: for it was of God, that he might deliuer them into his had, because they had sought the gods of Edom. So Ioash the King of Israel went vp: and he, and Amaziah King of Iudah saw one another in the face at Bethshemesh, which is in Iudah. And Iudah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled euery man to his tents. But Ioash the King of Israel tooke Amaziah King of Iudah, the sonne of Ioash, the sonne of Iehoahaz in Bethshemesh, and brought him to Ierusalem, and brake downe the wall of Ierusalem, from the gate of Ephraim vnto the corner gate, foure hundreth cu-bites. And he tooke all the gold and the siluer, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed Edom, and in the treasures of the Kings house, and the children that were in hostage, and returned to Samaria. And Amaziah the sonne of Ioash King of Iudah liued after the death of Ioash sonne of Iehoahaz King of Israel, fifteene yeere. Concerning the rest of the actes of Amaziah first and last, are they not written in the booke of the Kings of Iudah and Israel? Nowe after the time that Amaziah did turne away from ye Lord, they wrought treason against him in Jerusalem: and when he was fled to Lachish, they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there. And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

Then all the people of Judah tooko Uzziah, which was sixteenth year old, and made him King in the stead of his father Amaziah. He built Eloth, and restored it to Judah after that the King slept with his fathers. Sixteenth year old was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem, and his mother’s name was Iecoliah of Jerusalem. And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah did. And he sought God in the days of Zechariah (which understandeth the visions of God) and when as he sought the Lord, God made him to prosper. For he went forth and fought against the Philistines and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Iabneh, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines. And God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal and Hammeunim. And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah, and his name spread to the entering in of Egypt: for he did most valiantly. Moreover Uzziah builded towers in Jerusalem at the corner gate, and at the valley gate, and at the turning, and made them strong. And he built towers in the wilderness, and digged many cisterns: for he had much cattell both in the valleys and playnes, plowmen, and dressers of vines in the mountaines, and in Carmel: for he loved husbandrie. Uzziah had also an hoste of fighting men that went out to warre by bandes, according to the count of their number under the hand of Ieiel the Scribe, and Maaseiah the ruler, and under the hand of Hananiah, one of the King’s captains. The whole number of the chief of the families of the valiant men were two thousand and six hundred. And under their hand was the armie for warre, three hundred and seven thousand, and five hundred that fought valiantly to helpe the King against the enemie. And Uzziah prepared them throughout all the hoste, shieldes, and speares, and helmets, and brigandines, and bowes, and stones to sling. He made also very artificial engines in Jerusalem, to be upon the towers and upon the corners, to shoote arrows and great stones: and his name spread farre abroade, because God did helpe him maruellously, till he was mightie. But when he was strong, his heart was lift vp to his destruction: for he transgressed against the Lord his God, and went into the Temple of the Lord to burne incense vpon the altar of incense. And Azariah the Priest went in after him, and with him foure score Priests of the Lord, valiant men. And they withstoode Vzziah the King, and said vnto him, It perteineth not to thee, Vzziah, to burne incense vnto the Lord, but to the Priests the sonnes of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: goe forth of the Sanctuarie: for thou hast transgressed, and thou shalt haue none honour of the Lord God. Then Vzziah was wroth, and had incense in his hand to burne it: and while he was wroth with the Priestes, the leprosie rose vp in his forehead before the Priestes in the house of the Lord beside the incense altar. And when Azariah the chiefe Priest with al the Priestes looked vpon him, behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they caused him hastily to depart thence: and he was euen compelled to go out, because the Lord had smitten him. And Vzziah the king was a leper vnto the day of his death, and dwelt as a leper in an house apart, because he was cut off from the house of ye Lord: and Iotham his sonne ruled ouer the Kings house, and iudged the people of the land. Concerning the rest of the acts of Vzziah, first and last, did Isaiah the Prophet the sonne of Amoz write. So Vzziah slept with his fathers, and they buryed him with his fathers in the filde of the burial, which perteined to the kings: for they said, He is a leper. And Iotham his sonne reigned in his steade.

Iotham was fiue and twentie yere olde when he began to reigne, and reigned sixtene yeere in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Ierushah the daughter of Zadok. And hee did vprightly in the sight of the Lord according to all that his father Vzziah did, saue that hee entred not into the Temple of the Lord, and the people did yet corrupt their wayes. He buylt the hie gate of the house of the Lord, and he buylt very much on the wall of the castle. Moreouer hee buylt cities in the moun-taines of Iudah, and in the forests he buylt palaces and towres.
And he fought with the King of the children of Ammon, and preuailed against them. And the children of Ammon gaue him the same yere an hundredth talents of siluer, and ten thousande measures of wheate, and ten thousand of barley: this did the children of Ammon give him both in the second yeere and the third. So Iotham became mightie because hee directed his way before the Lord his God. Concerning the rest of the acts of Iotham, and all his warres and his ways, loe, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel, and Iudah. He was fiue and twentie yeere olde when he began to reigne, and reigned sixtene yeere in Ierusalem. And Iotham slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid: and Ahaz his sonne reigned in his stead.

Ahaz was twentie yeere old when he began to reigne, and reigned sixtene yeere in Ierusalem, and did not vprightly in the sight of the Lord, like Dauid his father. But he walked in the wayes of ye Kings of Israel, and made euen molten images for Baalim. Moreouer he burnt incense in the valley of Ben-hinnom, and burnt his sonnes with fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel. He sacrificed also and burnt incense in the hie places, and on hilles, and vnder euery greene tree. Wherefore the Lord his God deliuered him into the hand of the King of the Aramites, and they smote him, and tooke of his, many prisoners, and brought them to Damascus: and he was also deliuered into the hande of the King of Israel, which smote him with a great slaughter. For Pekah the sonne of Remaliah slewe in Iudah sixe score thousand in one day, all valiant men, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers. And Zichri a mighty man of Ephraim slew Maaseiah the Kings sonne, and Azrikam the gouernour of the house, and Elkanah the second after the King. And the children of Israel tooke prisoners of their brethren, two hundreth thousand of women, sonnes and daughters, and caried away much spoyle of them, and brought the spoyle to Samaria. But there was a Prophet of the Lordes, (whose name was Oded) and he went out before the hoste that came to Samaria, and said vnto them, Behold, because the Lord God of your fathers is wroth with Iudah, he hath deliuered them into your hand, and ye haue slaine them in a rage, that reacheth vp to heauen. And nowe ye purpose to keepe vnder the children of Iudah and Ierusalem, as servuants and handmaides vnto you: but are not you such, that sinnes are with you before the Lord your God? Nowe therefore heare me, and deliuer the captiues againe, which ye haue taken prisoners of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the Lord is toward you. Wherefore certaine of the chiefe of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the sonne of Iehohanan, Berechiah the sonne of Meshillemoth, and Iehizkiah the sonne of Shallum, and Amasa the sonne of Hadlai, stood vp against them that came from the warre, And said vnto them, Bring not in the captiues hither: for this shalbe a sinne vpon vs against the Lord: ye entende to adde more to our sinnes and to our trespasse, though our trespasse be great, and the fierce wrath of God is against Israel. So the armie left the captiues and the spoyle before the princes and all the Congregation. And the men that were named by name, rose vp and tooke the prisoners, and with the spoyle clothed all that were naked among them, and arayed them, and shod them, and gaue them meate, and gaue them drinke, and anoynted them, and caryed all that were feeble of them vpon asses, and brought them to Iericho the citie of Palme trees to their brethren: so they returned to Samaria. At that time did King Ahaz sende vnto the Kings of Asshur, to helpe him. (For the Edomites came moreouer, and slew of Iudah, and caryed away captiues. The Philistims also inuaded the cities in the low countrey, and toward the South of Iudah, and tooke Bethshemesh, and Aialon, and Gederoth and Shocho, with the villages thereof, and Timnah, with her villages, and Gimzo, with her villages, and they dwelt there. For the Lord had humbled Iudah, because of Ahaz King of Israel: for he had brought vengeance vpon Iudah, and had grievously transgressed against the Lord) And Tilgath Pilneeser king of Asshur came vnto him, who troubled him and did not strengthen him. For Ahaz tooke a portion out of the house of the Lord and out of the Kings house and of the Princes, and gaue vnto the king of Asshur: yet it helped him not. And in ye time of his tribulation did he yet trespasse more against ye Lord, (this is King Ahaz) For he sacrificed vnto the gods of Damascus, which plagued him, and he sayd, Because the gods of the Kings of Aram helped them, I wil sacrifice vnto them, and they will helpe me: yet they were his ruine, and of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered the vessels of ye house of God, and brake the vessels of the house of God, and shut vp the doores of the house of the Lord, and made him altars in euery corner of Ierusalem. And in every citie of Iudah hee made hie places, to burne incense vnto other gods, and prouoked to anger the Lord God of his fathers. Concerning the rest of his actes, and all his wayes first and last, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Iudah, and Israel. And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Ierusalem, but brought him not vnto the sepulchres of the Kings of Israel: and Hezekiah his sonne reigned in his stead.

Hezekiah began to reigne, when he was fiue and twentie yeere olde, and reigned nine and twentie yeres in Ierusalem: and his mothers name was Abiiah the daughter of Zechariah. And hee did vprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Dauid his father had done. He opened the doores of the house of the Lord in the first yeere, and in the first moneth of his reigne, and repaired them. And he brought in the Priests and the Leuites, and gathered them into the East streeete, And said vnto them, Heare me, ye Leuites: sanctifie nowe your selues, and sanctifie the house of the Lord God of your fathers, and cary forth the filthinesse out of the Sanctuarie. For our fathers haue trespassed, and done euill in the eyes of the Lord our God, and haue forsaken him, and turned away their faces from the Tabernacle of the Lord, and turned their backes. They haue also shut the doores of ye porch, and quenched the lampes, and haue neither burnt incense, nor offred burnt offrings in the Sanctuarie vnto the God of Israel. Wherfore the wrath of the Lord hath bin on Iudah and Ierusalem: and he hath made them a scattering, a desolation, and an hissing, as ye see with your eyes. For lo, our fathers are fallen by the sword, and our sonnes, and our daugh-Mattaniah: And of the sons of Heman, Iehiel, and Shimei: and of the sons of Ieduthun, Shemaiah and Vzziel. And they gathered their brethren, and sanctified themselves and came according to the commandement of the King, and by the words of the Lord, for to cleanse the house of the Lord. And the Priests went into the inner partes of the house of the Lord, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleannesse that they founde in the Temple of the Lord, into the court of the house of the Lord: and the Leuites tooke it, to cary it out vnto the brooke Kidron. They began the first day of the first moneth to sanctifie it, and the eight day of the moneth came they to the porche of the Lord: so they sanctified the house of the Lord in eight dayes, and in the sixteenth day of the first moneth they made an ende. Then they went in to Hezekiah ye King, and sayde, We haue clensed all the house of the Lord and the altar of burnt offring, with all the vessels thereof, and the shewbread table, with all the vessels thereof: And all the vessels which King Ahaz had cast aside when he reigned, and transgressed, haue we prepared and sanctified: and beholde, they are before the altar of the Lord. And Hezekiah the King rose early, and gathered the princes of the citie, and went vp to the house of the Lord. And they brought seuen bullockes, and seuen rammes, and seuen lambes, and seuen hee goates, for a sinne offring for the kingdome, and for the sanctuarie, and for Iudah. And he commanded the Priests the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the Lord. So they slewe the bullockes, and the Priests receiued the blood, and sprinkled it vpon the altar: they slew also the rammes and sprinkled the blood vpon the altar, and they slew the lambes, and they sprinkled the blood vpon the altar. Then they brought the hee goates for the sinne offring before the King and the Congregation, and they layde their hands vpon them. And the Priests slewe them, and with the blood of them they clensed the altar to reconcile all Israel: for the King had commanded for all Israel the burnt offring and the sinne offring. He appointed also the Leuites in the house of the Lord with cymbales, with violes, and with harpes, according to the commandement of Dauid, and Gad the Kings Seer, and Nathan the Prophet: for the commandement was by the hande of the Lord, and by the hande of his Prophets. And the Leuites stood with the instruments of Dauid, and the Priests with the trumpets. And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offering upon the altar: and when the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord beganne with the trumpets, and the instruments of Dauid King of Israel. And al the Congregation worshipped, singing a song, and they blew the trumpets: all this continued vntill the burnt offering was finished. And when they had made an ende of offering, the King and all that were present with him, bowed themselves, and worshipped. Then Hezekiah the King and the princes commanded the Leuites to prayse the Lord with the wordes of Dauid, and of Asaph the Seer. so they prayed with ioy, and they bowed themselves, and worshipped. And Hezekiah spake, and sayde, Now ye haue consecrate your selues to the Lord: come neere and bring the sacrifices and offerings of prayse into the house of the Lord. And the Congregation brought sacrifices; and offrings of prayses, and euery man that was willing in heart, offred burnt offrings. And the number of the burnt offrings, which the Congregation brought, was seuentie bullockes, an hundreth rammes, and two hundreth lambes: all these were for a burnt offering to the Lord: And for sanctification sixe hundreth bullockes, and three thousand sheepe. But the Priests were too few, and were not able to flay all the burnt offerings: therefore their brethren the Leuites did helpe them, til they had ended the worke, and vntill other Priests were sanctified: for the Leuites were more vpright in heart to sanctifie themselues, then the Priests. And also the burnt offerings were many with the fat of the peace offerings and the drinke offerings for the burnt offering. so the seruice of the house of the Lord was set in order. Then Hezekiah reioyced and all the people, that God had made the people so ready: for the thing was done suddenly.

And Hezekiah sent to all Israel, and Iudah, and also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Ierusalem, to keepe the Passeouer vnto the Lord God of Israel. And the King and his princes and all the Congregation had taken counsel in Ierusalem to keepe the Passeouer in the second moneth. For they could not keepe it at this time, because there were not Priests enow sanctified, neither was the people gathered to Ierusalem. And the thing pleased the King, and all the Congregation. And they decreed... to make proclamation throughout all Israel from Beersheba euen to Dan, that they should come to keepe the Passeouer vnsto the Lord God of Israel at Ierusalem: for they had not done it of a great time, as it was written. So the postes went with letters by the commission of the King, and his princes, thorowout all Israel and Iudah, and with the commandement of the King, saying, Ye children of Israel, turne againe vnsto the Lord God of Abraham, Izhak, and Israel, and he will returne to the remnant that are escaped of you, out of ye hands of the Kings of Asshur.

And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the Lord God of their fathers: and therfore he made them desolate, as ye see. Be not ye now stiffenecked like your fathers, but giue the hand to the Lord, and come into his sanctuarie, which he hath sanctified for euer, and serue the Lord your God, and the fiercenesse of his wrath shall turne away from you. For if ye returne vnsto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall finde mercy before them that led them cap-tiues, and they shall returne vnsto this lande: for the Lord your God is gracious and mercifull, and will not turne away his face from you, if ye convert vnsto him. So the postes went from citie to citie thorow the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, euen vnsto Zebulun: but they laughed them to scorne, and mocked them.
Neuerthelesse diuers of Asher, and Manasseh, and of Zebulun submitted themselues, and came to Ierusalem. And the hand of God was in Iudah, so that he gaue them one heart to doe the commandement of the King, and of the rulers, according to the worde of the Lord. And there assembled to Ierusalem much people, to keepe the feast of ye vnleauened bread in the second moneth, a very great assemblie. And they arose, and tooke away the altars that were in Ierusalem: and all those for incense tooke they away, and cast them into the brooke Kidron.
Afterwarde they slewe the Passeouer the fourteenth day of the seconde moneth: and the Priestes and Leuites were ashamed, and sanctified themselues, and brought the burnt offerings into the house of the Lord. And they standed in their place after their maner, according to the Lawe of Moses the man of God: and the Priestes sprinkled the blood, receiued of the handes of the Leuites. Because there were many in the Congregation that were not sanctified, therefore the Leuites had the charge of the killing of ye Passeouer for all that were not cleane, to sanctifie it to the Lord.  For a multitude of the people, euen a multitudude of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun had not cleansed themselves, yet did eate the Passeouer, but not as it was written: wherefore Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good Lord be mercifull toward him, That prepareth his whole heart to seeke the Lord God, the God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed, according to the purification of the Sanctuarie.
And the Lord heard Hezekiah, and healed the people.  And the children of Israel that were present at Ierusalem, kept the feast of the vnleaunened bread seuen dayes with great ioye, and the Leuites, and the Priestes prayed the Lord, day by day, singing with loude instruments vnto the Lord.  And Hezekiah spake comfortably vnto all the Leuites that had good knowledge to sing vnto the Lord: and they did eate in that feast seuen dayes, and offred peace offrings, and prayed the Lord God of their fathers.  And the whole assembly tooke counsel to keepe it other seuen dayes. So they kept it seuen dayes with ioy.  For Hezekiah King of Iudah had giuen to the Congregation a thousande bullockes, and seuen thousand sheepe. And the princes had giuen to the Congregation a thousand bullocks, and ten thousand sheepe: and many Priests were sanctified.  And all the Congregation of Iudah reioyced with the Priestes and the Leuites, and all the Congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Iudah. So there was great ioye in Ierusalem: for since the time of Salomon the sonne of Dauid King of Israel there was not the like thing in Ierusalem. Then the Priests and the Leuites arose, and blessed the people, and their voyce was heard, and their prayer came vp vnto heauen, to his holy habitation.

And when all these things were finished, all Israel that were found in the cities of Iudah, went out and brake the images, and cut downe the groues, and brake downe the hie places, and the altars thorowout all Iudah and Beniamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, vntil they had made an ende: afterwarde all the children of Israel returned euery man to his possession, into their owne cities.  And Hezekiah appoynted the courses of the Priests and Leuites by their turnes, euery man according to his office, both Priestes and Leuites, for the burnt offring and peace of-frings, to minister and to give thanks, and to prayse in the gates of the tentes of the Lord. (And the Kings portion was of his owne substance for the burnt offrings, even for ye burnt offrings of the morning and of the euening, and the burnt of-frings for the Sabbaths, and for the new moones, and for the solemne feastes, as it is written in the Law of the Lord) He commanded also the people that dwelt in Ierusalem, to giue a part to the Priestes, and Leuites, that they might be encouraged in the Law of the Lord. And when the commandement was spread, the children of Israel brought abundance of first fruities, of corne, wine, and oyle, and honie, and of all the increase of the fielde, and the tithes of all things brought they abundantly.
And the children of Israel and Iudah that dwelt in ye cities of Iudah, they also brought the tithes of bullockes and sheepe, and the holy tithes which were consecrate vnto the Lord their God, and laide them on many heapes. In the thirde moneth they be-ganne to lay the foundation of the heapes, and finished them in the seuenth moneth. And when Hezekiah and the princes came, and saw the heapes, they blessed the Lord and his people Israel.
And Hezekiah questioned with the Priests and the Leuites concerning the heapes. And Azariah the chiefe Priest of the house of Zadok answered him, and sayde, Since the people beganne to bring the offrings into the house of the Lord, we haue eaten and haue bene satisfied, and there is left in abundance: for the Lord hath blessed his people, and this abundance that is left. And Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of the Lord: and they prepared them, And caryed in the first fruities, and the tithes, and the dedicate things faithfully: and ouer them was Conaniah the Leuite, the chiefe, and Shimei his brother the seconde. And Iehiel, and Azariah, and Nahath, and Asahel, and Ierimoth, and Iozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah were overseers by the appointment of Conaniah, and Shimei his brother, and by the commandement of Hezekiah the King, and of Azariah the chiefe of the house of God. And Kore the sonne of Imnah the Leuite porter towarde the East, was ouer the things that were willingly offred vnto God, to distribute the oblations of the Lord, and the holy things that were consecrate. And at his hande were Eden, and Miniamin, and Ieshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shechaniah, in the cities of the Priestes, to distribute with fidelitie to their brethren by courses, both to the great and small. Their daily portion: beside their generation being males from three yeere olde and aboue, euen to all that entred into the house of the Lord to their office in their charge, according to their courses: Both to the generation of the Priestes after the house of their fathers, and to the Leuites from twenty yeere olde and aboue, according to their charge in their courses: And to the generation of all their children, their wiues, and their sonnes and their daughters throughout all ye Congregation: for by their fidelitie are they partakers of the holy things. Also to the sonnes of Aaron, the Priestes, which were in the fieldes and suburbs of their cities, in every citie the men that were appointed by names, shoulde giue portions to all the males of the Priestes, and to all the generation of the Leuites. And thus did Hezekiah throughout al Iudah, and did well, and vprightly, and truely before the Lord his God. And in all the workes that he began for the service of the house of God, both in the Law and in the commandements, to seeke his God, he did it with all his heart, and prospered.

After these things faithfully described, Saneherib King of Asshur came and entred into Iudah, and besieged the strong cities, and thought to winne them for him selfe. When Hezekiah sawe that Saneherib was come, and that his purpose was to fight against Jerusalem, Then he tooke counsell with his princes and his nobles, to stoppe the water of the fountaines without the citie: and they did helpe him. So many of the people assembled themselves, and stopt all the fountaines, and the rier that ranne through the middes of the countrey, saying, Why should the Kings of Asshur come, and finde much water? And he tooke courage, and built all the broken wall, and made vp the towers, and another wall without, and repayred Millo in the citie of Dauid, and made many dartes and shields. And he set captaines of warre over the people, and assembled them to him in the broade place of the gate of the citie, and spake comfortably vnto them, saying, Be strong and courageous: feare not, neither be afraide for the King of Asshur, neither for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with vs, then is with him. With him is an arme of flesh, but with vs is the Lord our God for to helpe vs, and to fight our battels. Then the people were confirmed by the words of Hezekiah King of Judah. After this, did Sennacherib King of Assyria send his servants to Jerusalem (while he was against Lachish, and all his dominion with him) unto Hezekiah King of Judah and unto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith Sennacherib the King of Assyria, Wherein do ye trust, that ye will remaine in Jerusalem, during the siege? Doeth not Hezekiah entice you to give over your selves unto death by famine and by thirst, saying, The Lord our God shall deliver us out of the hand of the King of Assyria? Hath not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one altar, and burn incense upon it? Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other countreys? were the gods of the nations of other landes able to deliver their land out of mine hande? Who is he of all the gods of those nations (that my fathers have destroyed) that could deliver his people out of mine hande? that your God should be able to deliver you out of mine hande? Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor seduce you after this sort, neither believe ye him: for none of all the gods of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hande and out of the hande of my fathers: how much lesse shall your gods deliver you out of mine hande? And his servants spake yet more against the Lord God, and against his servant Hezekiah. He wrote also letters, blaspheming the Lord God of Israel and speaking against him, saying, As the gods of the nations of other countreies could not deliver their people out of mine hande, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hande. Then they cried with a loud voice in the Iewes speach unto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to fear them and to astonish them, that they might take the citie. Thus they spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth, even the workes of mans hands. But Hezekiah the King, and the Prophet Isaiah the sonne of Amoz prayed against this and cried to heauen. And the Lord sent an Angel which destroyed all the valiant men, and the princes and captains of the hoste of the King of Assyria: so he returned with shame to his owne lande. And when he was come into the house of his god, they that came foorth of his owne bowels, slewe him there.
with the sword. So the Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Saneherib King of Assyria, and from the hand of all other, and maintained them on every side. And many brought offerings unto the Lord to Jerusalem, and presents to Hezekiah King of Judah, so that he was magnified in the sight of all nations from thenceforth. In those days Hezekiah was sick unto the death, and prayed unto the Lord, who spake unto him, and gave him a sign. But Hezekiah did not render according to the reward bestowed upon him: for his heart was lifted up, and wrath came upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. Notwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself (after that his heart was lifted up) he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the wrath of the Lord came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah. Hezekiah also had exceeding much riches and honour, and he gave him treasures of silver, and of gold, and of precious stones, and of sweet odours, and of shields, and of all pleasant vessels: And of store houses for the increase of wheat and wine and oyle, and stalles for all beasts, and rows for the stables. And he made him cities, and had possession of sheepe and oxen in abundance: for God had given him substance exceeding much. This same Hezekiah also stopped the upper water springs of Gihon, and led them streight vnderneath toward the citie of Dauid Westwarde. so Hezekiah prospered in all his workes. But because of the ambassadors of the princes of Babel, which sent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the lande, God left him to trie him, and to knowe all that was in his heart. Concerning the rest of the actes of Hezekiah, and his goodnesse, beholde, they are written in the vision of Ishiah the Prophet, the sonne of Amoz, in the booke of the Kings of Judah and Israel. So Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the highest sepulchre of the sonnes of Dauid: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour at his death: and Manasseh his sonne reigned in his stead.

Manasseh was twelve yeere olde, when he beganne to reign, and he reigned fiue and fiftie yeere in Jerusalem: And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, like the abominations of the heathen, who the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel. For he went backe and built the hie places, which Hezekiah his father had broken down: and he set vp altars for Baalim, and made grous, and worshipped all the hoste of the heauen, and serued them. Also he built altars in the house of the Lord, whereof the Lord had saide, In Ierusalem shall my Name be for euer. And he built altars for all the hoste of the heauen in the two courtes of the house of the Lord. And he caused his sonnes to passe through the fire in the valley of Ben-hinnom: he gaue him selfe to witchcraft and to charming and to sorcerie, and he vsed them that had familiar spirits, and soothsayers: hee did very much euill in the sight of the Lord to anger him. He put also the carued image, which he had made, in the house of God: whereof God had said to Dauid and to Salomon his sonne, In this house and in Ierusalem, which I haue chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for euer, Neither will I make the foote of Israel to remooue any more out of the lande which I haue appointed for your fathers, so that they take heede, and do all that I haue commanded them, according to the Lawe and statutes and iudgements by the hande of Moses. So Manasseh made Iudah and the inhabitants of Ierusalem to erre, and to doe worse then the heathen, whome the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel. And the Lord spake to Manasseh and to his people, but they would not regarde. Wherefore the Lord brought vpon them the captaines of the hoste of the King of Asshur, which tooke Manasseh and put him in fetters, and bound him in chaines, and caryed him to Babel. And when he was in tribulation, he prayed to the Lord his God, and humbled him selfe greatly before the God of his fathers, And prayed vnto him: and God was entreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him againe to Ierusalem into his kingdome: then Manasseh knewe that the Lord was God. Nowe after this he built a wall without the citie of Dauid, on the Westside of Gihon in the valley, euen at the entrie of the fish gate, and compassed about Ophel, and raised it very hie, and put captaines of warre in all the strong cities of Iudah. And he tooke away the strange gods and the image out of the house of the Lord, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the Lord, and in Ierusalem, and cast them out of the citie. Also he prepared the altar of the Lord, and sacrificed thereon peace offerings, and of thankes, and commanded Iudah to serue the Lord God of Israel. Neuerthelesse the people did sacrifice stil in the hie places, but vnto the Lord their God. Concerning the rest of the actes of Manasseh, and his prayer vnto his God, and the words of the Seers, that spake to him in ye Name of the Lord God of Israel, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel. And his prayer and how God was intreated of him, and all his sinne, and his trespasse, and the places wherein he built hie places, and set groues and images (before he was humbled) behold, they are written in the booke of the Seers. So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his owne house: and Amon his sonne reigned in his stead. Amon was two and twentie yeere olde, when he began to reigne, and reigned two yeere in Ierusalem. But he did euill in the sight of the Lord, as did Manasseh his father: for Amon sacrificed to all the images, which Manasseh his father had made, and serued them, And he humbled not him selfe before the Lord, as Manasseh his father had humbled himselfe: but this Amon trespassed more and more. And his servants conspired against him, and slewe him in his owne house. But the people of the land slewe all them that had conspired against King Amon: and the people of the land made Iosiah his sonne King in his steade.

Iosiah was eight yeere olde when hee began to reigne, and he reigned in Ierusalem one and thirtie yeere. And he did vprightly in the sight of ye Lord, and walked in the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neither to the right hand nor to the left. And in the eight yeere of his reigne (when he was yet a childe) he began to seeke after the God of Dauid his father: and in the twelft yeere he began to purge Iudah, and Ierusalem from the hie places, and the groues, and the carued images, and molten images: And they brake downe in his sight the altars of Baalim, and hee caused to cut downe the images that were on hie vpon them: he brake also the groues, and the carued images, and the molten images, and stampt them to pouder, and strowed it vpon the graues of them that had sacrificed vnto them. Also he burnt the bones of the Priests vpon their altars, and purged Iudah and Ierusalem. And in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, euen vnto Naphtali, with their maules they brake all round about. And when he had destroyed the altars and the groues, and had broken and stamped to pouder the images, and had cut downe all the idoles throughout all the land of Israel, hee returned to Ierusalem. Then in the eighteenth yere of his reigne, when hee had purged the lande and the Temple, he sent Shaphan the sonne of Azaliah, and Maaseiah the gouernour of the citie, and Ioah the sonne of Ioahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the Lord his God. And when they came to Hilkiah the hie Priest, they deliuered ye money that was brought into the house of God, which the Leuites that kept the doore, had gathered at the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and of all the residue of Israel, and of all Iudah and Beniamin, and of the inhabitantes of Ierusalem. And they put it in the hands of them that should doe the worke and had the ouersight in the house of the Lord: and they gaue it to the workemen that wrought in the house of ye Lord, to repaire and amend the house. Euen to the worke-men and to the builders gaue they it, to bye hewed stone and timber for couples and for beames of the houses, which the Kings of Iudah had destroyed. And the men did the worke faithfully, and the ouerseers of them were Iahath and Obadiah the Leuites, of the children of Merari, and Zechariah, and Meshullam, of the children of the Kohathites to set it forward: and of the Leuites all that could skill of instruments of musike. And they were ouer the bearers of burdens, and them that set forwarde all the workemen in euery worke: and of the Leuites were scribes, and officers and porters. And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the Lord, Hilkiah the Priest found the booke of the Lawe of the Lord giuen by the hand of Moses.
Therefore Hilkiah answered and sayde to Shaphan the chaceler, I haue found the booke of the Law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gaue the booke to Shaphan. And Shaphan caried the booke to the King, and brought the King worde againe, saying, All that is committed to the hand of thy seruants, that do they.  For they haue gathered the money that was found in the house of the Lord, and haue deliuered it into the handes of the ouerseers, and to the handes of the workemen. Also Shaphan ye chanceler declared to the King, saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath giuen mee a booke, and Shaphan read it before the King. And when the King had heard the wordes of the Lawe, he tare his clothes. And the King commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Abdon the sonne of Micah, and Shaphan the chanceler, and Asaiah the Kings servant, saying, Go and enquire of the Lord for me, and for the rest in Israel and Judah, concerning the wordes of this booke that is founde: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is fallen vpon vs, because our fathers haue not kept the worde of the Lord, to doe after all that is written in this booke. Then Hilkiah and they that the King had appoynted, went to Huldah the Prophetesse ye wife of Shallum, the sonne of Tokhath, the sonne of Hasrah keeper of the wardrobe (and she dwelt in Ierusalem within the colledge) and they communed hereof with her. And shee answered them, Thus sayth the Lord God of Israel, Tell yee the man that sent you to me, Thus saith the Lord, Beholde, I will bring euill vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitantes thereof, euen all the curses, that are written in the booke which they haue read before the King of Iudah: Because they haue forsaken me, and burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger mee with al the workes of their hands, therefore shall my wrath fall vpon this place, and shall not be quenched. But to the King of Iudah, who sent you to enquire of the Lord, so shall ye say vnto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The words which thou hast heard, shall come to passe. But because thine heart did melt, and thou didest humble thy selue before God, when thou hearest his wordes against this place and against the inhabitantes thereof, and humbledst thy selue before mee and tarest thy clothes, and weptest before mee, I haue also heard it, sayth the Lord. Beholde, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt bee put in thy graue in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the euill, which I will bring vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitants of the same. Thus they brought ye King word againe. Then the King sent and gathered all the Elders of Iudah and Ierusalem. And the King went vp into the house of the Lord, and all the men of Iudah, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and the Priests and the Leuites, and all the people from the greatest to the smallest, and hee read in their eares all the wordes of the booke of the covenant that was found in the house of the Lord. And the King stood by his pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, to walke after the Lord, and to keepe his commandements, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soule, and that he would accomplish the wordes of the covenant written in the same booke. And he caused all that were found in Ierusalem, and Beniamin to stande to it: and the inhabitants of Ierusalem did according to the covenauent of God, euen the God of their fathers. So Iosiah tooke away al the abominations out of all the countreis that perteined to the children of Israel, and compelled all that were found in Israel, to serue the Lord their God: so all his dayes they turned not backe from the Lord God of their fathers.

Moreouer Iosiah kept a Passeouer vnto the Lord in Ierusalem, and they slewe the Passeouer in the fourtenth day of the first moneth. And he appointed the Priestes to their charges, and incouraged them to the service of the house of the Lord, And he sayd vnto the Leuites that taught all Israel and were sanctified vnto the Lord, Put the holy Arke in the house which Salomon the sonne of Dauid King of Israel did build: it shalbe no more a burden vpon your shoulders: serue now the Lord your God and his people Israel, And prepare your selues by the houses of your fathers according to your courses, as Dauid the King of Israel hath written, and according to the writing of Salomon his sonne, And stande in the Sanctuarie according to the deuision of the families of your brethren the children of the people, and after the deuision of the familie of the Leuites: So kill the Passeouer and sanctifie your selues, and prepare your brethren that they may doe according to the worde of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

Iosiah also gaue to the people sheepe, lambs and kiddes, all for the Passeouer, euen to all that were present, to the number of thirtie thousand, and three thousande bullocks: these were of the Kings substance. And his princes offred willingly vnto the people, to the Priests and to the Leuites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Iehiel, rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto the Priests for the Passeouer, euen two thousand and sixe hundreth sheepe, and three hundreth bullockes. Conaniah also and Shemaiah and Nethaneel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Ieiel, and Iozabad, chiefe of the Leuites gaue vnto the Leuites for the Passeouer, fiue thousand sheepe, and fiue hundreth bullockes. Thus the service was prepared, and the Priests stoode in their places, also the Leuites in their orders, according to the Kings commandement: And they slewe the Passeouer, and the Priests sprinkled the blood with their handes, and the Leuites flayed them. And they tooke away from the burnt offering to giue it according to the deuisions of the families of the children of the people, to offer vnto the Lord, as it is written in the booke of Moses, and so of the bullockes. And they rosted the Passeouer with fire, according to ye custome, but the sanctified things they sod in pots, pannes, and cauldrons, and distributed them quickly to all the people. Afterwarde also they prepared for them selues and for the Priestes: for the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron were occupied in offering of burnt orfrings, and the fat vntill night: therefore the Leuites prepared for them selues, and for the Priestes the sonnes of Aaron. And the singers the sonnes of Asaph stoode in their standing according to the commandement of Dauid, and Asaph, and Heman, and Ieduthun the Kings Seer: and the porters at every gate, who might not depart from their servise: therefore their brethren the Leuites prepared for them. So all the servise of the Lord was prepared the same day, to keepe the Passeouer, and to offer burnt offerings vpnon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of King Iosiah. And the children of Israel that were present, kept the Passeouer the same time, and the feast of the vnleauened bread seuen dayes. And there was no Passeouer kept like that, in Israel, from the dayes of Samuel the Prophet: neyther did all the Kings of Israel keepe such a Passeouer as Iosiah kept, and the Priestes and the Leuites, and all Iudah, and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem. This Passeouer was kept in the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosiah. After all this, when Iosiah had prepared the Temple, Necho King of Egypt came vp to fight against Carchemish by Perath, and Iosiah went out against him. But he sent messengers to him, saying, What haue I to doe with thee, thou King of Iudah? I come not against thee this day, but against the house of mine enemie, and God commanded me to make haste: leaue of to come against God, which is with me, least he destroy thee. But Iosiah would not turne his face from him, but changed his apparel to fight with him, and hearkened not vnto the wordes of Necho, which were of the mouth of God, but came to fight in the valley of Megiddo. And the shooters shot at king Iosiah: then the King saide to his servuants, Cary me away, for I am very sicke. So his servuants tooke him out of that charet, and put him in the seconde charet which he had, and when they had brought him to Jerusalem, he dyed, and was buryed in the sepulchres of his fathers: and all Iudah and Jerusalem mourned for Iosiah. And Ieremiah lamented Iosiah, and al singing men and singing women mourned for Iosiah in their lamentations to this day, and made the same for an ordinance vnto Israel: and beholde, they be written in the lamentations. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iosiah and his goodnesse, doing as it was written in the Lawe of the Lord, And his deedes, first and last, behold, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel and Iudah.

Then the people of the lande tooke Iehoahaz the sonne of Iosiah, and made him king in his fathers steade in Jerusalem. Iehoahaz was three and twentie yeere old when he began to reigne, and he reigned three moneths in Jerusalem. And the King of Egypt tooke him away at Jerusalem, and condemned the lande in an hundreth talents of siluer, and a talent of gold. And the King of Egypt made Eliakim his brother King ouer Iudah and Jerusalem, and turned his name to Iehoiakim: and Necho tooke Iehoahaz his brother, and caryed him to Egypt. Iehoiakim was fiue and twentie yeere old, when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeere in Jerusalem, and did euill in the sight of the Lord his God. Against him came vp Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel, and bounde him with chaines to cary him to Babel. Nebuchadnezzar also caryed of the vessels of the house of the Lord to Babel, and put them in his temple at Babel. Concerning the rest of the actes of Iehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was founde vpon him, behold, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel and Iudah, and Iehoiachin his sonne reigned in his stead. Iehoiachin was eight yeere olde when he beganne to reigne, and he reigned three moneths and ten dayes in Jerusalem, and did euill in the sight of the Lord. And when the yeere was out, King Nebuchadnezzar sent and brought him to Babel with the precious vessels of the house of the Lord, and he made Zedekiah his brother King ouer Iudah and Jerusalem. Zedekiah was one and twentie yeere olde, when he beganne to reigne, and reigned eleuen yeere in Jerusalem. And he did euill in the sight of the Lord his God, and humbled not himselfe before Ieremiah the Prophet at the commandement of the Lord, But he rebelled moreouer against Nebuchadnezzar, which had caused him to swear by God: and he hardened his necke and made his heart obstinate that he might not returne to the Lord God of Israel. All the chiefe of the Priestes also and of the people trespassed wonderfully, according to all the abominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which he had sanctified in Ierusalem. Therefore the Lord God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising earely and sending: for he had compassion on his people, and on his habitation. But they mocked the messengers of God and despised his wordes, and misused his Prophets, vntill the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, and till there was no remedie. For he brought vpon them the King of the Caldeans, who slewe their yong men with the sworde in the house of their Sanctuarie, and spared neither yong man, nor virgin, ancient, nor aged. God gaue all into his hande, And all the vessels of the house of God great and small, and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the King, and of his princes: all these caryed he to Babel. And they burnt the house of God, and brake downe the wall of Ierusalem, and burnt all the palaces thereof with fire, and all the precious vessels thereof, to destroy all. And they that were left by the sworde, caryed he away to Babel, and they were servants to him and to his sonnes, vntill the kingdome of the Persians had rule, To fulfill the worde of the Lord by the mouth of Ieremiah, vntill the lande had her fill of her Sabbaths: for all the dayes that she lay desolate, she kept Sabbath, to fulfill seuentie yeeres. But in the first yeere of Cyrus King of Persia (when the worde of the Lord, spoken by the mouth of Ieremiah, was finished) the Lord stirred vp the spirit of Cyrus King of Persia, and he made a proclamation through all his kingdome, and also by writing, saying, Thus saith Cyrus King of Persia, All the kingdomes of the earth hath the Lord God of heauen giuen me, and hath commanded me to build him an house in Ierusalem, that is in Iudah. Who is among you of all his people, with whom the Lord his God is? let him goe vp. owe in the first yere of Cyrus King of Persia (that the worde of the Lord, spoken by the mouth of Ieremiah, might be accomplished) the Lord stirred vp the spirite of Cyrus King of Persia, and hee made a Proclamation thorowe all his Kingdome, and also by writing, saying, Thus saith Cyrus King of Persia, The Lord God of heauen hath giuen me all the kingdomes of the earth, and he hath commanded me to builde him an house in Ierusalem, which is in Iudah. Who is he among you of all his people with whome his God is? let him goe vp to Ierusalem which is in Iudah, and buylde the house of the Lord God of Israel: he is the God, which is in Ierusalem. And every one that remayneth in any place (where he soiourneth) let the men of his place relieue him with siluer and with golde, and with substance, and with cattel, and with a willing offring, for the house of God that is in Ierusalem. Then the chiefe fathers of Iudah and Beniamin, and the Priests and Leuites rose vp, with al them whose spirit God had raysed to goe vp, to builde the house of the Lord which is in Ierusalem. And all they that were about them, strengthened their handes with vessels of siluer, with golde, with substance and with cattell, and with precious things, besides all that was willingly offred. Also the King Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of Ierusalem, and had put them in the house of his god. Euen them did Cyrus King of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and counted them vnto Sheshbazzar the Prince of Iudah. And this is the nomber of them, thirtie basins of golde, a thousand basins of siluer, nine and twentie kniues, Thirtie boules of gold, and of siluer boules of the second sort, foure hundreth and tenne, and of other vessels, a thousand. All the vessels of golde and siluer were fiue thousand and foure hundreth. Sheshbazzar brought vp all with them of the captiuitie that came vp from Babel to Ierusalem.

These also are the sons of the province, that went vp out of the captiuitie (whome Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel had caried away vnto Babel) and returned to Ierusalem, and to Iudah, every one vnto his citie, Which came with Zerubbabel, to wit, Ieshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Biguai, Rehum, Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Israel was, The sons of Parosh, two thousand, an hudreth seuentie and two: The sons of Shephatiah, three hundreth, seuentie and two: The sons of Arah, seuen hundreth, and seuentie and fiue: The sons of Pahath Moab, of the sons of Ieshua and Ioab, two thousand, eight hundreth and twelue: The sons of Elam, a thousande, two hundreth and foure and fiftie: The sons of Zattu, nine hundreth and fiue and fourtie: The sons of Zaccai, seuen hundreth and three-score: The sons of Bani, sixe hundreth and two and fourtie: The sons of Bebai, sixe hundreth, and three and twentie: The sons of Azgad a thousand, two hundreth and two and twentie: The sons of Adonikam, sixe hundreth, three score and sixe: The sons of Biguai, two thousand, and sixe and fiftie: The sons of Adin, foure hundreth and foure and fiftie: The sons of Ater of Hizkiah, ninetie and eight: The sons of Bezai, three hundreth and three and twentie: The sons of Iorah, an hudreth and twelue: The sons of Hasshum, two hundreth and three and twentie: The sons of Gibbar, ninetie and fiue: The sons of Beth-lehem, an hundreth and three and twentie: The sons of Michmas, an hundred and eight and twentie: The sons of Azmaueth, two and fourtie: The sons of Kiriath-arin, of Chephirah, and Beeroth, seuen hundreth and three and fourtie: The sons of Haramah and Gaba, six hundreth, and one and twentie: The men of Beth-el and Ai, two hundreth, and three and twentie: The sons of Nebo, two and fiftie: The sons of the other Elam, a thousand, and two hundreth, and foure and fiftie: The sons of Harim, three hundreth and twentie: The sons of Lod-hadid, and Ono, seuen hundreth, and fiue and twentie: The sons of Iericho, three hundreth and fiue and fourtie: The sons of Senaah, three thousand, sixe hundreth and thirtie. The Priests: of the sonnes of Iedaiah of the house of Ieshua, nine hundreth seuentie and three: The sonnes of Immer, a thousand and two and fiftie: The sonnes of Pashur, a thousand, two hundreth and seuen and fourtie: The sonnes of Harim, a thousande and seuenteeene. The Leuites: the sonnes of Ieshua, and Kadmiel of the sonnes of Hodauiah, seuentie and foure. The Singers: the sonnes of Asaph, an hundreth and eight and twentie. The sonnes of the porters: the sonnes of Shallum, the sonnes of Ater, the sonnes of Talmon, the sonnes of Akkub, the sonnes of Hatita, the sonnes of Shobai: all were an hundreth and nine and thirtie. The Nethinims: the sonnes of Zilha, the sonnes of Hasupha, the sonnes of Tabbaoth, The sonnes of Keros, the sonnes of Siaha, the sonnes of Padon, The sonnes of Lebanon, the sonnes of Hagabah, the sonnes of Akkub, The sonnes of Hagab, the sonnes of Shamlai, the sonnes of Hanan, The sonnes of Giddel, the sonnes of Gahar, the sonnes of Reaiah, The sonnes of Rezin, the sonnes of Nekoda, the sonnes of Gazzam, The sonnes of Vzza, the sonnes of Paseah, the sonnes of Besai, The sonnes of Asnah, the sonnes of Meunim, the sonnes of Nephusim, The sonnes of Bakbuk, the sonnes of Hakupa, the sonnes of Harhur, The sonnes of Bazluth, the sonnes of Mehida, the sonnes of Harsha, The sonnes of Barcos, the sonnes of Sisara, the sonnes of Thamah, The sonnes of Neziah, the sonnes of Hatipha, The sonnes of Salomons servauntes: the sonnes of Sotai, the sonnes of Sophereth, the sonnes of Peruda, The sonnes of Iaalah, the sonnes of Darkon, the sonnes of Giddel, The sonnes of Shephatia, the sonnes of Hattil, the sonnes of Pochereth Hazzebaim, the sonnes of Ami. All the Nethinims, and the sonnes of Salomons servaunts were three hundreth ninetie and two. And these went vp from Telmelah, and from Telharsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, but they could not discerne their fathers house and their seede, whether they were of Israel. The sonnes of Delaiah, the sonnes of Tobiah, the sonnes of Nekoda, six hundreth and two and fiftie. And of the sonnes of the Priestes, the sonnes of Habaiah, the sonnes of Coz, the sonnes of Barzillai: which tooke of the daughters of Barzillai the Giliadite to wife, and was called after their name. These sought their writing of the genealogies, but they were not founde: therefore were they put from the Priesthood. And Tirshatha said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy thing, tell there rose vp a Priest with Vrim and Thummim. The whole Congregation together was two and fourtie thousande, three hundreth and threescore, Beside their servants and their maydes: of whome were seuen thousande, three hundreth and seuen and thirtie: and among them were two hundreth singing men and singing women. Their horses were seuen hundreth, and sixe and thirtie: their mules, two hundreth and fiue and fourtie: Their camels foure hundreth, and fiue and thirtie: their asses, sixe thousand, seuen hundreth and twentieth. And certeine of the chief fathers, when they came to the house of the Lord, which was in Jerusalem, they offered willingly for the house of God, to set it vp vpon his foundation. They gaue after their abilitie vnto the treasure of the worke, euene one and threescore thousand drammes of golde, and fiue thousand pieces of siluer, and an hundreth Priests garments. So the Priests and the Leuites, and a certeine of the people, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethinims dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

And when the seuenth moneth was come, and the children of Israel were in their cities, the people assembled themselues as one man vnto Jerusalem. Then stoode vp Ieshua the sonne of Iozadak, and his brethren the Priests, and Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerings thereon, as it is written in ye Lawe of Moses the man of God, And they set the altar vpon his bases (for feare was among them, because of the people of those countreis) therefore they offered burnt offerings thereon vnto the Lord, euene burnt offerings in the morning, and at euene. They kept also the feast of the Tabernacles, as it is written, and the burnt offering dayly, by nomber according to the custome day by day, And afterwarde the continuall burnt offering, both in the newe moneths and in all the feast dayes that were consecrate vnto the Lord, and in all the oblations willingly offered vnto the Lord. From the first day of the seuenth moneth began they to offer burnt offerings vnto the Lord: but the foundation of the Temple of the Lord was not layed. They gaue money also vnto the masons, and to the workemen, and meat and drinke, and oyle vnto them of Zidon and of Tyrus, to bring them cedar wood from Lebanon to the sea unto Iapho, according to the grant that they had of Cyrus King of Persia. And in the second yeere of their coming unto the house of God in Jerusalem in the second moneth began Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Ieshua the sonne of Iozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the Priests and the Leuites, and all they that were come out of the captiuitie unto Jerusalem, and appointed the Leuites from twenty yeere olde and aboue, to set forwarde the worke of the house of the Lord. And Ieshua stood with his sons, and his brethren, and Kadmiel with his sons, and the sons of Iudah together to set forward ye workemen in the house of God, and the sons of Henadad with their sons, and their brethren the Leuites. And when the builders layed the foundation of the Temple of the Lord, they appoynted the Priestes in their apparel with trumpets, and the Leuites the sons of Asaph with cymbales, to prayse the Lord, after the ordinance of Dauid King of Israel. Thus they sang when they gaue prayse, and when they gaue thankes unto the Lord, For he is good, for his mercie endureth for euer toward Israel. And all the people shouted with a great shoute, when they prayed the Lord, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was layed. Many also of the Priests and the Leuites and the chiefe of the fathers, ancient men which had seene the first house, (when the foundation of this house was layed before their eyes) wept with a loud voyce, and many shouted aloud for joy, So that the people coulde not discerne the sound of the shoute for joy, from the noyse of the weeping of the people: for the people shouted with a loude crie, and the noyse was heard farre off.

But the aduersaries of Iudah and Beniamin heard, that the children of the captiuitie builded the Temple unto the Lord God of Israel. And they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chiefe fathers, and sayd vnto them, We wil builde with you: for we seeke the Lord your God as ye do, and we haue sacrificed vnto him since the time of Esar Haddon king of Asshur, which brought vs up hither. Then Zerubbabel, and Ieshua, and the rest of the chiefe fathers of Israel, sayde vnto them, It is not for you, but for vs to buyld the house vnto our God: for we our selues together wil buyld it vnto the Lord God of Israel, as king Cyrus the king of Persia hath commanded vs. Wherefore the people of the land discouraged the people of Iudah, and troubled them in buylde, And they hired counsellers against them, to hinder their devise, all the dayes of Cyrus King of Persia, euen vntill the reigne of Darius King of Persia. And in the reigne of Ahashuerosh (in the beginning of his reigne) wrote they an accusation against the inhabitants of Iudah and Ierusalem. And in the daies of Artahshashte, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of their companions wrote when it was peace, vnto Artahshashte king of Persia, and the writing of the letter was the Aramites writing, and the thing declared was in the language of the Aramites.
Rehum the chancelour, and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter against Ierusalem to Artahshashte the King, in this sort. Then wrote Rehum the chauncelour, and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions Dinaie, and Apharsathcaie, Tarpelaie, Apharsaie, Archeuaie, Bablaie, Shushanchaie, Dehaue, Elmaie, And the rest of the people whom the great and noble Asnappar brought ouer, and set in the cities of Samaria, and other that are beyonde the Riuer and Cheeneth. This is the copie of the letter that they sent vnto King Artahshashte, THY SERVANTS the men beyond the Riuer and Cheeneth, salute thee. Be it knowen vnvo the King that ye Iewes, which came vp from thee to vs, are come vnto Ierusalem (a citie rebellious and wicked) and buylde, and lay the foundations of the walles, and haue ioyned the foundations. Be it knowen nowe vnvo the King, that if this citie be built, and the foundations of the walles layed, they will not giue tolle, tribute, nor custome: so shalt thou hinder the Kings tribute. Nowe therefore because wee haue bene brought vp in the Kings palace, it was not meete for vs to see the Kings dishonour: for this cause haue we sent and certified the King, That one may searche in the booke of the Chronicles of thy fathers, and thou shalt finde in the booke of the Chronicles, and perceiue that this citie is rebellious and noysome vnvo Kings and prouinces, and that they haue moued sedition of olde time, for the which cause this citie was destroyed. Wee certifie the King therefore, that if this citie be buylded, and the foundation of the walles layd, by this meanes the portion beyonde the Riuer shall not be thine.
The King sent an answere vnvo Rehum the Chauncelour, and Shimshai the Scribe, and so the rest of their companions that dwelt in Samaria, and vnvo the other beyond the Riuer, Shelam and Cheeth. The letter which yee sent vnto vs, hath bene openly read before me, And I haue commanded and they haue searched, and founde, that this citie of olde time hath made insurrection against kings, and hath rebelled, and rebellion hath bene committed therein. There haue bene mightie kings also ouer Ierusalem, which haue ruled ouer all beyonde the Riuier, and tolle, tribute, and custome was giuen vnto them. Make ye now a decree, that those men may cease, and that the citie be not buylt, till I haue giuen another commandement. Take heed nowe that ye fayle not to doe this: why should domage grow to hurt the King? When the copie of king Artahshashtes letter was read before Rehum and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they went vp in all the haste to Ierusalem vnto the Iewes, and caused them to cease by force and power. Then ceased the worke of the house of God, which was in Ierusalem, and did stay vnto the second yeere of Darius King of Persia.

Then Haggai a Prophet and Zechariah the sonne of Iddo a Prophet prophecied vnto the Iewes that were in Iudah, and Ierusalem, in the name of the God of Israel, euen vnto them. Then Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Ieshua the sonne of Iozadak arose, and began to builde the house of God at Ierusalem, and with them were the Prophetes of God, which helped them. At the same time came to them Tatnai, which was captaine beyonde the Riuer, and Shether-boznai and their companions, and sayd thus vnto them, Who hath giuen you commandement to buylde this house, and to lay the foundations of these walles? Then sayde we vnto them after this maner, What are the names of the men that buylde this buylding? But the eye of their God was vpon the Elders of the Iewes, that they could not cause them to cease, till the matter came to Darius: and then they answered by letters thereunto. The copie of the letter, that Tatnai captaine beyond the Riuer, and Shether-boznai and his companions, Apharsechaie, (which were beyond the Riuer) sent vnto King Darius. They sent a letter vnto him, wherein it was written thus, VNTO DARIVS the king, all peace. Be it knowne vnto the King, that we went into the prouince of Iudea, to the house of the great God, which is buiulded with great stones, and beames are layde in the walles, and this worke is wrought speedily, and prospereth in their hands. Then asked we those Elders, and sayd vnnto them thus, Who hath giuen you commandement to buylde this house, and to lay the foundation of these walles? We asked their names also, that we might cer-tifie thee, and that we might write the names of the men that were their rulers. But they answered vs thus, and sayd, We are the seruants of the God of heauen and earth, and buylde the house that was buylt of olde and many yeeres ago, which a great King of Israel builde, and founded it. But after that our fathers had prouoked the God of heauen vnto wrath, he gaue them ouer into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel the Caldean, and he destroyed this house, and caryed the people away captiue vnto Babel. But in the first yere of Cyrus King of Babel, King Cyrus made a decree to buylde this house of God. And the vessels of golde and siluer of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar tooke out of the Temple, that was in Ierusalem, and brought them into the Temple of Babel, those did Cyrus the king take out of the Temple of Babel, and he gaue them vnnto one Sheshbazzar by his name, whome he had made captaine. And he sayde vnnto him, Take these vessels and goe thy way, and put them in the Temple that is in Ierusalem, and let the house of God be buylt in his place. Then came the same Sheshbazzar and layde the foundation of the house of God, which is in Ierusalem, and since that time euen vntill nowe, hath it bene in buyldng, yet is it not finished. Nowe therefore if it please the King, let there be searche made in the house of the Kings treasures, which is there in Babel, whether a decree hath bene made by King Cyrus, to build this house of God in Ierusalem, and let the King send his minde concerning this.

Then King Darius gaue commandement, and they made search in the librarie of the treasures, which were there layd vp in Babel. And there was founde in a coffer (in the palace that was in the prouince of the Medes) a volume, and therein was it thus writ-ten, as a memoriall, IN THE FIRST yeere of King Cyrus, King Cyrus made a decree for the house of God in Ierusalem, Let the house be buylt, euen the place where they offred sacrifices, and let the walles thereof be ioyned together: let the height thereof be three score cubites, and the breadth thereof three score cu-bites, Three orders of great stones, and one order of timber, and let the expenses be giuen of the Kings house. And also let them render the vessels of the house of God (of golde and siluer, which Nebuchadnezzar tooke out of the Temple, which was in Ierusalem, and brought vnto Babel) and let him goe vnto the Temple that is in Ierusalem to his place, and put them in the house of God. Therefore Tatnai captaine beyond the Riuuer, and Shethar Boznai, (and their companions Apharsecaie, which are beyonde the Riuuer) be ye farre from thence. Suffer ye the worke of this house of God, that the captaine of the Iewes and the Elders of the Iewes may buylde this house of God in his place. For I haue giuen a commandement what ye shall doe to the Elders of these Iewes, for the buylding of this house of God, that of the reuenues of the King, which is of the tribute beyonde the Riuuer, there be incontinently expenses giuen vnto these men that they cease not. And that which they shall haue neede of, let it be giuen vnto them day by day, whether it be yong bullockes, or rammes, or lambes for the burnt offrings of the God of heauen, wheate, salt, wine, and oyle, according to the appoyntment of the Priestes that are in Ierusalem, that there bee no fault, That they may haue to offer sweete odours vnto the God of heauen, and praye for the Kings life, and for his sonnes. And I haue made a decree, that whosoeuer shall alter this sentence, the wood shall be pulled downe from his house, and shall be set vp, and he shalbe hanged thereon, and his house shalbe made a dunghill for this. And the God that hath caused his Name to dwell there, destroy all Kings and people that put to their hand to alter, and to destroy this house of God, which is in Ierusalem. I Darius haue made a decree, let it be done with speede. Then Tatnai the captaine beyond the Riuuer, and Shethar Boznai and their companions, according to that which Darius had sent, so they did speedily. So the Elders of the Iewes builded, and they prospered by the prophecying of Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah the sonne of Iddo, and they buylded and finished it, by the appoyntment of the God of Israel, and by the commandement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artahshashte king of Persia. And this house was finished the thirde day of the moneth Adar, which was the sixt yeere of the reigne of King Darius. And the children of Israel, the Priestes, and the Leuites, and the residue of the children of the captiuitie kept the dedication of this house of God with ioy, And offred at the dedication of this house of God an hundredth bullockes, two hundredth rams, four hundredth lambes, and twelue goates, for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. And they set the Priests in their order, and the Leuites in their courses over the service of God in Jerusalem, as it is written in the booke of Moses. And the childre of the captiuitie kept the Passeouer on ye fourtenth day of the first moneth. (For the Priests and the Leuites were purified altogether) and they killed the Passeouer for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for themselues. So the children of Israel which were come againe out of captiuitie, and all such as had separated themselves vnto them, from the filthines of the Heathen of the land, to seeke the Lord God of Israel, did eate, And they kept ye feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes with ioy: for the Lord had made them glad, and turned the heart of the King of Asshur vnto them, to incourauge them in the worke of the house of God, euen the God of Israel.

Now after these things, in the reigne of Artahshashte King of Persia, was Ezra the sonne of Seraiah, the sonne of Azariah, the sonne of Hilkiah, The sonne of Shallum, the sonne of Zadok, the sonne of Ahitub, The sonne of Amariah, the sonne of Azariah, the sonne of Meraioth, The sonne of Zeraiah, the sonne of Vzzi, the sonne of Bukki, The sonne of Abishua, the sonne of Phinehas, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron, the chiefe Priest. This Ezra came vp from Babel, and was a Scribe prompt in the Lawe of Moses, which the Lord God of Israel had giuen, and the King gaue him all his request according to the hande of his God which was vpon him. And there went vp certaine of the children of Israel, and of the Priests, and the Leuites, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethinims vnto Jerusalem, in the seuenth yere of King Artahshashte. And hee came to Jerusalem in the fift moneth, which was in the seuenth yeere of the King. For vpon the first day of the first moneth began he to goe vp from Babel, and on the first day of the fift moneth came he to Jerusalem, according to the good hande of his God that was vpon him. For Ezra had prepared his heart to seeke the Lawe of the Lord, and to doe it, and to teach the precepts and judgements in Israel. And this is the copie of the letter that King Artahshashte gaue vnto Ezra the Priest and scribe, even a writer of the words of the commandments of ye Lord, and of his statutes over Israel. ARTAHSHASHTHE King of Kings to Ezra the Priest and perfect scribe of the Lawe of the God of heaven, and to Cheeneth. I have given commandment, that every one, that is willing in my kingdom of the people of Israel, and of the Priestes, and Leuites to goe to Jerusalem with thee, shall goe. Therefore art thou sent of the King and his seven counsellors, to enquire in Iudah and Jerusalem, according to the lawe of thy God, which is in thine hand, And to carry the silver and the gold, which the King and his counsellors willingly offer to the God of Israel (whose habitation is in Jerusalem) And all the silver and gold that thou canst finde in all the province of Babel, with the free offering of the people, and that which the Priestes offer willingly to the house of their God which is in Jerusalem, That thou mayest bye speedily with this silver, bul-locks, rammes, lambes, with their meat offerings and their drink offerings: and thou shalt offer them upon the altar of the house of your God, which is in Jerusalem. And whatsoever it pleaseth thee and thy brethren to do with the rest of the silver, and gold, doe ye it according to the will of your God. And the vessels that are given thee for the service of the house of thy God, those deli-uer thou before God in Jerusalem. And the residue that shall be needful for the house of thy God, which shall be meete for thee to bestowe, thou shalt bestowe it out of the Kings treasure house, And I King Artahshashtie haue given commandement to all the treasurers which are beyond the River, that whatsoever Ezra the Priest and Scribe of the Lawe of the God of Heaven shall require of you, that it be done incontinently, Vnto an hundred talents of silver, vnto an hundred measures of wheate, and vnto an hundred baths of wine, and vnto an hundred baths of oyle, and salt without writing. Whatsoever is by the commandement of the God of Heaven, let it be done speedily for the house of the God of heauen: for why should he be wroth against the realm of the King, and his children? And we certifie you, that vpon any of the Priestes, Leuites, singers, porters, Nethinims, or Ministers in this house of God, there shall no governour laye vpon them tolle, trouble nor custome. And thou Ezra (after the wisdome of thy God, that is in thine hand) set judges and arbiters, which may judge all the people that is beyond the River, even all that knowe the Lawe of thy God, and teach ye them that know it not. And whosoever will not doe the Lawe of thy God, and the Kings lawe, let him haue judgement without delay, whether it be vnto death, or to banishment, or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment. Blessed be the Lord God of our fathers, which so hath put in the Kings heart, to beautifie the house of the Lord that is in Ierusalem, And hath enclined mercy toward me, before the King and his counsellors, and before all the Kings mightie Princes: and I was comforted by the hand of the Lord my God which was vpon me, and I gathered the chiefe of Israel to goe vp with me.

These are now the chiefe fathers of them, and the genealogie of them that came vp with mee from Babel, in the reigne of King Artahshashte. Of the sonnes of Phinehas, Gershom: of the sonnes of Ithamar, Daniel: of the sonnes of Dauid, Hattush: Of the sonnes of Shechaniah, of the sonnes of Pharosh, Zechariah, and with him the count of the males, an hundreth and fiftie. Of the sonnes of Pahath Moab, Elihoenai, the sonne of Zerahiah, and with him two hundreth males. Of the sonnes of Shechaniah, the sonne of Iahaziel, and with him three hundreth males. And of the sonnes of Adin, Ebed the sonne of Ionathan, and with him fiftie males. And of the sonnes of Elam, Ieshaiah the sonne of Athaliah, and with him seuentie males. And of the sonnes of Shehatiah, Zebadiah the sonne of Michael, and with him fourescore males. Of the sonnes of Ioab, Obadiah the sonne of Iehiel, and with him two hundreth and eightie males. And of the sonnes of Shelomith the sonne of Iosiphiah, and with him an hundreth and threescore males. And of the sonnes of Bebai, Zechariah the sonne of Bebai, and with him eight and twentie males. And of the sonnes of Azgad, Iohanan the sonne of Hakkatan, and with him an hundreth and ten males. And of the sonnes of Adonikam, that were the last, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Iehiel and Shemaiah, and with them three score males. And of the sonnes of Bignai, Vthai, and Zabbud, and with them seuentie males. And I gathered them to the River that goeth toward Ahaua, and there abode we three dayes: then I viewed the people, and the Priests, and found there none of the sonnes of Leui. Therefore sent I to Eliezer, to Ariel, to Shemeiah, and to Elnathan, and to Iarib, and to Elnathan, and to Nathan, and to Zechariah, and to Meshullam the chiefe, and to Ioiarib and to Elnathan, men of vnderstanding. And I gaue them commandement, to Iddo the chiefest at the place of Casiphia, and I told them the words that they should speake to Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims at the place of Casiphia, that they should cause the ministers of the house of our God to come vnto vs. So by the good hande of our God which was vpon vs, they brought vs a man of vnderstanding of the sonnes of Mahali the sonne of Leui the sonne of Israel, and Sherebiah with his sonnes and his brethren, euen eightene. Also Hashabiah, and with him Ieshaiah of the sonnes of Merari, with his brethren, and their sonnes twentie. And of the Nethinims, whom Dauid had set, and the Princes for the seruice of the Leuites, two hundreth and twentie of the Nethinims, which all were named by name. And there at the Riuere, by Ahaua, I proclaimed a fast, that we might humble our selues before our God, and seeke of him a right way for vs, and for our children, and for all our substance. For I was ashamed to require of the King an armie and horsemen, to helpe vs against the enemie in the way, because we had spoken to the King, saying, The hande of our God is vpon all them that seeke him in goodnesse, but his power and his wrath is against all them that forsake him. So we fasted, aud besought our God for this: and he was intreated of vs. Then I separated twelue of the chiefe of the Priests, Sherebiah, and Hashabiah, and ten of their brethren with them, And weighed them the siluer and the gold, and the vessels, euen the offring of ye house of our God, which the King and his counselers, and his Princes, and all Israel that were present had offred. And I weighed vnto their hand sixe hundreth and fiftie talents of siluer, and in siluer vessel, an hundreth talents, and in golde, an hundreth talents: And twentie basins of golde, of a thousand drammes, and two vessels of shining brasse very good, and precious as golde. And I said vnto them, Ye are consecrate vnto the Lord, and the vessels are consecrate, and the gold and the siluer are freely offred vnto the Lord God of your fathers. Watch ye, and keepe them vntill ye weigh them before the chiefe Priestes and the Leuites, and the chiefe fathers of Israel in Ierusalem in the chambers of the house of the Lord. So the Priests and the Leuites receiued the weight of the siluer and of the golde, and of the vessels to bring them to Ierusalem, vnto the house of our God. Then we departed from the Riuer of Ahauah on the twelth day of the first moneth, to go vnto Ierusalem, and the hand of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hand of the enemie, and of such as layde waite by the way. And we came to Ierusalem, and abode there three dayes. And on ye fourth day was the siluer weighed, and the golde and the vessell in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the sonne of Vriah the Priest, and with him was Eleazar the sonne of Phinehas, and with them was Iozabad the sonne of Ieshua, and Noadiah the sonne of Binnui the Leuites, By number and by weight of every one, and all the weight was written at the same time. Also the children of the captiuitie, which were come out of captiuitie, offred burnt offrings vnto the God of Israel, twelue bullockes for all Israel, ninetie and sixe rammes, seuentie and seuen lambes, and twelue hee goates for sinne: all was a burnt offering of the Lord. And they deliuered the Kings commission vnto the Kings officers, and to the cap-taines beyond the Riuer: and they promoted the people, and the house of God.

When as these things were done, the rulers came to me, say-31 ing, The people of Israel, and the Priestes, and the Leuites are not separated from the people of the lands (as touching their abominations) to wit, of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Per-32 izzites, the Iebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyp-33 tians, and the Amorites. For they haue taken their daughters to theselues, and to their sonnes, and they haue mixed the holy seede with the people of the landes, and the hande of the princes and rulers hath bene chiefe in this trespasse. But when I heard this saying, I rent my clothes and my garment, and pluckt off the heare of mine head, and of my beard, and sate downe as-35 tonied. And there assembled vnto me all that feared the words of the God of Israel, because of the transgression of them of the captiuitie. And I sate downe astonied vntil the euening sacrifice. And at the euening sacrifice I arose vp from mine heauinesse, and when I had rent my clothes and my garment, I fell vpon my knees, and spred out mine hands vnto the Lord my God, And said, O my God, I am confounded and ashamed, to lift vp mine eyes vnto thee my God: for our iniquities are increased ouer our head, and our trespasse is growen vp vnto the heauen. From the dayes of our fathers haue we bin in a great trespasse vnto this day, and for our iniquities haue we, our Kings, and our Priestes bene deliuered into the hand of the kings of the lands, vnto the sword, into captiuitie, into a spoyle, and into confusion of face, as appeareth this day. And now for a litle space grace hath bene shewed from the Lord our God, in causing a remnant to escape, and in giuing vs a nayle in his holy place, that our God may light our eyes, and giue vs a little reuiuing in our seruittude.
For though we were bondmen, yet our God hath not forsaken vs in our bondage, but hath enclined mercy vnto vs in the sight of the Kings of Persia, to giue vs life, and to erect the house of our God, and to redresse the places thereof, and to giue vs a wall in Iudah and in Ierusalem. And nowe, our God, what shall we say after this? for we haue forsaken thy commandements, Which thou hast commanded by thy seruants the Prophets, saying, The land whereunto ye go to possesse it, is an vnclenean land, because of the filthines of the people of the lands, which by their abominations, and by their vncleneannes haue filled it from corer to corner. Now therefore shall ye not giue your daughters vant their sonnes, neither shall ye take their daughters vnto your sonnes, nor seeke their peace nor wealth for euer, that yee may be strong and eate the goodnes of the lande, and leaue it for an inheritance to your sonnes for euer. And after all that is come vpon vs for our euill deedes, and for our great trespasses, (seeing that thou our God hast stayed vs from being beneath for our iniquities, and hast giuen vs such deliuerance) Should we returne to breake thy commadements, and ioyne in affinitie with the people of such abominations? wouldest not thou be angrie towarde vs till thou haddest consumed vs, so that there should be no remnant nor any escaping? O Lord God of Israel, thou art iust, for we haue bene reserued to escape, as appeareth this day: beholde, we are before thee in our trespasse: therfore we canot stand before thee because of it.

Whiles Ezra prayed thus, and confessed himselfe weeping, and falling downe before the house of God, there assembled vnto him of Israel a very great Congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept with a great lamentation. Then Shechaniah the sonne of Iehiel one of the sonnes of Elam answered, and sayd to Ezra, We haue trespassed against our God, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land, yet nowe there is hope in Israel concerning this. Now therefore let vs make a covenant with our God, to put away all the wives (and such as are borne of them) according to the counsell of the Lord, and of those that feare the commandements of our God, and let it be done according to the Lawe. Arise: for the matter belo-geth vnto thee: we also wil be with thee: be of comfort and do it. Then arose Ezra, and caused the chiefe Priestes, the Leuites, and all Israel, to sweare that they would doe according to this worde. So they sweare. And Ezra rose vp from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Iohanan the sonne of Eliashib: he went even thither, but he did eate neither bread, nor drunke water: for he mourned, because of the transgression of them of the captiuitie. And they caused a proclamation to goe throughout Iudah and Ierusalem, vnto all them of the cap-tiuitie, that they should assemble themselves vnto Ierusalem. And whosoeuer woulde not come within three dayes according to the counsel of the Princes and Elders, all his substance should be forfeit, and he should be separate from the Congregation of them of the captiuitie. Then all the men of Iudah and Be-niamin assembled theseelues vnto Ierusalem within three dayes, which was the twentieth day of the ninth moneth, and all the people sate in the streete of the house of God, trembling for this matter, and for the raine. And Ezra the Priest stoode vp, and said vnto them, Ye haue transgressed, and haue taken strange wines, to increase the trespass of Israel. Now therefore giue praise vnto the Lord God of your fathers, and do his will, and separate your selues from the people of the land, and from the strange wives. And all the Congregation answered, and sayd with a loude voyce, So will we do according to thy wordes vnto vs. But the people are many, and it is a raynie weather, and we are not able to stande without, neither is it the worke of one day or two: for we are many that haue offended in this thing. Let our rulers stand therefore before all the Congregation, and let all them which haue taken strange wines in our cities, come at the time appoynted, and with them the Elders of euery citie and the Judges thereof, til the fierce wrath of our God for this matter turne away from vs. Then were appoynted Ionathan the sonne of Asah-el, and Iahaziah the sonne of Tikuah ouer this matter, and Meshullam and Shabbethai the Leuites helped them. And they of the captiuitie did so, and departed, euen Ezra the Priest, and the men that were chiefe fathers to the familie of their fathers by name, and sate downe in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine the matter. And vntil the first day of the first moneth they were finishing the businesse with al the men that had taken strange wiues. And of the sonnes of the Priests there were men founde, that had taken strange wiues, to wit, of the sonnes of Ieshua, the sonne of Iozadak, and of his brethren, Maaseiah, Aeliezer, and Iarib and Gedaliah. And they gaue their hads, that they would put away their wiues, and they that had trespassed, gaue a ramme for their trespasse.

among them were women that had children.
1 The words of Nehemiah the sonne of Hachaliah. In ye moneth Chisleu, in the twentieth yeere, as I was in the 2 palace of Shushan, Came Hanam, one of my brethren, he and the men of Iudah, and I asked them concerning the Iewes that were deliuered, which were of the residue of the captiuitie, and concerning Ierusalem. And they sayde vnto me, 3 The residue that are left of the captiuitie there in the prouince, are in great affliction and in reproche, and the wall of Ierusalem is broken downe, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire. And when I heard these wordes, I sate downe and wept, and mourned certeine dayes, and I fasted and prayed before the God of heauen, And sayde, O Lord God of heauen, the great and terrible God, that keepeth couenant and mercy for them that loue him, and 5 obserue his commandements, I pray thee, let thine eares be attet, and thine eies open, to heare the praier of thy seruat, which I pray before thee dayly, day and night for ye childre of Israel thy seruats, and confesse the sinnes of the children of Israel, which we haue sinned against thee, both I and my fathers house haue sinned: We haue grievously sinned against thee, and haue not kept the commandements, nor the statutes, nor the iudgements, which thou commandedst thy seruant Moses. I beseeche thee, remember the worde that thou commandedst thy seruant Moses, saying, Ye wil transgresse, and I will scatter you abroade among the people. But if ye turne vnto me, and keepe my commandements, and doe them, though your scattering were to the vttermost part of the heauen, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you vnto the place that I haue chosen to place my Name there. Now these are thy servants and thy people, thome thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy mightie hand. O Lord, I beseech thee, let thine eare now hearken to the prayer of thy seruant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to feare thy Name, and I pray thee, cause thy servant to prosper this day, and give him favour in the presence of this man: for I was the King's butler.

Now in the month Nisan in the twentieth year of king Ar-tahshashte, the wine stood before him, and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the King. nowe I was not before time sad in his presence. And the king said unto me, Why is thy countenance sad, seeing thou art not sick? this is nothing, but sorrow of heart.
Then was I sore afraid, And I said to the King, God save the King for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, when the city and house of the sepulchres of my fathers lieth waste, and the gates thereof are devoured with fire? And the King said unto me, For what thing dost thou require? Then I prayed to the God of heaven, And said unto the King, If it please the King, and if thy servant have found favour in thy sight, I desire that thou wouldest send me to Judah unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I may buyld it. And the King said unto me, (the Queene also sitting by him) How long shall thy journey be? and when wilt thou come again? So it pleased the King, and he sent me, and I set him a time. After I said unto the King, If it please the King, let them give me letters to the captains beyond the river, that they may convey me over, till I come into Judah, And letters unto Asaph the keeper of the Kings park, that he may give me timber to build the gates of the palace (which appertained to the house) and for the walls of the city, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the King gave me according to the good hand of my God upon me. Then came I to the captains beyond the river, and gave them the Kings letters. And the King had sent captains of the armie and horsemen with me. But Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah a servant an Ammonite heard it, and it grieved them sore, that there was come a man which sought the wealth of the children of Israel. So I came to Jerusalem, and was there three dayes. And I rose in the night, I, and a fewe men with me: for I told no man, what God had put in mine heart to do at Jerusalem, and there was not a beast with me, save the beast whereon I rode. And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, and came before the dragon well, and to the dung porte, and viewed the walls of Jerusalem, howe they were broken downe, and the portes thereof devoured with the fire. Then I went foorth vnto the gate of the fountaine, and to the Kings fishpoole, and there was no rowme for the beast that was vnder me to passe. Then went I vp in ye night by the brooke, and viewed the wall, and turned backe, and comming backe, I entred by the gate of the valley and returned.
And the rulers knewe not whither I was gone, nor what I did, neither did I as yet tell it vnto the Iewes, nor to the Priestes, nor to the noble men, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that laboured in the worke. Afterward I said vnto them, Ye see the miserie that we are in, how Ierusalem lyeth waste, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come and let vs buylde the wall of Ierusalem, that we be no more a reproche. Then I tolde them of the hande of my God, (which was good ouer me) and also of the Kings wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they sayd, Let vs rise, and buyld. So they strengthened their hand to good. But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the seruant an Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian heard it, they mocked vs and despised vs, and said, What a thing is this that ye doe? Will ye rebell against the King? Then answered I them, and sayd to them, The God of heauen, he will prosper vs, and we his seruants will rise vp and buylde: but as for you, ye haue no portion nor right, nor memoriall in Ierusalem.

Then arose Eliashib the hie Priest with his brethren the Priestes, and they buylt the sheepegate: they repayred it, and set vp the doores thereof: euen vnto the tower of Meah repayred they it, and vnto the tower of Hananeel. And next vnto him buylded the men of Iericho, and beside him Zaccur the sonne of Imri.
But the fish port did the sonnes of Senaah buylde, which also layde the beames thereof, and set on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof. And next vnto them fortified Merimoth, the sonne of Vrijah, the sonne of Hakkoz: and next vnto them fortified Meshullam, the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Meshezabeel: and next vnto them fortified Zadok, the sonne of Baana: And next vnto them fortified the Tekoites: but the great men of them put not their neckes to the worke of their lorde. And the gate of the olde fishpoole fortified Iehoiada the sonne of Paseah, and Meshullam the sonne of Besodaiah: they laid the beames thereof, and set on the doores thereof, and the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof. Next vnto them also fortified Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Iadon the Meronothite, men of Gibea, and of Mizpuh, vnto the throne of the Duke, which was beyond the Riuuer. Next vnto him fortified Vzzziel the sonne of Harhohia of the golde smithes: next vnto him also fortified Hananiah, the sonne of Harakkahim, and they repayred Ierusalem vnto the broad wall. Also next vnto them fortified Rephaiaia the sonne of Hur, the ruler of the halfe part of Ierusalem. And next vnto him fortified Iedaiaia the sonne of Harumaph, euen ouer against his house: and next vnto him fortified Hattush, the sonne of Hashabniaia. Malchiiaia the sonne of Harim, and Hashuia the sonne of Pahath Moab fortified the seconde porcion, and the tower of the fornaces. Next vnto him also fortified Shallum, the sonne of Halloesh, the ruler of the halfe part of Ierusalem, he, and his daughters. The valley gate fortified Hanum, and the inhabitants of Zanuah: they buylt it, and set on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof, euen a thousand cubites on the wall vnto the dung porte. But the dung port fortified Malchiiaia, the sonne of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Beth-haccarem: he built it, and set on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof. But the gate of the fountaine fortified Shallun, the sonne of Colhozeh, the ruler of the fourth part of Mizpuh: he builded it, and couered it, and set on the doores thereof, the lockes thereof, and the barres thereof, and the wall vnto the fishpoole of Shelah by the Kings garden, and vnto the steppes that goe downe from the citie of Dauid. After him fortified Nehemiaia the sonne of Azbuk, the ruler of ye halfe part of Beth-zur, vntill the otherside ouer against the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the fishpoole that was repaired, and vnto the house of the mightie. After him fortified the Lefuites, Rehum the sonne of Bani, and next vnto him fortified Hashabniaia the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah in his quarter. After him fortified their brethren: Bauaii, the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah: And next vnto him fortified Ezer, the sonne of Ieshua the ruler of Mizpuh, the other portion ouer against the going vp to the corner of the armour. After him was earnest Baruch the sonne of Zacchaei, and fortified another portion from the corner vnto the doore of the house of Eliashib the hie Priest. After him fortified Merimoth, the sonne of Vriiaia, the sonne of Hakkoz, another portion from the doore of the house of Eliashib, euen as long as the house of Eliashib extended. After him also fortified the Priests, the men of the playne. After them fortified Beniamin, and Hasshub over against their house: after him fortified Azariah, the sonne of Maaseiah, the sonne of Ananiah, by his house. After him fortified Binnui, the sonne of Henadad another portion, from the house of Azariah vnto the turning and vnto the corner. Palal, the sonne of Vzai, from ouer against the corner, and the high tower, that lieth out from the Kings house, which is beside the court of the prison. After him, Pedaiah, the sonne of Parosh. And the Nethinims they dwelt in ye fortresse vnto the place ouer against the water gate, Eastwarde, and to the tower that lyeth out. After him fortified the Tekoites another portion ouer against the great tower, that lyeth out, euen vnto the wall of the fortresse. From aboue the horsegate forth fortified the Priests, euery one ouer against his house. After them fortified Zadok the sonne of Immer ouer against his house: and after him fortified Shemaiah, the sonne of Shechadiah the keeper of the East gate. After him fortified Hananiah, the sonne of Shelemiah, and Hainun, the sonne of Zalaph, the sixt, another portion after him fortified Meshullam, the sonne of Berechiah, ouer against his chamber. After him fortified Malchiah the goldesmiths sonne, vntil the house of the Nethinims, and of ye marchants ouer against the gate Miphkad, and to the chamber in the corner. And betwenee the chamber of the corner vnto the sheepegate fortified the goldesmithes and the marchantes.

But when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, then was he wroth and sore grieued, and mocked the Iewes, And sayde before his brethren and the armie of Samaria, thus he sayde, What doe these weake Iewes? wil they fortifie them selues? wil they sacrifice? will they finish it in a day? will they make the stones whole againe out of the heapes of dust, seeing they are burnt? And Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and said, Although they buylde, yet if a foxe goe vp, he shall euen breake downe their stonie wall. Heare, O our God (for we are despised) and turne their shame vpon their owne head, and giue them vnto a pray in the lande of their captiuitie, And couer not their iniquitie, neither let their sinne be put out in thy presence: for they haue prouoked vs before the builders. So we built the wall, and all the wall was ioyned vnto the halfe thereof, and the heart of the people was to worke. But when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodims heard that the walles of Jerusalem were repayred, (for the breaches began to be stopped) then they were very wroth, And conspired all together to come and to fight against Jerusalem, and to hinder them. The we prayed vnnto our God, and set watchmen by them, day and night, because of them. And Iudah said, The strength of the bearers is weakened, and there is much earth, so that we are not able to build the wall. Also our aduersaries had sayde, They shall not knowe, neither see, till we come into the middes of them and slay them, and cause the worke to cease.
But when the Iewes (which dwelt beside them) came, they told vs ten times, From all places whence ye shall returne, they wil be vpon vs. Therefore set I in the lower places behind the wall vpon the toppes of the stones, and placed the people by their families, with their swordes, their speares and their bowes.
Then I behelde, and rose vp, and said vnnto the Princes, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, Be not afrayde of them: remember the great Lord, and fearefull, and fight for your brethren, your sonnes, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses. And when our enemies heard that it was knowen vnnto vs, then God brought their counsell to nought, and we turned all againe to the wall, euery one vnnto his worke. And from that day, halfe of the yong men did the labour, and the other halfe part of them helde the speares, and shieldes, and bowes, and habergins: and the rulers stoode behinde all the house of Iudah.
They that buylded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, and they that laded, did the worke with one hand, and with the other helde the sworde. For euery one of the buylders had his sworde girded on his loynes, and so buylded: and he that blewe the trumpet, was beside me. Then saide I vnnto the Princes, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, The worke is great and large, and we are separated vpon the wall, one farre from another. In what place therefore ye heare the sound of the trumpet, resort ye thither vnnto vs: our God shall fight for vs. So we laboured in the worke, and halfe of them helde the speares, from the appearing of the morning, till the starres came foorth. And at the same time said I vnnto the people, Let euery one with his seruant lodge within Jerusalem, that they may be a watch for vs in the night, and labour in the day. So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my seruants, nor the men of the warde, (which followed me) none of vs did put off our clothes, saue every one put them off for washing.

Nowe there was a great crie of the people, and of their wiues against their brethren the Iewes. For there were that said, We, our sonnes and our daughters are many, therefore we take vp corne, that we may eate and liue. And there were that saide, We must gage our landes, and our vineyardes, and our houses, and take vp corne for the famine. There were also that said, We haue borowed money for the Kings tribute vpon our landes and our vineyardes. And nowe our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, and our sonnes as their sonnes: and lo, we bring into subiection our sonnes and our daughters, as seruants, and there be of our daughters nowe in subiection, and there is no power in our handes: for other men haue our landes and our vineyardes.
Then was I very angrie when I heard their crie and these wordes.

And I thought in my minde, and I rebuked the princes, and the rulers, and saide vnto them, You lay burthens euery one vpon his brethren: and I set a great assemblie against them, And I said vnto them, We (according to our abilitie) haue redeemed our brethren the Iewes, which were solde vnto the heathen: and will you sell your brethren againe, or shall they be solde vnto vs?
Then helde they their peace, and could not answere. I said also,
That which ye do, is not good. Ought ye not to walke in the feare of our God, for the reproche of the heathen our enemies?
For euen I, my brethren, and my seruants doe lende them money and corne: I pray you, let vs leaue off this burden. Restore, I pray you, vnto them this day their landes, their vineyardes, their oliues, and their houses, and remit the hundreth part of the siluer and of the corne, of the wine, and of the oyle that ye exact of them. Then said they, We will restore it, and will not require it of them: we will doe as thou hast said. Then I called the Priestes, and caused them to sweare, that they shoulde doe according to this promise. So I shooke my lappe, and said, So let God shake out every man that wil not perfourme this promise from his house, and from his labour: euen thus let him be shaken out, and emptied. And all the Cogregation said, Amen, and praised the Lord: and the people did according to this promise. And from the time that the King gave me charge to be governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the two and thirtieth year of King Artaxerxes, that is, twelve years, I, and my brethren have not eaten the bread of the governor. For the former governors that were before me, had been chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, besides fourty shekels of silver: yea, and their servants bare rule over the people: but so did not I, because of the fear of God. But rather I fortified a portion in the worke of this wall, and we bought no lande, and all my servants came thither together unto the worke. Moreover there were at my table an hundredth and fiftie of the Iewes, and rulers, which came vnsto vs from among the heathen that are about vs. And there was prepared daily an oxe, and sixe chosen sheepe, and birdes were prepared for me, and within ten dayes wine for all in abundance. Yet for all this I required not the bread of the governor: for the bondage was grievous unto this people. Remember me, O my God, in goodnesse, according to all that I haue done for this people.

And when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geshem the Arabian, and the rest of our enemies heard that I had built the wall, and that there were no more breaches therein, (though at that time I had not set vp the doores vpone the gates) Then sent Sanballat and Geshem vnto me, saying, Come thou that we may meete together in the villages in the plaine of Ono: and they thought to doe me euill. Therefore I sent messengers vnto them, saying, I haue a great worke to doe, and I can not come downe: why should the worke cease, whiles I leaue it, and come downe to you? Yet they sent vnto me foure times after this sort. And I answered them after the same maner. Then sent Sanballat his servant after this sorte vnto me the fift time, with an open letter in his hand, Wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and Gashmu hath sayd it, that thou and the Iewes thinke to rebel, for the which cause thou buildest the wall and thou wilt bee their King according to these wordes. Thou hast also ordeyned the Prophets to preach of thee at Jerusalem, saying, There is a King in Judah: and nowe according to these wordes it shall come to the Kings eares: come nowe therefore, and let vs take counsell together. Then I sent vnto him, saying, It is not done according to these wordes that thou sayest: for thou feynest them of thine owne heart. For all they afayed vs, saying, Their handes shalbe weakened from the worke, and it shall not be done: nowe therefore incourage thou me. And I came to the house of Shemaiah the sonne of Delaiah the sonne of Mehetabeel, and he was shut vp, and he said, Let vs come together into the house of God in the middes of the Temple, and shut the doores of the Temple: for they will come to slay thee: yea, in the night will they come to kill thee. Then I said, Should such a man as I, flee? Who is he, being as I am, that would go into the Temple to liue? I will not goe in. And loe, I perceiued, that God had not sent him, but that he pronounced this prophecie against me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him. Therefore was he hyred, that I might be afraide, and doe thus, and sinne, and that they might haue an euill report that they might reproche me. My God, remember thou Tobiah, and Sanballat according vnto these their workes, and Noadiah the Prophetesse also, and the rest of the Prophets that would haue put me in feare. Notwithstanding the wall was finished on the fiue and twentieth day of Elul, in two and fiftie dayes. And when all our enemies heard thereof, euen all the heathen that were about vs, they were afraid, and their courage failed them: for they knew, that this worke was wrought by our God. And in these dayes were there many of the princes of Iudah, whose letters went vnto Tobiah, and those of Tobiah came vnto them. For there were many in Iudah, that were sworne vnto him: for he was the sonne in lawe of Shechaniah, the sonne of Arah: and his sonne Iehonathan had the daughter of Meshullam, the sonne of Berechiah. Yea, they spake in his praise before me, and tolde him my wordes, and Tobiah sent letters to put me in feare.

Nowe when the wall was builded, and I had set vp the doores, and the porters, and the singers and the Leuites were appointed, Then I commanded my brother Hanani and Hananiah the prince of the palace in Ierusalem (for he was doubtlesse a faithfull man, and feared God aboue many) And I saide vnto them, Let not the gates of Ierusalem be opened, vntill the heate of the sunne: and while they stande by, let them shut the doores, and make them fast: and I appointed wardes of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, eyer one in his warde, and eyer one ouer against his house. Nowe the citie was large and great, but the people were few therein, and the houses were not buylded. And my God put into mine heart, and I gathered the princes, and the rulers, and the people, to count their genealogies: and I found a booke of the genealogie of them, which came vp at the first, and found written therein, These are the sonnes of the prouince that came vp from the captiuitie that was caried away (whome Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel had caryed away) and they returned to Ierusalem and to Iudah, every one vnto his citie. They which came with Zerubbabel, Ieshua, Nehemia, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Biguai, Ne-hum, Baanah. This is the nomber of the men of the people of Israel. The sonnes of Parosh, two thousande an hundreth seuentie and two. The sonnes of Shephatiah, three hundreth seuentie and two. The sonnes of Arah, sixe hundreth fiftie and two. The sonnes of Pahath Moab of ye sonnes of Ieshua, and Ioab, two thousand, eight hundreth and eighteene. The sonnes of Elam, a thousand, two hundreth fiftie and foure. The sonnes of Zattu, eight hundreth and fiue and fourtie. The sonnes of Zacchai, seuen hundreth and three score. The sonnes of Bin-nui, sixe hundreth and eight and fourtie. The sonnes of Bebai, sixe hundreth and eight and twentie. The sonnes of Azgad, two thousand, three hundreth and two and twentie. The sonnes of Adonikam, sixe hundreth three score and seuen. The sonnes of Biguai, two thousand three score and seuen. The sonnes of Adin, sixe hundreth, and fiue and fiftie. The sonnes of Ater of Hizkiah, ninetie and eight. The sonnes of Hashum, three hundreth and eight and twentie. The sonnes of Bezai, three hundreth and foure and twentie. The sonnes of Hariph, an hundreth and twelue. The sonnes of Gibeon, ninetie and fiue. The men of Beth-lehem and Netophah, an hundreth foure score and eight. The men of Beth-azmaueth, two and fourty. The men of Kiriath-iearim, Chephirah and Beeroth, seuen hundreth, and three and fourtie. The men of Ramah and Gaba, sixe hundreth and one and twentie. The men of Michmas, an hundreth and two and twentie. The men of Beth-el and Ai, an hundreth and three and twentie. The men of the other Nebo, two and fifty. The sonnes of the other Elam, a thousand, two hundreth and foure and fiftie. The sonnes of Harim, three hundreth and the sonnes of Iericho, three hundreth and fiue and twentie. The sonnes of Lod-hadid and Ono, seuen hundreth and fourtie. The sonnes of Senaah, three thousand, nine hundreth and thirtie. The Priestes: the sonnes of Iedaiah of the house of Ieshua, nine hundreth seuentie and three. The sonnes of Immer, a thousand and two and fiftie. The sonnes of Pashur, a thousande, two hundreth and seuen and fourtie. The sonnes of Harim, a thousande and seenteene. The Leuites: the sonnes of Ieshua of Kadmiel, and of the sonnes of Hodiuah, seuentie and foure. The singers: the children of Asaph, an hundreth, eight and fourtie. The porters: the sonnes of Shallum, the sonnes of Ater, the sonnes of Talmon, the sonnes of Akkub, the sonnes of Hatita, the sonnes of Shobai, an hundreth and eight and thirtie. The Nethinims: the sonnes of Ziha, the sonnes of Hashupha, the sonnes of Tabaoth, The sonnes of Keros, the sonnes of Sia, the sonnes of Padon, The sonnes of Lebana, the sonnes of Hagaba, the sonnes of Shalmai, The sonnes of Hanan, the sonnes of Giddel, the sonnes of Gahar, The sonnes of Rea-iah, the sonnes of Rezin, the sonnes of Nekoda, The sonnes of Gazzam, ye sonnes of Vzza, the sonnes of Paseah, The sonnes of Besai, the sonnes of Meumim, the sonnes of Nephishesim, The sonnes of Bakbuk, the sonnes of Hakupha, the sonnes of Harhur, The sonnes of Bazlith, the sonnes of Mehida, the sonnes of Harsha, The sonnes of Barkos, the sonnes of Sissera, the sonnes of Tamah, The sonnes of Neziah, the sonnes of Hatipha, The sonnes of Salomons servantes, the sonnes of Sotai, the sonnes of Sophereth, ye sonnes of Perida, The sonnes of Iaala, the sonnes of Darkon, the sonnes of Giddel, The sonnes of Shephatiah, the sonnes of Hattil, the sonnes of Pochereth of Zebaim, the sonnes of Amon. All the Nethinims, and the sonnes of Salomons servantes were three hundreth, ninetie and two. And these came vp from Tel-melah, Tel-haresha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer: but they could not shewe their fathers house, nor their seede, or if they were of Israel. The sonnes of Delaiah: the sonnes of Tobiah, the sonnes of Nekoda, six hundreth and two and fourtie. And of the Priestes: the sonnes of Habaiah, the sonnes of Hakkoz, the sonnes of Barzillai, which tooke one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was named after their name. These sought their writing of the genealogies, but it was not found: therefore they were put from the Priesthood. And the Tirshatha sayd vnto them, that they should not eate of the most holy, till there rose vp a Priest with Vrim and Thummim. All the Congregation together was two and fourtie thousand, three hundreth and threescore, Besides their servantes and their maydes, which were seuen thousand, three hundreth and seuen and thirtie: and they had two hundreth and fiue and fourtie singing men and singing women. Their horses were seuen hundreth and sije and thirtie, and their mules two hundreth and fiue and fourtie. The camels foure hundreth and fiue and thirtie, and sije thousande, seuen hundreth and twentie asses. And certaine of the chiefe fathers gaue vnto the worke.
The Tirshatha gaue to the treasure, a thousand drammes of golde, fiftie basins, fiue hundreth and thirtie Priests garments.
And some of the chiefe fathers gaue vnto the treasure of the worke, twentie thousand drams of golde, and two thousande and two hundreth pieces of siluer. And the rest of the people gaue twentie thousand drammes of golde, and two thousande pieces of siluer, and three score and seuen Priestes garments. And the Priestes, and Leuites, and the porters and the singers and the rest of the people and the Nethinims, and all Israel dwelt in their cities: and when the seuenth moneth came, the children of Israel were in their cities.

And all the people assembled themselues together, in the streete that was before the watergate, and they spake vnto Ezra the Scribe, that hee would bring the booke of ye Law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel. And Ezra the Priest brought the Lawe before the Congregation both of men and women, and of all that coulde heare and vnderstand it, in the first day of the seuenth moneth, And he read therein in the streete that was before the watergate (from the morning vntill the midday) before men and women, and them that vnderstoode it, and the eares of all the people hearkened vnto the booke of the Lawe.
And Ezra the Scribe stoode vpon a pulpit of wood which he had made for the preaching, and beside him stood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Ananiah, and Vriiah, and Hilkiah, and Maaseiah on his right hande, and on his left hand Pedaiah, and Mishael, and Malchiah, and Hashum, and Hashbadana, Zechariah, and Meshullam. And Ezra opened the booke before all the people: for hee was aboue all the people: and when he opened it, all the people stooed vp. And Ezra prayed the Lord the great God, and all the people answered, Amen, Amen, with lifting vp their handes: and they bowed themselues, and worshipped the Lord with their faces toward the grounde. Also Ieshua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Iamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Iozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Leuites caused the people to vnderstand the lawe, and the people stood in their place. And they read in the booke of the Lawe of God distinctly, and gaue the sense, and caused them to vnderstand the reading.
Then Nehemiah (which is Tirshatha) and Ezra the Priest and scribe, and the Leuites that instructed the people, saide vnto all the people, This day is holie vnto ye Lord your God: mourne not, neither weeppe: for all the people wept, whe they heard the words of the Lawe. He saide also vnto the, Go, and eate of the fat, and drinke the sweete, and send part vnto them, for whome none is prepared: for this day is holie vnto our Lord: be ye not sorie therefore: for the ioy of the Lord is your strength.
And the Leuites made silence throughout all the people, saying, Holde your peace: for the day is holy, be not sad therefore.
Then all the people went to eate and to drinke, and to send away part, and to make great ioy, because they had vnderstand the wordes that they had taught them. And on the second day the chiefe fathers of all the people, the Priests and the Leuites were gathered vnto Ezra the scribe, that he also might instruct them in the wordes of the Lawe. And they found written in the Law, (that the Lord had commanded by Moses) that the children of Israel should dwel in boothes in the feast of the seuenth moneth, And that they shoulde cause it to bee declared and proclaimed in all their cities, and in Ierusalem, saying, Go forth vnto the mount, and bring oliue branches, and pine branches, and branches of myrtus, and palme branches, and branches of thicke trees, to make boothes, as it is written. So the people went foorth and brought them, and made them boothes, euerie one vpon the rooife of his house, and in their courtes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the streete by the watergate, and in the streete of the gate of Ephraim. And all the Congregation of them that were come againe out of the captiuitie made boothes, and sate vnder the boothes: for since the time of Ieshua the sonne of Nun vnto this day, had not the children of Israel done so, and there was very great joy. And he read in the booke of the Lawe of God euery day, from the first day vnto the last day. and they kept the feast seuen dayes, and on the eight day a solemne assemblie, according vnto the maner.

In the foure and twentieth day of this moneth the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackecloth, and earth vpon them. (And they that were of the seede of Israel were separated from all the strangers) and they stoode and confessed their sinnes and the iniquities of their fathers. And they stood vp in their place and read in the booke of the Lawe of the Lord their GOD foure times on the day, and they confessed and worshipped the Lord their God foure times. Then stoode vp vpon the staires of the Leuites Ieshua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cryed with a loud voyce vnto the Lord their God. And the Leuites said, euen Ieshua and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah and Pethahiah, Stande vp, and praise the Lord your God for euer, and euer, and let them praise thy glorious Name, O God, which excelleth aboue all thankesgiuing and praise. Thou art Lord alone: thou hast made heauen, and the heauen of all heauens, with all their hoste, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and al that are in them, and thou preseruest them all, and the hoste of the heauen worshippeth thee. Thou art, O Lord, the God, that hast chosen Abram, and broughtest him out of Vr in Caldea, and madest his name Abra-ham, And foundest his heart faithful before thee, and madest a couenant with him, to giue vnto his seede the lande of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, and Perizzites, and Iebusites, and Gergashites, and hast performed thy wordes, because thou art iust. Thou hast also considered the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heard their cry by the red Sea, And shewed to- kens and wonders vpon Pharaoh, and on all his seruants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt proudly against them: therefore thou madest thee a Name, as appeareth this day. For thou didest breake vp the Sea before them, and they went through the middes of the Sea on dry lande: and those that pursued them, hast thou cast into the bottomes as a stone, in the mightie waters: And leddest them in the day with a pillar of a cloud, and in the night with a pillar of fire to give them light in the way that they went. Thou camest downe also vpon mount Sinai, and spakest vnto them from heauen, and gauest them right judgements, and true lawes, ordinances and good commandements, And declaredst vnto them thine holy Sabbath, and commandedst them precepts, and ordinances, and lawes, by the hande of Moses thy servant: And gauest them bread from heauen for their hunger, and broughtest forth water for them out of the rocke for their thirst: and promisedst them that they shoulde goe in, and take possession of the land: for the which thou haddest lift vp thine hand for to giue them. But they and our fathers behaued them selues proudly, and hardened their neck, so that they hearkened not vnto thy commandements, But refused to obey, and would not remember thy maruellous works that thou haddest done for them, but hardened their neckes, and had in their heads to returne to their bondage by their rebellion: but thou, O God of mercies, gratious and full of compassion, of long suffring and of great mercie, yet forsookest them not. Moreover, when they made them a molten calfe (and said, This is thy God that brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt) and committed great blasphemies, Yet thou for thy great mercies forsookest them not in the wildernesse: the pillar of the cloude departed not from them by day to leade them the way, neither the pillar of fire by night, to shew them light, and the way whereby they should goe. Thou gauest also thy good Spirite to instruct them, and withheldest not thy MAN from their mouth, and gauest them water for their thirst. Thou didest also feede them fourtie yeres in ye wildernes: they lacked nothing: their clothes waxed not old, and their feete swelled not. And thou gauest them kingdomes and people, and scatteredst them into corners: so they possessed the land of Sihon and the land of ye King of Heshbon, and the land of Og King of Bashan. And thou diddest multiplie their children, like the starres of the heauen, and broughtest them into the lande, whereof thou haddest spoken vnto their fathers, that they should goe, and possesse it. So the children went in, and possessed the lande, and thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the lande, euen the Canaanites, and gauest them into their handes, with their Kings and the people of the lande, that they might do with them what they would. And they tooke their strong cities and the fat lande, and possessed houses, full of all goods, cisternes digged out, vineyards, and olives, and trees for food in abundance, and they did eate, and were filled, and became fat, and liued in pleasure through thy great goodnesse. Yet they were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and cast thy Lawe behinde their backes, and slewe thy Prophets (which protested among them to turne them vnto thee) and committed great blasphemies. Therefore thou deliueredst them into the hande of their enemies that vexed them: yet in the time of their affliction, when they cried vnto thee, thou hearest them from the heauen, and through thy great mercies thou gauest them sauiours, who saued them out of the hande of their aduersaries. But when they had rest, they returned to doe euill before thee: therefore lefstest thou them in the hande of their enemies, so that they had the dominion ouer them, yet when they conveted and cried vnto thee, thou hearest them from heauen, and deliueredst them according to thy great mercies many times. And protestedst among them that thou mightest bring them againe vnto thy Lawe: but they behaued them selues proudly, and hearkened not vnto thy commandements, but sinned against thy judgements (which a man should doe and liue in them) and pulled away the shoulder, and were stiffnessed, and woulde not heare. Yet thou diddest forbeare them many yeeres, and protestedst among them by thy Spirite, euon by the hande of thy Prophets, but they woulde not heare: therefore gauest thou them into the hande of the people of the lands. Yet for thy great mercies thou hast not consumed them, neither forsaken them: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God. Nowe therefore our God, thou great God, mightie and terrible, that keepest couenant and mercie, let not all the affliction that hath come vnto vs, seeme a litle before thee, that is, to our Kings, to our princes, and to our Priests, and to our Prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people since the time of the Kings of Asshur vnto this day. Surely thou art iust in all that is come vpon vs: for thou hast dealt truely, but we haue done wickedly. And our kings and our princes, our Priests and our fathers haue not done thy Lawe, nor regarded thy commandements nor thy protestations, wherewith thou hast protested among them. And they haue not serued thee in their kingdome, and in thy great goodness that thou shewedst vnto them, and in the large and fat lande which thou diddest set before them, and haue not conuerted from their euill workes. Beholde, we are seruants this day, and the lande that thou gauest vnto our fathers, to eate the fruite thereof, and the goodnesse thereof, beholde, we are seruants therein. And it yeeldeth much fruit vnto the kings whom thou hast set ouer vs, because of our sinnes: and they haue dominion ouer our bodyes and ouer our cattell at their pleasure, and we are in great affliction. Now because of all this we make a sure covenant, and write it, and our princes, our Leuites and our Priestes seale vnto it.

Now they that sealed were Nehemiah the Tirshatha the sonne of Hachaliah, and Zidkiiah, Seraiah, Azariah, Ieremiah, Pashur, Amariah, Malchiah, Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, Harim, Merimoth, Obadiah, Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, Meshullam, Abiaia, Miamin, Maaaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah: these are the Priestes. And the Leuites: Ieshua the sonne of Azaniah, Bimmui, of the sonnes of Henadad, Kadmiel. And their brethren Shebaniah, Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, Hodiah, Bani, Beniu. The chiefe of the people were Parosh, Pahath Moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, Adoniah, Biguai, Adin, Ater, Hizkiiiah, Azzur, Hodiah, Hashum, Bezaie, Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, Meshezabeel, Zadok, Iaddua, Pelatiaie, Hanan, Anaiah, Hoshea, Hananiah, Hashub, Halloheshe, Pilehia, Shobek, Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, And Ahiaia, Hanan, Anan, Malluch, Harim, Baanah. And the rest of the people, the Priestes, the Leuites, the porters, the singers, the Nethinims, and all that were separated from the people of the landes vnto the Lawe of God, their wiues, their sonnes, and their daughters, all that coulde vnderstande. The chiefe of them receiued it for their brethren, and they came to the curse and to the othe to walke in Gods Law, which was giuen by Moses the servant of God, to obserue and doe all the commandements of the Lord our God, and his judgements and his statutes: And that we would not giue our daughters to the people of the lande, neither take their daughters for our sonnes. And if the people of the lande brought ware on the Sabbath, or any vitailes to sell, that we would not take it of them on the Sabbath and on the holy dayes: and that we would let the seuenth yeere be free, and the debtes of euery person. And we made statutes for our selues to giue by the yeere the thirde part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God, For the shewbread, and for the daily offring, and for the daily burnt offring, the Sabbaths, the newe moones, for the solemne feastes, and for the thinges that were sanctified, and for the sinne offers to make an atonement for Israel, and for all the worke of the house of our God. We cast also lottes for the offering of the wood, euene the Priestes, the Leuites and the people to bring it into the house of our God, by the house of our fathers, yeerely at the times appointed, to burne it vpon the altar of the Lord our God, as it is written in the Lawe, And to bring the first fruite of our land, and the first of all the fruite of all trees, yeere by yeere, into the house of the Lord, And the first borne of our sonnes, and of our cattel, as it is written in the Lawe, and the first borne of our bullockes and of our sheepe, to bring it into the house of our God, vnto ye Priests that minister in the house of our God, And that we should bring the first fruite of our dough, and our offers, and the fruite of every tree, of wine and of oyle, vnto the Priestes, to the chambers of the house of our God: and the tithes of our lande vnto the Leuites, that the Leuites might have the tithes in all the cities of our trauaile. And the Priest, the sonne of Aaron shall be with the Leuites, when ye Leuites take tithes, and the Leuites shall bring vp the tenth parte of the tithes vnto the house of our God, vnto the chambers of the treasure house.
For the children of Israel, and the children of Leui shall bring vp the offerings of the corne, of the wine, and of the oyle, vnto the chabers: and there shalbe the vessels of the Sanctuarie, and the Priestes that minister, and the porters, and the fingers, and we will not forsake the house of our God.

And the rulers of the people dwelt in Ierusalem: the other people also cast lottes, to bring one out of ten to dwel in Ierusalem the holy citie, and nine partes to be in the cities. And the people thanked all the men that were willing to dwell in Ierusalem.
These now are the chiefe of the prouince, that dwelt in Ierusalem, but in the cities of Iudah, euery one dwelt in his owne possession in their cities of Israel, the Priestes and the Leuites, and the Nethinims, and the sonnes of Salomons seruants. And in Ierusalem dwelt certaine of the children of Iudah, and of the children of Beniamin. Of the sonnes of Iudah, Athaiah, the sonne of Vziiah, the sonne of Zechariah, the sonne of Amariah, the sonne of Shephatiah, the sonne of Mahaleel, of the sonnes of Perez, And Maaseiah the sonne of Baruch, the sonne of Col Hozeh, the sonne of Hazaijah, the sonne of Adaijah, the sonne of Ioiarib, the sonne of Zechariah, the sonne of Shiloni. All the sonnes of Perez that dwelt at Ierusalem, were foure hundreth, three score and eight valiant men. These also are the sonnes of Beniamin, Sallu, the sonne of Meshullam, the sonne of Ioed, the sonne of Pedaiah, the sonne of Kolaiah, the sonne of Maaseiah, the sonne of Ithiel, the sonne of Ieshaiah. And after him Gabai, Sallai, nine hundreth and twentie and eight. And Ioel the sonne of Zichri was gouernour ouer them: and Iudah, the sonne of Senuah was the second ouer the citie: Of the Priestes, Iedaiah, the sonne of Ioiarib, Iachin. Seraiah, the sonne of Hilkiah, the sonne of Meshullam, the sonne of Zadok, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of Ahitub was chiefe of the house of God. And their brethren that did the worke in the Temple, were eight hundreth, twenty and two: and Adaiah, the sonne of Ieroham, the sonne of Pelaliah, the sonne of Amzi, the sonne of Zechariah, the sonne of Pashur, the sonne of Malchiah: And his brethren, chiefe of the fathers, two hundreth and two and fourtie: and Amashsai the sonne of Azareel, the sonne of Ahazai, the sonne of Meshilemoth, the sonne of Immer: And their brethren valiant men, an hundreth and eight and twentie: and their ouerseer was Zabdiel the sonne of Hagedolim. And of the Leuites, Shemaiah, the sonne of Hashub, the sonne of Azrikam, the sonne of Hashabiah, the sonne of Bunni. And Shabbethai, and Iozabad of the chiefe of the Leuites were ouer the workes of the house of God without. And Mattaniah, the sonne of Micha, the sonne of Zabdi, the sonne of Asaph was the chiefe to begin the thankesgiuuing and prayer: and Bakbukiah the second of his brethren, and Abda, the sonne of Shammua, the sonne of Galal, the sonne of Jeduthun. All the Leuites in the holy citie were two hundreth foure score and foure. And the porters Akkub, Talmon and their brethren that kept the gates, were an hundreth twentie and two. And the residue of Israel, of the Priests, and of the Leuites dwelt in al the cities of Iudah, euery one in his inheritance. And the Nethinims dwelt in the fortresse, and Ziha, and Gispa was ouer the Nethinims. And the ouerseer of the Leuites in Ierusalem was Vzzi the sonne of Bani, the sonne of Ashabiah, the sonne of Mattaniah, the sonne of Micha: of the sonnes of Asaph singers were ouer the worke of the house of God. For it was the Kings commandement concerning them, that faithfull prouision shoulde bee for the singers euery day. And Pethahiah the sonne of Meshezabeel, of the sonnes of Zerah, the sonne of Iudah was at the Kings hand in all matters concerning the people. And in the villages in their landes, some of the children of Iudah dwelt in Kiriath-arba, and in the villages thereof, and in Dibon, and in the villages thereof, and in Iekabzeel. and in the villages thereof, And in Ieshua, and in Moladah, and in Beth palet, And in Hazer-shual, and in Beer-sheba, and in the villages thereof, And in Ziklag, and in Mechonah, and in the villages thereof, And in En-rimmon, and in Zareah, and in Iarmuth, Zanoah, Adullam, and in their villages, in Lachish, and in the fieldes thereof, at Azekah, and in the villages thereof: and they dwelt from Beer-sheba, vnto the valley of Hinnom. And the sonnes of Beniamin from Geba, in Michmash, and Aiia, and Beth-el, and in the villages thereof, Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, Hadid, Zeboim, Nebalat, Lod and Ono, in the carpenters valley. And of the Leuites were diuisions in Iudah and in Beniamin.

These also are the Priestes and the Leuites that went vp with Zerubbabel, the sonne of Shealtiel, and Ieshua: to wit, Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, Shecaniah, Rehum, Merimoth, Iddo, Ginnetho, Abiiah, Miamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, Shemaiah, and Ioiarib, Iedaiah, Sallu, Amok, Hilkiiah, Iedaiah: these were the chiefe of the Priests, and of their brethren in the dayes of Ieshua. And the Leuites, Ieshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Iudah, Mattaniah were ouer the thankesgivnings, he, and his brethren. And Bakbukiah and Vnni, and their brethren were about them in the watches. And Ieshua begate Ioiakim: Ioiakim also begate Eliashib, and Eliashib begate Ioiada. And Ioiada begate Ionathan, and Ionathan begate Iaddua. And in the daies of Ioiakim were these, the chiefe fathers of the Priests: vnder Seraiah was Meraiah, vnder Jeremiah, Hana-niah, Vnder Ezra, Meshullam, vnder Amariah, Iehohanan, Vnder Melicu, Ionathan, vnder Shebaniah, Ioseph, Vnder Harim, Adna, under Marairoth, Helkai, Vnder Iddo, Zechariah, vnder Ginnithon, Meshullam, Vnder Abiiah, Zichri, vnder Miniamin, and vnder Moadiah, Piltai, Vnder Bilgah, Shamua, vnder Shemaiah, Iehonathan, Vnder Ioiarib, Mattenai, vnder Iedaiah, Vzzi, Vnder Sallai, Kallai, vnder Amok, Eber, Vnder Hilkiah, Hashabiah, vnder Iedaiah, Nethaneel. In the days of Eliashib, Ioiada, and Iohanan and Iaddua were the chief fathers of the Leuites written, and the Priests in the reign of Darius the Persian. The sons of Leui, the chief fathers were written in the booke of the Chronicles even vnto the days of Iohanan the sonne of Eliashib. And the chief of the Leuites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Ieshua the sonne of Kadmiel, and their brethren about them to giue prayse and thankes, according to the ordinance of Dauid the man of God, ward ouer against warde.
Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub were porters keeping the warde at the thresholds of the gates. These were in the days of Ioiakim, the sonne of Ieshua, the sonne of Iozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the captaine, and of Ezra the Priest and scribe. And in the dedication of the wall at Ierusalem they sought the Leuites out of all their places to bring them to Ierusalem to keepe the dedication and gladnes, both with thankesgiuings and with songs, cymbales, violes and with harpes. Then the singers gathered themselues together both from the plaine countrey about Ierusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi, And from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countreis of Geba, and Azmaueth: for the singers had built them villages round about Ierusalem. And the Priests and Leuites were purified, and clensed the people, and the gates, and the wall. And I brought vp the princes of Iudah vpon the wall, and appointed two great companies to giue thankes, and the one went on the right hand of the wall toward the dung gate.
And after them went Hoshaiah, and halfe of the princes of Iudah, And Azariah, Ezra and Meshullam, Iudah, Beniamin, and Shemaiah, and Ieremiah, And of the Priests sons with trumpets, Zechariah the sonne of Ionathan, the sonne of Shemaiah, the sonne of Mattaniah, the sonne of Michaiah, the sonne of Zaccur, ye sonne of Asaph. And his brethren, Shemaiah, and Azareel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Iudah, Hanani, with the musical instruments of Dauid the man of God: and Ezra the scribe went before them. And to the gate of the fountaine, euen ouer against them went they vp by the staires of the citie of Dauid, at the going vp of the wall beyond the house of Dauid, euen vnto the water gate Eastward. And the seconde companie of them that gaue thankes, went on the other side, and I after them, and the halfe of the people was vpon the wall, and vpon the towre of the furnaces euen vnto the broad wall. And vpon the gate of Ephraim, and vpon the olde gate, and vpon the fish-gate, and the towre of Hananeel, and the towre of Meah, euen vnto the sheepegate: and they stood in the gate of the warde. So stood the two companies (of them that gaue thankes) in the house of God, and I and the halfe of the rulers with me. The Priests also, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets, And Maaseiah, and She-maiah, and Eleazar, and Vzzi, and Iehohanan, and Malchiiah, and Elam, and Ezer: and the singers sang loude, hauing Izrahiah which was the ouerseer. And the same day they offered great sacrifices and reioyced: for God had giuen them great ioy, so that both the women, and the children were ioyfull: and the ioy of Ierusalem was heard farre off. Also at the same time were men appointed ouer the chambers of the store for the offerings (for the first fruiotes, and for the tithes) to gather into them out of the fieldes of the cities, the portions of the Law for the Priests and the Leuites: for Iudah reioyced for the Priests and for the Leuites, that serued. And both the singers and the Leuites kept the ward of their God, and the warde of the purifi-cation according to the commandement of Dauid, and Salomon his sonne. For in the dayes of Dauid and Asaph, of olde were chiefe singers, and songs of praise and thankesgiuing vnto God. And in the dayes of Zerubbabel, and in the dayes of Nehemiah did al Israel giue portions vnto the singers and porters, euerie day his portion, and they gaue the holy things vnto the Leuites, and the Leuites gaue the holy things vnto the sonnes of Aaron.

And on that day did they reade in the booke of Moses, in the audience of the people, and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite, and the Moabite should not enter into the Congregation of God, Because they met not the children of Is-rael with bread and with water, but hired Balaam against them, that he should curse them: and our God turned the curse into a blessing. Now when they had heard the Lawe, they separated from Israel all those that were mixed. And before this had the Priest Eliashib the oversight of the chamber of the house of our God, being kinsman to Tobiah: And he had made him a great chamber and there had they aforetime layde the offringes, the incense, and the vessels, and the tithes of corne, of wine, and of oyle (appointed for the Leuites, and the singers, and the porters) and the offringes of the Priests. But in all this time was not I in Ierusalem: for in the two and thirtieth yere of Artahshashte King of Babel, came I vnto the King, and after certaine dayes I obteined of the King. And when I was come to Ierusalem, I vnderstood the euil that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, in that hee had made him a chamber in the court of the house of God, And it grieued me sore: therefore I cast forth all the vessels of the house of Tobiah out of the chamber. And I commanded them to clense ye chambers: and thither brought I againe the vessels of the house of God with the meate offring and the incense. And I perceiued that the portions of the Leuites had not bene giuen, and that euery one was fled to his lande, euen the Leuites and singers that executed the worke. Then reproued I the rulers and sayd, Why is the house of God forsaken? And I assembled them, and set them in their place. Then brought all Iudah the tithes of corne and of wine, and of oyle vnto the treasures. And I made treasurers ouer the treasures, Shelemiah the Priest, and Zadok the scribe, and of the Leuites, Pedaiah, and vnder their hande Hanan the sonne of Zaccur the sonne of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithfull, and their office was to distribute vnto their brethren. Remember me, O my God, herein, and wipe not out my kindenes that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offices thereof. In those dayes saw I in Iudah them, that trode wine presses on ye Sabbath, and that brought in sheaues, and which laded asses also with wine, grapes, and figges, and all burdens, and brought them into Ierusalem vpon the Sabbath day: and I protested to them in the day that they sold vitailes. There dwelt men of Tyrus also therein, which brought fish and all wares, and solde on the Sabbath vnto the children of Iudah euen in Ierusalem. Then reprooued I the rulers of Iudah, and sayd vnto them, What euil thing is this that yee doe, and breake the Sabbath day? Did... not your fathers thus, and our God brought all this plague vpon vs, and vpon this citie? yet yee increase the wrath vpon Israel, in breaking the Sabbath. And when the gates of Ierusalem beganne to be darke before the Sabbath, I commaded to shut the gates, and charged, that they should not be opened til after the Sabbath, and some of my seruants set I at the gates, that there shoulde no burden be brought in on the Sabbath day. So the chapmen and marchants of al marchandise remained once or twise all night without Ierusalem. And I protested among them, and said vnto them, Why tary ye all night about the wall? If ye do it once againe, I will lay hands vpon you. from that time came they no more on the Sabbath. And I sayde vnto the Leuites, that they should clense themselves, and that they shoulde come and keepe the gates, to sanctifie the Sabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and pardon me according to thy great mercy. In those dayes also I saw Iewes that married wiues of Ashdod, of Ammon, and of Moab. And their children spake halfe in ye speach of Ashdod, and could not speake in the Iewes language, and according to the language of the one people, and of the other people. Then I reprooued them, and cursed them, and smote certaine of them, and pulled off their heare, and tooke an othe of them by God, Yee shall not giue your daughters vnto their sonnes, neither shall ye take of their daughters vnto your sonnes, nor for your selues. Did not Salomon the king of Israel sinne by these thinges? yet among many nations was there no King like him: for he was beloued of his God, and God had made him King ouer Israel: yet strange women caused him to sinne. Shall wee then obey vnto you, to doe all this great euil, and to transgresse against our God, euen to marry strange wiues? And one of the sonnes of Ioiada the sonne of Eliashib the hie Priest was the sonne in law of Sanballat the Horonite: but I chased him from me. Remember them, O my God, that defile the Priesthoode, and the covenant of the Priesthoode, and of the Leuites. Then cleansed I them from all strangers, and appoynted the wardes of the Priestes and of the Leuites, euery one in his office, And for the offring of the wood at times appoynted, and for the first fruites. Remember me, O my God, in goodnes.
n the dayes of Ahashuerosh (this is Ahashuerosh that reigned, from India euen vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hunddreth, and seuen and twentie prouinces) In those dayes when the King Ahashuerosh sate on his throne, which was in the palace of Shushan. In the third yeere of his reigne, he made a feast vnto all his princes and his servuants, euen the power of Persia and Media, and to the captaines and gouernours of the prouinces which were before him. That he might shewe the riches and glorie of his kingdome, and the honour of his great maiestie many dayes, euen an hundreth and foure score dayes.

And when these dayes were expired, the King made a feast to all the people that were founde in the palace of Shushan, both vnto great and small, seuen dayes, in the court of the garden of the Kings palace, Vnder an hanging of white, greene, and blue clothes, fastened with cordes of fine linen and purple, in siluer rings, and pillars of marble: the beds were of golde, and of siluer vpon a pauement of porphyre, and marble and alabaster, and blue colour. And they gaue them drinke in vessels of golde, and changed vessel after vessel, and royall wine in abundance according to the power of the King. And the drinking was by an order, none might compel: for so the King had appoynted vnto all the officers of his house, that they should do according to euery mans pleasure. The Queene Vashti made a feast also for the women in the royall house of King Ahashuerosh. Vpon the seuenth daye when the King was merie with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seuen eunuches, (that serued in the presence of King Ahashuerosh) To bring Queene Vashti before the King with the crowne royall, that he might shewe the people and the princes her beautie: for shee was fayre to looke vpon. But the Queene Vashti refused to come at the Kings worde, which he had giuen in charge to the eunuches: therefore the King was very angry, and his wrath kindled in him. Then the King said to the wise men, that knew the times (for so was the Kings maner towards all that knew the law and the judgement: And the next vnto him was Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan the seuen princes of Persia and Media, which sawe the Kings face, and sate the first in the kingdome) What shall we do vnto the Queene Vashti according to the law, because she did not according to the worde of the King Ahashuerosh by the commission of the eunuches? Then Memucan answered before the King and the Princes, The Queene Vashti hath not only done euill against the King, but against all the princes, and against all the people that are in all the prouinces of King Ahashuerosh.
For the acte of the Queene shall come abroade vnto all women, so that they shall despise their husbands in their owne eyes, and shall say, The King Ahashuerosh comanded Vashti the Queene to be brought in before him, but she came not. So shall the princesses of Persia and Media this day say vnto all the Kings Princes, when they heare of the acte of the Queene: thus shall there be much despitefulnesse and wrath. If it please the King, let a royal decree proceede from him, and let it be written among the statutes of Persia, and Media, (and let it not be transgressed) that Vashti come no more before King Ahashuerosh: and let the King giue her royal estate vnto her companion that is better then she. And when the decree of the King which shalbe made, shalbe published throughout all his kingdome (though it be great) all the women shall giue their husbands honour, both great and small. And this saying pleased the King and the princes, and the King did according to the worde of Memucan.
For he sent letters into all the prouinces of the King, into euery prouince according to the writing thereof, and to euery people after their language, that euery man should beare rule in his owne house, and that he should publish it in the language of that same people.

After these things, when the wrath of King Ahashuerosh was appeased, he remembred Vashti, and what she had done, and what was decreed against her. And the Kings seruants that ministred vnto him, sayd, Let them seeke for the King beautifull yong virgins, And let the King appoynt officers through all the prouinces of his kingdome, and let them gather all the beautiful yong virgins vnto the palace of Shushan, into the house of the women, vnder the hand of Hege the Kings eunuche, keeper of the women, to giue them their things for purification. And the mayde that shall please the King, let her reigne in the steade of Vashti. And this pleased the King, and he did so. In the citie of Shushan, there was a certaine Iewe, whose name was Mordecai the sonne of Iair, the sonne of Shimei, the sonne of Kish a man of Iemini, Which had bene caryed away from Ierusalem with the captiuitie that was caryed away with Ieconiah King of Iudah (whom Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel had caryed away) And he nourished Hadassah, that is Ester, his vnclers daughter: for she had neither father nor mother, and the mayde was fayre, and beautifull to looke on: and after the death of her father, and her mother, Mordecai tooke her for his own daughter. And when the Kings commandement, and his decree was published, and many maydes were brought together to the palace of Shushan, vnder the hand of Hege, Ester was brought also vnto the Kings house vnder the hande of Hege the keeper of the women. And the mayde pleased him, and she founde fauour in his sight: therefore he caused her things for purification to be giuen her speedily, and her state, and seuen comely maides to be giuer her out of the Kings house, and he gaue change to her and to her maydes of the best in the house of the women. But Ester shewed not her people and her kinred: for Mordecai had charged her, that shee should not tell it. Aud Mordecai walked euery day before the court of the womens house, to knowe if Ester did well, and what should be done with her. And when the course of euery mayd came, to go in to King Ahashuerosh, after that she had bene twelue moneths according to the maner of the women (for so were the dayes of their purifications accomplished, sixe moneths with oyle of myrrhe, and sixe moneths with sweete odours and in the purifying of the women: And thus went the maides vnto the King) whatsoever she required, was giuen her, to go with her out of the womens house vnto ye kings house. In the euening she went, and on the morow she returned into the second house of the women vnder the hand of Shaashgaz the Kings eunuche, which kept the concubines: shee came in to the King no more, except shee pleased the King, and that she were called by name. Now when the course of Ester the daughter of Abihail the vncl of Mordecai (which had taken her as his owne daughter) came, that shee should go in to the King, she desired nothing, but what Hege the Kings eunuche the keeper of the women sayde: and Ester founde fauour in the sight of all them that looked vpon her. So Ester was taken vnto King Ahashuerosh into his house royall in the tenth moneth, which is the moneth Tebeth, in the seuenth yeere of his reigne. And the King loued Ester aboue all the women, and shee founde grace and fauour in his sight more then all the virgins: so that he set the crowne of the kingdome vpon her head, and made her Queene instead of Vashti. Then the King made a great feast vnto all his princes, and his seruants, which was the feast of Ester, and gaue rest vnto the prouinces, and gaue gifts, according to the power of a King. And whe the virgins were gathered ye second time, then Mordecai sate in the Kings gate. Ester had not yet shewed her kindred nor her people, as Mordecai had charged her: for Ester did after the worde of Mordecai, as when she was nourished with him. In those dayes whe Mordecai sate in the Kings gate, two of the Kings eunuches, Bigthan and Teresh, which kept the doore, were wroth, and sought to lay hand on the King Ahashuerosh. And the thing was knowen to Mordecai, and he tolde it vnto Queene Ester, and Ester certified the King thereof in Mordecais name: and when inquisition was made, it was found so: therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the booke of the Chronicles before the King.

After these things did King Ahashuerosh promote Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite, and exalted him, and set his seate aboue all the princes that were with him. And all the Kings seruants that were at the Kings gate, bowed their knees, and reuerenced Haman: for the King had so commanded concerning him: but Mordecai bowed not the knee, neither did reuerence. Then the Kings seruants which were at the Kings gate, said vnto Mordecai, Why transgressest thou the Kings commandement? And albeit they spake dayly vnto him, yet he would not heare them: therefore they tolde Haman, that they might see how Mordecais matters would stande: for he had tolde them, that he was a Iewe. And when Haman sawe that Mordecai bowed not the knee vnto him, nor did reuerence vnto him, then Haman was full of wrath. Now he thought it too litle to lay hands onely on Mordecai: and because they had shewed him the people of Mordecai, Haman sought to destroy all the Iewes, that were throughout the whole kingdome of Ahashuerosh, euen the people of Mordecai. In the first moneth (that is the moneth Nisan) in the twelft yere of King Ahashuerosh, they cast Pur (that is a lot) before Haman, from day to day, and from moneth to moneth, vnto the twelft moneth, that is the moneth Adar.

Then Haman said vnto King Ahashuerosh, There is a people scattered, and dispersed among the people in all the prouinces of thy kingdome, and their lawes are diuers from all people, and they doe not obserue the Kings lawes: therefore it is not the Kings profite to suffer them. If it please the King, let it be written that they may he destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of siluer by the handes of them that haue the charge of this businesse to bring it into the Kings treasurie. Then the King tooke his ring from his hand and gaue it vnto Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite the Iewes aduersarie. And the King sayde vnto Haman, Let the siluer be thine, and the people to doe with them as it pleaseth thee. Then were the Kings scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first moneth, and there was written (according to all that Haman commanded) vnto the Kings officers, and to the captaines that were ouer euery prouince, and to the rulers of euery people, and to euery prouince, according to the writing thereof, and to euery people according to their language: in the name of King Ahashuerosh was it written, and sealed with the Kings ring. And the letters were sent by postes into all the Kings prouinces, to roote out, to kill and to destroy all the Iewes, both yong and olde, children and women, in one day vpon the thirteenth day of the twelvth moneth, (which is the moneth Adar) and to spoyle them as a pray. The contents of the writing was, that there shoulde be giuen a commandement in all prouinces, and published vnto all people, that they should be ready against the same day. And the postes compelled by the Kings commandement went forth, and the commandement was giuen in the palace at Shushan: and the King and Haman sate drinking, but the citie of Shushan was in perplexitie.

Now when Mordecai perceiued all that was done, Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on sackecloth and ashes, and went out into the middes of the citie, and cryed with a great crye, and a bitter. And he came euen before the Kings gate, but he might not enter within the Kings gate, being clothed with sackecloth. And in euery prouince, and place, whither the Kings charge and his commission came, there was great sorowre among the Iewes, and fasting, and weeping and mourning, and many laye in sackecloth and in ashes. Then Esters maydes and her eunuches came and tolde it her: therefore the Queene was very heauie, and she sent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his sackecloth from him, but he receiued it not. Then called Ester Hatach one of the Kings eunuches, whom he had appointed to serue her, and gaue him a commandement vnto Mordecai, to knowe what it was, and why it was. So Hatach went foorth to Mordecai vnto the streete of the citie, which was before the Kings gate. And Mordecai tolde him of all that which had come vnto him, and of the summe of the siluer that Haman had promised to pay vnto the Kings treasures, because of the Iewes, for to destroy them. Also he gaue him the copy of the writing and commission that was giuen at Shushan, to destroy them, that he might shewe it vnto Ester and declare it vnto her, and to charge her that she should goe in to the King, and make petition and supplication before him for her people. So when Hatach came, he told Ester the wordes of Mordecai. Then Ester sayde vnto Hatach, and commanded him to say vnto Mordecai, All the Kings servants and the people of the Kings prouinces doe knowe, that whosoeuer, man or woman, that commeth to the King into the inner court, which is not called, there is a law of his, that he shall dye, except him to whom the King holdeth out the golden rodde, that he may liue. Now I haue not bene called to come vnto the King these thirtie dayes. And they certified Mordecai of Esters wordes. And Mordecai saide, that they should answere Ester thus, Thinke not with thy selfe that thou shalt escape in the Kings house, more then all the Iewes. For if thou holdest thy peace at this time, comfort and deliuerance shall appeare to the Iewes out of another place, but thou and thy fathers house shall perish: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdome for such a time? Then Ester commanded to answere Mordecai, Goe, and assemble all the Iewes that are found in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and eate not, nor drinke in three dayes, day nor night. I also and my maydes will fast likewise, and so will I go in to the King, which is not according to the lawe: and if I perish, I perish. So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Ester had commanded him.

And on the third day Ester put on her royal apparel, and stood in the court of the Kings palace within, ouer against the Kings house: and the King sate vpon his royal throne in the Kings palace ouer against the gate of the house. And when the King saw Ester the Queene standing in the court, shee founde fauour in his sight: and the King held out the golden scepter that was in his hand: so Ester drewe neere, and touched the toppe of the scepter. Then saide the King vnto her, What wilt thou, Queene Ester? and what is thy request? it shall be euen giuen thee to the halfe of ye kingdome. Then saide Ester, If it please the King, let the King and Haman come this day vnto the banket, that I haue prepared for him. And the King sayd, Cause Haman to make haste that he may doe as Ester hath sayde. So the King and Haman came to the banket that Ester had prepared. And the King sayd vnto Ester at the banket of wine, What is thy petition, that it may be giuen thee? and what is thy request? it shall euen be performed vnto the halfe of the kingdome. Then answered Ester, and sayd, My petition and my request is, If I haue found fauour in the sight of the King, and if it please the King to giue me my petition, and to perfourme my request, let the King and Haman come to the banket that I shall prepare for them, and I will doe to morowe according to the Kings saying. Then went Haman forth the same day ioyfull and with a glad heart. But when Haman sawe Mordecai in the Kings gate, that he stoode not vp, nor moued for him, then was Haman full of indignation at Mordecai. Neuerthelesse Haman refrayned himselfe: and when he came home, he sent, and called for his friends, and Zeresh his wife. And Haman tolde them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the King had promoted him, and how that he had set him aboue the princes and seruants of the King. Haman sayde moreover, Yea, Ester the Queene did let no man come in with the King to the banket that she had prepared, saue me: and to morowe am I bidden vnto her also with the King. But al this doth nothing auaile me, as long as I see Mordecai ye Iewe sitting at ye Kings gate. Then sayde Zeresh his wife and all his friends vnto him, Let them make a tree of fiftie cubites hie, and to morowe speake thou vnto the King, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then shalt thou goe joyfully with the King vnto the banket. And the thing pleased Haman, and he caused to make the tree.

The same night the King slept not, and he comanded to bring ye booke of the records, and the chronicles: and they were read before ye King. Then it was found written that Mordecai had tolde of Bigtana, and Teresh two of the Kings eunuches, keepers of the dore, who sought to lay hands on the King Ahashuerosh. Then the King sayde, What honour and dignitie hath bene giuen to Mordecai for this? And the Kings servantes that ministred vnto him, sayd, There is nothing done for him. And the King sayde, Who is in the court? (Now Haman was come into the inner court of the Kings house, that he might speake vnto the King to hang Mordecai on the tree that he had prepared for him.) And the Kings servantes said vnto him, Behold, Haman standeth in the court. And the King sayd, Let him come in. And when Haman came in, the King saide vnto him, What shalbe done vnto ye man, whom the King will honour? Then Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the King do honour more then to me? And Haman answered the King, The man whome the King would honour, Let them bring for him royall apparell, which the King vseth to weare, and the horse that the King rideth vpon, and that the crowne royall may be set vpon his head. And let the raiment and the horse be deliuered by the hand of one of the Kings most noble princes, and let them apparel the man (whome the King will honour) and cause him to ride vpon the horse thorow the streete of the citie, and proclayme before him, Thus shall it be done vnto the man, whome the King will honour. Then the King said to Haman, Make haste, take the rayment and the horse as thou hast said, and doe so vnto Mordecai the Iewe, that sitteth at the Kings gate: let nothing fayle of all that thou hast spoken. So Haman tooke the rayment and the horse, and arayed Mordecai, and brought him on horse backe thorowe the streete of the citie, and proclaymed before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the King will honour. And Mordecai came againe to the Kings gate, but Haman hasted home mourning and his head couered. And Haman tolde Zeresh his wife, and all his friends all that had befallen him. Then sayd his wise men, and Zeresh his wife vnto him, If Mordecai be of the seede of the Iewes, before whom thou hast begunne to fall; thou shalt not preuaile against him, but shalt surely fall before him. And while they were yet talking with him, came the Kings eunuches and hasted to bring Haman vnto the banket that Ester had prepared.

7 So the King and Haman came to banket with the Queene Ester. And the King said againe vnto Ester on the second day at the banket of wine, What is thy petition, Queene Ester, that it may be giue thee? and what is thy request? It shalbe eu performed vnto the halfe of the kingdome. And Ester the Queene answered, and said, If I haue found fauour in thy sight, O King, and if it please the King, let my life be giuen me at my petition, and my people at my request. For we are solde, I, and my people, to be destroyed, to be slayne and to perish: but if we were solde for servants, and for handmaides, I woulde haue helde my tongue: although the aduersarie could not recompense the Kings losse. Then King Ahashuerosh answered, and said vnto the Queene Ester, Who is he? and where is he that presumeth to doe thus? And Ester said, The aduersarie and enemie is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was afrayde before the King and the Queene. And the King arose from ye banket of wine in his wrath, and went into the palace garden: but Haman stood vp, to make request for his life to the Queene Ester: for he sawe that there was a mischiefe prepared for him of the King. And when the King came againe out of the palace garden, into the house where they dranke wine, Haman was fallen vpon the bed whereon Ester sate! therefore the King sayd, Will he force the Queene also before me in the house? As the worde went out of the Kings mouth, they couered Hamans face. And Harbonah one of the eunuches, sayde in the presence of the King, Beholde, there standeth yet the tree in Hamans house fiftie cubites hie, which Haman had prepared for Mordecai, that spake good for the King. Then the King sayd, Hang him thereon. So they hanged Haman on the tree, that he had prepared for Mordecai: then was the Kings wrath pacified.

8 The same day did King Ahashuerosh giue the house of Haman the aduersarie of the Iewes vnto the Queene Ester. and Mordecai came before the King: for Esther tolde what hee was vnto her.
And the King tooke off his ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gaue it vnto Mordecai: and Esther set Mordecai ouer the house of Haman. And Esther spake yet more before the King, and fell downe at his feete weeping, and besought him that he would put away the wickednes of Haman the Agagite, and his deuice that he had imagined against the Iewes. And the King held out the golden scepter toward Esther. Then arose Ester, and stood before the King, And sayd, If it please the King, and if I haue found fauour in his sight, and the thing be acceptable before the King, and I please him, let it be written, that the letters of the deuice of Haman the sonne of Ammedatha the Agagite may be called againe, which he wrote to destroy the Iewes, that are in all the Kings prouinces. For how can I suffer and see the euil, that shall come vnto my people? Or howe can I suffer and see the destruction of my kinred? And the King Ahashuerosh sayde vnto the Queene Ester, and to Mordecai the Iewe, Behold, I haue giuen Ester the house of Haman, whome they haue hanged vpon the tree, because he layd hand vpon the Iewes. Write yee also for the Iewes, as it liketh you in the Kings name, and seale it with the Kings ring (for the writings written in the Kings name, and sealed with the Kings ring, may no man reuoke) Then were the Kings Scribes called at the same time, euuen in the thirde moneth, that is the moneth Siuan, on the three and twentieth day thereof: and it was written, according to all as Mordecai commanded, vnto the Iewes and to the princes, and captains, and rulers of the prouinces, which were from India euuen vnto Ethiopia, an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces, vnto every prouince, according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their speache, and to the Iewes, according to their writing, and according to their language. And hee wrote in the King Ahashuerosh name, and sealed it with the Kings ring: and he sent letters by postes on horsebacke and that rode on beastes of price, as dromedaries and coltes of mares. Wherein the King graunted the Iewes (in what cities so euer they were) to gather theselues together, and to stand for their life, and to roote out, to slay and to destroy al the power of the people and of the prouince that vexed them, both children and women, and to spoyle their goods: Vpon one day in all the prouinces of King Ahashuerosh, even in the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is the moneth Adar. The copie of the writing was, howe there should be a commandement giuen in all and every prouince, published among all the people, and that the Iewes should be ready against that day to auenge themselves on their enemies. So the postes rode vpon beasts of price, and dromedaries, and went forth with speede, to execute the Kings commandement, and the decree was giuen at Shushan the palace. And Mordecai went out from the King in royall apparell of blewe, and white, and with a great crowne of gold, and with a garment of fine linen and purple, and the citie of Shushan reioyced and was glad. And vnto the Iewes was come light and ioy and gladnes, and honour. Also in all and every prouince, and in al and every citie and place, where the Kings commandement and his decree came, there was ioy and gladnes to the Iewes, a feast and good day, and many of the people of the land became Iewes: for the feare of the Iewes fell vpon them.

So in the twelfth moneth, which is the moneth Adar, vpon the thirteenth daye of the same, when the Kings commandement and his decree drew neere to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Iewes hoped to haue power ouer them (but it turned contrary: for the Iewes had rule ouer them that hated them) The Iewes gathered themselues together into their cities throughout all the prouinces of the King Ahashuerosh, to lay hande on such as sought their hurt, and no man coulde withstande them: for the feare of them fel vpon al people. And all the rulers of the prouinces, and the princes and the captaines, and the officers of the King exalted the Iewes: for the feare of Mordecai fell vpon them. For Mordecai was great in the kings house, and the report of him went through all the prouinces: for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater. Thus the Iewes smote all their enemies with strokes of the sworde and slaughter, and destruction, and did what they woulde vnto those that hated them. And at Shushan the palace slewe the Iewes and destroyed fiue hundreth men, And Parshandatha, and Dalphon, and Aspatha, And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha, And Parmashta, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Vaiezatha, The ten sonnes of Haman, ye sonne of Ammedatha, the aduersarie of the Iewes slewe they: but they layd not their hands on the spoyle.
On the same day came ye number of those that were slayne, vnto the palace of Shushan before the King.  And the King sayd vnto the Queene Ester, The Iewes haue slayne in Shushan the palace and destroyed fiue hundreth men, and the ten sonnes of Haman: what haue they done in the rest of the Kings prouinces? and what is thy petition, that it may be giuen thee? or what is thy request moreouer, that it may be performed?  Then sayd Ester, If it please the King, let it be granted also to morow to the Iewes that are in Shushan, to do according vnto this daies decree, that they may hang vpon ye tree Hamans ten sonnes.  And the King charged to doe so, and the decree was giuen at Shushan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes.  So the Iewes that were in Shushan, assembled themselves vpon the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and slew three hundreth men in Shushan, but on the spoyle they layd not their hand.  And the rest of the Iewes that were in the Kings prouinces assembled themselves, and stood for their liues, and had rest from their enemies, and slewe of them that hated them, seuentie and fiue thousand: but they layd not their hand on the spoyle.  This they did on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar, and rested the fourteenth day thereof, and kept it a day of feasting and ioy.  But the Iewes that were in Shushan assembled themselves on the thirteenth day, and on the fourteenth therof, and they rested on the fifteenth of the same, and kept it a day of feasting and ioy. Therefore the Iewes of the villages that dwelt in the vnwalled townes, kept the foureteenth day of the moneth Adar with ioy and feasting, euen a ioyfull day, and euery one sent presents vnto his neighbour.  And Mordecai wrote these words, and sent letters vnto all the Iewes that were through all the prouinces of the King Ahashuerosh, both neere and farre, Inioyning them that they shoulde keepe the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and the fifteenth day of the same, euery yeere.  According to the dayes wherein the Iewes rested from their enemies, and the moneth which was turned vnto them from sorowe to ioy, and from mourning into a ioyfull day, to keepe them the dayes of feasting, and ioy, and to sende presents euery man to his neyghbour, and giftes to the poore.  And the Iewes promised to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written vnto them, Because Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite al the Iewes aduersarie, had imagined against the Iewes, to destroy them, and had cast Pur (that is a lot) to consume and destroy them. And when she came before the King, he commanded by letters, Let this wicked devise (which he imagined against the Iewes) turne vpon his owne head, and let them hang him and his sonnes on the tree.
Therfore they called these dayes Purim, by the name of Pur, and because of all the wordes of this letter, and of that which they had seen besides this, and of that which had come vnto them. The Iewes also ordeined, and promised for them and for their seede, and for all that ioyned vnto them, that they would not faile to oberse those two dayes euery yeere, according to their writing, and according to their season, And that these dayes shoulde be remembred, and kept throughout euery generation and euery famili, and euery prouince, and euery citie: euen these daies of Purim should not faile among the Iewes, and the memorialis of them should not perish from their seede. And the Queene Ester ye daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Iew wrote with al authoritie (to cofirme this letter of Purim ye second time) And he sent letters vnto al the Iewes to the hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces of the kingdome of Ahashuerosh, with words of peace and trueth, To cofirme these dayes of Purim, according to their seasons, as Mordecai the Iewe and Ester the Queene had appointed them, and as they had promised for them selues and for their seede with fasting and prayer. And the decree of Ester confirmed these words of Purim, and was written in the booke.

And the King Ahashuerosh layd a tribute vpon the land, and vpon the yles of the sea. And all the actes of his power, and of his might, and the declaration of the dignitie of Mordecai, wherwith the King magnified him, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Persia? For Mordecai the Iewe was the second vnto King Ahashuerosh, and great among the Iewes, and accepted among the multitude of his brethren, who procured the wealth of his people, and spake peaceably to all his seede. there was a man in the lande of Vz called Iob, and this man was an upright and just man, one that feared God, and eschewed evil. And he had seven sons, and three daughters. His substance also was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred shee asses, and his family was very great, so that this man was the greatest of all the men of the East. And his sons went and banketted in their houses, every one his day, and sent, and called their three sisters to eate and to drinke with them. And when the dayes of their banketting were gone about, Iob sent, and sanctified them, and rose vp early in the morning, and offred burnt offtings according to the number of them all. For Iob thought, It may be that my sons haue sinned, and blasphemed God in their hearts: thus did Iob every day. Nowe on a day when the children of God came and stoode before the Lord, Satan came also among them. Then the Lord sayde vnto Satan, Whence commest thou? And Satan answered the Lord, saying, From compassing the earth to and from, and from walking in it. And the Lord saide vnto Satan, Hast thou not considered my seruant Iob, how none is like him in the earth? an upright and just man, one that feareth God, and escheweth euill? Then Satan answered the Lord, and sayde, Doeth Iob feare God for nought? Hast thou not made an hedge about him and about his house, and about all that he hath on euery side? thou hast blessed the worke of his hands, and his substance is increased in the land. But stretch out now thine hand and touch all that he hath, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face. Then the Lord sayde vnto Satan, Lo, all that he hath is in thine hand: onely vpon himselfe shalt thou not stretch out thine hand. So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord. And on a day, when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brothers house, There came a messenger vnto Iob, and said, The oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding in their places, And the Shabeans came violently, and tooke them: yea, they haue slayne the servantes with the edge of the sworde: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee. And whiles he was yet speaking, another came, and sayde, The fire of God is fallen from the heauen, and hath burnt vp the sheepe and the servantes, and deuoured them: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee. And whiles he was yet speaking, another came, and sayd, The Caldeans set on three bands, and fell vpon the camels, and haue taken them, and haue slayne the servantes with the edge of the sworde: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee. And whiles he was yet speaking, came an other, and sayd, Thy sonnes, and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldest brothers house, And behold, there came a great wind from beyonde the wildernesse, and smote the foure corners of the house, which fel vpon the children, and they are dead, and I onely am escaped alone to tell thee. Then Iob arose, and rent his garment, and shaued his head, and fel downe vpon the ground, and worshipped, And sayd, Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I returne thither: the Lord hath giuen, and the Lord hath taken it: blessed be the Name of the Lord. In all this did not Iob sinne, nor charge God foolishly.

And on a day the children of God came and stood before the Lord, and Satan came also among them, and stoode before the Lord. Then the Lord sayde vnto Satan, Whence commest thou?
And Satan answered the Lord, and sayd, From compassing the earth to and from, and from walking in it. And the Lord sayd vnto Satan, Hast thou not considered my seruant Iob, how none is like him in the earth? an vpright and iust man, one that feareth God, and escheweth euill? for yet he continueth in his vprightnesse, although thou mouedst me against him, to destroy him without cause. And Satan answered the Lord, and sayde, Skin for skin, and all that euer a man hath, will he giue for his life. But stretch now out thine hand, and touch his bones and his flesh, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face.
Then the Lord said vnto Satan, Lo, he is in thine hand, but saue his life. So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord, and smote Iob with sore boyles, from the sole of his foote vnto his crowne. And he tooke a potsharde to scrape him, and he sate downe among the ashes. Then said his wife vnto him, Doest thou continue yet in thine vprightnes? Blaspheme God, and dye. But he said vnto her, Thou speakest like a foolish woman: what? shall we receiue good at the hande of God, and not receiue euill? In all this did not Iob sinne with his lippes. Nowe when Iobs three friends heard of all this euill that was come vpon him, they came euery one from his owne place, to wit, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to lament with him, and to comfort him. So when they lift vp their eyes a farre off, they knewe him not: therefore they lift vp their voyces and wept, and euery one of them rent his garment, and sprinkled dust vpon their heads toward the heauen. So they sate by him vpon the ground seuen dayes, and seuen nights, and none spake a worde vnto him: for they sawe, that the griefe was very great.

Afterward Iob opened his mouth, and cursed his day. And Iob cryed out, and sayd, Let the day perish, wherein I was borne, and the night when it was sayde, There is a man child conceived. Let that day bee darkenesse, let not God regarde it from aboue, neyther let the light shine vpon it. But let darkenesse, and the shadowe of death staine it: let the cloude remayne vpon it, and let them make it fearefull as a bitter day. Let darkenesse possesse that night, let it not be ioyned vnto the dayes of the yeere, nor let it come into the count of the moneths. Yea, desolate be that night, and let no ioy be in it. Let them that curse the day, (being readie to renue their mourning) curse it. Let the starres of that twilight be dimme through darkenesse of it: let it looke for light, but haue none: neither let it see the dawning of the day, Because it shut not vp the dores of my mothers wombe: nor hid sorowe from mine eyes. Why died I not in the birth? or why dyed I not, when I came out of the wombe? Why did the knees preuent me? and why did I sucke the breasts? For so shoulde I now haue lynen and bene quiet, I should haue slept then, and bene at rest, With the Kings and counsellors of the earth, which haue buylded themselues desolate places: Or with the princes that had golde, and haue filled their houses with siluer. Or why was I not hid, as an vntimely birth, either as infants, which haue not seene the light? The wicked haue there ceased from their tyrannie, and there they that laboured valiantly, are at rest. The prisoners rest together, and hear not the voice of the oppressour. There are small and great, and the servant is free from his master. Wherefore is the light given to him that is in miserie? and life vnto them that have heavy hearts? Which long for death, and if it come not, they would even search it more then treasures: Which joy for gladnes, and reioyce, when they can finde the graue. Why is the light given to the man whose way is hid, and whom God hath hedged in? For my sighing commeth before I eate, and my roarings are powred out like the water. For the thing I feared, is come vpon me, and the thing that I was afraid of, is come vnto me. I had no peace, neither had I quietnesse, neither had I rest, yet trouble is come.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and sayde, If we as-say to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieued? but who can withholde himselfe from speaking? Behold, thou hast taught many, and hast strengthened the wearie hands. Thy wordes have confirmed him that was falling, and thou hast strength-ened the weake knees. But now it is come vpon thee, and thou art grieued: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled. Is not this thy feare, thy confidence, thy pacience, and the vprightnesse of thy wayes? Remember, I pray thee: who euer perished, being an innocent? or where were the vpright destroyed? As I haue scene, they that plow iniquitie, and sowe wickednesse, reape the same. With the blast of God they perish, and with the breath of his nostrels are they cosumed. The roaring of the Lion, and the voyce of the Lionesse, and the teeth of the Lions whelpes are broken. The Lyon perisheth for lacke of pray, and the Lyons whelpes are scattered abroade. But a thing was brought to me secretly, and mine eare hath receiued a litle thereof. In the thoughtes of ye visions of the night, when sleepe falleth on men, Feare came vpon me, and dread which made all my bones to tremble. And the wind passed before me, and made the heares of my flesh to stande vp. Then stoode one, and I knewe not his face: an image was before mine eyes, and in silence heard I a voyce, saying, Shall man be more iust then God? or shall a man be more pure then his maker? Beholde, he founde no sted-fastnesse in his Seruants, and laid follie vpon his Angels. Howe much more in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose founoration is in the dust, which shalbe destroyed before the moth? They be destroyed from the morning vnnto the euening: they perish for euer, without regarde. Doeth not their dignitie goe away with them? do they not die, and that without wisdom?

Call nowe, if any will answere thee, and to which of the Saintes wilt thou turne? Doubtlesse anger killeth the foolish, and enuie slayeth the idiote. I haue seene the foolish well rooted, and suddenly I cursed his habitation, saying, His children shalbe farre from saluation, and they shall be destroyed in the gate, and none shall deliuer them. The hungrie shall eate vp his haruest: yea, they shall take it from among the thornes, and the thirstie shall drinke vp their substance. For miserie commeth not foorth of the dust, neither doeth affliction spring out of the earth. But man is borne vnnto trauaile, as the sparkes flie vpwarde. But I would inqurie at God, and turne my talke vnnto God: Which doeth great things and vnsearchable, and marueilous things without nomber. He giueth raine vpon the earth, and powreth water vpon the streetes, And setteth vp on hie them that be lowe, that the sorowfull may be exalted to saluation. He scattereth the deuices of the craftie: so that their handes can not accomplish that which they doe enterprise. He taketh the wise in their craftinesse, and the counsel of the wicked is made foolish. They meete with darkenesse in the day time, and grope at noone day, as in the night. But he saueth the poore from the sword, from their mouth, and from the hande of the violent man, So that the poore hath his hope, but iniquitie shall stop her mouth. Beholde, blessed is the man whome God correcteth: therefore refuse not thou the chastising of the Almighty. For he maketh the wound, and bindeth it vp: he smiteth, and his handes make whole. He shall deliuer thee in sixe troubles, and in the seuenth the euill shall not touch thee. In famine he shall deliuer thee from death: and in battel from the power of the sworde. Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue, and thou shalt not be afraid of destruction when it commeth. But thou shalt laugh at destruction and dearth, and shalt not be afraide of the beast of the earth. For the stones of the fielde shall be in league with thee, and the beastes of the field shall be at peace with thee. And thou shalt knowe, that peace shall be in thy tabernacle, and thou shalt visite thine habitation, and shalt not sinne. Thou shalt perceiue also, that thy seede shall be great, and thy posteritie as the grasse of the earth. Thou shalt goe to thy graue in a ful age, as a ricke of corne commeth in due season into the barne. Lo, thus haue we inquired of it, and so it is: heare this and knowe it for thy selfe.

But Job answered, and said, Oh that my griefe were well weighed, and my miseries were layed together in the balance.
For it woulde be nowe heauier then the sande of the sea: therefore my wordes are swallowed vp. For the arrowes of the Almightie are in me, the venime whereof doeth drinke vp my spirit, and the terours of God fight against me. Doeth the wilde asse bray when he hath grasse? or loweth the oxe when he hath fodder?
That which is vnsauerie, shall it be eaten without salt? or is there any taste in the white of an egge? Such things as my soule refused to touch, as were sorowes, are my meate. Oh that I might haue my desire, and that God would grant me the thing that I long for! That is, that God would destroy me: that he would let his hand go, and cut me off. Then should I yet haue comfort, (though I burne with sorowe, let him not spare) because I haue not denied the wordes of the Holy one. What power haue I that I should endure? or what is mine end, if I should prolong my life? Is my strength the strength of stones? or is my flesh of brasse? Is it not so, that there is in me no helpe? and that strength is taken from me? He that is in miserie, ought to be comforted of his neighbour: but men haue forsaken the feare of the Almightie. My brethre haue deceiued me as a brook, and as the rising of the riuers they passe away. Which are blackish with yee, and wherein the snowe is hid. But in time they are dryed vp with heate and are consumed: and when it is hote they faile out of their places, Or they depart from their way and course, yea, they vanish and perish. They that go to Tema, considered them, and they that goe to Sheba, waited for them. But they were confounded: when they hoped, they came thither and were ashamed. Surely nowe are ye like vnto it: ye haue scene my fearefull plague, and are afraide. Was it because I said, Bring unto me? or giue a rewarde to me of your substance? And deliuer me from the enemies hande, or ransome me out of the hand of tyrants? Teach me, and I wil hold my tongue: and cause me to vnderstande, wherein I haue erred. Howe stedfast are the words of righteousnes? and what can any of you justly reproue? Doe ye imagine to reproue wordes, that the talke of the afflicted should be as the winde? Ye make your wrath to fall vpon the fatherlesse, and dig a pit for your friende. Nowe therefore be content to looke vpon me: for I will not lie before your face. Turne, I pray you, let there be none iniquitie: returne, I say, and ye shall see yet my righteousnesse in that behalfe. Is there iniquitie in my tongue? doeth not my mouth feele sorowes?

Is there not an appointed time to man vpon earth? and are not his dayes as the dayes of an hyreling? As a seruant longeth for the shadowe, and as an hyreling looketh for the ende of his worke, So haue I had as an inheritance the moneths of vanitie, and painefull nights haue bene appointed vnto me. If I layed me downe, I sayde, When shall I arise? and measuring the euening I am euen full with tossing to and from the dawning of the day. My flesh is clothed with wormes and filthinesse of the dust: my skinne is rent, and become horrible. My dayes are swifter then a weauers shittle, and they are spent without hope. Remember that my life is but a wind, and that mine eye shall not returne to see pleasure. The eye that hath seene me, shall see me no more: thine eyes are vpon me, and I shall be no longer. As the cloude vanisheth and goeth away, so he that goeth downe to the graue, shall come vp no more. He shall returne no more to his house, neither shall his place knowe him any more. Therefore I will not spare my mouth, but will speake in the trouble of my spirite, and muse in the bitternesse of my minde. Am I a sea or a whalefish, that thou keepest me in warde? When I say, My couch shall relieue me, and my bed shall bring comfort in my meditation, Then fearest thou me with dreames, and astonishest me with visions. Therefore my soule chuseth rather to be strangled and to die, then to be in my bones. I abhorre it, I shall not liue alway: spare me then, for my dayes are but vanitie. What is man, that thou doest magnifie him, and that thou settest thine heart vpon him? And doest visite him euery morning, and tryest him euery moment? Howe long will it be yer thou depart from me? thou wilt not let me alone whiles I may swallowe my spettle. I haue sinned, what shall I do vnto thee? O thou preseruer of me, why hast thou set me as a marke against thee, so that I am a burden vnto my selfe? And why doest thou not pardon my trespasse? and take away mine inquitie? for nowe shall I sleepe in the dust, and if thou seekest me in the morning, I shall not be found.

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said, Howe long wilt thou talke of these things? and howe long shall the wordes of thy mouth be as a mightie winde? Doeth God peruert judgement? or doeth the Almighty subuert iustice? If thy sonnes haue sinned against him, and he hath sent them into the place of their iniquitie, Yet if thou wilt early seeke vnto God, and pray to the Almighty, If thou be pure and vpright, then surely hee will awake vp vnto thee, and he wil make the habitation of thy righteousnesse prosperous. And though thy beginning be small, yet thy latter ende shall greatly encrease. Inquire therefore, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thy selfe to search of their fathers. (For we are but of yesterday, and are ignorant: for our dayes vpon earth are but a shadowe) Shall not they teach thee and tell thee, and vtter the wordes of their heart? Can a rush grow without myre? or can ye grasse growe without water? Though it were in greene and not cutte downe, yet shall it wither before any other herbe. So are the paths of al that forget God, and the hypocrites hope shall perish. His confidence also shalbe cut off, and his trust shalbe as the house of a spyder. He shall leane vpon his house, but it shall not stand: he shall holde him fast by it, yet shall it not endure. The tree is greene before the sunne, and the branches spread ouer the garden thereof. The rootes thereof are wrapped about the fountaine, and are folden about ye house of stones. If any plucke it from his place, and it denie, saying, I haue not seene thee, Beholde, it will reioyce by this meanes, that it may growe in another molde. Behold, God will not cast away an vpright man, neither will he take the wicked by the hand, Till he haue filled thy mouth with laughter, and thy lippes with ioy. They that hate thee, shall be clothed with shame, and the dwelling of the wicked shall not remaine.

Then Job answered, and sayd, I knowe verily that it is so: for howe should man compared vnto God, be iustified? If I would dispute with him, hee could not answere him one thing of a thousand. He is wise in heart, and mighty in strength: who hath bene fierce against him and hath prospered? He remoueth the mountaines, and they feele not when he ouerthroweth them in his wrath. He remoueth the earth out of her place, that the pillars thereof doe shake. He commandeth the sunne, and it riseth not: hee closeth vp the starres, as vnder a signet. Hee himselfe alone spreadeth out the heauens, and walketh vpon the height of the sea. He maketh the starres Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the climates of the South. He doeth great things, and vnsearcheable: yea, marueilous things without nomber. Lo, when he goeth by me, I see him not: and when he passeth by, I perceiue him not. Behold, when he taketh a pray, who can make him to restore it? who shall say vnto him, What doest thou? God will not withdrawe his anger, and the most mightie helpes doe stoupe vnder him. Howe much lesse shall I answere him? or howe should I finde out my words with him? For though I were iust, yet could I not answere, but I would make supplication to my Iudge. If I cry, and he answere me, yet woulde I not beleuee, that he heard my voyce. For he destroyeth mee with a tempest, and woundeth me without cause. He wil not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitternesse. If we speake of strength, behold, he is strog: if we speake of iudgement, who shall bring me in to pleade? If I woulde justifie my selfe, mine owne mouth shall condemne mee: if I would be perfite, he shall iudge me wicked. Though I were perfite, yet I knowe not my soule: therefore abhorre I my life. This is one point: therefore I said, Hee destroyeth the perfite and the wicked. If the scourge should suddenly slay, should God laugh at the punishment of the innocent? The earth is giuen into the hand of ye wicked: he couereth the faces of the iudges therof: if not, where is he? or who is he? My dayes haue bene more swift then a post: they haue fled, and haue seene no good thing. They are passed as with the most swift ships, and as the eagle that flyeth to the pray. If I say, I wil forget my complaynt, I will cease from my wrath, and comfort mee, Then I am afayrd of all my sorowes, knowing that thou wilt not iudge me innocent. If I be wicked, why labour I thus in vaine? If I wash my selfe with snowe water, and purge mine hands most cleane, Yet shalt thou plunge mee in the pit, and mine owne clothes shall make me filthie. For he is not a man as I am, that I shoulde answere him, if we come together to iudgement. Neyther is there any vmpire that might lay his hand vpon vs both. Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his feare astonish me: Then will I speake, and feare him not: but because I am not so, I holde me still.

My soule is cut off though I liue: I wil leaue my complaint vpon my selfe, and wil speake in the bitternesse of my soule. I will say vnto God, Condemne mee not: shew me, wherefore thou contendest with mee. Thinkest thou it good to oppresse me, and to cast off the labour of thine handes, and to fauour the counsel of the wicked? Hast thou carnall eyes? or doest thou see as man seeth? Are thy dayes as mans dayes? or thy yeres, as the time of man, That thou inquirest of mine iniquitie, and searchest out my sinne? Thou knowest that I can not do wickedly: for none can deliuer me out of thine hand. Thine handes haue made me, and fashioned mee wholy rounde about, and wilt thou destroy me? Remember, I pray thee, that thou hast made me as the clay, and wilt thou bring me into dust againe? Hast thou not powred me out as milke? and turned me to cruds like cheese? Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and ioyned me together with bones and sinewes. Thou hast giuen me life, and grace: and thy visitation hath preserued my spirit. Though thou hast hid these things in thine heart, yet I knowe that it is so with thee. If I haue sinned, then thou wilt streightly looke vnto me, and wilt not holde mee giltlesse of mine iniquitie. If I haue done wickedly, wo vnto me: if I haue done righteously, I will not lift vp mine head, being full of confusion, because I see mine affliction. But let it increase: hunt thou me as a lyon: returne and shew thy selfe marueilous vpon me. Thou renuest thy plagues against me, and thou increasest thy wrath against me: changes and armies of sorowes are against me. Wherfore then hast thou brought me out of the wombe? Oh that I had perished, and that none eye had seene me! And that I were as I had not bene, but brought from the wombe to the graue! Are not my dayes fewe? let him cease, and leaue off from me, that I may take a litle comfort, Before I goe and shall not returne, eu.en to the land of darkenesse and shadow of death: Into a land, I say, darke as darknes it selfe, and into the shadow of death, where is none order, but the light is there as darkenesse.

2 Then answered Zaphar the Naamathite, and sayde, Should not the multitude of wordes be answered? or should a great talker be justified? Should men holde their peace at thy lyes? and when thou mockest others, shall none make thee ashamed? For thou hast sayde, My doctrine is pure, and I am cleane in thine eyes. But, oh that God would speake and open his lippes against thee! That he might shewe thee the secretes of wisedome, howe thou hast deserued double, according to right: know therefore that God hath forgotten thee for thine iniquitie. Canst thou by searching finde out God? canst thou finde out ye Almighty to his perfection? The heauens are hie, what canst thou doe? it is deeper then the hell, how canst thou know it? The measure thereof is longer then the earth, and it is broader then the sea. If hee cut off and shut vp, or gather together, who can turne him backe? For hee knoweth vaine men, and seeth iniquitie, and him that understandeth nothing. Yet vaine man would be wise, though man new borne is like a wilde asse colte. If thou prepare thine heart, and stretch out thine hands toward him: If iniquitie be in thine hand, put it farre away, and let no wickednesse dwell in thy Tabernacle. The truely shalt thou lift vp thy face without spot, and shalt be stable, and shalt not feare. But thou shalt forget thy miserie, and remember it as waters that are past. Thine age also shall appeare more cleare then the noone day: thou shalt shine and bee as the morning. And thou shalt bee bolde, because there is hope: and thou shalt digge pittes, and shalt lye downe safely. For when thou takest thy rest, none shall make thee afraide: yea, many shall make sute vnto thee. But the eyes of the wicked shall faile, and their refuge shall perish, and their hope shalbe sorow of minde.

Then Iob answered, and sayde, In deede because that ye are the people onely, wisedome must dye with you. But I haue vnderstanding aswel as you, and am not inferior vnto you: yea, who knoweth not such things? I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth vpon God, and he heareth him: the iust and the vpright is laughed to scorne. Hee that is readie to fall, is as a lampe despised in the opinion of the riche. The tabernacles of robbers doe prosper, and they are in safetie, that prouoke God, whome God hath enriched with his hand. Aske now the beasts, and they shall teach thee, and the foules of the heauen, and they shall tell thee: Or speake to the earth, and it shall shewe thee: or the fishes of the sea, and they shall declare vnto thee. Who is ignorant of all these, but that the hande of the Lord hath made these? In whose hande is the soule of every living thing, and the breath of all mankinde. Doeth not the eares discerne the words? and the mouth taste meate for it selfe? Among the ancient is wisedome, and in the length of dayes is understanding. With him is wisedome and strength: he hath counsell and understanding. Beholde, he will breake downe, and it can not be built: he shutteth a man vp, and he can not be loosed. Be-holde, he withholdeth the waters, and they drie vp: but when he sendeth them out, they destroy the earth. With him is strength and wisedome: hee that is deceiued, and that deceiueth, are his.
He causeth the counsellers to goe as spoyled, and maketh the judges fooles. He looseth the collar of Kings, and girdeth their loynes with a girdle. He leadeth away the princes as a pray, and overthroweth the mightie. He taketh away the speach from the faithfull counsellers, and taketh away the judgement of the ancient. He powreth contempt upon princes, and maketh the strength of the mightie weake. He discourereth the deepe places from their darkenesse, and bringeth fourth the shadowe of death to light. He increaseth the people, and destroyeth them: he inlargeth the nations, and bringeth them in againe. He taketh away the heartes of the that are the chiefe ouer the people of the earth, and maketh them to wander in the wildernes out of the way. They grope in the darke without light: and he maketh the to stagger like a drunken man.

Loe, mine eye hath seene all this: mine eare hath heard, and vnderstande it. I knowe also as much as you knowe: I am not inferiour vnto you. But I will speake to the Almightye, and I desire to dispute with God. For in deede ye forge lyes, and all you are physitions of no value. Oh, that you woulde holde your tongue, that it might be imputed to you for wisedome! Nowe heare my disputation, and giue eare to the arguments of my lips.
Will ye speake wickedly for Gods defence, and talke deceitfully for his cause? Will ye accept his person? or will ye contende for God? Is it well that he shoulde seeke of you? will you make a lye for him, as one lyeth for a man? He will surely reprooue you, if ye doe secretly accept any person. Shall not his excellencie make you afraid? and his feare fall vpon you? Your memories may be compared vnto ashes, and your bodyes to bodyes of clay.
Holde your tongues in my presence, that I may speake, and let come vpon what will. Wherefore doe I take my flesh in my teeth, and put my soule in mine hande? Loe, though he slay me, yet will I trust in him, and I will reprooue my wayes in his sight. He shalbe my salvation also: for the hypocrite shall not come before him. Heare diligently my wordes, and marke my talke. Beholde nowe: if I prepare me to iudgement, I knowe that I shalbe justified. Who is he, that will pleade with me? for if I nowe holde my tongue, I dye. But doe not these two things vnto me: then will I not hide my selfe from thee. Withdrawe thine hande from me, and let not thy feare make me afraide. Then call thou, and I will answere: or let me speake, and answere thou me. Howe many are mine iniquities and sinnes? shewe me my rebellion, and my sinne. Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and takest me for thine enemie? Wilt thou breake a leafe driuen to and from? and wilt thou pursue the drie stubble? For thou writest bitter things against me, and makest me to possesse the iniquities of my youth. Thou puttest my feete also in the stocks, and lookest narrowly vnto all my pathes, and makest the print thereof in ye heeles of my feet. Such one consumeth like a rotten thing, and as a garment that is motheaten.

Man that is borne of woman, is of short continuance, and full of trouble. He shooteth foorth as a flowre, and is cut downe: he vanisheth also as a shadowe, and continueth not. And yet thou openest thine eyes vpon such one, and causest me to enter into iudgement with thee. Who can bring a cleane thing out of filthinesse? there is not one. Are not his dayes determined? the nober of his moneths are with thee: thou hast appointed his boundes, which he can not passe. Turne from him that he may cease vntill his desired day, as an hyreling. For there is hope of a tree, if it bee cut downe, that it will yet sproute, and the branches thereof will not cease. Though the roote of it waxe olde in the earth, and the stocke thereof be dead in ye ground, Yet by the sent of water it will bud, and bring foorth boughes like a plant. But man is sicke, and dyeth, and man perisheth, and where is he? As the waters passe from the sea, and as the flood decayeth and dryeth vp, So man sleepeth and riseth not: for hee shall not wake againe, nor be raised from his sleepe till the heauen be no more. Oh that thou wouldest hide me in the graue, and keepe me secret, vntill thy wrath were past, and wouldest giue me terme, and remember me. If a man die, shall he liue againe? All the dayes of mine appointed time will I waite, till my changing shall come. Thou shalt call me, and I shall answere thee: thou lovest the worke of thine own hands. But nowe thou nombrest my steppes, and doest not delay my sinnes. Mine iniquitie is sealed vp, as in a bagge, and thou addest vnto my wickednesse.
And surely as the mountaine that falleth, commeth to nought, and the rocke that is remoued from his place: As the water breaketh the stones, when thou ouerflowest the things which growe in the dust of ye earth: so thou destroyest ye hope of man. Thou preuailest alway against him, so that he passeth away: he changeth his face when thou castest him away. And he knoweth not if his sonnes shall be honourable, neither shall he undred concerning them, whether theyshalbe of lowe degree, But while his flesh is vpon him, he shall be sorowfull, and while his soule is in him, it shall mourne.

Then answered Eliphaz the Temanite, and saide, Shal a wise man speake words of ye winde, and fill his bellie with the East winde? Shall he dispute with wordes not comely? or with talke that is not profitable? Surely thou hast cast off feare, and restrainest prayer before God. For thy mouth declareth thine iniquitie, seeing thou hast chosen ye tongue of the crafty. Thine owne mouth condemneth thee, and not I, and thy lippes testifie against thee. Art thou the first man, that was borne? and wast thou made before the hils? Hast thou heard the secret counsell of God, and doest thou restraine wisedome to thee? What knowest thou that we knowe not? and understandest that is not in vs? With vs are both auncient and very aged men, farre older then thy father. Seeme the consolations of God small vnto thee? is this thing strange vnto thee? Why doeth thine heart take thee away, and what doe thine eyes meane, That thou answerest to God at thy pleasure, and bringest such wordes out of thy mouth? What is man, that he should be cleane? and he that is borne of woman, that he shoulde be iust? Beholde, he founde no stedfastnesse in his Saintes: yea, the heauens are not cleane in his sight. How much more is man abominable, and filthie, which drinketh iniquitie like water? I will tell thee: heare me, and I will declare that which I haue seene: Which wise men haue tolde, as they haue heard of their fathers, and haue not kept it secret: To whome alone the land was giuen and no stranger passed through them. The wicked man is continually as one that traueileth of childe, and the number of yeeres is hid from the tyrant. A sounde of feare is in his eares, and in his prosperitie the destroyer shall come vpon him. He beleeueth not to returne out of darknesse: for he seeth the sworde before him. He wandreth to and from for bread where he may: he knoweth that the day of darknesse is prepared at hande. Affliction and anguish shall make him afraide: they shall preuaile against him as a King readie to the battell. For he hath stretched out his hand against GOD, and made him selfe strong against the Almighty. Therefore God shall runne vpon him, euen vpon his necke, and against the most thicke part of his shielde. Because he hath couered his face with his fatnesse, and hath colloppes in his flanke. Though he dwell in desolate cities, and in houses which no man inhabiteth, but are become heapes, He shall not be rich, neither shall his substance continue, neither shall he prolong the perfection thereof in the earth. He shall neuer depart out of darknesse: the flame shall drie vp his branches, and he shall goe away with the breath of his mouth. He beleeueth not that he erreth in vanitie: therefore vanitie shalbe his change. His branch shall not be greene, but shall be cut off before his day. God shall destroy him as the vine her sower grape, and shall cast him off, as the oliue doeth her flowre. For the congregation of the hypocrite shalbe desolate, and fire shall deuoure the houses of bribes. For they conceiue mischiefe and bring foorth vanitie, and their bellie hath prepared deceite.

Bvt Iob answered, and said, I haue oft times heard such things: miserable comforters are ye all. Shall there be none ende of wordes of winde? or what maketh thee bold so to answere? I could also speake as yee doe: (but woulde God your soule were in my soules stead) I could keepe you company in speaking, and could shake mine head at you, But I woulde strengthen you with my mouth, and the comfort of my lips should asswage your sorowe. Though I speake, my sorow can not be asswaged: though I cease, what release haue I? But now hee maketh mee wearie: O God, thou hast made all my congregation desolate, And hast made me full of wrinkles which is a witnesse thereof, and my leannes ryseth vp in me, testifying the same in my face.
9 His wrath hath torne me, and hee hateth me, and gnasheth vpon mee with his teeth: mine enemie hath sharpened his eyes against me. They haue opened their mouthes vpon me, and smitten me on the cheeke in reproch; they gather themselues together against me. God hath deliuered me to the vniust, and hath made mee to turne out of the way by the hands of the wicked. I was in welth, but he hath brought me to nought: he hath taken me by the necke, and beaten me, and set me as a marke for himselfe. His archers compasse mee rounde about: he cutteth my reines, and doth not spare, and powreth my gall vpon the ground. He hath broken me with one breaking vpon another, and runneth vpon me like a gyant. I haue sowed a sackcloth vpon my skinne, and haue abased mine horne vnto the dust.
My face is withered with weeping, and the shadow of death is vpon mine eyes, Though there be no wickednesse in mine hands, and my prayer be pure. O earth, couer not thou my blood, and let my crying finde no place. For lo, now my witnesse is in the heauen, and my record is on hie. My friends speake eloquently against me: but mine eye powreth out teares vnto God. Oh that a man might pleade with God, as man with his neighbour!
For the yeeres accounted come, and I shall go the way, whence I shall not returne.

My breath is corrupt: my dayes are cut off, and the graue is readie for me. There are none but mockers with mee, and mine eye continueth in their bitternesse. Lay downe nowe and put me in suretie for thee: who is hee, that will touch mine hand?
For thou hast hid their heart from vnderstanding: therefore shalt thou not set them vp on hie. For the eyes of his children shall faile, that speaketh flattery to his friends. Hee hath also made mee a byword of the people, and I am as a Tabret before them.
Mine eye therefore is dimme for griefe, and all my strength is like a shadowe. The righteous shalbe astonied at this, and the innocent shalbe mowed against ye hypocrite. But the righteous wil holde his way, and he whose hands are pure, shall increase his strength. All you therefore turne you, and come nowe, and I shall not finde one wise among you. My dayes are past, mine enterprises are broken, and the thoughts of mine heart. Haue changed the nyght for the day, and the light that approched, for darkenesse. Though I hope, yet the grauе shall bee mine house, and I shall make my bed in the darke. I shall say to corruption, Thou art my father, and to the worme, Thou art my mother and my sister. Where is then now mine hope? or who shall consider the thing, that I hoped for? They shall goe downe into the bottome of the pit: surely it shall lye together in the dust.

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said, When will yee make an ende of your words? cause vs to vnderstande, and then wee will speake. Wherefore are wee counted as beastes, and are vile in your sight? Thou art as one that teareth his soule in his anger. Shall the earth bee forsaken for thy sake? or the rocke remoued out of his place? Yea, the light of the wicked shalbe quenched, and the sparke of his fire shall not shine. The light shalbe darke in his dwelling, and his candle shalbe put out with him. The steps of his strength shalbe restrained, and his owne counsell shall cast him downe. For hee is taken in the net by his feete, and he walketh vpon the snares. The grenne shall take him by the heele, and the theefe shall come vpon him. A snare is layed for him in the ground, and a trappe for him in the way. Fearefulnesse shall make him afraide on ev ery side, and shall driue him to his feete. His strength shalbe famine: and destruction shalbe reade at his side. It shall deuoure the inner partes of his skinne, and the first borne of death shall deuoure his strength. His hope shalbe rooted out of his dwelling, and shall cause him to go to the King of feare. Feare shall dwell in his house (because it is not his) and brimstone shalbe scattered vpon his habitation. His rootes shalbe dryed vp beneath, and aboue shall his branche be cut downe. His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and he shall haue no name in the streete. They shall driue him out of the light vnto darkenesse, and chase him out of the world. Hee shall neither haue sonne nor nephewe among his people, nor any posteritie in his dwellings. The posteritie shalbe astonied at his day, and feare shall come vpon the ancient. Surely such are the habitations of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

But Iob answered, and said, Howe long will yee vexe my soule, and torment me with wordes? Ye haue now ten times reproched me, and are not ashamed: ye are impudent toward mee. And though I had in deede erred, mine errour remaineth with me. But in deede if ye will aduance your selues against me, and rebuke me for my reproche, Know nowe, that God hath ouerthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net. Beholde, I crie out of violence, but I haue none answere: I crie, but there is no judgement. Hee hath hedged vp my way that I cannot passe, and he hath set darkenesse in my paths. Hee hath spoyled mee of mine honour, and taken the crowne away from mine head. He hath destroyed mee on every side and I am gone: and he hath remoued mine hope like a tree. And he hath kindled his wrath against me, and counteth mee as one of his enemies. His armies came together, and made their way vpon me, and camped about my tabernacle. He hath remouued my brethre farre from me, and also mine acquaintance were strangers vnto me. My neighbours haue forsaken me, and my familiars haue forgotten me. They that dwel in mine house, and my maydes tooke me for a stranger: for I was a stranger in their sight. I called my servaunt, but he would not answere, though I prayed him with my mouth. My breath was strange vnto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens sake of mine owne body. The wicked also despised mee, and when I rose, they spake against me. All my secret friends abhorred me, and they whome I loued, are turned against me. My bone cleaueth to my skinne and to my flesh, and I haue escaped with the skinne of my teeth. Haue pitie vpon me: haue pitie vpon me, (O yee my friendes) for the hande of God hath touched me. Why do ye persecute me, as God? and are not satisfied with my flesh? Oh that my wordes were nowe written! oh that they were written eu\n and grauen with an yron pen in lead, or in stone for euer! For I am sure, that my Redeemer liueth, and he shall stand the last on the earth. And though after my skin wormes destroy this bodie, yet shall I see God in my flesh. Whome I my selfe shall see, and mine eyes shall beholde, and none other for me, though my reynes are consumed within me. But yee sayde, Why is he persecuted? And there was a deepe matter in me. Be ye afraide of the sworde: for the sworde will be auenged of wickednesse, that yee may knowe that there is a judgement.

Then answered Zophar the Naamathite and saide, Doubtlesse my thoughts cause me to answere, and therefore I make haste. I haue heard the correction of my reproch: therefore the spirite of mine vnderstanding causeth me to answere. Knowest thou not this of olde? and since God placed man vpon the earth, That the rejoicing of the wicked is short, and that the joy of hypocrites is but a moment? Though his excellencie mount vp to the heauen, and his head reache vnto the cloudes, Yet shall hee perish for euer, like his dung, and they which haue seene him, shall say, Where is hee? He shall flee away as a dreame, and they shall not finde him, and shall passe away as a vision of the night, So that the eye which had seene him, shall do so no more, and his place shall see him no more. His children shall flatter the poore, and his hands shall restore his substance. His bones are full of the sinne of his youth, and it shall lie downe with him in the dust. When wickednesse was sweete in his mouth, and he hid it vnder his tongue, And fauoured it, and would not forsake it, but kept it close in his mouth, Then his meat in his bowels was turned: the gall of Aspes was in the middes of him. He hath deuoured substance, and hee shall vomit it: for God shall drawe it out of his bellie. He shall sucke the gall of Aspes, and the vipers tongue shall slay him. He shall not see the riuers, nor the floods and streames of honie and butter. He shall restore the labour, and shall deuoure no more: euen according to the substance shalbe his exchange, and he shall enjoy it no more. For he hath vndone many: he hath forsaken the poore, and hath spoyled houses which he builded not. Surely he shall feele no quietnes in his bodie, neither shall he reserue of that which he desired. There shall none of his meate bee left: therefore none shall hope for his goods. When he shalbe filled with his abundance, he shalbe in paine, and the hand of all the wicked shall assaile him. He shall be about to fill his belly, but God shall sende vpon him his fierce wrath, and shall cause to rayne vpon him, euen vpon his meate. He shall flee from the yron weapons, and the bow of steele shall strike him through. The arrowe is drawn out, and commeth forth of the body, and shineth of his gall, so feare commeth vpon him. All darkenes shalbe hid in his secret places: the fire that is not blowen, shall deuoure him, and that which remaineth in his tabernacle, shalbe destroyed. The heauen shall declare his wickednes, and the earth shall rise vp against him. The increase of his house shall go away: it shall flow away in the day of his wrath. This is the portion of the wicked man from God, and the heritage that he shall haue of God for his wordes.

21 Bvt Iob answered, and sayd, Heare diligently my wordes, and this shalbe in stead of your consolations. Suffer mee, that I may speake, and when I haue spoken, mocke on. Doe I direct my talke to man? If it were so, how should not my spirit be troubled? Marke mee, and be abashed, and lay your hand vpon your mouth. Euen when I remember, I am afrayde, and feare taketh hold on my flesh. Wherefore do the wicked liue, and waxe olde, and grow in wealth? Their seede is established in their sight with them, and their generation before their eyes.
Their houses are peaceable without feare, and the rod of God is not vpon them. Their bullocke gendreth, and fayleth not: their cow calueth, and casteth not her calfe. They send forth their children like sheepe, and their sonnes dance. They take the tabret and harpe, and reioyce in the sound of the organs.
They spend their dayes in wealth, and suddenly they go downe to the graue. They say also vnto God, Depart from vs: for we desire not the knowledge of thy wayes. Who is the Almighty, that we should serue him? and what profit should we haue, if we should pray vnto him? Lo, their wealth is not in their hand: therfore let the counsell of the wicked bee farre from me.
How oft shall the candle of the wicked be put out? and their destruction come vpon them? he wil deuide their liues in his wrath. They shall be as stubble before the winde, and as chaffe that the storme carieth away. God wil lay vp the sorowe of the father for his children: when he rewardeth him, hee shall knowe it. His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drinke of the wrath of the Almighty. For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his moneths is cut off? Shall any teache God knowledge, who iudgeth the highest things? One dyeth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperitie. His breasts are full of milke, and his bones runne full of marowe.
And another dieth in the bitternes of his soule, and never eateth with pleasure. They shall sleepe both in the dust, and the wormes shall couer them. Behold, I know your thoughts, and the enterprizes, wherewith ye do me wrong. For ye say, Where is the princes house? and where is the tabernacle of the wickeds dwelling? May ye not aske the that go by the way? and ye can not deny their signes. But the wicked is kept vnto the day of destruction, and they shall be brought forth to the day of wrath.
Who shall declare his way to his face? and who shall reward him for that he hath done? Yet shall he be brought to the graue, and remaine in the heape. The slimie valley shalbe sweete vnto him, and every man shall draw after him, as before him there were innumerable. How then comfort ye me in vaine, seeing in your answeres there remaine but lyes?

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and sayde, May a man be profitable vnto God, as he that is wise, may be profitable to himselfe? Is it any thing vnto the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it profitable to him, that thou makest thy wavies vpright? Is it for feare of thee that he will accuse thee? or go with thee into iudgement? Is not thy wickednes great, and thine iniquities innumerable? For thou hast taken the pledge from thy brother for nought, and spoyled the clothes of the naked. To such as were wearie, thou hast not giuen water to drinke, and hast withdrawn bread from the hungrie. But the mightie man had the earth, and he that was in autoritie, dwelt in it. Thou hast cast out widowes emptie, and the armes of the fatherles were broken. Therefore snares are round about thee, and feare shall suddenly trouble thee: Or darkenes that thou shouldest not see, and abundance of waters shall couer thee. Is not God on hie in the heauen? and behold the height of the starres how hie they are. But thou sayest, How should God know? can he iudge through the darke cloude? The cloudes hide him that he can not see, and he walketh in the circle of heauen. Hast thou marked the way of the worlde, wherein wicked men haue walked?
Which were cut downe before the time, whose foundation was as a riuer that ouerflowed: Which sayd vnto God, Depart from vs, and asked what the Almighty could do for them. Yet hee filled their houses with good things: but let the counsell of the wicked be farre from me. The righteous shall see them, and shall reioyce, and the innocent shall laugh them to scorne. Surely our substance is hid: but the fire hath deuoured the remnant of them. Therefore acquaint thy selfe, I pray thee, with him, and make peace: thereby thou shalt haue prosperitie. Receiue, I pray thee, the law of his mouth, and lay vp his words in thine heart. If thou returne to the Almighty, thou shalt be buylt vp, 22:24—24:3  JOB  816 and thou shalt put iniquitie farre from thy tabernacle. Thou shalt lay vp golde for dust, and the gold of Ophir, as the flintes of the riuers. Yea, the Almighty shalbe thy defence, and thou shalt haue plentie of siluer. And thou shalt then delite in the Almighty, and lift vp thy face vnto God. Thou shalt make thy praier vnto him, and he shall heare thee, and thou shalt render thy vowes. Thou shalt also decrea a thing, and he shall establish it vnto thee, and the light shall shine vpon thy wayes. When others are cast downe, then shalt thou say, I am lifted vp: and God shall saue the humble person. The innocent shall deliuer the yland, and it shalbe preserued by the purenes of thine hands.

23  Bvt Iob answered and sayd, Though my talke be this day in bitternes, and my plague greater then my groning, Would God yet I knew how to finde him, I would enter vnto his place.
I would pleade the cause before him, and fill my mouth with arguments. I would knowe the wordes, that he would answere me, and would vnderstand what he would say vnto me. Would he plead against me with his great power? No, but he would put strength in me. There the righteous might reason with him, so I shoulde be deliuered for euer from my Iudge. Behold, if I go to the East, he is not there: if to the West, yet I can not perceiue him: If to the North where he worketh, yet I cannot see him: he wil hide himselfe in the South, and I cannot beholde him.
But he knoweth my way, and trieth mee, and I shall come forth like the gold. My foote hath followed his steps: his way haue I kept, and haue not declined. Neyther haue I departed from the commandement of his lippes, and I haue esteemed the words of his mouth more then mine appointed foode. Yet he is in one minde, and who can turne him? yea, he doeth what his minde desireth. For he will performe that, which is decreed of me, and many such things are with him. Therefore I am troubled at his presence, and in considering it, I am afraid of him. For God hath softened mine heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.
For I am not cut off in darknesse, but he hath hid the darkenesse from my face.

24  Howe should not the times be hid from the Almighty, seeing that they which knowe him, see not his dayes? Some remoue the land marks, that rob the flockes and feede thereof. They leade away the asse of the fatherles: and take the widowes oxe to
They make the poor to turn out of the way, so that the poor of the earth hide themselves together. Behold, others as wilde asses in the wilderness, go forth to their business, and rise early for a prayer: the wildernesse giueth him and his children food. They reap his provision in the field, but they gather the late vintage of the wicked. They cause the naked to lodge without garment, and without covering in the cold. They are wet with the showers of the mountains, and they embrace the rocke for want of a covering. They plucke the fatherless from the breast, and take the pledge of the poor. They cause him to go naked without clothing, and take the gleanings from the hungry. They that make oyle between their walles, and tread their wine presses, suffer thirst. Men cry out of the city, and the souls of the slayne cry out: yet God doth not charge them with folly. These are they, that abhorre the light: they know not the wayes thereof, nor continue in the paths thereof. The murderer riseth early and killeth the poor and the needy: and in the night he is as a thief. The eye also of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight, and saith, None eye shall see me, and disguiseth his face. They digge through houses in the darke, which they marked for themselves in the daye: they knowe not the light. But the morning is euen to them as the shadow of death: if one knowe them, they are in the terrours of the shadow of death. He is swift vpon the waters: their portion shalbe cursed in the earth: he will not behold the way of the vineyardes. As the dry ground and heat consume the snowe waters, so shall the grave the sinners. The pitifull man shall forget him: the worme shall feele his sweetenes: he shalbe no more remembered, and the wicked shalbe broke like a tree. He doth euil intreat ye barren, that doeth not beare, neither doeth he good to the widow. He draweth also the mighty by his power, and when he riseth vp, none is sure of life. Though men giue him assurance to be in safety, yet his eyes are vpon their wayes. They are exalted for a little, but they are gone, and are brought lowe as all others: they are destroyed, and cut off as the toppe of an eare of corne. But if it be not so, where is he? or who wil proue me a lyer, and make my words of no value?

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and sayd, Power and fear is with him, that maketh peace in his hie places. any number in his armies? and upon whom shall not his light arise? And how may a man be justified with God? or how can he be clean, that is born of woman? Behold, he will give no light to the moone, and the stars are unclean in his sight. How much more man, a worm, even the sonne of man, which is but a worme?

Bvt Iob answered, and sayde, Whom helpest thou? him that hath no power? sauest thou the arme that hath no strength? Whome counselllest thou? him that hath no wisedome? thou shewest right well as the thing is. To whom doest thou declare these words? or whose spirit commeth out of thee? The dead things are formed vnder the waters, and neere vnto them. The graue is naked before him, and there is no couering for destruction. He stretcheth out the North ouer the emptie place, and hangeth the earth vpon nothing. He bindeth the waters in his clouds, and the cloude is not broken vnder them. He holdeth backe the face of his throne: and spreadeth his cloude vpon it. He hath set bounds about the waters, vntil the day and night come to an ende. The pillars of heauen tremble and quake at his reprooфе. The sea is calme by his power, and by his understanding he smiteth the pride thereof. His Spirite hath garnished the heauens, and his hand hath formed the crooked serpent. Loe, these are part of his wayes: but how little a portion heare we of him? and who can understand his fearefull power?

Moreouer Iob proceeded and continued his parable, saying, The liuing God hath taken away my judgement: for the Almighty hath put my soule in bitternesse. Yet so long as my breath is in me, and the Spirit of God in my nostrels, My lips surely shall speake no wickednesse, and my tongue shall utter no deceite. God forbid, that I should justifie you: vntill I dye, I will never take away mine innocencie from my selfe. I will keepe my righteousnesse, and wil not forsake it: mine heart shall not reprooue me of my dayes. Mine enemie shall be as the wicked, and he that riseth against me, as the vnrighteous. For what hope hath the hypocrite when he hath heaped vp riches, if God take away his soule? Will God heare his cry, when trouble commeth vpon him? Will he set his delight on the Almighty? will he call vpon God at all times? I will teache you what is in the hande of God, and I wil not conceale that which is with the Almightie. Beholde, all ye your selues haue seene it: why then doe you thus vanish in vanitie? This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of tyrants, which they shall receive of the Almightie. If his children be in great nomber, the sworde shall destroy them, and his posteritie shall not be satisfied with bread. His remnant shall be buried in death, and his widowes shall not weepe. Though he should heape vp siluer as the dust, and prepare rayment as the clay, He may prepare it, but the iust shall put it on, and the innocent shall deuide the siluer. He buildeth his house as the moth, and as a lodge that the watchman maketh. When the rich man sleepe, he shall not be gathered to his fathers: they opened their eyes, and he was gone. Terrous shall take him as waters, and a tempest shall cary him away by night. The East winde shall take him away, and he shall depart: and it shall hurle him out of his place. And God shall cast vpon him and not spare, though he would faine flee out of his hand. Every man shall clap their hands at him, and hisse at him out of their place.

The siluer surely hath his veyne, and ye gold his place, where they take it. Yron is taken out of the dust, and brasse is molten out of the stone. God putteth an end to darkenesse, and he tryeth the perfection of all things: he setteth a bond of darkness, and of the shadowe of death. The flood breaketh out against the inhabitant, and the waters forgotten of the foote, being higher then man, are gone away. Out of the same earth commeth bread, and under it, as it were fire is turned vp. The stones thereof are a place of saphirs, and the dust of it is golde. There is a path which no foule hath knowen, neyther hath the kites eye seene it. The lyons whelpes haue not walked it, nor the lyon passed thereby. He putteth his hand vpon the rockes, and ouerthroweth the mountaines by the rootes. He breaketh riuers in the rockes, and his eye seeth euery precious thing. He bindeth the floods, that they doe not ouerflowe, and the thing that is hid, bringeth he to light. But where is wisdome found? and where is the place of vnderstanding? Man knoweth not the price thereof: for it is not found in the land of the liuing. The depth sayth, It is not in mee: the sea also sayth, It is not with me. Golde shall not be giuen for it, neyther shall siluer be weighed for the price thereof. It shall not be valued with the wedge of golde of Ophir, nor with the precious onix, nor the saphir. The golde nor the chrystall shall be equall vnsto it, nor the exchange shalbe for plate of fine golde. No mention shall be made of coral, nor of the gabish: for wisedome is more precious then pearles. The Topaz of Ethiopia shall not be equall vnto it, neither shall it be valued with the wedge of pure gold. Whence then commeth wisedome? and where is the place of understanding, Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all the liuing, and is hid from the foules of the heauen? Destruction and death say, We haue heard the fame thereof with our eares. But God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof. For he beholdeth the endes of the world, and seeth all that is vnnder heauen, To make the weight of the windes, and to weigh the waters by measure. When he made a decree for the rayne, and a way for the lightening of the thunders, Then did he see it, and counted it: he prepared it and also considered it. And vnsto man he said, Behold, the feare of the Lord is wisedome, and to depart from euil is understanding.

So Iob proceeded and continued his parable, saying, Oh that I were as in times past, when God preserued me! When his light shined vpon mine head: and when by his light I walked thorow the darkenesse, As I was in the dayes of my youth: when Gods prouidence was vpon my tabernacle: When the almighty was yet with me, and my children round about me. When I washed my pathes with butter, and when the rocke powred me out riuers of oyle: When I went out to the gate, euen to the iudgement seat, and when I caused them to prepare my seate in the streete. The yong men saw me, and hid themselues, and the aged arose, and stood vp. The princes stayed talke, and layde their hand on their mouth. The voyce of princes was hidde, and their tongue cleaued to the roofe of their mouth. And when the eare heard me, it blessed me: and when the eye sawe me, it gaue witnesse to me. For I deliuered the poore that cryed, and the fatherlesse, and him that had none to helpe him. The blessing of him that was ready to perish, came vpon me, and I caused the widowes heart to reioyce. I put on iustice, and it couered me: my iudgement was as a robe, and a crowne. I was the eyes to the blinde, and I was the feete to the lame. I was a father vnto the poore, and when I knewe not the cause, I sought it out diligently. I brake also the chawes of the vnrighteous man, and pluckt the prayer out of his teeth. Then I sayde, I shall die in my nest, and I shall multiplie my dayes as the sand. For my roote is spread out by the water, and the dewe shall lye vpon my branche. My glory shall renue towarde me, and my bowe shall be restored in mine hand. Vnto me men gaue eare, and wayted, and helde their tongue at my counsell. After my wordes they replied not, and my talke dropped vpon them. And they wayted for me, as for the raine, and they opened their mouth as for the latter rayne. If I laughed on them, they beleued it not: neither did they cause the light of my countenance to fall.
I appoynted out their way, and did sit as chiefe, and dwelt as a King in the army, and like him that comforteth the mourners.

Bvt now they that are yonger then I, mocke me: yea, they whose fathers I haue refused to set with the dogges of my flockes.
For whereto shoulde the strength of their handes haue serued me, seeing age perished in them? For pouertie and famine they were solitary, fleeing into the wildernes, which is darke, desolate and waste. They cut vp nettels by the bushes, and the juniper rootes was their meate. They were chased forth from among men: they shouted at them, as at a theefe. Therfore they dwelt in the clefts of riuers, in the holes of the earth and rockes. They roared among the bushes, and vnder the thistles they gathered themselues. They were the children of fooles and the children of villaines, which were more vile then the earth.
And now am I their song, and I am their talke. They abhorre me, and flee farre from mee, and spare not to spit in my face.
Because that God hath loosed my corde and humbled mee, they haue loosed the bridle before me. The youth rise vp at my right hand: they haue pusht my feete, and haue trode on me as on the paths of their destruction. They haue destroyed my paths: they tooke pleasure at my calamitie, they had none helpe. They came as a great breach of waters, and vnder this calamitie they come on heapes. Feare is turned vpon mee: and they pursue my soule as the winde, and mine health passeth away as a cloude.
Therefore my soule is nowe powred out vpon me, and the dayes of affliction haue taken holde on me. It pearceth my bones in the night, and my sinewes take no rest. For the great vehemencie is my garment changed, which compasseth me about as the colar of my coate. He hath cast me into the myre, and I am become like ashes and dust. Whe I cry vnto thee, thou doest not heare me, neither regardes me, when I stand vp. Thou turnest thy selfe cruelly against me, and art enemie vnto mee with the strength of thine hand. Thou takest me vp and causest mee to ride vpon the winde, and makest my strength to faile. Surely I knowe that thou wilt bring mee to death, and to the house appoynted for all the liuing. Doubtles none can stretch his hand vnto the graue, though they cry in his destruction. Did not I weepe with him that was in trouble? was not my soule in heauinesse for the poore? Yet when I looked for good, euill came vnto me: and when I waited for light, there came darkenesse. My bowels did boyle without rest: for the dayes of affliction are come vpon me. I went mourning without sunne: I stood vp in the congregation and cryed. I am a brother to the dragons, and a companion to the ostriches. My skinne is blacke vpon me, and my bones are burnt with heate. Therefore mine harpe is turned to mourning, and mine organs into the voyce of them that weepe.

I made a covenent with mine eyes: why then should I thinke on a mayde? For what portion should I haue of God from aboue? and what inheritance of the Almightie from on hie? Is not destruction to the wicked and strange punishment to the workers of iniquitie? Doeth not he beholde my wayes and tell all my steps? If I haue walked in vanitie, or if my foote hath made haste to deceite, Let God weigh me in the iust balance, and he shall know mine vprightnes. If my steppe hath turned out of the way, or mine heart hath walked after mine eye, or if any blot hath cleaued to mine handes, Let me sowe, and let another eate: yea, let my plantes be rooted out. If mine heart hath bene deceiued by a woman, or if I haue layde wayte at the doore of my neighbour, Let my wife grinde vnto another man, and let other men bow downe vpon her: For this is a wickednes, and iniquitie to bee condemned: Yea, this is a fire that shall deouure to destruction, and which shall roote out al mine increase, If I did contenme the judgement of my servuant, and of my mayde, when they did contend with me, What then shall I do when God standeth vp? and when he shall visit me, what shall I answere? He that hath made me in the wombe, hath he not made him? hath not he alone factioned vs in the wombe? If I restrained the poore of their desire, or haue caused the eyes of the widow to faile, Or haue eaten my morsels alone, and the fatherles hath not eaten thereof, (For from my youth hee hath growen vp with me as with a father, and from my mothers wombe I haue bene a guide vnto her) If I haue seene any perish for want of clothing, or any poore without couering, If his loynes haue not blessed me, because he was warmed with the fleece of my sheepe, If I haue lift vp mine hande against the fatherlesse, when I saw that I might helpe him in the gate, Let mine arme fal from my shoulder, and mine arme be broken from the bone. For Gods punishment was fearefull vnto me, and I could not be deliuered from his highnes. If I made gold mine hope, or haue sayd to the wedge of golde, Thou art my confidence, If I reioyced because my substance was great, or because mine hand had gotten much, If I did behold the sunne, when it shined, or the moone, walking in her brightnes, If mine heart did flatter me in secrete, or if my mouth did kisse mine hand, (This also had bene an iniquitie to be condemned: for I had denied the God aboue) If I reioyced at his destruction that hated me, or was mooued to ioye when euill came vpon him, Neither haue I suffred my mouth to sinne, by wishing a curse vnto his soule. Did not the men of my Tabernacle say, Who shall giue vs of his flesh? we can not bee satisfied. The stranger did not lodge in the streete, but I opened my doores vnto him, that went by the way. If I haue hid my sinne, as Adam, concealing mine iniquitie in my bosome, Though I could haue made afraid a great multitude, yet the most contemptible of the families did feare me: so I kept silence, and went not out of the doore. Oh that I had some to heare me! beholde my signe that the Almightie will witnesse for me: though my aduersary should write a booke against me, Woulde not I take it vpon my shoulder, and binde it as a crowne vnto me? I will tell him the nomber of my goings, and goe vnto him as to a prince. If my lande cry against me, or the furrowes thereof complayne together, If I haue eaten the fruites thereof without siluer: or if I haue grieued the soules of the masters thereof, Let thistles growe in steade of wheate, and cockle in the stead of Barley. The wordes of Iob are ended.

So these three men ceased to answere Iob, because he esteemed himselfe iust. Then the wrath of Elihu the sonne of Barachel the Buzite, of the familie of Ram, was kindled: his wrath, I say, was kindled against Iob, because he iustifiied himselfe more then God. Also his anger was kindled against his three friends, because they could not finde an answere, and yet condemned Iob. (Now Elihu had wayted til Iob had spoken: for they were more ancient in yeeres then he) So when Elihu saw, that there was none answere in the mouth of the three men, his wrath was kindled. Therefore Elihu the sonne of Barachel, the Buzite answered, and sayd, I am yong in yeres, and ye are ancient: therefore I doubted, and was afraide to shewe you mine opinion. For I said, The dayes shall speake, and the multitude of yeeres shall teach wisedome. Surely there is a spirite in man, but the inspiration of the Almightie giueth vnderstanding. Great men are not alway wise, neither doe the aged alway understand judgement. Therefore I say, Heare me, and I will shew also mine opinion. Behold, I did waite vpon your wordes, and hearkened vnto your knowledge, whiles you sought out reasons. Yea, when I had considered you, lo, there was none of you that reprobued Iob, nor answered his wordes: Lest ye should say, We haue found wisedome: for God hath cast him downe, and no man. Yet hath he not directed his words to me, neyther will I answere him by your wordes. Then they fearing, answered no more, but left off their talke. When I had wayted (for they spake not, but stood still and answered no more) Then answered I in my turne, and I shewed mine opinion. For I am full of matter, and the spirite within me compelleth me. Beholde, my belly is as the wine, which hath no vent, and like the new bottels that brast. Therefore will I speake, that I may take breath: I will open my lippes, and will answere. I will not now accept the person of man, neyther will I giue titles to man. For I may not giue titles, lest my Maker should take me away suddenly. Wherefore, Iob, I pray thee, heare my talke and hearken vnto all my wordes. Beholde now, I haue opened my mouth: my tongue hath spoken in my mouth. My words are in the vprightnesse of mine heart, and my lippes shall speake pure knowledge. The Spirite of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almightie hath giuen me life. If thou canst giue me answere, prepare thy selfe and stand before me. Beholde, I am according to thy wish in Gods stead: I am also formed of the clay. Beholde, my terro\r r shall not feare thee, neither shall mine hand be heauie vpon thee. Doubtles thou hast spoken in mine eares, and I haue heard the voyce of thy wordes. I am cleane, without sinne: I am innocent, and there is none iniquitie in me. Lo, he hath found occasions against me, and counted me for his enemie. He hath put my feete in the stockes, and looketh narrowly vnto all my paths. Behold, in this hast thou not done right: I will answere thee, that God is greater then man. Why doest thou striue against him? for he doeth not giue account of all his matters. For God speaketh once or twise, and one seeth it not. In dreames and visions of the night, when sleepe falleth vpon men, and they sleepe vpon their beds, Then he openeth the eares of men, even by their corrections, which he had sealed, That he might cause man to turne away from his enterprise, and that he might hide the pride of man. And keepe backe his soule from the pit, and that his life should not passe by the sword. He is also striken with sorow vpon his bed, and the grieafe of his bones is sore, So that his life causeth him to abhorre bread, and his soule daintie meate. His flesh faileth that it can not be seene, and his bones which were not seene, clatter. So his soule draweth to the graue, and his life to the buriers. If there be a messenger with him, or an interpreter, one of a thousand to declare vnto man his righteousnesse, Then will he haue mercie vpon him, and will say, Deliuer him, that he go not downe into the pit: for I haue receiued a reconciliation. Then shall his flesh be as fresh as a childes, and shall returne as in the dayes of his youth. He shall pray vnto God, and he will be fauourable vnto him, and he shall see his face with ioy: for he will render vnto man his righteousnes. He looketh vpon men, and if one say, I haue sinned, and peruered righteousnesse, and it did not profite me, He will deliuer his soule from going into the pit, and his life shall see the light. Lo, all these things will God worke twise or thrise with a man, That he may turne backe his soule from the pit, to be illuminate in the light of the liuing. Marke well, O Iob, and heare me: keepe silence, and I will speake. If there be matter, answere me, and speak: for I desire to justifie thee. If thou hast not, heare me: holde thy tongue, and I will teach thee wisedome.
Moreover Elihu answered, and said, Hear my words, ye wise men, and hearken unto me, ye that have knowledge. For the eare tryeth the words, as the mouth tasteth meate. Let us seek judgement among us, and let us knowe among our selues what is good. For Iob hath saide, I am righteous, and God hath taken away my judgement. Should I lye in my right? my wound of the arrowe is grievous without my sinne. What man is like Iob, that drinketh scornfulnesse like water? Which goeth in the companie of them that worke iniquitie, and walketh with wicked men? For he hath saide, It profiteth a man nothing that he should walke with God. Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of wisedome, God forbid that wickednesse should be in God, and iniquitie in the Almighty. For he will render vnto man according to his worke, and cause euery one to finde according to his way. And certainly God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgement. Whome hath he appointed ouer the earth beside him selfe? or who hath placed the whole worlde? If he set his heart vpon man, and gather vnto him selfe his spirit and his breath, All flesh shall perish together, and man shall returne vnto dust. And if thou hast understanding, heare this and hearken to the voyce of my wordes. Shal he that hateth judgement, gouerne? and wilt thou iudge him wicked that is most iust? Wilt thou say vnto a King, Thou art wicked? or to princes, Ye are vngodly? How much lesse to him that accepteth not the persons of princes, and regardeth not the rich, more then the poore? for they be all the worke of his handes. They shall die suddenly, and the people shalbe troubled at midnight, and they shall passe foorth and take away the mightie without hand. For his eyes are vpon the wayes of man, and he seeth all his goings. There is no darkenesse nor shadowe of death, that the workers of iniquitie might be hid therein. For he will not lay on man so much, that he should enter into judgement with God. He shall breake the mightie without seeking, and shall set vp other in their stead. Therefore shall he declare their works: he shall turne the night, and they shalbe destroyed. He striketh them as wicked men in the places of the seers, Because they haue turned backe from him, and would not consider all his wayes: So that they haue caused the voyce of the poore to come vnto him, and he hath heard the cry of the afflicted. And when he giueth quietnesse, who can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who can beholde him, whether it be vpon nations, or vpon a man onely? Because the hypocrite doeth reigne, and because the people are snared. Surely it appertaineth vnto God to say, I haue pardoned, I will not destroy. But if I see not, teach thou me: if I haue done wickedly, I will doe no more. Wil he performe the thing through thee? for thou hast reproved it, because that thou hast chosen, and not I. now speake what thou knowest. Let men of vnderstanding tell me, and let a wise man hearken vnto me. Iob hath not spoken of knowledge, neyther were his wordes according to wisedome. I desire that Iob may be tryed, vnto the ende touching the answeres for wicked men. For he addeth rebellion vnto his sinne: he clappeth his handes among vs, and multiplieth his wordes against God.

Elihu spake moreouer, and said, Thinkest thou this right, that thou hast said, I am more righteous then God? For thou hast said, What profiteth it thee and what auailleth it me, to purge me from my sinne? Therefore will I answere thee, and thy companions with thee. Looke vnto the heauen, and see and behold the cloudes which are hyer then thou. If thou sinnest, what doest thou against him, yea, when thy sinnes be many, what doest thou vnto him? If thou be righteous, what giuest thou vnto him? or what receiueth he at thine hand? Thy wickednesse may hurt a man as thou art: and thy righteousnes may profite ye sonne of man. They cause many that are op- pressed, to crye, which crye out for ye violence of the mightie. But none saieth, Where is God that made me, which giueth songs in the nyght? Which teacheth vs more then the beastes of the earth, and giueth vs more wisdome then the foules of the heauen. Then they crye because of the violence of the wicked, but he an- swereth not. Surely God will not heare vanitie, neyther will the Almighty regard it. Although thou sayest to God, Thou wilt not regard it, yet judgement is before him: trust thou in him. But nowe because his anger hath not visited, nor called to count the euill with great extremitie, Therfore Iob openeth his mouth in vaine, and multiplieth wordes without knowledge.

Elihu also proceeded and sayde, Suffer me a litle, and I will instruct thee: for I haue yet to speake on Gods behalfe. I will fetche my knowledge afarre off, and will attribute righteousnes unto my Maker. For truly my words shall not be false, and he that is perfect in knowledge, speaketh with thee. Behold, the mighty God casteth away none that is mighty and valiant of courage. He maintaineth not the wicked, but he giueth judgement to the afflicted. He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but they are with Kings in ye throne, where he placeth them for euer: thus they are exalted. And if they bee bound in fetters and tyed with the cordes of affliction, Then will he shewe them their worke and their sinnes, because they haue bene proud. He openeth also their eare to discipline, and commandeth them that they returne from iniquity. If they obey and serve him, they shall end their dayes in prosperity, and their yeres in pleasures. But if they wil not obey, they shall passe by the sword, and perish without knowledge. But the hypocrites of heart increase the wrath: for they call not when he bindeth them. Their soule dyeth in youth, and their life among the whoremongers. He deliuereth the poore in his affliction, and openeth their eare in trouble. Euen so woulde he haue taken thee out of the straight place into a broade place and not shut vp beneath: and that which resteth vpon thy table, had bene full of fat. But thou art ful of the judgement of the wicked, though judgement and equitie maintaine all things. For Gods wrath is, least hee should take that away in thine abundance: for no multitude of giftes can deliuer thee. Wil he regard thy riches? he regardeth not golde, nor all them that excel in strength. Be not carefull in the night, howe he destroyeth the people out of their place. Take thou heede: looke not to iniquitie: for thou hast chosen it rather then affliction. Beholde, God exalteth by his power: what teacher is like him? Who hath appointed to him his way? or who can say, Thou hast done wickedly? Remember that thou magnifie his worke, which men behold. All men see it, and men beholde it afarre off. Beholde, God is excellent, and we knowe him not, neither can the number of his yeres bee searched out. When he restraineth the droppes of water, the rayne powreth down by the vapour thereof, Which raine the cloudes do droppe and let fall abundantly vpon man. Who can know the diuisions of ye clouds and the thunders of his tabernacle? Beholde, he spreadeth his light vpon it, and couereth the bottome of the sea. For thereby hee iudgeth the people, and giueth meate abundantly. He couereth the light with the clouds, and commandeth them to go against it. His companion sheweth him thereof, and there is anger in rising vp.

At this also mine heart is astonied, and is mooued out of his place. Heare the sound of his voyce, and the noyse that goeth out of his mouth. He directeth it vnder the whole heauen, and his light vtnto the endes of the world. After it a noyse soundeth: hee thundereth with the voyce of his maiestie, and hee will not stay them when his voyce is heard. God thundereth marueilously with his voyce: he worketh great things, which we know not. For he sayth to the snowe, Be thou vpone the earth: likewise to the small rayne and to the great rayne of his power. With the force thereof he shutteth vp every man, that all men may knowe his worke. Then the beasts go into the denne, and remaine in their places. The whirlwind commeth out of the South, and the colde from the North winde. At the breath of God the frost is giuen, and the breadth of the waters is made narrowe. He maketh also the cloudes to labour, to water the earth, and scattereth the cloude of his light. And it is turned about by his gouernment, that they may doe whatsoeuer he commandeth them vpone the whole worlde: Whether it be for punishedment, or for his lande, or of mercie, he causeth it to come. Hearken vnto this, O Iob: stand and consider the wonderous workes of God. Diddest thou knowe when God disposed them? and caused the light of his cloud to shine? Hast thou knowen the varietie of the cloude, and the wonderous workes of him, that is perfite in knowledge? Or howe thy clothes are warme, when he maketh the earth quiet through the South winde? Hast thou stretched out the heaues, which are strong, and as a molten glasse? Tell vs what we shall say vnto him: for we can not dispose our matter because of darknes. Shall it be told him when I speake? or shall man speake when he shalbe destroyed? And nowe men see not the light, which shineth in the cloudes, but the winde passeth and clenseth them. The brightnesse commeth out of the North: the praise thereof is to God, which is terrible. It is the Almighty: we can not finde him out: he is excellent in power and judgement, and aboundant in iustice: he afflicteth not. Let men therefore feare him: for he will not regarde any that are wise in their owne conceit.
Then answered the Lord unto Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkeneth the counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loines like a man: I will demande of thee and declare thou vnto me. Where wast thou when I layd the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding, Who hath layde the measures thereof, if thou knowest, or who hath stretched the line ouer it: Whereupon are the foundations thereof set: or who layed the corner stone thereof: When the starres of the morning praysed me together, and all the children of God reioyced: Or who hath shut vp the Sea with doores, when it yssued and came forth as out of the wombe: When I made the cloudes as a couering thereof, and darkenesse as the swadeling bands thereof: When I stablished my commandement vpon it, and set barres and doores, And said, Hitherto shalt thou come, but no farther, and here shall it stay thy proude waues. Hast thou commanded the morning since thy dayes? hast thou caused the morning to knowe his place, That it might take hold of the corners of the earth, and that the wicked might be shaken out of it? It is turned as clay to facion, and all stand vp as a garment. And from the wicked their light shall be taken away, and the hie arme shalbe broken. Hast thou entred into the bottomes of the sea? or hast thou walked to seeke out the depth? Haue the gates of death bene opened vnto thee? or hast thou seene the gates of the shadowe of death? Hast thou perceiued the breadth of the earth? tell if thou knowest all this. Where is the way where light dwelleth? and where is the place of darkenesse, That thy shouldest receiue it in the boundes thereof, and that thou shouldest knowe the paths to the house thereof? Knewest thou it, because thou wast then borne, and because the number of thy dayes is great? Hast thou entred into the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seene the treasures of ye haile, Which I haue hid against the time of trouble, against the day of warre and battell?
By what way is the light parted, which scattereth the East winde vpon the earth? Who hath deuided the spowtes for the raine? or the way for the lightning of ye thunders, To cause it to raine on the earth where no man is, and in the wildernes where there is no man? To fulfil the wilde and waste place, and to cause the bud of the herbe to spring forth? Who is the father of the rayne? or who hath begotten the droppes of the dewe? Out of whose wombe came the yee? who hath ingendred the frost of the heauen? The waters are hid as with a stone: and the face of the depth is frozen. Canst thou restraine the sweete influences of the Pleiades? or loose the bandes of Orion? Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in their time? canst thou also guide Arcturus with his sonnes? Knowest thou the course of heauen, or canst thou set the rule thereof in the earth? Canst thou lift vp thy voice to the cloudes that the abundance of water may couer thee? Canst thou sende the lightenings that they may walke, and say vnto thee, Loe, heere we are? Who hath put wisedome in the reines? or who hath giuen the heart understanding? Who can nomber cloudes by wisedome? or who can cause to cease the bottels of heaue, When the earth groweth into hardnesse, and the clottes are fast together?

Wilt thou hunt the pray for the lyon? or fill the appetite of the lyons whelpes, When they couch in their places, and remaine in the couert to lye in waite? Who prepareth for the rauen his meate, when his birdes crie vnto God, wandering for lacke of meate? Knowest thou the time when the wilde goates bring foorth yong? or doest thou marke when the hindes doe calue? Canst thou nomber the moneths that they fulfill? or knowest thou the time when they bring foorth? They bow them selves: they bruise their yong and cast out their sorowes. Yet their yong waxe fatte, and growe vp with corne: they goe foorth and returne not vnto them. Who hath set the wilde asse at libertie? or who hath loosed the bondes of the wilde asse? It is I which haue made the wildernesse his house, and the salt places his dwellings. He derideth the multitude of the citie: he heareth not the crie of the driuer. He seeketh out the mountaine for his pasture, and searcheth after euery greene thing. Will the vnicorne serue thee? or will he tary by thy cribbe? Canst thou binde the vnicorne with his band to labour in the furrowe? or will he plowe the valleyes after thee? Wilt thou trust in him, because his strength is great, and cast off thy labour vnto him? Wilt thou beleeue him, that he will bring home thy seede, and gather it vnto thy barne? Hast thou giuen the pleasant wings vnto the peacockes? or winges and feathers vnto the ostriche? Which leaueth his egges in the earth, and maketh them hote in the dust, And forgetteth that the foote might scatter the, or that the wild beast might breake the. He sheweth himselfe cruel vnto his yong ones, as they were not his, and is without feare, as if he travailed in vaine. For God had deprivied him of wisedom, and hath giuen him no part of vnderstanding.

When time is, he mounteth on hie: he mocketh the horse and his rider. Hast thou giuen the horse strength? or couered his necke with neying? Hast thou made him afraid as the grashopper? his strong neying is fearefull. He diggeth in the valley, and reioyceth in his strength: he goeth foorth to meete the harnest man. He mocketh at feare, and is not afraid, and turneth not backe from the sworde, Though the quiuer rattle against him, the glittering speare and the shield. He swalloweth the ground for fearcenes and rage, and he beleueth not that it is the noise of the trumpet. He sayth among the trumpets, Ha, ha: hee smelleth the battell afarre off, and the noyse of the captaines, and the shouting. Shall the hauke flie by thy wisedome, stretching out his wings toward the South? Doeth the eagle mount vp at thy commandement, or make his nest on hie? Shee abideth and remaineth in the rocke, even vpon the toppe of the rocke, and the tower. From thence she spieth for meate, and her eyes beholde afarre off. His young ones also sucke vp blood: and where the slaine are, there is she. Moreover ye Lord spake vnto Iob, and said, Is this to learne to striue with the Almighty? he that reprooueth God, let him answere to it. Then Iob answered the Lord, saying, Beholde, I am vile: what shall I answere thee? I will lay mine hand vpon my mouth. Once haue I spoken, but I will answere no more, yea twise, but I will procede no further.

Againe the Lord answered Iob out of the whirle winde, and said, Girde vp now thy loynes like a man: I will demaunde of thee, and declare thou vnto me. Wilt thou disanul my judgetment? or wilt thou condemne me, that thou mayst be justified? Or hast thou an arme like God? or doest thou thunder with a voyce like him? Decke thy selfe now with maiestie and excellencie, and aray thy selfe with beautie and glory. Cast abroad the indignation of thy wrath, and beholde every one that is proude, and abase him. Looke on every one that is arrogant, and bring him lowe: and destroy the wicked in their place. Hide them in the dust together, and binde their faces in a secret place. Then will I confesse vnto thee also, that thy right hand can saue thee. Behold now Behemoth (whom I made with thee) which eateth grasse as an oxe. Behold now, his strength is in his loynes, and his force is in the nauil of his belly. When hee taketh pleasure, his taile is like a cedar: the sinews of his stones are wrapt together. His bones are like staues of brasse, and his small bones like staues of yron. He is the chiefe of the wayes of God: he that made him, will make his sworde to approch vnto him. Surely the mountaines bring him forth grasse, where all the beastes of the fiele play. Lyeth hee vnder the trees in the couert of the reede and fennes? Can the trees couer him with their shadow? or can the willowes of the riuer compasse him about? Behold, he spoyleth the riuer, and hasteth not: he trusteth that he can draw vp Iorden into his mouth. Hee taketh it with his eyes, and thrusteth his nose through whatsoeuer meeteth him. Canst thou drawe out Liuiathan with an hooke, and with a line which thou shalt cast downe vnto his tongue? Canst thou cast an hooke into his nose? canst thou perce his iawes with an angle? Will he make many prayers vnto thee, or speake thee faire? Will hee make a couenant with thee? and wilt thou take him as a seruant for euer? Wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or wilt thou bynd him for thy maydes? Shall the companions baket with him? shall they deuide him among the marchants? Canst thou fill the basket with his skinne? or the fishpanier with his head? Lay thine hand vpon him: remember the battel, and do no more so. Behold, his hope is in vaine: for shall not one perish euene at the sight of him?

None is so fearce that dare stirre him vp. Who is he then that can stand before me? Who hath preuented mee that I shoulde make an ende? Al vnder heauen is mine. I will not keepe silence concerning his partes, nor his power nor his comely proportion. Who can discouer the face of his garmet? or who shall come to him with a double bridle? Who shall open the doores of his face? his teeth are fearefull round about. The maiestie of his scales is like strog shields, and are sure sealed. One is set to another, that no winde can come betweene them. One is ioyned to another: they sticke together, that they cannot be sundered. His niesings make the light to shine, and his eyes are like the eyelids of the morning. Out of his mouth go lampes, and sparkes of fire leape out. Out of his nostrels commeth out smoke, as out of a boyling pot or caldron. His breath maketh the coales burne: for a flame goeth out of his mouth. In his necke remayneth strength, and labour is reiected before his face. The members of his bodie are ioyned: they are strong in themselues, and cannot be mooued. His heart is as strong as a stone, and as hard as the nether milstone. The mightie are afrayd of his maiestie, and for feare they faint in themselues. When the sword doeth touch him, he will not rise vp, nor for the speare, dart nor habergeon. He esteemeth yron as strawe, and brasse as rotten wood. The archer canot make him flee: ye stones of the sling are turned into stubble vnto him: The dartes are counted as strawe: and hee laugheth at the shaking of the speare.
Sharpe stones are vnder him, and he spreadeth sharpe things upon the myre. He maketh the depth to boyle like a pot, and maketh the sea like a pot of oyntment. He maketh a path to shine after him: one would thinke the depth as an hoare head.
In the earth there is none like him: hee is made without feare.
He beholdeth al hie things: he is a King ouer all the children of pride.

Then Iob answered the Lord, and sayd, I knowe that thou canst doe all things, and that there is no thought hidde from thee.
Who is hee that hideth counsell without knowledge? therefor haue I spoken that I vnderstood not, euen things too wonderfull for me, and which I knew not. Heare, I beseech thee, and I will speake: I will demaunde of thee, and declare thou vnto me. I haue heard of thee by the hearing of the eare, but now mine eye seeth thee. Therefore I abhorre my selfe, and repent in dust and ashes. Now after that the Lord had spoken these wordes vnto Iob, ye Lord also said vnto Eliphaz ye Temanite, My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends: for yee haue not spoken of me the thing that is right, like my servaunt Iob. Therefore take vnto you nowe seuen bullockes, and seuen rammes, and go to my servaunt Iob, and offer vp for your selues a burnt offring, and my servaunt Iob shall pray for you: for I wil accept him, least I should put you to shame, because ye haue not spoken of me the thing, which is right, like my servaunt Iob.
So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the Lord had saide unto them, and the Lord accepted Iob. Then the Lord turned the captiuitie of Iob, when he prayed for his friends: also the Lord gaue Iob twise so much as he had before. Then came vnto him all his brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had bene of his acquaintance before, and did eate bread with him in his house, and had compassion of him, and comforted him for al the euil, that the Lord had brought vpon him, and euerie man gave him a piece of money, and euerie one an earing of golde.
So the Lord blessed the last dayes of Iob more then the first: for he had foureteene thousand sheepe, and sixe thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand shee asses. He had also seue sonnes, and three daughters. And he called the name of one Iemimah, and the name of the seconde Keziah, and the name of the third Keren-happuch. In all the lande were no women found so faire as the daughters of Iob, and their father gave them inheritaunce among their brethren. And after this liued Iob an hundreth and fourtie yeres, and sawe his sonnes, and his sonnes sonnes, euen foure generations. So Iob dyed, being old, and full of dayes.
Blessed is the man that doeth not walk in the counsel of the wicked, nor stand in the way of sinners, nor sit in the seat of the scornful: But his delight is in the Lawe of the Lord, and in his Lawe doeth he meditate day and night. For he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of waters, that will bring forth her fruit in due season: whose leaf shall not fade: so whatsoever he shall do, shall prosper. The wicked are not so, but as the chaffe, which the wind driveth away. Therefore the wicked shall not stand in the judgement, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous. For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the wicked shall perish.

Why do the heathen rage, and the people murmur in vain? The Kings of the earth band themselves, and the princes are assembled together against the Lord, and against his Christ. Let us break their bands, and cast their cords from us. But he that dwelleth in the heavens, shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision. Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure, saying, Even I have set my King upon Zion mine holy mountaine. I will declare the decree: that is, the Lord hath said unto me, Thou art my Sonne: this day have I begotten thee. Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the ends of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt crush them with a scepter of yron, and break them in pieces like a potter's vessel. Be wise nowe therefore, ye Kings: be learned ye Judges of the earth. Serve the Lord in feare, and rejoice in trembling. Kisse the sonne, least he be angry, and ye perish in the way, when his wrath shall suddenly burn. blessed are all that trust in him.

A Psalme of Dauid, when he fled from his sonne Absalom. Lord, how are mine aduersaries increased? howe many rise against me? Many say to my soule, There is no helpe for him. in God. Selah. But thou Lord art a buckler for me: my glory, and the lifter vp of mine head. I did call vnto the Lord with my voyce, and he heard me out of his holy mountaine. Selah. I layed me downe and slept, and rose vp againe: for the Lord susteined me. I will not be afraied for ten thousand of the people, that should beset me round about. O Lord, arise: helpe me, my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies vpon the cheeke bone: thou hast broken the teeth of the wicked. Salvation belongeth vnto the Lord, and thy blessing is vpun thy people. Selah.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth. A Psalme of Dauid. Heare me when I call, O God of my righteousnes: thou hast set me at libertie, when I was in distresse: haue mercie vnpon me and hearken vnpon my prayer. O ye sonnes of men, howe long will yee turne my glory into shame, louing vanitie, and seeking lyes? Selah. For be ye sure that the Lord hath chosen to himselfe a godly man: the Lord will heare when I call vnpon him. Tremble, and sinne not: examine your owne heart vnpon your bed, and be still. Selah. Offer the sacrifices of righteousnes, and trust in the Lord. Many say, Who will shewe vs any good? but Lord, lift vp the light of thy countenance vpun vs. Thou hast giuen mee more ioye of heart, then they haue had, when their wheate and their wine did abound. I will lay mee downe, and also sleepe in peace: for thou, Lord, onely makest me dwell in safetie.

To him that excelleth upon Nehiloth. A Psalme of Dauid. Heare my wordes, O Lord: vnderstande my meditation. Hearken vnpon the voyce of my crie, my King and my God: for vnpon thee doe I pray. Heare my voyce in the morning, O Lord: for in the morning will I direct me vnpon thee, and I will waite. For thou art not a God that loueth wickednes: neither shall euill dwell with thee. The foolish shall not stand in thy sight: for thou hatest all them that worke iniquitie. Thou shalt destroy them that speake lyes: the Lord will abhorre the bloodie man and deceitfull. But I wil come into thine house in the multitude of thy mercie: and in thy feare will I worship toward thine holy Temple. Leade me, O Lord, in thy righteousnes, because of mine enemies: make thy way plaine before my face. For no constancie is in their mouth: within, they are very corruption: their throte is an open sepulchre, and they flatter with their tongue. Destroy them, O God: let them fall from their counsels: cast them out for the multitude of their iniquities, because they have rebelled against thee. And let all them that trust in thee, rejoyce and triumph for ever, and couer thou them: and let them, that love thy Name, rejoyce in thee. For thou Lord wilt blesse the righteous, and with favour wilt compass him, as with a shield.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth upon the eighth tune. A Psalme of Dauid. O lord, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath. Haue mercie vpon me, O Lord, for I am weake: O Lord heale me, for my bones are vexed. My soule is also sore troubled: but Lord how long wilt thou delay?
Returne, O Lord: deliuer my soule: saue me for thy mercies sake. For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the graue who shall prayse thee? I fainted in my mourning: I cause my bed euery night to swimme, and water my couch with my tears. Mine eye is dimmed for despight, and sunke in because of all mine enemies. Away from mee all ye workers of iniquitie: for the Lord hath heard the voyce of my weeping. The Lord hath heard my petition: the Lord will receive my prayer. All mine enemies shall be confounded and sore vexed: they shall be turned backe, and put to shame suddenly.

Shigaion of Dauid, which he sang unto the Lord, concerning the wordes of Chush the sonne of Iemini. O Lord my God, in thee I put my trust: saue me from all that persecute me, and deliuer me, Least he deuoure my soule like a lion, and teare it in pieces, while there is none to helpe. O Lord my God, if I haue done this thing, if there be any wickednes in mine handes, If I haue rewarded euill vnto him that had peace with mee, (yea I haue deliuered him that vexed me without cause) Then let the enemie persecute my soule and take it: yea, let him tredge my life downe vpon the earth, and lay mine honour in the dust. Selah.
Arise, O Lord, in thy wrath, and lift vp thy selfe against the rage of mine enemies, and awake for mee according to the judgement that thou hast appointed. So shall the Congregation of the people compass thee about: for their sakes therefore returne on hie. The Lord shall judge the people: Judge thou me, O Lord, according to my righteousnesse, and according to mine innocencie, that is in mee. Oh let the malice of the wicked come to an ende: but guide thou the just: for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins. My defence is in God, who preservueth the vpright in heart. God judgeth the righteous, and him that contemneth God every day. Except he turne, he hath whet his sword: he hath bent his bowe and made it readie. He hath also prepared him deadly weapons: hee will ordeine his arrowes for them that persecute me. Beholde, hee shall trauaile with wickednes: for he hath conceiued mischiefe, but he shall bring foorth a lye. Hee hath made a pitte and digged it, and is fallen into the pit that he made. His mischiefe shall returne vpon his owne head, and his crueltie shall fall vpon his owne pate. I wil praise the Lord according to his righteousnes, and will sing praise to the Name of the Lord most high.

To him that excelleth on Gittith. A Psalme of Dauid. O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy Name in all the worlde! which hast set thy glory aboue the heauens. Out of the mouth of babes and suckelings hast thou ordeined strength, because of thine enemies, that thou mightest still the enemie and the auenger. When I beholde thine heauens, eueth the workes of thy fingers, the moone and the starres which thou hast ordeined, What is man, say I, that thou art mindefull of him? and the sonne of man, that thou visitest him? For thou hast made him a little lower then God, and crowned him with glory and worship. Thou hast made him to haue dominion in the workes of thine hands: thou hast put all things vnder his feete: All sheepe and oxen: yea, and the beastes of the fielde: The foules of the ayre, and the fish of the sea, and that which passeth through the paths of the seas. O Lord our Lord, howe excellent is thy Name in all the world!

To him that excelleth vpon Muth Laben. A Psalme of Dauid. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart: I will speake of all thy marueilous workes. I will bee glad, and reioyce in thee: I will sing praise to thy Name, O most High, For that mine enemies are turned backe: they shall fall, and perish at thy presence.
For thou hast maintained my right and my cause: thou art set in the throne, and iudgest right. Thou hast rebuked the heathen: thou hast destroyed the wicked: thou hast put out their name for euer and euer. O enemie, destructions are come to a perpetual end, and thou hast destroyed the cities: their memoriall is perished with them. But the Lord shall sit for euer: hee hath prepared his throne for judgement. For he shall judge the world in righteousness, and shall judge the people with equitie.
The Lord also will be a refuge for the poor, a refuge in due time, even in affliction. And they that know thy Name, will trust in thee: for thou, Lord, hast not failed them that seek thee. Sing praises to the Lord, which dwelleth in Zion: shew the people his workes. For he maketh inquisition for blood, he rememberwithstanding it, and forgetteth not the complaint of the poor. Have mercy upon mee, O Lord: consider my trouble which I suffer of them that hate mee, thou that liftest me vp from the gates of death. That I may shew all thy praises within the gates of the daughter of Zion, and rejoice in thy salvation. The heathen are sunken downe in the pit that they made: in the nette that they hid, is their foote taken. The Lord is knowne by executing judgement: the wicked is snared in the works of his owne handes. Higgaion. Selah. The wicked shall turne into hell, and all nations that forget God. For the poor shall not bee alway forgotten: the hope of the afflicted shall not perish for ever. Vp Lord: let not man preuaile: let the heathen be judged in thy sight. Put them in feare, O Lord, that the heathen may knowe that they are but men. Selah.

Why standest thou farre off, O Lord, and hidest thee in due time, even in affliction? The wicked with pride doeth persecute the poor: let them be taken in the craftes that they haue imagined. For the wicked hath made boast of his owne heartes desire, and the covetous blesseth himselfe: he contemneth the Lord. The wicked is so proud that hee seeketh not for God: hee thinketh alwayes, There is no God. His wayes alway prosper: thy judgements are hie aboue his sight: therefore defieth he all his enemies. He saith in his heart, I shall neuer be moved, nor be in danger. His mouth is full of cursing and deceite and fraude: vnder his tongue is mischiefe and iniquitie. He lieth in waite in the villages: in the secret places doeth hee murder the innocent: his eyes are bent against the poor. He lyeth in waite secretely, even as a lyon in his denne: he lyeth in waite to spoyle the poor: he doeth spoyle the poor, when he draweth him into his net. He croucheth and boweth: therefore heaps of the poor doe fall by his might. He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten, he hideth away his face, and will neuer see. Arise, O Lord God: lift vp thine hande: forget not the poore. Wherefore doeth the wicked contemne God? he saith in his heart, Thou wilt not regard. Yet thou hast seene it: for thou beholdest mischiefe and wrong, that thou mayest take it into thine handes: the poore committeth himselfe vnto thee: for thou art the helper of the fatherlesse. Breake thou the arme of the wicked and malicious: searche his wickednes, and thou shalt finde none. The Lord is King for euer and euer: the heathen are destroyed foorth of his land. Lord, thou hast heard the desire of the poore: thou preparest their heart: thou bendest thine eare to them, To iudge the fatherlesse and poore, that earthly man cause to feare no more.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme of Dauid. In the Lord put I my trust: howe say yee then to my soule, Flee to your mountaine as a birde? For loe, the wicked bende their bowe, and make readie their arrowes vpon the string, that they may secretly shoote at them, which are vpright in heart. For the foundations are cast downe: what hath the righteous done? The Lord is in his holy palace: the Lordes throne is in the heauen: his eyes wil consider: his eye lids will try the children of men. The Lord will try the righteous: but the wicked and him that loueth iniquitie, doeth his soule hate. Vpon the wicked he shall raine snares, fire, and brimstone, and stormie tempest: this is the porcion of their cup. For the righteous Lord loueth righteousnes: his countenance doeth beholde the iust.

To him that excelleth upon the eight tune. A Psalme of Dauid. Helpe Lord, for there is not a godly man left: for the faithfull are fayled from among the children of men. They speake deceitfully euery one with his neighbour, flattering with their lips, and speake with a double heart. The Lord cut off all flattering lippes, and the tongue that speake with a double heart: Which haue saide, With our tongue will we preuaile: our lippes are our owne: who is Lord ouer vs? Now for the oppression of the needy, and for the sighes of the poore, I will vp, sayeth the Lord, and will set at libertie him, whom the wicked hath snared. The wordes of the Lord are pure wordes, as the siluer, tried in a fornace of earth, fined seuen folde. Thou wilt keepe them, O Lord: thou wilt preserue him from this generation for euer. The wicked walke on euery side: when they are exalted, it is a
